

The Light Of Ajaib

Questions and Answers from Sant Bani Magazine

Volume 1: 1976 – 1983

Volume 1: Table Of Contents

Introduction.....	5
1976.....	6
1976 July: Sant Ji's First Message to Western Disciples	6
1976 July: The Essence is Meditation	7
1976 August: The Message of Love	13
1976 September: No Burden or Pain in Love.....	18
1976 October: You Have To Be Brave.....	26
1976 December: Our Soul is Crying.....	34
1977.....	42
1977 January: We Came Down to Love	42
1977 February: One Who is Thirsty Will Ask for Water	48
1977 April: No Fixed Time for Lovers.....	53
1977 May: Weed Out Your Faults With Love.....	57
1977 June: To Solve the Mystery	60
1977 July/August: What Is A Sikh?.....	68
1977 October/November: The Last Darshan	74
1978.....	83
1978 January: A Very Intricate Matter	83
1978 January: The Value of Parshad	85
1978 February: Anyone Can Do It.....	88
1978 April/May: All Masters Had Masters	90
1978 June: The Story of Poono and Sussi	97
1978 December: They Come to Make It Fresh.....	101
1979.....	106
1979 February: The Master's Search for Us.....	106
1979 September: The Real Glory of the Master	112
1979 November: The Struggle With The Mind.....	116
1980.....	122
1980 February: When Man and Woman Agree	122
1980 March: Just By Doing Simran.....	127
1980 November: Questions and Answers in Rajasthan.....	133
1980 December: Some Sweet Things About God	138
1981.....	142
1981 March: The Ripening of the Fruit	142
1981 May: Only a Quiet Mind Can Meditate	146
1981 June: Who is a Christian?	149
1981 September: To Keep The Sweetness.....	156
1981 December: The Thirst of My Soul	162
1982.....	168
1982 January: On Raising Children.....	168
1982 February: The Fruit of Remembrance.....	170
1982 April: On Carrying the Karma	175
1982 May: Father, Forgive Them	180
1982 June: One Light in Two Bodies	186

1982 August: Not a Single Breath	188
1982 October: The Constant Flow of Grace	195
1982 November: In the Range of the Magnet.....	201
1982 December: The Defeat of the Mind	207
1983.....	215
1983 January: On Private Interviews.....	215
1983 April: On Old Age and Death	216
1983 April: The Master's Answer to a Question on Children.....	221
1983 September: Always Mind is the Obstacle.....	223
1983 October: The Essence of God	228
1983 November: There is Only One Medicine.....	232

Introduction

Among the many treasures Sant Ji has given us are His answers to numerous questions put to him by disciples and others who sought His advice. The questions span over 20 years, and cover so many aspects of meditation, marriage and family, personal conduct, and so forth. Sant Ji would often precede His answers with what some have referred to as “the Sant Bani answer,” meaning that the question had already been answered in the Sant Bani Magazine, and we should read it! This also sent a strong message to us that the magazine was important to Him, because it would be a helping factor for us if we read it carefully and tried to understand what He was saying to us. In fact, Sant Ji went further, stating:

You people should read Sant Bani Magazine carefully because by reading that you can get the answers to all your questions. Only by reading Sant Bani Magazine you can know what you are supposed to do and how you are supposed to do things.¹

Most of the questions which are asked here have been asked many times in the past, and I think that most of them are even published in Sant Bani Magazine. So I would lovingly request you to read Sant Bani Magazine, especially the Question & Answer articles, so that you may not have to ask the same questions again and again.²

The six volumes comprising The Light of Ajaib contain all of the question and answer sessions published in Sant Bani Magazine, from July, 1976 through June, 2005. This first volume also contains two very important messages sent from Sant Ji during the very beginning of His mission: His First Message to Western Disciples, and His Message of Love. These are included here because they appear to capture so much of the essence of what He tried to communicate to us over the years.

We are grateful to those who contributed to Sant Bani Magazine by painstakingly transcribing the question-and-answer sessions from audio tapes, editing them, and publishing them in the magazine; and to sevadars at mediaseva.org for scanning nearly all of the Sant Bani Magazines. These scanned documents provided much of the source text for the contents of these volumes.

Great care was taken to extract the text exactly as it was originally published; but in the scanning and subsequent proofreading process, it is possible some errors have been overlooked. For these errors I ask the reader’s forgiveness.

We are also so very grateful to Sant Ji for the Love He has sent to us, and the numerous ways His love has become manifest in our lives.

Media Sevadars

January, 2007

¹ August, 2002, Sant Bani Magazine, page 18.

² November/December, 2004, Sant Bani Magazine, page 18

19761976 July: Sant Ji's First Message to Western DisciplesOriginally sent in May, 1976*

Dear Satsangis, brothers and sisters:

Master Kirpal has not left us. He is always with us and protecting us in every aspect of our life. Master never disappears from this world. He never dies; He is eternal. His soul is deathless; He leaves only His physical body but His presence is still to be felt. And we should love each other in order to carry out the teachings of our Master.

Meditation will bring peace to our soul; and if our soul is at rest and at peace, then only will we love each other. All Satsangis are related to one another by the ties of brotherhood and sisterhood; so we should respect and love each other. Hazur Babaji (Master Kirpal) has left a message of love for us. It is our duty to take care of His message and follow His teaching.

If we criticize or talk ill of anybody, it is our great loss. Our Master used to say that if we criticize others, all their sins become ours; and all our good deeds become theirs. The one who finds fault with others always loses; so we should never do it. Guru Nanak also says that by criticizing others we make our tongue, mouth and mind dirty; by finding fault with others we are making our way to hell. Baba Sawan Singh also told me the same thing; that there is no taste in speaking ill of others. He said that there is taste or pleasure in sense enjoyments, but where is the pleasure in finding fault?

So, dear brothers and sisters, I request you not to criticize any Satsangi or any other person because when anyone is initiated by a Master, the Master takes His seat within the disciple. So if you criticize or abuse any disciple, then it is the same as if we were abusing our Master. So I request you not to find fault with anybody, to put in more time in meditation, and Bhajan and Simran will be very good for your life.

Our Master told us to leave a hundred urgent works to attend Satsang and a thousand urgent works for meditation. I request you to put in more time for meditation, to attend Satsang, and not to criticize anybody because criticism will not help your meditation. It is the ones who are not meditating who are abusing others. So you are to be careful that you are not criticizing or speaking ill or abusing, and are putting in more time for meditation.

I hope you have followed what I have said.

AJAIB SINGH

1976 July: The Essence is Meditation

Sant Ajaib Singh Ji answers questions on the morning of April 3, 1976

QUESTION: May I ask you some questions, Sant Ji?

SANT JI: Whatever you like.

QUESTION: I have general questions and personal questions. I'll just start with personal. When I sit for meditation Master is very loving to me and he gives me something, but I'm not worthy of it. I have difficulty with being chaste, with brahmcharya. I have trouble being pure. For a short period, a few days, I am okay. I remember the Master. And I have no desire for sex, for kam – lust. But then after a few days my mind demands and I am weak. I need help. My wife is very beautiful and she has no trouble with this problem. So it is really my problem. I want to become pure. But it seems... I don't try hard enough. I lack the strength. I lack the love for the Master. So I am praying for that.

SANT JI: Well, when you are feeling kam [lust or sexual desire] you start meditation. You have mind on one side and Satguru on the other side. If you are diverted toward mind and your own feelings then you are going to be a slave of mind. And if you divert your attention toward Master then you can get Master.

Meditation is just like lighting up a light within. And if you go to the light that will go on increasing. And in the place that is full of light, no thief is going to come. The thief of kam will not come to you if you are meditating properly and meditating for a long time. If you are going to meditate continuously for a long period then you will be getting more love from Master. And if you have left meditating after ten or fifteen days that will not bring so much love.

Unless you give time for meditation, two and a half hours or three hours, you don't get to eat anything. As it is necessary for our body to have diet it is also necessary for our soul – the diet of meditation. So first you give food to your soul, then afterward to your body.

The knot that is tying up all those things, kam, or lust, krodh, or anger, etc., that knot lies behind our two eyes, where the soul resides. And when the soul gets free from this body and we rise above Trikuti, then this kam, krodh, are not going to destroy anything. They are not going to come attack our soul. That stage has nothing to do with these things. All these things are tied at that place behind the eyes. If you go riding up and up by doing meditation daily you are not going to feel anything about kam, or krodh, or the other passions. And it is necessary for a satsangi to do meditation and to be free from these diseases: this is one type of disease, having kam, and krodh.

Because of kam or lust the soul comes down again in the body. And because of anger the soul spreads all around. Where there is kam there is no Naam. Where there is day there is no night and when there is night there is no day.

So one who is desirous of kam, krodh, or one who is greedy, he can never do meditation. Meditation is done only by the brave people. In meditation we have to give up all our mind and our heart to Master. We have to wander in search of Master. And if you have given up your heart or your mind to Master then why do you think about kam or krodh? Or why do you give your mind to kam or krodh?

If you want to be a true disciple of Master you will be away from this kam, and the way of being away from kam is meditation. If you meditate you will be heading away from kam. And if you are going to meditate for two and a half or three hours in the morning and the same time in the evening also, three hours; if you are going to give that much time for meditation you will be happy. And you will not be having any desire of kam.

If you are doing meditation properly you will not be getting anything in dreams also. When you are not stable in this world, then what are you going to do on the inner planes, where there are temptresses and spirits who are very much more beautiful than anything in this world.

So there is one shabda of Kabir that says, if you are going to do kam with your own wife, or with any other's wife, or any other woman, you are definitely going to suffer. It is the same thing: if the fire is burning then if you put your hand inside, definitely you are going to burn your hand. All fire is one. So if you put your hand in fire you are definitely going to burn. This was said by Kabir.

Woman is a life companion but not for kam. We can get children by having it once. Afterwards you are to clean your mind and go towards the path of Truth. And neither the woman should look at you in that way nor you should have any desire after having the child.

Take the example of a dog. He is desirous of kam only at certain times, and the other times he doesn't go to any bitch. But man is always desirous throughout the year. It is a very dangerous disease. And to prevent this disease, whenever you have desire of kam you sit for meditation. If you meditate you will never have such problems.

QUESTION: I have difficulty taking more than three hours a day for meditation because of all the things I'm involved in. Should I leave off some of the things I'm involved in?

SANT JI: If you're going to take time for all these worldly things then you should also have time for meditation. You can carry out the things in which you're involved and side-by-side you can also do meditation. There's no need to leave off these things.

QUESTION: I also have trouble with lust, and with my mind. Sometimes I don't seem to have any control over my thoughts, or very very little. And I'd like help with that.

SANT JI: Well, the helper is residing inside you. And if you are going to give attention to Him He is going to help you. Whenever a Sant initiates us, the Sant always resides above all the nine openings of our body. If you take your soul above these nine openings, then you will meet the Satguru. When you get above the nine openings it's the duty of Master to take care of you, just like a good mother cares for her child, that he should not put his hand in the fire or go out. She looks after him.

Once somebody came to Master Sawan Singh and bowed down at his feet, and the Master told him to go away. The other devotees said, "Master, give mercy." But the Master said, "At three o'clock in the morning I go to each and every door with a basket full of mercy but everybody's sleeping then and there is nobody to receive mercy from me." That is the time of giving mercy, early in the morning.

There is one verse of Kabir: "A Satguru is always meant for giving and not for taking. He always gives all things to others, to His devotees." Master used to say that the Saints are always coming for giving to people, not to take. And there are very few people to receive from them.

We see the physical body yearning in this world. But that is going to be destroyed one day. And if we go and see in Sach Khand, we see the form of Word, the form of Naam. Because we are the slave of our mind and of our body we think that Sants and Masters are also the slaves of their bodies when see them in the same form. But they are entirely different from us. They go to Sach Khand and come back while living in the body. So neither the body of a Sant nor the body of a devotee is going to remain for a very long period.

The form of Satguru is Shabda or Naam and the form of the devotee is soul. So our soul is the servant and our Guru is the Shabda. The soul and the Naam are not going to be destroyed anytime. They are immortal. The Kal power has attached mind to the soul; and the reign of mind is given to all these indriyas, all the organs and faculties of our body. Whatever the mind wants us to do, we do. And it doesn't allow us to take the name of Satguru or to do meditation.

Whenever Satguru comes to this world, He always teaches how to fight against this Kal power. The biggest enemy in this world of all mankind is our mind. There is nobody else who is the enemy of man. So we are not to bow down to our enemy. We are to fight against him. You be brave and fight with mind. So the weapon to fight against the mind is the Naam. Satguru is always ready to help you. Remember Satguru, every difficulty will be removed. So you are to give more time for meditation. Any other questions?

QUESTION: I have some questions about meditation. Master said that we should meditate two and a half hours a day. But I'm not initiated. So when I try to meditate for a long time I get very bad headaches and have to stop. So one question is how should I meditate? What should I use for Simran and how long should I sit at a time? Also, sometimes the sound comes into my right ear or it just seems to pour down from the top of my head. Should I try closing my ears and listening to that sound even though I'm not initiated?

SANT JI: You will be initiated before long – I promised to Russell and all other satsangis, so at that time all your difficulties will be removed. Because you don't have that power inside you right now, the power which is to guide you is not residing in you just now, that is why you are having some difficulties. Don't leave this sitting for meditation, just remember the form of the Satguru. And if you are going to sit daily you can control your mind or you can divert your direction of mind towards Satguru. And if you sit daily you will be helped within yourself.

QUESTION: I will be helped within?

SANT JI: It is just like working. If you are working for a man or if you are working in a company, the company owner is going to give you some wages. And it's just like if you're going to work for Master, that is you're going to sit for meditation, Master will also pay you for your sitting in meditation. If you are getting desserts, if you are getting fruits of doing sins, then you will also be benefited by the fruit of doing bhajan. Don't think you are simply sitting and the Master is not listening to you. Each and every one of your feelings is listened to by Master and He does reply to your questions. But as you're not guided by that Power you are unable to hear that. He is replying to each and every thing. Any other questions?

COMMENT: I'm so happy to be sitting here and looking into your eyes.

[laughter and some conversation ensue.]

PAPPU: Well they are saying that before you get to Sant Ji you have many questions arising in your mind but when you see Sant Ji you forget all these questions.

SANT JI: Jim Russell also told me that, "When I'm not with you I have many questions to ask you and I make up my mind that I should ask each and every one of the questions which I have. But as soon as I see you I forget all these questions."

QUESTION: Oh, I have another question. [much general laughter] I just looked in my book where I wrote some. Should people who are not initiated try and keep the diary daily the same way that initiates do?

SANT JI: It's necessary. It's good for each and everybody. To raise the spirit is the goal of education. Everybody knows how to read and write. But in the old days there was a Muslim Sant. He used to throw one stone in a ditch whenever he did any wrong thing. And once he got a lot of stones. And he tried to reduce them. Diary makes the man perfect; it makes the man's life. Because we are not remembering the Saints, that's why we are going on doing sin. And diary is the thing which can tell us the part we are doing wrong. If we are noting down all the sins which we are doing by mistake, knowingly or unknowingly, then we are going to reduce or at least we are going to prevent ourselves from doing those mistakes. And when we are going to write down with our pen what mistakes we did we will be ashamed to think that, "I am so much downward that I am doing this type of mistake." So that's why you keep writing diary.

QUESTION: I have a question. Master Kirpal Singh said that it was important to try to have a ruling passion in one's life. And I'm wondering if you could say more about how to develop a ruling passion for God... a controlling desire for God?

SANT JI: The essence of it is meditation. You develop after meditation. The answer to all questions is meditation. The more time you give to meditation the more happiness you find.

Master Sawan Singh used to say to his servant, "You prepare my food and put it on the shelf and whenever I would like to I would have that food. No need to ask me for eating." And whenever he came from his office he started on meditation. After four or five hours his mind asked him to eat some food, and he started eating. This is how he controlled His mind – first He gave diet to His soul and then to His body.

We are like dead bodies before our mind. Whatever mind wants us to do we do. And the work of the Satguru is to give life to us so that we can fight against mind. Because life comes from life. If we are going to remember the true holy man we can at least get some of his qualities. We can get radiation from him.

Well, there are a few who are slaves of Master or are like a dead body before Master; they are doing what Master wants them to do. But there are many who are dead bodies before the mind and they do according to the mind's will.

So there is one verse of Kabir that says there are many people who are working according to their mind's will. And there are very few who are working according to the desire and will of Master. So we eat, we drink – whatever we do in our daily life we are all doing according to our mind's will.

Meditation is the medicine to control mind, or to destroy your mind's feeling. We have got this man's body, and we have to use it in diverting our attention towards Satguru. It is the form in which we can get Satguru, and not in any other form. There is a verse of Guru Nanak that you have wasted your day in playing, you have wasted your night in sleeping, and this life is as precious as a diamond. You have to use it in meditation and searching for God.

There is one verse of Kabir Sahib that [says] the birth as man is very precious to us, in the same way that if fruit falls down from the tree, it is not going to get again to the tree – it is very precious. If you are not using this body for meditation you don't know where you are going to go in another life. It may be possible that we will not be diverted towards Satguru in that form. So these devis and devtas (gods) – they are also waiting for this manbody so that they can meditate and get Satguru. So the only benefit, the only special thing about having man's body, is the search for God and getting Satguru. You can get everything else in any other form. If we are beasts, wild animals, we can still eat and sleep, and we can do all these things – kam, krodh, lobh, moh [lust, anger, greed, attachment] – but we don't have such a mind – such a feeling – as will enable us to get Satguru within us. That we have only in the man body.

Kabir described the form of cattle: they have four legs, they are dumb – they don't know how to speak, how to remember – they don't have such type of mind. So how can they get God? How can they get Satguru within? The owner of a cow will always give a strict blow in order to make the cow stand up, or sit down, or in order to carry the burden. In that situation, how is the cow going to remember God? The owner puts a ring in the hole in the nose; and the cow has to carry a plow with its shoulders. They have to do a lot of hard work, and in that situation they are unable to remember Master. It gets cattle feed for eating, and not good proper food. After working for the whole of the day on the farm, he is tied up in the owner's house – then also he doesn't have any free moment. So he is always bound just like a slave. He doesn't have any special mind to think about Master or anything else except his work. The form of that cow is got because in the former life he did not work according to the will of Satguru, so he is now getting such troubles.

Kabir used to say to one old man who was sitting there, "Old man, you go and meditate." That old man always had some work at home to do first: "Well, I should give water or feed for the cattle." He always put his cattle before meditation. So in the next life, when he died, he came in the form of a calf in the same home. Kabir was a very knowing man and he saw that that was the same old man in the form of a calf. He told that calf, "Well, now you have become a calf. As soon as you will be grown up you will be sold away to another man to pull a cart so that he may ride. And you will have to carry heavy burdens. And afterward those people will sell you to those who take oil from seeds, so you will have to go round and round on a treadmill. And afterwards, when you will be useless, they will sell you to the butcher. The butcher will cut you up and will sell your skin to the drum makers, and they will beat you every morning, playing the drum." So Kabir told him that, "Well, you have earned so much bad karma that after you have died, all of your flesh is eaten up. Then also you are getting a beating daily."

So we have to use our manbody for meditation because we can get each and every thing in any other body, but not this gift of meditation. We can get children in each and every form. When we are going to die then nobody will come to our rescue – neither our wife nor our sons nor our brothers – nobody else. Moreover all our wealth will remain here – nobody is going to keep us from dying. The One who helps in crisis is the true friend; Satguru is the true friend. That's why Guru Nanak said that you don't make friends of this type of people – you make only one friend, and that is Satguru. And that true friend will never leave you even after you die. All these worldly friends are going to leave you when you die. The relation with Master is forever. It is not going to end when you die, but will continue in the other world also. Whoever is an initiate of the Master will go to Sach Khand. Masters come into this world with responsibility to carry people to Sach Khand. They don't come to build any new religion. They only come to unite the soul with the Oversoul.

The false gurus teach us to attach ourselves to all these temples. They teach us that you go to temples, gurdwaras, and churches, etc. So Satguru sends his man (the Guru) to prevent us from attaching ourselves there, because if we go to the temple and do this sort of thing, we are not giving any time to our soul. That we are doing because our body needs it. So the Satguru sends someone in the form of Master for us – to take us to Sach Khand. So that's why the Master always used to say, "Oh man, you have seen all your surroundings – all temples and churches which are surrounding you – but you have never seen within. So now you look in yourself and you try to know what you are, hlan know thyself."

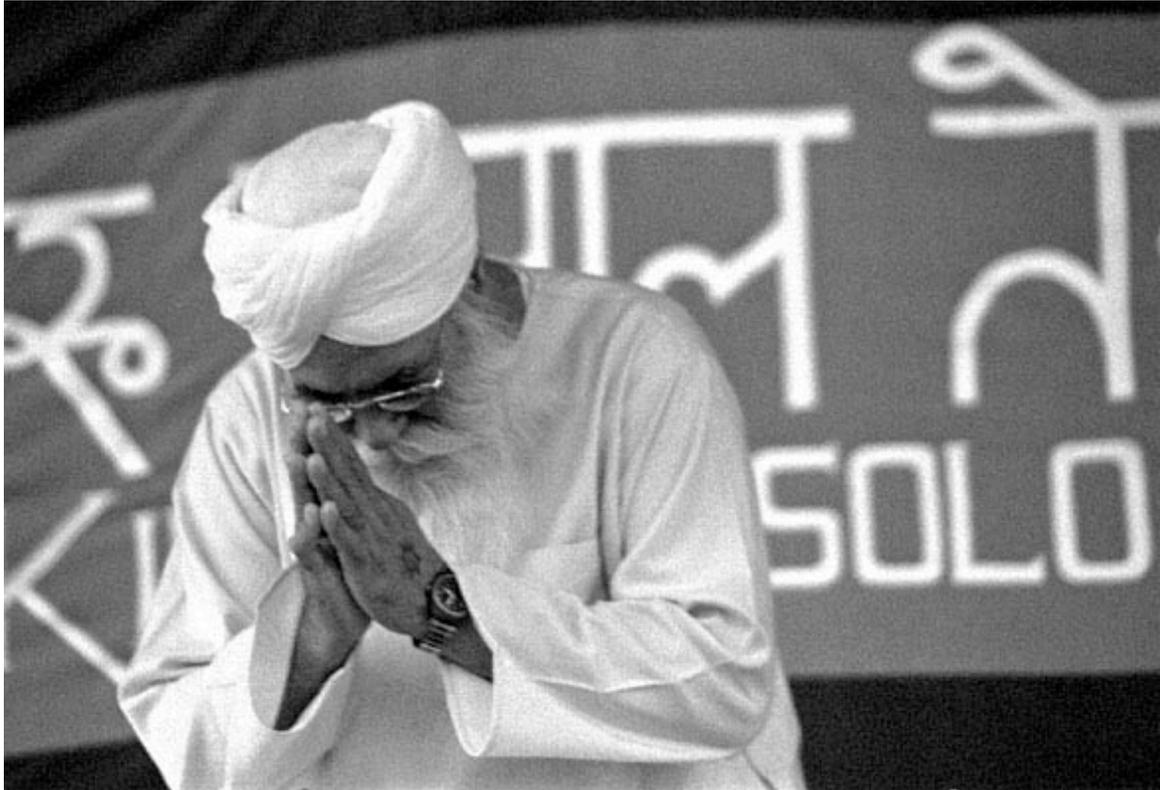

The Master used to say that you have read all these books and experienced all about your surroundings. Now it is time that you should have knowledge from inside.

Well, we have kept clean all the temples which we have made for Satguru. We make temples that Satguru may come and reside in this temple, and we put the incense there and keep them very clean. But Satguru is residing within our own self, and in our body we go on drinking and eating meat and wine, and all these things. So how is it possible that Satguru, who is living in Sach Khand – so clean and pure – could come into our body if we are eating all this stuff?

We used to clean the temples and all these things which we have made for the Master to reside in, but the place that Master has made for Himself in our body, we don't clean that place. And He always used to say that there is no Satguru in the temple. Satguru resides within us and we have to clean our body by not having such food and drink. We are like the patient who goes to the doctor and has some medicine from there, and when he comes home he puts away the medicine and doesn't take it. Then he abuses that doctor: "Oh, he is not a good doctor. I am not cured." So in the same way we have the knowledge of Naam and we don't meditate. We abuse all these holy men – we are not benefited. Unless we use that Naam, how can we get benefit of that?

When we are on a treatment and we take medicine, then we are not to take heavy food. Similarly, if we meditate sometime and also keep on eating and drinking all this stuff, we are not going to clear ourselves. So we have taken medicine of the knowledge of Naam of the Master. We have to use that in order to make ourselves clear and very good. That will help us to fight against mind and prevent us from succumbing to kam, krodh, and all the other passions.

1976 August: The Message of Love

Published in August, 1976 Sant Bani Magazine

Dear brothers and sisters in the West:

I send you Namaste and Love. Previously also I sent a message in the form of a tape recording, and it was that all brothers and sisters should be one and should meditate. Our Satguru, Maharaj Kirpal Singh Ji, came into this world with the message of love, and He taught us to love. And even now we should work according to His message and teachings.

Everybody should have love for all and should meditate. We can see Him and receive His love even now, if we go in. He is all pervading – He is residing in everybody. Unless we have more love for Him, and a keen desire to meet Him, we can't go in and see Him.

How can one love God if he or she is not loving His creation? One Saint says, “When a disciple meets a fellow disciple, both are happy and both bow down at each other’s feet.” This only is the Path of the bhaktas or devotees and this only is the true discipleship. But the Path is very sharp and smaller even than the size of a hair.

The Guru will not manifest where disciples do not respect each other. Saints say that the Guru will never be with those who do not have love and respect for others. So all we gurubhais [brothers and sisters in our Master] should love each other, and whenever we meet any initiate of our Master Kirpal we should be very happy to see him and should understand him as our own brother. If we are treating others badly, Master will never help us and He will never manifest within us, because our Satguru has taught us to love. Our Master Kirpal Singh Ji brought many communities and religions together on one level and one platform; can’t we brothers all sit together?

Why are we lacking in all this? Because we are not doing meditation and we have forgotten the Master’s message. Even now, those who are meditating are accepting the Master’s message and will. And they see Him. What was the Master’s message? First of all, to “know thyself.” We can know ourselves only when we rise above the influence of mind and Maya; then only will we realize for ourselves who we are. We are one ray of God. Our soul is of the essence of the Oversoul. And when we experience this within us – that we are all souls and of the essence of the Oversoul – we see soul in everybody and we love everybody, understanding him as a soul and not the body. It doesn’t matter whether he is good or bad in nature – we have to love him, knowing that he is soul, and of the essence of the Oversoul, and that Master Kirpal is sitting in him.

It has come in my experience about Master Kirpal that He is the owner of all creation – that He is all pervading. In water there is Kirpal; on earth there is Kirpal. It was Kirpal, it will be Kirpal, it is Kirpal. Here is Kirpal; there is also Kirpal – that Kirpal Who gave salvation to our soul; that Kirpal Who has united us with our long-separated God, and even now Who is all pervading.

Those who are meditating can go and meet Him even today. And that Kirpal was never born; never died: and He was never in the cycle of birth and death. As long as there was Hukam [God’s Will], He worked while staying in the body, and only with Hukam He left the body. He comes in the body with Hukam and leaves it with Hukam. He disappears for those people who are not doing meditations, but He never disappears for those who are doing meditations and who are contacting Him.

Why do I always praise Master Kirpal – and why am I so grateful to Him? Consider, that if one man loses some gold, and somebody helps him to get back the gold, with which he makes many buildings and does other things – whom do you think he will thank? Will he thank the gold? – or that man who helped him to get back his gold? In the same way, Master Kirpal Singh Ji united us back with the long-separated God; so I am always grateful to Him that He has united me and us with our long-separated God Who resides within. That is the reason why I am always grateful to Him. He is the King of Kings – He is the donor – He is full of mercy, and He came down to be kind to us and to love us. Even now He is showering mercy and blessings and grace while residing in Sach Khand. He is merciful to everybody. There are no differences – He is above the pairs of opposites.

We should also try to become beggars for His mercy and blessings, and we should become claimants of His mercy and blessings. How can we do that? We can do that when we obey Him, when we work according to His message and teachings, and when we do the practices regularly which He taught us when He initiated us.

Hazur used to say to leave a hundred urgent works for attending Satsang, and a thousand urgent works for meditating. He used to say that as our body needs food in order to work properly, in the same way our soul, which is hungry from ages and ages, also needs food. And meditation is the food of our soul. He used to say that unless you give food to your soul first, never give food to your body. First of all it is meditation. Miss the worldly affairs; but never miss meditation. So meditation is a necessity, and it is the first thing; it is most important. If we will not meditate, we will forget the message and teachings of our Master, we will be divided into parties, we will forget meditations, and we will forget Master's theme. And then lust, anger, greed, attachment and egoism will conquer us.

Swami Ji says that those who are not meditating are suffering. Sleep and laziness trouble them, and they fall in illusions. So those who do not meditate become lazy and spiritually poor, and they fall in the great illusion. What is the great illusion? The great illusion is, that what we see according to our own level – that this is my community, this is my religion, I am a learned man, I am intelligent, etc. is reality; but Saints see this world according to the other level, and they warn us that nothing will accompany you after you die, not your wealth, not your health, not your sons, not your daughters, no skill will accompany you, not your intelligence – nothing will go with you. The only thing which will accompany you and help you is God – Satguru, Who has initiated you and taken responsibility for you – and Whom we are not loving today.

So Saints say that if you will not meditate, then these things will put pressure on you because lust, anger, greed, attachment, egoism, all lie within. Nothing comes from outside. If we manifest Naam within us, then “where there is Naam there will be no kam.” Kam means “lust” – and where there is lust, you can't manifest Naam within you. As day and night cannot exist at one time in one place, similarly Naam and kam cannot exist at one time in one place. When the eagle of love comes, there is no place for the small birds of sins. So everybody has to meditate; meditation is the first thing. When we will meditate, love will be manifested automatically within us. And if love is manifested within us, since God is the form of love, God is manifested within us. Guru Gobind Singh said, “I am telling you a true thing – a true formula. Listen very carefully: Only those who love can know God.”

So the first thing is meditation and the second thing is love for all. If we will meditate, love will start manifesting in us. Meditation and love go side by side. So as I told you first, when a disciple meets a fellow disciple, both should be happy seeing each other, and be respectful, and have love. And they should understand each other better than themselves. That only is bhakti or devotion. But the path of devotion is sharper than the razor's edge. We have to prepare ourselves to walk on that path. Moreover, that Path is thinner than the thickness of a hair. So we have to walk on that; we are supposed to walk on that; we have to prepare ourselves to walk on that Path. Where disciples do not have respect and love for fellow disciples, the Guru will not come.

The five dacoits will find no place where the Guru's love is there. There will be no party propaganda, and there will be no other evil things. So we have to do meditation as our Master has taught us. We should be responsible for our own selves, and we should remember that our Satguru has told us to meditate; and we should meditate. Generally what do we do? We do not meditate, but start finding fault and commenting on others and abusing others. We do not save our own house which is being burnt by the fire of lust, anger, greed, attachment and egoism, but we are carrying water for others. So Kabir says that those who do not meditate but teach others will get sand in their mouths. One who is not worried about his own farm but is only concerned about others' courtyards – what will happen to him? His farm will be destroyed.

So what do we have to do? We should think as to whether we are protecting ourselves from all of these bad deeds or not. Are we being looted by them? – or are we protecting ourselves from them? Because the power of destruction is residing within us, and so is the power of survival. Badness is within us, and so is goodness. We have to select the path, either good or bad. If we want to meet the Satguru within, we have to choose the good path.

When Hazur Maharaj Baba Sawan Singh Ji left the body, people celebrated the “death” anniversary on the 2nd of April. But Mastana Ji – an advanced disciple of Baba Sawan Singh Ji (I had many chances to be with him and listen to his Satsangs) – what did he do? He celebrated the birthday of Baba Sawan Singh Ji, and he always used to say that Master never dies. Guru Nanak also said, “My Satguru is ever and ever. He never comes; He never goes. He is immortal; He is all pervading; He never dies.” Mastana Ji had manifested Sawan Singh in him, and that was why he could say that Master never dies. He had manifested the truth within him. And when people celebrated the death anniversary, he celebrated the birthday. He used to say, “Why did you have a guru who is subjected to death and birth?” So now, as to those who are saying that Satguru Kirpal Singh has left, I truly say about them that they have never smelled the fragrance and were not aware of Master's power.

Master Kirpal – Who is the Master of all creation and Who was never in the cycle of birth and death – is even now residing in the higher planes. Those who are approaching Him are receiving His message and seeing Him. But those who are not approaching Him are wandering here and there and asking others. This is not a matter of asking; it is a matter of experience. Those who go to higher planes are aware of every Satsangi's position in meditation. One who is standing on a high place sees everything. There is no necessity for asking a wrestler, “Are you stronger than me?” Wrestlers know the wrestlers; Saints know the Saints. One who reaches Sach Khand knows how far the other goes; but those who are not going in, how can they know who has attained what position? If by asking they believe somebody for a while, then after a few days they do not believe because of the mind. Mind is there for deceiving. That is why Saints say, “Go in and look within, Manifest the Shabd Naam within you – that Shabd which you can't describe in words. It is a matter of experience and seeing, so go in.”

Kabir says that Shabd is not body; it is bodiless; it cannot be described in words. Go in and see that Shabd working in your body. That is why Saints and Masters give us Simran, so that we can rise above our body and reach up to that bodiless Shabd. Unless one rises above this body, and Master's body, he can never progress because neither the Guru's body is going to live forever, nor the disciple's body is going to live forever.

In reality, what is the form of the disciple? The soul is the real disciple – not the body – and Shabd is the only Guru. The Guru is not the body; moreover, the disciple is not the body. Our soul is the disciple of the Shabd which is working in the Saints, and that is our real Guru. When seers and sages asked Guru Nanak, "Who is your Guru?", Guru Nanak replied, "My Guru is Shabd. My soul is the disciple of the Dhun [Sound] which is coming from Sach Khand." When our soul wakes up and Shabd is manifested – at that time every problem is settled within, and there are no questions whether our Guru is Shabd or Naam, or whether our Guru is body, or whether the Power which is never involved in birth and death is our Guru.

Kabir says that we have the body of the Guru, but we have not realized the real Shabd Guru. We are attached to the body, and as long as that body remains in front of us we say, "Yes, Sir, Yes, Sir – Our Master, our Master," but as soon as that body goes away from us we wander here and there and go astray. What was required at that time? As long as that body was in front of us we should have taken His help to improve ourselves, to remove our shortcomings; but at that time we were never worried about meditation and progressing. And now when that body has left – that body has gone away – we go astray of the Path which was shown by Him. During this time also we are not seeking somebody's help to benefit ourselves. Even now those who have manifested Kirpal in them advise us to love each other and manifest the Truth in ourselves. Even now we can progress on the Path which was shown by our Master. Even now we can reach the goal if we seek somebody's help who is perfect.

Perfect Saints who have earned their meditation will never say, "I am your Guru," but on the contrary they will fill us with the love of Master Kirpal. They are here only to help us remember and to fill us with Master Kirpal's love. When Baba Sawan Singh Ji left his body – this is a well-known fact you may be aware of – when he left his body, at that time those who loved and came to Kirpal Singh received the same love and were benefited by Him because He was a true disciple – a perfect Saint. He had love for and was always praising His Master, Baba Sawan Singh. Accordingly, those who went to Mastana Ji also received love and were also benefited. So Kabir says, "The Guru says to respect the Saints, and Saints say to worship the Guru. Living in the company of the Saints you can go up to Agam" (the plane above Sach Khand; the unreachable plane). A Saint says this because he has experienced that and has manifested his Guru within. He says that this is his personal experience, and we should also try and go ahead. He inspires us. We can understand him as our brother, friend, or whatever relation you feel like giving him; but he will never become your Guru.

No Saint up to now has come into this world saying that he is a Guru. Perfect Saints will never say, "I am your Guru, or Master, or Pir." Our Hazur, Master Kirpal Singh Ji Maharaj, always used to say, "Understand me as your brother, your friend" – but He never said, "I am the Guru."

So now we should take benefit from any perfect Saint who has earned meditation and who is immersed in the love of Kirpal. He is intoxicated with Kirpal's love, and we can also gain something from him: we can also take a drop of love from him. The only thing is that we are not to understand him as our Guru. And moreover he will never become your Guru, but he is your true servant. He is the server of the Sangat. Hazur told me, “You have to understand yourself as a server of the Sangat – a shoe-wiper of the Sangat.” He told me that if we will become more humble, then Master will shower more grace on us, because water will always flow down to the lowest place; it will never remain on the high place. Guru Nanak also said, “Those who will become humble will get more and will carry more. The branch of a tree which carries the most fruit bows down.” In the same way a perfect Saint will never understand himself as great, but shows himself as a servant – and there is no doubt that he is the true sevadar. He helps us as a true sevadar, and helps us to remember the love which we have forgotten.

So we should take benefit of his company. All of us should sit together and love each other and remember our Master Satguru Kirpal Who is waiting even now to receive us in Sach Khand. And I tell you truly that even now, even today, if any disciple vacates the nine openings and rises above the outgoing faculties and reaches behind and between the two eyebrows, he will see how Hazur is working there – how Hazur is present there.

If we say that we will not go to school and that the teacher should do our work – how is that possible? It is the student’s duty to go to school, and after that it is the schoolmaster’s duty to teach him. Master will never come in the nine openings, so you have to vacate the nine openings and reach the place which you are shown by the Master – behind and between the two eyebrows. So it is the duty of the disciple to reach that place behind the two eyebrows after controlling the outgoing faculties. There you will see how Master is working.

So everybody has to meditate and they should earn their meditation – Shabd Naam – and always feel Master Kirpal’s presence at every place. See Him in all; He is sitting in all. Thank you.

Ajaib Singh

1976 September: No Burden or Pain in Love

Sant Ajaib Singh Ji answers questions, August 23, 1976

QUESTION: You have given me some helpful tips on sitting so as to get more results, and the question of pain came up. Should we always sit in a position that is most comfortable? Or should we pick a position that might be a little painful? – not harmfully painful, but slightly painful, to help our attention come up. Maybe you could comment on that?

SANT JI: If we sit in a position that is too comfortable we will feel sleepy and we will go to sleep. You will think that you are doing meditation, but in fact you are sleeping. If you sit in a position and feel some pain, you will notice that pain only for the first two or three days; after that you will forget all about it. For Westerners it is very difficult in the beginning to sit in the cross-legged position but with some practice, many people have accustomed themselves to sitting in that position. Yesterday I told you that I never used any mat or cushion or carpet under me when I was meditating. In the beginning I also felt some pain, but after a while I became accustomed to do that, and I did meditation without keeping anything under me. Mastana Ji – a disciple of Master Sawan Singh – when he received initiation from Master Sawan Singh, he prepared a bag and filled it with stones and small particles of brick. And he sat on that cushion for meditation.

At 16PS when I was meditating underground, there was a wooden bench – you might have also seen it – and I never put any cushion or anything on that bench but I simply sat on it.

QUESTION: How many hours a day?

SANT JI: I was not aware of the time. Whenever my soul went to the Court of the Master – Sach Khand – then I sat for twenty-four hours or more. I was not sure of the time.

QUESTION: But very long periods of time without moving.

SANT JI: Yes. If I had moved I would have felt hungry, and I would have had to eat. But when I was sitting there I only had to come out to answer the calls of nature. But whenever I wanted to sit and do that type of meditation, for two days prior I used to take soups of vegetables like pumpkins, and other light foods, so that I did not have to go again and again to attend the call of nature. And if I sat for two days continuously, then also I did not have to go out to attend the call of nature. The appetite of hunger will trouble you in the beginning, but afterwards it will not trouble you. In the same way you won't have any problem with sleep afterwards, but in the beginning you will have problems with sleep.

QUESTION: You have more energy as a result of raising the vital fluids? That gives energy to the body, as well as resting the body because you are in deep peace? Is it accurate to say that?

SANT JI: Yes.

QUESTION: So this is one reason then to have chastity and preserve the vital fluids – the sexual energy. It is not strictly for social or moral reasons, but for this very practical reason that it provides strength and energy for the body as well as the soul.

SANT JI: Before getting the initiation of the Two Words from Bishan Das, I was seeing light – like a diamond light – in my brain, and I was intoxicated with that light. I was very happy to see it. That was because of chastity. But by seeing that light I was in illusion, because I read what Guru Nanak has written: that seeing the Inner Light and hearing the inner Sound means you are contacted with God. So I thought that I was contacted with the Light, but I was waiting for the Sound Current.

QUESTION: It was a lower order of light, or a reflection of the higher spiritual Light?

SANT JI: That light was only because of the preservation of my vital fluids. It is said that it takes one hundred pieces of food to produce one drop of blood; and one hundred drops of blood for one drop of vital fluid; and one hundred drops of vital fluid produces one drop of ojas – that resides in the brain. Because they are able to store that ojas³, the yogis don't sleep at night and do tapas or austerities. That light was of that ojas.

³ Ojas: the fruit of chastity, the power which makes transcendence of physical consciousness possible. For a complete discussion of this subject by Master Kirpal Singh, see “The Power of Ojas,” Sat Sandesh. November 1974, page 2.

QUESTION: So it was still within the realm of the body – it was not of the highest spiritual regions?

SANT JI: No. It was of the brain. Because of the ojas.

QUESTION: So it wasn't being above body consciousness, but still within the range of the body.

SANT JI: Yes. And Bishan Das cleared up this illusion from my mind. When he told me about the light of the first plane, and he told me I would see the sun and sky in the second plane, I told him, "I am seeing the light. What are you going to tell me?" Then Baba Bishan Das told me, "You sit for meditation and the light you are seeing is the light of your own body – of the ojas. I will show you the Light which is coming from God's place – the Home of God. That is different."

QUESTION: Uh-huh. Did you see that immediately after you received initiation from Baba Bishan Das?

SANT JI: Yes.

QUESTION: At the time of initiation. But afterwards did you continue to see that light that you received at initiation?

SANT JI: I went on increasing that light. I never wasted any time, and I continued practicing. I was remembering Baba Bishan Das, and moreover, the pangs of separation from Baba Bishan Das were troubling me. [Bishan Das left the body the day after Sant Ji's initiation.] But I continued doing the practices which he told me.

QUESTION: How much time – approximately – would you average in meditation each day?

SANT JI: At that time I was doing – eight hours – sometimes six – a day. And sometimes I never came out for two days also. I used to close the door, but sometimes people would bang the door, and break it and take me out.

QUESTION: They were afraid something was wrong with you?

SANT JI: They were afraid that probably I had left my body. They were thinking that without any food or water, how can a man live?

QUESTION: The other day you told me that after initiation it was six years before you had any real progress. What did you mean by that? I mean compared to my experience and many others who haven't understood and applied themselves, and we feel that we have not made best use of our time and did not get much spiritual progress as far as inner experience is concerned. What did you mean in comparison to that?

SANT JI: Guru Nanak practiced this meditation for eleven years sitting on stones; and Guru Amardas used to tie his hair to a nail and sit for meditation. If they had seen the real thing – the glimpse of happiness – within on the very first day, then what is the need of practicing for so many long years? Swami Ji Maharaj from his very childhood – the age of five years – sat in a dark room for meditation. He did it for eighteen years. If he had seen or experienced the real thing in a very short time, what was the need for practicing long years and giving pain to the body? When Baba Jaimal Singh was meditating in the ditches, he used to bring food for one week from the railway station. He put the chapatis in one place. Whenever he was feeling hungry he would take out the food and wet it in the water, and then eat it. Whenever he was feeling sleepy he would beat himself on the back with a stick. So when I was initiated by Baba Bishan Das into the knowledge of the first two Words, if I had seen the glimpse of happiness on the very first day, then what was the need of eating the vegetable soup, and doing meditation? Master's initiates get a first hand experience and a little bit of capital. If they don't give that capital, then how can the disciple work on it?

PAPPU: He was given first-hand experience and some capital to increase, and he worked on that doing meditations. He reached the goal after six years – the goal of the two worlds. He attained that position in the second plane, and merged with the God of that plane. Just as we are given the knowledge of Five Words, and we know that Sach Khand is our goal but we are not going to see Sach Khand on the very first day. We are given a first-hand experience and a little capital; we are given the knowledge and glimpse of the first stage.

QUESTION: Some of us – by being lazy or not being properly disciplined – have even lost the light that we were given the very first day. You never did. You got the Light at the time of initiation and you worked at it steadily and faithfully so it grew and grew, and within six years you had accomplished the goal that Bishan Das had set before you. Some of us don't even see Light because we have been lazy.

SANT JI: That is not good for them. And they will never progress. Those who are working according to the instructions of the Master from the very first day, and those who daily first give food to the soul in meditation, and afterward they eat, only they will progress and attain the position in the place from which Master comes. They will attune themselves with Master.

QUESTION: How long was it from the time you were initiated until you began seeing Master Kirpal Singh inside?

SANT JI: [Long pause] I am not sure about the dates because I do not remember them; but it is my guess that it was approximately twelve years.

QUESTION: So you knew that you had to go further than just the second plane – there was more for you to traverse in the higher spiritual regions?

SANT JI: Yes. Bishan Das had given me a promise that “The Guru will come to your place to give you more.”

QUESTION: Many of us who haven't had this long background of spiritual awareness and development may progress slowly and think that this is only for exceptional people who can achieve this human evolution to the highest spiritual perfection. But I spoke to Babu Ji yesterday. He said he had worked for 37 years and then retired as a station-master. All that time he was sitting on chairs – he had not been sitting cross-legged. He is an older man. I just wanted to raise the point that Westerners also, even though they have been sitting on chairs and are not accustomed to sitting still for long periods of time also progress if they apply themselves. Would you agree and comment on that?

SANT JI: When Babu Ji was retired and he came to me, I told him that he should sit on a chair, and he should also try to sit on a wooden bench, and then on the earth. So he used to sit on the chair for two hours, and then he sat on the wooden bench for ten to fifteen minutes or half an hour. In that way, he learned to sit on the wooden bench and then on the earth. Now he is always sitting on the wooden bench. There is no burden and pain in love – if you have love for God, and if you want to meet Him, you will not be having any pain or any burden. You will never hesitate in helping your friend, on the worldly level, if he comes to you and asks for your help in the night time: it doesn't matter to you if you have to go across a very dangerous road. Even then you won't hesitate to go with him. So can't you understand the love for your God as much as the love for your friend?

QUESTION: Masters say that we have to leave the body sometime. Now many people in the West do not understand that we can learn to leave the body now. It's not just a fairy tale, or fantasy, or imagination; it's a fact. It was interesting to me to meet Babu Ji who is 65 or 70 – and his father is 105 years old and has only been meditating for eight years – yet they have begun at this advanced age and are putting in time regularly. So people in the West I think could also do this.

SANT JI: To leave the body is not a story or fairy tale – you can do it practically, and it is a practical fact. And they can also do it if they wish to do it. In Sant Mat, leaving the body means that you can leave the body whenever you like by closing your eyes and doing Simran, and afterwards you can again enter the body. To most people, to leave the body means you have to die. But in Sant Mat it means that you can leave the body as many times as you want, and you can again enter the body.

QUESTION: You mentioned that before you had met Bishan Das or Master Kirpal Singh, you had been involved all your life in doing different practices. One thing that you mentioned was the practice of sitting in the circle of fires, and even though that had no spiritual results for you, it did help to discipline your concentration and control of your body. Could you describe that a little bit so we might get a little understanding of the background that helped you grow quickly when you did receive Naam?

SANT JI: The only thing about that I would like to say is that if one has diverted his attention toward the way of God from his very childhood, he won't have any problems about progress. But you should not have any problem after you get the Naam initiation. After getting Naam you should cut your attention from the worldly things and you should give more attention to spiritual things. Then you can progress.

QUESTION: But the key to success as I interpreted what you told me in the last few days is to be able to give full concentration – full attention to the inner practices. And the problem that most of us and most of the world has is that our mind is so scattered through the senses into the world outside that we cannot concentrate our attention inside at the third eye center.

SANT JI: You have to think why you were given the man body. What is the purpose of your existence in this world? After death where are you going to go, and what are you going to do there? What are you going to eat and drink there? So you should be prepared for the journey beyond your death. You should utilize your mind in preparing for the journey of beyond. You should utilize your mind in the spiritual practices, then only can you concentrate.

QUESTION: A practical question that is of value for us to understand in our practices is the question of controlling the vital fluids in our practice. I often lose those fluids in dreams. Maybe you could comment on this.

SANT JI: Those who are losing vital fluids are doing so because they are not having good thoughts. So whenever they go to sleep and have bad dreams – any woman inside the dream – they will lose vital fluid. You are a young man... in Delhi also I was trying to tell you that you are not a married man, but you are not in a position to store your vital fluid. I was going to tell you but I thought that probably you would ask me this question. And now I will tell you about my own self. I have never seen any woman dancing. I never went to see any movie in my whole life. In the military they were showing movies free, but I was praying to my commanding officer to give me any duty rather than to tell me to see the movie. So my officer never forced me to go and see it. And he used to tell me, “OK, if you are not interested in this, you go and rest.” The other people used to go to the movies, but I always sat and repeated the names “Hey Ram, Hey Gobind.” I never played – I don't even know how to play cards, or chess. I don't have very much knowledge about worldly affairs.

Secondly, Bishan Das told me to always eat simple food. And Bishan Das Maharaj Ji always emphasized to live chaste: he used to ask me if I was losing vital fluid in dreams. He never allowed me to eat onions or garlic; he never allowed me to eat much – he did allow me to drink milk and eat light food. And he never allowed me to sleep deeply. He used to put wooden sticks on the bed in this position – like a “V” – he did this so that I would not have deep sleep and lose control over kam, krodh, etc. I was young, and according to the nature of my age, I sometimes tried to sleep very deeply. But whenever he saw me, he would come and give me two slaps. That's why I am very grateful to Bishan Das and I still love him – because he was the maker of my life, and he put the cornerstone in my life.

Even now I was sick for the last twenty days, and only yesterday I have taken food. But still I am sitting in a very good position, and I am ahead of you because while you are sitting here you are changing your position, and I am still in one position [laughter]. I had fever and I was vomiting whatever I drank or ate; even so, I am not more tired than you. About my diet you can ask Pappu; I have stayed at Pappu's house and he knows what I eat.

PAPPU: Very simple, light. Twice a day he took food – one vegetable and chapatis. And twice a day he took tea and nothing else.

SANT JI: Anyway, this was my personal experience, and now I would like to advise you. The first thing is: never go to see movies. Never read romantic or obscene literature. Never look at pictures of women from which you get a feeling of lust. Use radio and television only for the purpose of listening to the news, and don't watch any movies or any other thing on television. Moreover, you should read only spiritual literature. If you do what I have told you – that you should not use radio and television, and if you want to read something, read the literature written by Saints and Mahatmas, and live on simple diet – then your diet will go on decreasing and your vital fluid will still be in your body. When you stop losing your vital fluid, then your diet will also decrease and you will eat less. And start giving rest to your body only for four or five hours in a day. And do Simran whenever you are doing any other work also. Then you will never lose your vital fluid. And if you will work according to what I have told you, you will know, and you can write me once a month about it. You will never lose your vital fluid; you will never feel tired while you are sitting; your attention will never come down from the eye center. Meditators should always protect the vital fluid. If you will not protect it, you will not progress and you will not succeed in meditation.

QUESTION: So we can say that the effect of the mind is very powerful on the body, and if through our experience over the years we have developed certain habits of thinking and feeling, then this will automatically affect such things as our fluid. So this is why we should practice chastity, love for all life, etc.: so that we can transform our habits to where the mind will always be directed towards God in this practical sense – and not merely for social benefits.

SANT JI: Yes. Chastity and the other things will help in every aspect of life, and also in the worldly affairs to which you have to attend.

QUESTION: In the West there is a lot of influence – they sell commercial products by appealing to our sexual desires. In the entertainment shows, and in commercial advertising, they are using our sexual desires to make money, and so it is everywhere you look. So the practical thing is that even though we may have developed these habits of mind or attitudes which may be misguided, we can change our mental and emotional orientation so that we can become pure and have control over our energies and our mind so that we can have better meditations – through Simran.

SANT JI: In military there are various types of people: some of them drink wine and go to prostitutes. But I was never affected by them, and I was never worried about them. In the evening some people used to drink wine and come to my bed, dancing and using very bad words, but I used to sleep like this [sheet up over his head] and I never paid any attention to them. Sometimes they would pull the sheet from my body [laughter] but I never allowed them to take it from my eyes. So in the same way in the West: if people are doing such shows or things which give rise to lust, then you don't look at that. You can control your mind. At that time you should have your Guru on one side, and your mind on the other side. If you will obey your mind – if you will become the disciple of your mind – you will have to watch the shows and television and things like that. But if you will become the disciple of your Guru or Master, you will have to do Simran. That you have to choose; and you can do it...

What do we have to take from the world? The life of a satsangi is different from other people. Guru Nanak also said that there is no comparison between those who are doing bhakti or meditation and those who are living a worldly life. That is why I was asking you about your intention for marriage.

QUESTION: Well, the ideal that I love is to have control of my desires, my senses, to be able to love purely and be in control, because Master Kirpal has said marriage is no bar to spirituality. But it is a bar if we are not in control of our desires, emotions and our senses.

SANT JI: Those who are the slaves of mind and senses, how can they control their senses and outgoing faculties? Saints never say that you should leave everything, or that you should leave the worldly life, but they teach how to control the mind and senses and your outgoing faculties. Many boys come to me and ask whether they should get married or not, and I tell them they should. And many boys come saying that they don't want to get married, and I tell them, "If you can control yourself, then it is all right. But first you should see whether you can control yourself or not." Babu Ji's son always used to come to me and now also he is coming here. He was not ready for marriage. Babu Ji told him many times to get married, but he always refused. So he came to me and I told him that, "If you are very pure in your mind and you don't have any feeling of lust, and you have never used your feelings of lust, I am ready to bow down at your feet. If you are looking at other women, then it is better to have your own woman in your house." He was married in June. He is a nephew of Pathi Ji, and whenever he came here, Pathi Ji also told him to get married. But when he came to me I told him only the one thing: that if you are very pure in your mind, and if you are chaste, then it is all right to be single. But if you are not chaste – in thought also – then you should get married. It is better to have your own woman in your house than to look at other women. Many people do not get married but still they are not controlling their minds and their senses and desires. What is the use if they are not married but still they are repeating women's names like a rosary? In the Vedas also it is written that the sexual act in marriage is only for the birth of a child, not for pleasure. Guru Nanak Ji – He was also married and he also led a worldly life – but what has he written about lust? That "for the pleasure of one minute you have pain for a long time."

QUESTION: In my case, and I know many other Americans who try to improve themselves through their spiritual practices, it has been a struggle because we want to love everybody, and we want to love also women. At the same time we want to have pure love and not be lustful towards them. But getting married, as I saw it, does not solve the problem of lust because I know many married men who have lustful feelings for their wife, but they also continue to have lustful feelings for other women. So in order to overcome the problem of becoming a slave to our blind desires of lust then it's part of the process of self-awareness, self-knowledge, on the way to God knowledge. Before I could make a commitment – just speaking personally – before I could make a commitment to go ahead and get married, or to say that I don't want anything to do with women, I had to understand what it is that cause me to have the feelings that I have so that I can be freer to love and to choose my relationships with people on the basis of love and goodness as opposed to being a slave to desires.

SANT JI: Mind is only pulling you toward your desires. You are thinking that when you are loving all – and especially women – your love is not remaining pure; but your thinking is wrong. Because that is also of our own feeling. If we understand that someone is our sister and she is beautiful, then also you are loving your sister, and Indians embrace their sisters; but their feelings are not polluted. If the woman is younger in age you understand her as your daughter, if she is of your own age you understand her as your sister, and if she is older than you, you consider her as your mother. It doesn't matter to a father if his daughter is beautiful. She may be loving her father, but he will not have any feeling of lust – even if she puts her head on her father's breast. The feeling of lust arises – in your mind when you have not controlled your mind, and when you are not seeing that woman as your sister, mother, or daughter.

QUESTION: Yes, I understand. I was bringing up this point because I know as a man of the world I have experimented with sex until I discovered something higher to experiment with. And I know that these desires both in the woman and in the man exist. And in the West this is an endless cycle that keeps us enslaved to each other – the man to the woman – because we do have pleasurable experiences through this. And in the West it is very popular; now especially, we have lots of contraceptives for birth control. We seem to have talked a lot about this subject, but it is something in the West today that we need to understand so that we can direct our attention to something besides the body of the opposite sex, so that we can begin to see the love in each other and not merely have the physical attachments.

SANT JI: Unless we raise our love above the body and attachment to the body, we can never progress. Those who are loving the body – it doesn't matter if they are loving the body of their Guru, their wife, or other relations – it is still the body, and they have to face sometime that it is an illusion – because the body is not going to stay there forever. One day will come when it has to be destroyed. So those who are attached to the body and who love only the body, they will not progress.

QUESTION: So we have – through Simran, Bhajan, and having a right understanding – we can direct our mind, to attach it to the higher center of concentration so that we can begin to change those mental habits that we have acquired over a lifetime.

SANT JI: The love of Satsangis is different from the love of the worldly people. You see, the body with which we are enjoying pleasures is not going to last long, and the pleasures will not have the same enjoyment if you enjoy them daily. They will lose their interest. Nobody's body is going to remain as it is now. When time passes by and old age comes, the face of the woman grows bad, and it is the same with the face of the man and the body of the man. They will not like each other, and they will hate each other [if physical desire is their only bond]. And they will also not enjoy that pleasure anymore. They will not like it.

QUESTION: Well we have talked a lot about this physical attachment that limits us. I found part of the difficulty that I have experienced in not having a clear understanding, I found that I could not make a total commitment since I still had the attachment for women. And I know many satsangis who have the same problem. So without having the understanding of why we need to control and direct our energies upward to the eye center, we're afraid we will lose something in life if we don't associate with women on this physical level. We haven't learned to love purely – it would always be mixed with lust.

SANT JI: Men are not loving women, but they are loving to lose vital fluid. If they love women, they will never enjoy pleasures with women. As it is, unless a woman satisfies the feelings of lust in a man, the man will not be happy with her. And women also are not aware that we should preserve our vital fluid. They are also doing the same thing.

1976 October: You Have To Be Brave

Sant Ajaib Singh Ji talks with disciples on October 16, 1976

QUESTION: The story you told yesterday was the funniest story I've ever heard in my life.⁴ Do you have any more stories like that to tell?

SANT JI: The meaning of the story is that in the beginning, Mastana Ji gave them many comforts – gave them very good beds and two sevadars to do massage – but when they fell asleep the same sevadars were told to give them a scolding. First the sevadars were in the form of Master Power which means they were kind to the person but the same sevadar turned into the form of Kal Power and he started giving a beating. So in the same way, God has given us many comforts; God has given us cars, jeeps, many things to use to make our life easy. You see how He has painted the sky with stars and moon and how He is supplying us with everything and in spite of getting all these things, if we fall asleep and if we're not remembering Him, the same God will manifest as the Kal Power, and as they got the beating, Kal Power will also trouble us.

Mastana Ji used to say that those who have been given cars and jeeps and many other facilities, those rich people who have been given such facilities by God and have not remembered God, they will be given the form of a camel in the next life. And they will have to carry the burden without having any limit. Or they will be given the bodies of a bullock which goes around the grinding mill daily with its eyes closed.

QUESTION: I have some fear that when we get hack into the world there will be big jaws ready to eat us, to eat me, and I'm just praying that I'll be strong to resist the tremendous attraction that the world has on me.

SANT JI: You have to become brave in attending your worldly responsibilities and moreover you have to be brave to carry out the work given by Satguru. The worldly attractions or the worldly duties, that is concerned with our body and that will not go with us. But the work of Satguru, Simran and Bhajan, that will go with us. Because the only thing that will be our companion is Bhajan – that's meditation. And the human body in which we are living is also a rented house; we have to leave that someday. And we will not be ready by our own self to leave that place, leave that house, and God will force us to leave. So if you will not learn to leave the body while living then at the time of death you will have to face a lot of pain. If the disciple will not do meditation and then at his end-time he prays to Satguru, Satguru is not owing him anything. Why? It is His Will whether He comes or not. If the disciple can do it his own way, Satguru can also do it His own way. So, honestly, lovingly and with full devotion, we have to do the practices which our Satguru has given us. If you think that you can remove all the thorns in the world, that is not possible, but if you have very strong shoes you can walk over these thorns.

QUESTION: I would like to hear a love story – a story about love.

SANT JI: This is an incident of the time of Guru Arjan Dev, the fifth Guru of the Sikhs. There was one disciple of the Guru named Bhai Tilkul who was fairly advanced. And this incident took place at a place called Garshankar in the Punjab. At that place there was one yogi who had many supernatural powers, and everybody was going and worshipping him. But Bhai Tilkul was not going to have his darshan. Once that yogi thought, “Bhai Tilkul is always going to Guru Arjan Dev and he is encouraging people to have darshan of Guru Arjan Dev. If Bhai Tilkul comes to my place and he has my darshan then he will encourage people to come to me.” So he told his disciples to go and tell in the nearby villages that “those who will have my darshan will be given heaven for one year.” So for the villagers, to get heaven for one year was the very cheapest merchandise, to have only by seeing him once! So everybody went and had his darshan. But Bhai Tilkul was not there; he never went to have his darshan. So the yogi asked his disciples, “Did everybody come to have my darshan?” They told him, “Everybody came except Bhai Tilkul. He is not coming to see you.” So the yogi told his disciple, “You go and tell him that he will be given heaven for two years.” Then he went and told Bhai Tilkul that he would be given heaven for two years, to come and have the darshan of the yogi. But he said, “No, I don’t want to go to heaven.” Then he was told, “All right, you will be given three years.” They went on increasing up to five years. But Bhai Tilkul told them, “I don’t want to go to heaven, because I want to go to Sach Khand. My path is different from yours and I will not have anybody’s darshan except my Guru.”

⁴ The story was that Mastana Ji had told two sadhus that He was going to give them two sevadars to massage them when their bodies were tired or stiff from meditating. But He also gave the sevadars sticks to beat the sadhus with if they got lazy and slept instead of meditating.

So when the disciples came back to the yogi and the yogi heard this he started using his supernatural powers, in the form of ghosts, on him to distract his mind. But Bhai Tilkul was sitting there for meditation and Satguru Power was protecting him. So Bhai Tilkul was not affected; it didn’t have any result; so the yogi went himself to him. He said, “I will give you heaven for ten years; please have my darshan.” But Bhai Tilkul told him, “No, I don’t want to go to heaven and I will not have your darshan.” So looking at the firmness of Bhai Tilkul the yogi told him, “Please open the door, I also want initiation from your Guru. For the sake of your Guru, please open the door.” So Bhai Tilkul was a very good disciple, a very true disciple; when he heard “for the sake of your Guru” he opened the door and after that the yogi went with Bhai Tilkul to get initiation. On the way, when they were crossing the river Beas in Amritsar he asked Bhai Tilkul, “How old is your Guru?” So he replied, “He is 35 years old.” Now the yogi was about 100 years old; so his mind started again deceiving him: “You are an old man and you are going to have a Guru who is very young?” So he went to Guru Arjan Dev. At that time they did not have buildings like this, so Guru Arjan Dev was sitting in a tent and the yogi was standing outside the tent and Bhai Tilkul told Guru Arjan Dev, “A yogi has come to have your darshan and get Naam initiation.” So Guru Arjan Dev said, “All right, he’s welcome.” But that yogi stood outside the tent thinking, “I’m older and he will call me or he will love me; first he will come and call me and love me.” But he was doubting Guru Arjan because of his young age. “That Guru will come out and love me or bow down to me.” So he was standing outside. While sitting in the tent Guru Arjan Dev asked, “How are you, Yogi?” You see he asked, “How are you?” So he said, “I’m fine.” (The yogi was missing one ear. It was cut off.) Guru Arjan was All-conscious, he was knowing everything – so he asked, “Yogi, where is your other ear?” The yogi replied, “Once I was traveling on the sea, and one fish came up from the sea and took away the earring along with the ear.” So, hearing this, Guru Arjan Dev, who was sitting in the tent, put out his hand with that earring and said, “Is this it?” And it was the same. And looking at all this, he went in and bowed down at Guru Arjan Dev’s feet and got initiation. So because of the firmness of Bhai Tilkul, the disciple of Guru Arjan Dev, even the yogi got the Naam initiation. So the disciple should be like Bhai Tilkul and the Master should be like Guru Arjan Dev.

QUESTION: Can you describe your first and last meetings with Kirpal Singh?

SANT JI: Only He knows about the first meeting, why He showered grace on me, and when He came to my ashram I was completely lost in His darshan and I was not aware whether a God has come here or there is a man who has come. And after that whenever we met He was always talking with me lovingly, sending me very good loving thoughts and He always gave the opportunity to sleep with Him in the same room. And we also used to have food and I think that He was talking with me very broadly from His heart.

And when He told me about His leaving earlier, only I know I still feel the wound in my heart and only I know how I was screaming at His feet when He told me. Because my first Guru, Baba Bishan Das, also left soon after He gave me initiation into the knowledge of Two Words, so when He told me He was to leave earlier I was not able to speak anything but I started weeping because the pain of separation was too much. I said only one thing, “Oh Lord, the owner of all this world, only this is written in my fate, that I have to weep every time, that I have to be away from my Master?”

QUESTION: How long before He left did Master tell you He was going? When did You know – one year before, two years before?

SANT JI: When He came on His last tour in Sri Ganganagar, but I don’t remember the year; I am not good with dates.

QUESTION: There is one picture of you with Kirpal in the first issue of Sant Bani Magazine. Is that the only picture You have?

SANT JI: At that time in Rajasthan we were not fond of having photos. We didn’t have any arrangements for taking pictures or making movies, otherwise we would have made movies when I was having Satsang sitting with Hazur. You can see what arrangements we have here. You have to go ten miles to get anything. And in the town of Gajsinghpur only in the last year a photographer opened a shop; before that nobody was doing anything. And in the town of Raisingh Nagar, a photographer started only six months ago. And when we sent the photos that people send from the States to town to get them framed, people there stare at the photo for many hours in amazement: “How did they get this very beautiful picture?”

Previously I told you that once in the Red Fort in Delhi there was one Rajasthani lady and a Westerner tried to take her photograph but she covered her face. You saw yesterday two girls came here; they were also afraid that you would take their photo. But we have told them – the villagers – that pictures are only for remembrance, that “we were doing this, and we were sitting there,” so that has inspired them to allow you to take pictures so that you can make movies or take pictures at Satsang.

QUESTION: It’s only for that purpose.

SANT JI: Yes. And when Kent came here and we went to 22 PS to the place of the retired police inspector, Mr. Kushi Ram, he himself had arranged for photographs for the sake of remembrance that “Master has come.” Now I think that, through looking at you these people will also become fond of photography. But this area is backward, here people are illiterate, and there is no comparison with you.

Now also in villages the radios, the loudspeakers, the records, record players: people are not happy in playing radios or records. They don't like them. In the state of Punjab you have to give a fine, you have to pay a penalty if you play records. In Rajasthan also, in many big villages, the same thing is true: you have to pay a fine if you play records. Only for that reason the thoughts of the people of this place are pure. Because your mind is filled with records, TV, many things. But the people living here, their minds are empty of all these things so they have pure thoughts. And I think also that this thing will be spread all over India, because in Delhi too there is now TV.

And in Rajasthan now the people are not believing in television. One man will say, "There is a radio in which you can see a picture: along with the voice you can see a picture," and the other will not believe. He will say, "You are telling lies. This can never happen." And I think for Satsangis it is not good that all these things should spread. I think if a Satsangi goes within and sees the television or sees the picture within, then it is good for him. Unless he gives up the pictures of the world, he cannot see the pictures inside. To advance in Sant Mat, even the graduate, the scholar, has to become as a child of five years.

Bookish knowledge can give you information of outward things. If any person who has earned his meditation has the bookish knowledge, then it is like a garland of flowers on his head. But to go within, no book will help you. To go within you are to develop Satguru in your heart; as the Saints say, "You have sung many scriptures, you have read many books of the outward things, but now you read the book of your soul within." So when I went to Delhi many people came to me saying that "I have written this book, I have read many books – everybody was giving examples from the books but nobody was giving his experience or the example of his own self. And at that time I would advise them lovingly that if you have any experience of yourself, tell me that. And now also I say the same thing. Generally I ask, "Have you ever pleased your Master Who is residing within?" Now I am asking everybody: "Have you ever pleased Master Kirpal Shah Who is residing within?"

That God came into the form of Kirpal Shah and He gave out the grace with both His hands but we never thanked Him. God came in the form of Kirpal Shah in the man-body to explain to us and to give us the blessings and the grace and we never thanked Him.

QUESTION: I'd like to hear more about Dhyān.⁵

SANT JI: Yes. Anything specific? What do you want to know?

QUESTION: Well, I don't understand it.

SANT JI: The first step is Simran, the second is Dhyān. When we complete the Simran our soul will rise above the body – only through Simran. Daily I am emphasizing Simran, because unless you complete your Simran you cannot concentrate your attention – concentrate your soul and bring the soul up to the seat of the soul. The soul is spread in each and every cell of the body; and our attention is spread out in the world.

⁵ Dhyān means "contemplation," and refers to seeing the Inner Light or the Form of the Master within, and to keep someone in mind throughout the day. In both meanings it is complementary to Simran.

Simran is the medium; Simran is the instrument through which we can concentrate our attention and concentrate our soul. Only through Simran can we rise above and come to this place. [Sant Ji points to the eye-focus.] And when our attention is concentrated through Simran, then comes Dhyān. So while doing Dhyān we have to do Dhyān of that person who initiated us. Guru Nanak said that we have to do Dhyān of the form of a Saint. Why do we have to do Dhyān of a Saint? Because when we do Dhyān of some person, some holy man, some good man, better man than us, we will start getting some of his good qualities – absorbing some of his good qualities. When you do Simran of the world, you are doing Dhyān of the world. When you do Simran of your Guru, then you are doing Dhyān of your Guru. Unless you give up Simran of the world, you cannot do Simran of the Guru and you cannot have Dhyān of the Guru. So two powers are working: one is surat, the second is nirat. The work of Dhyān means “contemplation,” and refers to seeing the Inner Light or the Form of the Master within, and to keep someone in mind throughout the day. In both meanings it is complementary to Simran. The work of surat is to listen to the Sound Current, and the work of nirat is to see the Light. Unless we concentrate our attention which is spread, our nirat will not see the Light; and unless that is concentrated, our surat will not listen to the Shabd. We are habituated to do Simran of the world from ages and ages and when we are on our death-bed or when our end-time comes, if we are doing the Simran of the world, we will come again to the world. Where you are attached, there you will come again; but if we are doing Simran of our Guru and having Dhyān of our Guru while we are sitting or doing any other thing when our death time comes, we will definitely have the Simran of our Guru and the Radiant Form of the Timeless Lord will come through Simran and Dhyān.

It will be instilled in the disciple and only that disciple can have the Dhyān, only that disciple can see the Radiant Form of the Lord, who has been doing Simran all the time. And when you are on the death-bed and you are doing Simran of God, then you are not to come again.

As we can do Simran while walking or doing any other thing, in the same way we can have Dhyān of our Satguru while doing any other thing. It is very important to do Dhyān of Satguru because if you will do Dhyān of somebody you will start absorbing his qualities. Regarding this, Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell one story: There was one guru who taught archery. His name was Dronacharya. The Mahabharata tells of five Pandavas and one hundred Korovas, who were all learning archery from Dronacharya. Once there came a boy of Bhil (a very low caste) and he also was eager to learn archery and he went to Dronacharya and requested him, “I would also like to be your disciple; I also want to learn archery.” But Dronacharya told him, “I am the guru of the princes; how can I teach you? I will not allow you to become my disciple.” But he was eager to learn archery so he went back to his home and he made an idol of guru Dronacharya. And through Dhyān he always thought of Dronacharya, and through Dhyān he got all the qualities of Dronacharya; and he learned archery. So once Dronacharya was along with all the disciples in the forest, testing them. There was one dog barking there, and Dronacharya told his disciples, “Stop his barking but you should not hurt him. Stop his barking through archery, through your skill, but you must not hurt him.” Everyone tried but no one was successful. The boy of the Bhil caste, whose name was Eklavia, knew that skill; and he stopped the barking of the dog without hurting him. Now Arjuna was a very good disciple of Dronacharya and Dronacharya had given him a promise that nobody would be more skilled than him in the art of archery. So now Arjuna asked Dronacharya, “How is that, you never taught me how to do this and you have taught him?” So Dronacharya said, “He is not my disciple.” But when he asked Eklavia, “Who is your guru?” he replied, “Who can be my guru except you? – you are my guru!” And he took them to the hut and showed them his idol. “I have learned all things from you. I made this idol and I got all the qualities that you have got through Dhyana.”

So because Dronacharya had given his promise to Arjuna that no one would be more skilled than him, he told Eklavia, “All right, you have made me your guru but you have not paid me anything as a guru diksha – you have not given me any seva.” Eklavia said, “Whatever you want I will give.” So to keep his word which he had given to Arjuna, he told him to cut off his right thumb and give it as guru diksha. (The right thumb is the important one in the skill of archery.)

So the meaning of that story is that Eklavia, in spite of the refusal from Dronacharya, made the idol and by doing Dhyana he absorbed all the qualities and he was more skillful than any other disciple of Dronacharya.

QUESTION: If Satguru is all knowing and Satguru knows what is in each one of our hearts, why was it that Satguru did not know ahead of time that there was going to be a problem in your coming to America? Why was it that Satguru did not know the procedure? He knows everything, my mind tells me that He should have known that too. Why did He have to endure that suffering? Because He is all-knowing, He could have obtained that information.

SANT JI: Satgurus are the children of God; they will never do any alteration in the schedule of God. And they are always happy in the Will of God. If He wants them to be happy, they will be happy while living happy; and if He wants them to be in pain they will be happy in pain. But they will not make any changes in the Will of God.

QUESTION: Then I would assume that He knew this was going to happen but He could not change it. Is this correct?

SANT JI: This is the only quality of Saints that they never change the planning of God. And nobody did, no Saint ever did. Was Hazur not knowing that He would be unhappy at Sawan Ashram? Tai Ji told me that Hazur said at His end-time that, “If there would have been no ashram and I had been in the jungle I would not have suffered all this pain.” Hazur was knowing everything, that this thing would happen, and he was also not happy there, but whatever God wanted him to do, wanted him to build, he did.

When Guru Arjan Dev was tortured by Jehangir, by making him sit on the hot coals and putting the hot sand on his head, then Hazrat Mian Mir, one of the friends of Guru Arjan Dev, came and asked, “Why are you suffering? Please allow me to destroy the city of Lahore.” But Guru Arjan Dev said, “I can also do that, but to be in His Will – that is important.”

You can read the story of any Saint or any Mahatma, and you can read the story of Christ – was he not knowing that he would be crucified? And one of his friends would do that?

If there is any perfect Saint or Mahatma he will not let the God work according to his fani, but he will work according to God's fani [Will].

Guru Gobind Singh had a servant named Gungu and he served for 21 years; and he was the man who buried Guru Gobind Singh's sons alive in the wall, and his mother also, and the Guru knew that he would do that. But still Guru Gobind Singh never made any changes.

Our Master was All-conscious. If He had wanted to live for many more years He could have stayed here, but He was happy in the Master's Will and He went.

In the beginning I was always doing Simran of one or another kind, and when I was doing Simran of "Hey Ram, Hey Gobind," I had many supernatural powers and I would show miracles to people. And many people were praising me, saying, "This Sadhu is very good, he knows everything." But still I was afraid from within that I was not doing well. So when I came to the feet of Baba Bishan Das he warned me, and gave me the example of a turtle: when that animal sees a man he withdraws within himself; so in the same way the Sadhus have to beware of this. Swami Ji Maharaj said, "If Master is showering some grace on you then don't tell the world, don't show the world."

Master Sawan Singh used to tell an incident that took place near the Murree Hills where Master Sawan Singh was working. There was one man there named Baba Khala who was a man of miracles; he used to show miracles. And there was an old lady who took the cows on the other side of the hill for pasturing. Once a tiger came and ate two cows. So she went to Baba Khala telling him that the tiger has done this harm. So Baba Khala came out and went, "Dhuru, dhuru," – he made some type of noise. And the tiger died and the two cows came back to life. He showed a miracle. His brother was a fairly advanced disciple of Baba Sawan Singh, and he tried to explain to him many times, "Don't do this, otherwise you will have difficulty at your end-time." But Baba Khala was not worried about that. So when his end-time came his soul was neither going up nor staying down. He had a very hard time. He was not like a dead body and he was not like a live one; he was in-between. He had a lot of pain. And while this was happening, his brother said to him, "Now you can show the miracles. Or you can pray for going up." Saints never show miracles. They never show this type of cinema to the people.

QUESTION: Because you do not speak English and we do not speak Punjabi it takes longer to go through Pappu, we have twice as much darshan.

SANT JI: This is all done by Baba Ji [Master]. It is all in His hands, whether you get double or four times. If He wanted me to give you less time He would have taught me English.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, you mentioned something about there is a secret in that.

SANT JI: Yes.

QUESTION: Is there any way you can give us a little hint of what it is.

SANT JI: It is not in His orders.

QUESTION: I don't think we are going to want to leave tomorrow.

SANT JI: This is all in Baba Ji's hands. Not a leaf can turn without His Will. Wherever He wants us to go, we have to go; wherever He wants us to travel we have to travel; whenever He wants us to leave we have to leave. Everything is in His Will.

1976 December: Our Soul is Crying

Sant Ajaib Singh asks and answers questions on the evening of November 13, 1976.

SANT JI: How long have you been initiated?

QUESTION A: Eight years.

SANT JI: In the last eight years how much meditation have you done and how much have you progressed?

QUESTION A: It's varied – the amounts of time. It's been very good to meditate here.

SANT JI: What is your occupation?

QUESTION A: I am a cook.

SANT JI: In that you get only time to meditate in the night time? You work all day?

QUESTION A: From early in the morning until after noon.

SANT JI: And what do you do in the evening?

QUESTION A: I usually... I go to bed quite early.

SANT JI: Eight years is not a little time. It is a long period. Swami Ji Maharaj said that those who are not doing meditation, only they are troubled by laziness and only they feel sleepy. But those who are doing meditation, neither laziness nor sleep will trouble them. So you should sleep only that amount of time that is necessary for your body. And only four or five hours is maximum for that because you can refresh your body in that time.

And after that you have to do meditation because we have got this man-body only to meditate and to remember our Lord and it is a precious occasion we have got. And we can meditate only in the man-body. So we should meditate each and every moment, each and every second. And you should carry out your worldly responsibilities also; and besides that you have to meditate. You should meditate regularly, daily, without missing your meditation. Don't you meditate for two days and give up meditation for a week and then again start. You have to continue your meditations daily.

Time is fixed for everybody. You have got each and every breath – that is all limited. You will not get one more breath or one less breath at any cost. So you have to utilize your each and every breath.

You have got such a Guru; you will not get such a Guru anytime. And you have got this man-body; nobody will give you the man-body again. And you have got Naam. Naam came in the flesh and He appreciated your love but now you have to appreciate the Naam. You have to work for Naam. That Naam or Shabd, He came in this world in the form of flesh, in the man-body, and He remained among us. He came into this world and recognized us: that we are all souls and the essence of the Oversoul. But we are not recognizing Him – that He is our true Father, and that we should catch hold of Him and we should go back to our real home.

So now don't you be lazy; refuse your mind; say that you will not obey him, and you will obey Satguru. Do not be the disciple of mind, be the disciple of Satguru. When you are sitting for meditation at night time your mind will advise you, "Now it is night time and we should sleep." But when you sit for meditation in the daytime the mind will tell you, "We will do it later." In this way the time goes by. So if you give attention to the orders of your mind or the advice of your mind, then you are the disciple of mind. If you pay attention to the pain or sleep, then you are becoming the disciple of mind. But you have to become the disciple of the Satguru.

In Sant Mat or the Way of the Saints it is a rule that whatever you have to do tomorrow, do it today. So Kabir Sahib says, "Whatever you want to do tomorrow, do it today; and what you are going to do today, do it just now." If you will go on postponing your work the time will pass and you will not get this time again.

Swami Ji Maharaj also said, "Don't be lazy for meditations and never think that we will do it later."

Guru Nanak Sahib also said, "Now you are not doing meditation and you are saying that you will do it later. In this way the time will pass and when your end-time will come, then how will you do meditation?"

Some disciples of Baba Sawan Singh Ji requested, "Liberate us without doing meditation." But Master Sawan Singh told them, "No, this is the wrong thing to ask. You have to do meditation. Either you do it in this life or in the next life – but without meditation nobody will liberate you." So meditation is a must, it is most necessary. Now you have to obey this advice and you have to meditate.

[SANT JI, to next person.] When were you initiated?

QUESTION B: Three years ago.

SANT JI: When Master was on the third tour?

QUESTION B: After the third tour

SANT JI: How are you doing in meditation?

QUESTION B: [He's practicing his Hindi for the first few sentences. Then,] My meditations are improving.

SANT JI: Do you have any responsibilities?

QUESTION B: Only to myself.

SANT JI: And what responsibilities have been given by Satguru?

QUESTION B: To do bhajan and simran.

SANT JI: And to go back to your home – Sach Khand. You have to remember this also. To remember someone is good but it is better to reach, it is better to meet Him. The remembrance alone is not sufficient. You have to go and meet Him also.

QUESTION C: [To Pappu] When He looks at me He makes me want to smile. Does this displease Him or is this disrespectful? [Pappu asks.]

SANT JI: No, I have no objection. If you will not smile looking into my eyes then into which eyes will you look and will you smile? You can get the real love only through the eyes of Saints. Hazur took me into a separate room and He pulled me up and told me, “Come on, look into my eyes.” One man came to Baba Sawan Singh Ji and he bowed down to His feet. So Baba Sawan Singh Ji said, “What is there in my feet? Look up! Everything lies in the eyes.” You will smile only looking into the eyes where there is light.

[SANT JI, to a different person] Were you initiated on the fourth of November or the sixth?

QUESTION D: Sixth.

SANT JI: Make a regular schedule for meditation and don't miss meditation even for one day because only Naam will accompany you. As food is necessary to run your body – in the same way meditation is necessary for your soul. It is also necessary to attend the Satsang. Maharaj Ji used to say, “Give up hundreds of urgent works to attend Satsang and thousands of works for meditation.”

Where do you live?

QUESTION D: Between Kirpal Ashram and Sant Bani Ashram.

SANT JI: So you can be benefited by both places. [To Nina Gitana] Do you have a weekly Satsang in Kirpal Ashram?

NINA: There is satsang, informal satsang, every day.

SANT JI: [Continues to Nina] You have a lot of responsibilities. Whoever comes to you, you have to encourage them for doing more and more meditation. Guru Nanak Sahib has written in His writings that only he is called gurusikh or the disciple of the Guru, who wakes up early in the morning and meditates on Naam. And early in the morning he does some meditation and goes and takes a bath in Amritsar (the pool of nectar). When the sun is rising he should sing the praise of the Guru. While sitting or standing or doing any other work he should remember his Guru. Those who are remembering the Guru with each and every breath, only they are gurusikh or the very good disciples of the Guru. Nanak says, “I want dust of the feet of that gurusikh who himself meditates on Naam and encourages others to meditate.”

So in the hymn Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Who is a gurusikh? Those who wake up early in the morning and give up laziness and go up to the third plane in this gurdwara [temple of the body] and bathe in the pool of nectar that is Amritsar.” And after that, when the sun rises, he sings something in praise of the Guru. Then, after that, for each and every second he remembers his Satguru. Even the gods and goddesses want the dust of the feet of that type of gurusikh who meditates and encourages others to meditate.

So you should advise everybody, whoever comes to you, to meditate because meditation is the only thing which will accompany and help you. If someone comes to your ashram and he's not meditating there – you lovingly throw him out [laughter]. You should not scold anybody but lovingly you should love him so that, feeling ashamed, he should go away. If people will meditate more in the ashram, that is beneficial for everybody; if people will meditate more in the ashram the fragrance of the ashram will spread all over.

Do you have any household responsibilities? Remove all attachments from within. Only attach to Satguru.

Guru Nanak Sahib says that, “In this world I have seen the false love. For their own benefit people come and love. But it is a surprise that at the end-time none of them will come and accompany you.” The foolish mind is not obeying us. We are telling him again and again to meditate but he is not doing meditation. Nanak says, “You will cross the ocean of life if you will sing the praise of the Guru.” The worldly people love each other for their own benefit whether it is the son and mother or whether it is love of husband and wife. He says, “I am telling this mind again and again that nobody is going to accompany you, nobody is your true friend. These are all loving you only for their own self – they are all selfish.” But the mind is foolish; he is not obeying this thing. He says, “If you want to cross this ocean, the Satguru must dwell in your heart. Sing the song in praise of Satguru.” And what is the song for Satguru? – that is meditation.

[SANT JI, to another person] When were you initiated?

QUESTION E: Three years ago.

SANT JI: How much time do you put in daily in meditation?

QUESTION E: It varies from day today. Some days not at all, some days a couple hours.

SANT JI: What is your business? What do you do?

QUESTION E: I manage a food store.

SANT JI: And in that how long do you work there?

QUESTION E: About twelve hours daily.

SANT JI: And how much time do you want to give for Baba Ji?

QUESTION E: As much as needed.

SANT JI: You see you are giving twelve hours for the world and you should give at least three or four hours for Baba Ji. As you manage your food store daily – you daily go there at a definite time and you manage your store whole-heartedly – so in the same way now you should put some time to manage the store of Baba Ji.

QUESTION E: Would it be best to put less time into my worldly pursuits and spend more time in meditation and reduce my responsibilities at the store?

SANT JI: Try if you can. It will be better for you if you will have less responsibilities.

QUESTION E: Pappu, we spoke to Him last time . . . He mentioned again yesterday about the need to see the Guru within before working in the city, living in the city. Are we to take Him literally on that? He said find a quiet place in the jungle and meditate and see your Satguru within. And then we would be able to live in the city. Does He mean that literally? Is that necessary?

SANT JI: I do not mean that you should give up your jobs and go into the jungles. I meant to say that for doing your business you have to live in the city. That's good. But you should take off some time for attending Satsang or for meditation. Just as you have come here, so in this time you should give up everything and concentrate on meditation. There should be no other thing in your mind. This advice is for those people who come to India for seeing gurus and wander from one city to another. But Saints never advise anybody to give up their jobs and go away into the jungle. You have to live in your household and you have to be brave in that. Just as you take your worldly responsibilities as a necessity, just as you think it is necessary to do this, in the same way you should also think about meditation. That is also a must. As you do your business regularly in the same way you have to do meditation regularly. I advised one person that if you are doing your business and you have to travel from one city to another, then it is good – there is no harm in that. But when you are here for meditation you have to meditate only and not wander from one city to another.

Maharaj Sawan Singh Ji used to explain this by giving this example of two flies. There is one fly, like a bee, which comes near a bowl of honey and sits on the edge of the bowl and eats the honey and flies away. But there is another fly which comes and sits in the center of the bowl and she cannot eat the honey and she dies there because she cannot fly again because her wings are attached to that honey. So Saints always say that you have to become like the first fly. You must do all the worldly duties but still don't attach to anything. Attend to your worldly responsibilities and also your meditations. When Master was living, He used to lay stress that when you go for your meditation, unless you go with a yearning or with a longing to see Satguru, you cannot get more benefit. So when you are going daily to see Master or to have the darshan of Master you should only go with thoughts in your mind that you are going for the holy cause and you are going for darshan and not other business.

Guru Nanak Sahib says that people leave their houses and they go away in the jungle but still they are carrying the five enemies which keep them away from God. So there is no use. Guru Nanak Sahib asked, “What are the things which we have to give up?” You have to give up lust, anger, greed, attachment, and ego. And you can do that even living with your family. And He said, “What do you have to ask from Satguru? What thing do you have to beg from Satguru? Only Naam.”

I didn't mean that you should give up everything and go into the jungle. Those who are married should love each other and they should do their meditation living in their family. I am not against marriage; I never advise anybody to get married and I never tell anybody not to get married. But you should do meditation also. Saints always say, “Do whatever you want; but you have to remember one thing, and that is meditation – and you have to do that.”

[SANT JI indicates next person.]

QUESTION F: I was initiated on November 6th with Beverly.

SANT JI: Just as I advised Beverly, the same advice is for you. You should try to attend Satsang. Just as food is necessary to run the pranas, if we do not take food our body will grow weak; in the same way our soul is weak from ages and ages. We were not feeding our soul and now we have to feed our soul with meditation.

QUESTION F: I did make a schedule before I came and the most I could fit in is four hours a day because of my job and I live in a co-operative house; so that's about all.

SANT JI: That's very good. But you have to do it regularly. Never think, “We will do it tomorrow or we will do it later – because in regularity you will get more profit, more benefit. If you will think that we will do it later that will spoil your habit and it is not good for a satsangi.

[SANT JI points to the married couple.] How much time is there in your schedule for meditation – both of you? Both of you should anchor each other for meditation and you should help each other.

QUESTION G: [Wife] We've been trying to do four hours daily...

SANT JI: And you have to spend your life lovingly.

QUESTION C: [Husband] With Master's Grace.

SANT JI: At the time of your worldly duties or your work do your work, and after that advise each other to do meditation and encourage each other to do meditation, reminding each other that only meditation is going to help you.

[SANT JI, to another person] When were you initiated?

QUESTION H: Nearly four years ago when Master was in America.

SANT JI: How is your meditation going now? How much time are you putting in?

QUESTION H: It's been varying. Sometimes as much as four hours and the last few months it's been down to about two and a half. I've been trying to build it up but...

SANT JI: Why did it come down? Do you have any trouble with your body?

QUESTION H: I think when I heard that You weren't coming to America my mind thought that it would like to run into worldly things again and I just... I don't know why.

SANT JI: Don't think like that. This is the advice of the mind. Don't obey that advice. Don't work according to the advice of your mind. For the Saints there is no problem whether you are sitting with them or whether you are far from them. It doesn't matter if I am sitting here or if I am in America. Those who remember them with love they are always with them. And try to put in more time.

[SANT JI points to next person.]

QUESTION I: Four years ago at Sant Bani.

SANT JI: How is your meditation going?

QUESTION I: I haven't been very regular. It's been better here.

SANT JI: Try to become regular. You are eating daily. Then you should meditate daily also. Those who are not doing meditation are murdering their souls and this sin will not be forgiven. If you murder a cow that can be forgiven, Satguru will forgive that sin, but if you murder your soul – when you are not doing meditation that means you are murdering your soul – this sin will not be forgiven. We are not hearing our soul's voice. Our soul is crying from within, “I am hungry, I am hungry. Do something for me.” But we are not listening. So I am telling all of you – I am telling you lovingly and with sympathy for everybody – that you should do more meditation. You would like to say something?

QUESTION J: It seems that when we sit... I try to sit two hours a day but it seems that of that only a minute or two is fruitful.

SANT JI: Well, try again and try more. And all of you should never think, “We have meditated a lot.”

QUESTION D: It would be years before I could think that.

SANT JI: To the new initiates my advice is: don't spoil your habit; don't obey your mind. Be regular in your meditation. [To another person] When you are going around the cities for your business, at that time how much time do you put in?

QUESTION K: Sometimes one hour, sometimes two, sometimes three, sometimes four – it depends on the city.

SANT JI: At that time how much time do you give to your business? How many hours?

QUESTION K: It varies from day to day up to twelve hours a day – sometimes as few as six hours. Ten hours is about average. But I was also going to movies afterwards sometimes there. But I got good advice in October not to see any more movies. So there's plenty of time to meditate.

SANT JI: And how many are your victims? [Pappu: “He means those whose palms you read.”] How many are your victims who are coming to you and you are helping them to fall in illusion? – because the work of the palmist is to say, “You are this... You will be...” – to tell about the future; but that is all illusion. Nothing is real there.

QUESTION K: I usually say when I look at someone's hand that they should meditate more or that... [laughter]

SANT JI: [laughing] Well, that's good. You should always do that. Are you not telling them that, “You should do business with me only?”

QUESTION K: No. Sometimes that happens but I don't usually tell them that. [laughter continues]

SANT JI: [laughs] There was one initiate of Master Sawan Singh named Sunder Das. He was living with me in my ashram at Kunichuk. And once four pundits came to me, saying, “We are palmists. We will tell you everything about your past life and your future.”

So hearing that, Sunder Das took a long stick and started giving them a beating, saying, “You were knowing this? – that you were going to have a beating from me?” [laughter] He was not afraid of anything.

One fortune-teller or astrologer went to Master Sawan Singh Ji. And at that time Sunder Das was living with Master Sawan Singh. So Master Sawan Singh said that, “I also have one astrologer. We will compare your competency.” So then He called Sunder Das, saying “Come on, show your astrology.” And soon he came in with a stick. And that astrologer said, “Maharaj Ji, please forgive me.” [Everyone, including Sant Ji, is laughing throughout the story.]

So I think that he was a very good astrologer. If he were living at this time – now he has died – he would have shown you his astrology. [laughter]

And Master Sawan Singh Ji took Sunder Das with all His glory. He left the body in our Ashram.

QUESTION K: I hope to be a palmist like Sunder Das.

SANT JI: [chuckles] You should do only one thing: advise everybody for meditation; because you can't give up your habit. So whenever you see anybody's palm you should tell them that, "In your lines it is written that you should meditate and you should remember God. Why are you not doing that?" And you should do like that.

19771977 January: We Came Down to Love

Sant Ajaib Singh talks with disciples after morning meditation. This session was just after the morning meditation session with Sant Ji on October 10, 1976 – the first meditation the October group had with Him.

SANT JI: The main thing is that we should forget where we are sitting. As long as we think of our body our attention goes to our body, but when we forget about our body then our attention goes towards the Light and sees the Light. Light is at that place and peace is also at that place, but after getting some peace or seeing some Light we start thinking about our pain in our body and then we don't see the Light. So we should not think of the pain in our body.

QUESTION: The Light moves, it moves.

SANT JI: The Light is not moving. Only your concentration and your mind is moving. So you have to control your mind. Light is not moving, but we feel as though the Light is moving because our mind is moving.

QUESTION: I feel like I made a mess of the whole thing. I was doing it like I do an exercise in schoolwork but not for meditation. I was just doing it with my mind and only once did I feel like I really saw Light. And immediately I thought of You – that You were making me see the Light. And then I felt ashamed and I felt it was ironic that You were doing it and just all kinds of thoughts. And the Simran was messed up. I felt ashamed.

SANT JI: When you saw the Light, why did you stop seeing the Light? Why did you leave the Light? Don't you like the Light?

QUESTION: I like the Light.

SANT JI: You are allowed to sit here only so that you can see the Light. When you start seeing that you should try to see it continuously; why leave it?

QUESTION: I don't understand.

SANT JI: You are allowed to sit here. You are sitting here for seeing Light and when you see the Light, then why do you give up seeing that? Yesterday also I advised you that you have traveled a lot and come here. As you have brought your body here, you should also bring your mind here. Only then will you progress. You can't do any work back home or anything like that while you are living here. So don't worry about America and don't worry about your work.

If you can do anything in America by thinking, while sitting here, then you are most welcome to do that. But you can't do that. So as long as you are here you should do meditation. And we have told everybody that you should be given much time and no disturbance so that you can do meditation. So long as you are here you should take the most benefit from this place and do meditations.

Personally also I feel that it is essential for a Satsangi to do Bhajan and Simran. No child is born without pain. For doing any worldly things we have to suffer pain. So in the same way you have to do meditation, and I am not talking about anything other than meditation. So you have to do meditation. I always ring the bell at three o'clock sharp. You can see on the watch, it is never late or never early. And I wake up at least two hours before. And I never drink tea before sitting. And after that I never again sleep. And you people wake up at three o'clock and sit for two or three hours and then again try to sleep.

COMMENT: We are not very good disciples.

SANT JI: No. You are here to be perfect disciples. You try to do that. I appreciate that you have traveled a lot and come here. And I also feel in my heart that as long as you are here you should be benefited and you should progress. Because some of you have left your children back home, some of you have left your wives; and you came here for what purpose? Only for peace. And secondly you will not get such an atmosphere like this in other places, because this is not a city in which you can do sight-seeing or shopping. You are not to worry about anything – only meditation. And you will not get such an opportunity again that any fakir or any sadhu will say to you – “Come on, do it with me.”

In the world people don't do for their own self, but they teach others; they say: “You do,” but they are not doing. But here you see – first we do and then we demonstrate; then we say for you to do.

QUESTION: I have developed a very, very poor method of meditation, very inaccurate, very sloppy meditations and sitting with You here – if we could do it as often as possible it would be very, very, very helpful for all of us.

SANT JI: Definitely you will get help. Then after going back to Sant Bani Ashram you also sit and give advice to other people to sit. Because this is the advice only for sitting for meditation. When you sit with support you are thinking that you are doing meditation and you have done two hours, but most of the time you are sleeping. So try to sit without any support so when you feel sleepy you will fall down and you will know, “I was sleeping.”

QUESTION: What to do with severe pain in the legs and the knees?

SANT JI: You have the pain whenever you sit, or you have it always?

QUESTION: When I cross my legs only.

SANT JI: You do it gradually. Just sit for fifteen minutes today, then half an hour, like that. Don't give more time only on one day – do it gradually. Sit cross-legged only for short times.

QUESTION: Then the rest I can sit differently or on chairs?

SANT JI: Yes. And sometimes massage here. You can sit on a chair, but you develop this type of sitting also.

QUESTION: I have had these problems for about five years now. It has been a big problem.

SANT JI: That will go away if you will gradually develop it.

QUESTION: I haven't been meditating as much since I had the baby and now you explain that it is best to sit without back support. I have told myself that I should first start meditating more and then become accustomed to not sitting with back support.

Would it be best to just begin meditating more without back support? Or should I do what I said the first thing.

SANT JI: If you can control your sleep. If you are not feeling sleepy when you are sitting with back support, then you can sit in that way. Sitting without support is only to control your sleep. This type of sitting is only to control sleep. If you can control sleep then there is no harm in sitting in a chair or with any back support. And while you are sitting in a chair don't move any part of your body. Be still when you sit on a chair. And if you will move then whatever you see within will go away and you will be confused.

And for the ladies, we have to attend the worldly responsibilities, our babies and like that. But in doing Simran we don't have to sit. We can do that while we are working, while we are walking and even while we are talking. So we should develop that practice also – repeating the Names.

QUESTION: Does this mean that when we do sit for meditation we should do more Bhajan – practice more Bhajan – because we have done more Simran while we have been doing our responsibilities?

SANT JI: You can't do more Simran and you can't tell that you have done more Simran. The people who do more Simran – Simran is going on automatically within them. And only because of Simran can you take your soul upwards to the seat of the soul that is behind the two eyebrows. And you can't say that you have done more Simran. So while you sit for meditation you are not to sit more for Bhajan but also for Simran, seeing Light.

And you people forget Simran sometimes for many hours, sometimes for many days, unless you meet some Satsangi or you go to any Satsang, you don't remember the Simran, or unless you sit for meditation. And even when you sit for meditation the mind brings so many other thoughts and you forget Simran then also.

I give you this advice only because if you will do Simran while you are doing any other work, when you sit for meditation you won't have to sit for a long time repeating the Names to bring your attention to the seat of the soul. As soon as you sit for meditation, within a few minutes you will go up. In the ancient times, Saints gave only the Simran to the true seeker. And when he completed the course of Simran, then only, they gave the Sound Current. But many incidents happened that before the disciple could complete the course of Simran, either the disciple left the body or the Master left the body. So Simran is only to vacate the nine openings and to bring the soul to the seat of the soul and after that it is the work of Sound Current to pull your soul. In Kali Yuga or the Iron Age, Guru Nanak and Swami Ji Maharaj and many other Saints started giving full initiation, that is for seeing Light and hearing the Sound.

But we are not doing Simran and are always thinking about the worldly things while we are traveling or doing any new thing.

And now you can think of your own self whether everything I am saying is true or not. The satsangi who has completed the course of Simran – he has not to sit for a long time – as soon as he will sit he will be up. He will have no problems, no complaints. His problem is solved.

COMMENT: It's hard to believe that this might really happen.

SANT JI: What do we do? Master Sawan Singh used to say that it is a Punjabi proverb that we ask for the cart and we ask for the luggage and moreover we ask for the luggage to be put on the cart – we are not ready to do anything. We want everything ready-made. So in the same way what do we people do? After getting initiation we always say to Saints that we should not do Simran; we should not suffer the pain; but you should give us all things ready-made.

When Saints come and hold classes and teach you and say to sit like this, you will obey them and you will sit; but when they say to control your mind, you will not do that and you will allow your mind to go and wander wherever it wants.

The main thing is that you should control your thoughts. You should not let your mind think anything else while sitting in meditation. While sitting in meditation if you are going to think any evil thoughts it is as if you are abusing your Master, you are insulting your Master. It is the same as if you are doing any wrong deed in front of your father or elderly people.

QUESTION: I don't think I have ever, maybe only about four or five times since I have been initiated, had successful meditations because I have always given in to lust and I have always given in to anger and pride and I haven't put in much time. And I have done many things to insult my Master. And since I have been here I have done many things to insult Him too, and even hearing You say it, I know it is true, but my heart is like a stone. I'd almost rather he dead than be like this. But I can say that and even now I should just be crying to say something like this to a Saint because it's such a horrible thing to admit. How can I be such a heartless person?

SANT JI: Gradually you have to leave the pride which you have in your mind and completely surrender yourself to Master. For what thing are you having pride – for your health or for your young age? If you have pride for your health you can see any man suffering and if you have fever for two days, then you will no longer have very good health. And if you are having pride that you are wealthy, then you can see the poor man. Nothing will go with us. Then why should we have pride of all these things? So the disciple's mind should always be humble in this world.

Daily I am saying to you that you are the fortunate ones and the blessed souls that you have been given the opportunity to do seva and to run the Ashram and only through seva can you make your mind low and can you humble your mind.

QUESTION: I know that if it wasn't for Master's grace and if it wasn't that I was able to live at the Ashram I would long ago have gone – just ruined my life – just thrown it away. All my life, it's been like I've been trying to throw my life down the drain and even at the Ashram I once realized – once in a low moment I decided I wanted to run away and get drunk and I realized that I didn't know anyone now that drinks. And I laughed to think that Master has put me in a very special kind of prison where I can be made into a good man and I am grateful for that.

SANT JI: If anytime you have any bad thoughts which arise in your mind then you scold your mind a hundred times and never let that thought come again into your mind. If we have thoughts – if we think of doing any wrong deeds of drinking or eating, it is the same as if we are doing the deed. Better than that is if you always think of your Satguru and if you always think of the Radiant Form of your Satguru and always think that maybe sometime Satguru will call us and maybe sometimes we will see the Beloveds of Satguru who will again tell us to meditate and in that way you can develop your Simran and that will be very good for your meditations.

Not everybody in this world is fortunate to get initiation and not everyone in this world is fortunate to get seva. When you are doing seva you are getting something from the meditation of the people who are served by you and most of your sins go to the people who are being served by you. So you are the fortunate and you are blessed ones that you live in a very good and blessed atmosphere and do seva.

QUESTION: Our sins go to the people that we are serving? Did you say most of our sins go to the people we are serving and that the fruit of their meditation comes to us?

SANT JI: Yes.

QUESTION: But not everyone is fortunate enough to be able to be in a position to do seva. What about the householders? We just meditate, is that all?

SANT JI: If possible the householder can also do something in running the Ashram. For those who are not living in an Ashram they can do seva in any other way by helping to meet the funds and like that.

QUESTION: But our seva should be directed towards the Holy Cause?

SANT JI: Yes. The seva of a satsangi should never be given to any other except to the Ashram.

COMMENT: Oh, I see. It would be better to do seva to the Ashram than to do seva to someone else.

SANT JI: Yes. If you will serve the Ashram, you will have done something in the Ashram, then you will serve the people who are coming to the Ashram with what you did for the Ashram. It means you are serving the people through the Ashram.

QUESTION: What if you have a choice between someone on the outside who needs help and the Ashram also needs some work to be done. Which should you do, should you help this old person because he needs help or should you do the Ashram work?

SANT JI: You have to choose. You have to see, if you are going to serve or if you are going to help anyone, what he will do with that. If you are going to help with money, then how will he use that money? Will he use it for liquor or like that?

QUESTION: At Sant Bani Ashram we have found out about a lot of old people who need help. Some of them don't have transportation to go to doctors. Some of them are very lonely, they just need someone to talk to. Some of them need one thing or the other – a little help from outside. And we have gotten together and we have taken some time from our busy schedule to help these people. Is this good to practice?

SANT JI: Yes. That seva is good.

QUESTION: They are not initiates or anything like that.

SANT JI: But they still have Master in them. They still have God in them. This is my personal experience, a personal incident from my life, that there was one dog, he was a pet dog of some man, but once when he was walking he was shot through the back. He dragged himself back to the door of his owner. But the owner, now that the dog was useless, didn't even care to give him water or any help. So the dog was on the ground and couldn't walk. After that he was thirsty and hungry and he started crawling in the direction of my house. Somebody told me that there was a dog lying on my doorstep so I went there and found him. I went inside and first got a pan of water and put his head in the water and after four or five minutes the dog was aware that he was in water, and he was thirsty so he drank all the water. I took him into my home and gave him some medicine and some help and took out that bullet and after that I nursed him. In four or five months he was all right but his back was not in a good position. He couldn't walk. So after that he lived for five years and I kept him in my room. And at that time if I had thought: "he is not initiated" – even "he is not a man" but no, I thought, "God is in him," and I helped and I did seva only thinking that he was also a creation of God.

QUESTION: Can I ask one question?

SANT JI: Yes.

QUESTION: I have developed such poor meditation habits that sometimes I think I need something to really shock me into doing the work. Will that shock ever come? I want it; I want a major change – not just wishy-washy every day and nothing happens.

SANT JI: Which type of shock?

QUESTION: I don't know. Sometimes to have good fortune I think is not so good and I think that if I was in not such a good position in life it would be better for my meditation or my realization if I had a strong shock. I don't know. This is what I am asking. I want Him to take me by the shoulders like this [takes Pappu by the shoulders] and hit me against the wall . . .

SANT JI: Don't ask like that. Pray that Master should never put you to test, because it is very hard to pass the test. You are not obeying Him when He is explaining so lovingly, so when He will give you some pain or some shock then how will you tolerate that?

QUESTION: Yes, but Master has been explaining lovingly and I have been initiated for ten years and I'm still disobeying.

SANT JI: Master Sawan Singh used to say, "I pray to God that He should not put us to test." If you were going inside and could see what Satguru can do, you would never ask for that type of shock. You always pray to God, "Oh God, never give us any moment of pain. Now You have initiated me and I have surrendered to You. So now you take my care." Guru Nanak also said the same thing, that now I have surrendered my own self to You and now it is Your duty to take my care. Pray like that.

It is very difficult to pass the test. If the Guru gives any shock or puts the disciple to the test only one from millions can pass the test.

COMMENT: I think this is true. This is true what He said, because in my own life I was like with no parents and the people who raised me I always felt they did not love me and because of this I used to think, "Well, if no one else cares about my life then I won't care about it either and I will throw it away." And then only when I met Master did I see that someone did care about my life. And only since then have I started to care and I think it is a very great blessing that Master cares about my life. He cares much more than I do and I will try to live up to His example.

SANT JI: We came down to love, but we have forgotten. It doesn't matter if anybody is loving you or not, but you have to do your duty – that is to love all. There is no expense, there is no burden in love.

QUESTION: That's why all men came to the world is to love?

SANT JI: Yes. And only in man-body can we love all. If we are given any other body we don't have any sense of empathy with others. But only in man-body we can do that. You always have love in your mind and never let your mind be dry – without love.

1977 February: One Who is Thirsty Will Ask for Water

Sant Ajaib Singh Ji answers questions after meditation on the morning of December 12, 1976

QUESTION: I'm finding when I have a penetrating gaze as my primary attention, I see more light but if my first objective is to hold the Simran steady, then I don't see as much. What I see is steadier but there is not as much to see. Is it better to put the primary attention on the Simran and to see less but have it more still, or to have a more penetrating gaze and then have the Simran come along from time to time as an added boost?

SANT JI: The best thing is first to make your Simran perfect. It would be better for you to do more Simran first because, if you will be perfect in your Simran, then for your further progress, you will not have any difficulty. If you will not be perfect in your Simran, you can't go ahead. Where you are, you will stay there. You can overcome the lacking of Simran by doing Simran while you are doing any other work, and then while you are sitting, you will not have to put much attention on your Simran. It will come by its own self.

QUESTION: [in Hindi, the idea being:] The inner cinema is the best cinema.

SANT JI : I had told you previously also that it is bhot achcha [very good]. Now you have to see only this cinema. Give up the outer cinema.

QUESTION: Very good. I have a question about the different color lights within: is there any gradation in them? For instance is red better than white or is white better than green?

SANT JI: The Light which will give you bliss and happiness is the best. Ultimately, you will see that Light which was described to you at the time of initiation. On the first plane, you will see that Light; on the second plane, you will see that Light. So in the beginning, you are seeing these different colors of Light, but this will culminate in the Light which you were told of at the time of initiation. Yesterday I told you that there is a movie within. You will see sometimes very good things which will please your mind in the beginning. Then better will come, and then again better than that, and in the end the best will come. Within is more bliss and happiness.

QUESTION [young boy]: I saw more Light than yesterday.

SANT JI : Try to see this Light daily. You have to increase the Light and don't lose the Light. Whatever you have, you have to maintain and increase it. You should tell your daddy, "You see, you have been initiated for so many long years and I am initiated just now." When you see that your father is going out for useless things and wandering here and there, tell him to do meditation.

[To boy's father:] You have to obey his advice on meditation. You should not say, "I am senior to you. You have just been initiated and I have been initiated fourteen years or more." Maharaj Kirpal Singh, the True Lord, He used to say that in Sant Mat there is no difference of years. A pure and loving soul, if it comes in contact with a Saint, is just like putting fire near dry gunpowder. Many people say of somebody, "he is a new initiate;" but what is there, new or old? This is not government service!

In Lahore, Master Sawan Singh initiated one general. He had initiation from Agra also and from many other places. He also went to a man named Shivbrat Lal and got initiation from him. And when he came to Master Sawan Singh, Master Sawan Singh initiated him. But at the time of initiation, he didn't see anything within – no Light, nothing. Master Sawan Singh told him, "Well, now you have got the initiation and now you should do meditation and then you will see Light within." But after a few hours, Master Sawan Singh felt that he was a good loving soul and He should give something to him – some Light for him to see. So He called him and He put one statement before that general: "that the educated man or the worldly-wise man, his thoughts are very potent." But that general did not agree with that. He said, "I don't agree." So Master Sawan Singh said, "Come on, I will show you."

And He called the general's daughter, who was nine years old. And then Master Sawan Singh told him, "All right, now I will give you living evidence of what I said." And Master Sawan Singh told that girl, "Come on, daughter. You close your eyes and look between and behind the two eyebrows." And Master Sawan Singh then gave her the slightest attention and she was going up. She was reporting the various lights and many good things which she was seeing within. And after that, that man agreed, "Yes, because the children don't have very many thoughts scattered in the world, it is very easy for them to collect their thoughts." And whatever attention they have been given from the Master, they are very receptive to that. But the wise people or the grown-up people, they always compare the statements of the Master, either with books or with other things. So they are not so receptive to the Master's good. But the children, because they have not read many books and their attention is not scattered in the world, are more receptive. So in the same way, in Sant Mat, it makes no difference whether you are a child or an old man, but everything depends on your thoughts and your attention.

QUESTION: I teach public school and I teach children that are Thomas's age and I've often wondered if periods of meditation for them as a whole class would be a good thing.

SANT JI: Who will be responsible for them?

QUESTION: I don't know.

SANT JI: Swami Ji Maharaj says that unless you cross the Daswan Dwar or unless you reach the third plane, never advise anybody about meditation. If a Saint or a Master is authorizing you to do that, then He is responsible. If they meditate and if Kal takes some demonic shape and comes within them; and if they are afraid of that and fear fills their hearts, then what is the remedy for that? What can you do then?

QUESTION: Nothing.

SANT JI: I have seen many grown-up men also who have been suffering from this thing.

QUESTION: I also teach young children and one of the exercises I'm supposed to teach them is that they all sit quietly, not making any sounds. They can close their eyes or open their eyes, whatever, but they're supposed to sit quietly.

SANT JI: Well, you are telling them only to sit quietly and that's good. To be quiet sometimes is good; but he is talking about meditation. To be quiet for some time in the day is very good.

QUESTION: Sometimes I sit with my daughter who's not initiated. Would it be better to just tell her to sit quietly or should I tell her more about meditation? She's inclined toward being initiated but she's not.

SANT JI: What more can you tell about meditation? You can tell her only to keep quiet and to sit. Only a perfect Master or the person who has been authorized by the perfect Master can tell them more about meditation. If you tell them, it is not to their benefit, and you will also lose.

QUESTION: It's not good to tell people to look between the eyes and be quiet, if they ask how we meditate? Not giving them the Names of course, but just to tell them to look between the two eyes, straight ahead?

SANT JI: It would be better if you give them literature regarding Sant Mat rather than to tell them anything; because after reading that, they should be more inclined towards the Naam and then they can progress very rapidly.

QUESTION: Something to read?

SANT JI: Yes, some literature to read. This is an incident of a place named Karunpur. There was one man there who was initiated by Master Kirpal; and once he told his wife to sit and look between and behind the two eyebrows. And she sat there and when she got up from that position, after an hour and a half, she went mad. She was an illiterate girl but she was speaking Arabic, Persian and many languages. And after speaking with other people, she would get a stick and beat them. She was mad. So both husband and wife came to me. At that time, I was living at 16PS and that husband told me everything. So I asked him "Why have you done this thing?" and I told him to go see Master. They did go to see Him; but on the first meeting, Master told him "because you have done this mistake, now you have to suffer for it. What can I do for you now?" But after requesting, He was gracious to them and with Master's grace, she was all right.

Naam is not an ordinary thing. It is a responsibility. One who initiates takes on the responsibility to take you back Home. So don't tell anybody about meditation: only if you can be responsible. You can give literature to the people to read. If Master authorizes you, then you can frequently do His work.

QUESTION: In Spiritual Elixir, the Master gives a description on how to meditate. Should that not be given to them?

SANT JI: No, that may be given to them. Because if they will read, they will also be desirous to know more about that, to put it into practice; they will be more desirous after reading from books. And then they will have a yearning to learn that practice.

QUESTION: At my work, because they know that I meditate, people ask me a lot about meditation but I don't think they are so interested that they want to make the commitment that has to be made on this Path. When they ask about meditation, if I say to do something that helps their concentration, is that bad?

SANT JI: Guru Nanak Sahib said that only if you find a good customer should you sell your goods; otherwise you will be throwing them away. So you have to be very selective in who you give advice to. It would be better if you simply give the literature of Master to them. Here also many people, some of them officers, or government officials, come to me and start arguing with me. They're not interested in this Path but they want to know, "Who is God? Where is He living?" They ask this type of question. What do I do? I simply tell them to read the books written by the perfect Masters or to read the literature regarding Sant Mat; and after reading those books, they may get interest.

I know one thing: one who is thirsty will simply ask for water but one who is not thirsty will inquire everything about water – from where it comes; how is it made; is it tasty or not? So you should be very selective and you should see whether he is a good customer and will absorb your teachings, and only then give the literature to him.

QUESTION: I wrote a book about the Ten Gurus and I gave one copy to Master and gave a copy to Russell. He was going to put it – the last I spoke with him – in the Sant Bani Magazine. And Judith suggested I mention it to you.

SANT JI: I have not seen what you have written in that. If I had seen that I would have commented. But if you find that it is good, that it will help the people, then it is a good seva.

QUESTION: Shall I send a manuscript to you?

SANT JI: Send it to Pappu, and I will read it. To publish good thoughts and good articles in Sant Bani is one of the good sevas for mankind because when people will read that, their thoughts will be diverted towards God.

QUESTION: Will you bring most of Master's children in America to you eventually? Will they understand who you are?

SANT JI: If they will get rid of their mind, they will understand. If they will be under the control of the mind, they will never understand. Because if they are going within, they will understand now also. There are many pure souls on whom Master is gracious; only by the slightest glimpse, they understand. But there are many souls who are neither doing meditation nor are understanding other people. And Master is also not gracious to them. This all depends on fortune. You see, the initiates of Master Sawan Singh who came to Master Kirpal Singh, they were benefited and they got something. But those who were always opposing Master Kirpal, they didn't get anything. Those who came in the refuge of Master Kirpal Singh, those initiates of Master Sawan Singh, I have heard from many of them that they were seeing Master Sawan and Master Kirpal. And I met many people who were opposing Master Kirpal and I found them dry; they were dry.

QUESTION: It seems to me that people can't help the way that they're inclined though. I was inclined to follow Sant Ji before I even saw Him. And the way became open, not because I have any virtue but I just got the money and the good fortune to come here to see Him. Why is that? Is it all due to the past karmas?

SANT JI: It is Master's grace.

QUESTION: It's not because I controlled my mind to tell the difference, I can guarantee that.

SANT JI: No, this is Master's grace.

QUESTION: I have heard that it says in the Adi Granth that "God leads people to the Path and He leads them away from it." Is this true?

SANT JI: God leads them toward the Path, but He never leads them away from the Path. It is only the mind. Mind deceives them and mind is the agent of Negative Power, Kal. And because of the mind, they go away from the Path.

QUESTION: I was told this and I had trouble believing it – that God leads the chosen few away from the Path, so I wanted to ask.

SANT JI: You can make an entire study of the Adi Granth and you will find that nowhere is it written that God leads you away from the Path.

QUESTION: I'm glad it's true.

SANT JI: In Adi Granth, it is written "O Nanak, only they come to the Path who have been chosen from Sach Khand." It is also written in the Adi Granth that the unfortunate ones will never come to the Path whether the Guru is sitting near them or whether the Guru takes birth in their own homes – the unfortunate ones will never know about it. Those who go away from the Path go because mind troubles them. That's why they go away from the Path, and they have to take one or two lives more. But Maharaj Sawan Singh Ji used to say that someone like that has to come back on the Path and he will start from where he left.

QUESTION: How do you tell when the mind is telling you that you're tired and when you are really tired? Do you look to the amount of hours you have slept and do it in that way accordingly?

SANT JI: I told you previously how to distinguish between the dictates of mind and the voice of soul. Your mind will always tell you that you have meditated a lot because you are tired. It will say: "Now get up from your meditation and sleep. You need some rest." But soul will never tell you that you have done much meditation or that you are tired.

QUESTION: But what happens when you're really tired?

SANT JI: Then what is there? You take some rest. And then after you are refreshed, again continue your work. You have to take care of your body also.

QUESTION: So we have to be practical: make sure we have enough sleep and then be done with sleep after that? That's what you're saying?

SANT JI: Once you have slept the amount that is required by your body, then what is the need of sleeping afterwards? But if you will not take care of your body, how can you make this body meditate?

Yesterday also I told you and I am telling you daily that you have to make a regular schedule. That you have to go to work at this time; you have to get up at this time; you have to meditate at this time. Make a regular schedule.

1977 April: No Fixed Time for Lovers

Sant Ajaib Singh asks and answers questions after meditation on the morning of November 14, 1976

SANT JI: Yes, Mr. Astrologer? [Laughter]

QUESTION: Well, I was at the eye focus most of the time but it was hard for me to concentrate at one point. I guess that is just a matter of practice.

SANT JI: How was your meditation early in the morning?

QUESTION: It was – experience wise – it was better than just now. But I don't think I was as concentrated. But I had more experience.

SANT JI: For how much time do you sit in the morning?

QUESTION: Well, I got up at one, for a little while, then went back to... I wanted to ask You about that. I got up after having slept for about three hours. And, I got up to meditate and I meditated for a little while and I thought, "Oh, I'll be real tired later on if I don't go back to sleep and then get up at three." And so I went back to sleep until three. And then I meditated from three to seven or seven-thirty. Or rather I was trying to meditate during that time. I was, you know, sitting for meditation. I wasn't fully conscious the whole time, I guess.

SANT JI: You people, when you sit for meditation, you should try to get more benefit when you are sitting. First of all, you should try to weed out the worldly thoughts from within. And then you are to see that your Simran is going well and your mind is always occupied in Simran. You are to notice if your mind is doing Simran or if you have stopped doing Simran. And when you sit you should be fully concentrated. Many times we are saying that we are not seeing light or light is not standing still there. This is because of our mind; because our mind makes us forget our Simran. And that's why we are not seeing light or the light is not standing still there. So when you sit you should be fully concentrated and you must do Simran all the time.

We have seen many lovers who, before sitting for meditation, they will look at their watch and note the time. And after two or three hours, when they will get up from the sitting, again they will look at their watch and they will say, "Oh, I have sat for three hours." But they will never think that, "From this three hours how much time was I fully concentrated and how much work have I done?" So we should always be aware of how much we have progressed or for how much time we have been fully concentrated; we should not only note the time of our sitting.

You?

QUESTION: Things would come all of a sudden. I would say that for the first forty-five minutes my mind was very concentrated and I was at the eye focus. There were many different lights. And then the next ten or fifteen minutes I became aware of my body again.

SANT JI: Yesterday also I advised you – don't give any attention to your body. I am giving you only that much time in which you can sit very easily. I didn't have any fixed or limited time when I was sitting. And I never thought I had to sit for two hours, four hours or six hours. And now I am giving you only very little time. One hour is not much.

But I am giving you only a little time because you are not accustomed and you can sit easily for this time. It is not much time; it is very little.

QUESTION: [To Pappu] I was trying hard to concentrate and I was keeping my posture steady. After He closed the window it was hard to re-concentrate again. And then my attention dropped because my legs started hurting.

SANT JI: I closed the window because the boys were making noise but you have not to notice what is surrounding you. You have to do your work. You have to be fully attentive to your work. It doesn't matter if anything is going on around you. You should not pay any attention to that, but you should be attentive to your own work. Understand it like this: when you are driving a car and there is a big crowd there but you are fully attentive to the road. If you are attentive to the side of the road you will definitely meet with an accident. So this is just like driving a car in a very crowded place, you should be fully attentive in front and not on any side.

QUESTION: It was much better, more easy to sit without the back support. The first part mind was exercising opposition. But later it was much better. It was like Master has the story about the calves coming from a long distance and how... it felt very much like that, very delicious.

SANT JI: You have to try more. And when you go back to your home you should try to sit without support. [On to next person]

QUESTION: It was very good and I'm having the best meditation of my life. I'm being able to stay at the eye focus much more than I usually am. Similarly to what Richard said, I'm there but not always really penetrating within. I'm usually at the eye focus and being able to do Simran. Feeling a lot of things. An experience that happened once, it happened also at the time of initiation and a few other times, that during meditation I felt a definite separation from my body. It was like my mind says, "Maybe I should open my eyes to see what is going on." You know, that sort of feeling like that. And feeling very much being separated from the body and then slowly I get attached again.

SANT JI: You should never try to open your eyes and see what is going on.

QUESTION: That was just a curiosity. I did but it was just to sort of indicate what the feeling was like. It kind of was like, you know, just feeling like that of, "Wow. Something is happening. I wonder what it is?" That was the mind asking but I didn't actually open my eyes.

SANT JI: To distract you from meditation your mind was advising this thing. Yesterday also I told you that your mind is playing all the tricks. When you are having pain or when you are having thoughts this is your mind playing tricks. He will not allow you to sit for meditation but he will always advise you to get up from the meditation or open your eyes. So whatever thing comes – whatever thing is negative for meditation – this all comes from mind. Sometimes it plays this type of trick that when the satsangi is getting interest in the meditation at once the mind will make him feel like he is dying; and the satsangi will at once get up from meditation because he is afraid of death. So he will lose all interest in the meditation.

QUESTION: The first part the thoughts were very scattered and the second part was much more concentrated.

SANT JI: You should eat after thinking what food is good for you; and whatever amount of food is good for your body, you should eat only that.

Maharaj Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “It is not good for a satsangi that he should first fill up his belly and then he should use some digestive tablets to digest that food. No, a satsangi should be in control of his eating and he should eat less.”

QUESTION: I had quite a bit of pain but it traveled up into a toothache and into a headache. [Everyone laughs]

SANT JI: Why does your tooth hurt? You have this toothache only now, or yesterday did you also have it?

QUESTION: Just now.

SANT JI: How is it now?

QUESTION: It’s all right.

SANT JI: Yesterday also I gave you the example of Swami Ji Maharaj’s hymn that sometimes the mind will act like a friend and he will give you advice to get up. Sometimes it will act like your enemy and will trouble you. This is all coming from mind. When you go back to your country you should not be a slave of your mind and you should never think, “I am feeling lazy so I should get up from meditation.” Or – “I have a little trouble so I should get up from meditation.”

I have done service in the army. And it is a rule there that if anybody is sick he should report to the doctor. And it is up to the doctor’s will whether he will give him rest for full day or half day because the doctor knows best what he needs. If he is needing rest for a full day, he will give him that. Or, if he will need rest for half a day, he will give him that. And he can even not give any rest. It doesn’t matter if he is having some pain or not; he has to attend to the duties of government.

So in Sant Mat also we have to be brave like a soldier. We should get up from our meditation only if our Satguru says to us from within, “You get up from the meditation.” Otherwise not.

And up until that we should sit for meditation. It doesn’t matter if we are having any pain or any suffering. You see, we are attending our worldly duties and our government duties even if we are having pain. So in the same way we should always be afraid of Satguru and we should obey His commandments. You see, attending to our worldly responsibilities if we have any pain we will take medicine and we will attend to that responsibility. And the same thing is for meditation. But one can do meditation more when he's having pain.

QUESTION: About the first fifteen minutes it was very scattered. Then it was more at the eye focus and much light. But I have trouble when I get to the eye focus. I see a wide area and I try to concentrate in the middle and I seem to have trouble concentrating at one point – at the very center.

SANT JI: You should not have any difficulty in concentrating because now you are very far away from your country, from your family and from your worldly responsibilities. So weed out all the worldly thoughts from within and try to forget everything.

QUESTION: It's very sweet. I have lots of pain but it was – I am finding the refuge.

SANT JI: Try more. When you go back try more. You?

QUESTION: I was working too hard today. I was too tired.

SANT JI: Why?

QUESTION: Why? I was up very early in the night. I mean I should have taken rest again I think.

SANT JI: You should try to take some rest. When you go for sleeping after satsang, nine o'clock, you should take sleep up until three o'clock. And after that you have to put your time in meditation without having any rest or without sleeping.

QUESTION: I went to sleep right after satsang but I didn't sleep very long. It may have been a couple of hours. So it was... I was up probably . . . I don't know when. It was many hours before the bell rang.

SANT JI: I am ringing the bell only for your convenience, so that you can sleep without having any worries up to three o'clock. And after that you should sit for meditation. The bell is rung so that you should not think that, "We are too late," or "We are missing anything." Because up to three o'clock you are having full rest. And after that you should not be tired and you are refreshed and you can sit. Because when we are sleeping our surat is not there; we are not conscious of our body. So when we sit for meditation right after we get up, it is very helpful for our rising up.

QUESTION: I have a question similar to that. If we wake up before three o'clock – say if we wake up at one o'clock – should we get up and meditate or should we just wait until three o'clock.

SANT JI: It depends on your body. Can you sit for the whole night and meditate?

QUESTION: Not yet – no. [Laughs] I have a hard time doing it for an hour.

SANT JI: Sometimes it happens that because of worldly thoughts you wake up very soon. And, after that, when you sit for meditation, sleep is also bothering you and you cannot concentrate fully. And in that way you cannot get much benefit and you cannot put in much time. But if you get full rest and after that you sit, you can be benefited more. But there is no fixed time for lovers. Time is fixed only for worldly people because worldly people think, "We have to sit for two hours or three hours." But real lovers are always remembering Him and they are always in His sweet remembrance.

Hazrat Bahu says, “The time is fixed only for the foolish people but the real lovers don’t have any fixed time; they are always remembering Him.” And Guru Nanak Sahib also says, “If a lover forgets the Master only for one second even, he feels a very wide gulf in his heart, width of separation.” And again He says that if you forget Him even for a second a gap of fifty years is made. “I feel a gap of separation for fifty years if I forget Him even for a second.”

Mahatma Charan Das says, “We should remember Him with each and every breath and not waste time talking with others.” And he says, “Except Satguru there is no true relative.”

QUESTION: Sometimes, for long periods in meditations, one form is easier than another. For instance sometimes meditating for Sound is more productive.

SANT JI: That’s good. You should try to hear the Sound Current. When you get up early in the morning, you can do that also. That’s good.

QUESTION: I feel I’m missing something though there’s not light also when I’m meditating.

SANT JI: You have more worldly thoughts in comparison to the thoughts for meditation. So now you weed out the worldly thoughts and dwell on the thought for meditation – for Satguru. And you remember the lesson which Satguru has taught you. I am seeing in your forehead that you need to forget a lot of things about your worldly life, because you will get nothing if you will think of what has happened, so forget it. And now you spend your life either in doing seva in Sant Bani Ashram or doing meditation. And try to forget everything which has happened in your past life, and make your future.

1977 May: Weed Out Your Faults With Love

Sant Ajaib Singh answers questions after morning meditation at Sant Bani Ashram, New Hampshire, May 8, 1977

SANT JI: Yes, now you can ask any questions about meditation.

PERSON A: Very often when I’m reading the teachings from this Path I come across the statement that the Master is always protecting the disciple, and I find this difficult to reconcile with the statement that if the disciple does not do certain things, there is only failure.

SANT JI: If after going to school, we will not study what our teacher is teaching us, if the teacher is telling us to change our habits and study, but we do not do that, we will not progress or succeed very soon. Similarly, when we come to the school of Masters, that is Satsang, Masters tell us to change our habits and do what they are telling us; if we do not do that, they are telling us that we will not progress very soon. Once a girl asked Master Sawan Singh, “What is the need of doing meditation when Satguru is going to liberate us?” Master replied, “There is no doubt that Master will take you, but, at that time, you will have much pain, because you will be involved in the world, in the habits of the world, and you will find much pain in leaving all that.” Hazur Maharaj Kirpal Singh Ji used to say that if you want to take off a piece of silken cloth from a thorny bush, if you take it up at once there is some possibility that it will be torn, but if you take it off slowly, easily, it can be taken without tearing it. I have seen with my own eyes in my area that the people who do not change their habits and do not meditate even after coming on this Path, no doubt Master is coming to take them at their death time, but, still, because they have not changed their habits, they cannot stand in front of the Light, the glory of Master, and they suffer much pain at that time also.

If we will change our bad habits, our worldly life will also become easy. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that a satsangi should present himself as an example to others. Once there was a time in India when the disciples of Guru Gobind Singh were called as witnesses because people knew that the disciples of Guru Gobind Singh would never speak lies. And there was a time when Maharaj Sawan Singh's disciples were also called as witnesses, for the same reason. Just think: because they had good habits and qualities people understood them as good. It is a proverb in India that if the dog becomes mad, the master is blamed.

If we have bad habits, what will the world say? That's why we have to change our habits. If a child says, "My father has a lot of wealth, why should I work?" that son's heart is dead. And people also criticize him because he is idle.

Similarly, we should try to carry our own burden. We should not give our burden to Master. If we give all our work to the Master, it is not our bravery. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that people who are repeating, "Master will take, Master will take," that condition is just like saying, "You give us the wealth, then give us the cart to carry that, you should give us everything."

There was one satsangi named Labh Singh in our area. He was initiated by Baba Sawan Singh. After getting initiated, he was drinking wine and eating meat. And in his last days he suffered for three years. He couldn't turn his side. He was not even aware of the call of nature. When he prayed to Master Sawan Singh, always a voice came from within: "I have to take you after purifying you." I went to see him a few hours before he left the body, because his house was just opposite to the ashram. He asked me whether he would be liberated, whether Master would come to take him. I told him that the brave Satguru has promised you and He will come, but now He is finishing your karmas. That's why the mistakes, the things which we have done throughout our life, become a problem at the time of death.

Similarly, there was a Master Kirpal satsangi in Ganga Nagar who sold vegetables. When his death time came, one month before he left the body, he said, "Master is now meeting me, and Master is telling me, 'you were putting water on the vegetables and you were cheating on weight.'" "For one month he requested like anything, "Please forgive me this time; I will not do it again." All his family came to 77 RB, Sant Bani Ashram. They said, "We are promising, if Master forgives him, we will never do it again." He was in the body for 15 days after that, and he didn't get anything from inside.

I have seen in my own life that those who are doing mistakes have to suffer; they have to finish off reaction of that mistake in this world. Guru is not softhearted, because he is determined to take us back to our home. With whatever way we can go back home, he uses that way. You see if a cloth is very dirty, the washer man is even striking that cloth on the stone; but still it is removing the dirt from that cloth. Similarly, there is no doubt that Satguru will take us. And when He's purifying us, definitely we will have pain. And that's why to bear that pain we are told to meditate; and we have to meditate. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that the Negative Power is fighting with the Masters for every single account of karmas of the disciple.

That's why we should never have bad habits within us; instead, we should have good habits.

PERSON B: Master, the things that we do suffer, are they always from the Negative Power or is it the Master's way also, helping us to pay the karma that we owe?

SANT JI: That is because of our own karmas. Neither Master is giving us any pain or happiness, nor God is giving us any happiness or pain. Whatever karmas or whatever actions we have done in our past life, we are suffering or enjoying the reactions of that. This is the pralabdha karma. It is predestined and we have to suffer or enjoy that. Saints never touch anyone's pralabdha. But they extend all feasible help.

PERSON C: The five dacoits have made a wreck of my life to say the least; but, since I have been in Your presence, near You, anywhere near You, I feel Divine protection, like a big bird protector.

And I have no question; just a statement that I really feel protection from my own lust, anger, ego and I'm very glad that you have come.

SANT JI: The five dacoits are giving troubles to everybody. That's why we are going to any person who is free from all these five dacoits so that we also get some protection from them. Kabir Sahib says that the beating of Yama, the Angel of Death, is very bad. He says that it is very difficult to bear it; but, He says, I got one sadhu and he has saved me from it.

PERSON D: Master, when I am near You I feel very much love for You, but when I'm not near You I feel a loss like it is gone. I want more love for the inner Master. Will You give this to me?

SANT JI: Yes, I am telling you, I have nothing except love.

PERSON E: Could You speak on the importance of the diary?

SANT JI: Once Guru Gobind Singh went to a town named Roop Nagar in the Punjab. And there many satsangis came to him. Guru Gobind Singh asked them, "Have you counted your sins?" Then they replied, "We are illiterate and we cannot keep any account." At that time in India only a few were learned, one out of thousands. But Masters have their own ways of explaining things to the disciples; they have many ways. So Guru Gobind Singh told them, "When you fail in anything, when you make any mistake, you take one stone and put it aside. And at the end of the day you count all the stones: how many stones are there and how many piles you have done." When they had practiced this for a month, there was a big heap of stones. And when they all met again, they said, "This is a very great burden. How will we finish off this burden? How will we stop all these bad mistakes? Our Master has to finish off all this." So they made up their minds that from then onward they would not do any mistakes and they would not collect any more stones.

After some time when Guru Gobind Singh again went there to do satsang, he asked the disciples: "Yes, have you kept the accounts?" They said, "Yes, we kept account for one month and we collected a lot of stones; but now we have decided that we will not collect any more stones because we will not do any more faults.” They obeyed the commandments of Guru Sahib only for one month and in that one month they perfected themselves.

The same power sat in the body of Kirpal and He advised us, He taught us according to the means going on in the world at this time. He told us to keep an account of our sins. You are learned people, so you can keep the diary. But it is a pity that some people who are initiated 25 years back, or 30 years back, are still filling out the diary forms; and the sin which we have done in the last month, we are again repeating that.

In India, in the villages, if anyone has to decide any lawsuit, five people of the villages get together and they decide. And it is a proverb that when those five people make any decision, the man to whom this decision is applied, he says, “Yes, well, I am welcoming this decision;” but when the five elders go away, he does not do what was decided.

Now we are filling in the diary forms but we are not giving up our faults. I tell you that if you keep account for one month, and you see how much meditation you have done and how many sins you have done, if you are really sincere, you will not need to fill out the diary forms again. We understand this as ceremony or custom to fill the diary forms. But whatever we are writing in the diary, we are not following that. We should weed out the faults with love, with the same love with which we record the mistake. According to the Masters, if everyone had kept the diary, all the souls would not be trapped, would not be deluded in the regions of mind, and Master would have manifested within them.

When I was initiated by Master, I was initiated in a separate room; and in the other room where the other people were being initiated I saw that they were given diary forms. So I requested, “Give me the form so that I can also keep the diary.” But Master replied, Your life is your diary.”

So we should mould our lives according to the diary. Master had not given us the diary to just keep filling up as a daily account. If we will keep the accounts sincerely for one month and count all the sins, our soul will tremble at how many sins, how many faults we have done in that month.

PERSON F: Well, I tried what Master Kirpal said – to take one thing at a time and work on it – and it looks like Kal pushes you harder on that one.

SANT JI: It is his duty. One who has sown the seed, he will try all his means to save it. But we should strictly follow this because a very great Power is protecting us and the hand of a very great Power is over us, working overhead.

1977 June: To Solve the Mystery

This Question & Answer session, which includes a complete discourse, was given at Sant Bani Ashram in New Hampshire, at 6:30 a.m. after meditation on May 4, 1977.

DISCIPLE: I thank Thee so much. Thou hast returned me to the Light. Thou art our new-old doorway back to God. My conflicts are resolved. The Light was fantastic. I kept rising from one level of light to another. It was all scintillating Light, it was more tremendous than I can say. I thank God for having sent Thee. And I thank Master for being in such close communion with Thee. I thank Thee again for being our guide. I want to thank Master Kirpal for giving You so much love that You can give it to all of us. I want to thank God for giving You the strength that we all need.

SANT JI: Yes. Anyone can ask any question about meditation.

DISCIPLE: Since I've come here, every day my right knee becomes more sore, and this morning I sat, and within two minutes the pain was excruciating. I wonder if Master would recommend anything in particular? If I should sit less times? I'm sitting more times than I usually do. And when I walk the knee is sore, and when I sit the knee is sore, and it just seems to be sore all the time. What would you recommend?

SANT JI: You can sit on a chair for some time, that will help.

DISCIPLE: My knee is sore, but my heart is happy.

SANT JI: It will go away in a few days.

DISCIPLE: Master used to say to do Simran very, very slowly. Is it all right to do it very fast, if you feel that the pain is strong, and you can keep it away?

SANT JI: Master used to say this thing also: That when the worldly thoughts are coming in your mind very fast, at that time, to control those thoughts, do the Simran very fast. But when you are not having any worldly thoughts, when you are not having any thoughts which are disturbing you in your meditation, at that time you should do Simran neither very fast nor very slow.

DISCIPLE: I sometimes have problems with being sleepy. And sometimes taking a shower or taking a walk, or standing up, helps. But often it doesn't help, and as soon as I've stood up, I'm falling asleep. I'm wondering if there is anything else I can do?

SANT JI: I have told the dear ones who have been to Rajasthan, and those who are having the problem of sleep, that after doing all of the things you have mentioned, if still sleep is bothering you – I told them about Harmel, who is a sevadar there in the Ashram; he used to put a seed of black pepper in his mouth. And further, if sleep is still bothering you, you can carry a heavy weight on your head. Some people in our Ashram had a difficulty with sleep; in the morning time when they were meditating and sleep was bothering them, they carried a heavy burden on their head, and when they had practiced this for one or two days, sleep was not bothering them. And don't sit on any comfortable cushion or place. Then sleep will not come. Whenever we are sitting in a very comfortable position, no matter if we have taken a cold shower, or any other thing, when our body is getting any slightest comfort, then it feels sleepy, and sleep comes.

DISCIPLE: Master Kirpal used to say that if there is any tension in the body, our attention will go to that, and He used to say that there should be no tension in the body.

SANT JI: Daily I am telling everybody: "Don't make your body tense." If you are feeling tense at any time, you should not give any attention to that tension, and go on doing Simran.

DISCIPLE: On the subject of sleep, how long does it take the body to get out of the habit of sleeping about eight hours at a time – eight hours a night – and get into the habit of meditating more and sleeping six or less? And also, this morning, during the beginning of the meditation I was able to shout down the pain with Simran, as I had done before but towards the end of the meditation, the pain was so bad that I was actually shaking. And what would be the reason that before I was successful in subduing the pain and today I wasn't?

SANT JI: There is no fixed time for changing the habit of sleeping less and meditating more. It just depends upon your devotion. You can change your habit in one month, or if you don't want to do it, you cannot change, even if you are trying for all your life. Very often, not only today, but very often I have told everybody this thing: that sleeping after twelve-thirty or one o'clock in the night – it is not written in my heritage. Regarding the pain: When your attention is only on Simran, then you are not feeling the pain; but if the pain is coming, and you are giving even the slightest attention to the pain, and if you are losing your Simran, you are feeling much pain. Sometimes it happens with a practitioner that all the attention goes toward the pain, and he himself becomes a form of pain. At that time, he needs to do more Simran. Right from the beginning, if we keep our attention on Simran, we will never feel pain. And the practices which you are doing, if you do regularly, the pain goes away for all time. One main reason for getting this pain is that we are not regular in our meditation; we are meditating for ten days and then giving up for two days, and then again starting the meditation. Try to be regular in meditation without missing it.

DISCIPLE: Does it matter if we should get so absorbed in focusing our attention that we forget the order of the charged names?

SANT JI: Yes, it does. In that way, we will only be able to sit – our soul will not go up. Daily I am telling every dear one that you perfect your Simran in this way, just as the worldly thoughts are coming within you, without thinking of it, or without making any effort for it. If you will perfect this type of Simran, then you will not have any problem, because you will not be aware whether Simran is going on within you, or whether you have to start doing Simran. If we perfect our Simran so that it becomes just like those worldly thoughts, there is no power within us that can stop us from rising above. As soon as we sit for meditation, our soul will go right up. You can perfect this type of Simran very easily. During the daytime, when you are thinking about the worldly thoughts, give up that, and instead of that, always do Simran.

DISCIPLE: I would like to ask Master – this morning during meditation, my body was vibrating a lot, and it seemed like I was frozen in one position with my head thrown back and I just felt a lot of energy to my throat, and I didn't know what to do, I just kept saying Simran more and more and focusing my consciousness on my third eye. Is there anything I can do when that happens to me? I get like wave after wave of energy....

SANT JI: Yesterday also I told you to do more Simran. Today I was looking at your body again, and I saw that you were having the same problem, of getting jerks, choking, just like you were having yesterday. For two times your body felt a jerk. When thoughts are concentrated and Simran is lost, at that time one feels a jerk. The key to success is only Simran. And if you want to succeed in doing constant Simran, always keep your thoughts pure. Maharaj Ji used to say that the key to Sach Khand is Naam, and you can manifest Naam only with purity. With the devotion and love with which we are doing meditation and practices – with the same love and devotion we should try to abstain from the retarding factors of which Master has told us.

DISCIPLE: I like to wake up at three o'clock. Normally before you came, I would go to bed at nine, and get up at three, so I would get six hours of sleep. But since you're here, I don't get to bed till around ten, and get up at three, and I think that with five hours of sleep I have less control of my mind. Should I continue to get five hours of sleep or should I get six, and wake up at four, and have more control of my mind?

SANT JI: This is up to you. If you want to sleep for one more hour, you can sleep. But I am telling you about my own life. Unless I achieved the goal, I was not thinking about whether I slept for three hours or five hours or one hour; and I was always keeping this in my mind: that to rest is illegal. In God realization, we are not to keep any fixed accounts like a merchant; that we are to do only this fixed amount, or we are to do this practice only for the fixed amount of time. The man who cannot give up sleep for what? – for one hour for the sake of God, what else can he do for that God?

DISCIPLE: Sant Ji spoke about doing Simran with love. I think He said that you can't progress by doing Simran without love. You must create love within you. And I was wondering how we create love within us. Is it by obedience? or just doing Simran? Is it by Grace? I don't think I could create love within me...

SANT JI: Always frighten your mind, saying that the worldly things to which you are attached now, you have to leave these things – and they are all giving you pain and suffering. Always tell your mind about your real home, Sach Khand, and always frighten your mind with the torments of hell; tell your mind, "If you will not obey Him and if you will not do Simran, obeying your soul, you will have to again go into the earth." And always tell the uses of his real home to the mind.

DISCIPLE: Many times, when I start to concentrate, I feel like my body is falling backwards, and I'm afraid it's going to fall over, so I divert my attention to my body, and feel more pain. What can I do not to have that thought that it's going to fall over backwards? And the second part: Will you please repeat what you said about sleep after twelve-thirty or one at night?

SANT JI: If you don't give up the Simran, your body will never fall. Regarding sleep, I would like to tell you that right from my childhood I was feeling that I had lost something. And I was feeling this lacking always, in the days, and in the nights also. When my attention first went towards that, at that time I was seven years old. I was thinking, "Where does a man go after dying?" Sometimes I would meet one old man who was sitting on the way. He was always sitting in this position, leaning forward. He was very old. So I asked my mother, that "Why is that old man leaning forward?" So my mother replied, "This stage comes in everybody's life. Everybody has to become old some day." And that affected me very much. And I thought, "Why is man always changing? Why is man not remaining permanently in one position?" Then I felt sorry for my own body also, for when we cannot maintain our body for a long time, then what is the use of being attached to this body? And I saw that old man sitting in that way for one year, and after one year he left the body. And again when I saw that he was not there, I asked people, "Where has he gone?" So my mother told me that he had died. And I asked my mother, "Where does a man go after dying?" My mother replied, "I don't know." And in that state of innocence, I questioned myself: "When a man does not know where he goes after death, and when a man does not know whether he is coming back in this world or not, then why does a man like to be attached to this world?" This mystery of death troubled me always, day and night. My father had provided many facilities for my convenience, and he tried all his tricks, because he wanted to trap me in this world.

Because I was troubled by this mystery of death, I was always sleeping alone, so that I could think over this problem very deeply. But because I was a child, my mother used to come into my room, early in the morning – two o'clock, three o'clock – and she would find me sleeping on the floor, instead of in the bed. She rebuked me many times, "Why are you not sleeping on the bed?" She used to tell me that children should not think about devotion, that that was the work of old men. But the day before I had been thinking that when fires burn, the smallest sticks caught on fire very soon, and the bigger ones later. So I told her, "I understand that maybe I am going to die before you," and I was afraid that I should die without solving this problem of the mystery of death. Because I was thinking about this question so much, I lost my sleep. And I didn't like any worldly pleasures. Only to solve this mystery, I started off in search of Saints and Mahatmas. There was one brother-in-faith of my mother, who was living in our home; and when I asked him about my mystery, he told me to contact any Saint or Mahatma, because only they could solve that mystery. That's why I went to see many Saints and Mahatmas in India. I went to see all the Sikh so-called "Mahatmas," and many different types of Sadhus. At that time I was understanding that God was residing only in the holy temple of the Sikhs, which was a very costly building, and at that time I was understanding that the priest of that temple was very much respected by many people who were going there, so I thought that he would have met God or known God. But I was not satisfied with him; I was very much disappointed. Then someone told me about a mahatma in the Punjab who could transfer from his body into the body of a lion or tiger or any animal, and he could fly also, after transforming his body. I spent six months with him and I served him daily with my whole heart and being. And when he was pleased with me, because of my seva, he wanted to teach me his skill, without my asking; but I knew his real state. I told him, "I want to rise above the human body; I don't want to change my body into the bodies of animals. If I don't make the best use of this human body, then naturally I will come back in a lower body; but I want to rise above." So I didn't like the skill of transforming the body, and I didn't learn that. After that I was going to see another Mahatma, who had some knowledge of higher consciousness. And to whomever went to him, he would tell what was in that person's heart. But there also I was not satisfied, because I thought, "What is the use of doing the practice from which the soul gets no peace?"

After that I went into the refuge of Baba Bishan Das. Baba Bishan Das had many qualities. He was very strict; not everyone could go and stand in his refuge. And many times when I went to him, he did not treat me well; but when I came out of his room, feeling sad, I would see an old man sitting outside, who would sing a shabd about the diamond hidden within each of us. He was always telling me, "Maybe he will shower grace on you."

Baba Bishan Das didn't allow me to wear any good clothes and he didn't allow me to eat any good food, because in those days I was a young man.⁶ And when the Second World War started I joined the Army, with God's grace, because at that time people were not happy joining the army, and the government was putting them in the Army by force. But even after joining the army, I didn't like to go into cities, and I didn't eat any meat, or drink any wine. And the duty of the Army was very strict. But there also I had the same problem, that is, the mystery of death. I met a Mahatma there who told me that if a man dies in the Army, he goes to the heavens. That is why, even though I was not ordered to do so, I gladly accepted the offer to go into battle – because I wanted very much to see the heavens. But when I again came to Baba Bishan Das, he asked me, "What is there in the heavens?" He told me very clearly that in the heavens, birth and death are there also; fighting and enmity and love are also there – everything is there in the heavens. And whatever money I was getting from the Army, I was giving all that money to Baba Bishan Das and he was giving me only five rupees for my personal expenses. And whatever property I had of my own, from my family, I was giving that also to Baba Bishan Das, and he was making an Ashram of that. When we came back after fighting, after the war was over, we were posted in the hills of Simla for resting. One night, I felt a great longing to see Baba Bishan Das, and I started out at midnight to see him. At that time I was feeling that I was doing a lot of work – I was doing the work of bravery for Baba Bishan Das. And in the village in which he was living there were many relatives of mine living also. In order to get to his ashram, I had to go through that village, after getting off the train. Because I was a Sikh gentleman, and because I was a military man, and in the military they have orders that you have to fix your beard and mustache very well, using some fixer, because of all this I was well-dressed and I had fixed my beard and mustache; I was looking just like a gentleman.

⁶ At this time, Sant Ji would have been in his late teens.

So when I was going to see Baba Bishan Das, and the villagers, because they knew how Baba Bishan Das was going to treat me, were very much curious, and started talking with each other: "Look at this man! Now he is well suited and booted and when he goes to Baba Bishan Das, let us see how he will treat him." And when I went to see Baba Bishan Das, and I bowed right down to him, he pulled my beard and mustache down, and he removed all that fixer I had. My relatives who lived right there felt very sad, and they rebuked me. But my heart was not affected by any public shame. I understood this: "I am lacking in Karmas. My Karmas are not good, that is why the Mahatma is not gracious to me." And after some time, he gave me all he had, with very much grace.

After showering grace on me, he told me, "The Ashram that you have paid for – you have no right in that Ashram." He told me, "You are not to get attached to this place, because you have to travel a lot. Your goal is a higher goal." And he told me, "The One Who has to give you the rest of the thing, He will come to you by Himself."

Before getting initiation from Baba Bishan Das, I had the confusion, the problem of solving the mystery of death, and I was not sleeping much. In the same way, after Baba Bishan Das told me that my goal was higher, I was always waiting for the Person Who was to give me the rest of the thing. For that reason also I didn't sleep very much and I built a big Ashram in Rajasthan, and spent lots of rupees. When I sold my property, and started building the Ashram, many people were upset with me, but I was building the Ashram with full enthusiasm. Day and night people were working there, because I was telling everyone that a Maharaj would come there. But I did not know who the Maharaj was who was going to come. But that God Kirpal was gracious upon me, and he Himself made up His mind to see me. And showering much grace, that God Kirpal, my God

Kirpal, Who was separated from me from ages and ages, He came into my Ashram by Himself.

When He came, I didn't put any question to Him, I didn't even ask Him, "Who are you?" Once Master asked everybody: "Do you want to see God?" And everybody raised their hands and said, "Yes, we want to see God." Then Master told them, "Those who want to see God, close your eyes." Everybody closed their eyes. But I didn't close my eyes. There were some dear ones who complained that I wasn't closing my eyes. Hazur smiled, and he told them, "Yes, he has understood." Because I said, "You have told them that those who want to see God should close their eyes, but I am seeing my God with my open eyes. Why should I close my eyes when I am seeing my God walking and all other things?"

Once I was sleeping in the room with Master Kirpal, and we were both lying down, and I was looking at Master Kirpal and Master was looking at me. Suddenly He asked me, "Are you awake?" and I answered, "No, I am sleeping from ages and ages." Then Master called me near Him. He told me, "Come on, come here," and He sat on the bed, and he told me to sit on the chair. And then He looked into my eyes, very deeply. He awakened my soul with that one look only.

So, if you also feel as I did, that you are missing something, and you are lacking in something, I am telling you that if you are feeling like that, what is the question of staying awake for one night? Or for one more hour? You will never sleep if you feel that lacking in you. If you are losing something in your work, you are not sleeping – you are always worrying about that – we are not sleeping in the nighttime. I have seen many businessmen who, when they had to face any loss in their business, went mad. But we do not understand the loss which we have – the loss of, the separation from, God. We are not even taking that as equal to a worldly loss. If you understand that God is the precious thing – just think, if anybody offers you 10,000 rupees for your eyes, you will not be willing to give them even for that much money. Similarly, if you offer any amount of money to anybody to get any part of another's body, then also, nobody will be ready to sell it to you. But that God has given us all these things, all parts of the body, free of charge. And even after getting so many precious things from Him, we are not grateful to Him.

That is why if some of you also feel that you are losing a great deal because you are separated from God, if you feel like this, you will never have any problem of sleep. In the Way of the Saints, one has to become Majnu. Majnu was very much in love with Laila. She was a princess, and it is said that she was black. So people taunted Majnu and asked, "Why do you love Laila, who is black?" But Majnu replied, "You are not looking at her with my eyes." Majnu was so much intoxicated with the love of Laila that he was not eating good food, and he was not sleeping in the nighttime. Because everything was Laila. Once, for the convenience and facility of Majnu, Laila told all the shopkeepers that if Majnu came to their shop, they should give him anything he liked. So, hearing that announcement, there were many "Majnus" who came there to get things from those shops. So when there were many "Majnus" instead of one coming in taking things from shops, saying that they were Majnu, the shopkeepers went to the King, and said, "Tell us whether there is one Majnu or many." So the King, Laila's father, said, "All right, I will ask Laila how many Majnus there are... whether there is one Majnu or many." When

Laila was asked that, she said, “Yes, I will decide this very soon.” So she gave bowls to all the shopkeepers, saying that when Majnu comes tell them that Laila wants one cup of blood from him. The so-called Majnus were coming to the shops only to take the goods away, or to eat the food, but when this was announced, that Laila needs one cup of blood from Majnu, all the false Majnus went away – nobody came there. When the real Majnu was told that the other people were doing this in his name, but that now Laila needs one cup of blood, even though he was very thin – he was dry in the love of Laila – whatever blood he had, he sent that blood to Laila. In the same way, we all want to become Majnus, but when we are experiencing a little bit of pain... as you know, without experiencing pain, we cannot give our blood. When Master tells us in the Satsang, “Get the Naam initiation and you will realize God,” at that time we understand that it is a very easy thing. But then they tell us that our work, our responsibility, is to collect our scattered thoughts and bring our attention in between and behind the two eyes; they tell us that if we will succeed in concentrating the attention between the two eyes, the prize for that is a high position from God. But what are we doing when we are sitting for meditation? If we are collecting our thoughts a little bit, then also we are having the problems of sleep and pain, and things like that. Majnu loved that thing which was not everlasting and which would go from this world one day. Love for a body is just like crossing any river. When Laila died, at that time Majnu realized what he was doing – He was attached to the body only. That’s why Masters tell us, “Don’t be attached to the body – don’t love the body.”

Kabir Sahib says that no one’s body is our Guru; but we are getting only the body. The Power Which is working in the body of that Guru, we are not catching that. So Kabir Sahib says that we have made the body as Guru, but we have not realized the Satguru. And in that way, we are always coming in the cycle of births and deaths, of 84 lakhs of incarnation. Because as long as that body is standing in front of us, we are happy, but when that body goes away from us, we become unhappy, and we go astray. But the Power Which is assuming the body to explain to us, if we catch that Power, all our doubts and suspicions can be cleared while we are living in the body.

There was one disciple of Master Sawan Singh named Mastana Ji, and he was from Baluchistan. And when Master Sawan Singh left the body, the other people at the Ashram at Beas celebrated the death anniversary of Master Sawan Singh. They announced that on April 2nd, Master Sawan Singh had left the body. But on that date, Mastana Ji celebrated Master Sawan Singh’s birthday. Because he was saying, “Those who say Master Sawan Singh is dead, people should go ask them in the court why they had taken Him as Guru who is subject to birth and death? Because our Sawan Shah is never dying.” He was saying, if Sawan Shah himself is involved in births and deaths, what good can He do for us? Because Shabad is our Guru, Naam is our Guru; Shabad or Naam has assumed the body – has come into the body – only to make us understand the reality. That’s why Master never told us that He is our Master or He is our Maharaj. That’s why Saints tell us, “Your Guru is within you.” But we are not catching the Guru Which is residing within us. Whatever sacrifice we have to do to meet that inner Guru, that is little in Sant Mat. And those within whom the love is created for that inner Guru, they are not sleeping much, they are not eating much, unless they are meeting their Guru within.

When I was meditating in 16 PS Ashram, I had a sign put outside the Ashram saying that those who want to be crucified while living, only those should come in this Ashram. There was one more sign board there: “Rest is illegal. Those that want to rest, they should not come in the Ashram.” Those that wanted to stay there and meditate, I had told them to sign a paper that they had to be up before three o’clock. In the beginning some agreed that they would get up at twelve o’clock, some agreed to get up at two o’clock (at that place we were not ringing any bell). Because it is our responsibility to get up – why should we ring a bell? – we are getting up for God. According to his promise, if one was not keeping his promise – not getting up at the scheduled time – he was not allowed to sit for meditation. He was not even allowed to come into the Ashram again. Nobody was allowed to sit after taking tea. We were throwing out their bedding saying, “You are not the lover of Hazur. You only know how to talk.” But now, you see, after sleeping for all night, if we are sitting for one hour then also we have so many complaints for our Master. Someone is complaining because of the pain, someone is complaining because of sleep – just think of how many complaints we have. When you go within you will know how much our Hazur is waiting for us. When He was living in His physical form at that time we didn’t have so much responsibility to go within and see Him, but now that He has left the body, He has left the physical plane, now it is our responsibility and duty to go within and see Him, as soon as possible.

1977 July/August: What Is A Sikh?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This remarkable interview was recorded on June 22, 1977, at the home of Arran Stephens, Surrey, British Columbia, Canada. The questioners were the Editors and staff members of a magazine published in Vancouver by the local branch of the 3HO – the followers of Yogi Bhajan. The members of this organization adopt the outer form and perform many of the outer practices of the Sikh religion – the religion in which the last four Masters have been born – (including Sant Ji) hence the large number of questions about the Sikh scriptures, Sikh Gurus, and the relationship of the Sikh religion to the inner Path. Whether or not this interview will be published by the interviewers is not known; but we were present when it was given and made our own tape (from which the following transcript was taken) and feel very strongly that it is far too important a discussion to be lost.

QUESTION: What was your relationship with the late Sant Kirpal Singh ?

SANT JI: My soul was related to Him.

QUESTION: What was the relationship in physical, and social . . . ?

SANT JI: Physically I received that great teaching from Him for which my soul was longing from ages and ages. In this birth also, since my sixth year, I had that inner longing and when He met me, He quenched my thirst and that longing was satisfied. Suppose if anyone lost a great amount of gold, wanders here and there on the streets as a beggar, and if someone helps him to again get that gold, now you tell me, to whom should he be grateful, to the gold or to the person who has helped him to regain that gold? Kirpal helped me in regaining God from Whom I was separated for ages and ages. That is why I am very grateful to that Kirpal, and that is why I'm telling this thing: On the earth there is Kirpal, in the water there is Kirpal, in the sky there is Kirpal. Kirpal was in the beginning, now also is Kirpal and in the future also will be Kirpal. He Himself creates, He Himself destroys, He Himself speaks, everywhere there is Kirpal.

Right from my childhood, when I was six years old, from then I started searching for God and engaged in all types of religious and spiritual practices. Since I was born in a Sikh family I was believing in the Gurdwaras (Sikh temples), and I became a Bhai or priest of the Gurdwara, so that my mind and soul might find peace. My father was also a very great lover of the Gurdwara; once every six months he would perform Akhand Pat'h in the home. where Sikh scriptures are recited non-stop day and night. I myself had a miniature folding Gurdwara constructed especially, and always kept it with me. Even when I was in the army, or in the battlefield, I carried that Gurdwara everywhere. I used to burn incense and worship the Darbar (Guru Granth Sahib, the Sikh scriptures). And for many years I performed tapas⁷ or austerities also.

QUESTION: This was all before meeting Kirpal Singh?

SANT JI: Yes, before. Before meeting Kirpal Singh, I had the knowledge of two Shabads, two spiritual regions, which I received from Bishan Das. After that Master Kirpal Singh met me to quench the thirst of my soul, and I came to know the philosophy of Guru Nanak, and what Guru Nanak was teaching to the people. One year before ever meeting me physically, Master Kirpal Singh started manifesting within me (1966). In my own farm, Master Kirpal came to liberate one garbage collector who was working in my field, one year before He met me physically. I will now tell you the story of how that happened.

There was one low caste man by the name of Harnam who had Master Kirpal's brief darshan in the village of Aboor. When Master was going by in the car, Harnam happened to be standing there; he was not initiated, he knew nothing about Master Kirpal. Afterwards that man came to work in my fields, and one day while we were harvesting the fields of gram (a type of dahl-bean), he felt very nervous and lay down on the ground, saying, "Now that old man with the white beard and turban whom I saw at Aboor has come for me. He has an airplane and He has come to take me to Sach Khand." And so when I asked him, "Harnam, what is the matter?" he replied, "I have seen this Mahatma, this great man at Aboor and now He is here to take me. After one year He will come here in your ashram, and you are to appreciate Him." Even though he was not initiated and knew nothing about the Path, because he had had the darshan of that great soul for once only, he was liberated.

QUESTION: Are you saying that, from doing Pat'h (non-stop recitation of the Sikh scriptures) and Gurbani and Kirtan (singing God's praises as composed by past Masters) and reading of the Guru Granth Sahib, there was no spiritual peace that came?

SANT JI: No, I didn't get any. But on the contrary longing was created, Gurbani created the pangs of separation. Gurbani was helpful to me because Gurbani inspired me to go to some perfect Saint. My life started with Gurbani; and Gurbani inspired me and told me that there is another Bani also which will give the peace to your soul and there is some Bani other than what can be spoken or read, which will liberate you.

⁷ For example, Panch Agni Tup: sitting under the blazing sun, surrounded by four burning fires.

QUESTION: So it is not the Gurbani of the Granth Sahib?

SANT JI: It shows the path of that Bani. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Within us the Light of God is burning and from that Light the Bani is emanating.” Those who come into contact with the Lord see this Light and hear that internal Bani.

QUESTION: What about, “Bani hai Guru, Guru hai Bani.” (Bani is Guru and Guru is Bani [Word])?

SANT JI: The same Bani which is in the Light is in everyone, only that Bani is our Guru.

QUESTION: What is a Sikh . . . definition?

SANT JI: He is the Sikh, who goes within, and, rising above lust, anger, and all the other evil impressions, reaches Daswan Dwar (Third Region); he is called Sikh (disciple). The physical knot or bonds of lust, anger, greed, attachment and egoism can only be untied when one passes through the tenth door behind the eyes. The astral knot of all these evils is in Trikuti, that is the Second Plane or Causal Region, and as long as we are below the Second Plane, we are not Sikhs. Until then we are only the Sikh (disciple) of lust, anger, greed, attachment and egotism. When we cross the second inner region and go into the third region, only then can we be called a Sikh. Guru Gobind Singh has also defined that soul as the Khalsa (Pure Soul).” When he goes to Daswan Dwar (Third Spiritual Region) and has the darshan of that complete Light, after that he becomes pure (Khalsa). Unless and until he reaches that stage, then he is impure, Na Khalis. Guru Nanak Sahib also says, “The Unspoken Bani of the Perfect Master is within everybody. Mahatmas and Saints, they themselves practice on Bani and they themselves make other people also hear that Bani.”

QUESTION: Is it correct to refer to Sant Kirpal Singh as Satguru?

SANT JI: I call Him as the Kul-Malik, the All Owner.

QUESTION: Is the title Satguru proper to use?

SANT JI: This word is only on the level of this world. Guru Arjan Dev says, “You are the Sultan, You are the Emperor; then also we are unable to praise You adequately. If we say You are the Emperor of the emperors, then also we are not praising You in Your full glory.”

QUESTION: Were the ten Sikh Masters who are recognized in history of that same stature, from Guru Nanak to Guru Gobind Singh?

SANT JI: They were the same. Now also you can see Them, that they are One. You go in the higher planes and you will see Guru Nanak, Guru Gobind Singh, Guru Ram Das . . .

QUESTION: What about the Tenth Master’s assertion – “After I am gone then Guru Granth Sahib will be the only Guru?”

SANT JI: First of all this saying is not in the Darbar Sahib (Guru Granth Sahib). These words are not in the Darbar Sahib. I was also attached to this saying for a long time. I have performed the Pat’h of the Guru Granth Sahib many times, but when I met Baba Bishan Das, I told the same thing to him. He said that this hymn is not to be found in the Darbar Sahib. Afterwards, for six months I searched in the Darbar Sahib but when I couldn’t find it there I was satisfied that this hymn does not exist in the Darbar Sahib.

But suppose that if he had said this thing, that was only for the disciples at that time; but as we have not met Guru Gobind Singh this does not apply to us.

QUESTION: So we have to find a Master? Everybody has to find a person as their Master?

SANT JI: Guru Nanak Sahib's Bani says so. You take any of the shabads (hymns) of the Bani, they are all praising "Guru, Guru." The Bani is respectfully appreciating Gurus, Saints, and Sadhus and is worth respecting but we are not taking advantage of the Bani or following its advice. Guru Gobind Singh, whose Bani (sayings) we are talking about, and who has read as well as composed Bani in praise of the Saints, he could have written in the Darbar Sahib, "After me there will be no more Saints," but he has not. In the Muslim tradition also I have read the Koran very carefully and have found nowhere written that Mohammed Sahib says, "After me there will be no Nabi, there will be no Prophet," but the orthodox Muslims have made this rule: that there is no Prophet, no Master, except Mohammed Sahib. Mahatmas (Great Souls) come for all the world and their teaching is for all the world. As long as they are living in the body, in this world, their teachings are well understood and are propagated in their real meaning; everybody gets benefit from that; but when they leave the body, the disciples limit and confine the teachings only to a certain time, religion or sect, and I understand that this is the greatest injustice to the Mahatmas. Guru Nanak Sahib says, "It is not worth living, unless one has the company of the Sadhu." Truly speaking, the appreciation and the respect which I now have for the Gurbani, I didn't have before. After meeting Hazur Kirpal my faith in Gurbani became firm; before that I was not understanding what it was saying. When I understood by direct experience I had more faith in it, because this is the Bani of Sant Satgurus and only Sant Satgurus can make this Bani understood to us. Only he can talk about the philosophy of Guru Nanak, who has reached the plane where Guru Nanak lives.

QUESTION: I understand all that and I respect it a lot but, myself, I have not come to the stage where I can accept that, and I'm practicing Sadhna and reading the Gurbani, practicing yoga, practicing karma yoga, service and so on; am I doing something wrong?

SANT JI: I will not tell you there is something wrong with that but I will tell you my own experience: that I also did all those things but I didn't get any peace of mind.

QUESTION: There are some people who say they do get ultimate peace of mind. My teacher Siri Singh Sahib, Harbhajan Yogi, feels that his blessing came from Wahe Guru, not Satguru, not even Siri Guru first but Wahe Guru. His reverence goes to Sri Guru Granth Sahib and he feels that shanti (peace) came to him through those channels.

SANT JI: Achcha heh. If anyone has got Shanti, that is very good.

QUESTION: What I am concerned about is that some people, when they find a way which works for them, say that everybody has to do it that way. I hope that we don't have a case here of someone who has found a way which works for them and then makes a universal declaration that everyone must follow that way. I feel that such a statement actually has a negative effect on the evolution of human spirit.

SANT JI: Saints never impose their path on anyone. And they never hate anyone. Our Satguru Maharaj Ji used to say that if anyone is doing the business of paisas [pennies, i.e. little business] and if you tell them to do the business of rupees [the greater business] and if he is getting angry with that, then it is better to keep quiet and not to tell him your business of doing with rupees. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that if you tell one who is making a sword of paper, “This will deceive you and you will be killed,” and if by that he is displeased, there is no need to displease him further, but let him do it his own way. He will learn that he was deceived and has done wrong by himself; no need to impose your suggestion on him. The disciples of the Saints come from all religions. If they try to impose their own path on everybody, the people who form the various religions cannot get any benefit from the Saints. Saints have respect, not only for mankind, but even for animals, because they look at the souls and not at any other labels or ornaments on the body; they look to the soul. People from all religions can come to them without any hesitations and ask any questions they want. Saints will also patiently respond to that question, and they will not have any hatred. For them, the enemy and the friend are one.

QUESTION: Are you teaching Surat Shabd Yoga? Initiating?

SANT JI: Yes.

QUESTION: Initiating into Surat Shabd Yoga?

SANT JI: Yes.

QUESTION: What is Shabd? How is that experienced? What is that experience?

SANT JI: When you are initiated, at that time this experience can be had. That Shabd cannot be written or spoken or talked about.

QUESTION: What is Simran?

SANT JI: Simran is the remembrance of anything again and again.

QUESTION: What is the relationship between Simran and Shabd?

SANT JI: Simran connects the soul with the Shabd, because Simran is the means of forgetting the simran (or remembrance) of the world. Simran of God is the means of forgetting the simran of the world, and the Shabd which is sounding, emanating, from the court of God, that Simran connects the soul with the Shabd.

QUESTION: What does it mean to be a Perfect Master?

SANT JI: One who reaches Sach Khand, the Realm of Truth.

QUESTION: So there could be many Perfect Masters at one time?

SANT JI: Guru Nanak and Kabir were contemporaries. Dadu Sahib and Guru Angad also were at the same time.

QUESTION: In America and Canada, what do you think of the spiritual movement among young people these days?

SANT JI: That is very good, if there will be more spiritual persons; good for that land or that country.

QUESTION: What does the future hold for us? Many people see great danger in the path which our civilization is taking danger of wars, calamities, etc. What does the future hold?

SANT JI: That will come. It came in the past also. Nobody can stop it.

QUESTION: What do you see as your function within Ruhani Satsang?

SANT JI: To give peace to the soul as much as possible.

QUESTION: I have read in Guru Granth Sahib, that if you are in the company of a holy man, ask him about the holy Naam. Would you please tell us about that holy Naam?

SANT JI: Call that as the Naam or call it as the Shabd (the Word). That is within everyone and those who manifest that Shabd or Naam within them, they become pure from inside. The Naam is also in Sach Khand, the Realm of Truth, and this world is also created by that Naam. It comes in the Bani also, “With the support of Naam, Khand (this world) and Brahmmand (the Beyond) all are sustained.”

QUESTION: And the only way that Sant Ji sees for me to relate to the Naam is through initiation? So the only way-for me to find or experience the Naam is through initiation by a Perfect Master?

SANT JI: Yes. He gives the experience of that Naam. Naam is not mere words.

QUESTION: How did Guru Nanak get his experience?

SANT JI: Guru Nanak was the Lord of this creation; he came from Sach Khand to this world in order to bring souls back to their Source. He came to give the connection and experience of Naam to the people of His time.

QUESTION: You mean He was graced with the experience, Himself? He was born in that experience and He didn't have to learn it from somebody else?

SANT JI: There are many historians who have various views about that . . . some historians say that He went to Kabir Sahib, some say that He had connection with another Saint, some say that He came direct, but we should not bother about that. But I can tell you this: now also you can meet Guru Nanak Sahib and you can ask Him yourself. This the only criterion by which you can judge correctly; you can go and see Him and ask Him, because the historians' views are different. I have searched for this also, reading many histories but to no avail; but when I met Hazur Kirpal, this problem was solved. If you will write you write according to your understanding; if I would write, I would write according to my understanding; so everybody has different views. Mold your life according to the Gurbani and now also you can go in the higher planes and meet the Mahatmas and the Saints who came in the past. Gurbani is the true evidence of all those things.

QUESTION: I was wondering what Sant Ji envisions as the function to the community, of Ruhani Satsang, like how does, what role does Ruhani Satsang play in the community, like are the teachings that come through Ruhani Satsang, can they only be given through initiation, because, well in our discipline we have like, a certain commitment, which is kind of like an initiation, a commitment that is made, and the people in that particular path, we have a particular way of experience where we also have a technique to pass on to people who don't have to commit totally or become initiated or anything like that; is it only for the initiate? In order to make the teachings available more expansive?

SANT JI: First of all a Ruhani Admi (a spiritual man) teaches in Satsang (a spiritual gathering) to love everybody and to rise above the labels of religions and communities; earn your own living and don't be a burden on anyone, give up speaking lies, give up eating meat, drinking wine and don't think evil of others. They teach that only he is a man who helps others. And to have respect and appreciation for everybody, whether he is a man or animal. Just as they keep respect for man, in the same way they keep respect for woman. Anyone who has developed these good qualities within can serve his country, his community, and his society very well. Such a one carries out all his responsibilities very well, and without seeking it, also gains the praise of the world.

1977 October/November: The Last Darshan

Sant Bani Ashram, New Hampshire, the morning of August 23, 1977 – the last day of the tour – after meditation.

QUESTION: Yesterday You blessed some parshad for me and I was wondering – am I supposed to keep this or am I supposed to share it with my brothers and sisters?

SANT JI: [Laughs.] It is good to share with others.

QUESTION: I was told once that there are only six kinds of karmas: joy, sorrow, love, poverty, sickness and health. And everything else was choice: relationships, marriage, jobs, everything worldly. And I wanted to hear from the Master whether . . . because I've heard also from Master Kirpal that everything was karma, relationships . . . and other things too . . . so I wanted to clear that up.

SANT JI: Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say this very often in the Satsang: "Everyone has come in this world keeping all the six things in his fate: fame, happiness, poverty, wealth, good health and disease. And this is because of the karmas which he has done in the past." And the thing that Master Kirpal used to say that relationships, marriages and all those things, that is also because of the karma; that is true. Because all the Banis and writings of the past Masters were written according to the Indian culture. And in India, nobody chooses his companion; the parents always arrange the marriage and that is why neither the boy nor the girl knows whom he or she is going to marry. They do not even know each other until they are fully married. So that is because of the karma; and because they have some karma, some give and take, to finish up, that is why they are brought together by the unseen hand of God. The other things, births, making the relatives, and all these things, that is not in our hands. We cannot stop births and we cannot cause any birth. So that is also because of the karma. And nobody knows where he is going to take birth, how many relatives he is going to have, how many brothers and sisters; that is all because of the karma. So as far as Indian culture is concerned, all these things are true, but here in the West, people choose their own marriage companions. That is why it is not because of karma. When you see that there is fire burning but there is a well in front of you, and if knowingly you jump in that well to avoid the fire and then you say it is because of karma; that is not true. In the same way, when you knowingly decide whether this is a good or bad companion for you when you are choosing a companion, it is not karma.

If anyone sows chili and after that, when he harvests the chili, he doesn't like it, and then he says, "This is the will of God, that here chilies have grown"; that is not correct. He should know what he has sown, and whatever he has sown he has to reap that. The things we have done according to our own wish, how can we blame God for them? Farid Sahib has written: "The desire is to enjoy the sweet raisins of Kalwal (very famous raisins); but the farmer is sowing a tree which has thorns and doesn't bear any fruit. How is he going to get the raisins? In the same way he is always desiring clothes of silken thread but he is making clothes out of the wool of sheep. So how is he going to get it? Whatever he is making, that he will wear."

QUESTION: Could you tell us, Master, what is the right speed of saying Simran? Sometimes I kind of speed it up and sometimes I slow it down.

SANT JI: Many times I have responded to this question. When the worldly thoughts are troubling you very much, at that time do Simran fast so that you can control that thought. If there are no worldly thoughts disturbing you, you should make such a speed that is neither fast nor slow and at that speed you should do Simran.

QUESTION: Why are some of the Master's initiates born so far away from the Physical Form, especially in the West? Why are we born so far away from the physical presence? It seems we would progress much more if we were near the physical.

SANT JI: The distance doesn't make any difference. This is an excuse of mind. In the article which Russell Perkins read the other day,⁸ I said: "It doesn't matter if the Master is residing thousands of miles away from the disciples if they are having love for Him." The Saints have come in India and there are many people living in India; but only a few fortunate ones get the great boon of Naam. Most of the people remain without the Naam.

QUESTION: I've heard also that the Master says, and that most initiates say, you can't underrate the physical presence of the Master. What does that mean – in terms of her question?

SANT JI: Master Kirpal Singh Ji used to say in the Satsang, "Those who are living very far from the physical presence of the Master, they always gain a lot. But those who are living nearby become blood suckers." Because when they are always living near the Master, the yearning to get His darshan goes away from them, and they cannot progress. Because in this Path, only yearning and love works. So those who are living afar, they can create more yearning and love for Him; they can get much.

Kunichuk Ashram was in such a place where highways and roads were coming from all directions and there were good means of transportation. So many people used to come there. But I left that place and now where I am sitting, 77 RB Ashram, there are no good roads or good means of transportation, and not everybody can reach that place easily. So the dear ones who used to come to Kunichuk Ashram write me letters, or sometimes when they see me they tell me, "No matter if you make an Ashram thousands of miles away from here, it should be on the road so that we can come by good means of transportation." But I tell them, "You feel very far, even though you are living in India. Just look at the Americans and other people, how far they are coming to this place. But still they don't complain like that."

So the real meaning of saying this is that only those who have the real yearning can get the full advantage. Now also, in 77 RB where the Ashram is, the people who are coming from the nearby villages and faraway places, come some two or three hours before the ⁸ "On Visiting India," Sant Bani, July/August 1977, p. I.

Satsang starts and they sit in meditation there: because they have that yearning. But what are the people of 77 RB doing? Most of the people come in the Satsang one hour after the Satsang has started. And in that way they do not get much advantage: because they don't have that yearning, because they see me very often. So that is the thing: if you are living very far you will have the yearning and you will do more meditation. When I was in Kunichuk Ashram, the same people of 77 RB used to go there one day before the Satsang and in that way used to spend most of their time in meditation, because they had the yearning. But now the same people, because I am living right near them, don't get the full advantage. You see, it is approximately four months since I came here to this country. And right from the beginning, I have seen that many people left their homes and everything and came with me on the tour. And some people have been traveling for one or two months and they have been spending their time here: because they have yearning and they know that I am going to go back today. That's why they have that yearning and they are sitting here giving up, forgetting all their responsibilities and everything. And if I didn't go back today, if I stayed here permanently, what good would it do? People would think, "O.K., Sant Ji is here so we will go tomorrow." And they would come only at the exact time and in that way the yearning would start decreasing and decreasing. And the day would come when they wouldn't have any yearning or desire to have darshan and they would lose.

Darshan has great value. In the month of May I gave a talk on Kabir's hymn about darshan and in that Kabir Sahib said, "You should have the darshan of the Master always, 24 hours a day. Every single minute should be spent in the darshan of the Master." And then he said, "If you can't do that type of darshan, at least do it twice a day." And then he said, "If you can't do it twice a day at least do it once a day." And then after that he said, "If you can't do it once a day, do once in two days," then, "once in three days," then, "once in four days," and like that he went on increasing and increasing. And then in the end he said, "One who doesn't have darshan once in a year, the relationship between the Master and the disciple finishes because all the yearning, all the desire goes away."

And regarding darshan or the condition of the lovers, Guru Nanak says, "Even after seeing my beloved Master many thousand times, still I am not satisfied. I want to see Him more and more." The work that darshan does, not even meditation does that work. The karmas that we finish up by having the darshan of the Master, we can't finish up by doing meditation. But when we are residing near the Master our mind gets lazy and has many types of doubts and things like that.

QUESTION: Since we can't be with you always, and many places don't have an Ashram to go to frequently, when we start "living centers," could you give us some advice and guidance on how we should conduct them?

SANT JI: All the Satsangis of that area should sit together and think over this matter: that is, what the place is, and what procedure for living in this type of center will be good for them.

QUESTION: Should people be permitted to live in such a place who are not initiated by you or Master Kirpal and Sawan Singh but are strongly attracted to you and like your guidance and your teachings? Like some people are initiated by Masters other than these, but they want to come to be with people who are following you. Should they get initiation from you or should they be allowed to live with us and follow their own Master?

SANT JI: You should not ask questions like this. You should know that in my Satsang, people from all different sects and religions are allowed to come; because when we are sitting here to do the devotion of God, why should we have the feeling of duality?

QUESTION: Sant Ji, after Master Kirpal's last tour, I had difficulty keeping to the Path, living the Path the way it should be lived. I pray to You to give me the love and longing to be true to the Guru when you leave.

SANT JI: Master used to say, "When one goes away from his home in the morning, and after realizing his mistake returns home in the evening, we can't say that he has left his home." So now be careful for the future and don't go away.

QUESTION: Based on what you said a few minutes ago, if we can't be in your physical presence once a year, does that mean we can't make spiritual progress?

SANT JI: I am not saying that. This is the writing of Kabir Sahib. Kabir Sahib says it. [Laughter.]

QUESTION: At the beginning of the meditation, I saw a big black hole coming in front of me. I've never seen this before and I don't know what it is and I'm wondering if it is a preview of what is going to happen to me after Sant Ji leaves.

SANT JI: [Laughing.] No. No. [To someone else] Speak. Come on!

QUESTION: I thought it might be a foolish question so I hesitated. I was wondering . . . a question about the mystery of creation, and I just thought I'd unload it. Did all the souls come down at the same time? And also will all souls eventually be liberated no matter where they are in the three planes? Also will there come a time when Kal Purush tires of his violence, his sport of creating three worlds, and eventually will we all go back to God?

SANT JI: Yes. All souls reside in this world; they were given to the Negative Power by Almighty God. And when the time is coming for the liberation of souls, Saints come and they come in the contact of Saints, they get liberation and they go back. This is not a problem which can come to an end.

QUESTION: Forgive me for asking this question; it's a very worldly question, but the implications implied by it have given my mind a wonderful opportunity to disturb me very much. It's about diet: I've been told that if we stick to a specific variation of the vegetarian diet it will help Master stay in the body, and it will help reduce the suffering and also it will help us to sit longer in meditation. In fact, I was told, if I stay on the diet I am on, my mind will get scattered and expand and I won't be able to concentrate. And I was wondering: is there any specific variation of the vegetarian diet which will help the Master to stay in the body? – because I don't want to do something that will make the Master leave early.

SANT JI: You see, there is no real meaning to this question. You know what Master has said about the vegetarian diet, and whatever He has written about diet, you should eat that type of food.⁹

You see, when you are given the opportunity to ask questions you should ask questions and not write any letters. Before also I have said this thing: you should not write any letters while we are here. Because we have only one translator and after translating a lot, if he has to go over all those letters and do all those things, how is he going to do that? Before also I have said this thing, but still many people write many letters and there is a pile of letters in the home. How is he going to do that? It is a very bad thing: people come for interviews and they take a very long time; and after coming to the bridge, they give a letter also. How is he going to do all that? We have only one translator and he also gets sick.¹⁰ You should consider how much work he has to do. First he listens to you; then he tells me about you; then he listens to me; then he tells you about what I am saying. So in that way, one man has to do the three works. And after that, if he has to write all the letters and everything, how long can he continue that?

Everybody is very welcome to write the letters, but write very brief and to the point, once in three months, not before that. And we understand our great responsibility to respond to everybody's letters; and we do respond to everybody's letters. We appreciate everybody's letters and we appreciate our responsibility to respond to them. Now, those who want to ask questions may do so, and I will respond to them.

QUESTION: We're very sorry, Master. Please forgive us, but we thank you very greatly for all that you have given us, for the love and all the loving kindness for and to us. And we wish you the best in every way. Thank you once again.

SANT JI: [Laughs.] Saints always have loving kindness, but I am saying this only because of the translator.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, on Sunday morning, could we possibly protect the hour of meditation we have by giving people a certain amount of time to get to the Satsang and get settled? – and then after that time maybe lovingly ask them to wait if they are late? Or should people just come in during the meditation?

SANT JI: Make a fixed time for meditation and tell everybody about the time. And those who come late should not be allowed to come in the room. They should do their meditation sitting outside, and after a few days they will realize that and they will appreciate it and they will also come at the right time. If you allow people to come in the meditation while people are doing meditation, if you allow the latecomers to come in, that will disturb those who are doing the meditations.

Here also, the dear ones are guarding the place and those who are coming before seven o'clock or when I am coming, only they sit in the canopy and do meditation. Those who come late sit outside to do their meditation. And those who have experienced this once, next time they will not come late, because everybody has the desire to do meditations and they don't want to lose that. All the Satsangis should try to take advantage of the meditation in this way. If they will come late for whatever minutes left they will spend in meditation, that is bad for them. So everybody should appreciate the time for meditation and come then.

⁹ See pp. 43-57 of October/November, 1977 Sant Bani Magazine

¹⁰ Pappu was not in fact sick at this time (the last day of the tour); but he had been sick recently and he was at the very end of exhaustion. He contracted malaria almost immediately upon returning to Delhi.

QUESTION: When we're meditating, if for any reasons we can't sit for two or three hours without moving, do we lose by getting up after one hour, or by stretching our legs or sitting down for another hour and then getting up and stretching and sitting down again; or would it be much better to sit for three hours without moving?

SANT JI: You do not lose anything for any moment you spend in the remembrance of God. If you are sitting for even one minute, that also is counted. But you should try to sit in one sitting.

QUESTION: Is greed for your darshan a sin?

SANT JI: [Laughing.] It is not a sin, it is good.

QUESTION: Is it not advisable for a mother to leave young children for any length of time to come to India? I asked if I could come a few days ago and since that time I've come to the Ashram to stay for two nights, and I don't know if it's my attachment to them, or my duty, or if they're calling me . . . but I'm . . . I wondered if I'm doing the right thing by being here or even by asking to come. I have three children and two of them are quite young.

SANT JI: You see, in India you will have only ten or eleven days. If you are not leaving the children here and if you are bringing them with you, your time will be spent in taking care of them and in that way you will not get the advantage, the benefit, for which you are going there. So that's why it is advised that first the husbands should stay with the children and the wives should come and after that the wife should stay with the children and the husband come. They should take turns in coming to India if they can do that.

QUESTION: I want to know what I can do, when you go, about depression and despair and the feeling of giving up that I am afraid is going to come, because yearning for the Master to come from within is there, but it is not strong enough, I guess, to sit for meditation. If I don't see the outer Master and I feel the sweetness that I feel when I have His darshan, I want to move, or I get pain, you know. And I want to know, what can I do when I get that depression?

SANT JI: In the [Unity of Man] conference Russell Perkins told a story about one man who had two servants as gardeners. And one of them used to jump around and dance when the owner was coming, saying, "You are great," and things like that. But at other times he would sleep and not do any work in the garden. The other one would always take care of the plants and water them and everything. And because of his effort and work, the garden was very good and everything was very fine there. Now you can think: with whom was the owner of that garden pleased? – with that gardener who was only jumping around and praising the owner when he was coming; or with the other one who was working even when the owner was not there?

So in the same way, those who are working even after Master goes away physically, far away from them, Master is always pleased with them. But to show love when Master is near you and not do the work that Master is telling you to do, that doesn't have any meaning. Only they can be called wise people, and with them only Master is pleased, who understand the responsibility to work especially when Master is not physically there. With them Master will be pleased. And those who understand the responsibility to give the water of Simran to their soul, only those gardeners or those meditators will get praise. Only with them will Master be pleased.

You should never obey your mind: never miss your meditation. The habit of sitting which you have developed in these last few months, you should not give up or lose that. And don't put this condition before sitting for meditation: that we will sit or we will continue this only when we get something in meditation. Because this is from the mind, this type of thought; and we can lose a lot from that.

When Master told everybody in our Ashram, "Those who want to see God should close their eyes," – everybody did. But I didn't do that, because I knew that my Master, my God, was standing in front of me. And now also I understand and I am seeing that my Master is my God. Always I used to say, "Oh Master, if You give Your real darshan to everybody – if You reveal Your secret to everybody that You are God – then everybody will know that, and all the confusion and illusion that people have spread in the world can go away. The Pandits who believe that by coloring their foreheads and other things, they can get liberation, they may realize that all these things are fake. And the Bhais of the Gurdwaras, who blow conches in the evening to call God, they may also realize that God is nowhere else, that He is here in the man body. In the same way, the Mullah or priest of the mosque, who thinks that by calling God, by shouting aloud and offering prayers like that, he can realize God, he may also know that God is moving in this world, in the man body."

Then I told Him, "In this way, O Kirpal, we are low, and all the fighting that people are doing in temples and mosques – people say, 'Our temple is good,' or 'Our mosque is good' – all the conflicts that arise from this, all the delusions, they may also be resolved. And then people may realize that the man body is the real temple or mosque within whom Kirpal is residing, within whom that Kirpal is God."

QUESTION: Is it all right to borrow money from the Satsang in order to come and see you?

SANT JI: Those who have asked me these questions, I have told them they should not borrow money for coming to see me, and I have told the organizers also that they should tell people not to borrow money in order to come and see me. First of all you earn the money, and after that you are happily welcome.

QUESTION: What is the best way to develop constant Simran?

SANT JI: [Laughs.] Remembrance.

QUESTION: Is it all right for a person to ask another initiate the five names if he forgets them? And also, what if a person is giving out the five names to a non-initiate? I know the words are not charged, but what if this person is constantly doing this? Isn't that dangerous?

SANT JI: Well, if you are sure you are asking from an initiate or you are telling to an initiate, you may ask or tell to the initiate the five charged names. But if any initiate gives out the five names to any non-Satsangi, he will have to carry all the burden of all his karma, and in that way all his progress will be stopped. It is very dangerous. Guru Nanak says, “Master is bound to whom He is going to put on the Path. Only He can carry the burden of the karmas.”

QUESTION: I work with a lot of traditional Sikhs, and I was reading in the Sant Bani Magazine the interview Master had with my friends in Vancouver ¹¹ and I’m sure when I get back they’re going to have a lot of questions for me. I was wondering where the information Master gave on Kabir and Guru Nanak comes from. Did Baba Kirpal tell Master that, or Baba Bishan Das; or maybe perhaps He was there? Also, what should we do if we’re in a situation where someone abuses our Master in our presence? Should we leave the place, should we just speak lovingly to them, or should we just say nothing and go away?

SANT JI: No, you should lovingly be with them. You should not leave that place.

Those who came to interview me, I told them, “Now also you can go and meet Guru Nanak or Kabir and all the Saints who came in the past .” People talk from books and Saints talk from their own experience, that which they have seen with their own eyes. They don’t quote much from books; they say what they have seen.

The world has come to this point: there were three religious people, a Christian, a Jew, and a Muslim, and they were traveling together. They came to a place where people were very religious, who understood them as very great religious men, and served them very good food: halvah and similar things. But on that day the Muslim man was having a fast and he was not able to eat that, and the other two people were constipated so they also couldn’t eat that food. So when the Muslim man broke his fast, he wanted to eat the food. But both the other people thought, “We can’t eat the food now and he is going to eat, so maybe he will eat it all. We must do something so that he will remain as hungry as we are, and we will eat the food tomorrow together.” So they told that Muslim man, “We should eat the food tomorrow and not tonight.” But the Muslim man said, “No, that is not good. We should divide the food in three parts and leave it up to each one to either save the food until tomorrow or eat it now. And those who want to eat now, they can eat now.” But the other two said, “No, that is not correct. We should save the food till tomorrow and tomorrow we should eat it after telling our experiences in our dreams. And the one who has a very great or good dream, he shall be the owner of all the food and he can eat it all.”

So early in the morning everybody got up and sat for meditation; and when they got up, the Jew said, “Last night I saw Moses and he took me to the Light and there I saw one small circle of light. And because the owner of Light was with me, he blew air on that small light and that formed a great mountain. And when he again blew there, that mountain was divided into three parts and one part went in the ocean and all the salty water in the ocean was turned into sweet water because of that part of the mountain. And another part of the mountain fell on this part of the world and one stream began flowing here because of that. And the third part went to Mecca. But now that I have got up, I see that everything is the same.” So in this way, he told about his very great experiences in the higher planes.

¹¹ July/August 1977, p. 27

When the Christian got up, he said, “Last night, Christ took me to the first plane. And he showed me many heavens and many miracles; he showed me many things.”

But when the Muslim man started talking about his experience, he said, “Last night Prophet Mohammed came and he told me to get up. He said, ‘You see, both your companions are traveling around the world, climbing the horse of intellect. And they are enjoying. But this halvah and everything is for you, because they are wandering here and there in the world and they are getting a lot. So you should be patient and you should eat this halvah and finish this food.’ So Prophet Mohammed told me to eat all that food, and I did that.”

So when both the Christian and the Jew saw that all the food was finished they said, “Oh hungry man, you ate all that food?” And he said, “You tell me, what could I do? Prophet Mohammed, the owner of all creation, came to me and gave me the order to eat all the food. How could I refuse that order? I was lovingly compelled to eat the food and I did.” Then they said, “Now we believe your experience, your dream, was really true – because it really came true: you finished all the food.” So the thing is, people talk from books, but Hazur Kirpal told me to sit for meditation. And what could this poor one do? When He compelled me to do meditation, I did that. So whatever I saw there, I am saying that.

There was one minister living right next to the Beas Station. He always used to argue with Master Sawan Singh, and he used to ask Him, “Tell me, Who is greater: Guru Nanak or Kabir or Baba Jaimal Singh?” So Baba Sawan Singh lovingly replied, “You see, I have not seen Guru Nanak, I have not seen Kabir, so how can I know about them? But I know that Baba Jaimal Singh is here. If you can bring both of them, then I can see who is greatest among them. But because I am seeing only Baba Jaimal Singh, for me He is the greatest.”

And in Sikh history also it is written that two times Guru Nanak went to see Kabir.

Is that all right? Very good.

1978

1978 January: A Very Intricate Matter

A television interview with Maharaj Kirpal Singh Ji in Mexico City, Dec. 11, 1972

QUESTION: Master, we would like to ask you if you are in accordance with the opinion of Pope Paul?

THE MASTER: What is his opinion?

QUESTION: That the devil is the cause of all the ills and badness in the world.

THE MASTER: The truth remains that God made the universe. There are two aspects: one is going into expression, the other is receding back. The word Brahm is used to mean the Power going into expression, which is the cause of all expression in the universe. This is called “negative.” The other Power is “positive,” which brings back souls to God. The Power going into expression is called by some as “Satan” or “Devil”; it is called by the Rishis as Brahm. These are two Powers made by God just as electricity somewhere burns fire and somewhere congeals water into ice. The Power is the same, but it has two expressions: one going into expression, the other receding back. Had there been no Power going into expression called Brahm, there would have been no world whatsoever. That Brahm has the law, “As you sow, so shall you reap.” That Brahm Power is very just. Naturally, the incarnations of Brahm, when they come into the world, their job is just to punish the wicked, uphold the righteous, and set the world going. This matter is very intricate, I tell you. Further, I will just give an example: The King is the appointing authority of the Commander-in-Chief; he is also the appointing authority of the Viceroy. The two work for the sake of the King; it is the King who has given them power. But their work is different. When a city is in trouble, the civil officers hand it over to the military. What do they do? They punish the wicked, fire and kill some, save hundreds of the righteous. When it is in order, they hand it back to the civil.

[The television commentator tries to move on to the next question, but the Master says:

This is not the end-all. There are some things further to be explained, a few words more, if you want full; if you want half a reply, it is up to you. This will go to the world population, you see. Now we are responsible.]

The Commander-in-Chief knows fully well that he has been given power by the King by which he destroys, he kills, etc., etc., but still he never says, “I convey to you the orders of the King.” It is the incarnations of the Positive Power who say like that; they are the Saints. Those who come like the Commander-in-Chief, they say, “I order – fire!” Different expressions, but both at heart know that they have got this power from God. This is done only so that the Word can go into expression; otherwise there would be no world. So our own actions and reactions bring on these things – all the troubles, killings, this and that. As the incarnations of the Positive Power, the Saints look after the souls and take them back to God.

The world never ends. It goes on changing from Kali Yuga or Iron Age to Golden Age. The Negative Power goes on punishing, to set the world right and let it keep going – not to depopulate, but so that it can continue to go on. And the Positive works to take our souls back to God. They work for the good of the righteous people.

Mind is the Negative Power working within each man. Its work is always to keep you away from God – to keep you awake in the world. So naturally punishment is there; killing is there; wars are there; sometimes plagues are there. These are functions of the Negative Power and come first; then the righteous people will come up. The Golden Age arises from the Iron Age – it won't fall down from Heaven all at once. So awakening is there, east and west both. People are fed up with all these things and they want the way out; the other way is what is wanted. The Negative Power is very equal: he does not spare the incarnations of the Negative Power even. He is also punishing the Negative. For instance:

Rama killed the brother of Ravana. Then Rama came in an incarnation as Lord Krishna. Then that man who had been killed came as a dacoit in the wilderness and killed Krishna. He came to Krishna and said, "Well, I have done wrong." But he said, "No, no, I killed you." So he does not spare even the incarnations, you see. The day of judgment is individual and also as a whole, as a class.

The other part, I tell you – the world is now entered in its changing from cycle to cycle. The Rishis say that four trillion years may bring the world to its end. The world is not going to end but change – for the better.

If the judgment as a whole comes, the land will slide, the water will come up, but the righteous men will be saved. Two or three years back, somebody wrote me from America: "The continent will be under water and people running to the hills. What is your opinion?" I told him no such thing would happen. Don't worry. If it comes, fix your faith, for already we have it. So mark my words. The day of judgment is for each individual and for classes also: Vietnam and other things are going on, but righteous people are also going on.

QUESTION: What is the meaning of "Science of the Soul?"

THE MASTER: The science of the soul is God's work. We are souls under the control of the Negative Power. So incarnations of the Positive Power come to save them and bring them back to God. The other day in my talk I said that there should be no revolution of the body – not the body – but of the evil propensities of the mind – that which takes man away from God. There should be a spiritual revolution, and that is going on. I replied to this question in my talk day before yesterday – everybody is now getting such an experience openly, to save, at large.

Awakening is going on all around, in the east and west. That means the Golden Age is arising from the Iron Age, and the Science of the Soul is for that.

All right; thank you for your cooperation. The real Life is going on, with God's grace... Well, it is – those who are wicked are punished; it is a probation, you see. I told you in my talk the other day that a spiritual revolution is going on now. The righteous will find that this is not the revolution of the body, but of the evil propensities of the mind. Mind is the slave of the Negative Power. Had there been no Negative Power, there would have been no world whatsoever.

1978 January: The Value of Parshad

Sant Bani Ashram, Bogota, Colombia, after morning meditation, July 20, 1977

QUESTION: When we have parshad, how should we use it?

SANT JI: As soon as you get the parshad, you should eat it.

QUESTION: Should we eat it and then sit down for meditation? Eat it all at once?

SANT JI: It will be better if you meditate after eating parshad. We people do not appreciate the parshad given by the Masters. In the parshad given by the Masters there is a lot of their spiritual power. We people take parshad and keep it in the bottle and do not eat it for many, many years.

QUESTION: If one has enough parshad, a little bit too much – not too much – if we have parshad, should we share with other people or should we keep it for ourselves?

SANT JI: This is an incident of my own life, that once my beloved Satguru gave me a lot of parshad. It was more than enough for me, but until I ate it all, I did not come out from the room. Many dear ones were sitting outside. A lot of foodstuff was brought for giving parshad to the people and everybody got a lot of parshad from Master. But because I was sitting in the room and eating the rest of the parshad, people thought that maybe I had gotten some special parshad from Master. And they requested me to share with them. But I didn't give them even a little bit of parshad and I didn't come out from the room until I had eaten it all up. Parshad has much greatness: it carries a lot of grace of the Master. Once Guru Gobind Singh when he was defeated by the Moghul army came to one village in the Punjab named Bina. At that time it was very difficult for him to take refuge in anybody's house because the Moghul army was so strong, and they had told all the people that those who gave shelter to Guru Gobind Singh would be murdered. So nobody was ready to give Him shelter. But there were two brothers named Lokmere and Shamere, and they were disciples of Guru Gobind Singh. Without having any fear of the Moghul army, they allowed the Master to come and stay in their house. When the Governor of Punjab came to know about this, he wrote a letter to Lokmere and Shamere saying, "He is a fugitive of the government and you should bring Him to the court, otherwise you will be put to death." But because both of them were very devoted disciples of Guru Gobind Singh, they wrote back to the governor, whose name was Mujit Khan, "You can capture Guru Gobind Singh only after killing us. As long as we are alive nobody can kill Him." So Guru Gobind Singh stayed in their house for six months, and they served Him with their whole heart; and He was very pleased with their seva.

Once Guru Gobind Singh gave some parshad to Shamere and told him to eat, and to give it to the other members of his family. The Master told him that this parshad would cut the cycle of births and deaths of him and his family. So when Shamere came with the parshad to his family, his uncle, who was devoted to Sultan Pir (Sultan Pir was a mahatma in India: nobody knows when he was born or when he died, but people still believe that he was God), told him, "How can he give you anything when he himself is homeless?" So he didn't have any faith in the parshad given by Guru Gobind Singh. He frightened Shamere by telling him, "Sultan Pir will come and give you trouble, because you are not believing in him and you are believing in Guru Gobind Singh." So Shamere, because he was afraid of his uncle, didn't eat the parshad and he didn't give it to anybody else. He dug a small ditch in the ground and he put the parshad in that. But some of the little girls in his family, who saw this, came and took out the parshad from the ground and ate it. So when Shamere came back to Guru Gobind Singh, He told him that that parshad was going to cut the cycle of births and deaths of his family and it was very bad that he did not take advantage of it. “But,” Guru Gobind Singh told him, “because the little girls have eaten that parshad, it will do good for them. And from now on in your family, no girl will remain without any children.”

Then, because Guru Gobind Singh was still pleased with him, he gave His horse to Shamere and told him, “You go around wherever you want and the place you will cover with the horse will be yours.” Shamere was still under the influence of his uncle who had told him, “How can he give you anything, when he himself is homeless?” But on the other side he was afraid of Guru Gobind Singh, so he went around the village taking the Master’s horse.

When he came back, Guru Gobind Singh told him, “I wanted to give you the kingdom of all this world but still you didn’t take advantage of my boon. Now I am giving you one more chance because I am very pleased with you, and you can ask for anything you like from me.” So Shamere said to Guru Gobind Singh, “I am very much afraid that if you will give me any outward thing I will not be able to take advantage of that.” Then he requested Him, “Please cut the pain of births and deaths, and don’t send me into the cycle of 84 lakhs births and deaths.” So Guru Gobind Singh told him to go and sleep, and in the dreams he saw all the lives which he had to live. In the end he saw that he was going to be born in a very poor family and once there was going to be a drought, and he had to go into the forest to cut some wood. When he went to cut the wood, on the tree there was some fruit also; and he was eating one of those fruits when he suddenly fell down from the tree. And when he woke up he still had the fruit in his mouth. So in that way all his karmas were finished in the dreams.

When he came back to Guru Gobind Singh, he thanked him and told him, “I have undergone all the sufferings in the dreams.” Then the Master told him, “All your karmas are finished and you will not have to go in any birth and death, and now the door of Guru Nanak is open to you and you are already liberated.”

This was an incident of three hundred years back; but still the family from whom the girls ate the parshad, in that family there has been no girl who has not had children. The power of the parshad still works in that family. The area which Shamere covered with the horse of Guru Gobind Singh is still owned by that family. This is the greatness of parshad. Bhai Dhyani Singh was a devoted disciple of Guru Gobind Singh. Once he sent his son named Bishamber Singh to hear the satsang of the Master. He gave him five hundred rupees to give as a donation to Guru Gobind Singh. When he came to the Master he saw that there were lots of things in the Ashram. So he thought, “What is the need of giving this five hundred rupees as a donation to this place? – because already there is lots of wealth here.” But when he heard the satsang of Guru Gobind Singh, because other people were also giving, he felt that he should also give. But in his mind he thought, “My father is a crazy one, that he is spending this five hundred rupees uselessly.” But anyway, when he gave the five hundred rupees, Guru Gobind Singh gave him some parshad; but that was only a few pieces of sweets and some corn. So when he got that much in return for five hundred rupees, he became very sad; because in those days five hundred rupees was a very great amount. On his way back home he spent one night at another satsangi's home, because in those days there were no motors, no cars, no jeeps, and the traveling was very slow. They were also disciples of Guru Gobind Singh, and they were very poor; but when they asked him, "From where have you come?" and he replied, "I went to hear the satsang of Guru Gobind Singh," they were very pleased to know that, and they started serving him. Somebody was giving him massage, somebody was washing his feet, and whatever they had they were serving him. So Bishamber thought, "They are also crazy like my father, that they are serving me." When they asked, "Did you get any parshad from Guru Gobind Singh?" he said, "Yes, my father gave me five hundred rupees and I gave that to Guru Gobind Singh, and in return He gave me only a few pieces of sweets. My father has done very poor merchandise and I have lost in this business." But because they were very devoted to Guru Gobind Singh, they asked him if he would like to sell that parshad to them. He said, "Yes, I will be very glad to give you this parshad if you will give me my five hundred rupees back." So that poor family bought that parshad from that person. They were so poor they had to sell the vessels of their home in order to collect that five hundred rupees. After getting the money, Bishamber continued on his way home. On the journey, he did some business with that money and he earned a lot more from that. But on the other side, the family who ate that parshad with full faith and devotion for the Master, their inner vision was opened and whatever business they did, they made a lot of profit, and in that way, in due course of time, they became very wealthy. When Bishamber came back to his father, carrying lots of money, he gave that money to his father; but after a few days it so happened with his Master's will that whatever business Dhyan Singh was doing, he was losing in that. So after some time he became poor. Then Dhyan Singh asked his son, "When you went to Guru Gobind Singh, did He give you any parshad?" He replied, "Yes, He gave me some corn and some sweets, but on the way back I met a crazy one like you, and he bought that parshad from me, giving me the five hundred rupees back." And then Dhyan Singh realized that he had lost a lot. He rebuked his son and told him, "There was Master's Grace in that parshad, and you have lost that; that's why I am losing in my business."

So he took his son and went back to the poor family who had bought that parshad from his son and he requested them, "Please give me that parshad back; I am ready to give you double or triple the amount of money which you gave to my son." But they replied, "We have already eaten that parshad, and that parshad has opened our inner vision. Moreover, that parshad is the main reason for our prosperity. From where can we give you that parshad?" Dhyan Singh requested them, "At least you say that you have given us parshad." But he replied, "I can't do that. But I can go with you to Guru Gobind Singh and plead on your behalf." So Dhyan Singh, his son, and that other person went to the Master, and they requested Him to forgive them. Guru Gobind Singh replied to them, "I can again give you those few pieces of sweets and corn, but in that parshad there was a lot of grace; now you have to meditate to receive that same amount of grace." In the same way, only a few people understand and appreciate the greatness of parshad. But foolish people like us do not appreciate the parshad, and that's why we share it with others, or sometimes we sell it. Once when Guru Gobind Singh came to Rajasthan, He stayed overnight at one Muslim's house, and the bed on which He slept is still with that Muslim family. The Sikh people are ready to give thousands of rupees for that, but they will not give that bed to them. Even though in the Punjab the Sikh people were ruling, and the government of Punjab requested help from the government of Rajasthan to force that family to give that bed to the Sikhs, still that man refused, and said, “This is the parshad of our Master, and my fathers and forefathers have kept this. I won’t give you this at any cost.”

If I tell you all the stories of Guru Gobind Singh, all the things which He did in Punjab and Rajasthan, you will find that many things are still working and having the grace of Guru Gobind Singh in those places, even though those things happened three hundred years back. Hazur Kirpal was also the same Power Who came to this world, and He also gave a lot of parshad to this world, and through His parshad He gave a lot of His grace. And we people took advantage of that personality, depending upon our faith and depending upon our receptivity. And now also, those who are having full faith in Him, they are receiving His grace according to their receptivity.

1978 February: Anyone Can Do It

Morning darshan at Sant Bani Ashram, Aug. 8, 1977

SANT JI: Now, if anybody wants to ask a question about meditation, he can.

QUESTION: If the mind is wandering and I don’t seem to be able to get it together to meditate, is it better to do something else and then go back to meditate, or just stay in and fight it?

SANT JI: You should do Simran. Right from the beginning when you sit you should start fighting with the mind. And you should always tell him that you are not going to obey him.

Mind is such a power that to control it without Simran or without Master’s Grace is impossible for a human.

Even doing Simran, we need the Grace of Master Power. Because behind the Simran, the spiritual Power of the Sant Satguru is working. Swami Ji Maharaj said, “Kill your mind with the strength of Master. Only by using the power of Master can you control the mind.”

QUESTION: What should one do if one hears sound from the left side while doing Bhajan?

SANT JI: You should not listen to it.

QUESTION: Master, it seems that when I do Simran really well, my body slips down, and then my mind tells me my body is down. And I realize that I’m down, and if I don’t get up I’ll fall. What should I do?

SANT JI: When you are sitting, first of all sit correctly. Once you have taken any position, don’t move at any cost. It is the work of our mind to disturb us in our meditation. Either he will make you feel like stretching in the body, or he will tell you to get up early. He is always going to disturb you in your meditation.

Kabir Sahib said, “The mind is such a thing that first it brings the inspiration within us to do devotion, and after we begin, it tells us to leave it. And then we start thinking we will do it later.” This is the way that mind is keeping us in the state of neither doing devotion nor leaving devotion.

QUESTION: When my body works hard, I have trouble sitting for more than an hour in the morning and a half hour at night because I fall asleep right away from being physically tired. This seems to be in the way of my meditations, but it doesn't seem right that I should stop work and just be – well, I'm not a Saint yet. I don't know what I should do about this.

SANT JI : [Laughs] You see, those who are working very hard, because of tiredness, they feel sleepy. And those who do not have any work to do, they have the problem that the mind always brings sleep to them. So the problem of sleep is for everyone, whether he is working hard or not. But when we have to do the devotion, and when we are here for doing meditation, we should understand that this is our most important job, and for that, no excuse is accepted.

Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Doing the worldly work all day, one does not get tired. But when the time comes for meditation on the Lord one feels as if someone has put stones on his head.” One becomes a Saint only after doing meditation. Without meditation nobody has achieved the status of a Saint. You can also become a Saint in this lifetime if you meditate.

Kabir Sahib has said, “Devotion is just like a ball with which people are playing on the ground.” Anyone can take that ball away, whether he is man or woman, whether he is of high caste or low caste, whether he is poor or rich. Those who have love and devotion, they can take that ball of devotion.

And Master also used to say the same thing. In the book Pita Put, He has written very clearly: “Spirituality is not for only one particular family, or one particular place. Anyone can achieve it.” One time that Lord manifested in Ravidas, the cobbler; one time He manifested in Kabir, the weaver. And the same Lord manifested one time in King Pipa and the same Lord manifested in Sejho Bhai [a famous woman Saint]. It is not true that only the poor have achieved it and not the wealthy people, or that only the wealthy people could do it and not poor people, or that only men have become Saints and not women. Those who have worked hard on this Path, those who did meditation with full love and devotion, they achieved that.

QUESTION: Sometimes I'm not sure if my focus is lower than it should be. It seems like it might be. And I was wondering if more concentrated Simran would bring it up – or maybe it's my head going down.

SANT JI: Many times I have said this thing: right from the beginning, when you sit for meditation, you should fix your gaze right in the center of the eyes. And after that you should not move it up or down. You see, when we are thinking, if we think anything about this world, then also our attention goes right into the eye center, because our mind and soul are tied together here. Whatever thinking or whatever mental activity we are doing, that happens only from this center. We people do not understand this. If we did, we would see that this practice which we have been given is very easy, simple, and natural, because we are very deeply connected to the eye center. Without exerting any pressure and without making any effort, our attention, our awareness, goes right into that place.

QUESTION: Now that I'm sitting more and doing more meditation, my mind is cursing me. I grow very tense. I used to feel very much peace when I let the mind wander sometimes and come back to the center sometimes. Now it is such a battle and I don't know what to do.

SANT JI: We should always continue our struggle with the mind. If you are trying to throw out the enemy from your home, or you are trying to control your enemy, naturally he will rebel. Kabir Sahib has said, "In this world nobody is an enemy of anybody. Only the mind is the enemy who is residing in everybody."

QUESTION: Since I've been here I've noticed I have great pain in my back and my legs. I don't normally have that when I meditate; I don't know why only here. Is it the Negative Power working?

SANT JI: In India it is said that Harijans, or untouchables, who have not been given the opportunity to go to school and get knowledge, are mostly illiterate; and now also it is true. There was one man from that caste who didn't know how to read or write. But still he would pretend he was a learned man. He would always carry a book, saying that he was a learned man. Because the others also were illiterate, nobody knew whether he was learned or illiterate. But when he came to another town and some people brought some letters to him and requested him to read them, because he didn't know how to read, he made the excuse, "The book which I have learned, I left it in my home. This is not a thing that I have learned."

So it is the same thing here also. In your home, whenever you want, you can move, and you do. But here, when you have to sit in the battlefield with all the other soldiers, at that time you are feeling much pain. The Negative Power has nothing to do with it. And I saw that you were sleeping today. [Laughter]

1978 April/May: All Masters Had Masters

Sant Ajaib Singh Ji, Sant Bani Ashram, August 13, 1977

QUESTION: I have a very strong tendency to be lazy, to be easy on myself. And I was wondering what I should do to overcome that.

SANT JI: If there were no easiness in laziness then who would be lazy? [Laughs] And we should know that laziness is disturbing us even in worldly work. In meditation, if you are lazy, you can't meditate. Swami Ji Maharaj says that those who are thieves of meditation, those who don't want to do meditation, only they are troubled by laziness and sleep. You can increase the appetite and laziness as much as you want and you can decrease it as much as you want. There is only one way to give up the laziness: whenever the mind brings the feeling of laziness in you, on that day you make your mind sit for one more hour. In that way, if you punish it, it will not bring laziness.

QUESTION: Does the present Master take on the bad effects of deeds of disciples of the last Master? In other words, are the initiates of Kirpal Singh a drain on You?

SANT JI: If one loves the present Master, whether he is initiated or not, still the Master takes on his karmas. Saints are without any enmity and they understand the whole of creation as their own. Many times I have told the story of Harnam Singh, who was a certain man in our village and who was liberated by our Master, even though he was not an initiate. He just saw Him once when Master was traveling in a car. He had His darshan and he dwelt on that darshan in his heart. And only because of that, after six months, when Harnam left the body, Master came there. And it was in our own field that he came and liberated him.

QUESTION: I have a two-part question. First, should we look into the eyes of others? The second part, would the Master talk about the importance of the eyes of the Master... as our only hope.

SANT JI: At least a hundred times I have responded to this question, and it will be published in Sant Bani Magazine. But still I will tell you. Master used to say that whatever you can get from a Master is only by looking into His eyes. And all the past Mahatmas, those who came here, they also said the same thing. Bhai Nand Lal, who was an initiate of Guru Gobind Singh, requested his Master, “O Master, on Your side it is a question of one glance and on mine it is the question of my whole life. If You graciously look at me and if You give me Your sight only once, even then I can be liberated.”

Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj says, “The nectar is flowing through the eyes of a Saint. If the Saint wants to make anybody else a Saint, He graciously looks with His eyes which are full of nectar.” Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Looking at the body of the Satguru, still I always want to look at it.”

Guru Arjan Dev Ji says, “Looking at the body of the beloved all the twenty-four hours of the day, still I am wandering here and there. Whenever I look at him, only then I find peace. Otherwise I am like a madman.”

And Hazrat Bahu says, “If Satguru gives one look He can liberate thousands.” And then He says, “If a thousand learned people look, it doesn’t have any meaning.” But it is a pity that we do such bad karmas that whatever the gracious sight they give to us, it is all wasted in purifying us again and again. In this way we are using the medicine and we are eating the poison also. We are doing meditation, but on the other side we go on doing bad deeds. So whenever They look into our eyes with Their gracious eyes They make us pure. But when we do bad deeds again we become impure.

QUESTION: Does the Master’s forehead have the same radiation as His eyes?

SANT JI: The radiance comes out from every cell of His body.

QUESTION: I have difficulty deciding something and then sticking to it. Maybe I decide one thing, to pursue one course, and then I lose interest in that. I feel I can’t devote myself wholeheartedly to anything for a long time. How can I overcome that?

SANT JI: You should meditate. In meditation, you will get some relief from this. Many people have this habit of thinking and making plans. But they do not put them into practice.

QUESTION: Have any of the past Masters achieved being a Master without the aid of a Master? Have they done it by themselves?

SANT JI: No. It is never possible. Mahatma Ravidas has written this very openly. He says, “Just as it is impossible to get a child without the union of mother and father, in the same way, without the aid of the Master we can’t succeed in the path of spirituality.” It is true that the Masters of some of the past Masters are known because they have been mentioned in the writings. And some Masters of the past Masters are not known because their name has not been mentioned in the writings. But the principle or the law is for everybody. Everybody had a Master; without a Master nobody achieved this position. When we read their bani, then we come to know that they also had a Master, because all the Masters have sung the praise of their Master.

The Hindu people believe that Dhanna Bhagat was a perfect Saint. They believe that Dhanna Bhagat was an idol worshiper who achieved God by worshiping idols. But the reality is exactly opposite to that. He was the Master of Trilochan, but it is written in the Hindu scriptures that Trilochan was Master of Dhanna Bhagat. Dhanna came in a family of farmers and Trilochan was a disciple, an initiate of some perfect Master in his past life. But because of circumstances, after getting initiation, he didn’t do meditation, and he did not go back to his real home. So again he was given the human body. In his next life, when he came into this world, he came in the body of a pundit in the Swaran caste – that is considered a high caste, and they worship idols. He also was involved in that worship that his parents were doing: the idol worship in the temples. So because Dhanna Bhagat had to liberate his disciple Trilochan of his past life, he came in the body of a farmer. And once he came to Trilochan, becoming as an innocent farmer, and looking at the idols there, he said, “Brother, the big things which I am seeing look as if they are five pounds, and the others are one pound each. And what are these small ones? Are they ounces? Please give me one little one.” So he said, “All right, I will give it to you.” But because Trilochan saw that Dhanna was very innocent and didn’t know what this was all about, he told him, “I will give you this god. But first of all you have to give me one milk-giving cow.”

Dhanna had a lot of cows because he was a farmer. And because he had come there to liberate Trilochan and teach him a lesson, he gave him one cow and he took one small idol from Trilochan. Then what did he do with the idol? He put the idol to one side and after a few days he went back to Trilochan, who was offering a little bit of food to one of his idols. (The Hindu people make some halvah or any sweet thing, and they come to the temple and put it in the mouth of the idol. Then the priest or those who are worshiping the idol eat all that halvah saying, “Now God has eaten, the rest is for me and I am eating that.” So to remove that, after putting a little bit of food in the mouth, they at once remove it with ashes and clean the idol with ashes and water.) So when Dhanna saw that Trilochan was doing this, he said, “Brother, why are you deceiving the god?” So Trilochan said, “Who says I am deceiving him?” Dhanna said, “The thakar (the idol) says so.” Trilochan said, “They never speak!” But Dhanna said, “No, that is not true. The thakar that you have given me, he speaks and he is doing all my work.” So Trilochan said, “I don’t believe that, because I gave it to you! I can’t believe that. Can you show me?” So Dhanna said, “Yes, I can show you.” Because it is a rule that one who has seen God, he can also make others see God. So when Dhanna Bhagat brought Trilochan to his farm, he told him, “Now, you look at my farm. He is plowing my fields, he is taking care of my cows, he is doing all my work. He is carrying water and everything.” But Trilochan said, “I can’t see him.” Because he was very much impure, he was not able to see God doing all that work. So Dhanna said, “You can see that, but you have this fault,” and started pointing out all his faults: “You eat people’s donations, you enjoy lust. You have this bad quality, you have that bad quality.” Trilochan realized that he had all those bad qualities. So because he yearned for God realization and because he wanted to see Him working at all the places that Dhanna had told him, he said, “All right, I will give up this, I will also give up this.” When any patient goes to a doctor, the doctor doesn’t have any enmity with him. But first he removes all the pus from the wound and only then he applies the medicine. In the same way, when Dhanna purified Trilochan, and when he saw that now he was pure, then he gave him his attention and took him up, and then he saw that God was working at all the places.

So because first Dhanna went to Trilochan and got that idol from him, it is said that Trilochan was the Master of Dhanna. And because Trilochan was an idol worshiper, it is said that Dhanna also realized God by worshiping an idol. But it is not true. Who is Master in this case? The one who showed him that God is in all places. Dhanna was the Master of Trilochan.

So in the same way, the Masters who came in the past all had their Master. Without a Master, they couldn’t get the knowledge. And it is true that in some places their Masters are known because they are mentioned in the writings, and in some places they are not known. That’s why people who are sitting on the level of mind and intellect make up stories by themselves and in some places they say that such and such a Saint was an idol worshiper or such a Saint realized God by bathing in the holy waters, or things like that.

And Dhanna Bhagat has written himself in the bani, “Those who are worshiping idols, stones, and those who are worshiping water, they are making useless efforts, because our Thakar, our God, is speaking, He is living, and He does all our work.” And he has written that whoever has achieved God has done so only by meeting the Saints. When Masters leave this physical world, their disciples spoil their writings. And after that whatever they read from the scriptures, they believe that. Swami Ji Maharaj made this Path known to the people, and of him also it is written that he didn’t have any Master. But you can read in his writings, Sar Bachan, how much he has praised the Master. And many people say, and they know, that Swami Ji got the Light from Tulsi Sahib, and Tulsi Sahib was his Master. But when he left the body, his disciples at Agra wrote that Swami Ji didn’t have any Master. Baba Jaimal Singh told them, “Don’t say that my Master didn’t have any Master, because He Himself has written many hymns in praise of His Master.” In the same way you can read the bani of Guru Nanak Sahib. In all his hymns, every single word sings the praise of the Master. And one who has tasted rock candy, only he can describe the taste of rock candy. If he had not met the Master why has he written all this praise of the Master? Because he had a Master, that is why he wrote the praise of the Master. But after him, his followers have written in many books that Guru Nanak didn’t have any Master – because they understand that it is bad for them to say that Guru Nanak also had a Master. But the reality is that Guru Nanak used to go to Kabir Sahib, and he got the knowledge of spirituality from Kabir Sahib. Because of that fact, the other Gurus appreciated and respected Kabir Sahib so much that the loom on which Kabir Sahib used to work to earn his livelihood was carried by Teg Bahadur, the ninth Guru of the Sikhs, on his head, from Kashi where Kabir Sahib used to live, to Patna, where it is preserved in a museum. So much appreciation and respect the other Gurus had for Kabir Sahib! But the Sikh people feel that if they say that Kabir Sahib was the Master of Guru Nanak, because he was a weaver, that means they will have to feel shame, because Kabir Sahib was low caste. Regarding Kabir Sahib also, Kabir was the first Saint to incarnate in this world and he came in all four ages. But he also observed the limitations of this world, and he also had a Master. But after him his followers say he didn't have any Master. In the same way, Prophet Mohammed has also written in the Koran – people say that Prophet Mohammed didn't have any Master, but he himself writes – "O man, go to the Masters, so that they can break the seal of your ears and you can hear the divine music of God which is resounding within you. Because I have got a Master I am able to hear that and you should also go to him." Kabir Sahib says, "Rama and Krishna, they were the greatest to come in this world from the Negative Power. But they also observed the limitations of this world, and they also had a Master."

Even though Kabir Sahib was all-power and even if he had not taken anyone as Guru, still it was not going to matter much. But still he didn't break the limits and traditions and that's why he took Ramananda as his Master. But the fact was that Ramananda was liberated by Kabir Sahib. Ramananda was an idol worshiper and didn't have any knowledge of spirituality. But the Hindu people were taking him as a very great holy man, and they were also criticizing Kabir Sahib because he didn't have any Master or guru, saying that to take initiation or to take a mantra from him is a sin. Kabir Sahib was a very clever Mahatma, and he thought that if he took any small Mahatma as his Master, then these people would not believe. So he should take somebody who is well-known among all these people as his Master. But since Ramananda was not happy in even seeing any Muslim, and because Kabir was born in a Muslim family, there was no question of taking initiation from Ramananda. It was impossible for him.

Ramananda used to go, every morning, to the River Ganges. So, because Kabir Sahib wanted to take him as his Master, Kabir changed his form into a small child. He lay down on the steps on which Ramananda was coming back. It was very dark, and accidentally Ramananda stepped on that child. And Kabir, who was that child, started weeping. Who knows whether Ramananda really stepped on Kabir Sahib or not?

But still Kabir wanted some excuse to weep, so he started weeping. Ramananda was very much afraid and he said, "O man of God, repeat God. O man of God, repeat God." – like that. But Kabir Sahib went on weeping. And he again said this thing, "O man of God, repeat God." And Ramananda came back home and Kabir disappeared from that place.

After that Kabir Sahib started saying to people, "Ramananda is my Master. I have got initiation from Him." So the Hindu people were very upset with Ramananda, and they came to him, saying, "You have got thousands of Hindu disciples but you are still hungry for more. Why did you make this Muslim your disciple?" In those days, people were believing very much in caste. So Ramananda said, "Who said he is my disciple? I do not know any Kabir and I have not given initiation to any Kabir." So all the Hindu people came to Kabir Sahib and told him, "You come with us to Ramananda. You are saying that he is your Master but he doesn't believe that. You come with us." So Kabir went to Ramananda's home. And at that time Ramananda was worshiping an idol of Lord Vishnu. Because he was never happy to see the faces of Muslim people, he had a curtain and Kabir Sahib was sitting on the other side of the curtain. Ramananda was playing with the idol and at the end he put the crown on the head of the idol, but he forgot to put the chain on the neck. So he was very confused at what to do then, because if he removed the crown from the head that meant disrespect and there was no other way to put the chain on the neck. So Kabir Sahib, who was all-conscious, said, “Master, Guru Ji, why are you so confused? Just unhook the chain and then again hook it and then you will be able to put the chain around the neck.” When he saw Kabir Sahib was sitting there on the other side of the curtain and couldn’t even see him, he thought, “How did he know I had this problem? And he has solved my problem!” He was very surprised. So he talked with him and said, “When did I initiate you?” Kabir Sahib reminded him of the incident and he told him, “You stepped on me and you told me to repeat this thing, so I am repeating that, and you are my Master.”

So Ramananda said, “That was a child; but you are Kabir.” He said, “If you want me to become a child, I can show you. Now also I can change myself into a child and I can show you that I am the same thing.” So when Ramananda came to know all this he said, “If you are all-conscious, then why is there this curtain between you and me? So remove that curtain.” So after that Kabir Sahib liberated Ramananda. Even though Ramananda had received a lot from Kabir, still he was involved in all the practices he was doing, rites and rituals and idol worshiping. Once Ramananda was performing the ceremony in which they make many good foods and they give it to the people, saying, “This is going to our fathers and forefathers, those who have died and who are residing in the heavens.” For that ceremony Ramananda sent all his disciples including Kabir Sahib into the village to get some milk to make rice pudding and other things. So Kabir also went and there he saw that there was one dead cow, and by force he started putting some food in the mouth of that dead cow. Because she was dead, she couldn’t eat by herself. But by using a stick, he was forcing the food in her mouth. He started milking her. But she was dead; how could she give milk? So the other disciples, when they saw Kabir doing this thing, they came to Ramananda and reported it. Ramananda called Kabir and rebuked him and said, “Oh man, the dead cow cannot eat food and she cannot give milk.” So Kabir Sahib said, “Guru Ji, are you sure that the dead cow cannot eat anything or give any fruit?” So he said, “Yes, that is definitely true.” So he said, “Well, how are you sure that the food that you are giving to other people, saying, ‘This is going to go to your fathers, those who are residing in the heavens?’ will really give you fruit?” Ramananda didn’t have any reply to that. And Kabir Sahib only did this to teach him a lesson because Kabir Sahib had made up his mind to liberate Ramananda.

You see, no one can succeed even in worldly work without the help of a Master or teacher. The problem or the work of spirituality is very complicated and in this, without the help of a Master, no one can become a Master. But this is what happens: after the Masters leave the body, the followers change the form of the writings and in that way, for the coming generations, it becomes a matter of great confusion. No Master has written in his writings or in his book that he is the last Master or that no one will come after him; or only the books or the writings that he has written are the Masters, or that only by bowing down to him, you can get the benefit of liberation. But it is a pity that even though they have not written that, still we change their form and we make people bow down to the holy scriptures and we make people remember only them. Guru Gobind Singh has not written even a word in his writings that no one will come after him, or after him there will be no Saint, or only this book is your Master. But the Sikh people are always saying, “He has written this, and He is the last one.” Because I was born in a Sikh family and my parents were also believing in the Sikh holy book, the Guru Granth Sahib, I was also devoted to that book. But in Guru Granth Sahib a lot is written in praise of the Saints and Satguru. And that's why whenever we were reading that, we were feeling very much in need of seeing the Satguru. In the beginning, when I used to go to Baba Bishan Das, and he would praise his Master, I would feel very confused and I would argue with him. And I would tell him, "Nobody is the Master after Guru Gobind Singh; it is written in the book." But Baba Bishan Das would lovingly explain to me and tell me that nowhere was that written. So I bought a little book of Guru Granth Sahib and for one year I read that many times to find out that word which would say that there can be no Master after Guru Gobind Singh, which is what all the people say.

It is not written in the Guru Granth Sahib, but in the other bani which they have made up and which is not included in the book. But if we explain that hymn, that hymn also says to go to the Master. He says, "When the timeless God ordered me, then I started this Path." The Hindi word which is used here is punt, which can either mean the Path or it can mean the community or religion also.

So then Guru Gobind Singh said, "When the timeless God ordered me, then I started this Punt, or Path. And now it is ordered for all the Sikhs to take the Granth as their Master." Now when we take anybody as the Master, or when we take a book as the Master, we have to obey what the book or the Master tells us. And every single line of the book says, "Go to the Masters." So he is saying that if you take the Guru Granth as your Master, then you must go to the living Master who has manifested in this world.

Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj said, "Our mind started coming to rest and got peace only when it came in the company of the living Master." Then he continued that those who are pure in their hearts and those who will meditate on the Shabd which the living Master has given them, they will realize the truth. Then he said that the Khalsa or the pure one would rule over all and nobody else would be the ruler. Now we have to think: who is the Khalsa or the pure one? Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj says that he who goes within and sees the pure Light and manifests that pure Light, only he is the Pure One or Khalsa. Only he is the pure one who has risen above lust, anger, greed, attachment, and egoism. Other souls have become the food of the Negative Power. And those who will take refuge in the Shabd, only they can be saved because only they will go and merge in the Shabd.

The hymn of Guru Gobind Singh which I mentioned just now, that is not written by Guru Gobind Singh and it is not included in the Granth Sahib. It was written by other people after He left. Whenever Saints and Mahatmas have come, they all have emphasized the need for the Master:

they all have said that you have to take a Master. And they also tell us whom we should take as the Master: only one Who has become the form of Shabd, one Who is meditating on Shabd and Who has manifested that Shabd within Him. We should take only Him as the Master. We should not go and take any other person as the Master such as those who just blow air in your ear and say, "I am your Master and you are my disciple." That Master will not do any good for us. We have to see the Mahatma's meditation. We have to see whether in his life the Mahatma has done the meditation of Shabd Naam or not. It is a pity that people go to such persons and take them as their Masters who are not sitting even once in cross-legged position for meditation. Guru Nanak Sahib says, "Those who are already drowned, how are they going to take you out of the water? Those who are still involved in this world, how can they liberate you from this world?"

Swami Ji Maharaj says, "Now you give up the false Master and in that way you will be free from one more sin." So we should always look at the meditation of the Mahatma. We should always look to his life, whether he is doing the meditation of Shabd Naam or whether he has done any sacrifice in this Path; because without sacrifice and without meditation on Shabd Naam, no one can get to Sach Khand or become the Master.

1978 June: The Story of Poono and Sussi

Morning darshan with Sant Ajaib Singh Ji on August 14, 1977

QUESTION: I'm going to ask two questions but I want to do one thing at a time. Master Kirpal has said that we shouldn't look into the eyes of others, especially of the opposite sex and animals. I wonder if Sant Ji could explain this further. Can we look into anybody's eyes if we see Sant Ji in them and love them? Are there people whose eyes we shouldn't look into?

SANT JI: Many times this has been answered. The thing is, you should never look into the eyes of any man or woman with bad thoughts. The teachings of the Master are not for man only or woman only; they are for everyone. They speak to all humans. Guru Nanak Sahib says, "With a leer in your eyes, don't look into the eyes of any woman. And always keep your attention, always keep the remembrance of Saints and Masters in you." Bhai Gurdas Ji said, "A woman should not look into the eyes of any other man except her husband, no matter how beautiful or how wealthy the other man is. If he is of the same age as the woman, she should understand him as brother, if he is older she should take him as father or elder brother, and if he is younger she should understand him as son or younger brother."

The same thing applies for man also. He should never look into the eyes of another woman except his wife, no matter how beautiful she is. He should always understand other women as sisters and mothers. And we should make our sight full of love: always lovingly we should look at other people. Even when we are looking at animals, into the eyes of animals and birds, if we have that loving sight, we will never think ill of them and we will never think of giving them any trouble. The loving sight has this principle: "Live and let live." Because we are not looking at animals with loving sight, people are killing them understanding that God has created them only for our eating. Until you make your sight like this there can be no thought of progressing in meditation. Through the eyes we are scattered a lot in this world.

QUESTION: My other question was, I want to hear a love story of Sant Ji with Master. Please, please tell the story of Sussi and Poono and Your love for Kirpal.

SANT JI : Regarding Sussi and Poono and all the other great lovers of the world, we know that their love was not like the love of us, the worldly people. They were chaste even in their thoughts, and as far as deed was concerned, there also they were chaste. They always had chaste love. And the Fakirs of the Sufis held this principle and have said this thing: Until a man is perfect in the love of the body, he cannot have love for God. The love for the body works like a bridge, and it is only to cross this. Once we have perfected in the love of body, then we get the Divine Love. So, first of all we have to become fond of the body of the Master. We have to love the body of Master, but we are not to just catch the body and not the other thing. If we will just catch the body and stand on this thing, we will never progress; because one day the body of Master is also going to die. And one day the body of the disciple is also going to die. And in that way people will taunt you, that your Master has died. What answer will you have for them?

But the thing which has come in the experience of the Master is that the Guru never takes birth and never dies, because He is a Power. And that Power is not finished today, nor is it going to be finished tomorrow. That Power is for always and always. That's why Saints say you should love the Power, or you should be connected to the Power, which is working through the body, but what is our condition? We are just attached to the body and not catching the Power. Kabir Sahib says, "We have done the Master of body, but we are not searching for the real Satguru Who is within us." And in that way, we are attached only to the body of the Master and not to that Power which is working in Him. We also share the cycle of 84 lakhs and we also wander in the births – in the cycle of bodies. Sussi was born to a king. And kings believe in astrologers because they are worried about their kingdom, their future. So the father of Sussi had a horoscope made for Sussi, and the astrologers told him, "She will become a source of suffering to you and it is not good for you to keep her in your home. Whatever dowry you are going to give her when she grows up, you should put that much wealth in a box along with this little girl, and you should throw that box in the river. In that way you will become free from all the sufferings which are going to come in the future." It is the habit of astrologers to exploit people's superstition and in that way to plunder them. This also was a trick of the astrologers. They wanted to take that wealth that the king was going to put in that box. The king did what they told him. But he also put a locket round Sussi's neck which had a picture of himself. And when that box was thrown into the river, the astrologer tried to take hold of it, but the river was flowing so fast that he was not able to. From the other direction a bear was coming down the river, and he was suffering because he had not eaten food for many days. So when that astrologer saw that some black thing was coming, he thought it was that same box, and he jumped in to take it. But the bear attacked him. A friend of the astrologer was standing on the bank, and he thought that he had got hold of that box. But when the astrologer called, "This is a bear! Please come and help me!" the friend said, "Leave him alone and come back." He said, "I want to leave him but he is not leaving me." In that way he was killed by that bear. While that box was floating on the water, a washer man was washing clothes on the river bank. When he saw that box coming, he took it. When he opened that he was surprised to find a baby girl and all that wealth. And by that time, Sussi was very hungry. He knew that this was God's gift and, understanding Sussi as his daughter, he raised her up. Once it so happened, after Sussi had grown into a very beautiful girl, that the same king, the father of Sussi, came to the place where the washer man was living, for hunting. When he saw that beautiful Sussi, he fell in love with her. He wanted to marry her, but he did not realize that she was his own daughter. So he requested the washer man to give him Sussi for his wife. The washer man asked Sussi, and she said, "Father, wherever you send me, I will go there."

So Sussi was brought to the palace of the king. And when the king came to Sussi to enjoy with her, he saw her locket and was very surprised to see his own picture. When he asked Sussi, she said, "I don't know who I am. But I know this; that that washer man brought me up, and I have been wearing this locket since my birth." Then the king came to know everything, and he realized that Sussi was his daughter. So after that, he took care of her as his daughter, because she was his daughter. And he gave her an orchard and he built her a good palace.

Then Sussi fell in love with Poono, although she had never seen him. But she had seen his picture, because Poono was very beautiful and it is the habit of painters to paint portraits of good models. A painter in the town where Sussi was living saw Poono, painted his picture, and hung that painting in his shop. When Sussi went shopping she saw that picture and fell in love with him. And it is said in her history that for twelve years she waited for him and understood him as her husband even though she had not seen him physically, and even though Poono knew nothing about her. For those twelve years Sussi became very restless – she didn't even sleep for these twelve years because always she was waiting for Poono to come.

Poono knew nothing about Sussi. But once he had a dream in which he was told, "In that town there is one girl named Sussi and she has been waiting for you for the last twelve years and you should go there." As soon as he saw Sussi in the dream, he fell in love with her. So he left his home and came to the place where Sussi was living. In those days there were no jeeps, cars or anything like that; he came with many camels to the place where Sussi was living. He left his camels in the orchards and they started eating fruit and destroying all the crops in the field. So the friends of Sussi came to her and said, "One man has come and he is destroying all your fields. He has brought many camels with him." So Sussi came there to punish that man. But when she saw Poono there, and realized that he was her beloved for whom she had been waiting for the past twelve years, she felt so happy that she forgot everything about the fields. Because they both had chaste love, their thoughts were chaste, as soon as they met, they were very happy and in that happiness they forgot everything, and they slept. In the meantime, the parents of Poono thought, since Poono was their only son, "If he marries Sussi, he will go and stay there, and who will take care of us?" So they sent friends of Poono to bring him back without marrying Sussi. When the friends arrived, at that time Poono and Sussi were both sleeping. Poono was awakened by those friends and given wine to drink. And in that intoxication, he was carried back to his home unaware that he was leaving Sussi there. On the next morning when Sussi woke up, and saw that Poono was not lying on the bed, she became very unhappy and started tearing out her hair, the hair which she had been nourishing with butter. She had been taking good care of her body, but now she started destroying it – because the ornament of her heart was separated from her and that was the will of God. Many people said to her, "When he has left you, you should not bother about him; you should not wait for him anymore." But because Sussi had real love for Poono, she did not accept that. And she left that place and started to search for Poono.

There was a desert through which she had to go in order to reach Poono's home. She didn't know which direction to go but, following the footsteps of the camel, she was going. It was very hot in the desert, and because she had not eaten or drunk, she was very thirsty also. At one place she saw an oasis and there was one shepherd who was taking care of the animals. She thought of going and asking him for water because she was very thirsty. But she was afraid that if a sandstorm should come and wipe out the footsteps, she would lose her way and not be able to search for Poono. But she was very thirsty. So she requested the footsteps, "You are afraid of the wind. If the wind blows you will lose your existence. But I am afraid of you, that if you lose your existence, I will lose my way, and I will not be able to find my beloved. So you should promise me that you will not go away. And I am promising you that I will definitely come back. If you break your promise you will owe me something in the court of God. If I break my promise, I will pay for it in the court of God. We will meet again in the court of God.” When she came to that shepherd asking for water, she was in very bad condition: she didn’t have any hair on her head and she was very weak and thin. She looked like a ghost. That shepherd thought that maybe some witch or ghost had come, so he left all the animals there and ran away because he was afraid. So Sussi didn’t get any water. She went back to the place where she had left the footsteps. But in the meantime, a sandstorm had come and wiped out all the footsteps. So she lost her way and was not able to go further. She wandered here and there but she could not find the way, and repeating the name, “Poono, Poono,” she left the body there.

When that shepherd came to know that she was a woman and she was searching for somebody, and she had left the body, he was very sorry. He dug a grave there and buried that Sussi. In the meantime, when Poono recovered consciousness and realized that he had been separated from Sussi with force and had been given wine, he realized that this was a very bad thing – for he also was in love with Sussi. He started to return to the place where Sussi was living. And when he came to the oasis, the same oasis where Sussi had left the body, and saw the very fresh grave there, he asked the shepherd, “Who has left the body here? What is this grave for?” He replied, “I don’t know who she was. But when she left the body, she was searching for some man and she was repeating the name, ‘Poono, Poono.’” So Poono at once understood that she was Sussi. And because he was also very much in love with her, he got down from his camel and said, “Sussi, I have come here.” And because their love was true, the grave opened and gave way for Poono also to come in. In that way both of them were united in the grave.

So the meaning of that story is – we are fond of hearing the stories but we do not take them to ourselves – the meaning of this story is that the disciple should have so much love for the Master that no matter what difficulty comes, still he should be attached to the Master. When we develop this type of love, there is no power which can bring us back in this world. But what are we doing? We are not developing such a love for the Master. Therefore, no matter if we hear the stories and enjoy them, we are not getting the full benefit from them. Anyway, this is a matter of experience. Until you go within and see your Master within, you cannot develop such faith. Until you have as much love as Sussi had for Poono outside for the Master, you cannot go within.

And Mahatmas tell us about Sussi, that Sussi was not afraid of the hot burning sand and she was searching for him; but still she was not seeing her beloved. And then it is said, “First the jewel allows the jeweler to make a hole in him – first he sacrifices something. After that he becomes a beauty, and after that he goes and gets the high place; that is the neck of the queens or other people. The same is true of the comb. First of all that comb also sacrifices: he lets other people cut his body and after that we use the comb on our head. If the seeds are afraid of the pain which they get when they are put in the wheel to take out the oil, who is going to appreciate that oil or those seeds, if they are afraid? If the disciple is afraid to go in the direction from where the bullet is coming, or if a brave man is afraid to go into the battlefield, who will call him brave or who will call him the tiger?”

And then it is said that, if after becoming a Satsangi, if he is doing all these bad deeds and not becoming brave, then that creator, that Master, will not give him a good place.

It is also written about Sussi, about the love of Sussi, that Sussi was the daughter of a king and her legs were very delicate. She was always taking care of her legs and putting creams and things like that on. But when she started searching for Poono, first of all, it was the desert and secondly, it was very hot in the month of June. It was hot like an oven, in which if you put anything, it will bake. It is said that it was so hot that even the sun was feeling the heat and he was hiding himself in the clouds. But still she said, “A lover is such who is not afraid of all this.”

All these lovers were real and true and were not the slaves of mind and organs and senses. Three years before Master left the body He gave me many instructions and He told me that He would leave very soon. Two months before He left the body He gave me a very clear hint that now He is going to leave us. At that time I was in the 16 PS Ashram. The dear ones, those who were with me, know what my condition was on that day. In sadness I left that Ashram. In the evening I left there, and I came to 77 RB, that village which is twenty-five miles away from that place. Wherever any beloved of God goes, the people start coming by themselves. So daily from the nearby villages, people started coming there. They were all gathering together at one-o’clock. To them sometimes I would say loving words. Sometimes I would just weep in front of them. After two months, I heard such news that my heart trembled. That news was that “Now Ajaib is seeing that the Dera or the place where Kirpal was dwelling, now that is empty. Kirpal has left.” The ornament of the heart, Kirpal, was separated from me. God did that. That’s why I don’t like any outward ornaments. One who is not seeing his beloved anymore, he is tearing out his hair – the same hair which he once nourished with butter.

And now, dear ones, who can remove what is written in our fate? Ajaib says, “Such days also come to us. “ If there is anyone suffering like me, only he can understand my suffering and I will talk to him. Those who are always happy, how can they know the taste of suffering? The neutral people, how can they know the taste of enjoyment? And the illiterate people, how can they read the Koran? Because this happened with me, that’s how I know. When the Master leaves the dear ones, that is the greatest suffering. There is no other suffering greater than the suffering that one gets when the Master leaves. Guru Angad Dev said about Guru Nanak’s departure, “If we are loving any beloved it is better to die before him. Because whatever time we are spending without him, that is a curse on that time.”

Hazrat Bahu also wrote about the departure of his Master. He said, “I will always experience this pain. And oh, Bahu, I will always weep.”

1978 December: They Come to Make It Fresh

After morning meditation, September 30, 1978, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: Would you explain the power and the charging behind singing the bhajans?

SANT JI: Guru Nanak Sahib used to call a group of people singing bhajans as Bhajan mungli, as we now call those meetings Satsang. When we are all sitting together, everybody knows that we are coming together in the remembrance of God. Everyone who is in that group has the thought of God at that time. That's why Guru Nanak Sahib says, "Whenever you sit together in Satsang, first of all, all of you should sing some song or bhajan which is full of yearning and love for the Master and the Satsang."

We are not to sing the bhajans as a ceremony or rite or ritual. We should sing the bhajans with yearning. Guru Nanak says, "Whenever you sing bhajans, if you sing with love and yearning within you, that singing also will give you such intoxication and peace that lust, anger, greed, attachment, egoism, all these fires which are burning within us, will begin to cool." That intoxication which we get from singing the bhajans with yearning and love removes our suffering.

The bhajans which we sing here have come out from the mouths of great Masters, and they show Their yearning. When we sing those bhajans, we should also try to develop that yearning. The teachings of the Masters are always fresh. It is not true that the teachings of the Masters Who came in the past – say two thousand years back – are now old. Or a Master Who came five thousand years back – His teachings are not old either. Whenever the Masters come, They always bring the same teachings and They do not bring any new thing. The teachings are always the same; the only thing required is that we should get the company of Someone Who has practiced these teachings and only then will we feel that the teachings are not old and that they are fresh. Whenever they are taught they are always fresh. When Mahatmas come, they tell us that we have to meditate on Shabd Naam, and that we have to get rid of lust, anger, greed, egoism and attachment. And if we get the company of One Who has practiced the teachings, no matter if the teachings are thousands of years old, we will never think that they are old. One Who has practiced those teachings will tell us the same thing as the teachings are telling us.

One gardener comes and sows the seed and another gardener comes and gives water and nourishes the plants. In the same way, one Master comes and gives initiation and connects us with Shabd Naam and the other Mahatma comes and gives us real knowledge and teaches us about the Path very clearly, and He becomes helpful in our going back to Sach Khand.

When Baba Jaimal Singh left the body, people came to Baba Sawan Singh and asked, "Now that Baba Jaimal Singh has left the body, on whom should we contemplate and what should we do now?" So Baba Sawan Singh replied, "You should not change your contemplation. You should go on contemplating and remembering Master Baba Jaimal Singh. You can come and enjoy the benefit of Satsang, but you do not need to change your contemplation." Then He said, "When I went to Agra, I met Chacha Pratap Singh (who was the brother of Swami Ji Maharaj) and even though I saluted Him and respected Him, still I always had the image of my Master Baba Jaimal Singh in my heart. And when I told this to Chacha Pratap Singh, He didn't mind and He was very happy." The perfect living Masters never say that you should not contemplate the form of the Master Who initiated you because He has left the body. The only attachment we can have with the living Master is that we can go in His Satsang and outwardly we can love Him. And whatever instructions He is giving us and whatever advice He is giving us, we should follow that. But we should never change our contemplation, and He will never allow us to do that.

So Mahatmas do not come to give us any new message. The message always remains the same. They just come to make it fresh. Satsang is the fence for protecting our meditation.

Our mind is a tireless and obstinate enemy, and if we try only a little bit we cannot dominate it. If we have Someone in the Satsang Who can point out our faults and failures, only then will our mind understand and only then is there some hope of our changing. As long as we stay away from the Satsang we cannot improve our life. When we come to the Satsang and realize what our failures are, then we start improving. That's why Hazur used to say, 'Give up hundreds of urgent works to go to Satsang, and give up thousands of urgent works to sit for meditation.'

QUESTION: I can only remember my Master with difficulty, as I was with Him only a short time and it's been a number of years. So I was wondering how I can develop true love for the Guru.

SANT JI: This does not make any difference, whether you have spent a little time with Him or more time. Sometimes it happens that those who have spent more time with their Master take Him for granted and forget Who He is, and in that way they lose. It doesn't matter if you have spent only a little time with Master.

When Baba Jaimal Singh was about to leave the body, He was looking at the door as if He was waiting for someone. When He was asked, he replied, "Yes, I am waiting for one man who is going to come and get initiation." That was a police inspector who came at the end time of Baba Jaimal Singh. After giving him initiation, Baba Jaimal Singh left the body. So just think – that police inspector got initiation when Baba Jaimal Singh left the body. He didn't have any other opportunity to go and seek the company of his Master. But after He left the body, that police inspector came to the feet of Baba Sawan Singh. And having faith in his own Master, Baba Jaimal Singh, he meditated so much that he became a very good meditator, and he became one of the secretaries of Baba Sawan Singh. So just think – he got the initiation at the last minute and after that he didn't let his attention waver; and always keeping faith in his own Master, Baba Jaimal Singh, he meditated in the company of Baba Sawan Singh. And he succeeded and became a good meditator.

Those who were living near Master and who spent a lot of time near Him – I have met many of them and they have themselves told me, and moreover I used to hear Master say this when He was in the body: "Those who are living near me are like the blood suckers, on the cow's udder; those who are coming from far away are like the calf coming from a distant pasture – they get milk from me." Distance makes no difference. The main thing is to obey orders.

Baba Bishan Das used to tell this story: There was one Udasi Mahatma – Udasi is one sect of yogis – who had one disciple named Bordas. In those days in India, the Mahatmas used to travel from place to place as Guru Nanak did. Guru Nanak also wandered here and there and went to many places. Once, that Udasi Mahatma and his disciple, Bordas, were traveling from place to place and they came somewhere at nighttime, and it started raining. They were in a very old house and the water started coming through the roof. The Mahatma was sleeping when he saw that the water was coming in, and he was afraid that maybe the house would fall down. So he told his disciple Bordas, "O Bordas, go and stop this rain from coming into the house or the house will fall down." So Bordas said, "Master, I don't know what has happened to you today that you are telling me to go and stop the water from coming through the roof. You do not realize that if I go and stop the water from coming through the roof that means that I will be climbing over you and be higher than you and this is not good for me." He didn't want to do this work and that's why he found this excuse. That Udasi Mahatma was very old, but in his old age he himself went up and stopped the water.

The next morning when they got up, the Udasi Mahatma told Bordas, "Go and bring some milk or something to eat from the people. You go and beg something for us." Bordas replied, "Master, I don't understand what has happened to your senses today. Now you are telling me to go and ask for the milk and things – if I go and request milk for you, people will say I am doing the rites for your liberation even while you are still in the body!" (In India when anyone leaves the body, people go and ask for milk and other things as part of the rituals for their liberation.)

So that Mahatma himself went into the village and asked for the milk and other things and brought them back. He understood that Bordas was not going to obey him so he said, "What is the use of telling him to cook this?" He started cooking the milk and when it was done he said, "All right, Bordas, now you come and drink this milk." Bordas said, "Yes, definitely I will do that, because I know that if for the third time I disobey you, you will be angry with me. I don't want to displease you so I will obey your orders."

Our condition is not less than that of Bordas. When Master tells us to meditate on Naam, we say, "What is the use of meditating on Naam when You are here? You can do this very well, much better than we can. You should do it for us also." When He tells us that we should do seva, then we say, "Well, it is not fair when You are in the body, sitting here, that we should do any seva. If we do seva, our clothes will get dirty," or we find any other excuse for not doing seva. But if He gives us any name and fame or if He gives us any worldly thing, then we are always ready to accept that without any hesitation, saying, "We know that if we do not do this, you will be displeased."

Distance makes no difference. The main thing is that whatever Master tells you, or whatever Master has instructed you, you have to work according to that.

Hazur Sawan Singh used to say that our condition is like this: "We say, give us the things, moreover pay for the transportation also." They say that people want initiation, moreover they want Master also to meditate on Naam for them. This is just an excuse of the mind. Really, whether we are near Him or far away from Him makes no difference. If we meditate on the Naam given by Him with full love and devotion, then we can succeed.

Once there was an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh who, whenever Master Sawan Singh held Satsang, would never come but would keep on doing meditation. People would ask him, "What kind of disciple are you, that your Master is holding Satsang and you are not coming?" He said, "Whatever He is saying in the Satsang to do, I am doing it here. What is the use of going? I already know what He is telling us to do, and what is required from us." He became so successful that he would see Master Sawan Singh everywhere. Sometimes he would embrace a tree and say, "Sawan is here. Sawan resides in this." If he saw any animal passing by, he would go and embrace and caress that animal, saying, "Sawan resides in him also."

He was successful and saw the Master everywhere because he obeyed the Master. We should introspect our heart and check very carefully when we are sitting in the Satsang, because at that time sometimes it happens that we are physically present in the Satsang, but still our absence is marked. That is because we think about worldly things during the Satsang, or we sleep, or our mind is taking us far away from the Satsang. So whenever we sit in Satsang in the presence of the Master, we should never think of anything else and always remain present there.

1979

1979 February: The Master's Search for Us

This afternoon darshan was given in Glenwood Springs, Colorado, on July 12, 1977.

QUESTION: What is the value of learning the art of sound, of chanting, of doing sacred dances like the kalma from the Sufis? I've found that certain mantras are very effective as a means of elevating my personal awareness and as a means of healing myself when physically ill. The only trouble is that sometimes I find myself doing Simran to the melody of one of those chants and sometimes I find that I've switched to the other mantra in the process. The difficulty of course is that Simran doesn't have any set way to be sung inwardly. How do you feel about us using devotional chants from other traditions other than our own when we prepare our spirit for Satsang?

SANT JI: All this outward music or chanting, whether it is devotional or not, can only intoxicate the mind because it is done on the level of the mind and intellect. That's why it can do only a little bit of good through the mind. Our soul gets intoxication and happiness only when she listens to the music of the Shabd Which is within us. Our soul isn't intoxicated because of outward music, chanting devotional songs or whatever. It dances only when it hears the Shabd, and only with the help of Simran can we make our souls hear the music of the Shabd and make her dance. These other things have value and are good after we have perfected ourselves in meditation, after we have taken our soul up from the limit of the mind. Then, it is good to listen to other forms of music; but if we do this before we have separated our soul from the mind, our mind will make us forget Simran and we will become involved in all these things so much that it will not be good for us. The satsangi needs Simran and it is not good if he spends all his time in learning the notes and chanting. If you do these things to earn your livelihood then it doesn't matter. But for real devotion there is no need to take help from any outward instrument or playing drums or things like that. You need only to do Simran. Anyway, you can chant bhajans in which you feel so much of Master's Love. Further, we should always sing the bhajans without too many instruments because they spoil the real meaning of the words. Once we were sitting in satsang and there were some people who wanted to sing bhajans and bring some instruments. The satsang hall was very small. So, after satsang when I allowed them to play the music and sing the bhajans, the sound of the instruments was more than the sound of their voices and that spoiled all the tranquility of the satsang. So it is good to chant without playing any instruments because it is more natural. Kabir Sahib says, "To play all these musical instruments is an obstacle between us and God, because we spend all the time thinking about them. In that much time we could do a lot of Simran." You see, when we are singing the bhajans without using any instruments, our attention is always toward the Master and in singing, we are thinking about Master. But, if we are also playing instruments, our attention will go into the instrument since we will always be afraid of making mistakes. This is no good. Those who are playing instruments, even if they are sitting in front of Master, are not looking at the Master but always have their attention on their instruments. It would be better to go within and listen to the sweetest melodies coming from within so that you will not become slaves to the outward senses. As far as Sant Mat is concerned, all these outward forms of music, chanting, etc., are child's play.

QUESTION: I want to thank Him for coming here, for being with us.

SANT JI: I appreciate all the dear ones' love here. You are very loving people.

QUESTION: When Sat Purush granted this boon to Kal, He must have known that Kal would abuse the gift. So why in that light did He grant the boon?

SANT JI: Because Kal served Sat Purush, God was pleased by the seva of Kal and He came in the control of the seva. That's why He gave him this boon. He gave him a place to create the creation. He gave him the souls.

Further, if there was no Negative Power the souls would not have come into its control. When the soul undergoes the cycle of birth and death and, after finally getting the human body goes back to Sach Khand, she then realizes all this. When Bulleh Shah went to Sach Khand, the souls who were there lovingly asked him, "How are You? Did You get anything from the world? What have You brought from the world?" He said, "What was there to bring here? My face is blackened. I have come back with a blackened face and nothing else."

QUESTION: How can we best fulfill Master's wishes and still respect Him?

SANT JI: The way to have the greatest respect for the Master is by obeying whatever He says. And, you should never try to compete with Him because He is the ocean and the disciple is a drop of that ocean. He is Almighty. He can do whatever He wants. If a disciple doesn't respect his Master, he cannot progress. One who has respectful love for the Master is the only one who can succeed. Hazur Maharaj Kirpal asked Master Sawan Singh only this thing: "Give me the boon of respectful love for You." All the Masters, those who are going within and those who are perfect, all ask for the same boon – that their Master should give them respectful love.

In Rajasthan, there was a wrestler named Purlin Singh. He was from a place named Nagar. One of his disciples, after learning wrestling from him, challenged his master to wrestle with him. Purlin Singh said, "You know I am older than you and my body is not as strong as yours but still if you will challenge me I will come and try to beat you." Even though he was very old he went there because he was the master. And that disciple defeated his master. Even though this incident happened 25 years ago the people still remember it and still remark that such a disciple challenged his master and made him face defeat. So, in the worldly matters, if we take anybody as our teacher, we should never try to compete with him. We should never try to understand ourselves as equal to our teacher because we have gotten everything from our teacher. It's good for us to respect the disciples of our Master also. Once Bulleh Shah had a wedding in his family so he invited the Master Inayat Shah to come and attend the wedding. However, because Inayat Shah was very busy, he sent one of his disciples who was from a low Muslim caste. Because Bulleh Shah was of a very high caste, he and the other guests at the wedding showed no respect to the disciple sent by Inayat Shah. They didn't understand that their Master was residing within this disciple, and mistreated him. When that disciple went back to Inayat Shah and told him how he was not welcomed at the wedding, that he was not shown any respect and was very badly treated, Inayat Shah became displeased with Bulleh Shah. Finally, when Bulleh Shah came to Inayat Shah, He said, "Oh Bulleh, I am very displeased with you. It is a sin to drink water which is brought by you." After that, Inayat Shah didn't give any grace to Bulleh Shah and all the color of Naam in which Bulleh Shah was dyed soon went away. When Bulleh Shah realized his mistake, his Master again started giving him grace. So it is better to show respect to even the disciples of our Master. Those who seek more respect, more love, for the Master are the ones who succeed in this Path. Only they can go ahead. Master has respect for everybody – all the people in this world – and even for all the animals. It doesn't matter to Him whether a person is an initiate or not – He has respect for everybody. So naturally it is also expected that those who have respect for everybody should get respect from other people. Guru Nanak Sahib says, "Satguru is thinking about everyone's good. Those who are thinking ill of Him – what are they going to get?"

You see, even in this worldly life when we love somebody it should be full of respect. If we are not having respectful love for other members of our family, it will spoil the loving atmosphere in the home. If sometimes we love and other times we don't we cannot maintain the love and loving atmosphere at home. Our Beloved Guru was always allowing me to sit next to Him on the dais. But still I was so much afraid of Him that I can't describe it in words. And many times when He would embrace me, I was feeling so afraid that it felt as if all the blood in me went dry because I had so much love and respect for Him. Satguru is all-conscious. He knows everything that is going on within our hearts. He is Almighty. A disciple is afraid of Him because of his own failings. That's why he should have respect for God.

QUESTION: If an initiate dies and has to come back to this world, will the Master be sure to find him?

SANT JI: You see, Master always comes and searches for the disciples because the souls are blind and Master sees everything. Until a blind man calls upon that person who sees, how can he get help from the person with vision? The initiates of Master Kirpal who are in this country should realize that Master came here and searched for them and that then they went to Master.

Anyway, the satsangis are never given birth again in this world. If a satsangi has done very bad karmas which cannot be forgiven in this life, only then is he given another birth in this world. And then also will he come in contact with Master and Master will take care of him in the next world.

We do not know what it is which inspires us from within to go in the company of Saints because we are away from God now and are in the kingdom of the mind. That desire which comes from within is coming from God. You will see that the mind will always tell you to go away from these things. Hazur used to say, "Those who are saying that they are going to the satsang, that they are doing the meditation, have not yet had their inner vision opened and do not know what it is which is making them do all these things. But, when their veil is lifted and when they see what is happening within, then they will say that Master is doing everything, Master is bringing them to satsang, Master Himself is coming into satsang doing meditation and making us meditate."

If a satsangi is given one more birth in this world then his thoughts will also be much more rarified than the other people and right from his birth he will have thoughts of God. Until he gets Master he will not have any peace of mind. Hazur Maharaj Sawan Singh used to relate one incident: "There was a father and son living in Agra when the plague was spreading. When the son was on his deathbed his father was weeping bitterly and the son said, ‘Father, you don’t have to weep because I’m not going to die. I’m going to get a new birth. I’m going to get a new life. In my last life I was a tree when some disciple of Swami Ji Maharaj came and took one of my branches. It was given to Swami Ji Maharaj and he used one piece of the branch for a toothbrush. And because He was a perfect Saint He graciously gave me this human body. But, because I came from the body of a tree my intellect was not sharp and was not fully developed. That’s why I didn’t get anywhere in this lifetime. But next time, Swami Ji Maharaj is going to give me a new life which will lead me back to my home.’”

Satsangis should always try not to think about the next life. They should always request Master, “O Master, never bring us back again into this world. Liberate us in this lifetime.” Master used to say, “Some of us are like spoiled prisoners who are always returning to the jail. When they are set free they say to the jailer, ‘Keep room for me. Take care of my clothing and vessels. I’m coming back after a few days.’” So Master used to say, “We should never tell Kal, the Negative Power, ‘Keep room for us in the world. We are coming back.’” Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell about one place of pilgrimage in Rajasthan called Pushkar where the people think that by bathing in the holy water of that place one gets the human body in the next lifetime. Once, a man was going there to have a holy bath and a person asked, “Why are you going there? What’s the importance of bathing there?” He replied, “One gets a human body in the next lifetime.” So that other man laughed at him and said, “Why are you expecting to come back again? Whatever you are supposed to do in the human body, why wait for the next lifetime? Why don’t you do it now?” So Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Whatever we are supposed to do should be done in this lifetime. We should not expect to be given another human life in which to do it.”

You see, God has showered much grace and mercy on us and that’s why He has given us this human body. He has given us the opportunity to unite with Him. All the bodies are enjoying themselves in all the things of this world – all the pleasures, all the pains and unhappiness. We have got parents, mothers, fathers, relatives in all these bodies. Further, all these bodies, human bodies, animals, plants, spirits, insects – everybody is enjoying happiness and suffering pain. If there is any special importance in getting the human body, it is only that we can do such a thing with this human body that others cannot do and that is the devotion of God.

The Path with which we can realize God and unite with God is made by God Himself and nobody can alter that Path. No Mahatma, no Master, can ever increase or decrease the Path and nobody can do anything at all to alter it. All the perfect Mahatmas, whether they came five thousand, two thousand, five hundred, or two hundred and fifty years ago, have all put souls onto the same Path back to God. And the Mahatmas Who are coming straight from the Kingdom of God, Sach Khand, show the same Path to the souls. In the future it will also be this way, because this Path is the natural Path. By practicing this Path we need not practice any outside rites or rituals. When God creates the body in the womb of the mother, He knows when He has to attach the eyes, nose, legs, hands, and everything. And when He is doing that job, He Himself is creating the body, He Himself is fixing all the parts of the body in the right way. At the same time that He is creating the human body, He is also giving the soul the Path which will lead it back to God. Further,

He Himself comes to us in the bodies of Mahatmas and tells the secret of that Path to the souls. When Mahatmas first come They lovingly help us to understand that God, the One Who has created us, the One Who is the sustainer of all creation, is not on any high mountain, nor in any temple, mosque or church, but is within us. Everybody's God is within them. The Mahatma is telling us to practice this Path in order to realize God because that Mahatma has already realized God by the same Path.

To give Naam initiation is not only to give the knowledge of human birth but it is the attention of the Master. At the time of initiation into Naam, Masters explain very carefully how we are to collect our scattered thoughts within us for Simran and how we are to rise up. But very few people come on this Path; only those chosen by God in Sach Khand come on this Path. Only they can practice this Path. Kabir Sahib was the first Saint to come in this mortal world in all the four ages. Whenever He came, the Negative Power gave Him a very hard time. He always tried to fight with Him because any soul who is initiated by a perfect Master will never come into the snare of the Negative Power again. Whenever Kabir Sahib came, the Negative Power told him, "You have come here to spoil my creation." And when Kabir Sahib didn't stop doing His work, the Negative Power would say, "All right, if You are not going to stop Your work, I'm going to start my work. You are telling the souls not to eat meat and drink wine. But I will do such a thing that not only the men but even the women will start to eat meat and drink wine. Everywhere people will eat meat and drink wine." And then he said, "You will go and tell people not to eat meat and drink wine, not to do any bad deeds, and to do the devotion. But since Your devotion is very difficult, I will spoil the people's minds from within and in that way nobody will believe in You." This is the reason we are hesitating to come onto the Path of the Masters: because Masters tell us to give up eating meat, to be vegetarian, and to get up early in the morning and meditate. If anybody would tell us that we could go on eating meat and drinking wine and all the other things which we are doing and still get God in our next lifetime doing only outward practices, we would be very happy to do them because in that way we wouldn't have to sacrifice anything. But without sacrifice we cannot get anything even in this world. You see how we keep the temples, churches, and mosques – all the religious places where we think that God is residing? – how we keep them pure and how we appreciate them since we created them with our own hands. But the churches, gurdwaras, and temples are not the real churches. This human body is the real church which was made by God Himself. How we are defiling this body! Sometimes we put meat into it, sometimes we put wine, sometimes we do bad deeds with this body. How can you think that God who is very high and pure will come inside when we are eating meat and drinking wine? Nobody likes to sit in a dirty place. Not even a dog will do that. He will first come and clean that place before sitting there. So how can God come and manifest within us, the dirty people?

We can deceive the world and we can even deceive our own selves by not doing the devotion of God. But the God Which is residing within us cannot be deceived. Our Master used to say, "If you want to store the milk of a tigress, you need a golden vessel." In the same way, if you want to manifest God within you, you need to make your heart very clean and pure.

Only those souls on whom God is very merciful come to do the devotion of God. When God sees that these souls have wandered in many bodies and have had a very hard time with much suffering and pain He knows that they need to get the human body. Now He wants them to do the devotion and come back to Him only through this Path. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Oh Nanak, only they can meet the Master who were suffering in that way. Only they are made to meet the Master – those who are chosen by God.” Guru Nanak Sahib says, “The unfortunate ones can never realize God no matter if Master is sitting right next to them or they are always in His company. But if God is not showering Grace on them, if God is not merciful on them, they can never get any benefit from the Master.” You can read in the history of Guru Nanak how people came from far-away countries like Ceylon and from many different parts of the world to get His darshan. And even people of India came from all over to see Him and get initiation from Him. But His parents didn’t understand Him and didn’t get any benefit from Him. His father even used to give Him beatings and rebuke Him!

To get the devotion, to start doing the devotion, is just like getting a jewel. You go and ask those who have got the wealth of devotion. Nothing from this world is going to go with us – no relatives, no wealth, no materials of this world, no kingdoms. Nothing will go with us. If people could take the worldly wealth or materials or anything from this earth what would have happened? Those who left this world, our forefathers and other people, would have taken all the wealth and they would have left nothing for us. So when all these things didn’t go with them, how can we expect these things will go with us? The only thing which will go with us is God. So it is better to realize God and see God before we leave. But where is God? Kabir Sahib says, “Just as there is oil in the seed and fire in the stone, in the same way your God, your Beloved, is within you. If you can manifest Him, if you can awaken Him Who is residing within you, you should do that before you leave this earth.” Mahatmas do not come to make any new religions or to break any religions of yours. They say, “Remain in whatever religion you like. Do whatever practices you want to do. But, remaining in your society, your community, do that which we are telling you. And remaining in your society, your community, your culture, you can still practice this Path and go back to your real home, Sach Khand.”

QUESTION: Master, can I tell a meditation experience from when I was little?

SANT JI: Yes.

QUESTION: Usually when I was lying down and was sick I’d rise up to, I’m sure it was the third eye, and I would have no body. My body would shrink right up to that point and I would be in a state of all light. I wouldn’t see any form, it would just be all light. I wondered if that was where that was?

SANT JI: In many people the light starts coming right from childhood. When a man is involved in lust, the light goes away which was there previously in his childhood. If chastity is maintained and all the semen is stored in the body, that storage of semen gives such light that one feels much bliss and happiness enjoying that light. Before I got initiation from Baba Bishan Das, he would talk about the light inside. Because I was seeing light inside me I was happy and I thought that I was seeing the same light which he was talking about. But that light doesn’t lead us anywhere. This is also a type of deception. But one who is having this light, one who has maintained his body and kept it chaste, if he gets initiated he can progress by leaps and bounds. Nothing in this world can be an obstacle in his way.

Only the jeweler knows the value of the jewels. Those people who recognized Master Sawan Singh were seeing two flames of light always going on in His forehead. Master Sawan Singh's face used to be such that those who were having a little bit of control over their soul and those who were keeping a little bit of concentration would always feel a pull whenever they would see Him. But those who had bad karmas would not feel that pull when they saw Him because they were dirty. The pure souls would feel a great pull when they would look at Master Sawan Singh. This pull would come through His face. People who were not initiates of Master Sawan Singh would also praise Master Sawan Singh's beautiful face. They would say, "We don't know what this inner beauty is, what miracle He performs from the inside, but outwardly He is so radiant, so beautiful, that from every single hair of His beard the light comes out. His face is so beautiful that we have never seen another like it before." Physically, He was so beautiful that I have never seen another person as beautiful as Master Sawan Singh. He came into this world in such a form that I have never seen any other person like Him in all the parts of India in which I have traveled. That's why Master Sawan Singh used to lay great emphasis on maintaining chastity and storing our vital fluid.

QUESTION: Could You speak about the relative importance of becoming set in meditation in relation to having Master's darshan as much as possible?

SANT JI: Becoming set?

QUESTION: Set, regular and really applying oneself as much as possible. The comparative relative importance between really applying ourselves to meditating as much as possible or to be trying to have the physical presence, darshan of the Master.

SANT JI: The real meaning of meditation is to manifest the Radiant Form of the Master within and have His darshan. As long as you have not done this, you need to have the outward, the physical darshan of the Master. If you have contacted That within, then there is no need to come for the outward darshan. I've talked about a devoted disciple of Master Sawan Singh who would go and embrace the feet of animals saying, "Master Sawan Singh is sitting there." And when Master Sawan Singh would do the satsang, he would not go. Some people complained and asked him, "Why aren't you coming to satsang?" He'd tell them, "Why do I need to go there? Whatever He is telling me to do, I am doing it here. He is sitting here; why do I need to go there?" So the same people went to Master Sawan Singh complaining about that disciple. Master Sawan Singh replied, "You should also become like him." This is not a normal thing. Not everybody can do that. Only one in a million can do it. You should not copy them, those who have reached the court of God. That's why in this case we should try to take advantage of darshan because darshan also pays off a lot of our karmas.

1979 September: The Real Glory of the Master

This darshan was given December 16, 1977, after morning meditation at Sant Bani Ashram in Rajasthan."

QUESTION: Master Kirpal wrote once that each one of the Five Holy Names has its own power, influence, characteristics and energy. Could Sant Ji comment on that? In other words, do the Names have more than just the power to collect thoughts? Is there some influence on the inner planes that they carry?

SANT JI: It is like this: We will take your example – your name is “Chris.” You know what you are. You know your inner power, whatever inner influence you have on other people. “Chris” is your name but you are something other than “Chris” also. These Five Holy Names are in fact the names of the owners of the five inner planes. When we go within we meet them face to face as we are seeing each other right now; only then will we know their value and influence. It is a very interesting thing that when we are doing our devotion, at the same time that we are doing the devotion of Almighty God we are also doing the devotion of these five owners of the five inner planes. But these are the lower planes through which we have to go. It is because we have got the higher Shabd, and that higher Shabd is pulling us up through these planes, that we need to do the devotion of these lower gods, or the owners of these planes, also.

Suppose that we go within to the first plane and we meet the god who is ruling on that first plane; then we will know about his influence – what role he plays in our spiritual life, and up to what extent we have to devote ourselves to him, and what good or bad he is doing for us. In the same way, when we go to the second plane and meet the owner of that plane, then we will know about him, what he is doing for us, and to what extent we have to pay homage to him. So we cannot know about their influence or their characteristics until we go within and see them face to face.

First we know each other only by our names; but when we meet, only then we come to know the reality. Just as now you have come to India and you know what the Delhi airport is like, or the streets of India – in the same way, now you know the names of the planes and the owners of the planes, but when you go within and see them then you will completely know about the inner planes through which we have to pass in order to go to our own higher plane.

Saints and Mahatmas have perfected these Holy Names and have met the owners of these planes; therefore They go into the higher planes daily without any resistance or difficulty; They just go and come back. So when They go within and Their disciples also go within, the Master takes the disciple from plane to plane and makes the disciple know the owner of each plane. At the same time, the Master tells the owner of that plane, “This is my disciple.” In that way the disciple also becomes free to travel in the inner planes. It is just as if someone is a friend of a king. If he wants to go and meet the king, he can do so without any problem; and if he wants to take somebody else with him, he can take anybody he wants. The Masters have perfected these Five Holy Names and are very well acquainted with the owners of these planes; in fact, They are the kings, and one who is following the king has no problem traveling in the inner planes.

If we read the Five Holy Names in any book or if anybody has given us these Names who has not yet perfected them, then if we repeat them it will do us no good because there will be no charging. Our Master used to say that Naam is not only the giving of the knowledge of the words, it is the attention; and behind the Simran which our Master gives us His spiritual power is working.

If a general in the Army gives an order to a soldier to go and kill many people he will do it; and the soldier will not be blamed, because the power of that general is working behind the order which he has given. But if that soldier even slaps somebody without the order of the general he can be court-martialed: because in that case the general has given no order and there is no power working behind it. He has done that action on his own behalf. In the same way, those who get Naam initiation from a perfect Master, the Master's charging is working behind them and Master is responsible for every deed; therefore when they go within they don't have to face the problems of those who don't have the protection of a perfect Master. When the disciple goes within, the Master is always with him and makes him meet the owners of those planes, and He tells them, "This is my son; take care of him."

In this context Guru Ramdas has written very clearly that when the Saints or Gurus come in this world they tell their disciples that the messengers of the Negative Power come to us when we go into the inner planes, and that they come to ask for their tax: because we are now in the land of the Negative Power – this body is the land which he has given to us, and when we use the organs of sense we are cultivating that land, and when we get some enjoyment from that, definitely we have to pay some tax for it. Just as when we own land we have to pay a tax on it, in the same way, because we are in the kingdom of the Negative Power we have to pay a tax. But because we have the protection of the Master, we are freed from paying that tax.

So Guru Ramdas says that He is telling His disciples, "When the Negative Power's messengers come to you asking for the tax, you should not worry about them; you should follow me, repeating the Names which I have given you. If anyone comes to you and asks for that tax you should say, 'Our Master Who is leading us, He will pay it.' And when they come to me, I will take care of it. You need not worry about them." We can know the glory of the Master only in the inner planes, when we see how the Master works there.

So He writes, when describing the inner condition, that when the Master takes the disciples near to the place of the Lord of Judgment, he asks the Master, "You have brought this many people here; have you paid their tax? Did you settle that?" And the Master says, "All right; you show me your account book and I will pay. I will pay whatever they are supposed to pay. You bring your book." But when the Lord of Judgment brings that book he doesn't find any account for the initiates of a perfect Master – because at the time of initiation the Master takes the accounts of the initiates from the Lord of Judgment and keeps them with Him. So the Lord of Judgment is surprised when he doesn't find any accounts, and says, "How is this?" and then he realizes that these are the disciples of the Perfect Master Who has already paid off the accounts by taking sufferings on His body or by any other means – because Master uses many ways to pay off our karmas. That's why Guru Nanak Sahib says, "When the Lord of Judgment comes, Nanak tells him that He had to list all the karmas at the time of initiation and now He is responsible for every single karma which the soul is doing."

At the time of initiation, it is true that the Master takes some time to connect the soul to Sach Khand because the Negative Power still has control of the soul, and it takes some time for the Master to take the ropes of the soul from the Negative Power which he has hidden and tie the ropes of the soul to Sach Khand. One who is tied to Sach Khand will sooner or later definitely go there. That is why it is said that you can appreciate the Master only when you go within and see Him working there, because He works there as nobody else can. The Inner path is very complicated, and only when we go within and see Him working there for us, only then can we really appreciate the living Master. Now we see Him as an ordinary man like us, and as such we do not appreciate Him fully. That's why Master says to take Him as your brother, as your father, as your friend. But when you go within and see how the Master is working for you, only then can you appreciate and really respect Him.

Guru Arjan Dev says, "I have seen the Master and He is exactly like what I have heard of Him." He says that when the soul goes within and sees her Master working there, only at that time she realizes "whatever I heard about my Master – that He protects my soul in such a way and He works in such a way in the inner planes – truly I see Him doing that." And then He says, "He unites the separated ones with God; He is the lawyer or advocate in the court of God." Just as, if we want to fight any lawsuit outside we need some competent lawyer, in the same way our Master is a lawyer in the court of God: He helps us in the battle we are fighting with the Negative Power. That's why he is called a lawyer in the court of God.

The Negative Power gives no concessions. Whatever karma we have done in this kingdom we have to pay for. He holds every soul accountable for whatever karmas she has performed here, and he requires all karmas which are done in this kingdom to be paid off. Saints and Satgurus are free from all disease, as They do not have any burden of karma to pay. Whatever suffering or disease comes to them is only because They take over the karmas of their disciples in their love.

Once Master Sawan Singh was sitting in His Ashram with two Sikh leaders who had heard a prophecy that Master Sawan Singh would live for a hundred years. They asked Him, "Master, is it true that you are going to live for a hundred years?" He replied, "Yes, it is true; I plan to live for a hundred years: but only if my disciples let me meditate and do my work as I am doing now. But if they cry in front of me and say, 'We are in pain, we are suffering,' and if they will not meditate and not obey my commandments, there are many possibilities that I will leave earlier – because I will have to pay for all that." And it happened. Those who are meditators and who are going within know that Master Sawan Singh left ten years early at the age of ninety. In the same way Master Kirpal was also asked the same kind of question, and He replied, "If you will allow me to work steadily and if you will meditate – only then." And those who are meditators know that Master Kirpal left the body fourteen years early.

One very interesting thing: Once I was suffering from a very high fever and Master Kirpal was supposed to come on the next day: but before He could come some dear ones from Delhi came to the Ashram, and when they saw me suffering from that fever one of them cabled Master about my sickness. He didn't ask me, and he didn't tell me that he was going to cable Master, and without my approval he went down to Ganga Nagar and cabled Master Kirpal. The next day Master Kirpal was supposed to come, but He didn't come because as soon as He received that cable my fever went away and I was better. Master Kirpal started having it; and it was a very high fever. Next day that dear one came to me very happily thinking that he had done a great thing by sending that message to Master. He told me. "I cabled Master about your sickness and now you are free from it." I became very angry with him, because I knew that Master Kirpal had taken the karma which I was supposed to pay off and that He was suffering from that fever. So I became very angry with him and asked him, "Why did you do this? I didn't tell you to do it!" and I was very upset with him. I told him "Now Master Kirpal will not come today because He is paying off the karmas which I was supposed to pay.” And it happened. Master Kirpal didn’t come on that day. The next day also he didn’t come, because the fever was very high, and the third day Master did come but His face was very yellow because that fever was very high. In fact it was a very big karma which He was paying off.

And when Master Kirpal came there, because I had told the dear ones that He was not going to come on that day but He would come after a few days, the dear ones thought that I was all conscious, so they came to Master Kirpal praising me: “We knew that You were not coming because he told us.” Master Kirpal was very tired and sick and said, “He was telling you that I was not coming since it is only because of him that this happened.” I apologized to the Master; I told Him, “I didn’t want you to carry my karma, but this man went and cabled you.” But Master Kirpal said, “No, it’s all right.”

So Sant Satgurus are free from all sufferings and disease, but because they are in the love of their disciples, whether the disciple wants the Master to take the karmas or not, they reduce the karmas and take over the karma of their disciple. Masters are not bound to the body as we are; they are not prisoners in the body. Whenever they want they can fly out of the body and leave it, or they can live in the body as long as they want. They are not in the control of death, but truly speaking, death is in their control. Those who say, “Master has died,” are in a very deep illusion. They should think: “If Master is really subjected to death, then what is the use of going and taking refuge in such a Master?”

We see that He only changes the body and goes and works at some other human pole. In fact, “the Light which was working within Him is the same, the practices which He was teaching are the same – only the body is changed.” Guru Nanak said, “My Satguru is always residing. always existing, in this world. He never comes, He never goes; He is the immortal person in this world. He always remains here.”

Guru Arjan Dev Maharaj Ji says, “They are not in the cycle of births and deaths, but in fact They come here only for the sake of others: They give the donation of Their own life and make the souls meet God.”

1979 November: The Struggle With The Mind

Questions and answers after morning meditation at Sant Bani Ashram in New Hampshire, May 1, 1977.

QUESTION: After a while I had excruciating trouble with my mind and very much pain in my body.

SANT JI: Try to forget the pain. I think that if you had opened your eyes, your pain would have gone right away. To concentrate your attention at the third eye is to struggle with your mind. This battle goes on throughout our life. If we win this battle, we get the prize offered by God: the highest position. So we should not open our eyes only because of a little pain. Don’t even think of the time. Everyone knows you have to sit for one hour; yet many dear ones are opening their eyes before I tell them. Within us, God has put the Infinite Light. If millions of outer suns were brought together they could not compete with the Light which is within us. But we are habituated to seeing the outer light so we do not see the inner Light.

When we are sitting for meditation, our mind is telling us to look outside. A dear one should never be aware of how the time is passing. One hour is the minimum time; it is not very much time to sit in meditation. In the Iron Age to meditate is the best thing. When we are sitting for meditation even the gods and goddesses appreciate us. They say, “This man is doing a very good thing. He is progressing even more than we.” In the heavens, there is no higher position. There is only convenience and happiness there. But still, birth and death are there. Those who are doing good deeds and helping others in the world, to them the Negative Power gives for some time the facilities and happiness in the heavens. But the time given to them is limited. After that, they have to come again in this world. In the same way, after we have been to school and have studied, we become a lawyer, doctor, engineer, and lead our life happily. But the government has limited the time of our job. After some limited time, the government retires this man and he has to live a worldly life. The government gives him a pension on which he lives. In the same way, the souls which are coming from the heavens are given only one concession: the human body once again. They are given that because they must do the work which they have not done earlier: the work of Shabd Naam.

Kabir Sahib says, “The human body is appreciated by the gods and goddesses. They also long to have the human body so that they may meditate on Shabd Naam.” Then, after getting the human body, what should we do? We have to do the meditation of Shabd Naam. Then He says, “When you’ve got the human body, don’t forget it. Do the devotion of God, meditate, because this is the only profit of getting the human body: the devotion of God.

SANT JI: [To someone else] How was your meditation?

QUESTION: Good. I saw the Master. It was a while since I’d seen the Master within and it made me very happy. I had some pain.

SANT JI: [points to another]

QUESTION: I had some trouble with sleep, then pain. The pain became unbearable and I couldn’t sleep or meditate either.

SANT JI: Many dear ones sitting here are having the problem of sleepiness. After half an hour of meditation, many people are trying to sleep here. But they should not sleep. When sleepiness comes while sitting in meditation, they should try to take advantage of it. When you are feeling sleepy while sitting in meditation, at that time your soul wants to leave the body. So, instead of sleeping, you should try to become stronger and do Simran. The time when you are feeling sleepy in meditation can be the auspicious occasion of your soul leaving the body.

QUESTION: When I sat before, it felt much different from yesterday and today. I had no control yesterday and today... it was so strong.

SANT JI: Try to avoid sleep. Because you are sitting in meditation, you must struggle with your mind. We should always be aware of what work we are doing. When we do our worldly work, we don’t sleep. It is because we do not understand meditation as an important thing that we sleep while doing it. When you are sitting for meditation, you should refuse your mind; tell him that for one hour you will not obey him.

QUESTION: I was struggling with sleep and then, finally, it came at the end of sleep.

SANT JI: It is the mind's habit to distract us from meditation. He will bring either sleep or pain. Our work is to defeat the enemy either by making friends with him or by doing anything to stop him. Our struggle is with a great enemy. This is our battle. Try not to surrender to him, but to win over him. The hard struggle is only for a few days; after that you will start getting strength from the Satguru Power within. Just think: when you are sleeping, what can He do to help you? Hazrat Bahu has said, "Where there are only stones, what can the rain do for them?"

Hazur Maharaj Sawan Singh used to say, "When I go to the Satsangis, everyone is sleeping. Only a few people are awake." And all the dear ones who are sitting here, for them I can speak – those who have meditated remaining wide awake, they have seen at least something in their meditation.

Now anyone can ask anything about meditation.

QUESTION: I had a little pain when I first started meditating, but after a while the pain became intense and I felt wave after wave of energy, like my whole body was breaking apart. For a while I thought I was going to pass out. I just couldn't get control over the energy.

SANT JI: Our soul is in every single cell of the body. When it leaves the body [at death], we will have to bear even more pain than this. If you will do Simran, you will bear this pain easily and you will feel less pain. Master used to say, "If we try to remove a silken cloth from thorns by moving it quickly, there is a possibility it will be torn apart. But if we move it easily and very slowly, it may come off without tearing." In the same way, if we will do more Simran, our soul, which is spread throughout the body, will leave our body very easily and we will not feel much pain. But if we do not do Simran, we will have to bear much pain. So we should do more Simran in order to decrease the pain.

Once Guru Nanak's mother asked Him, "Son, why are you sad? There is everything in the house." Guru Nanak replied, "Mother, to meditate on Naam is very difficult." He was not defeated by this difficulty, but he worked very hard and strictly for eleven years sitting on cushions made of pebbles. Today you are seeing me sitting on a piece of cloth, but in my life, I have never sat on such a piece of cloth. I always used dry hay or bushes or things like that when I was sitting for meditation. And the people who were visiting me very often used to say that Kirpal Singh of Delhi had made me mad. And many people thought of a scheme of taking me for treatment. But I never went away from the Path.

In Rajasthan it is very hot, and I was spending the whole day on only one kilo, about two pounds, of water. I didn't pay much attention to bathing and cleaning my body, because I was giving importance to meditation. You will find many people who will tell you how hard that time was. Here you have many trees and shaded areas. But in Rajasthan there are not many trees. Now there is a canal system and there are water, trees and shaded area. But when I was meditating, there was no water, no trees, nothing was there.

The lovers are never afraid of the pain. No matter how much pain comes, they are never afraid. The dear ones who are experiencing pain while sitting for meditation, but as soon as they get up from meditation, the pain goes: they should understand from this that there is some other power which is creating the pain within them to distract them. When you are sitting for meditation you should understand it as two wrestlers coming to fight with each other. When two wrestlers are coming to fight with each other, neither is coming to surrender to the other; they are there to conquer the other.

But when we are sitting for meditation, always we are completely surrendered [to the mind]. We are not thinking that we have to fight with a great wrestler. Guru Nanak has given a very good example, saying, “I am a wrestler of the Satguru and I have to work hard.” When a wrestler is looking at another wrestler, he is challenging him, saying, “Come on, fight with me.” The worldly wrestler only dares to fight with one wrestler at a time. But we have to fight with the five wrestlers of anger, lust, greed, attachment and egoism. Guru Nanak says, “No matter if we have to fight with the five wrestlers, we have the hand of the Satguru on our back. The Satguru is always giving us inspiration, saying, ‘Become strong, be strong.’” If you will do Simran and bear the pain, you will see how the Satguru Power is helping you from within. And the time will come when we will dominate over all these five wrestlers.

QUESTION: Is all the pain the pain of withdrawal, or are there different kinds of pain?

SANT JI: The pain of withdrawal always starts from the bottom of the leg and rises above. The pain which you experience sometimes at one place, sometimes at another, is only to distract you from your meditation.

QUESTION: Is it necessary to sit in the cross-legged position? I find it uncomfortable. Will those in cross-legged position make greater progress?

SANT JI: Everyone who is meditating will get a chance to go back to Sach Khand. Even the people who sit in the cross-legged position are troubled with sleep. If they sat on chairs in a comfortable position, sleep would conquer them easily. There is only one defect in sitting in a comfortable position: that is, sleep conquers us easily and we cannot succeed in meditation.

Masters say you have to collect your scattered thoughts. You can do it in the cross-legged position, or you can do it sitting in a chair, or you can do it while you are walking. You can do it in any position you like. But the question is one of collecting the thoughts which are scattered in the world, and connecting with Shabd Naam. Many dear ones are coming to me and telling me they are doing Simran when they are lying down. I tell them, “How can you do Simran when you are lying? Even when you are sitting, your mind is not allowing you to do Simran. How can you do Simran lying down when there is so much danger of sleep? Your mind is deceiving you.” When they obey my advice, they become successful in meditation. If you practice any work, it is not hard to do it. In the beginning, you will have some difficulty, but after practicing, it becomes easier. When we started building this Hall,¹² we had to face many difficulties. We had to work very hard and bring all the material together. But now that this Hall is built, how much facility we have! We can all sit together here.

Similarly, when we try to collect our scattered thoughts, we face many difficulties. We have to struggle with our mind. But after we have collected our thoughts, we get much happiness and bliss from it.

¹² The Satsang Hall at Sant Bani Ashram where this talk is being given.

You will see many people who meditate only once or twice in a month, two months or four months. But many other people are regular in their meditation, just as they are in eating. As food is necessary daily for our body, they understand that meditation also is important for our body. They are getting interest in their meditation; and if they do not sit for meditation, even for a day, they do not get that interest and they feel as if their body is being torn apart. Unless they sit for meditation, they cannot feel satisfied.

Very often I have given you an example from Guru Nanak's writings, where He says, "Just as an addict lives on intoxicants, in the same way, once we have developed interest in Shabd Naam, if we are tasting Shabd Naam, only then are we living; otherwise we are dying." Try to practice and the pain and other things will go away. Everything will become all right. And you should not open your eyes before the time is up. As long as you are sitting for meditation, you should not open your eyes.

QUESTION: Should we give the same importance to doing Bhajan as to doing Simran?

SANT JI: In the beginning, when you are starting out in meditation, if you are sitting for one hour, you should try to put one fourth of the time in Bhajan, and three fourths in Simran; that is, one quarter of an hour in Bhajan and three quarters in Simran. When your Simran is perfected and your soul starts leaving the body, you can always be doing the Bhajan practice; you can always be connected with Shabd.

Now we are doing less Simran, and sometimes we are going towards Simran, and sometimes towards Bhajan. Shabd comes within us just as the worldly thoughts are coming, without remembering them or making any effort. In the same way, Simran should always come within us and we should not have any worldly thoughts.

The meaning of doing Simran is forgetting the worldly thoughts. It is only because of simran of the world that our soul is entangled in this body. When we will concentrate our soul between the eyes with the help of Simran, we manifest many infinite powers within us. Man is the treasurer of many powers. But the practitioner of Naam will never use supernatural powers, because if he uses supernatural powers his progress will be stopped.

QUESTION: Sometimes, when I look into the middle of the Light that I see, it fades away.

SANT JI: This is because of lack of Simran. Thoughts are coming there. Do Simran and the Light will become clearer. Now also the Light is clearer and brighter, but the thoughts are coming in between us and the Light and that's why we see It as dim or pale.

QUESTION: I'm experiencing a lot of frustration in the quality of my meditation. Now You're here, and the thought occurred to me many times yesterday: what was the point of meditating when You are right here in front of me? Your presence gives my Simran the power to overcome sleep and pain. But I dread the moment that You leave because I know that Power is going to go with you.

SANT JI: No. The Power which you are receiving will always stay here. There is no doubt that when you are sitting in the presence of any Saint you will get Power. Master told me that once Master Sawan Singh came to visit Master Kirpal's house. The room in which Master Sawan stayed Master only opened for special occasions. Whenever He went in that room, His soul went right up.

The Power is always there within us, but the mind sometimes shakes our faith; the mind plays tricks on us. In the presence of the father the child behaves well. But when the father goes away, his bad friends teach him to do bad things. When Hazur came to our ashram, similarly, like you, one man told Him that in His presence, like you, he was seeing much Light and it was easy for him to meditate. He was not even aware of the time. But when he was not in His presence, it was hard for him to sit still for that much time. So Master gave him the same reply, saying, “When you are not in my presence you are obeying your bad friends and they overcome you.”

I know this because I have spent my life practically, even when I was in the army. People were trying to persuade me to see movies. Nobody was telling me their bad qualities; everyone was praising movies. So I told them, “At least there should be one man who will tell me the bad qualities of this thing!” The drunkards were always telling me the advantages of drinking wine, but there was nobody telling me that it is bad to drink wine, or that after drinking wine, we become mad.

Similarly, the meat eaters were always praising the eating of meat. They were telling me that much strength is obtained that way. So I told them, “If you are proud of your strength, come and run with me.” Nobody could beat me. I was very good at running and won many prizes in running competitions. This is just an excuse of the mind, that by eating meat we get strength.

Similarly, our mind will never tell us the advantages of meditation: that by doing meditation we can go to Sach Khand. On the contrary, he will always say that it is not good to do meditation and he will always try to distract us from meditation – because it is his duty.

19801980 February: When Man and Woman Agree

This darshan talk was given at the hut, Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, on January 3, 1980.

QUESTION: When we're told to do Simran and we hear the Sound very loud, should we continue to do Simran or should we do Bhajan?

SANT JI: You can sit in the Bhajan position and listen to the Sound Current.

QUESTION: [Inaudible question about the obedience of the wife toward the husband.]

SANT JI: [Laughing] Both husband and wife have the same duties towards each other, if they understand it. As the wife has her duties toward her husband, in the same way, the husband also has his duties toward his wife. If they live together and obey each other, only then will they be able to live the worldly life happily. You know that if both wheels of a cart are of the same size and functioning properly, only then can the cart carry a load. Otherwise it cannot.

QUESTION: I've got a question about the polluted air we have in the States, especially in big cities. We have brown air. How does that affect our health or our mind or meditation?

SANT JI: Mostly, this polluted air affects our health. When our health is affected, meditation is also affected. When we don't have good health, we cannot meditate. The person who is in good health can meditate much better than the person who doesn't have good health.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, over and over I have heard this problem, and I would like you to answer it directly. A man and a woman marry, and later they become initiated. One of the partners wants to be very chaste – a hundred percent – and the other person in the marriage is not yet in sympathy with that. The person who wants to be chaste is very strict about it and is afraid to be loving and affectionate for fear that it will lead to lust, and the other partner is lonely and hurt. What is the best way to handle this?

SANT JI: In all families, people have different types of minds and different natures. Every person is the slave of his mind. Every person is dependent on his own nature. Chastity can be maintained in married life only if both man and woman agree. Within marriage, either the man wants to practice chastity and the woman doesn't, or sometimes the woman wants to maintain chastity and the man doesn't. If they are not cooperating with each other in this matter, then they start having conflict between themselves and get to the point when they think about getting divorced.

I think that in this regard the wife should perform her duties toward her husband, and in the same way the husband should also understand his duty toward his wife, and he should also do that. Both of them should be loving and cooperating with each other. If they will do that, only then will they be able to lead a good life.

Lust is a spontaneous madness, and when lust comes it doesn't matter whether it comes within a man or a woman, it makes the person senseless. If at that time the lust is not satisfied, if it is within a woman, the woman will all day long keep fighting with the man, and if it is within the man and he is not satisfied, then he will also find excuses to fight with the woman. In that way they will always have conflict.

Those who have this disease of lust, if they meditate more, and when the lust comes within them, if they sit for meditation right at that time, they can succeed in getting rid of this disease. Kabir Sahib says that when the current of lust comes within the man, lust wakes him up, even when he is sleeping deeply. That is why Kabir Sahib says that we should always remain awake, because when you're sleeping the thieves are coming. Those who are sleeping and are not careful, the thieves take that person's senses under their control, and they make him enjoy lust. That is why Kabir Sahib says that we should always remain awake. But don't think that Kabir meant that lust comes only when we go to sleep. Saints say that we are always sleeping in respect to God, and are awake only in respect to the world. That is why They tell us to remain awake always.

QUESTION: There are a lot of people who don't want to overcome lust, because they say that God created lust as a beautiful thing, as a power to procreate children, and they don't see it as negative. They say that they don't want to eradicate it from their life, because it's not seen as a negative thing. It's seen as a beautiful power given by God to procreate children. I wondered if Master could comment on that. With anger it's easy to see that it is negative, but sometimes it's difficult to see that lust is negative.

SANT JI: Dear ones, Saints never say that lust, anger, greed, attachment and egoism are bad. They become bad when you use them too much. All these things are like weapons which are given to you by God, but when you use them more than required, only then they become bad. If you want to use lust only for procreation, indulge in lust only when she is able to conceive. Just by going once you will have your purpose served, since you will have a baby. Then you don't need to go to your wife until the baby becomes weaned and you need another baby. If you are using lust in that way, then it is a very beautiful thing; but people have made using it as a customary thing, like eating food. As we think it is important for us to eat food once or twice daily, we think the same way about lust. They are always going and enjoying it, and in that way, they are not preserving the beauty of lust, they are destroying it. If you have intercourse with your wife only for procreation, only for creating a baby, then you will be called a celibate – not unchaste.

But what is our condition? Kabir Sahib says that a dog is unchaste only for thirty days in a year; otherwise he is chaste. Even though the bitch lives near him, still he never indulges with her.¹³ But men are always unchaste. For all the six seasons and twelve months, they are unchaste. They don't maintain chastity even for one month.

If you go to your woman only for having children, and after that if you don't enjoy her in this way, then you cannot be called unchaste. But people always enjoy lust with the woman, and they don't even care whether she is pregnant, or even if she is just going to have the baby; still they enjoy lust with her. But look at the condition of the animals: when a cow becomes pregnant, or any animal becomes pregnant, the male animal will not touch her. No matter if they are living in very close quarters, still the male will not touch the female. But man doesn't observe even that much chastity. People don't consider that if they enjoy lust with a woman when she is pregnant, whether the baby who is in her womb will be suffering pain or not. If the man is doing that, the baby which is born will not be a good child for the parents, and will always give a hard time to the parents – because when that soul was in the womb, at that time the parents didn't take good care of it, and instead gave that baby suffering. That is why such souls, when they come out from the womb, they always give a hard time to the parents.

¹³ All animals, with the sole exception of man, feel sexual desire only when the female is "in heat" – able to conceive children.

Vital fluid is a very precious thing which you have got. You can go to your wife for babies, but to lose it unnecessarily is not a good thing. You should preserve it.

Anger is bad only when anger overwhelms you and controls you and you do whatever anger wants you to do. But as long as you are using anger for your own safety, it is not bad. God has put this element within you for a good reason: if you do not have anger, people can easily control you.

If God had not put greed in you, then you would not be able to meditate on Naam. We people meditate on Naam only because we have greed for realizing Naam. But, when we do not use greed in the right way, instead of having greed for Naam, when we start having greed for worldly things and go on collecting them, only then greed becomes bad. So when we misuse the greed, it becomes bad; otherwise not.

It is the same way with attachment: if we didn't have attachment within us, then we would not be able to have attachment for the Master. But when we do not remain attached to the Master, Who is the human form of God, and go and dye ourselves in the attachment of the world, only then we suffer. As long as we remain attached to Master we remain happy; but when we go beyond the limits of that attachment, when we go and attach ourselves to the world, only then we suffer.

Ego has been put within us for a good purpose. If we didn't have ego, we never would be able to maintain our personality and our confidence in the Master. But when we don't use ego in the right way, instead of maintaining our personality for the Master and becoming confident about the Path, when we go on using it for the worldly things, more than is required, only then does ego become bad.

All these weapons have been given to you by God for good purposes. That's why Saints never say that unchaste people or angry people or greedy people are bad. They say only that they are bad who misuse these things, because they ruin their life. That's why Masters always say that we should not misuse them.

QUESTION: Can you tell us what the star on your hand means?

SANT JI: [Laughing] The story about this is that when I was about the age of this girl,¹⁴ at that time on my body many blisters and sores erupted, and they were so bad that pus was coming out from them and my clothes used to stick to my body, and it was very painful; and nobody liked it. In those days in India people didn't believe much in medical treatment; and they used to believe that if you would take such a sick person on pilgrimage and bathe in holy waters, their sickness would go. So they took me to all the holy people and to all the holy places and after that failed, they brought me to Baba Bishan Das. Baba Bishan Das also took me to a sacred place, and he told me, "Nature wants there to be some signs on your body. Your body should not be stainless. So you will have to get three stains – or three signs – on your body, and then you'll be able to get rid of all these sores." So, Baba Bishan Das made me get three signs, and this [the star] is one of them.

¹⁴ The one who asked the question; she was ten years old.

The person who was putting those signs on my body was not pleased about it because I had so many sores that he was afraid that when he used his machine on my body, it would be painful for me. But Baba Bishan Das told him not to worry about that, because I was going to get better after I had the three signs. And when I left Baba Bishan Das at that place, three or four miles away, one hour later, my body became as clear as it is now. That is the story about this sign.

Baba Bishan Das was my first Master, from whom I got initiation into the first two Words.

QUESTION: Did Baba Bishan Das ever ask for initiation from Baba Sawan Singh?

SANT JI: Yes, Baba Bishan Das went to Master Sawan Singh when he was very old. Master Sawan Singh told him, "Since you are very old now, you won't be able to meditate, and you don't need to take any initiation. But I promise that I will take you when you leave your body."

I had told Baba Bishan Das about Master Sawan Singh. I came to know about Baba Sawan Singh from people who had seen Him when He went to Peshawar. I was posted at a place called Nowshera, and these people told me about this great Saint. They said that they didn't know what inner power was working within Him, but they knew that his outer form was very radiant and beautiful – He had a beautiful white beard, His face was very radiant, and He was a God-like man. So when I heard about Baba Sawan Singh's glory, I was so much attracted towards Him that I went to Beas and had His darshan. That made me so happy that I couldn't keep it only to myself, and I went to Baba Bishan Das and told him about Baba Sawan Singh. Then Baba Bishan Das accompanied me to Beas where he also had the darshan of Baba Sawan Singh. At that time Baba Sawan Singh promised Baba Bishan Das that He would take him.

Regarding me, Baba Sawan Singh told Baba Bishan Das, "This man has performed many austerities and he has done many other things; but still he has not got the real thing. I have one devotee here who also used to perform austerities before he came to see me." That was Baba Somanath. At that time Baba Sawan Singh called Baba Somanath and we were introduced: that was the time we met.

Baba Bishan Das was not a frog in the well. He believed in the planes above the planes which he had attained. And when I told him about Baba Sawan Singh, he said, "We should not delay in going to see Baba Sawan Singh, because who knows when we have to leave this world? We should go at once and have His darshan." Baba Bishan Das was much pleased with me at that time, and he said, "I have made him a very good disciple – because he has told me about this very great man. Because of him, I have come in contact with this great man."

QUESTION: Does what we receive in darshan depend on how close we are to your form, or how receptive we are to what you want to give us, or, what You want to give us? Does everybody get the same voltage, no matter how far away we are?

SANT JI: It depends upon the receptivity of the individual. In Nanaimo when the initiation was held, there was one dear one who got initiation along with many others, and many people had beautiful experiences there. Before the initiation was completed, he asked me whether he would receive the same type of experiences always, even when I go back to India. I said, “Yes, if you will be receptive you will get this experience.” Because he maintained that receptivity, he did have many other beautiful experiences. He wrote his father [who lives in India], and he sent a friend from there, and he requested that dear one to bring his father to get initiation. It was only because he maintained his receptivity, that he felt he had the grace of Master as much as before even after I was far away from him physically. It all depends upon the vessel. It all depends upon your receptivity. The more receptive you are, the more grace you will get. The distance doesn’t make any difference – whether you sit close to the Master or far away from him.

I don’t usually initiate deaf people, and this man’s father was deaf; so when he came here for initiation I refused him. For three days he was very sad because he had come here to get initiation. He told me he was searching for some Master for the last fifty years. And now, finally when he got the Master, he was refused initiation; so he was very sad. But since he was a deaf man and I couldn’t explain anything about the Path to him, that made it very difficult for me to initiate him; so I refused him. But he was very sad. So one night after Satsang I saw his sad face and I said, “All right, you come.”

Since he was deaf, there was nothing to explain. I told him, “All right, old man, close your eyes and sit, and just look within.” I told him only this much with the help of that other dear one. When he closed his eyes and looked within, and he got the attention of the Master, he saw the Light. Before coming here he used to visit the gurdwaras and temples, and he used to go and worship before the priests and like that. He always used to offer money before the holy book in the temples, or in front of the idols. So when he got this way of doing the devotion, and when he saw the Light, a little bit of Light within, he at once took a five-rupee note from his pocket and he started offering that at my feet. So that dear one told him, “You don’t need to offer anything here. You just keep your eyes closed and look within.”

It all depends upon the receptivity of the person. He was not explained anything about the Path, he was not explained anything about the inner planes, he was just told to sit and close his eyes and look within. And that was enough for him. So, it doesn’t make any difference if the person is explained all about the Path or not, or if he’s near the Master or far away from the Master. Everything depends upon the receptivity and purity of the person. God is the Beloved Friend of everybody, and He pays equal attention to everybody. He doesn’t hurt anyone. But it all depends upon the receptivity of the disciple.

We need to come close to the physical form of the Master because up until now we have not perfected our Simran and neither have we perfected the contemplation of the Master – we don’t always remember the form of Master when we go away from him. That is why it is very important for us to be near the Master as much as possible.

You know that as long as one doesn’t have a Master’s degree in any field, he has to attend college and study there. But once he gets the degree, then he doesn’t care about going to college. But that is the difference between the degree we get in this outer world and the degree which we get from the Masters. As we go on doing what the saints tell us, as we go on rising above in the inner planes, our appreciation for the Master also goes on increasing, because the respect for and the glory of the Master which is in the inner planes is much more than we can even think of in this world.

Many times I have said that those have done meditation and have gone above in the inner planes, they have never said that this Path is false. And only those who have gone within have understood their Master as God and only they have appreciated and loved their Master.

Kabir Sahib has said, “People are the slaves of mind. Few are the slaves of Master. Those who are the slaves of Master, they achieve the high status.” A dead body cannot complain, even if someone puts mud on it. It all depends on the person who is taking care of it. If he wants to clean that body, it’s all right, and if he doesn’t want to clean it, it’s still all right. The dead body cannot complain. In the same way, the real devotees of the Master don’t complain to the Master, because they are living like a dead body before the Master. They never complain that they are having pain in their body, or that they cannot do Simran, or that they cannot practice the Path; they do not complain before the Master because they want more than anything that love with the Master should be maintained. They always pray for that. The condition of a real devotee is that he always longs to have a glimpse of the Beloved and he always feels that he is a dead body before the Master. When he has a glimpse of the Master, only then he feels alive. Otherwise he always feels dead.

1980 March: Just By Doing Simran

This darshan was given on the afternoon of January 5, 1980, at the Hut at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Where does Simran originate from? I mean, is it in the mind or is it at the eye center? And when we do Simran, what happens from within?

SANT JI: Simran is the means of collecting the scattered thoughts and bringing the attention to the eye center. If our Simran is perfected, then all our thoughts become pure. If we have not perfected our Simran, then our thoughts do not become so pure, because if we are repeating the Names with our tongue, but our mind is not doing Simran, we cannot make our thoughts pure.

QUESTION: Master, I was wondering if you would speak about guilt, what purpose it serves, and if it can be turned into anything positive.

SANT JI: After making a mistake, we feel guilty. But it would be better if we had thought about it before doing it. What is the use of feeling guilty if one jumps in the well and then feels guilt? So that is why, before doing anything you should first think about it very carefully; in that way you can become free from feeling guilty after making mistakes.

QUESTION: That implies that we can always know beforehand, the right thing to do.

SANT JI: Yes. [Gentle laughter from group.]

QUESTION: Are we spoiling the grace that you give us through satsang and darshan when we talk after seeing you?

SANT JI: Satsangis should do Simran or sit alone after attending satsang or having darshan. If a satsangi talks with people after attending satsang or having darshan, his heart, which is filled by having the darshan of the Master, will go on emptying gradually.

QUESTION: If we're in a room where people are talking, should we leave and be alone? Are we affected by their talking?

SANT JI: You have to do your work. You should not pay any attention to others. One whose heart is still feels seclusion everywhere. A dear one can find seclusion even when he is among many people, if his heart is still. In the army different people get together and they are all very free-minded – they don't know how to use good words but only obscene words, and they are not very spiritual or religious.

When I was in the Army, if I had told them that they should keep quiet or be silent while I do my practices, what do you think? Would they have done that? No. If I had told them to keep quiet, they would have made more noise and disturbed me more. So I didn't pay attention to the disturbance which they were causing; I just kept on doing my work without paying any attention to them, and in that way I was able to avoid them. I remember that in the beginning, people used to come and disturb me. They used to come near my bed, drunk, and they used to dance on my bed, and they wanted me to join them; but I didn't. They did that for the first few days, and later on when they came to know that I was not like them, that I was doing my devotion, they didn't disturb me. We were all living in one big barrack, but still, after a few days when they realized that I was doing devotion, they were so impressed that nobody dared drink wine in that barrack. They would go out of the room to drink wine. So if our devotion is true, then God makes other people quiet when we are doing our Simran. If our Simran is strong, and if we are true to our own Self, and if we are constantly doing our Simran, then no matter how many people are talking in the room. God will make them quiet – if we are strong and true in our Simran.

Suppose you are sitting for meditation and doing your Simran and there are some people sitting next to you, talking. They are talking and bringing out whatever they have in their heart. If you are paying attention to their talking and becoming nasty towards them in your heart while you are still sitting for meditation, if instead of doing Simran you are thinking bad thoughts for them – you are not doing meditation and you are no better than the people who are talking. Because they are talking, using their tongue, and you are talking, using your mind. You are doing the same thing that they are doing. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, "What is the use of doing such a meditation? In that way you are closing the outer veil, but behind the inner veil you are doing everything which the others are doing openly." But if you do not pay any attention to them when you are doing your Simran, since God is sitting within them also, after some time they will realize that they are making a mistake. They will realize that you are doing Simran and they should not talk there. By themselves they will leave the room because God has given them sense, and God Himself is sitting within them. So if you are doing Simran, and if you are strong in doing Simran, then God will find some way to make things easier for you so that you can do more Simran. There was a dear one who used to live with me, and once he sat for meditation, where there were some people talking. He couldn't tell them to stop talking, but he was so angry with them, sitting in the meditation, that after some time his body was shaking because he was so angry. We all laughed at him, and said, "Look at this man! He is sitting for meditation, but what is he doing?" So whenever such a situation comes up – when people are talking and you are doing your Simran – you should not get upset with them, but you should be patient. Patiently you should go on doing Simran, and then they will leave by themselves.

Just a few days back, some people were coming from that direction where the people are coming now (you can see), and they were drunk. As soon as they came near the ashram they realized that it was land of the ashram, and they decided not to enter this land, and they went on that side, and after going all the way around the ashram, they came out on that road. Who was there? There was nobody standing there to tell them that it was the land of the ashram and they should not enter into this land when they were in that drunken condition. It was God Himself Who was residing within them Who told them not to do that. On the way back from America, when we changed planes at Rome, two Indian families from England got the seats right next to us. Some people in that party were drunk. But they felt so embarrassed that they didn't come and sit down in those seats which were allotted to them. The whole way they sat near the toilet and never came near us. It was good for us, because Pappu became sick, and we had all those empty seats on which Pappu could rest. [Laughter.] Nobody told them not to do that, but they felt bad because they knew that we did not drink wine, and they were drunk. They felt so embarrassed that they didn't dare to come and sit near us. Who was there to tell them that they should not sit there? It was only God Himself Who inspired them to go away from us. At that time I told Gurbagh Singh, "See how the Grace of the Satguru is working. These people have paid, but still they are not able to take advantage of it."

Everybody should consider, and if there is any dear one who is doing Simran or meditating in the room, you should keep quiet. If anyone is doing the meditation of God, you should give the donation of silence there, and you should keep quiet. A satsangi should always appreciate the one who does the devotion. At that time, those who want to talk can come out of the room and talk, but you should not hurt those who are doing Simran.

QUESTION: Sant Ji – in our dreams we do good things and bad things. Are these things incurring more karma on us? How much importance should we place on dreams?

SANT JI: Sometimes we get bad dreams only because of constipation or indigestion. But mostly our dreams are the reactions of the thoughts which we have thought during the daytime. If we have bad thoughts during the day, how can we expect to have a good dream in the night? If we have good thoughts during the day, then we will have good dreams. And if we are thinking about Master, even a little bit, then it is very possible that we may have the dream of Satguru. It all depends on the thoughts you are having.

QUESTION: If we work hard while we're here, could we perfect our Simran? While we're here at the ashram?

SANT JI: Yes. Yes, but it is different for different people. You know that some students are so bright that they learn the lesson in just one day, and some students are not so bright, and it takes a long time for them to learn the same lesson. So it is different for different people; but you should understand why we have to do Simran. We do Simran only to change the thoughts of our mind. The thoughts or fantasies which we have in our mind, nobody has told us to have them; all those thoughts are coming from our mind, from within us, by themselves. We are not making any effort to bring them, but still they are coming. But we are very fortunate ones, because Master has given us Simran. This is the Simran on which They have meditated, and if we want, and if we work hard, we can perfect our Simran, we can change our thoughts, in just one day.

We people don't pay much attention to Simran. That's why we spend our whole life in doing it and still remain far away from perfection. We people do Simran for ten minutes and then give up for many minutes, and again we do, and again we give up. Sometimes we forget Simran for many hours, and sometimes we don't remember Simran even for many days. It is only because of this that we are not able to perfect our Simran. But if we paid attention to Simran, and if we did Simran constantly, then we could perfect it in no time.

Satsangis have no idea of the value which Simran has and the power which Simran has. And that is why they don't pay attention to Simran, and become careless.

If we are strong in doing our Simran, we can have many powers, just by doing it. Many supernatural powers come within us just by doing Simran, and if the one who has perfected his Simran wants, he can stop a moving train. Such power can be achieved by doing Simran.

There are many forces of mind. And when you do Simran and have control over your mind, then you will realize its value and you will not give it up. You will always want to do it.

In the cities you may have seen magicians – people who practice mesmerism and such things to impress others. They are able to do that only because they have some concentration of mind and they have some hold over their mind. You can also do all these things, you can also impress people if you do Simran; but in Sant Mat, on the Path of the Masters, it is not allowed to use such powers to impress people. But you can get all those powers by doing Simran.

In Sant Mat, as Kabir Sahib says, “The Saints are near God, but still they don't tell people that they are near God.” In Sant Mat, if anyone has achieved anything, he will not impress people by what he has achieved. He will just keep quiet.

Many times I have told this story of when I was in the army. Once one English retired major came and he was a sort of magician. Before coming to our group he had performed many shows in front of other troops. People were very impressed; they said that he could even put life into a dead bird, and like that. SO when he came there, he said, “Okay, I will show you a very great thing.” He held a bird in his hand, and invited one person to come and cut off its head and someone did that. People saw the blood was dropping down on the earth and that the bird was dead. After some time, he just joined the two different parts of the body of the bird, and he made that bird fly, and everybody was very impressed. Then he said, “Okay, you bring some sawdust and I will turn that into sugar, and I will make tea and give it to you.” There were many high officers there who wanted to see this trick also. So some sawdust was brought and he turned that into sugar and tea was made and the officers were given that tea to drink. When they took their first sip he asked them. “Is it sweet?” They replied, “Yes, it’s like regular tea.” But then, when they took a second sip, they found that there was no sugar there – it was all sawdust.

[Laughter.]

He showed many tricks and afterwards he said, “I do all these things only because of my flute. (He had a flute with him that he played.) All my power is in this flute.” He wanted to play that flute, but at that time I also had some concentration of mind, and I used to play with people, and I used to – I had this habit of just harassing such people, so . . . [Laughter.] when he started playing his flute, I used my concentration and he was not able to. He was very surprised, because nobody up until then had done that. But no matter how he tried, still he was not able to play the flute. And he was not able to do the rest of his show, either. [Laughter.] So he was worried, and he said to my commander, “There is somebody in your troop who has some power and who has stopped my flute. So I request him, I beg of him, to please release his power so that I can do my work.” So that was released.

Then he said, “You should not understand that this is real magic; you should not think that I can really put life into a dead body. If I could, the people from England would never have allowed me to come here. The Queen or the King would have kept me in their service, because nobody wants to die. I do this only to impress people, and I can do it only because I have concentration of mind. Because my mind is concentrated, I can make you people’s minds believe in me, and I can impress you.” He meant to say that whatever he was doing was only because of the concentration of mind.

I had concentration because I was also doing meditation at that time. Of course, I did not have charged words; but still I was doing repetition, and I was doing it constantly. That’s why I had concentration of mind. So if you people also do Simran – and you are fortunate, because you have charged words – and if you do it constantly you can also possess such powers and you can also show all this to people – but you are not allowed to do that once you achieve it. But there is no doubt that you can get all these powers when you do constant Simran. Simran has many powers in it, and if we practice it constantly, we can become the masters of it.

QUESTION: I would just like to have the power to make you appear.

SANT JI: [Laughing.] Simran is the only way by which you can do that. That’s why, do Simran.

Regarding Simran, Baba Bishan Das used to say, “By doing Simran we can get many powers – we can read the hearts of people.” He also used to perform many shows like this, many miracles like this, because the mahatmas who do not go higher than the second plane become pleased when they give boons to people; or when they curse people and it works out, they become very pleased. They are delighted when they can help people by reading their hearts or by helping them in any way. So Baba Bishan Das also used to do that, and he was able to do it only because of Simran.

QUESTION: Do we have to suffer the consequences of bad thoughts that come to our mind? Like, even though we are meditating, sometimes I get bad thoughts – bad thoughts pop up in my mind for the Master. Do I have to suffer those consequences?

SANT JI: Guru Nanak said, “Because of bad thoughts you won’t be able to rise above, and you will not be able to succeed on the Path.” Unless you remove those bad thoughts, you will not be able to progress in meditation. Bad thoughts come into our mind only when mind attacks us.

In the army I had to work as a radio operator. Whenever there is a war, the enemy also has radio operators, whose job is to create disturbance in the radio messages between the people of the other country [“jamming”]. If two people are communicating on this side, there would be another person with a set whose work would be to cause a disturbance so that the first two cannot communicate well. But radio operators know that this disturbance is from the enemy; so they change the frequency of their set and pay no attention to the disturbance; and they go on communicating with each other.

In the same way, mind is working like the radio set of the enemy. His work is always to cause disturbance. He doesn’t have to take any message, he doesn’t have to give any message; his work is just to cause disturbance when we are communicating with God. When we are sitting for meditation, he works more than he works at other times, because that is the time he causes much disturbance. But the wise meditator pays no attention to the disturbance mind is causing; he changes his “frequency” of doing Simran, but he always keeps himself in Simran. In that way he casts off the disturbance of mind.

Sometimes in the war the radio operators of the enemy side will speak friendly words when they are causing the disturbance and will try to talk with the people of this side; they ask “what’s happening?” and “what do you need?” and like that. In that way they try to find out the situation of the other side. If the operator on this side is not wise, and doesn’t recognize the voice as that of an enemy – then, this side is defeated; because he tells him how they are marching and where they are going and like that, and when the enemy side knows these things they can attack.

But the wise operator always knows how to differentiate between friends and enemies. He knows how the operators of his side sound, and how the other side sounds. He has the full knowledge of that, and he works according to that.

Our mind works in the same way. When we sit for meditation and mind is causing disturbance, he will often come as a friend, and using very sweet words, he will tell us, “do this” or “do that” or “get up from meditation” – like that. And we feel that he is our friend, and we do not even think that what he is telling us to do will lead to a negative thing. You obey him and you do it; and when you have done it, then you realize that it was your mind.

So that is why, whenever you sit for meditation, no matter if the thoughts come in your mind, you should not pay any attention to them. Thoughts always lead to action, and we have to suffer the consequences of it. Whenever mind brings any thought in you, you should be very careful and not pay any attention to it. You should be able to recognize whether it is the voice of Master or whether it is the voice of mind. Your Master will always pull you upward, and if there is any good thought which makes you sit for meditation longer, or which makes you have more devotion for Master, then you should understand that it is from Master. But if any thought comes into your mind which makes you get up from meditation or which brings any bad thought in you, you should understand that it is from mind and you should not pay any attention to it. When you are sitting for meditation, you should be very careful, and act like the wise radio operator.

QUESTION: Then, do you still suffer the consequences?

SANT JI: If you are ignoring the thoughts, that means that you are doing Simran; and then you don't have to.

QUESTION: Master Kirpal once said, "Whatever you are thinking, God's Will is the opposite." Could you comment on that?

SANT JI: [Laughing] Master used to say, "Whatever you are thinking is opposite of the Will of God," and I say, "You should forget yourself." Both of these things are one and the same. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, "One person will say, 'one hundred,' and another one 'twenty times five,' or 'five times twenty,' but it is all the same – you have to become thoughtless."

QUESTION: Would it be right to say that we won't have perfect Simran until such time that we are able to handle those powers and be able to keep control of ourselves? Or, we won't perfect our Simran until we just have devotion for the Master, and not for powers and things like that?

SANT JI: Well, the important thing is that we people are careless in doing Simran. It is because we are careless that we don't have that much devotion for doing the Simran. And because we don't have that much devotion for Simran, mind brings disturbances and we are not able to perfect it.

The other thing is that we will have devotion for doing Simran only when we meditate more.

1980 November: Questions and Answers in Rajasthan

This darshan session with the Master and His disciples took place at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, October 28, 1980.

QUESTION: Would you explain what anger is, and what causes anger, and how to prevent it from coming in our within?

SANT JI: We can see the form of anger only when we see its expression; only when we see people fighting, or people getting upset at each other. Only then can we see what anger really is.

Once there was a Mahatma who told Anger, "I have heard many stories about you and I've heard about your deceptions, but I have not seen any of your forms or your deceptions with my own eyes."

So Anger said, "If you have not seen that I will show you how everything happens once I am at any place." A farmer came to a merchant with some honey. The farmer took some honey and pasted it on the wall of the merchant's store with his finger. Looking at the honey a fly thought that it was for her to eat and started eating; a lizard saw that fly and thought it was for her. When the lizard ate the fly, the merchant's cat saw the lizard and thought it was meant for her and she snatched the lizard. At the same time the farmer's dog saw the cat and he thought the cat was meant for him so he started chasing that cat.

The cat was very dear to the merchant and the dog was very dear to the farmer; the merchant hit the dog with a stone and the farmer hit the cat with a stick. The merchant had many servants and the farmer had many companions; both parties started fighting with each other and as a result many people broke their arms and legs and had to be carried away. So just in a few minutes everything happened. Anger told that Mahatma, “You see how in just a few moments I created such a deception and made people fight with each other.”

Anger does not come from outside; the fire of anger arises from within us; and in order to quench the fire of anger – in order to quiet or satisfy the anger – we use outer things.

You know that nowadays in Iran and Iraq the guns are blowing out fire. That is the fire of anger. They have widened the mouths of the guns and the fire is coming out and killing the people. It is only because of anger. You see how, because the people have become controlled by anger, because they have gone mad with anger, one brother is killing the other. One community or one religion is fighting with the other.

Master Sawan Singh used to say about anger that once there was a dear one in Abdabar who killed his brother and after that he removed the skin from the body of his brother; he put that skin under his bed, and after that he used to eat food on that skin.

The only way to prevent having anger arise within is the meditation of Shabd Naam. As the disease of anger is within us, the medicine to remove this disease is also within us.

QUESTION: Can you talk about the Radiant Form? Does the Radiant Form always take the Form of one’s own Master, or can it be a past Master that one has never seen?

SANT JI: Master Sawan Singh used to say that in the path of spirituality the relation of grandfather or great-grandfather does not exist. And it has no value. We should always have faith in our own Father who has given us initiation. Anyway, for convincing the disciple, and for satisfying the disciple, the Radiant Form takes the form of the past Master or even the present Master.

As I have said many times about Sunder Das, an initiate of Master Sawan Singh Ji, who used to live with me, at the time of his death he not only saw Master Sawan Singh but he also saw Baba Jaimal Singh and Master Kirpal. When he said that he was seeing the three forms at that time we had made halvah prashad for all the Sangat there, because it is a tradition in the Sikh religion that if anyone leaves the body at his own will or without any resentment – if he is pleased to leave this world and he knows from beforehand that he is going to leave the body – then we make the halvah and he leaves the body cheerfully.

So we had made the prashad and people were sitting there and he said Master Sawan Singh had come to take him, along with Baba Jaimal Singh and Master Kirpal Singh. So sometimes it happens that – to convince the disciple or to please the disciple – the Radiant Form takes the form of the previous Master or the present Master also.

In the same way, when my father left the body he also saw both Masters Sawan Singh and Kirpal Singh, even though he was not an initiate. He used to say, “I will see when your devotion will liberate me.” So three days before he left the body a cable was given to me saying he was almost ready to leave the body. So I went there to Punjab and he told me he was seeing both the Masters. This is a very special grace of the Masters; sometimes to convince the disciples the Master comes along with His Master or along with His successor also. This is the grace of the Masters. Master Sawan Singh used to say, “Masters have to take care of the souls of even the dogs of the Satsangis.”

There was one lady living in the village of 83 RB. She was initiated just a couple of months ago and twenty days ago she left the body. When she left the body she reported that Master Kirpal had come to take her. She was not sick and she did not have any physical pain or anything like that. The day before she left the body she was doing laundry all day long and next morning she got up at four o'clock and sat for meditation and while she was sitting for meditation she left the body. Before leaving the body she told her family members that both Master Kirpal and myself had come there to take her. Her family members came to me and told me about her departure.

Anyway we should always have faith and trust in that form of the Master who has given us initiation and told us, “Come within and find me.” – in that form He has told us.

QUESTION: In the beginning of the Anurag Sagar a condition called Bhringi is talked about. Can you comment on that and explain how that can be achieved?

SANT JI: The disciple can become successful only when he becomes like the Bhringi. When the insect catches the attention of the Bhringi he becomes the same form as the Bhringi. In the same way those who will accept the attention of the Masters, the attention of the Shabd, only they will become the form of the Master and go back home. That is why Hazur Maharaj used to say, “If you love me, obey my commandments.”

QUESTION: In meditation at times I find that I am simply sitting in one place listening to the sound and not plunging completely into it, and letting it completely take me away. I'm not being absorbed. How can I let go of the clutching and be taken away by it?

SANT JI: You should not try to do anything while you are sitting for meditation except meditation. The dear one should forget about himself completely. He should not even remember where he is sitting. Whenever you try from yourself to absorb yourself or plunge into it or to clutch anything, you will at once become aware of your body and that will break your concentration. When the concentration is broken you will have to start all over again.

QUESTION: Is repeating Simran the best way to get past pain while sitting?

SANT JI: [Laughing] I think that if we lovingly do the Simran, without understanding it as a burden, then we will never even remember if we are having pain. The soul gets the power of bearing the pain by itself if we are doing the Simran lovingly.

QUESTION: I was talking to Millie Prendergast last summer and she said you just go to the eye focus and then you repeat the names; that's how she described it. I was wondering, when you sit, are you supposed to go right to the eye focus or is that a process of doing the Simran and then you go to the eye focus?

SANT JI: We should take our attention right to the eye focus as soon as we close our eyes and sit for meditation. If we are able to do that then we will not find any difficulty in rising above. You know that when we are not doing our meditation at that time also our attention is at the eye focus. Whenever we have to think about anything or remember anything our attention is at the center of our forehead at the eye focus. So we should always keep our attention there. And if we want to progress in meditation, it is very important to keep our attention there and then do Simran.

The thing is that we are not giving so much attention to the Simran of the Satguru as we are giving to the Simran of the world: that is the difference.

QUESTION: There is so much emphasis on Simran, but to me at times, here I am just saying five foreign words that I can't relate to except that the Master has told me that this will bring me to different levels. How do we get to understand or have more of a feeling for the Simran?

SANT JI: Instead of thinking about understanding them you should go on repeating them which will bring the understanding to you by itself. When you go within then you will understand them. When you go within, everything will be like an open book. When you go within then you don't need to ask anything from anyone; there will be no doubts, no confusions. As long as we are outside we don't know the importance of doing Simran, but when we have faith in the Simran and do a lot of Simran and go within, then we know the importance of Simran, and desire to do it more and more.

QUESTION: When we do bhajan should we stop doing Simran?

SANT JI: Yes. You can do only one work at a time.

QUESTION: You frequently mention to do meditation with full devotion, but frequently the mind is racing away like a wild team of horses, and you're sitting with pain all through your body so next time you want to sit for meditation the mind immediately picks up on "It's going to hurt." It's going to be fighting the whole time.

SANT JI: [Laughing] Don't obey your mind. If you will do that only love will be left with you. The mind is our enemy and we should not obey our enemy. Mind will not let any opportunity go from his hands without utilizing it.

The Sadhu who has struggled with mind all his life long knows that this is the path of patience and unless we have patience we cannot become successful. That is why it is very important for us to be patient and with all our love and devotion keep on doing our meditations. If we do that with patience, we will definitely succeed.

When your mind tells you that you are having a lot of pain and you should not sit any longer, at that time, instead of obeying him and giving in to him, you should punish him by sitting for a longer time by suffering pain for a little bit more time so that he may know that if he will bring that feeling again you will make him sit for a longer time.

Regarding the mind, Master Sawan Singh used to tell one story about a Muslim fakir. Once his mind brought the desire for eating dates, so the fakir said, "I don't have any money right now; let us go into the forest to cut some wood; then I will be able to buy the dates." So he went into the forest. His mind said, "Why are you going so far into the forest? This is a good spot for cutting wood." But he said, "No, let me go deep into the forest where there is a better quality of wood so I can get more money and I can buy more dates." So he went farther than his mind wanted; and, after that when he cut down the wood his mind didn't want him to carry a lot of weight. But he said, "No, if I take a lot of wood we will get a lot of money and naturally we will get more dates to eat." So he carried more wood than he really should have carried. When he came to the town he sold that wood and bought the dates, and said, “Let us go into the forest again; that will be a good place to sit down, where no one else is there, and it will be very enjoyable to sit there alone and eat the dates.” So he dragged his body there; his mind was also being punished at the same time. When he sat there, he asked his mind, “Well, do you want to eat the dates?” His mind said, “Yes, that is why I have done all this work.” So he said, “Today you have asked for dates; tomorrow you will ask for some other thing. Then you will say you want to get married, next you will want to produce children, and in that way you will always ask for one thing or another, and I will have to fulfill your desires. So tell me, when will I have time to meditate? So it is better that I not obey your first desire, so that you may learn the lesson that I am not your servant, I am the servant of my Master.” After that he gave away the dates to someone else. And Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that that fakir punished his mind in such a way that for one year he didn’t drink anything except warm water. He didn’t eat any food or anything. That was his punishment to the mind.

Once I came from the army to meet my first Master Baba Bishan Das – I have told you many stories about him because he was the Mahatma who made my life. When I came to see Baba Bishan Das my mind played a trick on me. He used to wake me up at one o’clock because he used to get up then to meditate. So whenever he got up he would wake me also. One day my mind made me think, “What is the use of coming here to the ashram of the Master if you still have to get up at one o’clock to meditate?” I was thinking of the ashram as a resort place for me because I was spending my holidays there. So when Baba Bishan Das woke me up at one o’clock I said, “Master, why do I have to get up when you are already up and you are sitting for meditation.” At once Baba Bishan Das knew that this was a trick of the mind; I was being fooled by the mind. He said, “Well, if you don’t want to meditate, don’t, but at least get up and come here. I want to tell you something; come with me.” I didn’t know what Baba Bishan Das had in His mind – what He was going to do to me. Near the dera there was a pond – this was in the month of December, and it was one o’clock in the morning – the water was very cold. He started talking with me and suddenly he took me near the pond. He held my hand and was just about to push me into the pond; I said, “Well, Master, if you want me to go there. I will, but let me take off my clothes.” But He said, “No, because I know that if I give you that much time, your mind will fool you again, and you will run away.” So He pushed me into the pond, and when I came out my condition was like that of a mouse which has been thrown into water; when it comes out it is shivering with the cold. That was the last day when I thought about sleeping later than one o’clock. After that I never in my whole life slept after one o’clock. That is why I always say, “It is not in my heritage to sleep in the early hours of the morning.” What Baba Bishan Das did was the best thing for me; that was His way to teach me that we should never obey our mind. Mind is always with us and it is our enemy. If we will obey our enemy, then how are we going to conquer our enemy? If we obey our mind once, if we procrastinate or postpone our meditation once in obedience to our mind, then next day – he is still within us – he will play the same trick. And in that way, day by day, he will take us far away from the Master, and the time may come when we might even leave the Path, if we continuously obey our mind.

So in the morning the mind says, “Sleep now, tonight you have plenty of time and you will meditate later on; sleep now.” Later he will advise you to meditate tomorrow and in that way he will never let you meditate.

1980 December: Some Sweet Things About God

This darshan session with the Master and His disciples took place at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, October 29, 1980.

QUESTION: Would You tell us some sweet things about God – about His love for us?

SANT JI: All the Masters who have come into this world up till now have talked only about God. They always tell us how much love God has for His souls. But we can understand His love for us only when we reach His plane, only when we go back to our real Home. God is love and the place where God resides is also love. This plane is not completely of love. No doubt there is a little bit of love in this plane also, but it is mixed with many other things – enmity, hatred, etc. Even the people who say they have love – they also don't have pure love. In their love also there is some mixing of other things. When the love in the heart of God becomes so much, only then God comes in the form of a human being. He tells us that we are His essence. He tells us to come back to our real Home. He gives us the invitation to go back to our real Home. And He tells us, “After separating from me, you have suffered a lot by taking up many births and deaths. Now I have come to take you back.” He does that only out of love for us. Saints make us understand that God is not the personal property of any particular religion, country, faith, or group of people. They tell us that anyone, whether man or woman, who has love and yearning for God, can meet Him. It is not true that only people of a certain group or religion or faith have the right to realize God.

The souls who are successful in reaching God have love and only love for all the souls of God who are still on the material plane in this world. And He does not look at the people's minds. He always looks at the soul, because soul is the essence of God. And the soul who has reached God knows that the soul is without any sins. All the sins come from the mind, and that is why he doesn't pay any attention to the mind – he only pays attention to the soul.

When the soul hears the Sound of the Shabd, she becomes so intoxicated in the love of the Shabd that she starts dancing, exactly as the peacock starts dancing when he sees that the clouds have come together and it is going to rain. But before that the condition of the soul has become like the condition of that sheep on whose back a monkey is riding. The monkey takes the sheep wherever he wants. She doesn't know where she is being taken. She goes wherever the monkey takes her. In the same way, our mind is climbing on our soul; that is why we go wherever our mind takes us.

QUESTION: Master, You just said that when the soul hears the Shabd she becomes intoxicated. At what stage will that listening process start?

SANT JI: The fact is that when the soul starts going within, even a little bit, then also she starts hearing and she starts getting intoxicated. Whenever you will fix your attention or concentrate your attention at the third eye or tisra til, right then you will start feeling the intoxication. Outwardly there are many stories about that love, stories about that intoxication which people have felt, but when you go within it is worth experiencing and you will see how the flames of love are burning there. And when you experience that, you will not find any adequate words to describe that intoxication and love.

QUESTION: When there is no officially appointed group leader in an area, can the initiates discuss among themselves – if they are close initiates – about their meditation?

SANT JI: The thing is, if there is any area that does not have a group leader, the initiates of that area should contact me so that somebody can be appointed there as the group leader. It is very important to have a responsible person among the satsangis in an area, because if there is any responsible person, any group leader, he will collect everyone and make them sit together in the love of the Master. And because of the well-organized meetings the dear ones will also get benefit from discussing about the Master and the teachings of the Master.

If there is any place where there are not many satsangis, and if there are satsangis far away and they cannot attend that satsang, such dear ones should contact me so that they get my permission to do the satsang there, and they will get the same benefit.

QUESTION: We have a situation where we have a small group of people and, in the past, it seems like when a group leader, if the person isn't chosen right a little bit of ego gets going and then it always ruins the sweetness of the satsang. I had thought of rotating the duties, each one giving a talk according to what he thought was appropriate. By rotating it there's nobody that makes it seem like "their" satsang. In all the satsangs I've seen there's always a little bit of backbiting and strife between the group leader and the others.

SANT JI: This is something the satsangis have to decide, but I would suggest that there should only be one person doing all the work, who should be group leader. Because if many people will be responsible for doing this work of group leader, nobody will understand their responsibility, and that will ruin the thing – more than in this case.

You know the Emperor Akbar was a very great king among the Moguls. Once he thought of making a pond and filling it up with milk. So he told everybody in his kingdom that tonight they should bring one cup of milk and put it in that pond. He thought that if everyone brought one cup of milk that by morning the pond would be full of milk. But all the people thought, "Let me go and put water in, because everyone else is going to put milk in it, and it won't make any difference." So nobody brought milk; everyone brought water.

In the same way, if you have many people responsible, then there might come a time when people will think, "Well, today the other person is going to read, so why should I go to the Satsang?" And the time may come when no one will come to the Satsang and no one will get any benefit. That's why it is suggested that only one person should be acting as a group leader. He may have some companion with him to help him, but if only one person has the responsibility then he will come there before the time, he will put the mats down, clean up the place, and get ready for the Satsang. So if one person is responsible, then I think it can do very well.

We should try to hear and grasp the words which are being said in the satsang without paying any attention to the liking of the group leader. Our connection is with the Master, and our main purpose in going there is to hear the words of the Master and to obey them. It is the habit of the mind to create such confusion when you go to Satsang. I know this because I have gone to many places where people get up and give a talk. There are many who want to go up on the dais, because they feel they can do a better job than the person who is giving the talk. And people start fighting with each other, and then the ego and all those things come up. But in those meetings there are many people who just keep quiet and sit there and listen to what is being said. So you should become like those people. You should sit quietly and listen to what is being said there.

QUESTION: I've heard that non-initiates should not come to meditation before Satsang, but I've also heard that people who are sincerely seeking initiation should be able to come to meditation.

SANT JI: You see, many times it happens... Suppose tomorrow morning we are going to give initiation and if people come this evening to have a meditation sitting, we cannot tell those people to go away from the meditation when we know they are sincere and are seeking initiation. And many times it happens that people who have been initiated into different paths will come and ask to sit in the meditation. We should let them also, because such people know how to meditate and respect others' meditation, and they do not make any disturbance. She [Master points to a lady] was initiated here in the last group, and she did not attend any meditation until she was initiated. That permission is for those special people who have been initiated in some other path or those who do not disturb the meditation of the initiates. Only such people should be allowed in the sittings, or those who are seeking initiation sincerely.

QUESTION: Master has commented before that at the time of death, if there are non-initiates present the Master won't show His Radiant Form, or the people won't say they see the Radiant Form if there are non-initiates present. Why is this?

SANT JI: You see, you will have no hesitation in talking to your friend about anything. You will open your heart to him. But if someone is not your friend then you won't tell him everything. You will keep something to yourself. If the dying initiate tells the non-initiates that the Master has come, they won't believe it. They will say that the dying man has gone insane and is talking nonsense. This happened in the town of Mukhsar – there was a girl of nine or ten years old who had once had the privilege of having the darshan of Baba Sawan Singh. When she was about to leave the body, she told her mother to sprinkle the water because “the Master is coming to take me.” Her mother was an initiate and believed her. And her brother was also initiated, so he also had faith in the Master and believed her. But the neighbors and the non-Satsangi relatives said, “The balance of her mind has been disturbed and that is why she is talking nonsense.” Her mother and brother were seeing the Master coming there, but the non-satsangis were not seeing, were not having faith, were not believing. That is why, if the initiate is dying and if the people nearby are initiated, then because they appreciate and believe in the Master, it's worth saying. But if non-initiates are there who don't believe and don't have any faith, that's why the dying man keeps quiet.

If any satsangi goes to visit any satsangi who is dying or sick, he will not talk about worldly things. He will do the Simran and he will remind the sick person to do the Simran and he will ask him, “Do you remember the Simran? Do you remember the Master's Form?” Non-satsangis do not appreciate, do not believe; that's why the satsangis do not tell. But if satsangis are present, then the soul gets intoxicated and wants to share what she is experiencing within. In New York I went to the hospital to see one of the Nicholson brothers, who was dying. I asked him if he had any desire, if he wanted anything. His soul got so much intoxication and happiness that, despite his ailment, he was so happy that he started clapping his hands. And he said he didn't have any desire, that he was contented. So when any satsangi goes near a satsangi, the soul which is leaving the body finds intoxication and happiness.

QUESTION: When You say that a satsangi who is present when another satsangi is dying can see the Master's Form, does this apply to any satsangi? Or only those who have reached a certain level in their spiritual development?

SANT JI: It all depends on the receptivity of the satsangi. Guru Nanak said that you can see the Form of God according to your receptivity. If our attention is not towards our Master and we are wandering here and there in the world, then even if our Master is standing right in front of us, we will not be able to recognize him.

QUESTION: Does that mean that quite a number of satsangis may not be able to see the Form of the Master even though they may be present during the death of another satsangi?

SANT JI: I won't say that many people don't see the Master, because when anyone is leaving the body, the condition of the soul is such that everyone feels like doing the Simran. And when you are doing the Simran, your attention is towards the Master. I receive many letters and cables from your country in which people say if any satsangi is leaving the body and other satsangis are nearby, then the satsangis who are sitting there see the Master coming there to take the soul of the satsangi. And even if the non-satsangi parents of satsangis leave the body, even if they may not feel and may not report, but the satsangis who are there and who are doing Simran always feel the presence of the Master and they always see the Master coming there. If the satsangi is doing the Bhajan and Simran, one generation of his relatives get liberated. What do you think Satguru is? Satguru is that great Power Who goes even to the relatives of the satsangis, even to the animals of the satsangis, and liberates them.

QUESTION: Would you talk about developing patience and tolerance?

SANT JI: We should have patience in every work we do. If we apply that in our worldly work, you will find that it will help you a lot and bring good results. And in terms of the meditation also, while we are doing the meditation if we are patient, then we always get good results. Patience and gratefulness, these are the two things which the satsangis should always have. One should be grateful to his Master, and one should be patient with whatever he receives, because whatever is written in our fate we will get.

1981

1981 March: The Ripening of the Fruit

This darshan session took place on October 6, 1980, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: I haven't seen that many Sant Bani Magazines and I want to ask Master about when we do meditation – the three to six meditation – sometimes I have a temptation after the meditation to go back to sleep for maybe 20 or 30 minutes. Is there a lot lost of the meditation from going back to sleep after you've finished meditation?

SANT JI: This is a trick of the mind. If you go to bed on time in the evening – say, nine or ten o'clock in the evening – then by three o'clock you have taken enough rest. What happened in the beginning when the Westerners started coming here, half of them, no doubt, used to get up at three o'clock. They would meditate until 4:30, or even up to six o'clock and after that they would think about going to bed for 20 or 30 minutes – just to stretch out. But their mind would play a trick on them and they would sleep so much that they had to postpone the other meditation – the hour from seven to eight. That is why we told them, "You should not do that."

If you go to bed by nine or ten o'clock, then by three o'clock you would have slept five or six hours and that is enough for good health. If you have slept that much time, you should not have any difficulty in getting up at three o'clock and meditating until six o'clock. If after that your mind wants you to sleep, then you should not be fooled by it, because the mind will deceive you and will not let you do the meditation at the later time. So you should go to bed by nine or ten o'clock and get up at three o'clock. After that, in the afternoons, after taking lunch, you should rest so that your food is well digested and you may not have any difficulty sitting in the afternoon.

QUESTION: Master, I heard a story that Baba Sawan Singh left his body early because a lot of the disciples had spent a lot of time asking foolish questions during their interviews. And that His life would have been extended by many years by refraining from asking worldly questions. During the interview, is there any type of question that might be best not to ask and might help to avoid this problem for your own physical body?

SANT JI: In the earlier magazines a lot has been said regarding this; you should read them. These are the things that affect the Masters: when the disciples stop doing their meditations and start doing the bad deeds and they develop a lot of bad karmas. After that, when they have to suffer from the reactions of those bad karmas, then they pray to the Master for relief from suffering the reactions; in which case Master has to help them. Satguru Sawan used to say that the Negative Power doesn't give any concession, not even for one little karma. All the karmas which are done on this physical plane must be paid off. It doesn't matter who pays it. Either the Master has to pay off that karma, or the disciple has to pay off. So that is why when the disciples do not meditate and start doing the bad deeds, after that when they have to suffer the reactions from those bad deeds, and when they pray to the Master, Master is very gracious and helps them in paying off those karmas. He takes some karmas on His body – He bears the pain on His body – and He cuts off some karmas by His gracious sight. So when people tell Him about their problems, about their sufferings, then Master cannot help but to shower grace on them. In that way he has to suffer a lot on His body – otherwise there is no other reason for Master's sickness. Masters are free from the sicknesses; They do not have to pay off any karmas and They do not have any disease or anything like that. If we see that the Masters are sick or that They are paying off any karmas, it is because They are paying off the karmas of Their disciples. They don't have anything of Their own. They are doing that only for the sake of the disciples. Sometimes it happens that the disciple whose karmas the Master is paying for is sitting right next to Him, but still he doesn't know whose karmas the Master is paying. He may even feel bad and his faith may be shaken by seeing the condition of the Master, if Master is sick. He may think, "What type of Master is He, when He also has to go through sickness?" He doesn't know that Master is paying off his karmas, but Masters are very serious-minded. They never say that They have taken this karma of that person and They always hide the secrets of the people. They do not say, "We have done this favor for you."

There is no harm in asking questions from the Masters. Masters give the answers to all the questions with all satisfaction and They always want to satisfy the disciples. But the disciples should do their meditation because meditation is the only thing which can ease the burden of the Masters. The disciples should not become a burden on the Master, and they should do their daily meditation.

Daily meditation is like ripening of the fruit. After the fruit is ripe and when the fruit falls down from the tree, the tree has no pain and the fruit has no loss. The fruit is very delicious and tasty and the tree also feels no loss. But if the fruit is not ripe and you cut it, then the tree will feel pain and the fruit will not be tasty. Our daily meditation is like the ripening of the fruit. After we become perfect we do not become a burden on the Master and Master does not feel any loss, because if we have perfected ourselves in the meditation, then there is no question of becoming a burden on the Master. This is a fact, that when any disciple does any bad deed the Negative Power asks the Master, "Look at this soul. Is this a soul whom you initiated?" When the disciple is doing any bad deeds, then Master is taunted by the Negative Power. Negative Power tells the Satguru, "You take your gracious gift back from him because he is not fit to get the initiation into Naam." But Master is very patient and He comes in this world with a very big heart. He says "No, don't bother, he is going to be very pure, he will go to Sach Khand and he's going to be a very good man."

When Master gives the initiation He makes no mistake and He has given the initiation having a great deal of faith and with a lot of determination that such a soul will definitely get back to Sach Khand.

Until the disciple's eyes are opened, he does not know who is helping him, and who is watching him. He does not even know that Master is always with him, and is watching his every single action – even the thoughts are being watched by the Master. But when the eyes of the disciple are opened, then he always sees the Master with him and he knows that Master is watching his every single action and thought. After that, he doesn't do any bad deed.

If there is anything lying about and if a little boy of five years old is watching that thing, we do not dare to steal it because we know someone is watching over it. If we steal it we would be blamed and we would be caught. But the pity is that we are not even afraid of the Almighty Lord like we are afraid of that five-year-old. We already know that it is true that God always watches our every single thought and action. Still, we are not afraid of Him as much as we are afraid of that five-year-old boy.

QUESTION: When once Master leaves the body and the next Master comes, which one takes on the karmas that the disciples are still creating?

SANT JI: After the Master who has given the initiation has left, His successor who works in His place takes on the karma. But we should always contemplate the Master who has given us initiation. If we have real love for the successor and if we love Him dearly, then He will help us in every possible way. He will help us exactly like our Master was helping us. Outwardly and inwardly He will help us. If we love Him with our true heart, then we will have no doubt that both our Master and His successor are one and the same power. We will feel the same fragrance coming out from the successor as we were feeling from the Master, we will see the same form, we will see the same thing. We will never have any thought that the successor of the Master is different from the Master. The Light is the same, the practices are the same, only the bodies have been changed.

Sunder Das, an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh Ji, used to live with me. He lived with me for a long time. After Sawan Singh left, he had faith in Master Kirpal. So when he left the body, Master Kirpal came to take him, Master Sawan came to take him, and also Baba Jaimal came to take him. The three powers were there to receive his soul.

Six months before he left the body, he told me that after he left the body we should not give any food or anything to anybody – whatever we want to do after his death, we should do it while he was still in the body. So we gave a big feast to all the Satsangis who were there; we made very good food for the people. After that, when I was going to Delhi, he told me that I should bring the clothes which he would wear after he would leave the body. So I brought the clothes for him beforehand; I gave them to him and he always kept them on his back. The day before he left the body he told me, “Now the call has come from the court of the Lord and now I’m ready to go.”

Sunder Das had one sister and she was very old and she had a lot of pain and suffering also – physically she was very sick. Sunder Das said, “If Master can shower grace on her and she can go with me, it will be very good.” As soon as that lady heard that, she at once got up and using her cane, she left that room because she was afraid of death. I asked Sunder Das, “Is your sister ready? If you think that she is ready to go, then you should stop her.” But she was not ready, she was not stopped, and she left the room. After a couple of hours he said, “The time is really up and now I have to go.” Then we made halva. In the Sikh tradition if you don’t want to mourn over anybody’s death and if we know that the person is dying peacefully and with all his pleasure, then we do not need to mourn over his death. Then we make halva prashad, and we distribute that. So we did that and when he was just going to leave the body I went near and I asked him, “Sunder Das, do you have any desire? Do you want to say anything?” He said, “No, I don’t have any desire, I don’t have anything to say, but I want to tell you one thing – that I had this desire that at the time of my death the Satgurus should give me Their Darshan and now I am seeing all the three powers. They are already with me and I am going with Them peacefully.”

After He left the body, his sister came in the room and she started weeping. She got hold of the hand of Sunder Das and said, “Oh brother, why didn’t you take me with you, you should have maintained the religion of brotherhood.” I said, “He maintained his religion, he wanted you to go with him to the court of the Lord, but you were not ready. Now you should not weep when he has left.” After Sunder Das left the body, we cleaned his body up and we dressed him in white clothes. His body was looking somewhat like Baba Sawan Singh’s body. He had a sharp nose like Baba Sawan Singh had, he had almost the same eyes and same long face. After we made him wear the white clothes we made him sit in the cross-legged position. To those who had the privilege of seeing Baba Sawan Singh, we told them, “You can look at him and see if there is any difference between Baba Sawan Singh and Sunder Das.”

The meaning of this story is that if the disciple does the meditation he knows long before he has to leave the body when he is going to leave. He doesn’t have any complaints and he always reports before leaving that the Master has come and he is going back to his real home. If the non-Satsangis are present at the place where a Satsangi is leaving the body, then even when the Masters come there, he will not be able to say anything. He will not say that the Masters have come. But if there are no non-Satsangis there, then definitely he will say that the Masters have come to take him. Masters always keep their word, they keep their promise and they always come to take the souls at the time of death. When they give the initiation, they are determined to take the souls back to Sach Khand. When the disciple leaves the body it is in the hands of the Master to decide about the birth and death of the disciple. It is up to the Master to decide whether to keep that soul in the higher planes and make his soul pure or if he should be given one more birth. Everything is in the hands of the Master and He Himself decides what to do with the soul.

If you sing the praise of the Master and if you go on talking about the grace of the Master, then we can make many books on this subject. There is no way that the soul can describe the grace of the Master. Master definitely showers grace on those to whom he has given initiation, but if there is anyone who is not initiated in the family, Master showers grace on them and he takes care of them also.

My father didn’t have Naam initiation and he always used to taunt me, “I will see when your devotion will liberate me.” He used to say, “Because you don’t do any worldly work and always keep your eyes closed and sit in the meditation, we will see when your devotion will do anything for us.” He never used to believe in what I was doing and he always opposed it. But when his end time came, three days before he left the body, he started saying that both Masters Sawan and Kirpal had come there and that both were there to take his soul up. Then he started caressing me and said, “Today I know that your devotion was worthwhile and because of your devotion I am also getting liberation.” In the earlier days, when this was being made into an Ashram, the door was on the other side. It was not where it is now, it was on the other side. Once Bachan Singh, the person who distributes food in the langar, came in between the wall and the tractor. He fell on the ground and he thought that all his lower parts were smashed and that he was going to die. He started praying and weeping, “Master, don’t take me to the hospital, take me to your home.” I came down and put my hand on his head and said, “My Master is very gracious; He will not let you die at this moment because you still have to do a lot of seva.” All those who saw this said there was no hope that he would survive; he would definitely die. But nothing happened to him and now you can see him still working and functioning very well. He is doing a lot of seva now also. In the same way, when this room was made, I told people that no one should sleep in this room because we had just made the roof and we were not sure whether it was made right or not. So we told people that they should not sleep in here. But this old man, Bhag Singh who sits by the door, took his bed and slept in that room. At five o'clock in the morning when he was still in the room, all the walls and the roof collapsed and he was under all the bricks and everything. But Kirpal's grace was so strong, not even the lamp that was there – the glass of the lamp – was broken. Even the bed and Bhag Singh – all were saved and nobody was hurt. People thought that the person who was sleeping in this room would have definitely died because everything was on him. Before he would come here just once in a while, but after that incident happened he thought, "I was almost dead, but it was only the grace of the Master which has saved me, so why not spend all the rest of my life in the service of the Saints." Before that he used to eat a lot of opium and he gave that up and he stays always at the ashram. Now also, he is always sitting by the door and he does a lot of seva here.

When he decided to live here permanently his family members came and told him to go back to his home. But he said, "No, I am dead from the sight of the world and the Master has saved me with His grace. That is why I want to spend the rest of my life in the service of the Master."

You know how big and heavy these mud walls are, so when all the walls and the roof collapsed it would weigh thousands of pounds. When Babu Ji, who used to live here, came and told me that Bhag Singh was under all the bricks, the roof and walls, I was drinking tea and I told him, "Wait, let me first drink tea." Patiently I finished my tea because I was sure with Kirpal's grace, nothing wrong was going to happen. After I drank the tea, I went and we removed the bricks and everything and we found that Bhag Singh didn't have even a single scratch on him. I cannot describe the grace of my beloved Master. I have seen many examples of his grace and I cannot describe His glory and grace in fulfillment. So we should always have faith in the Satguru Power, because the Satguru Power always thinks of betterment of the disciple. He is the only one who can help us at the place where nobody can help us and even in the place where we have to go through a lot of difficulty. Satguru is the only one who can help us.

1981 May: Only a Quiet Mind Can Meditate

This questions and answer session took place at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, on October 31, 1980

QUESTION: When we have Your darshan, does it matter if we look you in the eyes or in the third eye?

SANT JI: Well, from whatever side you eat the rock candy, it will give you sweetness. But Guru Arjan Dev has said that from all sides, from all directions, I look at my Master but still I'm not satisfied. If we have the good fortune of having the darshan of the body of the Master, it is good, but since the spirituality can be given and received only through the eyes, looking into the eyes is very important. Hazrat Bahu said, "If my body becomes the eye, and if I look at my Master with that eye which is made up of my body, still I won't be content. I would want one eye for every single cell of my body so that I might have many eyes to look at my Master. And I would close one eye and open another to look at my Master. Still, having so much darshan of the Master would not satisfy me. I would again try to find some other way to look at my Master, because for me, the darshan of my Master is worth more than hundreds of pilgrimages to Mecca.”

QUESTION: Today, during the afternoon meditation, my attention was going to Simran immediately – or trying to – and then after a few seconds I noticed that the repetition of Simran was done in the rhythm of a bhajan. And I was rather confused. Should I get rid of this bhajan rhythm and concentrate only on Simran, or should I carry on?

SANT JI: When we sit for meditation, we should decide in what rhythm or in what speed we want to do the Simran. And once you take up any rhythm or any mode of doing the Simran, you should not change it. Because if you will keep changing the speed or the mode of doing the Simran, you will always remain conscious of your body. And that will break your concentration, and you will have to start all over again. Often before you people start meditating, I remind you of a few things. I tell you to keep your mind quiet, as only a quiet mind can do the meditation, and don't bring any worldly thoughts in your mind during the meditation. All these things mean that when you are sitting for meditation you should know for what purpose you are sitting here and how you have to do the Simran.

QUESTION: We hear these commands or suggestions you make to still the mind and to concentrate only on Simran, and not to let the mind be taken by worldly thoughts. But even though I pass this command along to my mind, the mind doesn't seem to care very much about my orders. Either it doesn't receive the order in the first place, or it doesn't care to execute it. So how do I deal with this dilemma?

SANT JI: If you will continue passing on these messages to your mind, then definitely one day he will accept this and he will work on this. Because you can bring the mind under your control or you can make your mind do the things as you want if you keep telling him to do this. As Swami Ji has said, “This mind is such a thing which comes under your orders gradually.”

QUESTION: Is any sound we hear valid – to pay attention to – or should we differentiate? Is any noise coming from the right acceptable to be followed? Or should we be selective in our attention?

SANT JI: Don't try to discriminate and select the sound. In the beginning, listen to all the sounds which are coming and try to catch them. Because all the sounds have the connection with the higher sound.

QUESTION: When we are closing our ears with our thumbs, I find that the effect varies depending on how much pressure is applied to the ears. You can more or less modulate the sound by applying more or less pressure. Now what is the proper procedure here?

SANT JI: It is different for different people. Whatever suits you, you should do that. But let me tell you that you have to close your ears only in the beginning. After you do a lot of Simran and start rising above, and you start reaching the eye center, after that you will not need to close your ears. Because once you get to the eye center, you will hear the Sound coming there without closing your ears and your attention will always go up. Now we need to close our ears because we have become extroverted, and we are in the habit of listening to the sound coming from the outside. That is why we feel as if the sound is coming from outside, but that is not true. The Sound is coming from above our head at the eye center, and that is why, in order to cut off the sounds and distractions of the outer world, we need to close our ears. When you hear the higher sounds, you will feel as if the sound is sounding in the area of thirty miles, and people far away from you can also hear that sound, because the sound is very loud. But at that time only you will hear that sound. But what is our condition? We people do not pay as much attention to the Simran, and that is why when we sit for Bhajan, our attention is not concentrated – it is spread all over – so even if we hear the Sound Current, still that sound does not pull us up.

In the olden days, Saints used to give initiation in two parts. First, they used to give the Simran, and after the disciple had perfected the Simran, then They would connect the disciple with the Sound Current. But many times it happened that either the disciple left the body before he perfected his Simran, or the Master left the body before the disciple had perfected the Simran. In that case, liberation was not granted, because the Sound Current is the thing which gives us the liberation – climbing on the Shabd our soul goes back home. So Kabir Sahib and Guru Nanak introduced this new method of giving both Light and Sound, both Simran and Bhajan, at the same time. This was a special grace of these Masters to the souls. That is why nowadays we are given the initiation into both Simran and Bhajan at the same time.

Satsangis do not know how important the Simran is, and why it is so important to do constant Simran, and what Simran does.

If we remain awake for twelve or fourteen hours, because we are in the world, we do the Simran of the world. And when we go to sleep, then also we remember the world in the form of dreams. So while sleeping also we do the Simran of the world. That is why, neither awake nor asleep do we have any peace, because we are doing the Simran of the world. If you do Simran for five or six hours, and then compare it with the amount of time you have done the Simran of the world, you will find how much more you have devoted to the world. But what do we do? Some people do Simran for one hour, an hour-and-a-half, or two hours. The most fortunate ones do it only for three hours. And that also not in one stretch. That also is divided into many parts. And before sitting for Simran, they have the watch in front of them, and they keep the account of how much time is spent for doing Simran. But they never pay attention to the time they did the fantasies of the world.

I saw this at Sant Bani and at Shamaz and Nanaimo also, and I said this many times: that some people, those who were not in the habit of meditating even for one hour – when they were sitting with the other people in the meditation in front of me – they would sleep after a few minutes, and then when they would wake up, they would think that the other people had gone for breakfast, and they would be very much afraid, and worried also. So I told them: “Don’t worry, I guarantee that you will not miss your breakfast.” They were not in the habit of meditating in their homes.

Those who were meditating in their homes, for them it made no difference if I would give them a sitting ten minutes more than one hour. And when I told them to get up, then also they would wake up peacefully. And whatever time they sat for meditation, they sat peacefully. This was only because they were meditating in their homes. Every Satsangi should put a lot of emphasis on doing the Simran. We should understand the glory of Simran; we should understand why it is important for us to do the Simran. We should work very hard on developing our constant Simran, because we have to forget the Simran of the world, and remember the Simran of the Master.

QUESTION: But isn't it right that doing Simran is not sufficient if it's not done with proper concentration? But how can we increase our concentration in doing Simran?

QUESTION: You see, when you will do the Simran, the concentration will come by itself. Because by doing Simran our mind and soul gets concentrated.

QUESTION: Since we're from the West, and Western society is based on materialism and lust and all of this, and all of these things are shown to us every day, I feel that the path is more difficult for Westerners to keep up the discipline. Since Master just came back from the West again and saw the lifestyle there, does He feel it's more difficult for Westerners, or is it the same for Westerners and Indians?

SANT JI: A similar question was put to me by some dear one in the West, and I told him the story of Sukhdev Muni, who went to King Janak for initiation. When he asked for initiation, King Janak gave him a cup of milk and told him to take that cup of milk around the city and come back, but if he dropped any milk he would not get initiation. And moreover one man with an open sword would be following him, and if he spilled even one drop from that cup, he would be killed right on the spot. In order to distract the attention of Sukhdev Muni, King Janak had many dancers and many enjoyments going on in the city to attract him. But Sukhdev Muni, because he was afraid of death and he wanted initiation very badly – he had waited a long time to get initiation – paid no attention to all the dancers and all the things that were happening there. There were so many things which would have attracted the attention of anyone, but Sukhdev Muni was very steady, and he fulfilled the condition of King Janak, and he got initiation. When King Janak asked him, “Did you see any dancers or anything in the city?” He replied, “How could I have seen them? The man with the open sword was behind me, and moreover if I looked at them, I would have dropped the milk and you would not have given me initiation.” So no matter how much materialism there is, or how many distractions or lust or all these things there are in the West, those who have to improve their lives, those who have to do their meditation, for them it doesn't make any difference. They should make their minds like Sukhdev Muni's if they want to progress.

You people have got initiation. You people come to the Satsang, and you should know that God has been very gracious on you. So you should improve your life.

1981 June: Who is a Christian?

This darshan was given in Bombay, January 12, 1980.

QUESTION: The school where I teach is very Christian, and some of the teachers are beginning to question now that I come to a Saint in India. And I wonder how I might answer that when they challenge me on that. Their Master is Christ.

SANT JI: In almost all the religions existing now, there was one or another perfect Master at the very beginning, when the religion started. In the beginning, always there was a perfect Master, who meditated on the principle of Sound and Light; and the basic teachings were the same as of this Path. As long as He lived in the body He preached what He was practicing and people understood Him and did the practices according to His teachings. But when such Mahatmas leave the body, His followers don't practice the teachings of the Masters, and they don't mold their lives according to the words of the Masters. Instead of realizing the necessity of having the living Master, they make places in the name of that Master. In the beginning they make churches or temples in the places where the Master was living and gradually they spread this mission so much that after some time, in the name of that perfect Master, there are temples or mosques everywhere; and people understand that by visiting those places and by sitting there, and by doing devotion in the name of that past Master, they will get liberation. All the Masters who have come in this world have laid much emphasis on the necessity of having a living Master: because only a living thing can give life to others. Life can only be received from a living person. How can you expect to get any Life or Light from the Person or Power Which is not manifesting in the world right now?

So because people do not understand the teachings of the Masters, after They leave, all these things happen. But truly speaking, those who say that they believe in Christ, or those who say that their Master is Christ, how do they know that when they have never seen Him? They know about Christ because people talk about Him and they have read it in books. But they do not realize that what is written in books is not only for reading; we have to practice that also.

And if they practice, only then can they reach Christ. The Power Which is working in the Saints is one; and Satsangis are the only people who can reach Christ; because the teachings of this Path are no different from the teachings of the Bible, and the Holy Granth, and the other religious books. All the books emphasize the need for the living Master, and meditation, and concentration of the mind, and going back Home. So only the Satsangis who are practicing the Path can be called true Christians, because they have the real understanding about the Christ Power or the God Power working in this world, and they can go within and see Christ there. But those who are just called Christians and who take Christ as their Master, cannot see Him, because they are not practicing that Path which will take them to Christ. So this thing happens and you will find it in all religions: that in the beginning they had the Master, and gradually after the Master had left, people formed temples and churches in His name; and without going deep into the teachings of the Master, without paying any attention to His teachings, they think that just by going and visiting the place of the Master they are doing devotion: which is not at all true.

So when people ask you about Christ and how our Path goes, you can tell them that this Path is no different from the Path Christ taught and the teachings are not different from the teachings of the Bible. The only difference is that people read the Bible just for the purpose of reading, but they don't put the words of the Bible into their lives in practice. Whereas in this Path, the Master always emphasizes that whatever is written in the books, you should put these words into your life, you should practice them.

So the only difference between so-called Christians and the Satsangis is that the Satsangis are practicing the Path; whereas the religious people are just reading about Christ and having knowledge of Christ, but they are not making any effort to reach Christ. The child born five thousand years or two thousand years back had the same kind of needs as the child who is born today. The child born five thousand years back needed milk from its mother; so did the child born two thousand years back.

Now also the need is the same. If any child who is born today says, “I want to drink milk from the breast of a mother who was born two thousand years back,” how is that possible? No matter how much love that child may have for a mother who was giving birth to her children two thousand years ago, no matter how much he weeps for her, still she is not going to come into this world and feed him that milk. He will have to go into the refuge of the present mother from whom he has taken birth, and by having love and affection for that mother of the present time he can get fed. No matter how much he tries and whatever he does, he won't be able to get milk from a mother who gave birth to children many years back.

In the same way, we always need the Master of our present time. Everybody needs the living Christ. Christ was born two thousand years ago and He manifested in this world for the sake of the souls who were born in this world at that time. As long as He was in the body, all the souls who came in contact with it got benefit. He came only for the souls who took advantage of His presence at that time. If the souls who are present in this world now, if they say that they want to get initiation from Christ or they want to go into the refuge of Christ, how can they do that when they have not seen Him or talked with Him or had any contact with Him? They don't even know if Christ has accepted them as His disciples or not. So no matter how much love they have for Christ, or how much they think that He is their Master, they cannot get any benefit from Him, because they don't have any assurance of whether He has accepted them or not. So when you have not met the Master, when you don't know whether the Master has accepted you or not, how can you get any advantage from the Masters who were present in this world many years back?

That is why everybody in this world, if he wants to do devotion of God and if he wants to get liberation from this painful world, has to go to the living Master, the Living Christ; and only after going into His refuge and getting guidance from Him can he get liberation. It is only people of the present time from whom we can take advantage: we can have justice only from the present ruler or king; only the present living doctor can cure our disease; only the present husband or wife can produce children with us. King Chandra Gupta was a very strong king in India many years back; if any woman says now, “I want to get a child from King Chandra Gupta,” how is that possible? He is not in the physical body now. No matter if that woman goes and sits in the remembrance of that king and has a lot of love and affection and devotion for him, no matter how much she tries, still he is not going to come and fulfill her desire. In the same way, if anyone who is sick now wants to get treatment from the great ancient physician, Lukman, how is that possible? No matter how much money he spends, whatever he does, still that doctor is not going to come and give him treatment. He will have to go to the present living doctor to get cured. If he will not go to the present doctor, he cannot get any help from the doctors who were living in this world many years back.

In Rajasthan, King Gunga Singh was a very just ruler; he kept one weighing scale on his table, and he used to say, “I weigh justice. I always keep both pans of my scales equal.” And he used to say, “God may forgive a corrupt person, but King Gunga Singh cannot forgive the corrupt people,” because he was a very just ruler. If anyone has a problem now and he says, “I don't want to get my problem solved by the present ruler, I want King Gunga Singh to solve my problem,” how is that possible? He will have to go to the present ruler or king, and only then will he get his problem solved.

So there are many areas in which, if we want to get help, we have to go to the living person or the living authorities of our time. If we want the people who were living many years back to come and do our work, that is not possible. There were many great Masters in the past who came into the world for the sake of the souls. If the souls who are taking birth at this time and who have the desire to realize God say, “We don't want to go to the present living Saint because we are doing the devotion of the past Saints and they will liberate us,” how is that possible? God always works through the living Saint. If one could get liberation just by doing the devotion of a past Saint, what was the need for God to send living Saints into this world again and again? God sends the Saints into this world only because you cannot get the knowledge of God unless you come into the company of the living Master. That is why it is very important for the souls to come in contact with the living Master if they want to get liberation and if they want to get the knowledge of God-realization.

Nowadays people are fighting among themselves only because they don't have the right understanding. There are many people who believe in the past Masters, and there are many who are believing in the present living Masters. No doubt the teachings are the same. The teachings of the past Masters talk about God and how to meet God, and the present living Master also talks about how to meet God. But because people do not have the right understanding, they have conflicts, and they fight among themselves, even though both of them are doing the same thing, and are following the same teachings. But still, because one is following the living Master and knows that it is very important, and the other person doesn't know that, that's why they have conflicts among themselves.

I was born in a Sikh family, and my father was very devoted to the Sikh religion. He used to visit the Gurdwaras and he understood the priests of the Gurdwaras to be the ministers of God. He thought that by going to the Gurdwara and doing the devotion there, he would get liberation. So when I used to go to Baba Bishan Das, he didn't like that; because Baba Bishan Das was against all those things. Baba Bishan Das would rebuke me also because at that time I had the influence of my father and the family, so I was also believing in the past Masters and I was also thinking that whatever other people are doing that is the right thing to do. I was also believing in Guru Granth Sahib and Guru Gobind Singh and all the Masters. So Baba Bishan Das would rebuke me and ask me, “Did you ever see Guru Gobind Singh? Will you be able to go and see Guru Gobind Singh? How can you be sure that he will take care of you and will liberate you?” I had no answers to all his questions and I didn't know what to say. I would get upset, but later on when I would think about it I would find that whatever he said was true. So I would go again to him, hoping that he would tell me something more about Guru Gobind Singh or he would give me some knowledge. Again he would do the same thing, which would again make me upset. But later on I would again realize that what he was saying was true. So when he finally gave me the knowledge and initiated me into the Two Words and I started doing devotion, people didn't like that. They started complaining to my father: “Your son is not now believing in Guru Gobind Singh, he is not going to the Gurdwara, he is not reading the Holy Granth,” and all those things. So my father got upset and asked me what was the reason. I said, “Father, you don't know. What I am doing will take me to Guru Gobind Singh. Truly speaking I am the one who is doing the devotion of Guru Gobind Singh in the real sense, because I am practicing what he has taught. Whereas the priests and you people are just reading what he taught. You are not putting his words into practice, whereas I am trying to do that.”

But my father wouldn't believe me. He said, “O.K. I'll see whose devotion will liberate the family. I will see whether your devotion liberates me or my devotion will liberate you. I will see that.” It so happened that when he was about to die, in his last days, he started having the experiences of the present living Master, Master Kirpal Singh, who was accompanied by Master Sawan Singh also. Before that he had never had the darshan of the Masters. So he called me just three days before he left the body. (I was living in Rajasthan in those days.) So he called me, and for his last three days he reported that he was always having the darshan of Baba Sawan Singh and Master Kirpal Singh and Baba Jaimal Singh. He said in the end that he realized that whatever I was doing was the true thing; and he was having the experience of the past Masters also. So then he realized that the devotion which I was doing was the right thing, and whatever he was doing didn't bring any good to him.

Nowadays, usually all the people are fighting just because they don't have the right understanding of the teachings of the past Masters. Whatever things the past Masters said we should not do, people are doing only those things: for example, Guru Nanak Sahib has written a lot against reading the holy scriptures thinking that they will bring liberation – he has written that no matter with how much love and affection you read tons of books, you will not get any benefit from it because the liberation is in Naam and you can get Naam only if you go to the living Satguru. Just by reading about Naam or about the past Satgurus who preached about Naam, you will not get any benefit from these past Masters and your soul will not get any liberation. Reading will not do any good unless you practice it; reading by itself has no value. So Guru Nanak has written a lot against reading books thinking that they will bring liberation. But what are people doing? You will find that in the Sikh religion, people think that they will get liberation only through reading the Holy Granth constantly, or certain parts, or in certain ways. They don't go beyond that. They are locked up in reading books and that's why they don't appreciate the living Masters; because living Masters have always emphasized the need of having a living Master, and they always say that you should practice. Whereas even though it is very clear that you should practice what is written in the books, still there is no one living to rebuke the people, to tell them that definitely they should practice this Word – and that's why they don't feel like going to the living Masters, and in this way they do not understand the real meaning of the teachings of the Masters: they are going against the teachings of the Masters. Reading the books is just one example; they are doing many other things too which Master did not want them to do. This is the case with all the religions: as long as the living Master is there everything goes fine, but when He leaves, people misinterpret His teachings and after a certain time they leave the Path. The name of the Master remains there but the teachings of the Masters are not found there.

Master Sawan Singh Ji was also born in a Sikh family, and he used to say in the Satsang, “When I met Baba Jaimal Singh my mind played a trick on me, and just for a little thing which had little meaning, my mind told me I should not take initiation. I requested Baba Jaimal Singh, 'I am ready to get Naam, but don't give me the name Radhasoami because I was born in a Sikh family.'“ Baba Sawan Singh used to take Guru Granth Sahib as His Master, and he didn't want to take the name of Radhasoami. So Baba Jaimal Singh asked Baba Sawan Singh, “Well, what do you do for devotion? What practices do you do?” So Baba Sawan Singh replied, “I read the holy book, the Guru Granth Sahib.” There is one writing of Guru Gobind Singh, Jap Sahib, which is not included in Granth Sahib, in which Guru Gobind Singh has written about fifteen hundred descriptive names of the Lord. So Baba Jaimal Singh told Baba Sawan Singh, “You see Guru Gobind Singh has called the Almighty Lord by fifteen hundred different names. What is wrong if Swami Ji Maharaj gave the name Radhasoami to the Almighty Lord? It is just a descriptive name, there is nothing else there.” But still Baba Sawan Singh was not convinced. So Baba Jaimal Singh told him, “Read the writings of Swami Ji Maharaj and then you will have a better idea.” Baba Sawan Singh read the Sar Bachan (poetry) in which Swami Ji said that “Radha” is the name of the soul, and “Swami” is the name of that Lord Who resides in the Eternal Home. And the names Radha and Swami mean “soul” and “Oversoul”; soul is the essence of the Oversoul, and both these things are one; soul and Oversoul are one. So when Baba Sawan Singh read that, he understood why Swami Ji Maharaj had introduced this name, Radhasoami. Then he had no more complaint and he took initiation.

But still, even after getting initiation he had some problems, because he didn't want people to think that he had left the Sikh religion and had stopped believing in the Guru Granth Sahib. So when he invited Baba Jaimal Singh to his home to do Satsang, he thought, “If Baba Jaimal Singh comments on the writings of Swami Ji Maharaj, people will think that I have left Guru Granth Sahib.” So he went and brought a copy of Guru Granth Sahib and requested Baba Jaimal Singh to comment on that so the people would feel better about him joining this Path and would think that he still was believing in Guru Granth Sahib. When Baba Jaimal Singh visited Baba Sawan Singh's house, Bibi Rukko, who used to cook food for Baba Jaimal Singh, also went with Him. After the Satsang in the evening, Bibi Rukko started chanting the hymns from Swami Ji Maharaj's writings. And Baba Sawan Singh couldn't stop her, even though he was afraid of the people and he was worried about public shame. After some time all his worry went away, and everything became fine.

So the meaning of saying this is that whenever the Saints come they pay no attention to these useless things, because they have come into this world to relieve us from all these limits or blocks, the things which are keeping us in this world. They come to teach us that we should be broadminded and that we should not follow the tradition which does not take us to God. Swami Ji Maharaj says, “I am telling you this for your benefit: you go to the living Master and don't just keep yourself in the devotion of the past Master. Unless you go to the living Master you cannot get the Real Knowledge, you cannot know better about the past Masters, and you cannot meet them.”

So whenever the Masters come they always emphasize the need of the living Master, because without the living Master you cannot get any Knowledge. Kabir Sahib condemned idol worship in his writings and he was very much against it – but you see how nowadays people are putting the teachings of Kabir Sahib into practice. They have made an idol of Kabir and are worshiping that even though He said that this is not good. Kabir Sahib says, “People have made gods from stone and they are worshiping them.

Those who rely on those stones will be drowned in the deep ocean of Hell.” Kabir says that people buy idols and worship them and, obeying the mind, they visit the places of pilgrimage. But those who are involved in all this will always wander here and there and will not get any knowledge of God.

Furthermore, Kabir Sahib says, “If God can be achieved by worshiping the stones, I will worship the big mountain.” Kabir goes even to this extent: “O Kabir, people of this world are crazy because they are going outside to worship the stones, but they don't worship the grindstone from which they get food. It would be better for them to worship that stone than to go outside and worship idols.”

Dhanna Bhagat was a great devotee who became a Saint in India, and people think that he realized God by worshiping idols. But he has written a bani which is included in the Holy Granth on which I have commented; and that Satsang has been published in Sant Bani Magazine also.¹⁵ In that bani, Dhanna Bhagat has written that those who are relying on worshiping stones, all their efforts are useless; because the Lord does not reside in stones. The Lord is a living Thing and He is pervading everywhere and He speaks to people. Even though he has written such a strong bani against idol worship, still people think that Dhanna Bhagat was an idol worshiper and he is called by that name; and people still believe that he realized God by worshiping the idols. But Master Sawan Singh used to say about him, that if Dhanna Bhagat realized God by worshiping stones, then why can't people realize God now by worshiping stones? There are millions of people who are involved in worshiping idols, but up until now nobody has realized God by doing that.

So this thing always happens when Saints leave: whatever They told the people they should not do, they always do that. Just as if you tell any child, “Don't do this,” he will do it, in the same way, when the Master leaves, He tells people not to do this, and they do that; and that spoils everything.

In the place where we stopped to hold Satsang on the way back to Delhi, all the people in that village are believers in Guru Granth Sahib; they are mostly Sikh people. In the sangat there were many priests of the Gurdwaras also, who have a lot of knowledge of the Guru Granth Sahib. So I commented on a hymn from the Guru Granth Sahib and when people heard about the real essence of the meaning of the Guru Granth Sahib, even the priests who had been reading those banis for many years realized that what they were doing was not sufficient; they wanted more. So they said, “Just by hearing the Satsang we take you as our Master. Now it is up to you whether to accept us as your disciples or not.” And when the people were told about the Guru Granth Sahib and what it asks us to do, and when they got the real understanding, many people said that they would come with their families to get initiation at 77 RB.

So when people are receptive and when they hear the living Masters commenting on the writings of the Past Masters, then if it is written in their fate they get the better understanding of the teachings and they come to the Path of the Masters. So that is why we should practice the words of the Masters in our life. And if we read the teachings of the past Masters and if we are determined to practice those teachings and obey them, we will definitely feel the need of going in the company of the living Master, because the past Masters have emphasized the necessity of going to the living Master. So if we are reading and having love for the teachings of the past Masters, we will go to the living Master. And when we go to Him, He will tell us to do the practice of realizing God, and when we get Naam from Him and do the meditation, then we will realize who are believing in Christ, who are believing in Guru Nanak, Master Kirpal, Master Sawan, and who are really practicing the teachings of Christ and the other Saints who came in the past. I will say that only the Satsangis who are practicing the Path, only they are the people in this world who are trying to follow the teachings of Christ. Other people, when they don't know what the real teachings of Christ were, and they don't have any idea of what Christ wanted people to do and what He was talking about, how can they ever reach Christ? If the Satsangis do their meditation and if they are following the teachings of the Path which are not different from the teachings of the Bible and the other holy books, they will definitely one day reach Christ and the past Masters, and they will definitely realize Christ, Guru Gobind Singh, Master Kirpal, Guru Nanak.

¹⁵ “Oh Man! Why Are You Afraid?,” July-August 1977.

They will realize what They taught. Until they go within and see, who is doing the devotion of God, who will reach Guru Nanak, who will reach Guru Gobind Singh, and Christ? They cannot get anything just by reading books of the past Masters. Reading is not sufficient; if you are not practicing the teachings of the past Masters, it will not bring any benefit to you. That is why we should always, when we are reading the teachings of the Masters, take their words into our heart and practice them. Only practicing will do us good. Master Sawan Singh used to say, “Suppose there is a store which was started a hundred years back; if the person who started that store has left the body and no other person has come to take care of it and sell the goods, and instead of that there is one big picture or idol of that person to take care of the store – how is that possible?” When you go to buy anything from the store, no matter how much you worship him or sing his praise or sing bhajans in front of him, or do anything you want, he will not come out from that picture or idol and give you the things that you want. You will definitely need a person who is taking care of the store at that time. If you want to take anything from that store, you will have to go and get things from him.

The past Masters or Saints who were in this world cannot help you in any way, no matter how much love and affection you have for them. But I will tell you my personal experience: that if you meditate on Naam and go within and meet the living Master there, then you will have no doubt about all the things which I have said today. All your doubts will go away only if you go within, because when you go within you see everything crystal clear and you will meet all the Masters there and then you will know what their teachings are.

Swami Ji Maharaj says, “He is Kabir, He is Sat Naam. Understand all the Saints as one. Give up your pride and go into their refuge, because your purpose will only be served by going and taking refuge in the living Master.” Give up your pride and go to the living Master: He will teach you and will make you serve your purpose.

1981 September: To Keep The Sweetness

This darshan session was given at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, on April 6, 1981.

SANT JI: Tomorrow is the last day and it is a tradition that we celebrate your birthdays on the last day. So, do you want to eat halva tomorrow? [much laughter] This is my first question to you.

QUESTION: Do spiritual birthdays count?

SANT JI: Surely! In fact the real birthday is when we get Initiation, because then our soul is lifted above the limits of mind and the organs of senses and she finds the way of getting herself released from the snare of mind and the sense organs. The other birthdays which we celebrate – the days on which we were born – cannot really be called “birthdays” because on that day our soul was put into the body and brought under the control of mind and organs of senses. Guru Nanak has not given as much importance to his birthday as to that day on which he met a perfect Master or Saint. He says, “The day on which I met the Master, I sacrifice myself for that day.”

Now you can ask questions.

QUESTION: How can we keep the sweetness that we feel, after we leave here, and all year, all the time?

SANT JI: One way is by remembering your holy trip which you took to this place. If you will remember that you have been here, then you will always get the inspiration of doing more meditation. When you remember that you have been here then you will also think about why you came here and what you learned here. Here you are taught meditation, and the second thing you are taught is to make your life pure. And the other thing which is brought to your attention at this place is, that Master Power is always within us, and from behind the curtain He always does things for the disciple. But we cannot manifest Him within ourselves until we have complete love for Him and faith in Him. Even though He is working for us all the time, we cannot manifest Him unless we have complete love and faith in Him. So here you are taught to have complete love and faith for the Master, and to surrender yourself at the Feet of the Master.

We should never forget our trip and we should never lose what we have been given here. If we always remember what we learned and received here then we will definitely get help in maintaining the gift which we have received during our stay here. I am very pleased that many dear ones, although when they come they report that their condition is not good and they are not doing well in their meditations, when they obey my instructions and meditate wholeheartedly, after a few days they start changing; and at the end of their stay they tell me about their experiences and how much they have improved their life just by coming here and doing the meditations here. So those who continue doing the meditations even after going back to their home, they maintain the Grace of the Master and they maintain their experiences. But those who do not maintain the Grace of the Master by doing their meditations continuously after going back to their home, they get affected by the world and worldly things very easily, they come under the control of their mind and the organs of senses, and thus lose what they have been given here. And later when they come another time, then they repent and feel sorry for losing all they received in their last trip. So I hope that if you will always remember your trip here and if you will continue doing your meditation wholeheartedly as you have been doing here, you will definitely be able to maintain the Grace of the Master and you will not lose what you have been given here.

In this group also there are many dear ones who were not doing well in their meditations when they came here; but later on, after meditating for just a few days, they have changed so much that now they tell me about their higher experiences. And I hope that they will maintain it.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, could you say something about the advantages of getting up at three in the morning, as opposed to say four in the morning? The reason I ask this is that while we're here it's very easy to get up at three because all of us are doing it. But when we get back to the States, the mind gets very strong, because a lot of us are not surrounded by people who are getting up at three. So I would like to have something to tell my mind when it tells me to get up at four instead of three.

SANT JI: Many times I have said this, and it has been published in Sant Bani Magazine also many times, that the mind who is not letting you get up at three o'clock and says, "The night is very long and there is no harm in sleeping for one more hour, why not get up at four o'clock and meditate?" – the mind who is not allowing you to get up at three, will not allow you to get up at four; and if he tells you, "Well, I will get up at five," he will not even allow you to get up at five; he will go on postponing until six or seven. And when you get up at this time, he will bring your worldly responsibilities in front of you, and he will make you think that you will meditate in the evening after doing your worldly responsibilities. And when the evening comes, then the same arguments will also come and your mind will not let you sit even for a minute. And at night he will say, "Okay, you missed today, but definitely tomorrow morning, at three o'clock, you will get up and meditate." But if you always go on listening to your mind, you won't be able to meditate either at three or four, or in the evenings. So in this way you will lose your life without doing even a little bit of meditation. That is why I always say that to fight with your mind and to struggle with your mind, is what we call meditation. On this Path we always have to go on fighting with our mind.

When the Satsangis start going within, only then they realize that the mind is an agent of Negative Power. You can say that lust, anger, greed, attachment and egoism are the agents of the Negative Power, working through the mind, who are always attacking the Satsangis. If the Satsangi is not alert, if he is not ever ready to fight with all these things, then he can never be successful. That is why Satsangis should always be alert and always be ready to fight back against all these evils like a soldier does. You know that a soldier who is loyal to his country is always ready to protect his country. If the enemy attacks and if he says, "No, it is three o'clock and I am supposed to fight at four," or "I will go to the front at five," you see that he can never become a successful soldier, and that way he can never save his nation or his country. In the same way if we say that we will get up at three or four o'clock and meditate, and not take advantage of the time we have got, and we give the opportunity to mind and his forces to attack us, then we can never become successful. I would say that those who want to meditate, they never wait till three or four o'clock. Whenever they get the opportunity they sit for meditation. Those who have done the meditation, dear ones, for them the time makes no difference. For them, if they get the chance, they meditate even for twenty-four hours a day, without waiting for any definite time.

There is one sect in the Sikhs which is called Nihangs; they call themselves “the army of the Sikhs,” and they always remain alert. They are always dressed up with all their weapons, uniforms, etc.; they carry a very heavy load like the army does. Once it so happened that one Nihang was on a neem tree cutting branches, and one man came there and said, “Khalsa Ji, why don’t you take off your shoes? It is not a good thing to climb the trees with your shoes on, you will fall down.” That Nihang replied, “What if God calls me and says, ‘Khalsa Ji, I want you to come’? Will I tell him to wait while I go down and put on my shoes?” He who is always ready to go back to the Court of the Lord, is called Khalsa, or the real devotee.

Whenever I would tell Baba Bishan Das that it was very hard to get up early in the morning to do the meditation and that I had to struggle very hard, he would tell me a long story about what happened in India. In the early days when the Mogul Emperors came from outside and invaded India many times, they were not lazy and they were always prepared to fight with their enemies. And they invaded India many times. In those days the natives of India were lazy and were not equipped with arms and weapons; they were not able to fight back and eventually the Mogul Emperors conquered all of India and set up their own empire. But later on, when they had no enemy to fight, they became lazy and started torturing the Hindus and the other people in the country. They tortured devotees, demolished their temples, and forced their religion on the Hindu people. They were very hard on those who did not accept their form of devotion and their religion. They became fond of enjoying worldly pleasures and many other things: they used to kidnap the daughters of the Hindus, and in that way they used to torture them. All these things happened only because they became lazy and fond of worldly pleasures.

When Guru Gobind Singh came, He could not bear to see this torture, and He formed an army and told his soldiers to stay awake all night long. He told His people that they should get up at three o’clock and do the meditation of Naam; but along with that they should always remain alert to fight their enemy. Because the torture of the Mogul Emperors was too much to bear, Guru Gobind Singh fought with them; and He shook the roots of the Mogul Empire. After Him no Mogul Emperor was able to establish his Empire in India; either they were killed or they lost their empire.

What was the trick behind that? The alertness of the army of Guru Gobind Singh was the only reason for their defeat. The Mogul Army would go on fighting all day long, but in the night they would sleep and enjoy.

Baba Bishan Das told me that this was the only reason for the downfall of the Mogul Empire; they were lazy and did not remain alert. And the Sikh people were able to defeat them only because they were getting up at three o’clock and they were not at all lazy or fond of the worldly pleasures.

So if you want to become successful in any work, worldly or spiritual, you can do so only if you are alert and if you stay awake at night, and spend your nights in devotion or in work. You cannot become successful in any work, spiritual or worldly, if you do not sacrifice your nights and sleep. So long as we do not meditate, we get weak thoughts; when we start doing meditation our soul gets the strength to remove those weak thoughts. Then the Satsangi always awaits the opportunity to do his meditation and to feed his soul. Guru Nanak has said, “Just as an addict lives on his addiction, in the same way the devotees of the Lord live on their devotion to the Lord.” Farid Sahib says, “O sister, today I did not sleep with my husband, the Lord, and I am feeling pain all over my body. Let me go and ask those who have never slept with their husband, the Lord.” In other words, the soul who was always going within and seeing God, tells another soul, “Today I did not meditate and go within and see my Beloved there, and I am feeling pain everywhere in my body and I do not find any rest. I can’t understand how those souls who have never got the Master and who are not doing the meditation of Naam and are not going within, are able to spend this night of their life.”

I am very sorry that for enjoying the worldly pleasures people are staying up all night long, and still they have no complaints. They do not complain that they have a pain in their neck, or in their knees, or like that. But when the time for meditation comes, they cannot stay up, they cannot get up early in the morning, and if they do, they have many complaints. Sometimes they say they have pain in their legs, sometimes they say that they did not get any experience. Guru Nanak says, “People get up for doing bad things, but when the time for meditation of Naam comes they always sleep.” Kabir Sahib says, “Happy is the world which eats, sleeps and enjoys, and unhappy is the slave Kabir who stays up all night and weeps for the Beloved.”

The Satsangi should always be strong and never listen to his mind because the mind is our enemy and he will never advise us to do our meditations. He will always try to take us away from the meditations.

QUESTION: Master, sometimes when we meditate... some one of us falls asleep. I wonder – should one of the others wake that person up?

SANT JI: The other people should not be confused and should not worry about that person. After some minutes or seconds, he will get up by himself. Other people should try to forget themselves when they sit for meditation. Whenever we are sitting in the group meditations we should not be aware of this fact, that we are sitting with many other people, because when your heart is stilled you will find seclusion even when you are sitting with hundreds of people. You should not be aware, you should not remember, that you are sitting with other people; you should not pay any attention to them.

When I was initiated by Baba Bishan Das into the first Two Words, as I have said many times, I used to meditate very hard on that. And many times I would feel sadness in my mind; because that also is a trick of the mind – mind would bring sadness in me and that was good for me because I used to meditate harder. I have always said that the earliest practices of Sant Mat are difficult to do but later on the practices are not so hard; once you start doing it, the way is open to you and you go on working at it without any difficulty.

I used to meditate outside under one tree, and daily, one very big cobra, five or six feet long, and very heavy, would come and sit with me. I don’t know how he would know when the time came for me to get up, but before I would get up from my meditation he would make some noise and leave. I never knew that he was coming there and sitting with me, even though he was making a lot of noise before leaving. He never did any harm to me, and I was never aware that he was coming there. Once it so happened that during the night I was meditating in my room. I had one underground room which was twelve by fifteen feet, and I meditated in there. I don’t know how that snake also got his way in, but he also came and sat there. But this time he was not so disciplined, he was making a lot of noise, but still I was not aware of that because I was in deep meditation. I was not bothered by him and I was not aware of him. The whole night passed and just before morning when that snake was making a lot of noise, people from the village came there and called me. When they called me I was disturbed and came out of meditation. And they said, “The noise of a snake is coming from your house; there must be a snake in there.” I said, “No, if there were a snake here I would know about it.” But they said, “No, he is there.” They wanted to come inside and see, but I said, “No, if you think there is a snake, you should not come in because it is possible he will attack you and even kill you.” So they went away, and I returned to my room and started doing meditation. But I did not see any snake there.

Later on in the morning, many other people came and they said they were still hearing the noise of the snake which I was not hearing. It was very surprising to me. I said, “If there were any snake I would have heard his noise. You say he is in the house, but I am not aware of it.”

So I came out of the house, and they wanted to go in the house and kill the snake. I told them, “Don’t do that.” But they didn’t obey me and somehow two people got into the house and saw the snake. When the snake saw that these people had come to kill him, he opened his mouth which was very big and they were afraid. But suddenly they put out the light and the snake could not see them. In the dark they attacked him, and he came out of the house and started to escape. Since there were so many people there, forty or fifty people who had come to work in the fields, they all chased the snake and finally killed him.

The point of my telling this story to you is that that snake used to come and sit with me for three or four months, but not even once was I aware that he was coming there. The people in the village could hear the noise, but I was not hearing it where I was meditating. Just imagine how noisy that snake was; but because I was concentrated in my meditations, I was not aware of him. So when we sit for meditation we should be so concentrated that no matter what happens beside us or near us, we should never be aware of it; our attention should always be introverted when we are sitting for meditation. Since we are all doing our work when we sit for meditation, we should have our attention completely on our work. Then we will not be aware if someone is sneezing or making any noise near us, or if any car or bus is going by. We know about all these things only when we do not pay full attention to the job we are doing.

When King Janak had to give knowledge to Sukhdev Muni, he told him, “I will give you Initiation only if you will fulfill this condition: that you take this cup of oil and go round the city without losing one drop of oil from it.” It was a very hard task and moreover King Janak told him, “Mind that one soldier with a sword is walking behind you and whenever he sees that you have lost one drop of oil, he will cut off your head.” In order to test him, King Janak had arranged for many attractions – dancers and other sights. When Sukhdev Muni went round the city, he paid no attention to all those things which were there to distract his attention, because he was worried that if he did not reach King Janak safely without losing even one drop of oil he would not get Initiation, and moreover if he dropped the oil then the person behind him would kill him. So because he had love and affection for the Master and because he wanted to get Initiation, and he also had fear of death, even though there were so many things on the way to distract his attention, still he was not distracted; and finally he came back, fulfilling King Janak's condition. And later on he was initiated. So King Janak told him, "Two things are very important for a Satsangi to have if he wants to progress on this Path: one is that he should have love and affection for the Master, and the other is that he should be afraid of his Master."

When King Janak asked Sukhdev Muni what he saw in the town, he replied, "Master, I did not see anything because if I had seen all those things which you had set up for me, I would have lost the chance of getting Initiation and moreover I would have lost my life. I did not want to lose my life, so that is why I did not look at them and my attention was always on this cup of oil." So He told him that when a disciple has love and fear for the Master, only then can he become successful. This love and fear of the Master go together. If we have love for the Master, only then will we be afraid of Him; we will be afraid of displeasing him if we do not obey Him. And if we have fear of Him, only then will we keep our attention towards Him and not take it to other places. If we are afraid of Him, only then will we not do bad things.

1981 December: The Thirst of My Soul

This question and answer session took place on October 28, 1981, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16 PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: I would like to ask this on behalf of all of us. We're all very concerned about your eyes. You look beautiful with glasses or without glasses, but nevertheless we're sad that we can't have the vision of your eyes without the intermediary of glasses. But we wish your eyes aren't in any pain or anything like that.

SANT JI: I am very grateful to all the sangat for having sympathy for me. As you know, I have had a lot of opportunity to sit at the feet of the Supreme Being, Almighty Master Sawan Singh. In His satsangs, Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that the Negative Power is a very mighty power and he doesn't give any concessions to the souls. Whatever deeds are done in his domain must be paid off. It does not matter to him whether the disciple pays that karma or the Master Who has taken responsibility for that disciple pays off the karma. His main concern is that all the bad karmas which are done in his kingdom should be paid off. And he doesn't give any concession, not even a little bit.

Now, when the disciple has come and taken refuge at the feet of the Master, it is up to the Master: if He wants He can make the disciple pay off all the karma, or if He wants He can take the sufferings on His body, because the karmas must be paid off. This is my personal experience – that if the Masters do not shower Their grace on the disciples, if the Saints do not take the sufferings on Their body, if They do not pay off the karmas of the disciples – no matter if the disciple does a lot of meditation, and no matter if he stays for a long time in this world doing his meditation, still he cannot go back to his Real Home unless he has the grace of the Master. This is because the soul has the burden of so many karmas that without the help of the Master the karmas cannot be paid off. And since the Negative Power does not make any concessions, the Saints, the Masters, have to pay off the karmas on the behalf of the disciple.

Within I am strong, I am very healthy, and I am very pleased to serve all of you, and I know that I am able to serve all of you as I was doing before also. Regarding wearing the glasses: because before I was not habituated to wearing glasses, so I am also having this discomfort because of wearing the glasses. But you should know, and all the satsangis should know, that the grace of the Saint cannot be stopped by any glasses. The grace of the Saint cannot be stopped by any mountains, by any oceans. Whenever the Saint or Master has to shower His grace on the disciple, the children, no matter in what circumstances He is living, still the grace from Him will come, and there is no barrier, there is nothing which can stop the grace of the Master from coming to the disciple.

You know that I am not very old, I am maybe fifty-six or fifty-seven. At this age not many people have to go through several eye operations. And you know that one of my eyes has had to be operated on twice. You know how much love I have for Baba Bishan Das. I used to have a lot of love for him, and now also my love for him is the same. I had the pain of separation from him and I wept a lot in that also. But when I came in contact with Master Kirpal Singh, and when He left in 1974, the pain of separation which I had at that time, I am also having the same amount now; because He gave me the recognition; He made me realize the importance of having the darshan of the physical body of the Master. When the disciple has the darshan of the physical body of the Master millions of his sins are finished off – millions of his karmas are paid off – just by having the darshan of His physical body. And when the physical body goes away from his eyes, the disciple has nothing with him. That is why I wept a lot in the separation from my beloved Master Kirpal, and now also I have the same amount of pain of separation. I have no interest in living in this world after He has left, and for me, this world is empty.

The room here in which I am living now, is not newly made; it is very old. I used to live in this same room when Master ordered me to close my eyes to the world and sit for meditation. One month before He left the body, He started giving me hints – warnings – that He was going to leave in one month. But on the other side He had already given me the order, “You do not need to come to see me because I will come to see you whenever I want.” So on the one side He had given me this order, and on the other side He was giving me these hints that He would be leaving soon. So I could not do anything but weep in His remembrance. And many times I would hit my head against the wall because I had nothing else to do. His orders were such that I had to obey Him, yet on the other side I knew that very soon He would be leaving. Whenever Pathi Ji and other dear ones who used to come from 77 RB would come to my room and see me, I would tell them, “I don’t know what is going to happen to me.” I was not able to tell them what was going to happen next with Master because it was not in His will to give out that secret – the news that He would be leaving soon. But I would just tell them, “I don’t know what has happened to me.” Then I thought of leaving this place and going to 77 RB, thinking that maybe by changing the place my mind would get some peace and I would be at ease. There also, when people would come to see me, I would just weep because I was not able to tell them what pain I was having.

At that place, when I learned about Master’s departure, that day was one of much suffering and very painful – I cannot describe the pain that I experienced when I came to know that He had already left the world. Now also I remember that day and the memory of that painful day is still fresh in my mind. I am not sorry for my eyes: I am not sorry for undergoing any operations; but the pain of separation from Kirpal is still fresh in my mind, and it will always remain fresh. Because if He had not given me His recognition, I would also have made my mind like other satsangis and behaved like other people. But since He gave me His recognition, He showed me what He really was, that is why the pain of separation from Him is still very fresh in my mind and I will always have that pain of separation. Because He gave me His recognition, He told me what He was, that is why I feel a lot the pain I had on the day when He departed. I still have that pain. As long as I remain in the world, in this physical body, I will always feel that pain and it will always remain fresh.

It was all His grace, and it was not within my reach to recognize Him. All the recognition came only because of His grace. It is not in the reach of the blind person to find his way unless the person who has sight tells him the way, or catches his hand or his finger, and leads him on the right way. In the same way, it was all His grace that He gave me the recognition. Those who have not been blessed by that vision from Master, they may say, as people are saying, that Master Kirpal never came to Rajasthan. Dear ones, how can they know that Master does not function only in the physical body? He has other bodies also; He has wings which cannot be seen; and He can fly with those wings. Whenever the disciple remembers the Master with all his love and with full faith in Him, even if he is sitting in a closed room, and outside it is raining, or if it has stopped but is very impossible to travel, still if you remember Him with strong love and full faith in Him, He will be in front of you. He will come there by flying, or any way He wants, and He will see you right then if you have real faith and love for Him. If there is anything lacking, it is our lack of faith; it is our lack of love for Him, and it is because we do not trust Him. But whenever the Masters come into this world, They always give us all Their grace with both hands. In fact, They become pleased and happy only when They are able to give something to the disciple. In my childhood I wrote this bhajan: “O writer of fortune, graciously write in my fate all these things . . .” As you know, in that bhajan I requested him to write all the things except the pain of separation from the Master. But that never happened; the pain of separation was written in my fate, and now also I feel that pain, I am suffering from that pain; I took that pain on my physical body; and I will always have that pain. Dear ones, even though in the form of Shabda He is always within me, He is always present in me and He is always protecting and guiding me, still, physically, what I could have obtained from Him, now I am not able to, and I feel the pain of separation from Him very much. Just before Master left for His last world tour, He came here, to this very place where I used to meditate in the underground room, because it had been three days since I had come out, and the sevadar who was living here with me was afraid and worried for me because I had not opened the door and come out. When Master came, they broke the door; and you know that Master was very weak in His last days, and moreover at the time when He came here He had a fever and He was not feeling very strong. So the sevadar requested Him, “Master, please don’t go downstairs, don’t go to the underground room because You will have to go down the stairs and it is very dark there. Don’t go there because You are very weak. I will go and call him.” But Master said, “No. Where Ajaib can go, I can also go.” So in spite of His weakness He came down to my room. At that time I was sitting in meditation, and with His grace, He brought my soul down because I had not come down for the last three days. Graciously He did that for me, He brought my soul down and He embraced me. (Later on you will see the wooden platform on which I sat.) I never used any cushions or any comfortable thing under me whenever I sat for meditation. And Master was very pleased, looking at me; and He asked me if I had any pains, and then He asked me what I desired. I replied that I desired only Him, and nothing else.

So this is called the love for the Master. When you have so much love for the Master whenever you remember Him in that condition, He will always be in front of you. If it is hot, and if you are perspiring while sitting in His remembrance, Master will come there and He will fan you. Whenever you will have to work hard, Master will also work hard for you. So when you have so much love and faith for the Master, only then will Master also work wholeheartedly for you.

When Guru Nanak Sahib left the body, his sons and family members were very happy that he had left because they thought that now people would come and follow them; that they would bow down to them, and that they would become the owners of the property which Guru Nanak had left; and that people who were obeying Guru Nanak would now come and obey them. They were very pleased to get all that name and fame. But Guru Angad, who knew the inner secret of Guru Nanak, was not at all happy. He was very sad, and whatever happened with him, only he knows or God knows. He has written: "It is better to die before your beloved. Curse on the life lived after the beloved's departure." When Hazrat Bahu's Master left the body, Hazrat Bahu was also in great pain, and he said only this: "O Bahu, I will always feel this pain of separation, and I will die weeping in this pain." I am not pleased in making disciples. In fact I am looking for someone to whom I can tell my pains. I always say that if I can get someone who will understand my pain, I will tell them all about my pains and all my sufferings. Those who have not experienced any pain, how can they know my pain? Those who have been affected by the pain of separation from Kirpal, they have lost laughter, they have no happiness in this world, and now they have to live with weeping and sorrow. For them, this world has no interest, and they find no peace, no happiness in this world. And they do not even know when the night has passed and the day has come, because twenty-four hours a day they are in the pain of separation from Master and they are always in His remembrance. I am not feeling this separation from Kirpal only at this time, since He has left physically. Ever since I was born, I always felt this separation from Kirpal, from the gracious Lord whom I had never seen. And always I had this desire to see the Master, I always had this longing to meet someone who would quench the thirst of my soul. I spent so much time in searching for Him, and when the time came to come in contact with Him, for a while the outer separation was removed and I was united with Him outwardly. But I did not know at that time that it would not last for long. I did not know that the pain of separation would still come, and that I would have to suffer that throughout my life. I did not know that my Master, who had now come to me, to quench the thirst of my soul, would leave very soon, and that I would have to suffer this pain again. As Farid has said, "It seems my mother gave me birth only that I might suffer the pain of separation from my Master, from the Lord." I also feel the same way, that I was born into this world only to feel the pain of separation from the Master. Before I met Him physically, I suffered from this pain; and since He left physically, I am still suffering the same pain.

I have spent most of my life sitting underground in meditation. And I know how hard we have to work to manifest the Naam – how much we have to starve ourselves; how much we have to suffer thirst and hunger; and how much we have to work hard. Sitting in meditation is not an easy thing because we have to deal with such an enemy, we have to control such an enemy, who does not surrender to us easily. We have to work hard. We call that enemy mind: and you know that it is not an easy thing to struggle with the mind. But in order to manifest our Master within we need to maintain a lot of purity; we need to maintain a lot of regularity and sincerity in our soul. And when all those things are developed within us, after that, even if we don't request the Master to come and sit within us, still He will come to us by Himself, because He always looks for the true and pure place. Whenever He sees the purity within, He comes there without our asking.

Usually I say that when you see any Master, any Saint, what should you look for? You should inquire in His history if He has spent ten years or twenty years, or some part of His life, in search of God; whether He has done any meditation or not; whether He has worked hard or not. Because without working hard we cannot achieve anything. Not even in the world can we get anything or become successful without working hard, what to speak of gaining in spirituality without working hard. In the Path of Spirituality we have to work very hard to gain anything, to gain any position. Those who say that Master gave them the power of spirituality just in a moment; those who say that while sleeping and enjoying the world their inner veil was lifted; those who claim to be the Master without working hard, are themselves in deception, and those who are following them, they are also under a deception and are deluded; because in the Path of the Masters, unless you work hard, you cannot get anything.

Kabir Sahib was the first Saint to come into this mortal world, and He was the Almighty Lord. But after coming into this world, He also worked very hard because He had to demonstrate to the people. And He has written, "Nobody can achieve God happily, by enjoying the world. If God could be achieved happily and by enjoying the world, then what were the use of suffering pain?" All the perfect Masters – no doubt they are Almighty God, They are All-conscious – whenever They have come to this physical plane They have worked very hard in Their meditation so that They could demonstrate to the people that without working hard we cannot realize God.

Guru Nanak worked very hard; He meditated for eleven years constantly, sitting on stones and rough mats; He did not get comfortable cushions and live easily.

History says that when Guru Amardas Ji used to meditate, in order to avoid sleep, he would tie his hair up to a nail fixed in the wall. And that place where the nail was still exists, and it is true that He used to tie his hair to that nail to avoid sleep.

The founder of the Radhasoami faith, Shiv Dayal Singh (Swami Ji Maharaj), meditated for seventeen years sitting in one little room. In the same way you already know how hard Baba Sawan Singh, Baba Jaimal Singh and Master Kirpal Singh worked in their meditation. Master Kirpal Singh Ji used to give the example of Gunga the wrestler. He used to say that Gunga the wrestler stayed up all night doing exercise and only because of his hard work he became famous all over the world. By giving all these examples I mean to say that you may read the history of any Saint and you will find that in order to become a Saint capable of taking the souls to Sach Khand, one has to work very hard; he has to suffer pain, and bear thirst and hunger. For many years He has to work very hard and only then can he become a Saint. No one can become a Saint overnight. There is no sin worse than the sin of deceiving other souls. Those who do not meditate, those who have not manifested the Almighty Lord within them, but still claim to be Sant Satgurus, their condition is as Kabir Sahib has said – they are taking care of other people's fields, but they are not worried about their own homes. They do not know what is going to happen to their soul when they leave this world, what punishment they will get from the Negative Power. They do not even know the condition of their own soul, but they are taking on the responsibility of other souls. Master Sawan Singh used to say, "You go within and then you will see that many great authors, whose books are very famous in this world and we virtually worship them, how their souls are stuck within and how they are suffering."

So we should not become lazy and we should not become the thief of hard work. If we do not become lazy and do not become the thief of hard work, then the Power Who has come from Sach Khand, Who for our sakes has taken this garb of dirt, Who is suffering the taunts and pains of the world just for us, will definitely shower His grace on us – if we will give up laziness.

Once again I would like to thank you and all the other dear ones for having so much sympathy for my health. As I have said, I am now fine and I hope and pray to Almighty, Anami-Being, Hazur Kirpal, to bless you with all His Love. And I pray to Him to keep all of you attached to His Feet, and I hope that you will always have love for His Holy Feet.

1982

1982 January: On Raising Children

Selections from a question-and-answer session, February 24, 1980.

SANT JI: I am very glad that you have asked this question. Though I never gave birth to any baby and I don't have any experience in this field, still I am very pleased you have asked this question. You know that when a soul takes birth, when a baby is born, the baby is a very innocent soul and doesn't have any sense of good and bad and cannot take care of himself. The early days of the baby in this world are very painful because in those days he cannot speak, he cannot tell his parents about his pains; the parents can understand only by looking at him and understanding the signs he makes, otherwise that poor baby cannot even change his sides. He cannot even move from the shade into the sunshine if he wants, and if he is feeling hot, he cannot go into the shade from the sunshine. He cannot ask for anything and he cannot complain about any problem he has. The only way he can tell his parents what he wants is by crying or by making some sign. And if fortunately he has good, wise parents, only then he has some happiness; otherwise the early days of the babies are very painful because they cannot express themselves.

When the baby grows older, say when he is three or four years old, at that time he has no knowledge of what is good and bad. He doesn't even know whether what he is doing is good and will be liked by people or not; and so whenever he makes any mistake, if he takes something from one place and throws it to another place, he is doing that out of ignorance; he doesn't know whether it is good or bad. But when he is rebuked by the parents, then again it is painful for him. Because the children have no knowledge whether they are doing good things or bad things, it is very important for the parents to be very patient with them at that time; they should have sympathy for them and should be very wise in dealing with children at that age. Parents should know in which things the child is interested, and it is very important for the parents to watch what the child wants because the parents play a very important role in making the life of the children.

If the children are making any mistakes or are doing anything which is not good, the parents should not be very strict with them. They should always understand that the children are making these mistakes not for any purpose but because they don't know whether it is good or bad. So understanding this they should always be patient with the children and they should not always rebuke the children and be strict with them. Because if you will always be strict with them and always go on rebuking them, then they will always be scared of you; and when they develop the habit of being scared all the time they will not be able to tell any of their problems to you, and in that way they will not take any guidance and directions from you, and they will attempt to resolve their problems by themselves. Because they are very ignorant they won't be able to do that, and that will get them into very big problems. So that is why the parents should always be very patient and loving when they have to deal with the children. Whenever the children are making any mistake, instead of rebuking them and becoming strict with them we should use the weapon of love. Lovingly you should make them understand what is good and what is bad for them; if you are loving towards them they will accept anything that you tell them and will always obey you. You should know that children are not only your wealth, they are the wealth of the nation also, and the wealth of mankind. As you know, the soul gets human birth only after wandering in many different bodies; and it is our responsibility to tell the coming souls, the coming generation, what their mission is on this earth. If we give them the information of the Path and make them aware of the purpose for which they have come into this world from the beginning, they can become very good Satsangis and very good citizens of the nation. That is why it is very important for the parents to be very loving and patient with the children and bring up the children in such a way that when they grow up they can become good citizens, live in the world as good people and, moreover, progress in the spiritual way.

QUESTION: When children talk of spiritual experiences – hearing the sound and seeing the light – how do we treat that? Do we encourage them?

SANT JI: Children are innocent and their thoughts are not very scattered into this world; that is why they get spiritual experiences easily. But when they tell you about their experiences you should tell them to keep quiet and not tell too many people. Often it happens that the parents have not advanced in the Path as much as the children have. Many times the children manifest the Form of the Master, see the Master within them, whereas the parents do not. So when the children talk about their experiences, that they are seeing the Master's Form, what can the parents advise them when they have not seen the Form of the Master themselves? So it is better for the parents to tell the children to keep quiet. If the children will keep quiet they will have more experiences. Whatever you are doing, your children will imitate you; they will also sit for meditation and do whatever you are doing. When they see that you are meditating and hearing the Sound Current they will imitate you, and because their thoughts are not very scattered and they are innocent souls, it doesn't take them very much time to rise above and have inner experiences. Many times they see the Light and hear the Sound Current and many times they have the Form of the Master also, but because they don't have the knowledge, they don't know that they should not talk about their experiences. When your children talk about their experiences, gradually they stop seeing the Light and hearing the Sound, and in that way they lose the Grace of the Master. So that is why whenever your children tell you that they are having experiences you should tell them that they should not tell anybody and should just keep the experiences to themselves.

QUESTION: When the children are a little older – 9, 10 or 11 years old – and they don't have any Satsangi friends and they want to play with non-Satsangi friends and go to their homes, is this all right?

SANT JI: It's all right for them to go and play with their non-Satsangi friends but you should tell your children about the Path and about the ways of living of the Satsangis; and if they understand that, I am sure they will not get affected by the non-Satsangis.

It is not good to stop the children from going to the non-Satsangis. If there are no Satsangis around you should let them go and play with the non-Satsangis. But you should teach them about life in such a way that when they go in bad company they still won't get affected by it; instead, they will teach the non-Satsangis about the Path. You should teach your children in such a way.

Anyway, we should always try to keep the children in the Satsangi atmosphere because it is better for them.

1982 February: The Fruit of Remembrance

This question and answer session took place on October 6, 1981, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: If we tried and tried to find something that is selfless service, well, because of our condition that we are so full of ego, we couldn't possibly find anything which could be classified as true selfless service.

SANT JI: This is true, that until our veil is lifted and unless we go into the higher planes, we cannot do selfless service because our ego is with us. When we try to do a little bit of service thinking we are doing it selflessly – for a little time we could maintain that, but later on our mind will tell us how much we have done – then the ego will come and we will lose that service. Kabir Sahib says that whatever you have done gets lost when the ego comes in – but we should never give up trying. Whenever we get the opportunity of doing seva we should take advantage of it. Satsangis should try to do more Bhajan and Simran, so that they can protect themselves from the ego. Mind is a very obstinate enemy; he is like a competent lawyer who presents many arguments and makes us do wrong things.

QUESTION: During my meditation I become aware of my heartbeat and my Simran follows that beat. Should I try to break that rhythm?

SANT JI: No, you should not break that rhythm. Actually when you sit for meditation, the mode or speed in which you start the Simran, you should continue in that speed and you should not pay a lot of attention to other things that are going on besides your Simran.

QUESTION: In the discourses of Baba Sawan Singh there is always a combination of Bhajan, Simran, and Dhyān. I'm not too sure what Dhyān means. Does it mean looking straight into the center of the darkness, or does it mean conjuring up a picture, in the mind, of the Master?

SANT JI: Dhyān actually means contemplation on either the form of the Master or on the things which we see within. Surat is the faculty by which we hear, and nirat is the faculty of seeing. When our nirat or inner sight gets opened, and we are able to fix our attention at the eye center – that means, when our attention starts staying at one place, without wavering, without going up or down – and when we see stars, moon and sun; and after crossing all these things, when we reach the Form of the Master and our nirat starts contemplating the Form of the Master within, constantly, without wavering, that is called Dhyān – that is called to “fix” the Dhyān. Once we have done this practice of Dhyān, then outwardly also we can see the Form of the Master everywhere we look.

By having the Dhyān of bad things or by remembering bad things we are likely to develop bad qualities. And when we think of or remember a good person we get the qualities of that person. Swami Ji also has discussed Dhyān. He says, “O Dear One, do the Dhyān on the Form of the Master, because without this you will not be liberated.” Guru Nanak Sahib also says that the peerless image of the Master is the Saint and by doing that Dhyān you will get to the highest realm. When we withdraw from outside and withdraw our soul from all parts of the body and raise it to the eye center, if we have something to fix our Dhyān at the eye center, only then will our attention remain there.

Unless we have the form of the Master there on which we can contemplate, our attention will keep dropping down and we will not be able to remain still. It is the duty of the student to go to school and then it is the duty of the teacher to teach him. In the same way it is our duty to reach the eye center which is our school, and then it is the duty of the Master to take us ahead. When we come to the eye center we reach our school; our Master is present there and is ready to take us above, and He is always ready to help us. But it is our duty to make efforts to reach the eye center by our self; then Master, Who is present within us since the time of our initiation – because at the time of our initiation the Master takes His seat at our eye center in the form of Shabd – is always there to help us.

Even in the Mahabharata, this Dhyān is mentioned. It is written that Dronacharya, who was the teacher of the Kauravas and the Pandavas, used to teach them the art of archery. Arjuna, one of the Pandavas, was his best disciple. Dronacharya had told Arjuna, “No one else in the world has so much skill in archery as you do, and you are my best disciple.” Once when he was going through the forest with all his students, he saw a deer whose mouth was filled with arrows in such a way that the deer was not bleeding from any side. Arjuna was surprised to see that skill, because Dronacharya had not taught him how to do that. That was the only thing that Dronacharya had not taught him. Dronacharya was also surprised and thought, “I have not taught this skill to anybody, but how on this earth can anybody else other than me do this?” When Arjuna saw that deer, he asked Dronacharya, “You said I was your best disciple and that I knew all the skills you know, but what about this?” Then Dronacharya admitted, “Yes, I hid this from you.” Then Arjuna wanted to know who was that student, that person, who had done that. So Dronacharya told his students to go and search for that person, and they found one Bhil boy, a boy from a low caste. In those days in India, people used to believe in this low and high caste difference, and it was not appropriate for Dronacharya, who was the royal teacher, to teach any low caste person. That is why, when that Bhil boy, Eklavia, had once approached Dronacharya, requesting him to teach him the skill of archery, Dronacharya had refused. Now when that same boy was found there, Dronacharya was surprised and asked him from whom did he learn that skill. He replied, “Master, you are my teacher, and you yourself taught me how to use the bow and arrow.” Eklavia told him, “When you refused me, I made your idol and contemplated on your form; and gradually, when your image started to remain still within me, you taught me everything from within. All the qualities you have came to me, and I learned everything without going to you or doing any other practice.” Dronacharya was not going within so he did not know what to do. If he had been going within, he could have stopped teaching him from within. But because Dronacharya had promised Arjuna that he was his best disciple and that nobody could excel him, he asked Eklavia to cut off his right thumb as his fee to his teacher, so that he could never use his hands to shoot the bow and arrow. And in that way he maintained his reputation by keeping Arjuna as his best disciple.

So the meaning of this story is that when we contemplate on the form of anybody, whether he is good or bad, we get the qualities of that person. If we contemplate on the form of a good person, we will get all his good qualities, and if we contemplate on the form of a bad person we will get all his bad qualities. When we see the Form of the Master within, we manifest the Form of the Master and after that we contemplate on that Form, all His good qualities come to us, and that is why the disciples, the perfect disciples of the Master, are not less than the Masters, because They have all the qualities which the Masters have.

QUESTION: What may we do to promote the long and healthful physical mission of the Master?

SANT JI: Bhajan and Simran.

QUESTION: If, in doing meditation, light appears below or above the eye center, should we pay any attention to it or just hold our attention at the eye center?

SANT JI: Before you start doing the meditation, as soon as you close your eyes, you should bring your attention to the eye center; and after that, even if you see lights and other things, you should not take your attention to any side, either to right or to left; you should not take it lower, you should not take it higher. You should keep it at one place, and things will come there if you remain still at that place.

Regarding the attention at the eye center, I have said this many times, giving the example of how we used to do in the army. In the army, when the soldiers are taught how to use their rifles, how to shoot at the target, they are told that their body, the rifle, and the target should all be in one line and steady and fixed. And the attention should be towards the center of the target. And then they are told to look through the two portions of the rifle, the back sight and the front sight, and then slowly pull the trigger. If he applies a lot of force in pulling the trigger, he will miss and not be able to shoot in the center, but if he pulls the trigger smoothly and slowly, then he is able to shoot the center of the target. In the same way, when we sit for meditation, it is like we are trying to hit the center of the target. What is the target in this case? The eye center is the target; the eye center is the place where the Master has taken His seat, where the Master is sitting in His Radiant Form, in the form of Shabd; and in this meditation we have to keep our body as still as in the army when we are using a rifle. Because if our body is not still, if we are not sitting comfortably, then we will have to change our posture again and again, and that will break our attention, and we will not be able to hit the target soon. So that is why first of all it is very important for us to take up a posture in which we do not have to move. We should sit relaxed and comfortable, without any tension in the body. And then, slowly, we should go on doing the Simran, keeping our attention on the target – that means the eye center.

For doing the Simran, we should determine a pace of doing the Simran which we should maintain throughout the meditation. Sometimes the dear ones start with a slow speed of doing the Simran, and then they start increasing it, then slow it down, then increase it. In that way they remain aware of doing the Simran, which breaks their attention, and that is also not good for the meditation. When we sit still and relaxed and comfortable without moving, and when we do Simran slowly at a regular speed, we should keep our attention at the eye center, because even if our body is sitting still and we are doing Simran constantly, regularly, at the same speed, if our attention is not at the eye center, we will not be able to reach there. That is our goal, that is our target, and we must get there by doing the Simran and by keeping our body still. If you do this practice even for a few days – I mean, when you sit still, do Simran slowly – and if you keep the attention at the eye center as the soldier has to keep his attention on the target, I can say for sure that in a few days you can become successful in doing the meditation.

What do I mean when I say that you should keep your mind quiet? Keeping the mind quiet means that you should remove all the worldly thoughts from within you, and you should not let your mind do any activity other than doing the Simran. When we sit for meditation, as our body is present there, our mind should also be present there, and our mind should not be allowed to do anything else but Simran. So if you have these three things together – a steady body, constant Simran, and fixed attention at the eye center, then there is no reason I can see why you will not become successful in the meditation. I can say that if you meditate in this way, in just a few days you can see your progress on the Path.

QUESTION: For someone like myself who is just learning how to meditate, even though you say not to let thoughts come into my mind, I find that very often thoughts do come into my mind, not just one but maybe five or ten before I get it under control and get the Simran going again. The other thing I find is that, of the five words, I have a lot of trouble with the first. It seems like in order to think it I have to sort of chew it up in my mouth first. That makes me stumble and lose the Simran, which in turn gives the mind a chance to bring in other thoughts.

SANT JI: [Sant Ji laughs.] Dear one, it is worse to surrender than to be defeated. To struggle with the mind is called meditation. Mind is an agent of the Negative Power, and when you see that he is not stopping his work of bringing in thoughts and bothering your Simran, then you should also become strong, because you are the soldiers of the Satguru, and you have a very powerful Simran. With the Simran, you can attack the mind and you can control him as he is now controlling you. You don't know how powerful Simran is. Simran has a great power, provided you understand it and use it in a good sense. The Simran you have been given is not given from any book, not given to you from hearsay; it is given to you from a Saint who has meditated on it, and behind this Simran His charging is working. Satsangis should not let any minute go by without doing Simran. During the day when you are working or traveling or doing anything in which your mind is not involved, you should do Simran. If you have completed the course of Simran, or if you have done the amount of Simran which you are supposed to do, then when you sit for meditation you will not have to do that much Simran, because you will have developed the habit of doing constant Simran by then. So whenever you sit for meditation, at that time you will start hearing the Sound Current; then you can sit in the Bhajan position and your soul will be pulled up by that Sound Current. But now what happens? People do not give that much importance to Simran. That is why they forget the Simran throughout the day. As a result, when they sit for meditation, first they have to struggle with the Simran, they have to develop the habit of doing Simran constantly, and only then are they able to rise above. Before completing the course of Simran, or before doing the amount of Simran they are supposed to do, people sit in Bhajan and start listening to the Sound Current. They may hear it, but because they lack Simran – they have not completed the course of Simran – the sound does not pull them up. So that is why it is always said that you should do Simran during the day so that when you sit for meditation your soul will be pulled up right away by the Sound Current.

Only those who do not do Simran during the daytime and think a lot of worldly thoughts during the day have this problem of thoughts during meditation. You can do this: do a lot of Simran and think less worldly thoughts during the day; and you will see that in the meditation also you will have less thoughts and more Simran.

It is a matter of realization. You will realize that when you are working for your livelihood then most people forget the Simran all the time. Sometimes they remember the Simran and repeat it for a couple of times and again they forget it. So because they have developed that habit during the daytime, then whenever they sit for meditation, then also the same thing happens – they do Simran for a couple of times and then the worldly thoughts come in and they think the worldly thoughts.

A Satsangi should never feel that he is too weak to do the meditation. And he should not feel that he is all alone in this struggle. The full attention of the perfect Master is towards the disciple, and whenever the disciple makes efforts in meditation, Master is always there.

QUESTION: Sometimes my Simran feels mechanical, as though I don't have enough attention on it to gain any benefit.

SANT JI: Dear one, I just said that to surrender is worse than to be defeated. You should keep trying to keep your attention on it when you are doing the Simran. When your mind makes you feel that whatever Simran you have done, whether it is mechanical or otherwise, that it is useless because your attention was not there, that also is a success of the mind, because mind wants you to lose the fruit which you have gained by doing the Simran. Whenever you do the Simran, no matter how you have done it, it always bears fruit.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that when the worldly master does not keep his workers unpaid, how can you expect that God will keep you unpaid if you do work for Him?

This is my personal experience, that up until now, no one has returned from the court of God empty-handed. As long as we are under the influence of the mind, when we have become the toys in his hands, we say all these things. When we rise above the mind even a little bit, then we see how much fruit we are getting from the devotion to the Lord. Even if we have spent even one single breath in His remembrance, we do get the fruit of it.

In Rajasthan you know there are many birds, and it is very hard to grow grains here. So when people grow anything, when it is near the harvest time, they protect it. There used to be a man who sent his son to protect the fields where he had grown barley. But that boy was very lazy, and he liked to sleep a lot. So whenever he was sent into the field to chase away the birds, he would just sleep, and the birds would come and spoil the crop. When the father asked, "Did any birds come?" The boy replied, "No, while I was sleeping, no birds came." But when the father saw that the crop was spoiled he said, "When you are sleeping, how can you know whether any birds came or not?" So the same thing applies here. When you are not aware of doing the Simran, how can you say whether Simran is going on? This is a deception of the mind. When our attention is not there, how can we possibly do the Simran? And after that the mind puts in another deception: he tells us that whatever Simran we have done is all useless and that we won't get anything for it.

Kabir Sahib says, “Don’t fall in the illusions created by the mind, because they are very deep. He who obeys the words of the Master is called a Sadh.” A Satsangi should never come under the influence of the mind. Whatever orders the Master has given to the Satsangi, it is his duty to obey.

The Negative Power does not spare even one karma. Either the disciple has to pay it, or the Master has to pay it. You know that when people do bad things, in order to suffer the reactions of those karmas, they have to come into this world again. Now how can the Master leave any of the work which we have done unpaid? Whatever meditation we do, whatever service we do for Him, and whatever time is spent in His remembrance, we get the benefit, we get the fruit of it. This is a deception of mind that, when we meditate and do not see anything or get any experience, that all our work was useless and we will not get paid for it. We are paid for every single minute’s remembrance directly or indirectly, so you should be grateful that you have got Almighty God in the form of man, and that God is sitting within you in His Radiant Form and He is ready to help you and always protecting you. In Rajasthan, you people always have a home from where you will always get help. You should remember this trip. If you remember it, you will also remember the things which you have learned and experienced, and you will definitely get the inspiration to do the meditation. And when you sit for meditation, you will definitely get the fruit of it.

Saints and Mahatmas are the image of love, and they bring a lot of love into this physical plane. Their love is a million times more than the love of the worldly parents. If we remember the Master once, He remembers you a million times. If you take one step in the direction of the Master, He will come down hundreds of steps to meet you.

After going back to your country, you should not go dry – you should remain moist. You should get so moist that everyone in your neighborhood should know from your behavior that you have been to this place and you have gotten so much. By your behavior, people should know that you have gone to Rajasthan and have met the Beloved One, and you have learned so much that you have changed. Seeing your behavior, the other people should also get inspiration. You should not think that now that you are leaving this place you are leaving the Saint behind and He is not coming with you. This is not true. If you remember the Master, even if it is night time and very dark and you are sitting in a closed room, if you will remember Him with your true love and devotion, you will see Him inside as well as outside. Distance makes no difference for the Masters. The only difference is that when you go back to your worldly life, then you forget the Master, and you get yourself absorbed in worldly work. Sometimes you may remember the Master, but that is only for the namesake. You do not remember Him with your whole heart. That is why you cannot see Him in front of you. But still from behind the veil He is helping you. If you remember Him with your true love and devotion, you may even find Him standing in front of you face to face.

1982 April: On Carrying the Karma

From a question and answer session, March 6, 1982, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: You have said that we should take care of our health. Can we get a sickness if it is not in our karma?

SANT JI: There are two kinds of sicknesses we can get. One is when we do not take good care of our health; and the other is the sicknesses which we are supposed to have because of the reaction of our karmas. We get many sicknesses when we do not take good care of our body, and they are not the karmic sicknesses. The karmic sicknesses are those which come even though we do take good care of our health. But most of the sicknesses we get while traveling are due to our carelessness.

I tell you again and again to take good care of your health, because I have seen when I was in the army that when we lived in the mountains where it would snow, we would get used to the cold there; but when we came back to the plain we would not feel as much cold outwardly, but that cold would be more harmful than the cold in the mountains where it snowed. Those who took good care of their bodies would not get affected by that cold. But those who thought, “It is not very cold here,” would easily get pneumonia and other illnesses. Here also I have seen that you people come from your country and you think that it is not so cold here as at home, and since you are used to the cold, this cold will not affect you. But when people do not take good care of their body, they easily catch cold over here because it is a dry cold. And if one person gets a cold, a little bit of fever, then he passes it on to the other people in the group. And I have seen that many times all of the group become sick. That is why I am telling you again and again to take good care of your body, because I do not want you to become sick.

You know that you will be able to meditate only if your health is all right. If you do not have good health, how can you meditate? When anyone becomes sick, I also become very concerned about him. I hope that you will take good care of your health, and that you will follow the schedule here. The schedule here is made after considering many factors, and you will see that if you follow it, if you meditate according to the schedule, you will have no problem with sleep or anything else. If you will go to bed early, it will not be difficult for you to get up early in the morning and meditate at three o’clock. You know how the sevadars work very hard and give all the things to you on time: they give the morning tea to you on time; and they boil the water for you so that the water may not affect your digestive system; they do all sorts of things to make your stay comfortable here. So you should also take advantage of the seva, follow the schedule, eat the food according to the schedule, and go to bed early so that you will not have any difficulty in rising early.

Don’t think that whatever I tell you about taking care of your health is useless. I am telling you all this because it is beneficial for you. My main concern is that while you are here you should take complete advantage of your stay here, meditate as much as possible, and remain healthy here. I have seen that those who follow the schedule and obey me, report a lot of progress from their stay here. They tell me that when they came here they were not seeing Light or hearing Sound, or they were not doing well in their meditation. But later on, after following the schedule and doing what I told them to do, they were seeing Light, they were hearing the Sound Current, and they were doing very well in their meditation. Not one, but many people progress a lot, improve their meditation, and improve their habits if they follow the schedule and if they do what I tell them to do over here.

Because I have experienced this myself, I tell you that you should not wander here and there in the cities or towns when you come to India; I have seen that by wandering in the towns we do not get anything, but we lose a lot. The time you have been given to come here – this time of two weeks, from which you spend ten days here in the ashram – you should consider this time as a holy trip and you should not do anything else on this trip except doing meditation and remaining in seclusion. I have spent most of my life sitting underground, sitting in a secluded place and doing the devotion of the Lord. And since I have realized God by doing His devotion and remaining away from the world, that is why I tell you that while you are here in India, you should not wander here and there; just do the things for which you have come here, and then go back to your country. Since I have realized God by doing the devotion of the Lord, that is why I tell you also to do the devotion of the Lord, and realize Him.

When you come to India, if you meditate for four hours daily, and spend eight hours shopping and wandering here and there in the city, then, you know, you have not devoted as much time in meditation as you have in the world. When you go into the town, what happens? Your ears take you out in the world, your tongue takes you out in the world, you feel like talking with the people, your eyes also drag you outside in the world; you become extroverted. And after that, even if you sit for meditation you do not concentrate as much as if you had not gone into the town. When you sit for meditation after going shopping, and visiting the town, what will happen? All the thoughts and impressions of the town will take you outside. And out of those four hours which you may sit for meditation you will be doing Simran and having the remembrance of Master only for a couple of minutes, and the rest of the time you will again be wandering in the town. That is why I advise that when you come to India you should not waste any of your time in wandering here and there and going shopping and sightseeing; you should do only your meditation.

I have told you many times that when in the beginning I used to do repetition for eight hours, only for a couple of minutes was I doing the repetition, and only at the end, before getting up, I would again remember the repetition I was doing. For the rest of the time, my mind would take me outside and think about the world and the other things. I used to think that I was sitting for devotion for eight hours, but when I came to Baba Bishan Das he made me realize that I was not doing the devotion; instead I was sitting there and thinking about the world, and I was not doing the repetition for the whole time. Only then I came to realize how we have to struggle with the mind and how powerful the mind is.

Mind is the agent of the Negative Power, and he does not let any opportunity go out of his hands without utilizing it. When Master ordered me to come to this place and meditate here, He told me that whatever amount of seclusion we get, even if it is too much, it will be very little; because we have to do the meditation. So I obeyed him, and I used to come out of the underground room only for attending the call of nature; otherwise I would remain inside and do the meditation.

During the lifetime of Master Kirpal, many Westerners used to come and see Him, and what would they do when they came to India? They would spend one hour in meditation, and then they would have a one-hour question and answer session; then they would spend all their time visiting Connaught Place, seeing movies, sightseeing, and this and that thing. I met many Westerners, after Master left the body, who told me about their visits to India, and how they were going to Connaught Place, and going here and there and talking with people, and they did not take complete advantage of their coming to India. What happened to them after Master left the body? That Almighty Kirpal came in the human body, that Almighty Lord came in the human form of Kirpal, and gave all His grace to us. But those who did not remain attracted to His attractive form, those who left His darshan and went to Connaught Place, and went out shopping and seeing movies, what did they gain? They gained nothing. Now if we long for His physical darshan, we cannot have it, no matter how much we sacrifice. If we had done His darshan and only His darshan, if we had not looked at any other place, we would have cut many of our sins and bad karmas, because he who has done the meditation, only he knows how much we will get by having the darshan of the Master.

If we look at any other place and if we give up the darshan of the Master for any other thing, we lose a lot. Only the Mahatma who has done the meditation realizes this, because only He knows the value of the darshan of the Master. Before taking Initiation from Baba Jaimal Singh, no doubt Baba Sawan Singh asked many questions from Him. But after He got Initiation, He did not ask any questions from Him; He started doing the meditation. In the same way, the history of Master Kirpal Singh also tells us that after He got Initiation from His Master, He did not ask many questions from Him. I was also having the yearning and I was suffering a lot; I was thirsty for Him. When I met Kirpal, He quenched my thirst, and He fulfilled my yearning, and I did not ask any questions from Him. He who is thirsty will at once drink the water without asking any questions, but he who is not thirsty will ask so many questions before drinking the water: he will ask whether the water is filtered or not, whose water it is, whether it is cold or hot, whether it will have a good effect on the body or not, etc. But he who has the thirst will not ask any questions; he will just drink the water.

The coming of the dear loving soul to the Master is just like dry gunpowder coming in contact with fire. If you bring dry gunpowder in contact with fire, it will at once explode; but if it is wet it will not explode right away. We are all wet gunpowder, and as we get the warmth by attending Satsang and by doing a little bit of meditation, we become like dry gunpowder, and the day will come when we also will explode: We will also rise above, we will also give up the company of the mind and sense organs, and our soul will get herself attached to the Shabd.

God is not far away from us; Master is not far away from us. Master is within us: when He gave us Initiation, He sat within us in the form of Shabd. And God is also not far away from us because He came down in the human form and gave us Initiation, and told us that we have to concentrate within to see Him. Now when He has given us Initiation, we should work hard – we should not become lazy – and we should go within and see the Creation of God within ourselves, and the things He has done for us in the inner world. When we come to the eye center, when we go within, the inner path will become an open book, and we will have no confusion.

You know that I never saw movies my whole life; even though in the army they used to show them free of charge, I would gladly accept doing somebody else's duty, but I did not want to see movies. In my whole life, the first movies I saw were of my own self at Sant Bani Ashram! Master used to say that God is in search of man. You become man, you become as pure as God is, and work hard. Always remember that if you work hard for God, you will definitely get paid; He will never keep you unpaid. Don't spend all your night sleeping, spend some part of it doing meditation. You have indulged a lot in the worldly pleasures; now give that up, and go to the other side. There is an enmity between Naam and lust. Where Naam is manifested, lust cannot come. And where there is lust, Naam cannot be manifested. Kabir Sahib has said, “Where there is day, there is no night; where there is night, the day is not.” Kabir Sahib has said that the unchaste person cannot do devotion because he is not able to remove his illusion. He remains in illusion and so he goes to hell. The unchaste person always realizes within himself that he is doing a bad thing. When you have that feeling of guilt, how can you do devotion? Kabir Sahib says that in your previous life, no matter how much you indulged, what did you get as a result of that? As a result of this, you got only disease, and what good are those diseases doing to you?

QUESTION: Sant Ji, if this question is out of line, forgive me. I was talking to dear ones this morning, and we thought that if Master Kirpal would give you permission – in America they have a type of eye surgery which is very successful where you wouldn't have to wear eyeglasses. If you gave us permission we could make arrangements for you to come there, to California. Your house is empty at Shamaz, or my house at Potter Valley; you could recover there as well as anywhere else.

SANT JI: Thank you very much for your concern; I appreciate it very much. But I would like to tell you that since I was born in this country, and the weather conditions and other things are suitable to me over here, that is why nowhere else in the world will it be comfortable for me. Even when I go to Delhi it is not suitable to my health. Last year some dear ones offered to take me to Colombia, because they said that in Colombia they had the best eye surgeons. And Graciela, the lady who lives in Delhi and works for the Colombian embassy, wanted to make the arrangements. But the doctors thought that India would be better for me, and I also think that where I am living is better for me.

QUESTION: We can't bear to see you suffer; we can't bear it. So we are asking Lord Kirpal to answer our prayer, to make You perfect. Now, I have never made a prayer to Lord Kirpal that was for others – not for myself – that wasn't answered. It might take a little while but always He answered it. It could be that way now, couldn't it?

SANT JI: I am thankful to you for your prayer. I am very grateful to my beloved Master Kirpal Who has graciously prepared you as my mother, and I appreciate you being my mother very much. I thank you very much.

My life has been different from the lives of other people; ever since my childhood I have spent a major portion of my life sitting underground and I have not seen much of the outer world. Once for five years continuously, another time for seventeen years continuously, and another time for two years continuously, I sat underground and did the devotion, the meditation, continuously. And only a few months before Master Kirpal left the physical body, I came out in this world. So that is why, because I have spent a lot of my life sitting underground, I did not take very good care of my health; I did not eat very good foods, because I did not have much sense of taste. I always ate very simple food, and that is why I did not maintain very good health right from the beginning.

So in 1976 we had to spend some time in Delhi in preparation for the first Tour, as a result of which I became sick and we could not make the Tour. The next year, in 1977, when we went on the Tour, we did not spend much time in Delhi; we went straight from Rajasthan to the United States, and we did the same thing in 1980; we did not spend much time in Delhi. Now also when I go to Delhi, I don't spend much time there, because it is not good for my health. Farid Sahib has said, "As long as the girl is not married, she thinks that to get married is very good. But when she gets married, then she repents and wishes that she were not married!"

In clear words I would like to tell you that if I had known that I would have to carry the burden of the karma of the dear ones, and if I had known that Master would make me work as He is making me work now, I would not have gone inside and I would not have done the meditation. I was very sure within myself that my Master was perfect, and that He would definitely liberate my soul and take me to Sach Khand; and that there would be no question of coming back into this world again. But I did not know that after my inner vision was opened, He would make me work as He is making me work now.

At that time I wanted very much to open the inner vision; I was wishing that my inner vision should be opened and that I should manifest Master within. My life has been that of a renunciate right from the beginning. I left my parents' family because my thoughts and their ideas were different. They wanted to involve me in the worldly life but I did not want that, because I was longing for God and I was looking for someone who could teach me how to do the devotion of God. So I did not have any connection with them; right from the beginning I left them, and I have spent all my life as a renunciate.

So that feeling of detachment is still over here. You will see that in my ashram you will not find anyone who is doing propaganda, because I have no desire to have many disciples. Saints don't want to make an army of disciples; only one strong disciple is enough. Now also I sometimes feel like giving up everything and sitting in the underground room; because I think, what do I have to take from the world? But Master does not like this. He wants His souls to get a little bit of water. The people of the world should get at least a little bit of Truth. Earlier, when I had told Master Kirpal that I had no interest in this world, He told me, "I also did not want to do the work which I am doing now; but I had to obey the orders of Baba Sawan Singh, and I had to do the work; my Master told me that I had to continue His mission. And there were some other reasons why I had to do the work. Otherwise, I also had no interest in it. Similarly, you also have to carry on this mission; you have to give the Truth to the people." I told Him, "O True Lord, You tell me to do this work, and I will do it. But You know that nowadays in the world, there is a lot of propaganda going on everywhere; people will oppose me a lot and they are all much stronger than I am." So He replied, "When the bad people do not stop doing their bad deeds, why should good people stop doing their good deeds?"

1982 May: Father, Forgive Them

This darshan session was given in Rajasthan, February 1981.

QUESTION: In the bhajan book there are four bhajans by Brahmanand. I have never heard of this Mahatma. Could you tell us a little bit about Brahmanand?

SANT JI: Not much is known about Mahatma Brahmanand. He was born in Rajasthan. One or two hundred years ago, there were many Mahatmas present on this plane. But not much is known about many of them because when the Mahatmas come in this world, only in a few cases are their life sketches written down and good records kept. Otherwise, in the case of some Mahatmas, not much is known of them because their life sketches are not written down.

Kabir Sahib was the first Mahatma, the first Param Sant, to come in this world; He came in all four ages, and He never went below the human body. He was a great Mahatma; but still there are many conflicts and misunderstandings about His life story. One person writes that he was married and had children; another writes that he never got married. Nobody knows for sure when He was born, and there are many misunderstandings about his life.

There are many other Mahatmas whose life stories are not available, and there are many differences between the versions of different writers. One person writes that such a Mahatma was born on such a date, and another writes according to his understanding.

In the bhajans written by Mahatma Brahmanand, we can see how strong was his love for his Master; from the bhajans we can see how much love and faith He had in his Master. He has written in His bhajans that nobody else except the Master can help us in hell, and nobody else can help us cross the ocean of life without the help of the Master.¹⁶

QUESTION: When the souls were given to this creation, where did they come from? My concern is that they may have come from Sach Khand. And after traveling through the cycle of eighty-four lakhs that . . . well, maybe when I get up there, it may just be time for some other great soul who would have done a lot of devotion . . . and then . . . there would be a recruiting drive for another creation. And that's my concern.

SANT JI: [Laughs] In Sar Bachan Swami Ji Maharaj has written another title: The Dialogue with the Soul. Because there also the soul asks similar types of questions. The soul asks: "What is the guarantee that once I come back to Sach Khand, I will stay there and you will not give me once again to the Negative Power?" So Almighty Lord replies, "This mauj, or this will, came only once; and once you will come back to Me there will be no question of your going back to him because I will not create this will again."

The thing is that when a Satsangi gets Initiation, He never goes below the human body. So nobody should think that they will have to go in the cycle of eighty-four lakhs births and deaths. You should be sure in your heart that, since you have got the Initiation from the Master, you will definitely go to Sach Khand. And you should not worry that once again Satguru will hand you over to the Negative Power. You should not worry about that, because once you go back to Sach Khand, you will stay there and you will not return again.

Swami Ji has written that Sat Purush says, "I have created this Negative Power knowingly, because without the fear of the Negative Power the other souls were not coming under my control." When a soul comes into this world, and after suffering in this world, when the soul goes back Home, she finds so much happiness that she doesn't want to come back into this world again. You know when we are reunited with someone from whom we were separated, our joy knows no bounds, and we are so happy. And once we have been united with our long-separated Beloved, then who wants to again be separated from Him?

¹⁶ See Sant Bani Magazine October 1981, pp. 25-31, for comments by Master Kirpal Singh on a hymn by Brahmanand.

QUESTION: I know that it is very very important to have a very good attitude about meditating. To be in the right frame of mind, . . . you say continually not to feel it as a burden. What's the best way to get your mind to stop telling you that it's a tremendous burden?

SANT JI: Dear one, you know that our mind is a very obstinate enemy, and since he is an agent of the Negative Power, it is his duty to stop the souls from doing the devotion of Almighty Lord. So that is why he is performing his duty well, he is obeying his Master; in the same way, when we sit for meditation, when we are sitting for doing the job of our Master, we should also perform our duty very well. We should obey the commandments of the Master and not listen to the mind; only listen to the Master and do what He has told us to do.

QUESTION: Could one visualize the Master's Form while doing Simran?

SANT JI: If we do Simran lovingly and affectionately, then without visualizing the form of the Master, the Form itself will come there and start dwelling within us. It is a natural practice. You know that if you remember anything, you will start seeing or feeling that thing in your mind. In the same way, if we do the Simran given by the perfect Master, lovingly and affectionately, then His form will start coming within us by Himself and we will have it.

If we are making any efforts on our side, if we are trying to visualize the Form of the Master, then we won't be able to be successful because we won't be able to visualize the complete Form of the Master. Sometimes we may be able to visualize only the eyes of the Master, sometimes only His beard or turban; and in that way, our meditation will be disturbed and we won't be successful. So it is better to just do the Simran lovingly, because if we will remember the Master lovingly He will start coming within us by Himself.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, when the relatives of initiates die, do they know when they pass on that they have got liberation from the Master?

SANT JI: Yes, they know that but they cannot say it to others. If the relative Satsangi has done meditation and is going within, then he definitely comes to know whether his relative has been liberated or not. It is a matter of faith and having the experience. As you say, if the relative of a Satsangi – no matter if he is not an initiate, no matter if he has not seen the Master or got Initiation – but if he has heard about the Master from the Satsangi relative, and if he has a little bit of faith in the Master, then definitely he is under the protection of the Master, and Master definitely protects him. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that the Satsangis from one generation get liberation, and for those who have done meditation, many generations of their family get liberated; and one hundred and one generations of the Param Sant get liberation.

This is my own experience; there was one boy of fourteen years old, one of my relations, and he was suffering from a disease and he left the body at a very young age. But his last days were very painful for him. He complained that snakes were all over his body, and insects were eating his body, and that he was seeing many dangerous and evil faces. He complained to his mother, “Mother, why are you not helping me?” His mother and the other people around were not able to see and experience those things because they were all astral. Whenever I would go near that boy he would request me to stay longer with him; he would say that whenever I went and sat with him, the evil faces would stop coming, and he did not feel any biting from the insects and the snakes. He was feeling peace at those times.

That boy was not an initiate but his parents were initiated by Master, and Master had told them in a dream, “Since he is suffering so much he won't be able to live in this world. He will die. After three days I will come to take his body, and he will be born again in the human body, and he will become a man.” Master even told them the name of the village where he was going to get a new birth. Master told his mother that three days from then he would come around midnight and would take his soul up, but that the boy would drink tea before leaving the body.

So, three days later, at eleven-thirty at night, that boy asked for tea, and his mother went into the kitchen to make it. She had so much faith in the Master that she was singing a hymn, and she knew that the boy would not leave the body until he had drunk the tea; so she was delaying in making it. But anyway, by five minutes past twelve, she brought him the tea because the boy had asked for it; he said, “Bring the tea as soon as possible.” As soon as the boy drank two spoonfuls of tea, he left the body.

Before leaving the body he spoke the name of Master. Because I was sitting very close to him, he put his hand on my chest. Even though he had had so much pain in his last days, his passing out was peaceful and he had no pain at that time. Master came there to protect his soul, and He took his soul up. His parents did not weep, because they had faith in the Master, that He had protected his soul.

Regarding my father, I have said many times that he did not have the opportunity to have the darshan of my Beloved Master. He used to say, “I will see when your devotion will liberate me!” He said that as a taunt. When I came to Master, my father was very old and unable to travel and have the darshan of the Master, so I said to Master, “Master, my father is very old and he has not seen You. He often taunts me and says, 'I will see when your devotion will liberate me!' “ And I requested Master to take care of his soul. Three days before he left the body, they cabled me about his illness and, since he was living in the Punjab and I was in Rajasthan, I went there. He told me he loved me very much; he caressed me and told me that he was seeing within two forms who had white beards and white turbans. And when I showed him the picture of Master Sawan Singh and Master Kirpal Singh, he said yes, they were the two he was seeing; and they were saying, “We have come to take you.” He realized that my devotion was going to liberate him! And then he told people, “Today I realize that the devotion which my son is doing is the true one, and the Master Whom he is following, is also the True One.

Master Sawan Singh used to say that it is a very big thing that Masters take care of the souls of the human beings who are the relatives of Satsangis. But even more than that, they even take care of the souls of the animals who are taken care of by the Satsangis!

QUESTION: You mentioned the relatives who knew about the Master and were somewhat favorable for the Master. What about relatives who were thinking the Masters were really a very bad thing? When they die what happens? Does the Master take care of them or not?

SANT JI: [Laughs] You see, they are also protected, because sometimes they remember the Master. It does not matter in which way they remember Him! [laughter]

There is one very famous story in the Sikh history about Chandu Savai, who was the divan of Emperor Jehangir; he was the person who was responsible for the torture which was given to Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj. He had enmity towards Guru Arjan Dev and he made him sit on the hot coals; he put the burning sand on his head; and he tortured Him in many other ways. After Guru Arjan Dev was tortured to death, the Sikh people wanted to take revenge on Chandu Divan, and they requested Emperor Jehangir to give him to the Sikhs. When Chandu Divan came in the hands of the Sikhs, they put a chain round his neck and pulled him like a cart, and they gave him a very hard time. When he was brought into the city of Lahore, the person who had put the burning sand on the head of Guru Arjan Dev, on Chandu Divan's orders, came there, and he was also very angry with Chandu Divan because he had made him do such a bad deed in putting the burning sand on the head of Guru Arjan Dev. So he hit him on the head with a very heavy vessel, and after that, Chandu Divan left the body. But before leaving, he prayed to Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj, "Oh Master, only You can save me from this pain." He remembered Guru Arjan Dev lovingly; but even before that, when he was planning to torture Guru Arjan, day and night he was thinking of what he was going to do to the Master. He was remembering and thinking about Him a lot, and because of his remembrance and because of his prayer at his end time, Guru Arjan Dev came there and liberated his soul. This question was asked by one of the five pyara or principle devotees of Guru Gobind Singh: "Because Chandu Divan did such a bad thing – he killed a Perfect Master – it means he might be suffering in hell." But Guru Gobind Singh replied, "No, he is not in hell anymore. As a matter of fact, as soon as he left the body he was liberated by Guru Arjan then, and he was never sent to hell. When he left the body, the angels of death also came because they wanted to take him and punish him for all that he had done. But Guru Arjan Dev, and the other Masters also, came there at the same time – because he had requested Their help and called Them. They came there and could not but shower grace on him, and They liberated his soul." Master used to say about Jesus Christ that at the time when he was being crucified he said, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

Saints and Mahatmas have a very big heart, and they always know to shower grace on the souls. They know that the souls do not do anything bad. All the bad things are done only by the mind. And they also know what the poor souls have in their hands. Whatever is in the will of God, only that happens, and the souls have nothing in their hands. The souls who love the Master and also have love and affection for others, they remain in peace in this world as well as in the world beyond. When they go in the inner planes, there also they find peace and happiness. Those souls who do not love the Master, or who do not have any love or affection for other people; they do not find any peace in this world; they are easily hurt, and they always remain in pain in this world. And when they go to the other world, the inner planes, they do not find any peace or happiness there either.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, the non-initiate souls that are taken by the Master, are they put back on the way, are they given rebirth, or are they taken directly to Sach Khand?

SANT JI: Those who have not got the Initiation, are given the human body in which they are given Initiation; because liberation is only in Naam.

QUESTION: If we don't progress much in this incarnation, and Master chooses not to send us back for another birth, and He puts us in a particular place on the inner planes, then do we continue to do our meditation in the inner plane? Is it a different kind of meditation? Or what happens?

SANT JI: God has given full authority to the Master, and it is in His hands. It is up to Him to decide whether He has to send the soul back into this world or not, and only He knows in which plane he has to keep the soul, and what he has to do. But I will advise you never to think such things. Never think that you will not progress much in this lifetime so that you will be kept in the inner planes and then Master will purify you and take you back Home. You should not think like that. You should think, "No. It is our duty to do meditation." We should have the desire of doing the meditation, and complete this task which we have been given in this lifetime.

If the son does not work and does not earn any money, but always looks for the property of the father and asks him, "Which property will you give me, how much money will you give me?" . . . and like that – no doubt the father will definitely give him whatever he needs, whatever he wants; he will give him the house, he will give him money, and everything like that. But since he has not earned that money, what will his friends and well-wishers say? They will say, "He is not a good man because he has not earned this money. All this money was given to him by his father."

Once some sevadars came to Master Sawan Singh and requested Him to liberate them without doing the meditation. But Master Sawan Singh said, "No, it is not possible. It is your work to do the meditation, and it is the work of the Master to shower grace on you. If you leave the meditation you will have to start again from that very point where you left it." Sant Satgurus come into this world with a lot of grace and there is no doubt in this fact: that lovingly They give it out without our even asking for it. But it is our duty to help in Their mission, and we should also share some of the burden which They are carrying. The only way of doing that is by doing meditation.

QUESTION: When there is pain during meditation . . . I know You've talked about it some and I've read about it some, but . . . I still don't understand it very well. Kirpal, when He put us into meditation, used to say, "Make sure you don't have any tension in any part of the body." But I know that if I don't have any pain at all I may go to sleep. I know a little bit of pain will keep me awake, and sometimes more pain helps me concentrate more. Could You explain some?

SANT JI: This is not a problem which everybody is having. Usually when the Masters explain about pain, first they tell us, "You should sit in such a position that you do not have any tension in the body," because if you do not have any tension in the body, only then will you be able to sit for a long time. There are some people who, if they sit comfortably and without any tension, will fall asleep. But this is not the case with everybody. Those who have this problem should sit in such a way in which they may feel a little bit of pain and still remain awake.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, on the tour last summer, you mentioned that it may be a very long time before You came back to North America. You said that the world situation would be terrible. Can You explain that to us?

SANT JI: I did not mean to say that, and I did not say it looking at the condition of the world. I meant to say that it is a very big thing for a Saint to visit any country or area in the world, and for the people living in that area it is a blessing.

1982 June: One Light in Two Bodies

This is part of a question and answer session in Bombay, January 11, 1982.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, I've just read your talks on marriage and the family, and have a question pertaining to that. You told a story about your parents, and how your mother gave and gave and served your father, and your father abused your mother, didn't appreciate her, and called her names. Now the question I have is: I see this as very common in the United States, and I hear that in India too, where the woman is really working for the family, a lot of the men, because they are being served, continue their laziness in not helping and sharing. And I wonder if it's in the best interest of the man for the woman not to say anything and not to try to motivate and encourage him to also share in the glory of service.

SANT JI: You know that for Saints, both men and women are alike. Since the women are soft-hearted and very gracious, that is why they serve the man; they even suffer the arrogance of the man. But the poor men do not have any patience. When we get married, we take this vow that we will help each other and will share the pains and happiness. It is the duty of the woman to help and serve the man; in the same way, it is the duty and responsibility of the man also to do the same thing for the woman. If the wife has to say something, then the husband should appreciate that and not get upset; he should understand that. It is not good that the husband should just go on abusing and calling the woman bad names, and that the wife should just keep quiet and bear that. The wife also has a right to respond to that, and the husband should appreciate it, understand it and accept it. That home where both husband and wife get along with each other and where they understand each other's feelings, and each other's work, that home becomes heaven.

In Sant Bani Magazine, a letter was published which I wrote to a couple who were having some problems in their married life. They even came to the point where they were going to get a divorce, and out of their sadness and suffering, they both wrote me letters. When I replied to them, I told them what things would make their marriage successful. And when both of them understood that and did what I told them, and came to know the important things about married life, they obeyed my words and they were able to make their married life successful. Now also, they are living happily. For the benefit of other dear ones, they sent my letter to the Sant Bani people, and it was published in the magazine. So you people should read that and should also get benefit from it. [The letter is published at the end of this talk.]

Today I will tell you one more incident of my parents. Once it so happened that my father got sick, and we had to take him to the hospital. There my mother stayed up all night, and gave a massage to my father. But my father did not appreciate that, and instead of becoming grateful, he just went on abusing and saying bad words to my mother. In the same hospital there was another woman who saw that, and she said to my father "Well, you are married to this saintly, holy woman, and that is why you are able to rebuke her and she does not mind; she is still serving you. If you were married to me, then I would have shown you. You would have done all the things for me; you would be giving me a massage as now your wife is giving you a massage!” So in some cases, the wife becomes so strong that the woman has to do all the things.

I come across many dear ones who have this problem: where the wife is very strong, stronger than the man, so that the woman has to take care of him and she complains that she is tired doing it. But to the question that was just put, I would like to respond in this way: Both the husband and wife should put shoulder to shoulder, and they should work together. Their bodies may be different, but in them is the same Light, the same Spirit.

Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Don’t call them as husband and wife who just sit together. Those who are one Light in two different bodies are called the true husband and wife.”

We should always use patience. The promises or vows which we took at our wedding – it is part of the duty of the man to keep those promises, and in the same way, it is the duty of the woman also to keep those promises.

The following letter, referred to by the Master in the above talk, is reprinted from Streams in the Desert, pp. 106-07:

April 19, 1977

My Satguru Kirpal’s Beloved Dear ____ :

I have received three letters from ____ and feel very sorry for him. In this letter I would like to tell you some things which might help dear ____ and you in your present sorrowful condition. We are all Beloved Hazur Kirpal’s children. He has united the separated dear ones. Now His children should not go away from their fellow companions. If they have some misunderstanding or if one of them makes any mistake, the other should always keep a big heart and forgive him.

Now your husband is confessing his guilt and is asking for forgiveness, so you should give the proof of your big heart by forgiving him. I hope to visit your place in July. I wish to see both of you in loving relation. I want to see you sitting together with love.

Married life is a vehicle which is running on the two wheels of love and respect. The two wheels are fixed in the axle of duty. Husband and wife both are two companions who give the power to run the vehicle. If both the companions agree with each other and lead the vehicle well, they can reach their goal easily. If both of them go in different directions, the vehicle cannot run even for a yard. The root of a good household is love, and humility is the flower which grows on the plant of that household. Without a flower, a tree does not bear any fruit. And the tree without fruit is useless. Only the fruit is happiness; otherwise, all other things are thorns – pain-giving. The tree which bears much fruit bends down. If it doesn’t bend or lower itself, it breaks its branch.

The same thing applies to household life. Both husband and wife should be cool-hearted and patient. Unless one has patience he cannot achieve happiness. Peace is a cool iron which cuts the hot iron of anger. So an atmosphere of peace and love should be created in the home for a successful marriage.

My dear ____, I hope in our dear Father’s love, you will think over this letter and will try to put it into practice. Our Beloved Father is not happy when we are unhappy. He is happy in our happiness. He is our Real Father.

In Beloved Kirpal’s Love, much, much Love to you,

Yours affectionately,

AJAIB SINGH

1982 August: Not a Single Breath

This darshan session took place at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, on December 30, 1981.

QUESTION: Master Kirpal said that it would be good to read biographies of great men. I have been reading Gandhi's Autobiography, and I'd be really interested if maybe you could say something about that in relationship to the Path.

SANT JI: It is good to read biographies of great people. From them, we get a lot of inspiration and good things. But since my life has been a practical life, and you will find that all the great souls had practical lives, that is why I say you should not go on just reading the lives of great people, but you should also try to become like them. If you have not put into practice what you have read, then what is the use of reading? What is the purpose of reading the biographies of the great people – or the meaning of attending Satsangs, or reading the Satsangs? From all those readings we get inspiration, our mind gets enthusiasm, and that is why it is equally important for us to put into practice what we have read about the great people. It is good that you are reading the autobiography of the great person, but whatever he has done, you should also try to do some of it.

It comes in the life history of Guru Nanak Sahib, that he spent eleven years in constant meditation, sitting on stones and pebbles, and he dedicated his life to the devotion of God; he spent many nights remaining awake, and he ate little, and he spent all his time in meditation. And that is why he became successful: he was a practical man. So by reading his life story, we should also get the same inspiration and try to do the things which he had done. And we should also become as successful as he was.

It is very good that you are reading the autobiography of Mahatma Gandhi. You should read it wholeheartedly, and you should understand it; because he also laid great emphasis on the chaste life.

QUESTION: Why is the use of marijuana harmful?

SANT JI: [laughing] Not only marijuana, but all other intoxicants are harmful to the body as well as for spiritual progress. This is because when we get addicted to any intoxicants, then whatever work we have to do in the physical world, we will do that only after getting intoxication from the intoxicants to which we are addicted. And then later on, we will start missing our meditation; that intoxication will bring laziness, and from it will arise many other desires for indulging in pleasures, and that will take us away from meditation. All the intoxicants have a direct effect on our brain, and they reduce the power of our thinking.

King Babar was addicted to an intoxicant called bhang. When Guru Nanak visited him, he offered him some. Guru Nanak lovingly replied, "Listen, Babar, whatever intoxicant you are giving me will bring intoxication only for some time; by morning, it will all go away. But the intoxication of the Naam is such that it will never go away. It will always remain with you, day and night." Once we get used to the intoxicants, it becomes our habit; and after the intoxication goes away, then we again need the things for intoxication. And if we do not get them, we are not able to do anything.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, when You gave Satsang yesterday, to me it sounded like, to be successful in meditation it's really hard; there are a lot of things in our way. It seems almost impossible to be successful in it if we haven't been blessed with instant recognition of Who You are. So in a way it's like a vicious circle: we can't find out unless we know Who You are, but we'll never know Who You are until we do successful meditation. So . . . just give me some help when You answer!

SANT JI: [Laughing] It is very important for us to know the Master from Whom we are going to take Initiation; before Initiation we should know about Him, Who He is. Once we get Initiation from Him we should not have any doubts about Him, and we should not let doubt creep into our mind. When the Master gives us Initiation, He sits within us in the form of Shabda and He is not deceived by any means; He is aware of our every single thought. So if we sit at His door, with love and devotion for Him, and if we will totally surrender to Him, then definitely He will open His door to us. But as long as we have doubts about Him, and as long as our love and devotion for Him is not complete, He will not open His door to us. As far as knowing Who the Master is, you should work on that before you take the Initiation from the Master.

Mahatma Dadu was a very cool-hearted Mahatma. He had a clean-shaven head. Once two pundits came to him to get Initiation but they had not seen Mahatma Dadu before, so even though they saw him on their way into His dera, they did not recognize him. It is believed in Hinduism, that if you are going to do some important work, and if on your way you see some bald or clean-shaven head, it is inauspicious; it is a sign that you will not be able to get your work done. So when those pundits saw Dadu coming out from his own dera, they did not know who he was; and when they saw that he was a clean-shaven person, they became upset and they hit him on his head, asking him, “Where is the dera of Mahatma Dadu?” The Master was very quiet and He told them where the dera was. Those Pundits went there and waited a long time for Mahatma Dadu to come. And when they saw the same person whose head they had hit before coming into the dera, when they saw that he was Mahatma Dadu, they felt embarrassed and they were very much ashamed of themselves. But Mahatma Dadu said, “There is no need to feel embarrassed; you know that when you go to buy a pitcher, which is worth a penny or two, you hit it to make sure that you are buying the right thing. You came here to take me as your Master and you have not done any harm to me. It is good that you hit me on the head and made sure whether I was the Mahatma or not.”

So I mean to say that, before you take anyone as the Master – before you take Initiation from him – you should make sure whether he is the right Mahatma or not; but once you take the Initiation from Him, after that you should not have any doubts about Him. Whatever He tells you, you should do that. And if you will lovingly devote yourself to Him, definitely He will solve your problem and your work will be done. Once one person came from Kashmir to take Initiation from the Master; this happened in my own house. When he sat in front of Master and Master told him how to meditate and the theory of meditation, he at once got up and was about to leave. Master asked him, “Why are you doing that?” He replied that he had heard that Saints show God right away and there was no need of working hard or doing any meditation. But here, Master was telling him to do all this meditation, and it was very difficult for him to do that. So lovingly Master explained to him, “It is not as difficult as you understand.” I have also always said that in the beginning we feel that it is very difficult because we are the thieves of meditation and we do not want to do it. If we want to do it, then it is not that difficult.

Two people from Ganga Nagar went to see Baba Sawan Singh; and they were told by an initiate of Sawan Singh, who spoke from his own experience, that there was no difference between God and Baba Sawan Singh. So they went there expecting to see God. When they arrived, Baba Sawan Singh was in his home, and he welcomed them and asked them why they had come. They replied that they had come to see God. So Baba Sawan Singh told his sevadars to take them and give them sugar cane juice. (In those days, in this part of the country, there were no canals and not many people were growing sugar cane; sugar cane juice was a very rare and precious thing for the people living here.) So those people were very pleased and said, “This gentleman has a very big heart! He is giving us so much sugar cane juice to drink.” Later Baba Sawan Singh came to them and said, “Now you have drunk a lot of sugar cane juice and you know that I have a big heart; and now I will make you drink that juice, that nectar, which will take you to God.” You should understand that the Saints are not God, they are not equals of God; but the Saints have the practice, which They teach us, through which we can realize God. They show us how we can do the devotion of the Lord, and realize God Who is already within us.

In the beginning, our mind brings up many conflicts, much confusion and disturbance; and when we stop listening to our mind, then some of our doubts are removed. And some of our doubts are removed by attending Satsangs, and some are removed by the inner grace of the Master. And gradually, if we go on doing our devotion, there comes a time when all the doubts leave us, and the inner path opens within like an open book, and there is no place for any doubts. You see I got Initiation into the Two Words from Baba Bishan Das and I meditated in that way for seventeen or eighteen years. When he gave me the Initiation, why did I have to meditate so much? Only because I did not understand what he was giving me right at the beginning. If I had had any doubts for him in the beginning, I would never have become successful in meditation.

And if I had understood in the beginning what he really was I would never have done meditation – because what would have been the need of doing meditation if I had understood my Master? Before I got anything from him, and before I used to go to Him, I did not understand what he really was; until he gave me this little bit of recognition and Initiation, only then I understood what he really was.

You know the story of Christ, and you know that those who helped the people who crucified Christ, even though they were the followers of Christ, still they worked against Him – only because they did not know that He was the Son of God and He was God Himself – the Perfect One.

In the same way, Gungu Brahmin lived with Guru Gobind Singh for twenty-one years, ate from his langar and was trusted by the Guru; but when Maya deluded him, just for getting a little reward from the Moguls, he became the means of destruction for Guru Gobind Singh's mother and his two children.

When Guru Gobind Singh was visiting Nander he met one Veragi Sadhu whose name was Banda. Guru Gobind Singh gave him the name Gurubaksh Singh; and he was so devoted to Guru Gobind Singh that after Guru Gobind Singh he used to give Initiation to people. He was so devoted that even now people remember him.

So we should always do our meditation and never listen to our mind. Mind is our only enemy and he will never let us become faithful to the Master, and he will never let us do the meditation. That is why we should never listen to him, we should always listen to the words of the Satguru, and we should always do the meditation. Regarding the deceptions of the mind, I have said this many times: that after meditating for sixteen or seventeen years, once I came out from the underground room, and my mind told me, “You have been sitting so long without getting anything.” But at once I got another inner sound. “You should not lose your enthusiasm; go back to your room and do the meditation.” And again I went into the meditation room and started doing my meditation, and I realized how the mind was trying to deceive me at that time. So you can never rely on the mind; you can never know when the mind is going to come and deceive you. That is why the only way to escape from the deception of the mind is constant meditation, which we should always do.

God is always realized by those who search for Him truly. But we cannot realize Him just by our own efforts. Unless we go to the Saints and Mahatmas and sit at Their holy feet, we can never realize God.

QUESTION: After we die, after we leave the body, does our mind come along too?

SANT JI: [laughs] Those who have been initiated by the Perfect Master, at the time of their death, the Master comes and takes care of the soul. And the place where the soul has to go, the mind cannot reach there, so the mind does not bother anymore. Those who have not got the Initiation from the Perfect Master, when they die their path is different. But not even their minds go with them; only the desires which they had in their minds go with them, and according to their desires, the Lord of Judgment gives them another body so that they may fulfill the desires which they have.

QUESTION: If our greatest desire is to have the intoxication of the Master after we leave the body, can we have that?

SANT JI: At that time, one has a lot of intoxication. The disciple should always have this desire. This is my personal experience, that those who are doing a little bit of meditation, when they leave the body, at the time of their death, when the Satguru comes to take them, if their companion or any other family member comes to them, and tells them about any family problems or anything like that, or if they try to stop the soul from going, they will become unconcerned and say, “No, now the Satguru has come and I have to go with Him. I won't bother about any other thing.”

QUESTION: What is the Radiant Form of the Master?

SANT JI: [laughs] There is no way to describe it in this physical world. But Master sits within the disciple in His Radiant Form, and He has similar features as He has in the physical body, but that Form is not made of any worldly material.

QUESTION: How can we be sure that Master will come to take us when we die?

SANT JI: [laughs much] You know that those who are very good at their jobs, who are competent and do their job honestly, they do not worry about their salary; they know that by the end of the month they will get their salary and there is nobody who can prevent that. But those who do not work wholeheartedly at their jobs, who are not honest in their work, they always worry about whether they will get the salary or not, or whether they will get less salary, etc. So it is like that. If you are doing some meditation, you are sure that the Master is going to come and you will be very happy to see Him there. But if you have not done the meditation, no doubt the Master will come there, but still you will be disappointed if you don't see Him on time. Or many times it happens that the Master comes but because the person has not done enough meditation, or he has done many bad things, he feels embarrassed and he is not able to face the Master. So that is why it is advised that you should do the meditation so that at the time of death you do not feel depressed or embarrassed in front of the Master.

You know that if the children do not work wholeheartedly and they always expect that the father will give them all they need – no doubt the father will give them whatever they need, but the neighbors and other relatives will say that the children are not good because they have become a burden on the father. In the same way if you will do the meditation you will not be a burden on the Master.

If you will not do meditation, then the mind is not going to remain empty; he will do one thing or another. He will make you indulge in the worldly pleasures, and you will start doing many bad things. And looking at you, the other people will say, “Look at these people! How good their Master is, and what they are doing!” So if you will not meditate that will make us a bad example for other people, and nobody will sing our praises if we do not lead a good life according to the teachings.

Instead of thinking, “Master is going to come so there is no need to meditate,” we should think, “We should become a faithful and loyal soldier of the Master, and we should meditate ourselves so that we will not be a burden on the Master.” And whenever He comes to take us, we should go with Him happily.

QUESTION: In the Christian religion, they refer to the Trinity – Father, Son and Holy Ghost. Could you speak on that a little bit?

SANT JI: I don't have much knowledge about the Bible and the terms used there. I think Russell Perkins will be better in responding.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, when you were mastering the Simran, did you go away in isolation to really learn it? Or did you learn it in the midst of doing your daily chores?

SANT JI: The reality is that from my very childhood, from the time I was five years old, I had this desire within me, to see and realize the Power Who has created this world. I used to read the stories of the Ten Sikh Gurus, and I always had the longing to meet someone like Them. So I did not do much worldly work. I spent much of my time in searching; and when Baba Bishan Das showered grace on me and gave me Initiation into the Two Words, I spent my time meditating on that. Even at this place I did meditation for a long time, and you are seeing this place so you can decide whether it is isolated, or whether it is a village, or what! (laughter) Because right from the beginning I never had this habit of talking too much; I spent most of my time in meditation. I had only one person living with me, and we used to do some work for earning our livelihood; otherwise I didn't see many people, I didn't talk with many people; I had even told the person who was living with me not to bother me; he should just cook food for me and leave it there and whenever I wanted I would come out and eat.

Even when I was in the army, I would not go into the cities. If I was in need of soap or any clothing or anything like that, I would not go to the city and buy it for myself, I would tell my friends to buy it for me. We made these walls when I was doing the meditation here. When I went away to 77RB some of the walls fell down, which I have built again. This was to prevent people from coming and bothering us.

Whenever the Satsangis have any thought, it should be either of the Master or of the Simran. You are very fortunate ones that you have been given these ten days – a very precious time for you – in which you can perfect your Simran very easily. And you know this also: whatever you have to do in your home, you will do that only when you get back there. While you are staying here, just by thinking about those things, you won't be able to get anything accomplished. Why not do that which you have come here for? Why not do the Simran while you are here? In almost all the groups there are many people who tell me about their progress, who understand that they have come here for Simran and they cannot do anything in their homes while staying here. Those who devote themselves to constant Simran, they report a lot of progress; they tell me that when they first came here they were like this, and now when they are going they have improved so much in their meditation.

In the interviews, not everyone comes to me asking questions. Many dear ones come to tell me about their meditation, about the progress they have made here. Some people do ask about their household problems; but mostly people come to talk about meditation.

You have got a very good opportunity, coming here for ten days. Master Kirpal has blessed you with this opportunity and that is why you should take advantage of it. And the only way to take advantage of your trip here is by doing constant Simran. If we will do constant Simran, then we will start hearing the Sound Current all the time. Now we hear the Sound Current, but since we have not completed the course of Simran, our soul is not being pulled up by the Shabd. If we have done so much Simran, then at once, whenever we start hearing the Sound Current, it will start pulling us up. Right now, the soul is not being pulled up by the Shabd because our soul is spread all over in the body and we are lacking in Simran. If we do the Simran constantly at other times, then as soon as we sit for meditation, our soul will start withdrawing from the body and the Shabd will pull our soul up. So that is why it is very important for us to do constant Simran if we want the Shabd to pull us up.

I remember when I was a child and used to go to school there were two other boys: one was a weaver's son and the other a farmer's son like me. The teacher gave us some lesson to learn by heart. The weaver's son did not learn that; he went and sat on the wall, but the other boy and I learned that lesson by heart. When the teacher came back, he saw that the weaver's son was sitting on the wall and he said, "Have you learned your lesson? Why are you sitting here?" The boy said, "Why do you bother? Whenever I want I will learn the lesson. Why do you bother?" He said that at that time; but later on when he grew older, he realized that by not obeying the teacher he had not gained anything; and then he repented. So you should not think, "Why do the other people bother, or why does the Master bother about our Simran? We will do that when we get back home!" You have got a very good opportunity over here to perfect your Simran, and you should take advantage of it; you should do constant Simran.

QUESTION: What are your plans for the future?

SANT JI: The reality is that Saints do not have any plans, because the Satguru has complete control over their mind, body and soul, and they are under orders: wherever the Satguru wants them to go, they go there. So I am under the orders of my Master, and I cannot make any excuses in front of my Master. That is why I cannot say that I have any plans; whatever my Master will plan for me, I will have to do that.

This is true: that those who understand that the Master is almighty have no interest in living in this world. So I have no interest in living in this world; but since I have to obey the orders of my Master, I am living here. Anyhow it is up to the Master when to call me back. Guru Nanak has said, "The man thinks one thing, but something else happens. And while the man is going on making plans, the noose of the Angel of Death comes and takes him." Kabir Sahib says, 'What is going to happen if I plan? Whatever God is planning will definitely happen.'

QUESTION: It seems sometimes that the more concentrated I get, the less love I have in my heart. And it's a mystery to me how to be concentrated yet loving.

SANT JI: This is a deception of the mind. If you are concentrated enough, just go within, just a little bit, and there you will see that there are heaps of love inside. Once you concentrate, even a little bit, you will find so much love there.

There is a famous saying in Rajasthan: Once there was a boy sent by his father into the field to protect the crops from the birds. He reported that when he was awake many birds came and he chased them away; but when he went to sleep no bird came to bother him.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, have we the right to choose the Master? Have we the right to ask for Initiation? If we do that, it means we have a certain amount of free will. Is that true?

SANT JI: Yes, up to certain limits, we have this right to seek the Master, to look for the Master. We can do this only on the outer level. We get a lot of information about the Master from His devotees, the Satsangis; and also from His writings; and from His outward appearance also we can get to know a lot. Mostly I say that whenever you see any Master you should see whether he has done meditation for ten years, twenty years; or if he has spent any amount of time in his life in the search of God, in the devotion to God. You should see at least this.

Even though the past great Masters, like Guru Nanak, Kabir, Master Sawan Singh, Master Kirpal Singh, are not physically with us, still by reading their life stories we come to know that they spent so much time in their life doing meditation.

Every meditator should meditate; it is very important. Just by discussing outer things we are not going to get anything. Unless we meditate we cannot know the truth, we cannot come near the truth of the Reality. So it is very important for all those who have got the initiation to do meditation, because this is the only thing which will bring us closer to the Master and God. You should definitely devote time to meditation, as much as possible. Even if you meditate for three or four hours a day, still you are devoting a lot more time to the world than you are devoting for meditation. If you devote four hours for meditation, and you are spending twenty hours out of twenty-four for the world, it means that you are working for the world more than you are working for God. So you should try to meditate as much as possible. And as far as perfecting the Simran is concerned, you can do that while doing your other work also. Whether you are traveling in the bus or train, or you are doing the worldly work where your mind is not involved so much, you can do the Simran and you can complete the course of Simran at those times. And in that case, if you have completed the course of Simran, when you sit for meditation, your soul will go right up and you will have good experiences. So you should not let a single breath go by without doing the Simran. Constant Simran is the key to success in meditation.

1982 October: The Constant Flow of Grace

This darshan session took place at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, Sept. 26, 1982.

QUESTION: People talk about having sicknesses as burning off their karma. How can we tell the difference – if we are just having a sickness or if it's something to do with our karma? Since we don't know how to tell, are we supposed to do anything about it?

SANT JI: There are two types of sicknesses which we get. One is because of our own carelessness, our own mistakes; and the other sicknesses come due to the reaction of our past karmas. The sickness which we get due to our own carelessness and mistakes is felt by almost everyone. We know that we have become sick from not taking good care of our health or by eating something which we are not supposed to eat, and we can remove that sickness by taking a little bit of medication. The other type of sickness, which we get due to our karmas, is not easily removed with medicine, and unless we pay off the karmas we are supposed to, we do not get rid of that sickness.

Before our body is created, our fate karmas are written down, according to which we get good health or disease, we become rich or poor, we become intelligent or not; and in the same way we get honor or dishonor in this world. All the happenings which are going to happen in our lifetime are written down at that time, before our body is created. And things happen to us according to that fate which is written down before our birth.

But we people are blind and do not know why we got this sickness: if it is because of our karma or because of our mistakes. But if we keep a check, a guard against our day-to-day doings, we can easily differentiate between the sickness which we have gotten because of our karma and that which has come because of our mistakes.

Tulsi Sahib says, "Before the body was created the Pralabdh was written down, but the mind is the foolish one and does not understand and accept the Will of God." Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell a story about His army days. Once it so happened that there was fighting in the area of Kabul. You know that at that time the British people were ruling over India. So there was one Indian soldier who by fate was taken into the area of the enemy, because of his mare. The horse took him into the enemy lines where he was killed. He lost all control over that horse, and that is why he was killed. Before he died he had given two thousand rupees for safe keeping to the canteen contractor of that regiment and according to the law that money should have been given to the heirs of that soldier. But the canteen contractor did not give that money to the heirs; instead, he took it and did not give any account of it.

After some time, a son was born to that canteen contractor, and he became very happy. In fact, it was the same soldier who had died in the battlefield, because of his horse; the same soul was born into the canteen contractor's house as his son. And at another place, the mare who had carried the soldier into the enemy line was born as a girl. When both of them grew up, the canteen contractor who had become a trader, and very wealthy, arranged his son's wedding to the girl who had been the mare in her previous birth. The trader did not know about this; but the son who had been the soldier in his previous birth, did know, but he did not tell the trader. As soon as he got married he became sick, and he was on his sickbed for many many years.

The trader did every possible thing to make him well, but no medicine could help him. He took his son to many different places, to many different doctors, but nobody was successful in making him well. In the end, one day, he invited one Muslim priest, a kazi, to do some supernatural power thing to the son, so that he might become all right. The kazi came and said yes, he would definitely make him all right. The trader felt in his pocket for some money to pay the kazi, but to his surprise, he found only two and a half rupees in his pocket. He told the kazi, "Kazi Ji, I always have plenty of money in my pocket, but I don't know why, today I have only this much. So will you kindly accept this? Tonight when you will come back again to heal my son, I will give you more." The kazi left, taking that money.

When he had left, the trader asked his son whether he was all right or not. The son replied, yes, he was all right. And he said, "Father, don't you recognize me? I am the same soldier who had deposited two thousand rupees with you; only you did not give that money to my family. I took birth in your family only to recover that money. You can count up all the money you have spent on me, and you will find that you have given me only the two thousand rupees back which you owed me. That two and a half rupees you paid the kazi was the last bit. And now I am going to leave the body, leaving that girl behind, because she is the one who became the cause of my death in my previous birth; and now she will weep all her life because she had made that mistake in her previous birth. She is the same mare who took me into the enemy lines." Saying this, he left the body.

Now the trader realized that it was his mistake that he had not given that money to the family of the soldier, and only because of that, that son was born and he had to spend so much money on that son. And now, when he realized that actually that son did not belong to him, instead of weeping for him he became happy that finally the give and take between him and the soldier was squared up, and now he did not have to worry about anything. So he did not weep; instead he became very happy. But his daughter-in-law was surprised to see that her father-in-law was very happy and he was making good food and eating, and not showing any sign of unhappiness. You know that if anyone loses his grown-up son it is a very big shock to him; but that trader did not show any sign of unhappiness.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell in this story that that trader lived in the town of Saranpar and that He met him there at this time on His way back from Hardwar. And that trader, whom Baba Sawan Singh Ji knew as a canteen contractor from His army days, invited Him to stay the night with him and his family. Baba Sawan Singh told them that he had to go somewhere and he could not stop there; but the trader insisted that He should stay there that night. So Baba Sawan Singh could not refuse, and accepted the invitation. So when he went to his house, that trader made good food, and he did not show that he had just lost his son; and Baba Sawan Singh did not know about that. When the food was being served, the trader's daughter-in-law started weeping, because she did not like that her husband had died just yesterday and the people in the family were enjoying the death instead of mourning over it. Baba Sawan Singh Ji heard her and wanted to know who was weeping in the house. He asked the trader, “Tell me, who is this lady, and why is she weeping? What is wrong with her?” But the trader didn't want to tell Baba Sawan Singh all that had happened; he said, “Baba Ji, why do you bother about it? You just eat your food.” But Baba Sawan Singh Ji wanted to know the story behind that weeping lady. So the trader told Baba Sawan Singh the whole story, about how he had not given the money to the soldier's family in the army, and how that soldier was born as a son to him; and later on when he got married to that girl, how he became sick, and how that trader took him to many places, but he was not healed. And at the end, when that kazi came, how he made him all right and he had only two and half rupees in his pocket at that time to give him; and after the give and take was finished, the son, that soldier, had died. So he said, “Master, why should I weep? And whom should I weep for? Because the soldier has left the body and the mare is weeping? Why should I weep? Why should I be sorry?”

So the meaning of this story is, that many times the sicknesses which we may get are due to the reactions of our past karmas. Sometimes we have to share the sufferings of our dear ones, because of our own karmas. Sometimes we come to know that it was the reaction of such and such karma of our past; sometimes we don't come to know. And when we don't know whether it is our karma or whether it is a mistake of the present time, only then we get puzzled.

QUESTION: I have a mother who is a vegetarian but sometimes eats meat. We have the same kitchen and sometimes use the same dishes. And she cooks my meals because she's done that all her life and I cannot refuse that; she cooks my vegetarian meals. How much does that affect my meditation? Is it okay if I use the same dishes and the same cloth and the same seat?

SANT JI: The diet we eat has a direct effect in the formation of our mind. If the food we are eating is made in the pure way, and if it is made by pure people, it will definitely make our mind pure. And the purer our mind is, the purer our soul will become. And when our soul will become pure, it will definitely very soon go up and meet the Oversoul. So the food which we eat has a direct effect on our soul and our meditations.

QUESTION: Master, this is not exactly a question. But if you wish to do so I would like you to make a comment on a sentence from Baba Sawan Singh Ji which struck me very much. Baba Sawan Singh says, “Many people would be surprised to learn that very few people in this world are doing their own work. Most of the people are carrying someone else's burden.”

SANT JI: You have read this in the book, but since I have had the very good fortune to be in the company of Baba Sawan Singh many times, I was very fortunate to hear that same sentence from Baba Sawan Singh personally. He meant that when we do the meditation on Surat Shabd Yoga, only that work is called as our own work. All other works which we do are for the organs of senses or for our community, for our society, for our religion; and we are working for other people, and in that way we are sharing other people's burdens. Only the meditation on Shabd Naam is our own work.

That which will come to our rescue at the time of our death, or that which will help us after this lifetime, only that may be called as our very own. You know that meditation on Shabd Naam is the only thing that helps us after we leave this world. Anywhere in this world it helps us.

Also the Master Who has given us that Shabd Naam is our very own; so whatever we do in regard to our Master – whether it is meditation or serving and loving Him – only that can be called as our own work. Our Supreme Father Kirpal always used to say, “We should give up hundreds of urgent works to attend the Satsang, and we should give up thousands of works for meditation.”

Once some sevadars requested Master to liberate them without meditating. Baba Sawan Singh told them, “No, that is not possible. It is your own work and you have to do it, whether you do it in this lifetime or the next lifetime. And at whatever point you will leave meditation in this lifetime, you will have to start from the same point in your next lifetime.”

Once an initiate was singing a bhajan to Master Sawan Singh which said that Master Who is the Protector of the Sangat will Himself liberate the Sangat from this world. So Master Sawan Singh said, “Don't sing this bhajan because by hearing such bhajans the dear ones will give up meditation; they will use this bhajan as an excuse, saying, 'When Master is going to liberate the souls, then what is the use of doing meditation?'" So He told this lady not to sing this bhajan anymore. Baba Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “If the dear ones will not do their own work, what will happen? The people of this world will taunt them, and the Master will also be blamed.” You know that, if after getting the human birth and getting the initiation from the Perfect Master, we do not carry our own burden, and instead of doing our own work, we do other people's work, and we put our own burden on the shoulders of the Master, what will the other people who have no knowledge of the Master, say? They will say that we are not good disciples. It is as if any grown-up child does not obey his father, and instead of standing on his own feet he remains dependent on his father: the people of this world will not like him. Only the people who stand on their own feet, and instead of taking support from their father, help their father, only they are called good children.

QUESTION: In yesterday's talk You spoke about us being pleased with ourselves because we think we are doing the meditation, when in fact it is not we who are doing it. Could you explain further on that, please?

SANT JI: I also said this: Work hard, go within, and manifest the Master within. Then you will be convinced who was in fact doing the meditation, and who was in fact coming to the Master. Then you will be convinced that you are not the doer, that the Master Who has brought you to His feet, is Himself doing all these things. You have the right to go within and manifest Him and talk with Him, because you have been initiated by Him, and only for that purpose have you been given human birth. So utilize the human birth by going within and seeing the Truth for your own self. I have worked hard, I have suffered hunger and thirst, I have stayed up many nights, and I know that it is not a child's play to awaken the Almighty Lord and to manifest the Almighty Lord within ourselves.

I have said this also: Remain awake in the night and pray to the Almighty Lord Who is within you. And unless He comes to you and assures you that He will come and take you up, or He is by your side – don't go to sleep. What happens? We people sit for meditation and request all such things before the Almighty Lord, but by the time He gives us His answer, we start talking with our mind. So work hard and don't go to sleep until you have seen the Master, until Master tells you that He will help you.

What happens? Usually when we go to the Satsang, or the Master, the words of the Master give us a lot of inspiration, and we feel like doing the meditation. But later on, when we go back to our homes, and the society and the world, the effect of the words of the Master fades away, and we get affected by the world. And for many, many days, we give up doing the meditation and Simran.

QUESTION: Can You explain what You mean when You say the Master will help us? What does that mean?

SANT JI: The work of the Master is to help the people, and that is why He has come in the form of a human being and that is the only reason He is living among the human beings. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “The liberation is in Naam, and even the birds and animals of the Satsangis are protected.” “Protected” means that they do not go in the lower bodies. After their present body, they get the human body in which they come to the Path of Naam, and ultimately get liberation. In many cases where the parents of the initiates are not initiated, or in many cases where the parents are initiated and the children are not, experience shows that many times when any non-initiate member of the family leaves the body, the Master is there to protect his soul. And because of the initiate in the family, the person who has left the body and who has not got initiation, does not go below the human body. He gets the human birth, but again the liberation is in Naam. In his next lifetime he gets the Naam, and then he gets liberation. Just imagine – is this a small concession for the family of the initiate that they do not go below the human birth?

Baba Sawan Singh used to tell about his son, Bachint Singh, that once some thieves came to his house to steal his animals, but they found that some old man with a white beard and white clothes was standing there. So they went back without taking the animals. They tried for three days, but were not able to succeed in that. So later on they came to Bachint Singh and asked him who that old man was, and they told him that they had come to steal the animals but never became successful. So Bachint Singh took them to Baba Sawan Singh, and later on they became initiated.

I mean to say that those who are related to the initiates of the Master, no matter in which way they are related, they also are under the protection of the Master; they also get initiation either in this lifetime or in the next. If we go within, only then can we know how much Master is protecting us and our family. But it is a matter of great sorrow that we are not convinced by the power of the Master, and we do not have faith in the Master. And that is why we are always trying to test the Master and in that way we do not take full advantage of Him.

There is one village in the Punjab called Baniwala, and there lived one initiate who had not given up his liquor business, selling liquor, even after getting the initiation. But unfortunately he was not making much money: even though he was selling a lot of liquor, he would find at the end of the day that he had not made much money. Once when I went to Punjab, he told me that he was suffering very much because even though he was selling so much liquor, still he was not getting any profit from it. So I lovingly advised him to give up that business and do some other business. He obeyed me and finished his liquor business, and started selling groceries. He was not aware that when he was doing the liquor business there was one person who came to his shop daily and stole his money, and that was why he never had much. That person continued coming to his shop and stealing, but now he did not take any liquor or money. He would sometimes steal soap cakes, sometimes other things. His way of stealing was such that nobody knew that the thief had come to the shop. If there were ten soap cakes in the shop, he would take only one, and the shopkeeper would not realize that anything was stolen. Once it so happened that after he had changed his business, one night Master Kirpal Singh came to him, woke him up, and told him there was a thief in his shop. But he did not understand that, and he went back to sleep. Later on Master Kirpal again came and slapped him, saying, “I woke you before, and you have not gone to your shop. Go to your shop and you will find the thief!” At once, that man went to his shop and caught that thief red-handed. After that, there was no more thief coming and he became prosperous.

I mean to say that Masters always protect their dear ones. But we people are ungrateful and we do not realize how much Master is doing for us. We always doubt the Grace of the Master; but I would like to tell you that the Grace of the Master extends to everyone, and is constantly flowing towards us. But we do not feel it because of our minds.

Nowadays the people of Rajasthan are educated. But about thirty years ago when there were no good means of education in this part of the country, people were very innocent, and whatever you would tell them they would accept. They were very devoted to God, and many people were religious minded. In the village of Ganeshagar there were two people who came across one initiate of Baba Sawan Singh. The initiate told them that if they wanted to see God they should go to Sikundapur, near Sirsa, where Baba Sawan Singh used to have his family property and where He used to live occasionally. So both of them went to Baba Sawan Singh in Sikundapur. When they arrived, Baba Sawan Singh was on his farm, supervising what was going on. So when he saw them, he said, “Welcome, gentlemen, tell me why you have come.” So they said, “Master, we have come to see God.” Master Sawan Singh Ji smiled, and he said, “Saints are not gods, but Saints have the practice by which they can make anyone see God. But first you come and I will serve you with sugarcane juice.” He told the sevadars to give them sugar-cane juice, which pleased them very much, because in those days in Rajasthan there was no sugar cane and it was a very rare thing for them. So when they drank a lot of sugarcane juice, they became very happy and they praised Baba Sawan Singh, saying that He was a very generous, kind man. After they were served with the sugarcane juice, Baba Sawan Singh invited them to see God, and He gave them initiation in the sugar cane field where they had very good experiences. After they got initiation, both of them became very happy.

One of them had the habit of smoking. So he requested Baba Sawan Singh, “Baba Ji, I cannot give up smoking.” So Baba Sawan Singh asked him, “Are you not giving up smoking, or is smoking not giving up you?” He said, “It is my fault, and I should give up smoking.” So Baba Sawan Singh told him, “Okay, you promise me one thing, that you will never smoke in front of me.” He said, “Yes, I can do that.” So after he came back to Ganga Nagar he went to a shop to buy some tobacco; but just as he was about to buy it he saw Baba Sawan Singh in the mirror and he at once changed his mind. And later, when he came back to his village, his friends came there with all the accessories – the hookah, the tobacco, etc. – and they were going to light it up and persuade him to smoke it; but as soon as that happened, he saw Baba Sawan Singh coming there in the same form he had seen in Sikundapur, and he had a stick in his hand. As soon as he saw the Master coming he threw away that hookah, and he vowed that he would never smoke again.

So I mean to say that those who do the devotion of Almighty Master with innocence and purity and faith in their heart, Master protects them. Even if they are failing, Master appears there and protects them from any obstacle which may come in their way. Only two years ago that man left the body; his name was Luna.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, we have with us this time a baby who will soon be born. What effect does it have on the baby, spending this time in the presence of the Master?

SANT JI: Usually I advise the pregnant women to do more Simran and to keep their thoughts pure so that the coming soul may have a good effect.

1982 November: In the Range of the Magnet

From a question and answer session, September 29, 1982, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: During the Death process of the soul withdrawing from the body, what is the soul going through? What effect does Simran have on the dying person?

SANT JI: Everyone knows that the time of death is very painful; it is the most critical time of one's life. But the meditators on Shabd Naam leave this world with no pain: they do not experience even a little bit of pain while leaving the body.

In my life, I have seen that many times it happens that when an initiate is dying, he is not concerned about the world and worldly things; but his family members sometimes bring the children in front of him, or sometimes make him remember the things he was supposed to do. But he feels no attachment to the worldly things, he is not worried about them, because within himself he is preparing for the journey beyond this world; and he is very happy. The reality is that when the initiate leaves the body he feels the happiness that he would feel if he were getting married.

What is the use of going to the Master and taking Naam from Him if still you have to suffer pain at the time of death? If the Master does not help you at the time of death then what is the use of taking shelter in Him? Death is for those people who have not met the Perfect Master, and who have done many bad deeds in their lifetime. But those who have the Perfect Master will not be thrown into the mouth of death. The Perfect Master will always come there; He will save the soul from all types of pain that people experience at the time of death. And saving him from all types of pain, the Perfect Master will take him to the Real Home. If the satsangi is doing even a little bit of meditation, he comes to know about his end time one or two days before his departure. Master tells him that he will come on such a day and take his soul up. And many times the Satsangis tell other people that they will be leaving on a certain day.

Simran has a powerful effect on our life. 'When we are living it has a great effect on our life, and when we leave this body, then also it has a great effect on our life. It helps us concentrate; it helps us purify our life because the charging of the Master, the meditation of the Master, works behind the Simran which He has given us. But if the initiate, after taking Initiation from the Master, does not give up his bad habits and continues indulging in drinking wine and eating meat and all sorts of other bad deeds, you can very well imagine that it will be his mistake if he expects his Master to come at the time of his death. If he is not performing his duties well, if he is not doing what his Master wanted him to do, how can he expect the Master to come there and help him?

Kabir Sahib has said, “What can the poor Master do if the disciple has not obeyed him?” It is like blowing a hollow pipe: the wind will not be stopped at any place. No matter how perfect the Master is, if the disciple is not obedient, then what can the Master do for him?

Satsangis should live a very pure and holy life, because if our life is pure, if our body is pure, then our mind also will be pure; and if we do the Simran given by the Master with truth in our heart and with sincerity, I am sure, and it is a fact: the Master will never let the disciple suffer in this world. He will definitely come; and He does not want His disciples, those who remember Him, to suffer the pain of death. He will at once come whenever the need is there.

QUESTION: This March my mother was very ill; she had an operation and I was sitting beside her and she saw Sant Ji over me, smiling and very much alive. It was a great comfort to her; she was very happy.

SANT JI: Yes. Before also, I said that the Master always comes at such moments, and Satsangis can feel that. Satsangis can see the Master coming, and even if one is not initiated, but if he is related to an initiate and if he has sincere thoughts for the Master, he also gets help from the Master.

In our ashram we had one bullock who was very strong and he would eat the food of two or three bullocks, but would not work as he should: he was very lazy, but still he was very good at eating the food! Everybody in the ashram, all the sevadars, disliked him because he was eating too much and was not working. So they told me, and I also decided, that we should kick that bullock out of the ashram. So once when we were talking in front of that bullock, I said that we should kick him out because he was not doing any work. Hearing that, that bullock started weeping. Guru Nanak Sahib has said, “Every creature, whether he is animal or man, they all have the knowledge; whatever you speak in front of them, they understand that.” So maybe he understood that and he started weeping. So looking at him, we felt sorry for him, and I said, “O.K. We will not kick you out; you can stay.”

After some time when Master Kirpal visited the Ashram, I told Him about that bullock. I asked Him what was going to happen to that bullock – because he was not doing any seva, he was not doing any work, and he was eating too much, more than he should eat. So Master Kirpal smiled, and said, “Well, what will happen to him? Master will take care of him.” You know that the Masters never say that They take care of the souls: They always give the credit to Their Masters. So Master Kirpal said, “The Master will take care of him.”

After some time, that bullock – he did not become sick – he just lay down on the ground, and after one second he left the body without any pain. Usually the animals, the bullocks, leave the body with a lot of pain. But that bullock did not experience any pain because the Master was there to take his soul up.

Your mother is a human being, and it is not an extraordinary thing that she had the darshan of the Master. The Master protects even the birds and animals of the Satsangis.

QUESTION: Why are we given two kinds of meditation, and what is the purpose of each one?

SANT JI: From life after life we are in the habit of doing the simran (or remembrance or repetition) of the world and worldly things. And whatever desire or wish we have at the time of our death, we get the next body according to that. That is why we come into this world again and again. Saints know that we are in this body only because of that simran. So in order to make us forget the simran of the world, They give us the Simran of the Charged Words, so that by doing the Simran of the Charged Words we may forget the simran which is keeping us in this world.

Now when you are sitting here, your mind may be thinking of something, he may be fantasizing about something. And now the thing which you are remembering or fantasizing about, the form of that thing is coming in front of you automatically. That is why in order to make us forget the simran or remembrance of the world, the Saints have given us Their Simran. So when we do that Simran, the form of the Master starts coming in front of us, or in our memory, by itself.

The seat, or the residence, of our soul and mind is at the eye center. Coming down from this place, both soul and mind have spread all over the body, and beyond the body they have spread all over the world: in our religions, our relations, and everything. At the time of Initiation we are taught how to withdraw from the outer world and how to collect all our scattered thoughts and bring our attention to the eye center. When we are doing that process, we feel, as our soul starts withdrawing from the lower part of the body, as if the ants were biting us.. And gradually when the soul withdraws and goes higher and higher in our body, when all our attention is collected and we concentrate at the eye center, all our attention is brought up there.

The place behind the two eyes is our school, and it is our duty to reach that place. As it is the duty of every student to go to school, and then the duty of the teacher starts (of teaching), in the same way it is our first duty to reach the eye center, and then the Master's duty starts. When we reach the eye center and concentrate there, there the Master manifests. He tells us to catch the Sound Current which is already coming there. When Master gives us the Initiation, He sits within us at the eye center, in the form of the Shabd; and before we get there, at the eye center, He is there to take us into the higher planes.

So the first type of practice, Simran, is meant for collecting our scattered attention at the eye center. And the second type of practice, Bhajan, is meant for taking our soul into the higher planes. When we collect our scattered thoughts and bring them to the eye center and concentrate there, our soul comes into the range of the Shabd. And as soon as she comes into the range of the Shabd, the Shabd at once attracts the soul and takes her to the Real Home. It is like when a piece of iron comes in the range of the magnet, the magnet at once pulls the iron towards itself. In the same way, when our soul comes in the range of the Shabd, when the soul reaches the eye center, which is the range of the Shabd, the Shabd takes no time to take the soul up to the higher planes.

QUESTION: On this Path, of course being free from desire is very important. Is it true that there are two ways to be free from desire? One is to forget about the desire and ignore it; and the other is possibly to try to achieve your desire so it can be finished. And most importantly, how can we tell if we should forget the desire and ignore it, or whether we should try to achieve the desire?

SANT JI: All the things which we have been given by God have one or another meaning; but since we are ignorant, out of our ignorance we misuse the things which God has given us. Take the element of desire: have the desire to reach your Real Home; have the desire to meet your Master and manifest Him within you; have the desire of doing the devotion to the Master; if you change your desires to such desires, then you will become successful and you will not have any other desire.

QUESTION: Having been initiated by Master Kirpal, it is through Master Kirpal that all my help comes; but I have found not only You endearing Whom I have met, but also Sawan Singh Whom I think I have not met, very helpful. Just to think of You, or to think of Sawan Singh, to cultivate this kind of attitude, is it harmful then to the devotion towards Kirpal?

SANT JI: It is not harmful if the disciple of a Master has done the meditation and has become as our Master, if he has become the Form of the Shabd. Because in the Form of the Shabd all the Masters are one. In that case it is not harmful. But in any case, we should never think of any other Master other than our own Master. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that in the Path of spirituality no relations such as Grand-Master or Great-Grand-Master are found there. Our relationship is only with our Master.

QUESTION: I'd like to know how does one develop love for the Master?

SANT JI: By obeying the commandments of the Master, by doing meditation, by doing Simran, and by going within. Go within, just a little bit, and you will see the flames of love for the Master raging within you. The Master has not given you a little bit of love; He has given you a lot of love which is within you. That is why Saints always emphasize this a lot. They say, "After taking Initiation, don't become lazy, don't become a coward. Work hard, go within and see the Truth for your own self."

QUESTION: I have a lot of trouble with pain in my leg when I'm sitting. And it doesn't matter whether I'm sitting anywhere; it's been going on for 35 years. And I haven't been initiated that long, so I know it's not that! How can I make a differentiation between when I'm leaving the body, and when my leg just hurts because my leg hurts?

SANT JI: Since you work with a doctor, and you already know that you have been having this pain for thirty-five years, you should be able to differentiate between the pains very easily – because you had a lot of experience with this pain even before you were initiated.

QUESTION: My question is about "Is the Master there when the Satsangi leaves the body, " and You said, "if the Satsangi is a good Satsangi, then the Master will be there." What happens after that? . . . What about the cycle of rebirth?

SANT JI: [Laughs] When the child goes into the lap of the father, how does he feel? He feels protected and happy. And when the child goes back to his home, after that he is not worried about anything. When the drop goes into the ocean and becomes one with the ocean, what happens? When the soul is taken by the Master, something like that happens.

QUESTION: I have been told by a Satsangi that our greediness and our bad eating habits make Him suffer. Could you tell me something about this?

SANT JI: I have a lot of greediness in me, even more than everybody in this world has. My greed is that I am waiting for the time when my Master will bring me back to my Home, when He will call me back.

QUESTION: It seems to me that whenever somebody asks a question you give them quite a lot of darshan, so maybe it's worth asking questions . . .

SANT JI: [Much laughter] No, it's not like that. It is not like that, and you should not think that you are the only ones here who are getting the darshan of the Master. Masters are giving their darshan to all the disciples, no matter if a disciple is living on an island, or if he is living on the top of a mountain – no matter where the disciple is. Many times when the Master is giving Satsang at one place, at the same time He is giving his darshan to the yearning souls who have the receptivity, and many times it happens that while They are sleeping physically or doing other things at one place, they are giving darshan or taking care of the souls at a far distance.

Satsangis should never think that they get the darshan of the Master only when they are sitting in front of the Master or only when Master is looking at them, and that when the Master goes away from them, or they go away from the Master, they are not getting darshan. It is not like that; Master is always giving darshan to the disciples. And as you cannot separate the shadow of the man from the body of the man, in the same way, you cannot separate the Master from the disciple. The only difference is that unless the disciple has complete faith in Him, and love and devotion for Him, he cannot see the Master face to face. Otherwise Master is always accompanying the disciple like the shadow. Master is a Pure Soul and He comes into this world to purify our souls. Many times, even when we are sleeping, using His grace, He is purifying our souls. But it is a pity that the dear ones don't understand that; and that is why they always leave themselves dirty with the dirt of the worldly pleasures, and Master has to spend all His grace on purifying their souls again and again.

QUESTION: Are all men, sooner or later, destined to meet the perfect Master?

SANT JI: The time for every soul is fixed.

QUESTION: When we're away from the physical Master, and we're about to take food, if we do Simran and remember the Master with love, and thank the Master for the food we have, does that food become just like parshad?

SANT JI: Why will that not become parshad if you will remember the Master with your heart? The food will become parshad according to the feelings, according to the devotion you will have for the Master.

I will say that whenever the Satsangis eat food, they should always remember their Master, and they should always pray, “Oh Master, since You have given me this food, I am eating it. It all belongs to You, it is all because of Your grace.”

In the place called Dalhousie, some of the Sangat was about to eat food; and the sevadars had served them all the food. Before they started eating, all of them folded their hands and started praying to Master Sawan Singh. At the same time, the lady who was preparing food for Master Sawan Singh was ready with the food for Master; but when everybody in the Sangat was praying to Master, Master was sitting there, and since the food which was made for him was cooling down, that lady requested Master Sawan Singh to eat. Master Sawan Singh replied, “Don't you see that the dear ones are feeding me?” Because the dear ones were not eating at that time, they were praying to Master Sawan Singh, they were offering the food to Master Sawan Singh. So hearing that, that lady told the Sangat, “Now you should stop remembering the Master and eat the food, and let Master also eat.”

The meaning of saying this is, whenever you are about to eat food, and if you remember the Master, if you say, “Oh Master, may You accept this food which is given by You – if you have this attitude, and if you pray in this way, this food becomes parshad. And Master also finds pleasure in that; Master also is very pleased.

In the beginning you may find it difficult to remember the Master before eating food, because you are not used to it. But when you will make it your habit, after that if someday by mistake you start eating, you will not find the food delicious, and at once you will realize you had not remembered the Master before eating the food.

It is my daily practice now also. You can ask Pappu's family, or those who cook food for me. Whenever they bring the food, first I fold my hands to my Master, and then I tell Him, I thank Him: “You have given me this food and I am eating it. And it is all due to your kindness and grace.” I don't do that only for the doing's sake. I do it from the heart because it is true that we eat the food which is given to us by the Master. Here also, Bhalvant, who has been living here for eight or nine years, and cooks food for me, knows that not even one day has passed when I did not remember my Master, and when I didn't thank Him. Always I thank Him and remember Him before eating the food. So if you also do this before eating food, if you offer your food to the Master, and request Him to make your food parshad, what will happen? You will get the habit of doing Simran with every mouthful you eat and that food will have a very good effect on your Simran and on your practices.

So when you eat the food with Simran, and when you first offer the food to the Master, and accept that food as parshad given by the Master, then you will not leave any food on the plate. And that will have a good effect on other people: they will also think that you are a very good person because you are not throwing away any food. And they will also try to become like you.

While you are eating, every Satsangi should be very attentive. All his attention should be towards the Master and he should do Simran with every mouthful he eats. You may say that you have cooked the food you are eating, you have worked very hard and earned your livelihood, so you have earned this bread. But the Mahatmas whose inner vision is opened, don't say that. They say, “Oh Lord, You have given us this food, You have cooked it for us, and it is You who is eating this food.” Guru Nanak Sahib says, “He Himself invites the Sangat, He Himself makes them sit and serves them the food, and after the food is served He Himself gives them the water to wash their teeth. He himself serves them food, He Himself sits there among the Sangat and eats the food.”

QUESTION: I know that Master never leaves us, He's always with us: we are never separated from Him. But I'm also anticipating that less than a week from today there will still be a pain of separation from the physical presence. How is that?

SANT JI: If you still feel that pain of separation that will not be less than the happiness you may get from the union with the Master. You will feel the separation only from Him whom you love more than your relatives, more than anything in this world. Those souls are the most fortunate ones, who remember the pain of separation from their Master.

QUESTION: Master, I have no question, I just want to say . . . and it could have been done better silently . . . that I was very deeply moved in yesterday's Satsang. There came a point where the tone of your voice changed, and then you spoke so personally, “Ajaib Singh, “ as if in fact by doing so you took on yourself all the power left by the departure of the beloved Master Kirpal. You told us the depth of your sorrow which had not yet diminished, and you also said to us in very strong words, on the verge of being themselves silence, that no one but you could ever feel the same pain.

SANT JI: Yes, that is why I always say that if I find anyone who feels the pain as I am feeling, then I may tell him about my pain. Those who have always remained happy, how can they know the taste of pain? How can the priest know what is written in the holy books? Ajaib Singh, only you know, because it has happened with you; you are suffering: If the Master leaves when the disciple is still in the body, there can be no greater pain than that. He who has been separated from his Beloved, only he can know the pain of separation. He who has experienced the disease, only he knows what the pain is like. The disciple does not get as much benefit from removing sins as he gets when he is having the darshan of the Master. No matter if He within whom Master has manifested Himself has the same sympathy for us as the Master used to have for us, and He will give us the same love Master used to give to us, still He will not be able to get the benefit of the physical darshan of our Master.

QUESTION: Maybe my question is not very important, but it is lurking in my mind for quite a long time. I read in a book once, that when Master Sawan Singh left the body, many of his disciples committed suicide, and I was wondering what happened to these disciples.

SANT JI: Master Sawan Singh was very strict and he was very much against those people who committed suicide. He used to say that those people who committed suicide will never be forgiven; Master will hang them.

1982 December: The Defeat of the Mind

This darshan session was given October 2, 1982, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Something the Master said yesterday I couldn't understand: that someone might try to deceive or play tricks on the Master. So I asked Pappu how this could be possible, and he told me that it means people crying or showing love in front of the Master and then doing other things when they go away from Him. And this hit me very hard because it's exactly what I do. When I'm away from the Master I've gone off the Path, I've used intoxicants, I was dishonest even with money, and worst of all I committed adultery, not once but many times. I would like to beg Master to please forgive me, and not to allow my bad deeds to condemn me to hell, or worse than that, to a life of failure.

SANT JI: My most dear one, this is the benefit of hearing the Satsangs of the living Master. The Masters, using parables and stories, tell us that we have all these weaknesses and we should remove them. So after hearing the Satsang, we should remove our weaknesses and lovingly and faithfully we should do the devotion of the Master.

Once an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh committed a mistake, so in order to confess his mistake he blackened his face and put a garland of broken shoes around his neck, and he came to the Satsang. When the Satsang was about to finish, he stood up and requested Baba Sawan Singh to forgive him because he had committed that mistake. Baba Sawan Singh Ji said, "O.k., listen to me." Then he told this story to all the Sangat: Once there was an old woman, and she had a goat and a monkey. Both the animals were her pets. And once that old woman prepared many delicious foods, and before she was going to eat the foods, she thought of going to the market to buy some yogurt. While she was away from the house, what did that monkey do? He went into the kitchen and ate all the food that the lady had made. He even drank the milk. Then he put some of the milk and some of the food on the mouth of that goat and he removed the rope from the neck of the goat. After some time, when the old woman came back, she did not find any food in the kitchen; and when she saw that the mouth of the goat was smeared with food and milk, she thought that the goat had finished all the food and had drunk the milk. The monkey, who was very clever, was sitting with his eyes closed pretending he was doing meditation.

So as a result of this, the old woman became upset with the goat, and started beating her. She did not say anything to the monkey because the monkey had successfully played his trick and she had no doubts about him. A man saw all this drama, and he thought, "Look at the condition of that poor goat! She did not do anything, it was not her fault, and she did not eat any food; but still she is getting a beating. Whereas the one who is the cause of all this play, the monkey whose fault it is, and who even enjoyed the food, is now pretending to do the devotion of the Lord, and he is not getting any beating."

So the meaning of this is that our mind does all these tricks, our mind makes all the mistakes, and our body and our soul have to suffer for it. Master Sawan Singh told that person that he was now forgiven and he should not repeat that mistake again.

Always, whenever we make mistakes, it is because we obey our mind. It is very good – I appreciate – that you stood up in the Sangat and confessed your mistake. In this way, you have defeated your mind; because if you had not confessed in front of the Sangat, your mind would have thought that you had surrendered to him, and that even though he had made so many mistakes, you were not doing anything to embarrass him. Now, when you have confessed this in front of the Master and the Sangat, it is a defeat for your mind, and I hope your mind will not bother you again with that, and you will not repeat those mistakes. Because now he will be afraid that, if in future he will do those bad things again, again you are going to confess in front of the Sangat. So it is very good; I appreciate it. And along with this, I would like to advise you that mind is a very swift horse, as Kabir has said. You should always tie it with the rein of Simran. You should always let your mind do Simran so that he may not waver from the Path, and he may not inspire you to do bad things.

Always remember that our mind becomes stronger if we always hide the mistakes which our mind does. If we do not tell others, if we do not confess in front of other people the mistakes we have done obeying our mind, then our mind will become stronger because he will know that there is no harm in misleading this person because he is not going to talk to anyone about this bad deed. As a result of that he will not be humiliated. The more we tell people about the mistakes we make with our minds, the better it is for us. Because if we try to hide the bad mistakes of our mind, he will grow stronger and stronger and he will think that we have become his slave.

Always remember that all the Satsangis, whenever they commit any mistake, should never forget that Someone is looking at them. They should never think that Master is not looking at them; because when the Master gives the Initiation, He takes His seat inside the disciple in the form of Shabda, and whatever action or thought the disciple is having, Master is fully aware of that. Masters always leave the ropes loose, because They always wait for the disciple to come back to the Path. They think that the disciple will come to the Path today or tomorrow, sooner or later; and that is why They do not pull the rope very soon. But you should not think that They are not aware of our actions and thoughts. Master is aware of every single thought and action that we do.

Kabir Sahib says, “If anyone commits a sin, and hides it, all the sins will come out when the Lord of Judgment will ask about them.” Always remember that we can never defy the Law of Nature. The Law of Nature is unchangeable and it always works; we can never defy it. You know that whenever we are doing any good thing, such as giving a donation, we will have our name written down in the temples or churches where we have given the donation; or sometimes we will even have our name published in the newspaper because we want to tell people we have done that good thing. But when we commit a sin, when we do something bad, not even the son sits down with his father to consider whether he should do that or not. But we definitely get to suffer the reactions of our bad deeds, just as we get to enjoy the fruits of our good deeds. You know what the sufferings are that we get as a result of the reactions of our bad deeds. We may be born in a poor family; we may not have good health, we may be always suffering from sickness or disease; we may not have a good name; we may not have a sound body or mind, etc. And what are the fruits or the rewards which we get as a reaction of our good deeds? We may be born in a good family, a rich family; we may have a good body and a good mind; we may have a high position with power, etc. As we enjoy the fruit of our good deeds, we are liable to suffer the reactions of our bad deeds also. All these sufferings and enjoyments are on the physical level only; but in the inner worlds, the Negative Power has created so many vast hells where impure souls are given punishment. Those punishments cannot be described in words.

Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj says, “The sinners earn the bad karmas and still they cry. Nanak says that they will be churned by the Lord of Judgment as we churn the yogurt.”

I will tell you a story, an incident I saw with my own eyes. This happened about thirty-five years ago, on the Grand Trunk Road (the longest highway in India). Near Amritsar a truck hit a couple of camel carts, and three camels died on the spot; one camel did not die there, but his legs were broken. People came there and they did not bother about the camels; they took care of the people who were on the cart. They took only the people and they did not pay any attention to the dead camels, or even to the one who was not yet dead. Just imagine – where could that camel go to file a lawsuit for justice? Did he have any mother who could come there to take care of him? He did not have anyone to help him; not even his owners were worried about him because they were worried about their own selves. Nobody came there with food for him; nobody came to help him; nobody came there to give him any shelter. And after some time we saw that the crows, who were hovering in the sky, came to eat the dead bodies of the camels. When they saw this camel, who was still alive at that time, they came and tried to take out his eyes. Now this camel did not have any legs with which he could keep the crows away; he had only his neck. He was waving his neck back and forth to keep the crows away, but he was very hungry and in pain, and had no strength; so he could not do that for a very long time. Eventually, the crows took the eyes of that camel, even though he was still alive.

So I mean to say that this was the condition of that camel. All those who passed by the spot of the accident said, “See, this is the suffering that one gets because of his bad past karmas. He is alive, he has life in him, but still he cannot ask for help, nor can he be helped, and he cannot even remove the crows which are eating his body.”

It is possible that before getting the body of the camel, he had the human birth. It is possible that he had been much better off than us. But since he did not do the devotion of Naam, and instead did bad karmas, in order to suffer the reactions of that, he got the body of the camel in which he was not at all happy, and in which his death was very painful. Before that accident, his owners cared for him because he was very useful to them; but after the accident, since he did not remain useful, they did not pay any attention to him, and he was eaten up while still alive.

So when we get the human birth, if we do not utilize it, if we do not do the devotion of the Lord, if we do not take advantage of it, and if we do all sorts of bad karmas, we will definitely get the punishment for it.

You may have read in the Sikh history about one of the most devoted disciples of Guru Gobind Singh. Before he came to the Master he was living in the area of Kashmir, and he was a hunter by profession. But once, while he was hunting, he killed a pregnant deer. When he saw the baby in the womb, suffering, at once his mind took a turn, and he felt very sorry for the deer. And he thought, Where can they go and complain? Where can they get help? So he repented and came to Guru Gobind Singh, and became his disciple. And later on, he did so much meditation that he became one of the most devoted disciples of Guru Gobind Singh.

QUESTION: My husband does Ashtang Yoga practices, and he has experiences of inner light and sound. Can Kal come and imitate the inner Light and Sound to delude the soul?

SANT JI: In the beginning I was also misguided by the same light. I used to see light, and since I had read in all the books about the Light and Sound, I always thought that it was the same light which I was reading about in the books. But when I went to Baba Bishan

Das, and told him about seeing light, he told me, “Dear Son, you are in an illusion. This is an illusion created by the Negative Power, and the light which you are seeing is of the lower chakras. It is not the true light which becomes the means of our liberation.” But when Supreme Father Kirpal showered His grace on me, He told me about that; and He gave me the complete knowledge about the Light which we get at the time of Initiation. At that time, Master connects us with the Light of Sat Purush, the Light which is in the higher planes; and following this Light we reach the door liberation.

All the paths of yoga, whether it is Ashtang Yoga or any other, end where the ABC of Sant Mat starts.

QUESTION: There was a question asked at the last session about devotion to Sawan Singh and Sant Ji rather than their own Master – the answer was to be devoted to your own Master. I never met Master Kirpal and I have known some other people who have never met Master Kirpal or who were not very closely related to Him, who feel as I do that it's difficult to feel very devoted to Him – although I have the understanding that with my love and devotion to Sant Ji that it is the same power.

SANT JI: Every Satsangi should lovingly listen to this, and follow this. You should never think that you were initiated through a representative and you did not see the Master. No matter if you have not seen the Master physically, Master has seen you as He is sitting within you, and He has understood you.

If you have love for me, if you have faith in me, you should obey what I say. And I say that the Light is the same, the Power is the same; only the bodies are different. No matter if you have a lot of love for me, and I also have the unbreakable love for you – I have much more love for you than you have for me. And that is why I am lovingly telling you that, no matter if you are devoted to me, you have faith in me, you have love for me; still, when you sit for meditation, you should remember the form of the Master Who has given you Initiation. Because when you meditate and go within, you will see the same Form Who has given you Initiation; that same Form will be manifested within you. And He Himself, that very Form, will guide you in the inner planes. That is why lovingly I advise you that no matter if you love me and have faith in me, still whenever you sit for meditation, you should be devoted to only His Form.

The fact is that when you go to the Successor of the Master, and have love and faith in Him and sit in His presence, if you remember the form of your Master with full love, faith and devotion, then you will receive that same Form in the form of the Successor. Because the Successor of the Master has become the same Form as your Master, and there is no difference between him and the Master; the same Power is working in Him as was working in your Master.

You know that I was born in a Sikh family, and I used to believe in the Sikh Gurus. You know that in whatever family, in whatever religion, a man is born, he is devoted to that religion, and he is devoted to the line of Masters or holy men of that religion. So I was devoted to Guru Gobind Singh very much, and even though I had not had the opportunity of having the darshan of Guru Gobind Singh, still I knew, looking at pictures and other things available, what Guru Gobind Singh looked like. I knew that he wore a special type of turban and he used to have a bow and arrows and so forth. I had that picture of him in my mind. You know that mind is very tricky and never lets any opportunity go out of its hands without utilizing it. So the first time I went to see Baba Sawan Singh, my mind at once told me that I will believe in this Mahatma only if he will appear to me as Guru Gobind Singh. So at once I thought of Guru Gobind Singh, and after some time I saw Baba Sawan Singh turn into the form of Guru Gobind Singh. Even though Baba Sawan Singh was not wearing that kind of turban, still I saw His form turn into Guru Gobind Singh, and he was wearing all those things which I had in my mind about Guru Gobind Singh.

Later on, our troop was stationed near Beas, so we had many opportunities to see Baba Sawan Singh. I asked him how come I saw Guru Gobind Singh in Him. He replied, “One sees the form of God according to the feelings he has for the Mahatma in his mind.” So I mean to say that whatever feeling you have for the Mahatma who is sitting in front of you, if you are remembering your Master, having the form of your Master in your mind; if you are looking at Him with full love and devotion, and if the same Power is working in that Mahatma, you will see the Form of your own Master in that Mahatma.

Remember that in one's lifetime one can perfect the contemplation or remembrance of only one Master. So that is why lovingly I advise you that those who have been initiated by Master Kirpal, should remember and contemplate on only the form of Master Kirpal. If you have any obstacle in the meditation, if there is any difficulty within, you may seek my guidance, and I will be very happy to serve you.

Baba Sawan Singh Ji used to say that after Baba Jaimal Singh left the body, He used to visit Agra where Chacha Pratap Singh, Swami Ji Maharaj's brother, was taking care of all the work. Baba Sawan Singh used to say, “Whenever I would visit Him, I would always remember the form of my Master, Baba Jaimal Singh; and this would not upset Chacha Pratap Singh. He would inspire me to do that.”

So I mean to say that the successor of the Master will never get upset if you remember and contemplate on the form of your own Master. If he is the Real Successor, He will always inspire you and help you in remembering your Master. Remember that you should never change your contemplation since He is within you. I have advised you very lovingly. If you have any doubts, without any hesitation you can ask me. I will be very glad to serve you.

QUESTION: There seems to be a lot of confusion about when we're supposed to do Simran and when we're not. I was told to do Simran all the time. But then I understand I'm not supposed to do Simran when I'm sitting for bhajan. And if you're supposed to do Simran all the time, how can you not do it when you're doing bhajan? Are we supposed to do Simran at the same time or not?

SANT JI: We do not need to bother about this confusion, because when the Simran is happening within us automatically, without our making any effort to do it, you will not remain aware whether you are doing the Simran or you are not doing the Simran. When it is happening within you by itself, then even if it is happening while you are sitting for Bhajan, you do not need to stop it. Until that stage comes, until we are able to perfect our Simran mentally, we should not do Simran while sitting for Bhajan.

Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj says, “With your every single breath you should remember Gobind, the Almighty Lord, so that all the worries of your mind may vanish.” When you breathe in you should do Simran, and when you breathe out then also you should do Simran. Just as you cannot stop your breath, in the same way you cannot stop the Simran. When the condition of our Simran becomes like this, then whenever we will sit for meditation, very soon the Shabd will pull our soul up. Now Satsangis should look within and see for how much time they do conscious Simran. For many, many hours people give up their Simran, and they remember the Simran only when they sit for meditation. Even then, when they sit for one hour, many times their mind makes them forget the Simran and brings the worldly thoughts. If you analyze the time which you have spent in the meditation sitting, you will find that a lot of time is spent in meditation without Simran.

So when we have this kind of Simran – broken Simran, sometimes it is happening, sometimes it is not happening – Saints say, as long as you have this kind of Simran, you should only do one thing at a time; because you can only do one thing at a time. When you are sitting for the meditation for Light, you should do Simran. But when you are sitting for the Sound Current, you should pay attention to the Shabd and not do the Simran.

Saints say that we should do the Simran with every single breath. Why do they say that? They say that because if we perfect our Simran like that, whenever we sit for meditation, at once the Shabd will start coming within us and we will be linked within.

QUESTION: Master, I have been disappointed since yesterday, because it seemed my mind was getting quieter, and then all of a sudden it's just gone crazy. So when I sit or do Simran it's like . . . even if there's a teeny space between one charged word and the next, it's like . . . mind gets in there. And even if I talk to my mind and tell it to be good, and try and be really sweet to it, and tell it I'll give it some time later, you know, it just won't leave me alone. I wonder if you could comment. It makes me feel I've done something terrible; that I'm in Master's displeasure.

SANT JI: You should not be disappointed. Always I have said that it is worse to surrender than to be defeated. The mind is attacking you with his full force, so in the same way, you should become stronger with your Simran and attack it. Can anyone become successful surrendering to his enemy? Our enemy is our mind. You should remain strong.

QUESTION: There are many times in meditation when sleep has overtaken me, and I have felt exhausted when I have woken up very deadening to the body. There are other times when there is an unconscious state in meditation and I feel refreshed after the meditation. Are there occasions when the soul goes up and the mind doesn't know of it? The soul enjoys and we aren't aware of it? Or when we are up do we always know it?

SANT JI: [Laughing] Dear ones, our mind goes with our soul until Trikuti, the second plane. Mind is not so incompetent, not so lazy, not so foolish, that he does not know whether the soul has gone up or not. Until we cross Trikuti he always goes with us, and he's always trying his best to keep our soul below that. Like a competent lawyer, he always asks us, “What is the use of going in the beyond?”

The first thing is that the mind never lets the soul go within; his first job is to keep the soul out. The Satsangis who struggle in meditation know how their mind gives them extra work, and how using one of the organs of sense, he is keeping the soul attached to the body. Sometimes he brings lust, sometimes he brings anger, greed, attachment and other things, and keeps the soul out.

QUESTION: The story about the camels – an incident happened on tour with me: I was traveling with Satsangis, and there was a cat that was run over and was almost dead, and I wanted to put it out of its misery, but the Satsangi said that would be unwise. And in the light of the story that Kirpal had told . . . and then with this camel – is it better in this situation to let the animal suffer it's burning off karma?

SANT JI: Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that if we go on fighting over unnecessary things, in the end we will achieve nothing. If we can help anyone, whether he is an animal or man, there is no harm in helping. But if we cannot help, if the situation is such that our help is not going to do any good, then we should leave that soul alone.

1983

1983 January: On Private Interviews

From a Question and Answer Session, November 28, 1982

QUESTION: Master, could you talk about a private interview with the Saint?

SANT JI: When one goes for a private interview with a Saint, one needs a lot of thinking and preparation, because the great Soul Which is working in the Saint knows about your every single thought.

Some time ago, one Westerner came to see me, and he went on talking for half an hour. He did not let me say even a single word, and at the end he said, “I feel that I have talked too much.” Just imagine how that dear one would have benefited. Because when we go to the Saint, when we go to the Master, we are going for our benefit. Either we go to get a solution for our problems, or we go to get some advice from Him; because the advice of the Saint is not less than the advice of the Almighty Lord. And if we don't let Him speak a word, then what benefit can we get from Him?

You can come to the interviews and see that people bring many long letters, and they give them to Pappu. In these they write the questions, and they themselves write the answers to the questions. I listen to everything that is written very patiently; and many times I feel the Grace; I feel sympathy for the dear ones; and I think, “This dear one has come to me. I should give him something.” But when the dear one goes on asking the questions and then himself goes on replying to the questions, what can I do? That is why whenever we go to the Master in the interview, we should ask Him only those things which we don't know. We should not go on asking questions just for the sake of asking. We should tell Him only those things for which we need a reply. Lovingly, I would like to advise you about going for an interview. Whenever you go to any Sant Satguru for an interview, before asking any question, just think about the question. Think about whether you know the answer to the question, or not. If you know the answer to the question, there is no need to ask that question from Him. Ask only those things from Him which you don't know. Many times people have the impression that if they do not ask questions in the interview, they will get less time.

But that is not true. I give equal time to people who do have questions, and people who don't have questions. In the private interview you should ask questions regarding your family affairs, or if you have any difficulties in meditation, or anything which is very personal. You can ask general questions concerning the Path in these Question and Answer Sessions, so that other people also get benefited.

Saints have complete knowledge of the souls. They also have complete knowledge of our physical bodies. They even know how many veins are in the body, how many parts of the body are in the male as well as in the female. They know where in the body the water we drink goes, and where the food we eat goes. They know everything! So whenever we ask any question from Him, don't think that He is a fool, or that He does not know anything. Always remember that He is all-conscious, and that there is not even one thing which He does not know.

1983 April: On Old Age and Death

From a darshan session in Rajasthan, November 3, 1982

QUESTION: Whoever wishes to realize God in the span of human life will definitely do so. But it is indeed true that the Master will embrace all of His disciples at the moment of death.” This was in Sant Bani Magazine in June 1982. The question is: It appears more likely than not that in the majority of cases the hope for realization of God cannot be fulfilled until the last moment of one's physical life. This brings up some questions. One of them is based on the observation that most individuals undergo progressive old age, seventy, eighty years and over, drastic deterioration, all the involuntary personality changes called ‘senile dementias’ – this is associated with loss of memory, coordination, concentration, and intellectual capacities, not to mention increases in physical handicaps and pains. Do we have knowledge of disciples in these high age brackets who underwent the above mental deterioration and consequently are not able to meditate, concentrate or do Simran?

My question refers specifically to this sad period of ten, maybe twenty, years until the dear ones eventually die. How do their hungry souls receive the daily nourishment of the water and bread of life? During these years of utter helplessness, are they able to contact the Shabd? How?

SANT JI: Whenever you ask any question, before asking it, you should think about it thoroughly in your mind. Many times it happens that the person who is asking the question is not sure what he is really asking. Or sometimes, in our question, we ourselves answer it.

Master Kirpal, our Supreme Father, always said, “It is the Law of Nature that there is food for the hungry and water for the thirsty.” And Master Sawan Singh always said, “A person can progress in Sant Mat and take advantage of it regardless of his age. A person who is five years old and a person who is a hundred years old can take advantage of Sant Mat and progress in it.” If we have entered Sant Mat having the impression that we cannot realize God while living and we can only realize Him after death, can you find any other Path that will make you realize God while you are living? If you cannot do so in Sant Mat, you cannot do it in any other path. Saints always say that if you are illiterate while living, you cannot expect to get the degree of Bachelor, or Doctor, after death. If you have not contacted the Shabd while living, how can you expect to contact it after death? Saints always say that whatever you have to accomplish, you have to do that while living. Don't rely on the time which is going to come afterwards.

Always I have said that Sant Mat demands sacrifice; it demands hard work. Keeping our life and ideals high and pure, and working hard, no question arises why we should not progress on this Path. If we are keeping our living high, and if we are pure in our hearts, definitely we can succeed in this Path.

No one knows when his death is going to come. No one knows whether he will have to spend ten years suffering a lot of pain in his body, and then leave, or if he will lose his concentration and memory before dying. Nobody knows whether he is going to die in youth or old age, or whether it will take only a couple of minutes for him to leave the body in an accident. Nobody has any idea of his death. That is why we should never assume that we will die only after undergoing old age.

To think about weakness in old age is also a weakness of our mind. This is also a trick of the mind: by making us worry about all these weaknesses which people get in old age, our mind is keeping us away from Simran. Instead of thinking about old age and its weaknesses, we should do Simran, which can be some help to us.

Now I am coming to the question which was just asked. You know that when the Sant Satgurus give us Initiation, They sit within us in the form of Light and Sound. And They tell us how to start our journey from our toes, and how to come to the eye center. When we come to the eye center, the Shabd gets manifested there. After we have once manifested the Shabd within us, it never leaves us. No matter how old we become physically, that Shabd always remains young at the eye center, and it is always nourishing and sustaining us. Guru Nanak has said, “The Gurumukhs never become old.” Gurumukhs who have the Surat and knowledge within them never become old. Even though outwardly and physically their bodies may become very old, and they may not even have the power to move, still, once the Shabd is manifested within them, once they get the divine knowledge, their attention, their Surat, and the knowledge which they have got, always remains young and old age makes no difference to them.

I had the opportunity of having the darshan of Master Sawan Singh in His last days. Physically He was very weak, and He always needed somebody's support to move; but it depends upon your receptivity, it depends upon the feelings you are having when you are having the darshan of the Master. There were many people there who used to only look at the body of the Master; but since I had the opportunity to have His darshan, I would see in His forehead that the radiance of the power which He had was exactly the same as when he was young. There was no difference there.

In a way, the Gurumukhs become very old outwardly; physically they become weak, and they must suffer from many diseases. But internally the Surat, and the Divine Knowledge, is young in them. That is why, no matter how they behave outwardly, within they are always young, and are in their full senses.

Among the manmukhs, there is no difference between the child and the old one, because neither has the Divine Knowledge. Those who are plundered by the five dacoits – lust, anger, greed, attachment and egoism – and those who don't have any sense of their own Self, will you call them Gurumukhs? No. They are manmukhs and they don't have their Surat awakened. If they had Knowledge, or if they had the Surat awakened, then grace would have been showered on them, and they would have come to the Path of the Masters.

I have seen many old non-satsangis as well as many young non-satsangis who have lost their memories either because of old age or disease. Even in young people I have seen loss of memory; they don't remember who they are. I have also seen many Satsangis going through the same thing, but I have never found that they have felt any depression, because Shabd is always within them, always protecting them. They may be sick, and outwardly they may even lose their memory, but since the Shabd is within them they are always protected by the Master.

You cannot describe the glory of the Master. It is a matter of experience; only those on whom He is gracious can know about His glory. And it is a matter of faith; the more faith you have in Him, the more glory you can see of Him. Many times I have told the story of a boy who was my relative, who left the body at the young age of fourteen years. In those days in India the disease of smallpox was very severe, and many people used to die because of it. Nowadays it has been eradicated and it is gone from this country, but in those days it was very bad. So when he suffered from that smallpox, he became unconscious many days before he left the body, and he was in terrible pain. Whenever I would go near him, he would feel comfortable and he would tell me to sit with him. Whenever I would sit with him, he would say, "Before you came I was feeling as if insects were biting me and eating my body. And the pain which I am having I cannot describe. Besides, I see many evil faces, and they are frightening me. But when you come, all those things go away, and I feel comfortable."

I tried to take care of him as much as I could, and I loved him a lot. But you know that one has to attend the calls of Nature. So at one time when I had to go to the bathroom, he became a little bit conscious, and he told his mother about the pain. She was shocked and depressed because of the pain that her son was having, and in my absence she requested Supreme Father Kirpal, "O Lord, if this body is going to die, don't send him in a lower body of an animal. If he has to die, come and protect his soul, and take him back to the Real Home. This is my prayer to you because this boy has suffered a lot."

After some time, that boy became unconscious, and he was not able to tell his mother what he was experiencing, how Master was showering grace on him. But since that old lady had faith in the Master, she saw Master in a dream, and He told her, "The third day from now I will come to take your son. And before leaving, your son will ask for tea. He will have a cup of tea, and then leave."

That lady became very happy that the Master was going to come and protect the soul of her son. It happened just as He had said: on the third day, at about an hour before midnight, the boy came back into his consciousness and he told his mother to get some tea for him. The mother knew that now the time had come for him to leave the body. There were two other Satsangis of Master Kirpal in the same village, and at about eight o'clock, as they were going to sleep, they had had the experience of seeing Master's car coming there, and Master told them that He had come to take the soul of that boy. So both of them came to me and told me that they had seen Master and that very soon He would be coming to take the boy's soul.

So we were prepared for that. And at about eleven o'clock when that boy asked for tea, his mother knew that Master had come. She knew that he would not leave the body until he drank the tea, because Master had said that; so she wanted to delay and she started singing bhajans in the kitchen. But the son shouted and said, "Mother, if you will give me a spoon of tea, it's okay. If you don't want to give it, we will go without drinking the tea." So at once the mother brought the tea, and he drank it. And after drinking the tea, he shouted in a loud voice and put his hand on my chest and he left the body.

Now when his mother had had the experience in which she had seen Master Kirpal Singh, and Master Kirpal had told her that he was going to leave the body on the third day, Master had also told her that he had some more years to live in this world; He said,

“Once again he will be given human birth, and after ten or eleven months, you can go to a certain village and see a boy who will be born in a certain family and who will be the same soul as your son. For checking that, you will find a black mark on his left leg. He will not live there for a long time; he will spend some time there, and from there also he will leave the body and complete the cycle of births and deaths.” So when he left the body nobody wept for his departure, because everybody knew that Master had come and taken care of his soul. The family was criticized by the other people in the village – because you know that if anyone loses his young son, it is a matter of great sorrow, and people also feel that – and when the parents did not weep, people started talking about them. “Look at them, they are not even sorry to have lost their young son.”

But since they knew what the reality was, they did not weep. They were very grateful to Master Kirpal for coming to take care of their son. And after ten or eleven months, we checked and we found that a boy was born in the family Master had said, and we found that black mark on the left leg, and we were convinced. Those people did not know us, and they wanted to know how we knew that boy had the black mark, and how we knew that the boy was going to take birth on that date. So we told them the whole story; we didn't want to tell them the last part of it, but since they were interested, we told them, and after that we came back.

The point of this story is that Master always takes care of the souls of the disciples. Even if one is not initiated, but still if he has faith in Him, Master comes and takes care of that soul. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Masters always come into this world to protect the souls of the disciples.” If we have faith in Him, He will definitely come to take you and give you a better place.

Also Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that if you want to see the miracles of the Master, go and see any Satsangi dying. I have come across many incidents in life, especially in the army, when people get shot and don't have enough strength to go to the hospital by themselves. There is no one to attend them. In those places also, Master comes and protects people and even helps them get to the hospital. I have seen these things happening many times.

And even in that, many people are having experiences in which they have seen Master protecting the souls. In the last trip one dear one told everyone in the group the whole story of how Master Kirpal came to protect the soul of his mother.

She was an initiate. But we also get letters, and people come in the interviews and tell me about, non-initiates whose children are initiated, or who didn't have any faith in the Master: When their end time comes, they also have the Master coming there to take care of their souls.

By saying all these things I mean to say this: I would like to advise you, that you should not procrastinate or postpone your work of today until tomorrow. At least you should do today the work you are supposed to do. When you are supposed to meditate in the morning, you must meditate in the morning. Don't think, “We will do it in the afternoon or the evening.” That also is surrendering to your mind. I have said this many times: that it is worse to surrender than to be defeated.

When your mind tells you that you cannot realize God while living, at once you should make your mind sit for meditation. You should tell him, “Why can't you see God while living? You can see Him right now. Sit for meditation and you will see Him.” Master Kirpal always used to say: “What a man has done, a man can do.”

The Satsangi has seen God outwardly also. If he has faith in the Master outwardly, then he will see Master inwardly also.

Yesterday I gave the Satsang on the hymn which I just wrote just to explain to you that we are different from each other because God is not manifested within us. Just like ornaments which are called by different names, and have different shapes, but are all made of gold – in the same way, the difference between us and the Master is that within the Master God Almighty is manifested. There is no other difference between us and Him. We also have the same body as He does. The Master is the Pole through which the power of God is working, and in which the Power of God is manifested.

My father used to do many rites and rituals. He used to perform almost all religious acts according to the Sikh religion into which he was born. And whenever he would find me doing the devotion to God in my way, he would taunt me and say, “I will see what your devotion is going to do for me.” I always used to tell him, “Father, what you are doing is no good, and all those things are not going to help you at the time of death. My devotion may help you.” And then he would say, “Okay, we will see who is going to help who.” After I met Master Kirpal, I told my father firmly, “You will see that at the time of your death, my Master will come to take care of your soul.” And he would ask me, “Really? Really will he come to take my soul up?” And I would tell him, with firm determination, “I am sure that He will come to take your soul up.”

And it happened like that. Three days before he left the body he saw the forms of Baba Sawan Singh and Master Kirpal Singh. And he used to tell people how he was seeing two old men with white beards and white clothes, and that they were telling him to prepare for going on the higher journey. And he told almost all the people about his experience. I had told Master Kirpal, “Master, whether You give Your darshan to anyone or not is not my business. But at least You should give Your darshan to my father, because I have promised him that You will come to take him. So please have mercy on me and take care of his soul.” He was not an initiate, but still the Master has to take care of even the relatives of the Satsangis. As Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Even the birds and animals of the Satsangis are under the protection of the Master.”

So Satsangis should never have a weak heart. They should never think that they are weak, and they will not realize God in this lifetime. They should make their heart like iron; they should have a very solid heart. And they should have the firm determination that definitely they will realize God, because outwardly, you have got God; and in the inner Path He is waiting for you. You should rise above and go and see Him, you should be determined to see Him in this lifetime. You should never think that you will realize Him only in the next birth. You should have confidence, and you should work hard at that, at realizing God in this lifetime.

When Baba Bishan Das left the body, he was very old. And people used to joke with him and say, “Baba, you don't have many disciples. Who is going to serve you in your old age? You don't have even anyone who can give you a glass of water in your old age.”

Because you have left your sons, your family; and you don't have any disciples to take care of you.” He would always reply, “I don't need any disciples; I don't need anybody's seva, because I will catch the train while I am still in my senses.” He meant that he would leave the body when he was still able to function properly. Baba Sawan Singh had promised him that He would take his soul up, because Baba Bishan Das had perfected the first two planes, and he had reached the third plane; and Master Sawan Singh had told him that he did not need to do any further meditation, He would take him up right from there. It happened: Baba Bishan Das did not suffer any pains of old age and he left the body while he was still able to function properly.

Master Kirpal used to say, “Whatever demand you have, it is always supplied. Whatever desire you have, it is always fulfilled.” That is why he used to say, “There is food for every hungry person, and water for every thirsty person.” Whatever desire you have, that will always be fulfilled. If you have the desire of suffering the pains of old age, and lying in bed, and then expecting Master to come and take you up, it will definitely be fulfilled. As He can fulfill your desire to lift up the veil in your youth, he can also fulfill the desire of you lying in bed in the old age and then going up. So you should never have that desire of going to old age and then realizing God. You should always have the desire to lift your veil while you are still functioning properly, because whatever desire you will have, He will always fulfill that. So lovingly and very humbly, I am advising you that you should not have a weak heart. You should always have a strong determination that you have a great Master and He will come to take you. Before He comes to take you, you should rise above to the place where He is waiting for you.

1983 April: The Master's Answer to a Question on Children

Sant Ji's reply to this question is taken from a talk by Susan Dymont given upon her return from Rajasthan, on March 12, 1983.

QUESTION: I asked Him if He would give any advice which would be helpful for the parents of teenage children, that would be helpful for their good upbringing.

This is what He said:

SANT JI: I have said this very often, that it becomes the complete responsibility of the parents to make the lives of their children, because children are innocent souls and don't know anything about the world. They don't even know what is good for them or what is bad for them. They have not had any experience in the world or dealt with the people of the world. That is why they are ignorant and they know nothing about it. Since the parents have spent time in the world, they have gone through many experiences, they have been hurt or got happiness by dealing with the people in the world, and spent their lives through experience, they can teach the children those things which are based on their own experiences; and in that way they can make good lives for the children. It becomes the complete responsibility of the parent, as I said earlier, and all parents should understand their responsibility to bring their children up. If we are not giving the knowledge of goodness or badness to our children, if we are not teaching them to discriminate good and bad, it means that we are not attending to our responsibilities toward them.

I am very sorry to say that now in India also, Western culture is entering and you know that in the West, since parents do not understand their responsibilities towards their children, they do not give them adequate knowledge about many things, such as lust, and the use of drugs, etc. Because the parents are not paying enough attention to the teenage children, in the West it has been seen that young people start indulging in lust even before they know what lust really is. In the same way, they start using drugs and spoil their lives before knowing the consequences of it; or before knowing what the drugs really are. That is why, even though the West has progressed so much in technology and science and all those things, still there are many more people in the West in comparison to the people in the East or in India, who have spoiled their lives, who have gone crazy.

I have often told the story of Sheikh Farid and his mother. His mother understood her responsibility of making the life of Sheikh Farid, and that is why she gave him worldly knowledge as well as spiritual knowledge. And she played an important role in making His life. You will find in the history of many great men, that mothers have played an important role in making their life.

Children are the gift of God given to you. They are the precious jewels, precious wealth of the Master. That is why all parents should understand their responsibilities toward them and bring their children up in a good way, thinking that they are the gift given by God to them. You should teach them to remain faithful to the nation, to the country, and moreover, you should teach them how and why it is important to earn one's livelihood by honest means; and furthermore, you should give them the knowledge of Sant Mat, and you should tell them our duties as a human being towards God and His creation.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell a story about a person, a boy, who lived in His village, who became a very famous thief, a dacoit, in his later age. In his earlier age, when he was still young, whenever he would steal anything from his friends and bring it home, his parents used to appreciate that. Gradually he became a famous thief, and in the end, when he came to know that his parents were responsible for his misfortune, he hated them a lot.

Regarding his own children, Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say this very often in the Satsang, that his colleagues tried to inspire his children to drink wine and eat meat. But because His children had the Knowledge, having the guidance of their Master, and because of their good training, they did not touch wine and meat. So his colleagues told Baba Sawan Singh, "Your children are very strong. We tried our best, but your children are not ready to drink wine or eat meat." Baba Sawan Singh used to say that the children of one of his colleagues were mischievous because they were brought up in an environment where meat and wine were used in abundance. When those children grew up, they spent most of their time in jail.

In Rajasthan, there is a story of a boy who used to get appreciation from his mother when he brought her things he had stolen from other people. The day when he would bring very valuable things, his mother would make him very good food and love him more than any other day. And gradually, when he became older, he became a thief. And at the end, during a robbery, he murdered someone and because of it he was sentenced to death. Before he was going to be hanged, the people asked him if he had any last desire. He said, "Yes. I want to see my mother for the last time." His mother was brought into the jail, and he told her to bring her head closer to him so he could whisper something. When she did that, he cut her ear off, and said, “If you had told me in the beginning that it was not a good thing I was doing, it is possible that I would not have become a dacoit, and I would not have to see this day.”

We can give good teachings to our children only when we are cool-hearted, quiet and patient, and only if we have good character; because our good character also has a very good effect on the children.

Many parents have this impression: no matter what they do, it is acceptable, but that their children should become very good. That is not possible. Master Sawan Singh used to say, “If you want to make your children good, first you must make yourself good.” You improve your life, you become good; only then can you expect your children to become like you.

1983 September: Always Mind is the Obstacle

This question & answer session took place at Sant Bani Ashram, New Hampshire on May 2, 1977.

QUESTION: I guess I had a very good meditation. I felt I accomplished something . . . by ignoring the pain. I did have a hard time fixing my gaze, but I did what you told me to do.

SANT JI: Daily I am telling every Satsangi that if you bear the pain, even for a second, the pain will go away. The other thing I told you yesterday was to meditate with closed eyes. I also told you to meditate without moving. You have a good opportunity to develop your sitting practice. In this you could progress if you would give attention to sitting accurately. When the water in the ocean is still, the trees or the buildings which are on the seashore are clearly visible in the water of the sea. When that water is disturbed, whether by air or storms or other things, then we cannot see the reflection of trees or buildings in the water. The water, trees and buildings, everything is in the same place. But because the water is moving, we cannot see the reflection of trees and buildings there. Similarly the Light is still in everybody. When our bodies are moving because our thoughts are coming, we cannot have the darshan of that Light. If our sitting is accurate, then we can have the darshan of the Light and we can progress.

Always I am giving the example of the army: In the army it is taught that the gun, the target, and our body, all three should be in a straight line. We should also do the same: we should not move when we are sitting, and our target is the third eye, where we have to concentrate. If we see Light and we are moving, we lose the Light, and then we have to start again from the beginning. And again we have to give the same amount of time or more time sometimes, to gain the same concentration and see the Light again.

Now you can ask about meditation.

QUESTION: I felt sleepy at first so I concentrated on the Simran and became more awake and began to feel pain as I became more awake. I concentrated on the third eye and the pain went away . . .

SANT JI: Good. All the Satsangis should try the same thing daily so that the pain should go away.

QUESTION: I would like to say that I had the best meditation since initiation. And one step further, I had more understanding through practicing.

SANT JI: That's good. Progress more, because you have to travel a lot. All Satsangis should try because our journey is long and always mind is the obstacle. So all Satsangis should try to achieve their goal.

QUESTION: I had many thoughts about you. Is that all right?

SANT JI: Try to do Simran. Whatever I am telling you to do, it is good for you to do that. If you will do Simran, that means you are remembering me.

QUESTION: Later in the day, when we don't feel so tired, would it be better to sit cross-legged or to sit in a position where we don't feel pain?

SANT JI: It is good to sit in the cross-legged position. In India, people have the habit of sitting in the cross-legged position even if they are not sitting for meditation. That's why they can sit for four or five hours in one sitting – they develop the habit of sitting cross-legged and this habit proves very helpful for the Satsangi for doing meditation.

QUESTION: Is it permissible to do Simran while we're doing bhajan – repeat the charged words?

SANT JI: Yesterday I told you very clearly about Simran and bhajan. Simran is the Gurubhakti – devotion to the Guru, and it will take us only up to the stars, suns and Radiant Form of the Master. If we have not completed the course of Simran, the Sound, Shabd, which we are hearing will not pull us up.

In the earlier ages, Saints were initiating their disciples only into Simran. And when the disciple had perfected his Simran, after that he was given the initiation into Sound Current. But in that way, the disciples lost a lot. Because during the time the disciples were perfecting their Simran, either the Master was leaving the body, or the disciple left the body.

Kabir Sahib and Guru Nanak showered much grace on the souls, and since they came the souls have been given full initiation at one time. But coming at this point, we are confused. We are not giving enough importance to Simran. Simran is very important. Daily I am telling you that we should do Simran of such a type that we should not even be aware of whether we are doing Simran or not. Just as the worldly thoughts are coming in our mind without any effort, in the same way, instead of the worldly thoughts the Simran should always go on within us. Now we are forgetting Simran for many hours during the daytime. And when we remember, we do it for two or three minutes and then forget again.

Similarly, when we are sitting for meditation, then also our mind tries to make us forget the Simran. That's why when you are sitting for meditation, sit in the simran practice for three-quarters of the time, and one quarter of the time you should devote to Bhajan practice. When you are sitting for either Bhajan or Simran, then also the breathing is going on within you without any difficulty. You see, in the beginning, when you listen to the Sound Current, the worldly thoughts are also coming within you. That's why, even if you are listening to the Sound Current, it will not pull you up. So if you do constant Simran and perfect constant Simran, when you sit for bhajan practice you will not be aware of whether your Simran is going on or not. At that time also, instead of worldly thoughts, if anything comes within you it should be the Simran. Now, we are habituated to doing Simran with the tongue and that's why we are aware that we are doing Simran or that we are stopping Simran. Try to do Simran with the tongue of thought.

QUESTION: When I sit at home in meditation I have no pain. Now here at the ashram and with the Master, I have terrible pain in my legs. I don't understand it.

SANT JI: Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell this story in a very jolly mood: that once there was a man in the army and he killed thirty people of the opposite party. So he was given medals and he was given the title of the person who has killed thirty people. At the same time, there was one weaver. In India the weaver community are considered to be very backward and frightened people – they are always afraid of other people. So when the weaver heard that in his area one man had been given such a brave title, he also thought of doing the same thing. But he was very afraid of other people; he couldn't even kill one man. So he thought, “At least I should kill thirty of something.” So he killed thirty flies. Then he announced, “Now, in your area, there should be two people with the title – I also have killed thirty flies!”

So similarly, when we are sitting in our home, we can move, after ten minutes we can get up. Whatever we want to do we can do – we can scratch our body – because nobody is there to see us. But here, when we come in the battlefield, then we know how much power we have. Because here you are afraid that Sant Ji is looking at you, other people are looking at you, if you move what will Sant Ji think of you, what will other people think of you But here you cannot move. So here because you are not moving and you are told to sit still, it is natural that you should experience pain. The bravery of a soldier is known only when he comes in the battlefield.

Most of the people who went to Rajasthan had the same problem. They told me that at home they could sit for three hours, but here it was difficult for them to sit for one hour. That is because when they are sitting in their homes, they are not even aware of whether they are sleeping in meditation or whether they are scratching all the time. They are just looking at their watch, saying, “Yes, we have sat for three hours.” But they are not introspecting themselves, whether they were sleeping in meditation, whether they were scratching, etc. All Satsangis should think, “If I can sit for two hours in my home, then at least I should also sit for two hours or even more – for three hours.” Then we will know that he is a good meditator, he can sit long. Here, he is not to carry any extra burden.

The first time I went to see Baba Bishan Das, I asked him, “Show me God as soon as possible.” Then he told me to look at the sun, and said, “Go on looking at the sun constantly and tell me how long you can go on looking at it.” So when I had looked at the sun for two or three minutes I said, “I cannot look at it for longer because it is too bright.” So he told me, “You have to see thousands of suns like this. God is Light and God is even thousands of times brighter than this.”

I got much opportunity to fix my gaze in the army also, when I was working as a signal man. Nowadays there are the wireless systems, but at that time, we had to read the signals either with the help of the sun, in very strong sunlight, or at nighttime signals were given out through the lamp. People wore sunglasses to read the signals but I didn't. During the daytime we had to read the signals in the sunlight, and at nighttime the signals were read by the light of a lamp. And both lights were falling straight into the eyes. We had to fix our gaze constantly there without averting our gaze even for a minute – sometimes the message lasted twenty or thirty minutes. If we blinked our eyes even once, then also we could miss a lot of the message.

That was fixing the gaze outwardly. But here, we have to fix the gaze inwardly, with our eyes closed. If you move your gaze even for a second, to the right or left side, then you will also feel that you have lost a lot and you will not find much in your meditations. A Satsangi's gaze should not be affected. As soon as he closes his eyes, he should fix his gaze, and even if he is hearing many noises, if people are making noise, if bells are ringing – his gaze should not move. The dear ones who complain that people are making noise, that there is much noise and their mind is not becoming still there, this is because of the lack of their concentration. Those whose concentration is developed are not affected by noise or whatever is going on around them. They can even put in time for meditation when they are sitting in a large gathering of people.

Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Those who have achieved concentration, for them all places are secluded.” But if our mind is not still, even if we are sitting underground in a cave, then also whenever our attention goes toward mind, mind will take us out into the world.

Once people asked Master in Rajasthan to make underground caves to sit in for meditation. So Master replied, “There are many snakes lying in caves. The question is of stilling your mind.” So we should try to establish our concentration and not give any attention to the noise. We should not be aware of anyone sitting next to us.

QUESTION: At first I was puzzled by the phrase which Sant Ji used: “completing the course of Simran.” Based on what he said this morning, am I to assume that the course of Simran is completed when we reach the Radiant Form?

SANT JI: Yes. When we reach the Radiant Form of the Master, and when the habit is developed, after that the Simran will not stop, it will go on indefinitely. When the Radiant Form of the Master is manifested within us, it will talk with us just as we are talking now. And when the course of Simran is completed, after that when you sit for meditation one second is longer than it will take to reach the Radiant Form of the Master. Your attention will go right up and the pain which you have in your body will also go away. The teachings of the Master are not to give pain to your body daily, but they say: Understand what we are saying and do it, and then you will progress.

If we practice the abstinence which the Saints are telling us to do and if we do Simran, we can succeed very soon. One Mahatma says, “We have a tongue of our own, and the Saints have given us Simran without taking anything from us. So why are you not doing Simran?” So all Satsangis should try to complete the course of Simran as soon as possible and try to reach [Sach Khand].

QUESTION: Why didn't Master Kirpal usually say that we should learn to sit cross-legged, that it would be better?

SANT JI: That was His Will. [Laughs] Now you can go and ask Him, “Why didn't You tell us to sit cross-legged?” He was very gracious. He told us many things but we didn't listen to them. His way of demonstrating was different, and He thought that whenever the disciples would feel the lacking, they would start developing the sitting practice. And He knew also that someone who would speak directly and strictly would come after Him.

The same thing does not apply for everyone. In the month of August, which is the hottest month in India, once Master Kirpal was standing on the very hot floor and Master Sawan was retiring at that time. But He didn't go into the room to disturb Master Sawan to tell Him, "I have come for your darshan." Master Sawan Singh hadn't told him to go and stand there on the hot floor. This is on our side, we have to develop that love and devotion.

If all the Sangat of Master Sawan Singh had developed the same love as Master Kirpal had, all the Sangat would have become equal to Master Kirpal. Master Sawan Singh initiated 125,000 people, and among them, only one person, who was Master Kirpal Singh, was practically successful. Master Sawan Singh didn't tell Him to get up in the nighttime and go to the bank of the River Ravi and meditate there. But He was devoted and had the yearning that first of all he should manifest His Master within. In His home, when he was feeling sleepy sitting on comfortable cushions, then He went to River Ravi and meditated there.

This is our love. We have to think how we must please our Master, and how we have to manifest our Master and reach up to Him. If we are sitting on a chair and we are feeling sleepy, then we should sit in the cross-legged position. And if still sleep is bothering us, then you can stand and do Simran. And if you are still bothered, then you can do Simran while walking and doing other works. My purpose is only that you should appreciate the time and that you should succeed within.

QUESTION: Master, listening to the Sound Current is very difficult for me and I wondered if you could help me to find it.

SANT JI: You should give more attention to Simran. Your attention is coming down; you should try to still your attention between the two eyes. If our thoughts are scattered all over the world, outside the body, that's why we have trouble listening to the Sound Current.

QUESTION: As one of the aids in staying awake, you have not mentioned taking coffee. I find that helps me sometimes, but only for a short time. Is it better not to do that?

SANT JI: In Rajasthan, in our ashram, no one takes coffee or tea before meditation. I have spent my whole life in meditation and I have never drunk tea before sitting for meditation. I don't want anybody to be addicted to anything. If you can meditate after drinking coffee, I will not tell you to stop it. But I don't want to impose this thing on the Sangat: that they should drink coffee before sitting for meditation. I would like to advise everybody, that the time you are spending in drinking and making coffee, in that time you could travel a lot on your journey!

QUESTION: While we are working on perfecting our Simran, there are many things which we feel obligated to do – instruct our children, social interactions. Some things are easy to do while doing Simran, other things are far more difficult. And we tend to forget and our attention becomes more rooted in the activity. I often wonder, especially in the case of my children, is it wrong if I am not fulfilling my obligations to them by not doing things that I can't keep the Simran up with, like reading stories, and other activities. Is our first obligation to perfect our Simran and the Master will take care of the children, or whoever else we feel obligated to . . . is that so?

SANT JI: When you have to make calculations or if you have to decide any lawsuit if you are a judge, only at that time your mind is used there. Otherwise, reading stories, or doing any other work, your mind is unoccupied and you can do Simran. When you are taking care of the children, then also your mind is unoccupied. You introspect yourself very carefully: You will see that when you are dressing your children, or when you are making food for them, then also your mind is thinking some other thoughts.

Similarly, when you are telling stories, or reading a book, one part of your mind is thinking something else and never what you are doing. Only when you are doing calculations or when you are deciding a lawsuit if you are a judge, only then you have to take full help from your mind. Otherwise your mind is always vacant. You can easily do Simran doing your worldly work. There is no need to give up the obligations of work.

QUESTION: When I start to see, I think that you are there instead of Master, and I refuse to surrender.

SANT JI: Always I am telling you, the one who is connected with Him, will also connect you with Him. If you will surrender to me, I am also going to connect you with Hazur. This is one of the mind's tricks. Kabir Sahib says, "Guru is starting to go in the company of Sadhu, and Sadhu says worship the Guru." When we are going in the company of the Sadhu which is made by our Master, then Sadhu tells us, "It is practical and it has come in my experience that because you don't know the Master Power and I do, you come in my company and I will connect you." That's why Master used to say, "One who is connected is connecting. One who is disconnected, he will disconnect you." If you will obey me from outside and inside, you can progress very soon.

1983 October: The Essence of God

This question & answer session took place in Rajasthan, November 28, 1982.

QUESTION: I want to ask the Master if all the souls were created equal, or if there are some souls who are different, for example, like Kal?

SANT JI: All the souls have the same element in them. They are all the essence of the Almighty Lord. The origin of every soul is Sach Khand, and all the souls have separated from the Lord, and are entangled in this world of Maya.

QUESTION: Master, is it only due to good karma that one can transcend? Or is it enough for the disciple to leave all the worldly attachments in this world?

SANT JI: Karmas cannot liberate us, whether we do good karmas or bad karmas. If we do good karmas, we may come back into this world in a better position. If in one life we are poor but we have done good karmas, in the next lifetime we can come as a rich person. If we were living in a hut in our previous life but we have done good karmas, we may come back as a king in this lifetime. But we can never get liberation just by doing good karmas. If we do bad karmas, hell, and the cycle of 84 lakhs births and deaths, is ready for us.

QUESTION: Master, why have our souls been separated from Sach Khand?

SANT JI: The best answer to this is: if you go within, and ask this question there; that will be best. Swami Ji Maharaj has lovingly answered this question in his writing. He says that Sat Purush told the souls, “I have created the Negative Power knowingly. If the Negative Power had not been created, it would have been very difficult to keep the souls in control.” But when the souls, after getting separated from Almighty Lord, suffer in the realm of the Negative Power, and when they call for help from Sat Purush, Sat Purush comes in the form of the Saints and Mahatmas, and tells the souls to come back Home. After that, when the souls say, “What is the guarantee that once we are liberated from the clutches of Kal, you will not give us back to him?” the Sat Purush replies, “No. It came in the Will of the Lord that the souls were to be given to the Negative Power only once. The souls who will be brought back Home, will not be given back to Kal.”

I would like to advise you lovingly that since Anurag Sagar (The Ocean of Love), the book written by Kabir, has been published in English, you should read that. In that book, the differences between the Negative and the Positive Powers are explained, and it gives information on the various inner planes. Those who know English should read that book to the other people who don't know English, and when you do the Satsang, the group leader should read some parts of it in the Satsang.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, when one pays off all his karmas, then he dies?

SANT JI: [Sant Ji laughs.] We have three kinds of karma. One is kriyaman, or the present karma; the second is sanchit, or stored karma; and third is the pralabdha, or fate karma. Our soul is in this body because of our fate karma, and we get whatever we get in this lifetime according to our fate karma. Kriyaman are the karmas which we do in this life, in the present time, and sanchit are those stored karmas which we did not pay off in our previous life. Ever since we were separated from Almighty Lord, we have been creating karmas, and all the karmas which we did not pay off in previous lives are stored in the brahm. So if somehow in any life we pay off all the karma, then what Negative Power does is he gives us another birth because of the reaction of our Sanchit karmas. Then again we do the kriyaman karmas, and it goes on and on. So the cycle of karmas never comes to an end except by doing the meditation of Shabd Naam.

Suppose there is a farmer who grows some grain in his field; after six months when he has had a good crop he brings a lot of grain to his home. From the grains which he has produced, some of them are consumed by his family, and using some grain again he grows more grain, and after some time he brings back to his home a lot more grain. Sometimes because of the shortage of rain, or other causes, if he is not able to produce any grain, crop, what does he do? He produces more grains, using the stored grains. Or suppose if he had sold the grain and if he has kept the money in the bank, he will take the money out of the bank and buy some grain, which he will plant and grow more grain. So he is never left without any grain. In the same way, we are never left without any karma to pay off. Suppose, if somehow in any lifetime, we are able to square off all the pralabdha karmas, then Negative Power takes out some of our karmas from the sanchit karmas, and gives us another birth, in which we develop more karma and the cycle of karma starts again. The snare of the cycle of karma is so complicated that nobody can become free of the karmas if he is not doing the devotion of Shabd Naam. The stock of the sanchit karmas, even of the incarnates, never comes to an end. They also are incarnated in this world over and over again, only because of their sanchit karmas.

When the Perfect Satguru gives us Initiation, He tells us to be very careful about creating kriyaman karmas. He does not touch our pralabdh or fate karmas, but he finishes off all our sanchit karmas. He even helps us in suffering our fate karmas. That is why Swami Ji Maharaj says that if you want to finish your stored karmas, take refuge in the perfect Master.

QUESTION: At what moment does the soul incarnate in the body? Does it come into the body at the moment of birth? Or when it is conceived?

SANT JI: (Sant Ji laughs again.) It will need a lot of explanation to explain this thing very carefully to you. But I will try to explain it to you briefly. Ever since the body starts being created, the soul has already entered it. If the soul would enter the body only at the time of its birth, then there should be no activity, no motion, going on in the womb of the mother. You know that many times before the time is over, the baby moves a lot in the womb, and sometimes, if unfortunately the baby dies in the womb, that motion or activity comes to an end.

QUESTION: What is the difference between the free will of a person who is initiated and one who isn't?

SANT JI: Satsangis should give up their free will and they should always live in the will of the Master. Because the non-Satsangi is always living in his own will, so if the Satsangis also live in their own will, then tell me what is the difference between the Satsangi and the non-Satsangi?

You know that when I went on Tour, in every country I said only this: "I have no free will, I have no mission of my own. I have come to you only in the will of my Master. I have no message of my own: I am bringing the message of my Master." Only he who gives up his will and absorbs in the Master's will can be called a true Satsangi.

QUESTION: Master, some parents have asked me this question. It's about children, how they should raise them according to the teachings of the Path, and how they should cope with the religious teachings which they get in the schools. Sometimes they have found difficulties because the children who know about the Path and the Master, they have that in their homes; and then they go to school and get some religious teaching, and sometimes that creates some problems, and the children go away from the Path because they receive a different teaching. So how should that be dealt with?

SANT JI: It is a serious problem, and it is universal, because every parent has to face this, and it happens with every child. Parents are the ones who make the life of the children. If their foundation is made very strong, they can build their careers, their life, also very strong. So if from the very beginning the parents teach the principles of Sant Mat to the children very clearly, and if they make a very strong foundation by becoming an example to them, the children will not find it very difficult to face the world and the religious ideas when they go to school. And if the parents do not become careless after sending the children to school, but keep a close contact with the children, that may also help.

The best solution for this would be that if there are a group of Satsangis living in some city, if they can somehow start a group of Satsangi children; that can help a lot. This will help the children live according to the teachings of the Path. There are many Satsangi teachers who teach the non-Satsangi children; if they can be inspired to come inside the Ashram, or if they can form something like a school nearby the Ashram, where they can teach the Satsangi children, it will make a very bright future for the children.

In Canada in Kirpal Ashram, they have started a Satsangi school where the Satsangi children are getting benefit; at many places in America also, the dear ones have started schools. You already know about Sant Bani Ashram School, because it has been there for a long time and it is progressing. So like that, the dear ones in Colombia should put some attention in this direction, and they should also try to get together something like a school for the children.

In 1980 when I went on tour, they asked me and I had approved a school in Canada. And in other places in America also, they have started schools. I think that Dr. Molina should put some attention in this direction, and he should inspire the dear ones to form a school. This will be very good for the children: If they will study in the Satsangi school it will make their foundation very strong, and when they go to the universities and colleges, they will not have to face so many difficulties. It is very difficult for the small children, when they have to face the world, if they don't have a very strong foundation.

I hope that after this group, when the Board of Directors will meet, they will think about this, and try to do it. I am sure that if you will pay attention to it, you will become successful.

QUESTION: Master, when we do the meditation, we must be centered in the eye center. And which is the best way to do that?

SANT JI: When I make you sit for meditation, I always say that you should make your mind quiet. I even told you what was the meaning of making the mind quiet. Making the mind quiet means that you should not have any thought in your mind except the repetition of the Five Words. And your attention should always be at the eye center. Even when you are not meditating, you should have the awareness, your attention should be at the eye center. We have a deep connection with this place, since it is the seat of the mind.

QUESTION: Master, yesterday you were saying that only the Saints and Mahatmas are in connection with God when they transcend. But we haven't transcended and yet we are able to see God. And we are seeing Him now!

SANT JI: I am very glad to know that. Also I said, yesterday, that there is no difference between the Master and Almighty God. Kabir Sahib has said, "Our Beloved is very humble. Even though He is the Almighty One, He never calls Himself as a Saint." Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj says, "Almighty God Himself has taken the form of Sadhu."

QUESTION: Master, how can we teach the children who come to us from a home, for example, where the mother is a Satsangi but the father is not? How can we explain to them, and how can we make them have a strong foundation if we ourselves don't know about the Path? How can we make them understand and be firm on the Path if we ourselves don't understand?

SANT JI: I had said earlier that before asking any question, you should think about it. A Satsangi is given the complete information and knowledge of the Path, and he is expected to do all things which are mentioned in the Path.

QUESTION: Master, how strong should the parents be with their children? For example, if they are vegetarians but their children want to eat meat. Or in case of sickness, where the child is not initiated, and the doctors say that he should eat meat. Then what should they do?

SANT JI: Children are innocent souls, and you don't need to be strict with them; you only need to explain lovingly. You know that the proteins and the vitamins which we need for the growth of our body, we can get all those, a lot more from the vegetarian diet, than we may get from the non-vegetarian diet. Now many doctors recommend the vegetarian diet. Parents don't want to take any pain to explain the facts to their children. The children are innocent souls, and you need to give only a little bit of your attention to them and they will accept what you are explaining to them. If you sit down with them and explain lovingly to them the goodness of the vegetarian diet and the badness of the non-vegetarian diet, I do not see any reason why they will not follow you. But the thing is we know only how to become strict with them; we don't want to spend any of our time explaining the things to them. If the Satsangi parents are strong in their devotion to the Master, I guarantee that Satguru Power also helps them in this matter. We do not understand the sympathy which the Master has for us and our family. Many times He appears to children in their dreams or otherwise, and sometimes He is very strict in the dreams with the children, and sometimes he tells them not to eat meat because it is very bad for them.

Once a son of an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh was fed meat by some other person. In the night the person who had fed the meat to the Satsangi's son, had a very bad experience of Master Sawan Singh coming and choking him. He thought he was going to die. And at the same time the boy who had eaten meat was also given a very bad experience. The next morning, the man who had fed meat to the boy came to the Satsangi and requested forgiveness. And the boy also realized that it was not good for him to eat meat. So if the Satsangis are strong in their devotion, if they are doing their meditation wholeheartedly, then Master definitely points one or the other way to explain the facts to the children. Master is concerned for the Satsangis' children as well as for the Satsangis, and He always protects them.

1983 November: There is Only One Medicine

This question and answer session took place October 30, 1978, in Rajasthan.

QUESTION: It seems very clear to me from what little I know, that most of the Masters came directly down from Sach Khand. They were already perfected when They came down. Is there any example like our miserable selves, perfecting in this lifetime?

SANT JI: Always there are many souls who reach to the higher planes, the ultimate goal, even when Master is still in the body. But all their progress is hidden and they do not express that they have attained that goal. But no doubt there are many souls who attain the ultimate goal even when Master is still in the body.

What is the use of a teacher who cannot make his children pass the examination and go to the higher classes? In the lifetime of the Satguru, whatever initiates he makes go to the higher regions, if there are more, still for the Master they are less than He would wish. And still he has the desire to pass as many initiates as he can.

Many people get degrees from the same college and they all become professors. But only He can give the degrees who has been appointed by the authorities above. In the same way, there are many souls who reach the ultimate goal while Master is still in the body, but only he can make the other souls achieve that place, who gets the authorization from Master while Master is in the body. Not everyone can do that job until he is made by Master, even though they have attained the same position.

You people should not think that you will never succeed or you will never go to your real Home. Honestly I am telling you that those people who work honestly in that direction, definitely during this lifetime, they will succeed. Why don't we succeed? I have told you earlier that either we get caught up in sleep, or we become the slave of laziness, or we become slaves of lust. Lust is so bad for the Satsangi that it reacts very badly on both the worldly and spiritual progress of the Satsangi. It hurts so badly that the light of the unchaste man goes away and he is not able to do the meditation of Shabd Naam. And the other thing is: if we meditate for two days, after that, the mind has one more trick, and that is to create the feeling of hurry within us. And this is my personal experience: the unchaste man can never look into the eyes of the Holy Man. Whenever the holy man will look at the unchaste person, right at that time he will start looking below, and will not be able to look into the eyes; because at that time he is feeling his weakness. I have seen many people who enjoy lust, and after enjoying lust they realize that it was a very bad thing for them to do. So then they swear, make promises, that they will not do that again. But again their mind comes to them, and makes them do that act again; again they make promises but after a few days, again their mind comes there and again they indulge in lust. And in that way, they spend all their lifetime in making promises and again obeying their mind; but they don't get anywhere because they don't abstain from lust. Kabir Sahib has said, "Where there is Naam, Kam cannot come, and where there is lust, Naam cannot come." Just as day and night cannot come together at one place at one time, in the same way, lust and Naam cannot be manifested at one place at the same time.

QUESTION: I wish I could remember all the tricks of the mind!

SANT JI: [Laughing] If we have any enemy coming from outside, we can do something to prevent him. But if there is any enemy coming from within, we cannot help it. There is only one medicine for this mind. Kabir Sahib has likened the mind to a moth: The mind/moth, after drinking the mercury of Naam, becomes useless and cannot do anything of his own.

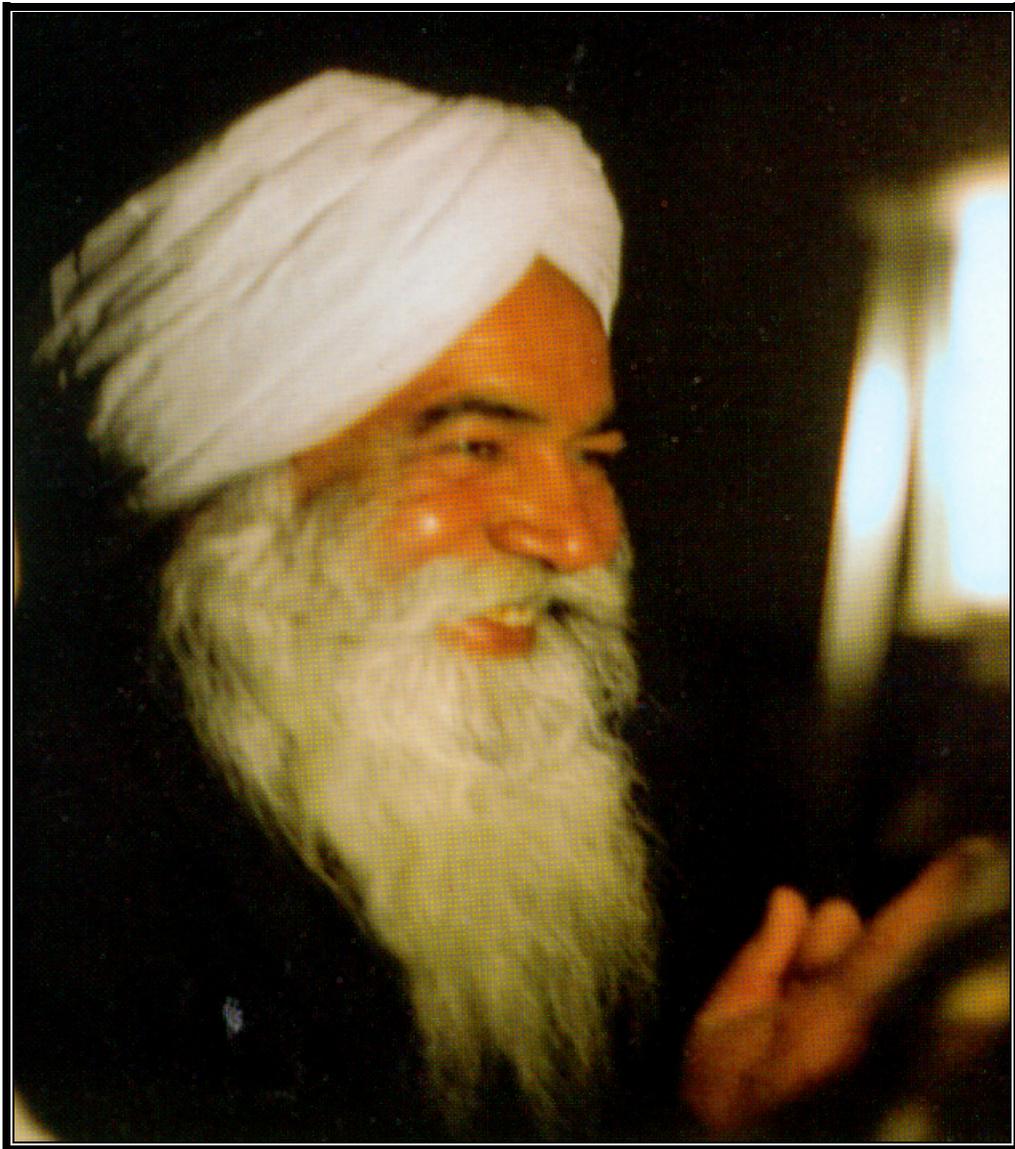

Those people who catch moths, they give some mercury to the moth and after that the moth doesn't die, and he even moves, but he cannot do anything of his own. He isn't as active as he was before drinking the mercury. In the same way, if you make your mind drink the nectar of Naam, after that, your mind won't have any place else to go. He won't die, after drinking the nectar of Naam, but he will come under your control, and whatever you make him do, he will do that. He won't be able to do anything on his own. He will always remain attached to Naam and he won't find any other place to go except to the Naam. Guru Nanak Sahib says, "We have dominated over the mind, by the Name of Ram." You should do that. Why are you waiting for anything else?

QUESTION: In 1977, at Sant Bani, the Master said that time spent in isolation is counted as one half of meditation. I want to know if he could elaborate on this.

SANT JI: By isolation I do not mean that you have to give up your worldly things and go to the forest, and that you have to completely cut off from the world. I mean to say that you have to keep your mind isolated from the world.

Guru Nanak Sahib has said, “For him whose mind is still, everywhere is seclusion.” You have to still your mind. It is true that I have spent eighteen years in meditation according to the instructions of Baba Bishan Das, sitting underground. And after that, for seven years, according to the instructions of Master, I did the meditation there [underground]. At that time, I did not feel any responsibilities to go out into the world and do worldly things. And moreover, I had only one sevadar with me. But to sit underground isolated is very difficult, because within us is the mind and there also he makes many noises. The Mahatmas who have struggled with the mind know that while sitting underground in a cave, still the mind is keeping in touch with all the world outside.

The Light Of Ajaib

Questions and Answers from Sant Bani Magazine

Volume 2: 1984 – 1988

Volume 2: Table Of Contents

1984.....	5
1984 January: Shot By the Bullet of Love.....	5
1984 March: The Reality of the Mind	10
1984 April: On Fear and Love	15
1984 May: A Million Times a Day.....	22
1984 June: The UPI Interview	29
1984 July: Questions and Answers from ‘Support For The Shaken Sangat’	30
1984 July: The Power of Purity	34
1984 December: When the Soul Cries for God	38
1985.....	45
1985 February: To Save His Souls	45
1985 March: On Raising Strong Vegetarians	50
1985 May: Beyond Hell and Heaven.....	55
1985 September: Faster than a Bullet.....	60
1985 October: The Reality of the Saints.....	67
1985 November: The Master Cares For You.....	74
1985 December: The Philosophy of Karma.....	80
1985 December: On the Grace of the Master	87
1986.....	95
1986 February: The Means of Receiving Grace.....	95
1986 March: The Different Kinds of Simran.....	100
1986 April: The Suffering of the Soul	104
1986 May: Faith is the Victory	110
1986 June: The Traps of the Negative Power.....	116
1986 June: The Pearls of Spirituality.....	123
1986 July/August: In the Hands of Kirpal	129
1986 November: The Example of the Fly.....	135
1986 December: In the Will of Master Kirpal	139
1987.....	145
1987 January: The Meditation of the Saints	145
1987 March: The Awakening of Our Love.....	149
1987 June: The Land of Karma	153
1987 August: No New Faith, Mind That!	159
1987 August: Trapped In His Love	172
1987 September: On Parents and Children.....	177
1987 October: On Faith In The Master.....	183
1987 October: Meditation is the Only Means of Receiving Grace.....	186
1987 November: Fortunate Are the Real Lovers.....	193
1987 December: If You Love Your Master.....	200
1988.....	206
1988 March: On Marriage and Karma.....	206
1988 April: Satsangis Should Become Strong.....	210
1988 May: The Fruit of Simran	213
1988 June: The Path of Doing	220

1988 August: On Helping Others	226
1988 September: When You Recognize Your Friend	232
1988 October: If We Have the Yearning	238
1988 November: To Be Steadfast on the Path	243

1984

1984 January: Shot By the Bullet of Love

A question and answer session given on November 2, 1983 in Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, Kirpal Singh was a very familiar figure at the Dera of Sawan Singh, and I was wondering if you ever saw Him there when you were visiting Sawan Singh, when Sawan Singh was alive?

SANT JI: It is possible that I may have seen Him sometime when I was going there, but I did not meet Him anytime personally and I did not have any communication with Him; I didn't know Him, that He was Kirpal Singh, and He didn't know at that time that I was Ajaib Singh. Even my meeting with Baba Somanath was done by Baba Sawan Singh.

QUESTION: Master, our four-year-old son sometimes wants to sit and meditate with me and when he does he says that he sees snakes and monsters inside and I don't know if it's his imagination or if it's true but should our children wait until they're initiated before they meditate with us?

SANT JI: We should always tell our children about the Master and the love of the Master. And if we pay attention to them and tell them things about the Master, about how much Master loves them and how kind and gracious our Master is, then the children will never complain about seeing snakes and monsters in their meditation. They will report that they are seeing the Master and they will even say that Master was sitting with them all during the time of their meditation. Many times it is seen that the parents are not able to open their inner vision whereas the children have already connected with the Master within.

I had adopted a boy in Kunichuck Ashram and since I used to live on the second floor as I do here, he also used to live with me. Every night whenever he wanted to go and urinate he had to come down, because there was no provision upstairs to go to the bathroom. And he would always complain that he was afraid of the dark night, because there was no electricity there. He used to imitate me in sitting for meditation and I used to tell him stories about Master Kirpal, and I used to tell him that he should not be afraid of anything because Master was always with him. No power could attack him and no power could destroy him if he would remember the form of the Master. He was very fond of Master Kirpal. He was very interested in listening to the stories of Master. So many times he would say that in the nighttime he saw Master Kirpal, and he used to tell beautiful dreams about Master Kirpal. After some time he stopped going downstairs for going to the bathroom; instead he started urinating in the rainwater pipe. When I asked him why he was doing that, he told me that Master Kirpal had told him that there was no need to go downstairs, he could use that rainwater pipe for urinating. And when a person says that he has been instructed by Master Kirpal to do that, how can I tell him no? So he continued doing that. As a result that rainwater pipe became very dirty.

After some time when Master Kirpal came there and was visiting the house, He was taking a walk on the roof and He had to go to use the bathroom which was in one corner, and just outside the bathroom was that rainwater pipe which that boy had made dirty. So Master Kirpal asked me who had made that rainwater pipe dirty. I told Him that he was the same boy whom He had given the order to use it. When I told Him the whole story He was very pleased and He loved and caressed that boy very much. So I mean to say that when we tell good stories about Master to the children, they develop such a remembrance of the Master within, in their mind, that every time they sleep or whenever they sit for meditation they always see the Master.

In the family you should tell the children good loving stories regarding the love of the Master, regarding the sympathy of the Master, and when you will tell the children all these good things about the Master you will find that they will receive Master's protection. Many times the children have to go out of their house into the dark night, or to some strange place. But if children have love and faith in the Master and remember the Master, if you have told them about the Master, if they will remember the Master you will find that Master has protected them even in the place where nobody else can go and help them.

There was a boy of Sangrana, which is about two miles away from 77RB, who somehow one day went to 77RB for some unknown reason. When he realized that he was in 77RB he became afraid because he had to get back to his home before it got too dark. But it was already dark, so he became very afraid. He started walking back to his village, but because it was a very dark night he was very afraid and he could not walk. So in that state of fear he sat down in one place. On that night we were leaving 77RB to go to 16PS. We had already transported all the things from the ashram to this ashram so we were coming by car. When he saw the headlights of the car he became still more afraid because he did not know what that light was and he was thinking that maybe that light would kill him, because he was very young and he did not have anybody with him, and also it was a very dark night. Suddenly an old man appeared to him and told him, "Don't worry, my child, I am with you. Just wait until this car gets here and I will make arrangements for you to sit in this car and the car will take you near your home." When our car got near that boy, somehow Master made us stop the car and that boy was in our car after that. When he got in the car I started talking with him, because I knew that it was all Master Kirpal's grace that he had been protected, and it was only because of Master Kirpal's grace that this boy was sitting in the car and we were taking him to his village. That boy told me that he had been very afraid and an old man had come there and because of his help he was able to sit in the car. So I asked him if he recognized that old man. He replied, "No, but he suddenly appeared there. When I was afraid he was there and he told me not to worry." Since I knew who he was, I did not think it was wise to talk more because that boy was not of any satsangi family; his family used to come to the satsang but they were not initiated. So just imagine, he was not a satsangi, his parents were not satsangis, but still Master came there to protect that child: because Master is all gracious. In 77RB where I used to live, in many instances Master Kirpal appeared to people to show them the Path and where he was residing at that time. In that area it was a common experience for many people to have the darshan of beloved Master Kirpal. So I mean to say that when we tell good stories about the Master, about the love and sympathy of the Master, to the children, they start remembering the Master and as a result they always find Him guiding them and they always find His protection over their head.

The satsangis are lacking here; that is why they do not tell their children the stories of the Master; they do not talk about the love of the Master in the family. That is why the children do not know much about the Master unless they become old enough to go and meet the Master personally. So if we were to tell our children good stories and good things about the Master, about our outer experiences with the Master, then they would also develop the same love for the Master as we have and in many cases it is found that they receive more grace than we do.

Not only does Master protect our children, but He also protects every satsangi. He does not care about His own life but He cares about the life of the satsangi. But it is a matter of understanding. Many times we do not understand how Master has protected us, because many times He Himself appears but many times He helps us through other people. But we people lack in understanding and we do not always realize and appreciate the protection of the Master.

When the Bagga family moved to Canada, it was a new thing for them since they had never traveled so far. Many people had told them it would be very difficult for them to face the immigration officers and moreover since it is such a long journey it would be very difficult for them because they didn't know whom they would meet and all that. So they were somewhat afraid, but since they had so much faith in the Master when they reached safely and happily to their destination Hiralal, the head of the family, sent me a tape saying, "You say that Saints do not perform any miracles but how can I believe that when I have seen this miracle happening in front of my own eyes? All along the journey Master was with me and everywhere He protected me, everywhere He came to help me and He rescued me. So how can I believe that Masters do not perform any miracles?" So I mean to say that those who have so much faith in the Master, they say that Master appeared to them whenever the help was required.

The main thing which Hiralal sent in his taped message was, "You say that Saints do not perform any miracles, but I say that there is nothing else Saints do except performing miracles." But Saints do not glorify their own selves; they always say, "It is all the grace of our Master." They give all the credit to their Master.

So I hope that all those who have children will teach their children about the love and sympathy of the Master.

QUESTION: Since we're your children will you tell us a sweet love story of Master Kirpal?

SANT JI: You should read Sant Bani Magazine because I think that every issue is full of the beautiful love stories of Master Kirpal – Who Master Kirpal was and how he came into this world to shower grace. Whatever I say in the Satsangs is like telling stories of Master Kirpal, and the new bhajans which I have written are all like stories of Master Kirpal because they are written in the glory, in the praise of Master Kirpal. All the bhajans indicate that one cannot describe the glory of his Master in His full capacity because this is a matter of experience. Even though Saints and Mahatmas have tried their best and have written so many books, so many poems and so many bhajans to describe the glory of their Master and to sing the praise of their Master, unless we go within we cannot realize what our Master really is; we cannot know the real value of our Master.

In the new bhajans I have tried to tell more about the blessings and the grace received by this poor soul from Master Kirpal. And in all the bhajans I have tried to describe this poor soul as the suffering one. I have said that I am the suffering one, and I am being tormented by the pain of separation; will You not shower Your grace and lift the pain of separation from this suffering soul? In all the bhajans I have always tried to express the sufferings and pains which a disciple has after the separation of the Master. That Almighty Lord, that Living God, that Param Sant was in the control of the Perfect Master Kirpal, and since He had so much faith in this poor soul He gave that Living God which was under His control to this poor soul and now day or night whether I am asleep or awake I am always singing and telling the stories of that Great Master. All the cells of my body are singing the praises and telling the stories of that Perfect Master Kirpal. And still the stories are not stopping; they are unending.

I hope that when you will fully understand the meaning of these bhajans, the love for the Master will awaken within you to such an extent which will be beyond your imagination, because these bhajans are full of love for the Master and full of humility.

Supreme Father Master Kirpal used to say to develop humility within you because God Almighty loves humility. He always respects those who are humble. God is the All-Owner, but still the Saints, the Masters, those who have come in this world with the order of Almighty Lord, are higher than God. You might ask that since God is the owner of all creation, who could be higher than Him? But this is a fact, that Saints who have come in this world in the will of God are higher than Almighty Lord. If anyone is punished by God, Saints can forgive that person because Saints have come in this world in the will of God as the loving children of God. Bhagat Namdev Ji says that if there is anyone who is punished by God, the Saint can forgive that person, but if any devotee of God binds Almighty God in the chains of their love there is no one who can relieve God. Saints are the dear children of God, and whatever they want, God will do for them.

QUESTION: Could Master talk about when we come and spend these ten days with Him? Could He talk about the effect on our souls? I've heard that it . . . like when you're initiated and He takes away all your sins.

SANT JI: This is a matter of great understanding. Kabir Sahib has said, "One moment of Lord Indra is worth more than twelve years of sitting by a well; in the same way one moment spent in the company of the living Master is worth more than doing Simran for fifty years sitting in your home." If a well supplies water for twelve years it cannot give as much water as Lord Indra, the Lord of Rain, can do in one moment. In the same way, the benefit which we get by just one moment's company of the living Master is more than the benefit we would get of doing Simran sitting in our homes for fifty years.

Further Kabir Sahib has said, "When you go to see a Sadhu, don't take anyone along with you. Don't worry about what is going to happen next, and don't worry about anything which has happened in the past." Once you have started going towards the Master, towards the Saint, you should go on doing it.

At another place Kabir Sahib has said we should not give up the company of the Saint and we should try to follow His Path, because as soon as He looks at us He makes us pure and when we spend time in His company He makes us meditate on Naam.

Those who have been benefited by the company of the living Master, what do they say? Kabir Sahib says, "Whatever I have achieved is not because of my reading, writing or doing other practices. I have achieved all these things because of the Satsang, because of the company of the living Master.” Kabir Sahib had a lot of knowledge. He knew all the four Vedas, but still he says, “I did not achieve all that I have accomplished by reading or writing. Everything which I have achieved is because of the Satsang.” One moment, even half a moment or even half of a half moment, whatever time you spend in the company of the Sadhu, Kabir says that that will cut millions of your sins.

Guru Nanak Sahib says that living without the company of the Sadhu is useless.

We pay off a lot of our karmas, a lot of our sins, just by having the darshan of the Sadhu. When we sit in front of Him, whatever He speaks from His mouth, whatever sweet words He speaks are good for us; they are like advice. We come to know about the benefit of all these things only when we go back to the real Home. But then we repent and say, “If we had known that the company of the living Master was so valuable, we would have done it always.”

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that God is not unjust. If we spend money in a bad cause or if we spend time in a bad cause it is counted as our bad karma, bad deed. In the same way if we have spent money for a good cause or time in a good cause, it will be counted as our good deed.

I say this to every dear one: You have got this opportunity of making this holy trip because of a lot of grace of Almighty God and you should never forget this holy trip; because in this holy trip you come to see a person who has real sympathy for you.

Yesterday also I talked about the company of the Living Master, about the Satsang, the company of good people, and today also I said a lot about spending time in the company of the Living Master. As we need food, and as the Naam is the food and water of our life, in the same way the Satsang also serves as the water of our life. If we do not spend time in the Satsang, if we do not have Satsang in our life, we cannot get the inspiration to do the meditation and we can never do the meditation of Shabd Naam. Satsang is like the fence to protect our meditation. If we do not go to the Satsang, if we do not spend time in the company of the Living Master, we can never know whether we are doing right or wrong.

Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Brother, listen to me. I will sing the praise and the qualities of the company of the Sadhu. By going in the company of the Sadhu you become free from all kinds of dirt and become pure.”

Once in Sant Bani Ashram I commented on Kabir Sahib’s hymn in which he started from one minute without the company of the Master and went on increasing up to one year, and then finally he said that if one does not have the darshan of the Master at least once a year the connection between him and the Master is cut off. Guru Nanak Sahib has said, “I do not get satisfied even after seeing the body of my Master always. The body where Almighty Lord is manifested, the glory of it cannot be described in any words.” Guru Nanak Sahib says, “He by seeing whom we get liberated, how can one sing His praise?”

So I always say that you should never forget this holy trip. You should always go on praying to Almighty Lord, to the Master, that He may give you another opportunity to come here.

Those who get the interest from having the darshan of the Master, they cannot be stopped by anyone. Master Sawan Singh used to say that those who are shot by the bullet of love they do not remain useful for their homes, for their families. They throw away all the account books and they will not deal with any business.

1984 March: The Reality of the Mind

This darshan session took place at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, on Christmas Day, 1983.

QUESTION: If we sit at the table with a person who is eating meat, do we contract their karma?

SANT JI: It has been many years since Sant Bani Magazine has been being published, and most of such questions have been asked many times, and the answers have been published in the magazine. First of all you should try to read the magazine very carefully so that you can find the answers to such questions in it.¹

A satsangi should take special care as far as eating is concerned. If the food which he is eating is pure, that will make his thoughts pure. When the thoughts become pure, then the mind will become pure, and when the mind becomes pure, this will have a good effect on our soul.

QUESTION: This year and last year, as I come closer and closer to you here, at the same time strange thoughts – very bizarre thoughts – come up in my mind, and I beg your forgiveness, and I don't know what to do. I mean, the more Simran I say, the more they come up.

SANT JI: Yesterday I gave the Satsang; if you had paid a little bit more attention to the Satsang I gave yesterday, you would have gotten the answer to your question there. I said that when we do not do meditation, our mind misleads our soul, and he creates the desires, and he creates such things within us that take us away from the meditation. Mind does not want us to do the meditation, because he knows that when we sit for meditation, he will have to be imprisoned. And he is afraid of that, so he creates desires, and he creates such things that keep us involved. I also said that as the mind does his duty well, as he is obeying his master very well, in the same way, why do we not obey our Master?

Do you think that God, Who has sent us into this world, is not worried for us? He is definitely more worried than we are for our own selves. And He is protecting us, He is taking care of us. Those who say that they are taking care of themselves, they are under a grand delusion, and they are ignorant ones. The Mahatmas who go in the higher planes, and those whose eyes are opened, they have seen God working and protecting them. That is why they have always said that it is God Who is helping us, it is God Who is protecting and nourishing us.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that pains and happiness, sickness and good health, riches and poverty, are the six things which are written in our fate; and we have come into this world after getting these six things written in our fate.

¹ See Sant Bani, Vol. 1, No. 7. January 1977, pp. 19-20

When were they written in our fate? They were written in our fate even before our body was created. Tulsi Sahib also says, “Before the body is created, the pralabdh karmas are written in the fate of the person.” This is an unbelievable thing, and the mind does not understand it. Why not divert the direction of such desires towards the Naam, the Master? Whenever the mind creates any kind of desire, any kind of thought in you, why not change it for the desire or thought of the Master?

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “If you have more desires, you are poorer.” Those who have more desires are the poorest ones. And desire is such a thing that cannot be satisfied, cannot be fulfilled. Mind creates the desire for collecting a hundred thousand, and after that is fulfilled he creates one more desire of collecting two hundred thousand. So it goes on and on, and the mind is never satisfied, no matter how many desires are fulfilled. So that is why Masters say, “Why not spend that time in doing the devotion of the Satguru, the time which you are spending in fantasy about your desires, because even if you fulfill one or two of your desires, the mind will continue to create more desires within you and you will never be fully satisfied. Desire is such a weapon created by mind, that he does not have to give anything to the person: but he always keeps him wanting things without giving him anything practically.

I do not mean to say that you should not desire for anything and sit idle. Whenever you have any desire, work for it, as far as the path of spirituality is concerned. He who only desires things and does not work for them, never becomes successful. But if you desire the Master, desire meditation, and at the same time, you work for it, you become successful. Once Prophet Mohammed was giving Satsang to his disciples, and he was commenting on the same subject of desires. He was saying that no matter how much we desire, we will get only what is written in our fate; since everything is done by Almighty God, He is the only One who can do anything and can cause things to happen. So no matter how many desires we have, they are not going to accomplish anything, unless it is written in our fate, and unless God is gracious on us.

When he was saying that, one of his lazy disciples who had the duty of taking care of the camels, thought in his mind, “When Master is saying that everything is done by God, why should I work in taking care of the camels, why should I tie their legs and protect them? When everything is being done by God, and our desires, our working, will not do anything, then why not just relax, and not worry about the camels?” So he stood up and asked Prophet Mohammed, “Master, when you say that everything is done by God, and our efforts, our desires will not do anything, then why should I work hard tying the legs of the camels? Why should I stay up all night protecting the camels?”

Prophet Mohammed said, “No, that is not correct. It is your duty; you have been given this responsibility to take care of the camels, so you have to tie their legs, you have to stay up all night, you have to protect them. But if after making your effort, still something goes wrong, then you should understand that it is in the will of God.

Once a villager came to Baba Bishan Das, and I was also sitting there. He told Baba Bishan Das that his mind was bothering him very much by creating many desires. So Baba Bishan Das replied, “Dear one, the mind is like a lapot conch.” Lapot means such a thing that does not give anything, but it does not say, “I will not give you”; it goes on increasing the desire. So I said, “Well, I have heard about this lapot conch many times, but you should clarify this to me; tell me the story behind it.” So Baba Bishan Das told me this story:

“There was one devotee of the Lord, who did devotion for many years and God became pleased with him. So God asked him what he wanted. He replied, “Oh Lord, whatever you give me, I will be content with that.” So God gave him one conch, and he told him, “Whenever you want anything, just blow the conch, and ask for the thing, and you will be given that – whether it is food, cloth, money, or anything.” So the devotee took that conch, and while he was coming back to his home, on the way he had to spend the night at some villager’s house, and when he went there the householders welcomed him as a great mahatma because he had done so many devotions. So he took a bath and the villagers offered him some food. But he said, “No, I don’t want anything because I have a conch, which will give me everything; you don’t need to make any food for me.” So while they were watching, the devotee of God blew that conch, asked the conch, and the food was there. So that householder was very surprised and he thought of stealing it.

So the next morning, when that devotee of God woke up, he did not find his conch there because the householder had stolen it. So he said, “Dear one, I left my conch here last night, but I cannot find it. Have you seen it?” The householder said, “No, Mahatma Ji, I have not seen your conch, I swear by God.” Now that mahatma knew that the householder had taken the conch, but he could not do anything about it. So he left that home disappointed, and he again went to that place where he was doing his devotion. He again sat for meditation, and after so many years, God again became pleased with him and again asked him what he wanted. He said, “Lord, you gave me the conch last time and that was stolen by one householder, with whom I spent one night. Now you should give me something so that I can get that conch back. So God told him, “Okay, this time I am giving you another conch which will neither give you anything, nor take anything from you, but will always keep you busy. If you ask for one hundred rupees, he’ll say, “Okay, I’ll give you two hundred.” But he will not give it to you. He will just go on increasing your desire. So you take this conch and replace it with the conch you had lost at that householders.” So that mahatma took that conch. and went to that same householder.

Now that family because of that other conch had become very rich because it was working very well. Whatever they wanted it would give them. So they thought that this time the mahatma would have brought an even better conch so they welcomed him and after serving him they asked him, “Mahatma Ji, do you need anything? Any food or anything?” He replied, “No, I don’t need anything because I have a conch which is much better than the last one. and I’ll be satisfied with that.” So while they were sitting he blew the conch and he asked for one hundred rupees; a voice came and said, “Okay, you take two hundred rupees.” But there were no rupees. It was only saying. So he said “Okay, if you are giving me two hundred, give me four hundred.” So he said “Okay if you want four hundred, I will give you eight hundred.” So it went on increasing and increasing up to the millions but there was no money in sight, it was only in words. So the householder thought, “Well, this is a much better conch.” So he took that conch, and left the previous one there. Next morning that mahatma woke up and he took his original conch, and he went away. Now this householder wanted to collect as much wealth as possible and as soon as possible so he blew that conch and asked for money. He asked for one thousand and the voice said, “Okay, you take two thousand.” So he asked for four thousand and it went on increasing and increasing, and after one hour he said, “Well, conch, you are not giving me anything. You are only increasing. It said in words, “Well I am Lapot conch. Lapot means that I will not give you anything but I will always assure you that I will give you.”

So our mind is like that Lapot conch. He does not give us anything. He only increases our desire. And why let our mind play such a trick on us? We should always understand this, that God has given us this life, that He is our protector and He takes care of us; so instead of having desires for worldly things we should spend that much time in remembering God, in doing the devotion of God, because God is within us. He knows about our every single need, and before we ask for it He always provides it. So why not spend that time in doing meditation and give up all desires?

You already know about my life: When I first met Master Kirpal, I told Him, “Master, My brain and heart are empty and I don’t know what to ask from you and what to tell you.” And Master replied, “I have come five hundred kilometers only looking at your empty brain and heart because there are many people around me whose brains and hearts are filled with desires and worldly things. I have come here only because I have seen that yours are empty.” So when He saw the place empty within me He came to shower His grace. It does not mean that since I was empty He did not give me anything. He filled me to overflowing. He gave me everything. He told me to do meditation. And I made that order of His an important part of my life, and because of that I became successful.

He Whose devotion we are doing, in Whose remembrance we are sitting, He inspires us to work hard. Along with that He protects us. He always puts His hand on our back and He is always nourishing us. Bulleh Shah, a Sufi Saint, has said that after coming to the door of the Master we should learn this: Our God is the giver of everything, but we are misers for doing the Seva.

A miser is he who has so much wealth everywhere but he does not want to spend any money. Even if you ask him, he would rather give his life before he will give any money. Such a person is called a miser. Our condition is also like that miser because even though we have everything, still we are misers for doing the remembrance of God. We are misers to do the Simran. But Guru Nanak Sahib says that we should fill up our treasure-house with the treasures of divinity and we should salute the perfect Master because whatever meditation we are doing, whatever Simran we are doing, we are collecting that treasure, and it is all being deposited with our Master. And He is preserving it and protecting it for us, and He will give us that wealth as well as His own wealth.

Kabir was born in a very poor family. Along with doing His devotion with a lot of faith and love for Almighty God, He used to do the work of weaving cloth. In those days they didn’t pay a lot of money for weaving cloth, but still Kabir was content with whatever He would earn; and of course He had faith in Almighty God. He knew that whenever the truth is manifested in this world, it is always opposed. So in Kashi the people who used to oppose Kabir Sahib once sent letters to the people living very far and near saying, “In Kabir’s home there is a Yajna and all of you are invited.” Kabir did not know about that and on that fixed date, all of the invited people came to have a feast at Kabir’s home and He was very surprised to see them all. Loi, who used to serve Kabir Sahib, was very surprised and was afraid also because there was no food to serve all those people. But Kabir said, “Don’t worry: all of these people belong to Almighty God and we also belong to Almighty God. They have that Sat Naam in them and we also have that Sat Naam in us, so why worry? He will take care of them.” So Kabir went into the room and with a lot of faith He started doing the meditation. And it says in the history that so much food came there that all who came ate very well. Even after all of the people had eaten, the food was not finished; and everyone praised Kabir. When everybody praised Kabir, the people who opposed Kabir were very surprised, and they also started praising Kabir. But when they were saying, “Hail, Kabir! Hail, Kabir!” Kabir would not take credit for that, He said, “No, I have not done anything. Neither can I do this nor have I done this. I don’t know what my Almighty Lord has done as a result of which everyone is singing praises of me.”

So I mean to say that if we have faith in the Master, if we have love for the Master and if we desire only Him, giving up all the desires of the world, He will definitely take care of us, because He saved the honor of Kabir when He repeated the name Sat Naam, He saved the honor of Guru Nanak when He repeated the name Sat Kartar, and in this Iron Age when Ajaib is repeating “Dhan, Kirpal! Hail Kirpal!” He is protecting the honor of Ajaib.

QUESTION: If a Satsangi has to take another birth after this life, will he remember the Master in that life also?

SANT JI: The reality is that Satguru tries His best that the disciple should not be given another birth. He tries to keep the disciple in the inner planes and purify him before taking him back to the real home. But if for some reason he has to be given another birth he gets a much better family or he gets a much better birth in which he has more yearning to meet the Master and Almighty God. And he gets the Master in that lifetime also.

But we should never let this weakness come in our mind, that we should have to come back in this world. We should always be determined and have so much faith in the Master that we will not come back in this world. We should always have faith in the Master that he will not bring us back in this burning, suffering world.

Sunder Das, a disciple of Baba Sawan Singh who used to live with me, was a very faithful disciple; he had a lot of faith in Master Sawan Singh. Someday you will read many experiences of him with Master Kirpal and Master Sawan. He used to walk all the way to see Master Sawan Singh and someone suggested that he should learn how to drive the cycle. He said, “Why should I drive the cycle? Because God has given me legs to walk, not to drive the cycle.” That person asked Sunder Das, “What will you reply to Dharam Raj, the Lord of Judgment, when he asks you, ‘Why didn’t you even learn to drive the cycle?’” So Sunder Das said, “Well, what do I have to do with the Lord of Judgment? My Master is perfect and when I will die He will come to take me.” And this is true, that when he left the body there were hundreds of people who saw him leaving the body and he told all of them that Master Sawan had come and he was going with Him. Six months before he left the body he announced that on a certain date he would leave the body, and two hours before he left the body he told us to make the prashad because the time had come. And when he left the body many people were present there, and they heard him say that he was going with Master Sawan Singh. So we should also have as much devotion and faith as Sunder Das had.

1984 April: On Fear and Love

This question & answer session took place in Rajasthan on December 28, 1983.

QUESTION: I would like to ask as a practical matter how we can increase our will power?

SANT JI: Will power for what?

QUESTION: To live the life the way Master reaches us to.

SANT JI: We can increase our will power by obeying the commandments of the Master as much as possible. By having both fear of the Master and love for the Master within us and by doing our meditation. As we understand that food is necessary for our body to function, in the same way we should understand that meditation is also necessary for our soul to function. By doing all those things and by loving the Master we can increase the will power.

In the beginning it is very difficult to have will power or even the desire to do the meditation, but if we do all the things which I said earlier and if we try to increase our will power for doing meditation, after some time we find that the will power changes into the form of greed. Then the meditator feels the greed of having the meditation and he always feels the greed of having the love for the Master and having the darshan of the Master and he always thinks that he should not sleep more: he always has greed for doing the meditation and having experiences as much as possible.

QUESTION: Master, when you say we should develop fear for the Master as well as love, is developing fear for the Master a gift of the Master the same as love is?

SANT JI: We misuse the love given to us by the Master. That is why we do not understand why we should be afraid of the Master and that is why we do not understand the importance of having the fear of the Master.

Just imagine that if any relative has come to visit you, because you love him, you would be afraid to do anything bad in his presence, because you are afraid that if you do anything bad in front of him he might get upset at you. And in order to please him and to maintain your appearance in front of him you will not commit even a little sin or even a little bad deed in front of him. In the same way if we have love for the Master, when we develop love for the Master within us, when the love and attachment for all the worldly things disappears within us, then the fear of the Master comes automatically within us. Because we do not awaken that love within us, we are not afraid of pleasing or displeasing the Master. When the love is awakened and manifested within us, the fear of the Master also comes within by itself.

One mahatma had two disciples. Even though they both were initiated by him, one would only talk a lot, while the other would do the practical things, meditate, obey the commandments of the Master. Because he had only two disciples he did not want that after he died, they would fight over who would become the successor. So he wanted to put both of them to a test, and he wanted to see who had understood his teachings and who had practically done what he was telling them to do. So he called both of them and gave them two pigeons and told them to go and kill them at such a place where nobody was seeing. So the one who was only talking and not doing anything practical, he took the pigeon on one side and went into a room and killed that pigeon, and brought it back saying, “Master, I have fulfilled that task, I obeyed your order very soon. Here is the dead pigeon. I have killed it where nobody was seeing.”

Now the other disciple, who knew the inner secret of the Master and who knew what the Master really was, because he had manifested that Master Power within him, he went everywhere, even in the dark rooms; he locked himself up in many dark rooms, and many remote places where nobody could see, or even think of coming there, but he could not find any place where the Master was not seeing. He even closed his eyes, he closed the eyes of the pigeon, but he could not close the eyes of the Master who was manifested within him and was seeing every single action he was doing. So after wandering here and there for so many days, he came back with the pigeon alive, and returned it to the Master, saying, “Master, I am sorry that I could not fulfill this task, I could not obey your order, because I could not find any place where you were not present. Even though I tried going up on the hill, I went underground and everywhere, I could not find any place where you were not present. Even when everybody else in the world was sleeping, I thought at that time that nobody was watching me, but even then I saw you watching me. Even then, I saw that you were protecting me and you were looking at me. So I am sorry that I could not obey your order.” So the Master was very pleased with that disciple and He embraced him, and made him His successor.

Now the other disciple was also seeing that and he was surprised. So the Master clarified that for him. He said, “You cannot compete with him, because he has understood my teachings, since he has done the practical part of my teachings, and has manifested that Power which is working within me, and that Power is working everywhere.” When you realize that the Power which is manifested in the Master is present everywhere, then it is natural that you will have fear of it, because Master Power resides everywhere. You just see that the Master gave the orders to both the disciples, and the order was to kill this pigeon at a place where nobody would see. The one who was talking and not doing the meditation, he took the words of the Master literally, and he went to a place where nobody of the world was seeing, and killed the pigeon. But the other person took it practically and he went everywhere, but he could not find any place where Master was not watching.

So all the disciples, all the initiates, have their own point of view, and that is why they understand the teachings differently. But Master is always pleased with those disciples who understand the teachings practically, and those who become practically successful in practicing the Path.

Baba Bishan Das Ji often used to tell this story about one Muslim man who was hungry, and he went to a village and nobody would give him any food. So he told the children, who were playing there, that if they would bring some food from their homes, he would tell them the story of Heer and Ranja, who were the great lovers, in a place called Jhang. Nobody knows if this story is real or if it is just a creation of the writers or poets, because no evidence is found that can say that it really happened. People say that in the place called Jhang, Heer and Ranja were great lovers. Their love was not of the worldly nature; they were spiritual lovers and still people remember them as great lovers. Many writers and poets have written many long stories and songs about their love; even many books have been published on their love and on their lives.

So that Muslim man who was hungry, he told the children to go and bring him some food and he would sing them the story of Heer and Ranja. Since the Heer and Ranja story is very popular, and the children wanted to hear the story, they brought the food, and they gave the food to that young man. After he had eaten, that young man did not say anything; he did not start telling the story; so the children were surprised and they told the man to start telling the story of Heer and Ranja, because he had promised them. The young man said, “What to talk about Heer and Ranja? What is the story of Heer and Ranja? It is nothing. Heer was a daughter of some Muslim and Ranja was the son of a Muslim, and they used to love each other. And their love was not of a worldly nature, their love was very pure. So this is the only story; the poets and writers have written so much about their love, they have given so many examples, so many parables and things like that but this is only the gist of what they have written.”

So the meaning of telling this story is, Baba Bishan Das used to say, just do one thing that Master has told you to do, and then everything will be manifested and awakened within you. Just develop the love that the Masters talk about for the Master within you, and when the love will develop, when you will manifest that love within, then the fear for Him will also come and the obedience, and everything else will be manifested, everything else will come of itself.

Sufi Saint Bulleh Shah had written, “Calling Ranja, Ranja, I myself have become Ranja. Now no one should call me Heer because Heer is lost and I am Ranja.” He says, “Since the love between Heer and Ranja was very great and very pure, Heer always used to repeat the name of Ranja, and she lost the memory of her name and she started asking her friends, “Have you seen Heer?” Her friends would reply, “Who are you? Are you not Heer?” And she would say, “No, I am not Heer; Heer is lost and I am now Ranja.” It means that when the disciple of the Master repeats the name given by the Master, if he absorbs in that name, he will forget his memory, he will forget his existence, he will be lost in the remembrance of the Master. He will die in the remembrance of the Master, and the living God will start talking to him, and then he will not even remember whether he is talking, or whether the Power he is remembering is talking to him.

Yesterday, in the bhajan which Pathi Ji sang, in the last line it says, “The beautiful husband Kirpal is met, and now Ajaib has become his. Ajaib is like a wife of Kirpal and she has been sold to Kirpal for no money, for nothing. And now she has become of Kirpal.”

It is very difficult for one to understand himself as the wife when he is male. But when we become conscious within, when we come to realize the inner knowledge, then, even if we don't try, still these words come out from within us: that whether you know me or not, I am your wife and I am sacrificing for you thousands of times.

Those whose inner veil gets lifted from within, their worldly love goes away, and the true love for the Master remains there, and at that place no attachment or love for the world remains, only love for the Master. Such a person whose veil is lifted, does not have any will of his own. Whatever he does, that happens in the will of the Master; he works in accordance with the wishes of the Master.

QUESTION: Can a disciple who is shot by the bullet of love, as you referred to in Sant Bani Magazine, can that disciple still function in the world?

SANT JI: Instead he will function in this world in a much better way because he will then understand his duty to all the things which he is supposed to do. And while working in the world, he will remain unattached to the dirt of it.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that this world is not bad but don't make it your own. He used to say that the meditator lives in this world like the water fowl lives in the water, but whenever he flies he flies with dry wings. In the same way, even though the meditator lives in the world, he is unaffected by the dirt of the world. He used to say that the mahatmas live in this world like that fly who comes and sits on the bowl of honey and tastes the honey and flies away without getting her wings or legs in the honey; whereas the worldly people live in this world like that fly which goes and sits in the center of that bowl of honey. Neither are they able to eat that honey nor are they able to get released from that bowl, because whenever they try to get their legs out of that bowl of honey, their wings are stuck in it, and whenever they try to get their wings out of the honey their legs are stuck in there. So finally they die in that honey without tasting it. He used to say that in fact Saints are the only ones who enjoy life in the true sense because the love for Almighty Lord has been awakened within them, and because of the support of that love they enjoy the world and they do their work.

That love was awakened in Christ. That is why he did not see the cross as the cross. He did not mind climbing the cross; he kissed the cross and in fact he was very happy to be crucified. Just imagine if anybody tells you that you are going to be hanged, what will happen to you? The strong body of six feet will start trembling like anything. But Christ did not tremble when he was supposed to climb the cross. He had the real love manifested within Him. Real love is such a thing that it does not leave any distinction between pain and happiness; it does not leave any feeling of distinction between pain and happiness in the person within whom that love is awakened. But what do we the worldly people do? Since that love is not manifested in us, when the pain comes, we complain and we discontinue loving the Master. We break our love and faith in the Master. And when the happiness comes, we are happy and overjoyed and then we start loving the Master. Those in whom the real love has been manifested, do not see any difference between pain and happiness.

This love was awakened in Guru Arjan Dev. He was shot by the bullet of love, and that is why he did not pay any attention to what the people were saying against him or for him. Even though the rulers of that time tortured him to death – they made him sit on hot coals, they poured hot sand on his head, they even made him sit in hot water – he did not complain because that love was manifested within him. Even after suffering so much pain by the people, he did not curse anyone, because he had real love for everyone, and he saw that in everyone that Almighty Lord was working. Mian Mir came to Guru Arjan Dev and said, “Master, it is very painful for me to see you suffering like this. If you consent, I can raze the city of Lahore to the ground.” But Guru Arjan Dev replied, “No, Mian Mir, I can also do that. But to live in the will of God is the sweetest thing in the world.” Why did he say such things? Why did he not complain, and why did he not curse the people even when they tortured him? Because that love was awakened in Him. He said, “Those who are giving me pain, they do not belong to anyone else; they also belong to the same God to Whom I belong, and whatever is happening to me, that is happening in the will of God.” He saw God in everyone, only because that love, that God, was manifested within Him.

Guru Gobind Singh had a disciple who was called Bhai Mani Singh, who lived with Guru Gobind Singh from early childhood. He would do the seva in the langar and all the things which Guru Gobind Singh would tell him to do; he would do his seva very well. And along with doing the seva, he would also do his meditation. So he was a very good disciple of Guru Gobind Singh, and he lived for many years even after Guru Gobind Singh left the body. Now you know that Guru Gobind Singh was also tormented by the Muslim people, the Moghul Emperors, and whenever they would capture any Sikh disciples of Guru Gobind Singh, they would give them a very hard time. So when Bhai Mani Singh was arrested by the Moghul army, he was given the punishment that his body would be cut into pieces and the cuts would be made where the joints are. So when he was brought for that punishment, the butcher hesitated because he thought that it was not just for a man to give such a punishment to another man. But Bhai Mani Singh did not complain; he was very happy. He said, “No, you should obey your Master; whatever you have been ordered to do, you should do that.” And very gladly, he accepted that punishment and he did not curse anyone. It was very terrible to accept that, but he did not complain, he did not curse anyone. Is this not a story of love, is this not an example of the manifestation of true love in a disciple? It is very obvious from the writings of Bhai Mani Singh, which were found later on, that he was a brahmgyani and Guru Gobind Singh, his Master, was manifested within him, and he had manifested that Power also within him which was working in Guru Gobind Singh. And only because he was shot with the bullet of love, because that love was manifested within him, he suffered everything for the cause of his Master, and in the name of the Master, did not complain, did not curse anyone.

I have often said that Guru Gobind Singh did not have any jealousy or enmity toward any community or religion, and he did not fight for becoming the ruler of India or anything like that. He fought with the Moghul army only to save the religion, to save the honor of the people; because in those days, the Moghul army were killing many Saints and devotees of God, and nobody's religion, nobody's life was protected. The Moghul soldiers used to kidnap the girls of the Hindus, and they would not allow the Hindus to worship. So those people who loved mankind, all came to Guru Gobind Singh and requested him to fight for religion for the sake of mankind. That is why he took up the sword, he became a warrior. All those who came to Guru Gobind Singh had come only to receive love, and he gave only love to those who came to him. That is why in his bani he writes, “Listen, O man, I am telling you the true thing: those who have realized love have manifested God within them.”

Aurangzeb, the Moghul Emperor at that time, was a very cruel emperor, and he had not even spared his brothers; he had killed his father to become the emperor, and Guru Gobind Singh had to fight with him. Guru Nanak had written that Saints do not frighten anyone, and they are not afraid of anyone because the love is manifested in them. But Guru Gobind Singh had to take up the sword, and had to become a warrior, because he had to shake the roots of that Moghul Empire, which were very deep in India. And it is true, that after fighting with Guru Gobind Singh, the roots were shaken so badly that after that no Moghul Emperor was able to rule over India.

When the disciples of Guru Gobind Singh had to fight with the royal army, many were killed in that battle, many were injured. So Guru Gobind Singh had one disciple called Bhai Khanaya. Guru Gobind Singh gave him the job of taking water to the battlefield and giving it to the people who wanted it. Guru Gobind Singh did not tell him that he should give the water only to the Sikh disciples and not to the royal army. He did not ask that question, and since Guru Gobind Singh was manifested within that disciple and his inner veil was lifted, he did not give water only to the Sikh people, he also gave the water to the Moghul soldiers. So the warriors, the other disciples of Guru Gobind Singh, complained to the Master, saying, “Master, we injure and kill the Moghul soldiers, and Khanaya gives them water; and again they get up and start fighting with us.” So Guru Gobind Singh called for Khanaya and asked him why there was a complaint against him. Khanaya said, “Master, you did not tell me that I should give water only to the Sikh disciples, and also I do not see any Moghul army anywhere, because wherever I look I see only Your Form, I see You present everywhere. So that is why I give water to everyone. It makes no difference to me whether he is my enemy or my friend, because I am seeing only you within everyone.”

Guru Gobind Singh was so pleased with his answer that he told him to continue giving water to everyone, and he also gave him some bandages and other things, and said, “Wherever you feel the need of using this, you can use it.”

So this was because of the love, that Khanaya used to see Guru Gobind Singh both in the enemy and in his friends. It is very easy to say such things, but it is very difficult to do it practically, and only he within whom the real love is manifested can do this.

When great Mansur went within, he became intoxicated, because often I have said that when the soul goes in the Banwar Gupha, she gets so much intoxication that she starts dancing and these words come out by themselves: “I am the same as God is.” So when Mansur went within and saw his soul, the form of the Lord, within, he also started saying outwardly that he was the same as God. But the orthodox religious people did not like that, so they boycotted him; and then they wanted to punish him, they wanted to put him to death. So when he was being killed, at that time, they took out his eyes. God asked him, “Should I protect you? If you want, I can kill all these people who are tormenting you, who are going to kill you.” But Mansur replied, “No. If you want to shower grace, why don't you shower grace on all these people and open their eyes so they may know who I am?” And he prayed for the people who were killing him, because he said, “They do not know what they are doing.”

So is this not because of the love which was manifested within him that he also prayed for those people who were killing him? It is very difficult for a person to forgive anyone who is doing anything bad to him. But if the love is manifested, then it becomes very easy, because within everyone, in the enemy as well as the friend, one sees the Master. So because that love was manifested Mansur told Almighty Lord that those people should not be punished. Instead they should be forgiven; and he prayed for them. But when does this happen? This happens only when the love is manifested in us, and only when we die while living. To die while living means that the disciple loses his identity, his own self, and he becomes of the Master. The Master is awakened, the Master is manifested in him, and that Master speaks through him, functions through him. Only when one surrenders completely to the Master, is this condition achieved. Only then this happens. And after that, the disciple says, “Master, now it is up to you whether to give me hunger, whether to keep me satisfied; whether to give me poverty or whether to keep me rich. Whatever you want, you can give it to me, because now I am not here, it is all You. If You maintain my reputation, it is your reputation being maintained. If you make me be criticized by the people, it is not me being criticized, it is you who is being criticized.” So when the real love for the Master is awakened, when the real love is manifested within, then the disciple finds it very easy to function in this world and he functions in a much better way, because when the love is manifested within the disciple, in fact at that time the disciple is dead, only the Master within him is alive.

God is love, and since we are the essence of God, we are also the essence of love. By doing meditation, that love is manifested within us. It is a natural thing that if you love someone, the remembrance of him will start coming in you automatically, and you will start having his vision, his form, in front of your eyes, even when you don't try for it. So by doing meditation, that love is manifested in us, because God is love, and we are the essence of God, we are the essence of that love. And when we have the love for God, when that love is manifested within us, then the fear of Him Whom we love, is also awakened in us.

Saints and Mahatmas are the ocean of love, and they come into this world carrying the message of love. When they come into this world, they give only love to the people. They do not come for any particular country or community: they come for the whole universe, the whole world; and they come only for giving love. That is why, in the bonds of love, they keep us tied together. We people hate each other or fight with each other, only because the love is not present between us. Only because of the absence of love, you see people fighting with each other everywhere in the world. Master Kirpal used to say, “If you throw one little particle of love into any home, that home will turn into heaven.”

Kabir says, “Kabir is standing in the market place praying for everyone. He has no enmity for anyone; he is the friend of all.”

So we all should meditate, because by doing meditation, love is manifested within us. Our Master was an Ocean of Love, and because of that love He collected people of all different religions, societies and communities on one common platform; He brought everybody because of that love. I have always said that ever since my childhood, I was a devotee of the Lord, and I have received only love from Him as inheritance, because I had asked only for love. So we should also meditate and manifest that love within us which our Master used to teach and give to the people, because we have been put on the Path of Love, and on this path we should have love for everyone.

You know that when Russell Perkins first came here, and asked for permission to print Sant Bani Magazine and give the message to the Sangat in the West and start doing the work, I told him about this love. I told him that the love of our Great Master, who was the Ocean of Love, is very vast and very holy and pure. And we do not have to pollute this love with criticism and other bad things in which the people were involved then. I told him that we should never imitate what the people are doing. No matter if people criticize us, we should only give the message of love as it is, and we should not pollute it with criticism. And I am very grateful to him that he obeyed me, even though many instances came when he was tempted to forget that love because the circumstances were such. But I always reminded him of the love of the Master, and I am very grateful that he maintained that promise he had made to me, and the love of the Master was not polluted. So that is why we all should meditate; because our Master was the Ocean of Love, and only by doing the meditation and remembering Him, can we manifest that love within us. It is only because of this love that we are receptive to His grace, and it is only because of His grace that we are sitting here in His remembrance and love. So I hope that all of you will do your meditations, because love is manifested within us only by doing the meditations.

1984 May: A Million Times a Day

This question and answer session took place at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, February 29, 1984.

SANT JI: Yes, now you can ask your questions.

QUESTION: This isn't a question, it's just a statement. I sat right in front of you today for the meditation, and I moved eight thousand times.

SANT JI: [Laughing] All Saints have said that for the Masters distance makes no difference. Whether you sit close to the Master or away from the Master, for Him it makes no difference. But it does make a difference for us, if we do not understand the meaning of meditation. Do you understand the value of meditating here? If you understand the importance, the significance, of meditation, only then you will not move so many times, because you are understanding the value of it. Right from the beginning you will take such a position in which you don't have to move so many times.

Often I have said that in the days of Master Sawan Singh, many gentlemen nicely dressed up, would come and sit in the front line of the Satsang, and the poor people did not get the opportunity to come closer to the Master. The people who used to make all the arrangements, knew the rich people very well, and because of their contacts they were allowed to come and sit right in the front row. There were many poor people who never got the opportunity even once to come close to the Master; they would always sit in the back. Regarding them Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say – and he said this many times in the Satsang: “If the farmer is watering the fields, he does not look in the front part of the field where he is watering; he always looks in the back of the field, just to make sure how far the water has reached. In the same way, the Master does not pay a lot of attention to the people sitting in the front; He always pays attention to the people sitting in the back because He knows that they are the poor humble ones. He always looks in the back to the poor people to make sure that they are able to see Him.”

Master Sawan Singh Ji had one disciple named Bhai Lena, who was of low caste, and he was one of those poor humble people who never got an opportunity to come close to Master Sawan Singh. Master Sawan Singh knew that, so once He invited Bhai Lena to come and sit in the front row. When he did that the other gentlemen who were used to sitting in the front row, did not like that because they did not want to touch his body. So they made a distance from him; they did not like him sitting in front. After the Satsang was over, Master Sawan Singh invited Bhai Lena to say anything he wanted to say. He said, “I don't want to say anything, but I just want to tell my brothers that they hate me, they don't like my sitting in the front; but they should know that the Power, that Master Whom they love and for Whom they have come, He resides in me day and night; He is happy to come and reside in this poor humble body.”

Master Sawan Singh Ji also used to say that people should sit wherever they find a place – those who come first, they can sit in the front, and those who come later on, they can sit in the back. It does not make any difference for the Master because His grace is reaching to everyone. The question is of receiving the grace. We should know how receptive we are to receiving His grace. Your problem of moving, even sitting close to the Master, is your own problem, and that can be removed only by regular meditation. I hope that when you go back to your home, you will continue sitting like you are doing here, and gradually this problem will go away.

QUESTION: Guru Nanak says, “I am sacrificing myself on my Master one hundred times a day.” Could you give us some examples of how we might sacrifice ourselves on the Master?

SANT JI: Do all that Master tells you to do. Then what is the question of sacrificing yourself a hundred times a day on the Master? You can sacrifice yourself on Him a million times a day. Surrender your wealth, your body, your mind, your everything to the Master; and then you have sacrificed your everything to Him. But what happens? We people surrender our wealth to the Master, but you will find hardly anyone who is fortunate enough to surrender his mind. Because when the mind is surrendered at the feet of the Master, then all the problems are gone away, because the root of all evil is in the mind. A wife may surrender her body to the husband, but she never surrenders her mind. In the same way, we surrender our body to the Master but we do not surrender our mind, and that is why we do not take good advantage of the mind.

He who has achieved anything on this path has done so only by sacrificing himself to the Master. And the thing which we need to sacrifice to the Master is our mind, because mind is the only wall between us and the Master.

Often I say that you should always read and sing the bhajans written by the Perfect Masters, because behind the words written by the Perfect Masters, the charging of the renunciation and the yearning for their Master works, and we get a lot of benefit from that. The quote that you mentioned was written by Guru Nanak at that time when He had sacrificed Himself for the Master and He had realized that the Master is the owner of that Power by which within a moment He can change many men into God.

If we read the history of all the Sant Satgurus we will find that only because of Their sacrifice for Their Master, Their Master gave Them the crown of spirituality; and Their Master sat within Them, taking all the prosperity, all the riches, only because of Their sacrifice and simplicity. Also, I always say that unless you reach Daswan Dwar you should not write any spiritual song, because behind your words, behind those bhajans or songs, you don't have any charging of your renunciation, or your sacrifice or your meditation. That is why it will not have any effect for those people who read or hear those bhajans. Because whatever you have in your heart, your words will also carry the same effect. In your heart there is lust, anger, greed, attachment and egoism. Because you have the fire of all these passions burning within you, whoever will read or sing that bhajan will have the same effect.

For eleven years, Guru Nanak Sahib made a bed of stone and pebbles and sat on it for doing meditation. He suffered hunger and thirst and sacrificed Himself for the Master. Only then He realized Almighty Lord. Even after doing so many things and so much meditation, what does He write in His writings? He says, “O Lord, by doing any repetitions or performing any austerities, and by remaining in abstinence, I did not realize anything. I was the poor one, I did not even know the value and the means of doing seva. Nanak says, “I am the one with very mean karmas. I pray to you that since I have taken refuge at Your feet, You should save my honor.”

Once a Westerner got Initiation from Master Sawan Singh, and a day after getting Initiation, He wrote Master Sawan Singh that he was not getting any experience and he was not progressing. Master Sawan Singh said, “The people in the West – most of them – do not pay any attention to working hard, making efforts; they always look for the fruit without working for it.”

You see that Guru Nanak sat on a bed of stones and pebbles for eleven years, and He did the meditation. He suffered hunger and thirst and He suffered the criticism and taunts of the worldly people. Many people called Him a ghost, many people called him a demon, many used very bad words about Him. And even after suffering so much, what did He tell His Master? He said, “O Master, I did not do anything. I was not capable of doing anything. It was only because I took refuge at your feet that you showered grace on me.” Kabir Sahib also suffered a lot of hunger and thirst, and his diet was mainly wheat cereal. He was the first Saint to come into this world, He did not go below the human body; He came in all the four ages, and He was the first incarnation of Almighty Lord. But in order to give demonstration to the people, He suffered so much, and He had so much humility in Him, that even after working so hard and realizing God, just to demonstrate to the people, He had so much humility that He said, “Once, I went searching for a bad person, but I did not find any bad person. When I looked within myself, I saw that no one was worse than me, I was the worst of all.” It does not mean that Kabir Sahib was a bad person; He was Almighty Lord, He was All Owner, and He had all the good qualities in Him. But because humility is the ornament of the Saint, and because unless we have humility we cannot progress on the Path, in order to teach us that lesson of humility, Kabir Sahib said that. Kabir Sahib used to say that the path which goes to our Home is very small, very narrow, it is even less than one tenth of the size of a hair, and our mind has become more huge than an elephant – how are we going to go through that narrow path? Unless we make our mind so thin with humility, we cannot go back home.

Guru Nanak Sahib had to face the world right from the beginning. First of all, His parents were His critics and they always used to give Him a hard time, because when He used to remain sad in respect to the world, they did not like it. So in His writings, He writes about His condition. He writes, “Somebody calls me ghost, somebody calls me a bad spirit, someone who has sympathy for me says, 'He is poor Nanak'; and in this way, people don't understand what I am going through.” Then the doctor was called to see what disease Guru Nanak had. About that incident, Guru Nanak has written, “The doctor was called and he took my arm and examined my pulse, but that innocent doctor does not know that I do not have any problem in my arm; the pain is in my heart.” He says, “How does the doctor know where the pain is? The pain of God Realization is within, and no doctor can see that.”

In those days, the value of money was very great, so after that His father gave him twenty rupees, which was a lot of money in those days. He told him, “We are traders by caste and we should do some business. You take this money and do some business.” When He went out, He saw a group of people, devotees of God, and He thought, “What else can be a better business for me?” He distributed that money among those devotees of God. In India, it is believed that if anyone's son is not doing any business, if he is not trying to make his career and stand on his own feet, people think that when he is married then he will understand his own responsibility and he will start working.

So according to that belief, Guru Nanak Sahib was also married; when He did not take any interest in the worldly work, his parents thought that once he was married he would understand the responsibility and do the business. So he was married. But after that also, Guru Nanak was not interested in the worldly work, because his purpose of coming into this world was something different.

Once it so happened that wandering here and there, he went to visit his in-laws, and when his father-in-law saw him, he became very angry with him. He said, “You don't even dress like the worldly people. You have stained the name of your parents. It is very bad that you are wandering here and there, and you don't have any respect.” After that, His mother-in-law also came and she said the same thing but she was a little softer than the father-in-law. She said, “Nanak, we feel very sorry after getting our daughter married to you. You have stained our name also.” When he got so much rebuke and harsh words from the in-laws, he did not reply because he was the abode of peace. He remained quiet and heard peacefully what they had to say. In that village, he had a disciple whose name was Ajita Andawa, and he told him, “Dear one, we have received a lot of parshad from these people; now let us go to your home.” Then Guru Nanak went to his place, because the initiates know what power the Saints have. So Guru Nanak preferred to stay at his initiate's home rather than staying at his in-laws' home. And over there he did his meditation and advised the people about doing meditation.

So I mean to say that right from the beginning, when the Saints and Mahatmas start doing the devotion, They are opposed and criticized, and first of all the family members start giving Them a hard time. They have to face so much, and after suffering so much, finally when They become perfect in their devotion, They do not say that They have suffered all these things and done everything by their own efforts, they always give the credit to their Master. They always say that it was all due to the grace and kindness of the Master. That is why with every single breath they take in they sacrifice Themselves to the Master, and in no way can we compete with Them, because Their sacrifice is much higher than we can even imagine.

Master Kirpal Singh Ji used to say that whenever Master Sawan Singh used to visit the village where Baba Jaimal Singh used to live, as soon as he came near the boundary of it, he would start paying homage to that place, and whenever the name of Baba Jaimal Singh would be mentioned in any conversation, Baba Sawan Singh would burst into tears, because he had so much love and affection for Baba Jaimal Singh.

I have seen that the canopy under which Master Sawan Singh used to sit to hold Satsang, everywhere in that canopy it was written: “Baba Jaimal Singh, have mercy on me.” Most of you got the opportunity to come close to Master Kirpal Singh, and noticed how fond

He was of His Master. Whenever He would talk about His Master, Baba Sawan Singh, His heart would fill up with love and affection for the Master, and many times He would even feel like weeping in the remembrance of His Master. And all the bhajans which this poor Ajaib has written, in those bhajans I have tried to show you that I am the poor one in front of the Master. My Master is the Emperor of the emperors; He is all in all, He is the All-Owner, and I am nothing in front of Him.

Up until now, I have not said this but today the subject is such that I am saying it: that all the great souls, Saints, They come from the same planes and They know each other well. But They do not come in contact physically in the physical world, until their destined time has come. Before They meet physically, the yearning which the disciple has for the Master is such that He always feels that something is piercing through His heart. Right from His childhood, He is always longing to meet the Master because He knows that Great Soul because They have both come from the same plane. Even though Saints are All-Owners of the Creation, still when they come into this world, They behave as if They are very poor, very humble. They do not show the people that They are poor, They do not pretend to be poor to beg for anything; only to give us the demonstration that unless we become poor, unless we become humble, we cannot progress on the Path, they adopt this quality.

When Master first came to this place, I took some dust on which He had stepped, and even now I still have that. Up until now, I have not said this to anyone, but today I am telling you. I still have that, and whenever I feel sadness, I take it out and I bow down to that sacred dust. I took that dust in front of Master Kirpal, and at that time I told Him, “I will make my heart touch this sacred dust of Your feet, and by doing that I will get peace because Your five words, shabds, have liberated me.” When I left this place, I did not take anything along with me from here except that dust. And when I was wandering here and there from 77 RB Ashram, like a mad person, after He left the body, I did not have anything with me except that sacred dust. And when I left 77RB Ashram and came here, I brought that along with me; and even now I have that and I have preserved it with much love and respect.

Such things do not have any importance in Sant Mat, because Saints do not come into the world to make us attached to the outer things of the Master. But I am giving you the example of love and fondness for the Master. If you are fond of the Master, if you are in love with the Master, you will like His everything: When He will laugh, you will feel as if the flowers are blooming, when He will walk, you like His walking; you will like His every single action; and you will feel that His every single action, every single thing He has said, has become a part and parcel of your life, and you will love everything that He does.

In order to trap me in the worldly work, my parents left no stone unturned. My father had limitless amounts of wealth, and he did not hesitate in giving me any worldly comfort, any luxury; whatever he thought would be good for me, He always gave me that. Even after having so many things, I still felt a lacking in my heart. I was missing something. I was always feeling that one part of my heart was yearning for something, and unless I got that, I would not be satisfied. This is the place where the family members gave up hope after trying for the last time when they came to persuade me to do the worldly things. They told me, “We don't know what has happened to you but we think that you have gone crazy because Kirpal has made you crazy.” One relative had sympathy for me and he offered to take me to Amritsar for shock treatments, because he thought that I would be all right after getting the electrical shocks, because he thought that I was crazy. I told him, “You know that I have surrendered myself to Master Kirpal and I have become mad in His love. I am mad and you are good people, I don't have any connection with you, so you go.” After that they did not bother me. I used to tell them that as Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, those who are hit with the bullet of love become useless for the world and the family. They forget all the accounts and they always remain attached to the feet of the Master.

Bulleh Shah was a kazi (Muslim priest) in the mosque of Lahore; his father was also a kazi in the mosque of Lahore. It was their ancestral family job. Inayat Shah lived not far from Lahore. Once Bulleh Shah came in contact with an initiate of Inayat Shah because Bulleh Shah used to perform all the rites and rituals according to the Muslim religion. He used to offer the prayers, he used to fast, as in the Muslim religion, and he used to do everything according to the religion. So when he came in contact with an initiate of Inayat Shah, he told Bulleh Shah, “Oh dear one, why do you give trouble to your throat? Why do you shout so loud for God? He is not outside, He is within you. Why do you not go to Inayat Shah so that He may open your inner eye and you may see God right in your body, and He may open your inner ear so that you may hear the sound of God which is coming within you?” Because Bulleh Shah was an innocent soul, he was a pure soul, and he had the desire to do the devotion of God and realize Him, He liked that idea and He went to Inayat Shah for getting the knowledge of God realization.

Since Inayat Shah was a farmer by profession, at the time when Bulleh Shah arrived there Inayat Shah was working in his fields, and he was uprooting the plants from one side of the field and planting them on the other side. When Bulleh Shah asked him to give him some knowledge about how to realize God, Inayat Shah said very simply, “Oh Bulleh, what is there in realizing God? You just have to uproot your attention from the world and plant it towards God.” It was a very simple example, but since Bulleh Shah was very wise, he was desirous of doing the devotion of God, he understood that and accepted it.

Then Bulleh Shah asked Inayat Shah, “Master, I am a kazi in the mosque. Can I go to the mosque, offer the prayers and do all the things which our religion tells us? Will I be able to do all these things along with the meditation?” Inayat Shah replied, “Yes. You go to the mosque for the prayers and do everything that you were doing. There is no restriction for that. But along with that, do the meditation also, which I have taught you. If you find my meditation better than all that you were doing, then you can decide what you should continue doing.”

When Bulleh Shah returned, since he was a good soul, he did the devotion wholeheartedly, and within a short time, he realized the value of meditation and he started progressing. After some time, when Bulleh Shah again went to see Inayat Shah, Inayat Shah asked him, “Yes, Bulleh Shah, do you still go to the mosque, do you still offer the prayers, do you fast? What's happening? What are you doing?”

Bulleh Shah replied, “How can I do all those things? If I offer the prayer, my concentration towards you is broken. I have even forgotten where the mosque is.” He said, “Before I used to offer prayers, but ever since I realized Your Form, ever since I progressed in meditation and saw that you were none other than Almighty Lord, I understood the value of doing the meditation, and I know that just offering the prayers in the mosque has no value. Whenever I went to do the prayers, my attention to you was broken, and I did not like it. So that is why I do not know where the mosque is.”

So I mean to say that those who have manifested Almighty Lord in them, those who have realized the glory and real status of their Master within them, they sacrifice themselves on their Master not a hundred times a day but a million times a day. You will find in the writings of Guru Nanak Sahib, at many places he has said, “What of saying you should sacrifice yourself a hundred times a day to the Master; you should sacrifice yourself with every single breath you take.”

Sufi Sant Bulleh Shah says, “By reading the holy scriptures, we have gotten tired. And by paying homage to the holy idols and offering prayers, our forehead is worn out. God is not found in the holy places, He is not in the temples and religious places; He who has realized God has done so only from within.” In the Muslim religion, they understand it as very important to offer prayers five times a day and they fast for thirty days out of one year. They understand that at least once you should visit the holy place of Mecca as a pilgrimage, while repeating the kalma, “La illah ha illa ha.” It means that there is only one God and prophet Mohammed is the messenger of God; they understand that these are the only things which the Muslim people should do, and these are the only things by which they will get liberation. But when Bulleh Shah got the intoxication of Naam from within, what did He write in His writings? “A curse on offering of prayers, and dirt is fasting. Bulleh Shah has realized Almighty Lord within; up until now he was in illusion, but now his illusion is cleared up.” Bulleh Shah also says, “Gad is not different from you, He is not away from you, but you have not developed that eye with which you can see Him. And because you have not developed that eye, you are suffering.” You have to develop that eye, and it needs a lot of hard effort. In it, love, yearning and faith play a very important part. Ajaib says, “Eyes are the dye stuff, eyes are the ones who give, eyes are the ones that receive, eyes work for the eyes without expecting anything.”

So we should maintain love and devotion for the Master. You should have faith in the Master. It is very important if you want to progress on the Path. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “If you are not able to do anything else, at least have respectful love for the Master. Because if you do all that He says, and if your love for the Master is more than for the world, you will definitely go to the place from where your Master is coming, and you will definitely go to the place where your Master is going.” Where does the Master go? Master goes to His Master, because He is always loving His Master. That is why if you are having love for the Master, you will definitely go to Almighty Lord. Unless we have love for the Master, we cannot get rid of the love for the world. The love for the Master is the only means of developing love and devotion for Almighty Lord. That is why it is very important to develop love for the Master.

Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Master, Master, day and night I repeat the name of Master, because without Master I am nothing. Always remain at the feet of the Master, in the refuge of the Master, because the grace of the Master cannot be taken away by anybody.” Then Guru Nanak says, “I do not know of any knowledge, I do not know of any contemplation, I do not know your real status, I know only this: that the Master is greatest of all because He has saved my honor.”

1984 June: The UPI Interview

This interview, with Christine Gardner of the United Press International asking the questions, took place at the Master's House, Sant Bani Ashram, Sanbornton, New Hampshire, May 3, 1984.

QUESTION: I would like to ask first, what is the most important part of the teachings of Sant Mat? What do you want people to focus on more than other things?

SANT JI: The most important thing is to improve one's own self. I want all people, and that's what I teach, to practice the vegetarian diet; they should improve their own selves, they should give up bad habits. And then they should take Initiation, or learn how to go within, because God is within. And we can go within and realize God only if our outer life is pure and if our outer conduct is pure. Saints and Mahatmas did not only teach us about being good and living the good life, but they also help us to become good and to go within to realize God. And we can do this even while living in our religion to which we belong.

QUESTION: Do you think that the world is in a particularly difficult era? Is the state of the world in a much worse condition than it has ever been? From my very humble knowledge of the Vedic scriptures and so forth, they say that we are now in a very bad time – Kali Yuga. How can we rise out of this, or is there going to be inevitable destruction?

SANT JI: We can avoid the destruction if we follow the teachings which are written in our holy scriptures. If we improve ourselves, if we see God within ourselves and if we see God everywhere in everybody, then it is possible that we can avoid the destruction toward which the world is heading.

QUESTION: Do you think that the leaders of the world today, Mr. Reagan, Margaret Thatcher, and other leaders in the Western world are people following God, or have they turned away from God? Do you see them as materialistic or as people who are trying to follow God?

SANT JI: Since I have not met these leaders, I cannot say anything about them. But it is written in the holy scriptures that if anyone has done good deeds and a lot of devotion of God in his past lifetime, in the present lifetime he gets a very high position, like a ruler or a king. And if he does not continue doing the meditation and devotion of God in the present lifetime after getting that highest position, then God does not give him another opportunity.

QUESTION: What do you think about the injustice in the world? Should people accept the injustices, should they rebel against the injustices? For example, the situation in El Salvador, where so many people and the four nuns were killed, and that is yet to be even brought to trial for the murderers found. How can people – should people accept this or should they try to balance the injustice?

SANT JI: It all depends on either the government of the place where there is injustice, or the people. It is up to people to decide whether they want to accept it or rebel. It differs from place to place and with the people too.

QUESTION: So Sant Mat does not necessarily teach that you should passively accept your life – it's really up to you to decide?

SANT JI: The principle of Sant Mat is this: don't be afraid of anybody and don't make other people afraid. One should not allow oneself to be intimidated by anybody and one should not intimidate others.

QUESTION: Can you offer a prayer for the people of the United States?

SANT JI: I always have good thoughts for the whole world and I always pray for the welfare of the whole world, because I do not belong to any particular country or society; this whole world is my home. I go to places with best wishes and good thoughts for everywhere I go. Even now when I have come to America, I have brought good thoughts and best wishes for the people of America. That is why I teach the people to be peaceful, and I give the message of peace. Saints always look at the souls, and souls are alike everywhere. It does not make any difference whether they are European or North American or South American; they all are alike. And Saints come into this world only to give the message to the souls, and they only look at the souls.

QUESTION: Do you think that radio and television and movies and all the electronic media interfere with the living of a good life?

SANT JI: It depends on how people take it. But I will tell you about my own self: I had never seen any movie; the first movie I saw was my own movie which people had made of me, and that was also in here. [In the house where He was giving the interview, at Sant Bani Ashram]

QUESTION: So you were your own star! Just one more thing, I guess. I understand that you are a farmer. What is your favorite crop to grow and your favorite season?

SANT JI: I love all weather. I love all crops. Whatever we can grow over there, I love them. But you know that I come from a hot country; the place where I live is warm and hot, so I like that.

QUESTION: Do you have animals?

SANT JI: Yes. We have cows.

QUESTION: But you are vegetarian; there is no killing of the animals whatsoever?

SANT JI: No.

QUESTION: Okay. I think that's all I have. Thank you very much.

SANT JI: Thank you also very much. This is a precious time when you came here. Thank you.

1984 July: Questions and Answers from 'Support For The Shaken Sangat'

A.S. Oberoi writes: "Before concluding this section, I asked Sant Ji a number of questions about the inner path and am including replies given by Him to some of them in the following paragraphs, in the hope that they may help some of the dear ones."

QUESTION: What are the aids to spiritual progress?

SANT JI: Satsang, faith in the Guru and love for Him.

QUESTION: How can we increase and develop love for the Guru?

SANT JI: By His constant and continual remembrance.

QUESTION: What are “musts” for achievements on this Path?

SANT JI: Abstinence from passions and vices, inner cleanliness, fellow-feeling, spiritual discipline, sacrifice, surrender and devotion to the Guru.

QUESTION: What role does Simran play?

SANT JI: It concentrates the scattered attention at the eye focus and sweeps the soul clean. As long as the mirror of the soul is unclean, the Guru does not allow entry inside.

QUESTION: Where can the Grace of the Guru be received?

SANT JI: At the eye focus by concentration where the Guru distributes baskets full of His Guru.

QUESTION: How can the progress be accelerated?

SANT JI: By devoting maximum time for Bhajan and Simran.

QUESTION: What retards the progress the most?

SANT JI: Criticism of others. While one has even the tiniest bit within oneself, the inner way will not open up.

QUESTION: What is the preeminence of the Guru?

SANT JI: Being the most true and helping friend and benefactor. He is always with His disciple like a shadow and protects at every step, and feels elated when he finds His disciple at peace.

QUESTION: How can the pleasure of the Guru be obtained?

SANT JI: By obedience.

QUESTION: What does the Guru expect His disciples to do?

SANT JI: To clean themselves of dross, dirt, filth and impurities, and come up to Him.

QUESTION: How can we increase the remembrance of the Guru?

SANT JI: By not allowing anyone to come in between the Guru and the disciple and eliminating all foreign thoughts.

QUESTION: How can we devote maximum time to Bhajan and Simran when mind is running wild?

SANT JI: Mind is our only foe. We have to constantly quarrel and fight with it, so as to get over it. We have to bring the running mind repeatedly back, so that it stops running and stands still. This is bhajan.

QUESTION: What are “must nots” of the Path?

SANT JI: Non-judgment of others – instead we should judge ourselves. No ill will or ill thoughts for anyone, including one's enemies. Not causing injury to anyone by thoughts, words or deeds.

QUESTION: How can we increase obedience?

SANT JI: By taking the Guru to be all wisdom and almighty, and considering oneself to be nothing, so as to understand that all that He says is correct and in our own interest. In this way no sacrifice will seem too big, one will surrender before the Guru completely and obedience to Him will increase.

QUESTION: What will happen to unbecoming and unmeritorious persons like me who have not meditated except for ten or fifteen minutes at a time? Is there any hope for such people?

SANT JI: Supreme Father Kirpal used to say that there is hope for everybody, provided one mends one's ways. Even in the worldly order, only that son attracts the eye of the father who obeys his orders. This is more true of spiritual dispensation. If we continue doing mental wrestling, the mind will betray us. We should start acting on the words of the Guru, and see how He helps us.

QUESTION: How does the Guru come inside every disciple at the time of Initiation, and how does He help and protect at all times?

SANT JI: At the time of Initiation, the Perfect Master makes such an arrangement that the Word-personified Guru is always with the disciple and he keeps progressing. Perfect Masters have two forms, one of which is inner and Word personified, and the other is outer and physical. Physical form is necessary for giving the way to the Naam, and the Word personified guides inside. By virtue of the body which the Guru possesses, He belongs to one world, but by the power of Shabd, He is present everywhere and always protects the disciples and others who love him.

QUESTION: How does the Guru give the contact with Light and Sound at the time of Initiation?

SANT JI: As Naam and Shabd are manifested in the Perfect Master, He is fully conversant with the inner Light and Sound and gives the contact with it by His competence and commission. It is not enough to see Light and Sound, as Kal has made full arrangements inside, and has created his own highest sound, and hidden the cords of the jivas in the Brahm. The Guru who is perfect and competent, and has become Word personified, secures the cords of His initiates from Kal by His Power and authority, and connects them in Sat Lok.

QUESTION: How do the Perfect Masters have so much humility and meekness?

SANT JI: The Perfect Masters manifest God Almighty within Themselves by lifelong meditation. They see the Lord face to face and realize how exalted He is and how small is the human being before Him. Just as the sea is very large and gives of itself to form rivers and brooks, similarly, the Master souls are like an ocean of humility and meekness, and smallness is their ornament and asset. The humility of the Saints is true and real, not like that of a panther who picks up its prey by bending and bowing down, nor like the bow which takes the life of others by bending; it is not deceptive.

QUESTION: It was seen during the days of Baba Sawan Singh Ji Maharaj and Sant Kirpal Singh Ji Maharaj that some people who were very impressed and fond of them at first, later went away and behaved indifferently. Why does it happen?

SANT JI: The path of Truth is simple and straight, and does not permit self-glorification. Mind, which is the greatest deceiver, keeps a very vigilant eye on those who are eminent in any manner, and makes a quick prey of them, by one trick or another; and in this process, inadequacy of inner access and self-experience, abundance of temptations and pressures of the mind and of the material world play havoc with the jiva, with the result that faith and confidence in the Perfect Master becomes the first casualty, and one starts questioning His words and ways. Saints are Masters of their will, and act in the manner dictated by the inner power – even though they always give due recognition to what respected persons around them may say, and spare no efforts to comfort all the people who need it and put them at ease. But led by one's misfortune and bad karma, one is driven away from Perfect Masters, suffering an irreparable loss. However, the Saints never allow such developments to stand in the way of their love for those dear ones, and not only wish well for them, but actually go to their rescue and help, whenever it becomes necessary. Past events show that Hazur Maharaj Kirpal went to the hospital numerous times to see such ailing dear ones, and giving His attention, pulled their souls up, so that the dear ones would admit that the Light and Sound which had been missing for such a very long time, had been restored. The jivas may leave a Master soul, but He does not leave them.

QUESTION: Some people think that after a dear one is entrusted with the responsibility of doing spiritual work, he has to meditate very hard to be able to take up the karmic burden of others and liberate the initiate. What is the position?

SANT JI: Saints meditate throughout Their life until their body is put on the funeral pyre, because they meditate in the first instance for manifestation of the Truth within their own self, and later for getting its taste and joy as often as they can, because without it the world is nothing but a land of misery.

QUESTION: It has been seen and experienced that after Hazur Maharaj Ji left the body, many dear ones stopped hearing the Satsang, the confidence of many in this Path was shattered and there were many more who changed over to some other path and way. Why did it happen?

SANT JI: The going away of a Perfect Master from the world is the greatest catastrophe which can befall the disciples and admirers. When violent thunderstorms and hurricanes blow, even the heaviest trees are sometimes uprooted. As the event is most extraordinary, and exposes the dear ones to very grueling and testing times, many become casualties of the mind. While there are a lot of pressures at those times, it is the lack of meditation and involvement with the Path which plays hell, and either dampens our inclination or takes us away from the Path. The remedy for all this is devotion to the Great Guru, and the utilization of every breath in His holy remembrance.

QUESTION: How can we secure the grace and protection of the Guru?

SANT JI: By reposing in the Guru lovingly, with confidence and devotion, and eliminating everything from the mind other than the Guru in a mood of utter helplessness.

QUESTION: When do we get some taste of Guru's wealth?

SANT JI: When we are lost in His remembrance and forget everything, including the body.

1984 July: The Power of Purity

This is from a question and answer session on March 28, 1984, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, you told US in the past that sometimes the Master keeps us from having inner experiences because our ego wouldn't be able to handle it, so it's postponed on and on. And also you told us that we should look to our outer life to see why we're not progressing, because we're failing in the discipline. Is there any way to know which it is?

SANT JI: Supreme Father Kirpal invented the diary for us only for this purpose: so that we may know where we stand and what good and bad karma we are doing. Do you think that you won't be aware of your good and bad karma which you have done? Whatever good or bad karma we do, we always remain aware of it. It is not as though somebody else will come and do good or bad karma for us and we will get the benefit or pay the reaction of it. All the karmas, whether they are good or bad, which we have done, will bear fruit.

Sufi Saint Farid has said, "The farmer is longing to have dates, but in fact he is sowing chilis. How can he get wool if he has sown cotton?" I have often said that when we are doing any deed, we know what its reaction is going to be. When we are sowing anything, we know what it will grow into.

Baba Bishan Das used to say, "You are planting useless trees and you are expecting to have sugar cane." How is that possible? When we will do our meditation honestly and with good thoughts, then we will have no complaints like this, because then we will be capable of seeing what our Master is doing for us.

Sant Mat does not keep us in deception; it does not keep us in blind faith. Those who want to see where they stand and want to see the progress of their meditation, they work hard to make their life pure and they always keep their thoughts pure. And those who do their meditation wholeheartedly and honestly, keeping their life pure with pure thoughts, they can not only see their own progress but they can also see how the Master is pulling their soul up and how He is working even for other people.

Often I tell this story – and the question of that dear one who wanted me to tell a story will be answered now – there used to live one fakir whose name was Suthra; he was fearless, and he wrote many very meaningful humorous poems and humorous stories. Once it so happened that he asked someone how to make a house strong. That person replied to him that if you put many pillars in the house, it can become strong. So he went on putting in pillars; he filled the whole house with pillars, so that there was no room for him to sit there. Suddenly it started raining and it was very cold outside, and since he did not have any place in the house he was standing outside, shivering in the cold rain. One person came by and asked him why he was standing outside, why he was not in the house. He replied, "If there were any room left inside the house, I would have put one more pillar there."

So in this way, on one side we say, “How do we know that Master is protecting our progress? How do we know that Master has all the progress of our meditation? How can we be convinced?” But on the other side we are not ready to give up lust, we do not want to give up anger, attachment, and all the bad things. We have all sorts of bad deeds and bad habits which people have, and still we argue and complain, “How can we be convinced that Master is protecting our meditations?” So our condition is like that of the fakir who filled up his house with pillars and left no place for himself. The place where our Master is, the place where our God is, we have filled up with lust, anger, and all the bad habits of the world. We have all kinds of worldly desires and attachments, and we don’t leave any place for Him to come and reside. And still we ask, “How do we know that Master is protecting our meditations?” Unless we have some place within where we can go and see what the Master is doing, how can we know that He is protecting our meditations?

Do you think that the Master who is within you and who is always watching over you does not care for you? He knows about your thoughts even before you think them. He knows every single action you do. He knows every single feeling, every single thought which you have. Even without your asking, He knows everything you want. And since He cares for you, He wants you to leave your body and go back to the real home. That is why He always works for you.

Sometimes when the disciple is doing bad karmas, the Negative Power makes Him feel embarrassed and he asks Him, “This is the person to whom You gave Initiation? Was he worthy of getting the Initiation?” At that time Master has to keep silent, but still He says, “No, he is my dear son and he is innocent; he does not know what he is doing. Gradually he will understand his mistakes and will come back.” He has enormously huge amounts of patience with him. That is why He always patiently waits for us to come back to the real Path, because He knows that one day we will definitely come back. So that is why the Master Who is sitting within us cares for us and always protects our meditations, because He has given us Initiation and He knows that when we have become free of our karmas, when we will give up doing the bad karmas, our soul will go up to the real home very soon. As a bullet is shot from a gun, in the same way our soul will go up, riding on the Shabd to our real home. Our bad deeds and karmas are the only things which keep our soul in the body; otherwise, there is nothing which stops our soul from going back.

About four years ago, the soul of an initiate of Master Kirpal Singh was pulled up within and he reported that he was getting a beating from the Master because he used to sell vegetables and he was deceiving the people by putting more water on the scales so that he could weigh the water along with the vegetables. So Master pulled his soul within, and he told people he was getting a beating from the Master and Master was telling him that he was doing a bad thing. After some time he came to 77 RB and asked for forgiveness. I told him, “The Lord who is going to forgive you is within you. Now if you will take a vow that you will not cheat people as you have been doing, then you can be forgiven.” He repented and took the vow. He is still alive and he still does the same business, but now he is honest in his business. Generally Saints do not do things like this, but sometimes in order to make people know that Master is aware of our every single action, they perform such miracles.

So we should know about our good and bad deeds which we do during the day. When we sit for writing the diary at the end of the day, we should know how many good deeds we did today, how many bad deeds we did today, and why we did the bad deeds. And we should know why we only meditated for this much time today, why we were lazy. We should fill up the diary honestly so that we may know where we stand and what it is that is keeping us from progressing.

You people are Satsangis, you follow Sant Mat, and you have the Master. That is why your life is insured. Your Master is determined that He will definitely take you back to Sach Khand; there is no doubt in this fact. But just imagine the condition of the other people in the West and all over the world, how the flood of pleasures and lust and all those things are doing harm to them. People do not understand how serious this thing is. They just take it as a very ordinary thing, and that is why they do not make their lives pure. They stain their life. Often I have said, quoting Kabir's bani, that He has said that when we are married it is all right for us to have the connection with our wife, but to have the connection to indulge with lust with somebody else out of the married life is counted as adultery, and those who are involved in committing adultery can never be forgiven, their soul can never become pure and they can never ride on the Shabd and go back to their real home. Guru Nanak Sahib has said that the person who gives up his own wife and goes to another's wife is like a blind man who does not see the reality and goes for the unreal thing. We have made our life like that. We do not pay attention to our companion, and we go to the other people and in that way we are wasting and losing our life.

In Sukhmani Sahib, Guru Arjan Dev has written that with our eyes we should not look at other women; we should always remain in the company of the Master. He writes that women should not look at other men with lust in their eyes. He has not written only for the women; this thing applies for the men also. Neither the men should look at other women with lust in their eyes, nor should women look at other men with lust in their eyes. Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj says that the man affected or controlled by lust does not want to miss any opportunity of indulging in lust with another person, and at the end she is eaten up by lust, greed, and anger. Do you think that the person who commits adultery or who is involved in bad deeds, his brain is not affected by that? His brain is affected by that because within him there is a Power who always curses that person because he has done that thing, and even he himself thinks about it and he knows that he is doing a bad thing and always repents for that. He is always afraid that if somebody else will come to know about his bad deed, he will have to feel embarrassed.

I got many opportunities to sit at the feet of Beloved Master Sawan Singh, and I heard many of His talks, and still the words of Great Master Sawan Singh are sounding in my ears. He used to say very often in the Satsang that if you cannot maintain chastity, if you cannot remain celibate while being single, then you had better get married. What is wrong with getting married? From outside we pretend that we are good meditators, we are celibate; we do not get married, so we are maintaining chastity. But from inside we are always thinking about women and we are always thinking about indulging in lust. Outside, sitting with other people, we pretend we are a good meditator, but inside we are earning sins. Do you think that those sins we are doing sitting inside, our Master is not aware of them? Master always knows everything we are doing. So if you don't have thoughts of indulging with women, even in your dreams, then you can shout from the rooftops that you have maintained chastity, and Supreme Father Almighty Lord has been very gracious on you that you have controlled this element, and then it is all right if you don't get married. But if lust is bothering you, even in your dreams, even in your thoughts, then there is no harm in getting married. You should without any hesitation get married. This will help you a lot in your spiritual upliftment.

Many times in the Satsang I have said, "Why do the Masters emphasize so much on maintaining loyalty to our companions? Because it affects our spiritual progress." I often say that those who do not maintain chastity in this physical world, when they go in the astral world they will meet astral men and women over there who are very radiant and beautiful. So those who cannot control lust while in the physical body, just through looking at the physical body of the other person, whether it is man or woman, those who get involved in lust, do you think that they will be able to maintain chastity when they come in front of the radiant astral men and women? So that is why we should always try to maintain chastity.

Guru Arjan Dev Maharaj Ji says that just to gain the pleasure of one moment, one suffers for one crore days. (One crore days means 33,000 years.) Just for getting the pleasure of one moment, he has to suffer for that much time. Guru Arjan Dev Maharaj Ji once said that lust is such a bad thing that he takes you in many different bodies and even into the hells.

Saints have been householders as well as renunciates. Yesterday I said that there were many Saints who lived a householder's life and many Saints who were renunciates, and neither the householder Saints have said that renunciation is bad nor the renunciate Saints have said that the householders are bad. They say that it makes no difference whether you live a householder's life or the life of a renunciate, but the thing which counts is your strength, your maintenance. If they have been renunciates, have they been completely renunciate; and if they have been householders, have they always maintained their religion of the household.

Saints always say that if your mind does not bother you with lust, and if you can do without getting married, there is no need for getting married. But if your mind is bothering you, then in Sant Mat there is no bar against getting married; you can easily get married. I've often said that if you just live a pure life for some time and start enjoying the purity of that life, start enjoying the maintenance of chastity, the time will come when you will not be ready to give up your chastity even if somebody offers you millions of rupees.

The question which was asked was, "How do we know whether it is our Master who is holding our progress and not showing us, or it is the cause of our shortcomings or our outer life that we are not progressing?"

You know that when it rains or snows, the wind which blows through that place where it has rained or snowed becomes cold and spreads coolness everywhere. In the same way, if you have maintained a pure life, if you are living a pure life, Master is no doubt definitely aware of it because He is sitting within you. So when you are living a pure life, not only will you be aware of your progress but even the people who are living around you will know about your purity and they will also say that you are a pure man or woman. Once in the army there was a theft and many guns were stolen. They said that it was because of the carelessness of the guards, and the commander and everybody was very upset because they could not find out who had done that. They were going to punish many people; many innocent ones were going to be involved. They did not know how to find out the truth. In the army, often they used to call me Bhai Ji or Gyani Ji, and they knew that I always spoke the truth, so they used to appreciate and respect me. Our commander told everybody in our group, “Come and touch the body of Gyani Ji and say that you are sincere and that you do not know anything about this theft.” Out of fifteen hundred people, there were only four people who were invoked in that theft. Only they were not able to touch my body and say that they were true and that they did not know anything about it. I did not tell them that I was pure; and I did not threaten them; I did not do anything. It was only because of my purity that they did not dare to touch my body and lie. The people who were sincere had no problem. They came and touched my body and said that they did not know anything about it. But when the real thieves came near me they started trembling.

So I mean to say that when you are living a pure life, when you are pure from within, your purity is such a great thing that it will spread everywhere and even the bad people will not dare to come before you and lie. Purity is a very great thing. Do you think that when you live a pure life, your friends, your neighbors, and the people living around you will not be aware of that? They will definitely be aware of it because purity spreads like a fragrance and those who have their nose open always smell it. In the army it was very unusual for a person not to eat meat and drink wine, and I was one of those who were not doing those things. People knew everywhere that I was not eating meat and drinking wine. I have often said that even while serving in the army I never visited any city. Even for buying small things I would ask my friends to buy them for me because I was very religious-minded; I would spend my time in the religious places, and lived a pure life. Only because of that purity I was known everywhere and people used to even swear in my name. I’ve often said that the house we live in or the land on which we live, at least that land or that house should be proud of us, that “such a good person is living on me.”

Your Master is very pure and very holy. He is above the dirt and the bad things of this world. So why should not you also rise above the dirt of this world and become as pure and as holy as He is, so that He may manifest Himself within you and be proud of you, that His disciples are so pure and holy?

When Supreme Father Kirpal came to my ashram for the first time, I told Him, “Master, I don’t know what to ask you, because my heart and brain are empty, and since my childhood I have kept them empty.” He smiled and became happy and He told me, “Only because your heart and brain are empty I have come so far – over 500 kilometers – since your heart and mind and brain are all empty, I have come to give you something.” And because I was hungry for His grace and he had the grace, He showered His grace on me. I was burning like fire and He had Naam with Him; He caused the rain of Naam to shower and He cooled down my heated heart.

1984 December: When the Soul Cries for God

This question & answer session was given to the first group, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, India, on September 30, 1984.

QUESTION: Would Master allow me to ask four questions?

SANT JI: Surely.

QUESTION: Master tells us that the third eye is between and behind the eyebrows but when Master puts His finger on His forehead, He puts His finger much higher above the eyebrows. Please, Master, would you explain this?

SANT JI: You will find the eye center just a little bit above the center between the two eyebrows. It is a little bit above the eye center.

QUESTION: When an initiated husband and wife die and they have progressed on different levels on the inner path, will they stay together or will Master bring them on different planes according to their progress?

SANT JI: Often I have said that Saints are not equals to God; They are the beloved children of God. They have pleased Almighty Lord with Their devotion and They have chained Him with the chains of love. And because of that binding, God has given Them many boons. It is up to the Saint; wherever He wants He may give birth to His disciple, on whatever plane He wants to keep the disciple, He may do so because He has been given the authority by Almighty Lord. They are not dependent on anyone and They are free to do anything They want. They can keep any soul anywhere They want.

Also, often in the Satsangs I have said this, and many times it has been published in Sant Bani Magazine: the difference between man and woman exists only as long as we are below Daswan Dwar. But when our soul withdraws from the physical cover, the astral cover and the causal cover and goes beyond Daswan Dwar, then our soul is only soul. There is no difference of whether the soul has come from the body of a man or a woman. There no soul is black; no soul is white. There is no discrimination there; you cannot say that this soul has come from America or this soul belongs to any other country. In that place there is only one kind of soul and all the souls go and merge in Almighty Lord. So when there is no difference between the souls, then the difference between husband and wife or man and woman does not exist there. Soul is only soul there; and when there is no difference, there is no question of keeping the souls on different levels or on different planes.

The body is a garment which our soul has been given which is covering our soul. It has been given to us according to our own karmas. You know that when we remove our clothes or garments we do not feel attached to them and we do not feel any pain. In the same way, when we have progressed and we have removed this garment of body, then our soul feels no pain, because then the soul knows the reality that it was just a garment or cloth which was given to her for covering herself. And one gets a body according to his own karmas from the past. The difference of the sexes, male and female, exist only up to the third plane. But the third plane is not our goal, we have to go beyond it; we still have to go to two more planes after the third plane. And since the difference between man and woman, and husband and wife, exists only up to Daswan Dwar or the third plane, and since we have to go beyond it, therefore it makes no difference whether we are husband or wife because ultimately we are soul. And when we cross Daswan Dwar and go into the fourth plane, then we are only souls; no difference between male and female exists there.

In May, at Sant Bani Ashram, I said in one of the Satsangs that when we go beyond Par Brahm, and after crossing the region of Maha Sunn, when we go to Bhanwar Gupha, from there we can see this lower creation very clearly as I can see you and you can see me, and as we can see the things below us very clearly when we are on top of a mountain. In the same way, when we go to Bhanwar Gupha we can see everything from there very clearly. But the souls who are below that plane cannot see the things of the higher planes very clearly. That is why we have this illusion that we are man and woman. But when we go beyond Par Brahm and reach Bhanwar Gupha, then we can easily see that there is no difference between male and female. No difference exists there.

QUESTION: When God selects the soul on which He showers His grace, and brings that soul to the Satguru, on what does it depend, that God chose this soul and not another one? Does it only depend on good karmas?

SANT JI: Many times in the Satsangs I have said that when a soul yearns for Almighty God and cries from within, then that cry is heard by Almighty Lord and He comes to take care of that soul and that soul is chosen. But this is not an easy thing to understand. This is something between that soul who is crying for God and God Almighty Who hears the plea of that soul. This is something between both of them. and only He knows why He has chosen this soul and not another soul. But you can understand this by this example. When a child cries, no matter how busy the mother is, still at once she will come and pick up that child. But if the child is sleeping and not crying, then the mother will pay no attention to the child even if she has nothing to do. In the same way when the soul cries for Almighty Lord, when the soul is suffering in this world, and giving up the tastes and pleasures of this material world, when the soul cries to God for help, then God comes and chooses that soul for His devotion. But this is something between God Almighty and that soul which yearns for God.

Kabir Sahib says, “If we go on crying and yearning for God, day and night, someday God will listen to our plea and come to our rescue.”

QUESTION: In Anarag Sagar it is written that God created with one Shabda the souls and with another Shabda the Saints. Would Sant Ji explain if the Saints are souls or if They are different?

SANT JI: Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that God is like an ocean and Shabd is the wave of the ocean and the souls are the drop of the ocean. Although they all have the same substance, the same essence, still they are called by different names and they have different forms because of their separation. As long as they are separated from each other, they are called by different names and they have different forms. But when the drop of the ocean goes and meets with the wave of the ocean, and finally when the wave goes and merges into the ocean itself, then all of them are one and the same thing. Our soul is called soul as long as we do not go and meet with Shabd. When we go and meet with Shabd and get absorbed in it, Shabd takes us to Almighty Lord and then there is no difference.

This is a matter of great understanding. Saints are never born; They never die. They come into this world with the order of God, by the Will of God; God sends them as His beloved children. And He sends the Saints into this world giving them the responsibility of bringing out the souls who are yearning for God from this plane.

They have no interest in coming to this plane and thus no matter in what circumstances or conditions They are born They are not affected by it. Kabir was born in a poor family of weavers. He maintained Himself by weaving cloth, and He worked very hard. He did the seva of the Sangat, and He did His meditation and became perfect. But He was not affected by the poverty in which He was born. In the same way, King Pipa was born as a king. But when He met his Master he gave up all his kingdom without being affected by the kingship and all the royal matters in which he was involved. He did his devotion and he obtained a high status. So I mean to say that Saints have no interest in coming into this world, and when They come into this world They are not affected by any condition in which They are born, whether they are born in a poor family or in a rich family. Because Their purpose for coming into this world is something different, and They always keep Their goal before Them. They always remember Their purpose, and when They get the opportunity to come in contact with the Master from whom they are supposed to get initiated, since they are prepared and they are sent in the Will of God by God Himself, it is like dry gunpowder meeting fire. Perfection begins to happen as soon as they come in contact with the Master who initiates them. But before becoming perfect, they work hard. They work hard only to demonstrate to the people that they can also become perfect if they would only work hard. In fact, They do not have to work hard; Their vessel is already prepared when They come into this world. But by working hard They show people that without working hard one cannot become perfect. But Saints are prepared from the very beginning, and when They come into this world They are not affected by anything in this world.

Saints who come into this world in the Will of God, do not get attached, and do not fight over worldly property. They do not criticize others; They do not taunt and abuse others; and They do not become dirty in the dirt of the world. You may read in the history of Master Kirpal that in the Dera of Beas, where His Master Baba Sawan Singh used to live, he had made his own house in that Dera. But after Sawan Singh left the body he did not fight for that, he did not even bother to take care of his own house which was his own property. He just left it.

I will try to tell you the history of Guru Gobind Singh. In his own writings he had written how God sends the Saints into the world, and how They come into this world in the Will of God, and how, after coming into this world, They work hard and please Almighty Lord. He writes that Saints who are sent into this world in the Will of God do not try to attract people by any outer means, any pomp or show, and They do not mislead or deceive any souls in the name of God.

Guru Nanak has also said that the Saints are not involved in birth and death. They come into this world for the benefit of others; giving Their own life impulse They make the souls meet Almighty Lord. Kabir Sahib has said that the trees bear fruit for others, the river flows for others, the rain falls for others, and Saints also come into this world for the sake of others.

Often I have said, “Bring to the court those who have said that their Master has left the body, and ask them why they took someone as their Master who was involved in birth and death.” Because the Master who is himself involved in birth and death, how can he remove our pain of birth and death?

Perfect Saints do not attach their disciples to Their body. They connect Their disciples with the Shabd, because neither Their body is going to last forever, nor is the body of the disciple going to live forever.

When Guru Nanak Sahib went above and saw that His Master and Almighty Lord were one and the same, He said, “My Master lives forever; He never comes, He never goes, He is the indestructible Being; and He is present everywhere.”

QUESTION: Is there any relationship, and what is it, between the physical energy of this world, the spiritual energy of the soul and the energy of God?

SANT JI: There is a relationship between the energy of our soul and the energy of God that is spiritual; but there is no relationship between physical energy and spiritual energy. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that not even the body in which we are living will go with us, what to speak of the energy accumulated by that body. Even if we become king or prime minister or the owner of the whole outer world, still the energy or power collected through the outer things will not help us in obtaining that spiritual energy or spiritual power, because they are not connected.

QUESTION: My Beloved Satguru, I think that myself and many others have the five thieves within us; and I think that they are all the servants of the ego. If I manage to dominate my ego, will the five thieves run away? And second, would you say something about how to keep the diary?

SANT JI: Often I have said that the physical limit of lust, anger, greed, attachment and egoism is at the eye center. And beyond that, when we go to Brahm, to Trikuti, they are present there in their astral form, but only a little bit. But when we go beyond Trikuti to Par Brahm there is not even a little trace of them there. So you can control not one but all the dacoits only when you will go within. If, without going within, you want to control them by bringing your mind into discipline or trying to dominate your ego or your mind by the outer methods, it will not work. That would be like trying to control a poisonous snake without removing its poison. Sometime, whenever that snake will find a chance, he will come out from the bag [where you have kept it] and he will bite you. In the same way, if you do not control the five passions by going within, by the spiritual method, then it is possible that the mind or the ego which you have controlled by discipline will bother you and one day again all your bad habits will come back.

The disease is within us, as well as the medicine for removing the disease. The five passions do not come from outside; they attack us from within. And in the same way, the Master has put the medicine of Shabd Naam within us, within our body, to fight this disease. So it becomes our responsibility to use that medicine of Shabd Naam to remove the poison of the five dacoits.

QUESTION: It seem that more emphasis is placed on doing Simran rather than Bhajan. Is one more important than the other, and can we perfect our Simran by listening to the Sound?

SANT JI: No one is told here to sit only in the position of Simran, and no one is told, “You cannot sit in the Bhajan position.” It is up to the dear one. If you want to sit in the position of Bhajan and listen to the Sound Current you can do so. This question has been answered in the past, but again I will repeat that in the olden days the Master used to first give the Simran, the Repetition of Names, to the disciple, and when the disciple would perfect his Simran, only then he was given the initiation into the Sound Current. But in that kind of practice there was a flaw, and that was that sometimes before perfecting the Simran either the disciple would leave the body or the Master would leave the body, so in that way the Initiation was not complete. So that is why, ever since Kabir Sahib and Guru Nanak came, They graciously started giving the full Initiation. In this way the disciple gets the knowledge of both Simran and the Sound Current at the same time. But the real procedure is this: that with the help of Simran, we can reach the place where the Sound Current is coming; and the real thing is the Sound Current. The Sound Current is the thing which will pull our soul up. Simran is only a means of reaching that place where the Sound Current is coming.

Masters graciously give us the full Initiation at the same time, but the disciples do not understand the importance of the Simran, so they do not put a lot of emphasis on doing the Simran. They do not value the Simran and they do not do the real work which they were supposed to do. Our soul has come down from the eye center and it is spread in every single cell of our body. It has even gone out of the body and our attention has been scattered everywhere in the world, in our relatives and friends, and all the worldly things. Only because of the remembrance of the worldly things and the worldly relations are we attached to this world. In a way we are doing the Simran or the repetition of the worldly things. And because we are doing the Simran of the world, we have become the form of the world. Now the Masters give us the Simran which They have perfected only to cut the Simran by which we are attached to this world and have become the form of this world. The Masters know that only Simran will cut another simran, only Dhyān will cut another dhyān, only remembrance will make us forget another remembrance. That is why They give us their Simran, so that by doing this Simran of the five holy words, we may forget the simran of the world and become the form of the five sacred words Simran. But when we do not put a lot of emphasis on the holy Simran which the Master has given to us, then we are not able to forget the simran of the world and we are not able to get rid of the thoughts of the world.

Shabd has the quality of a magnet. As the magnet attracts and pulls iron things toward it, in the same way Shabd also pulls the soul toward It. But Shabd will pull the soul only when the soul is brought within the range, the limit, of the Shabd. As the magnet pulls iron things only when they are put in the range of the magnet, in the same way, the soul is also pulled by the Shabd only when the soul concentrates its attention at the eye center and comes in the range or the limit of the Shabd.

There is a kind of snake which can change its form into any form it wants; it does not go out hunting, but whenever an animal comes in his range, and he desires it, the animal is attracted by that snake itself and it does not have to even move its body. In the same way, the Shabd does not have to go anywhere; whenever the soul comes in the range of the Shabd, the Shabd pulls that soul towards it by itself. And the soul goes to Shabd whenever it comes in the range of the Shabd.

When we do the Simran given by the perfect Master all the time, whether we are walking, talking or doing any work, if we are doing the Simran and keeping our attention at the eye center, at the eye center the form of the Master who has given us the five Holy Words will start coming by itself; without our having to contemplate or think about His Form,

His Form will come there by itself because we are doing His remembrance and the repetition of the Simran. If the Master is not competent and if He is not able to take His seat at the eye center, then no matter how much we try to take our soul up to the eye center it will not go and still itself there because the Master is not competent. The soul will go to the eye center and remain there only if the Master is competent, and only then will we have the form of the Master there. When we reach the eye center with the help of the Simran, our Master is present there. He welcomes us and tells us that the Sound is coming from above. He will make us hear that Sound Current and He will tell us to catch that Sound and go above.

The eye center is often called the School of Spirituality. As Master Sawan Singh used to say, "It is the duty of all the initiates at least to reach this school, the eye center, because this is the place from where our journey begins." And when we reach the eye center we will find our Master waiting for us there, and He will make us catch the Sound Current and He will take us to the higher regions. As it is the duty of the student to go to the school and then it is the duty of the teacher to teach him, in the same way it is the duty of every disciple to reach the eye center which is the school of spirituality where the Master is waiting for him, and there the duty of the Master starts.

Unless the course of Simran is completed, no matter how strongly we hear the Sound Current, still that Sound will not pull us up. So it is very important for us first to complete the course of Simran. When the course of Simran is completed, then without closing our ears we will hear the Sound Current, and that Sound will pull us up. That Sound Current will not pull us until we have completed our Simran. Even in this group there are many dear ones who do not have to close their ears to hear the Sound Current because they are doing well with their Simran and they are concentrating at the eye center with the perfection of their Simran. There they can hear the Sound Current without closing their ears and the Sound is pulling them up. Saints also suggest to listen to the Sound Current every day; They do not say "Never listen to the Sound." They say that you should listen to the Sound Current at least for some time every day. But when you are sitting for the Sound practice, you should not do the Simran because you can do only one thing at a time.

1985

1985 February: To Save His Souls

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are two statements by the Master made to the third group of Westerners who visited Him in Rajasthan last November – just after the assassination of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and the political turmoil and violence that ensued. The first is a section of the discourse of November 29, 1984; the second is Sant Ji's response to a question asked the following day, a question generated by the first section.

SANT JI: In Mr. Oberoi's book, an account is written which is of the time of Master Sawan Singh's lifetime. I was eye witness to that incident which happened when India and Pakistan were formed in 1947. At that time people were being killed in both the parts. Many girls were being raped and everywhere many tragic events of killing were going on. At that time Master Sawan Singh had to shed His blood in order to save His souls. A commanding officer in the military where I was also working was a very devoted disciple of Master Sawan Singh. When we went to see Him, He took about two hours to tell us about His sickness. And He told the attendant, when He was losing his blood, "Let the blood flow in both east and west" – because in the west there was Pakistan, where there were many Muslims who were being killed by the Hindus, and on the east side there were Hindus who were being killed by the Muslims.

Negative Power does not spare any soul; he always wants that all the karmas should be paid off either by the disciples or by the Master. So when such things happen, the Perfect Masters of the time have to give a lot of blood from their body in order to keep the balance. At that time over there, there was a person who, after hearing all that Master Sawan Singh said, still did not have faith in Him and he did not believe in what Master Sawan Singh was saying. So he asked Him if it was His own karma that He was paying off by giving a lot of blood from His body. Master Sawan Singh replied that it was not His own karma because Saints are free of karmas. He said that it was the karmas of the disciples which He was paying off. He said to just imagine the condition of the father whose sons are being burnt in the fire. Will he not feel anything when he sees that his sons are being burnt in the fire? Saints have love of more than thousands of worldly parents put together. So in order to save their souls, they always have to shed their blood or they always have to suffer the consequences of the karmas of the disciples on their body.

In 1971 there was a very big war between India and Pakistan. From both sides they were using cannons and destroying places even fifty miles from where they were firing. One night the army movement was very strong. They were carrying a lot of tanks to the area where they were fighting. That night what I saw in meditation was like this: I saw that Master Kirpal went into the place where both the armies were fighting. And cutting His head he gave a lot of blood from his body to cool them down. Many dear ones who were meditating at that time saw this experience. After a few days the war came to an end and then we came to realize that it was because Master gave His blood that this had come to an end.

When He cut His head and gave His blood, at that time Baba Jaimal Singh, Master Sawan Singh and all other Saints were present. And Master Sawan Singh said that He did not want to keep his disciples in this burning world even for a moment, and that He was helpless; they have to live in this world and do their work.

And you know that after some years Master Kirpal left the body. Before leaving the body He had to undergo an operation. And He left his body because of that sickness. The political people do not know what they are saying because they are not aware that death will come to them also. The night when this thing happened that I just related, the Prime Minister of Pakistan had said that they would fight for one thousand years. When the people in my Ashram heard that news they were worried. They did not know what was going to happen. But I told them that they should not worry because the war was going to come to an end and everything would be all right. And afterwards the same Prime Minister surrendered and the war came to an end. I am sorry to say that the Prime Minister who said that he would fight for one thousand years, could not even live to the age of fifty years. Before he reached fifty, he left his body.

So the disciple is making the request before that Form of the Shabd who has come to save the souls. He says, “Oh Master, I am caught up in the illusion of doubts. You remove the illusion and you clear up the doubts for me . . . O Swami, O Satguru, you shower such grace on me that I may develop faith in you and I may believe that whatever you are doing, it is for us. Our minds do not believe in what you are doing for us and we have doubts and distrusts, so kindly shower such grace on me that I must start believing that you are doing everything for us.”

QUESTION: Master, yesterday you spoke to us about how Master Sawan Singh shed blood when there was the fighting between the Muslims and Hindus in 1947, and how Master Kirpal had to also sacrifice Himself during that war in 1971. And we know that you also shed your blood for fifteen days after the assassination of Mrs. Gandhi. And so we want to know how much this will affect your life, or how this affects your life, since we are very worried about what might affect you.

SANT JI: You should not worry about anything, because in Sant Mat we are taught to rise above such worries and confusions. Yesterday in the satsang I did not want to tell you all that I said in the beginning, but the mood in the satsang was such that I was compelled to say all that I said. What happened fifteen days ago also affected me very badly, and I became so sick that before the group came here everybody in the Ashram was worried about what was going to happen because the group would be coming in a couple of hours and I was not feeling well. I told the dear ones that this is the work of Master Kirpal and if He wants me to serve His children then He will perform some kind of miracle; and He did perform a miracle when the group came here. Most of you would have noticed that when I was coming down the stairs I was feeling so weak that I was needing somebody's support to even walk. But while I was sitting on the chair in front of all of you, I don't know how but Master Kirpal sent that current in my body and I started feeling better. And you would have seen that when I was going upstairs I was not feeling that weak. It was much different then from what I was feeling when I was coming down the stairs.

So it is all the grace of Master Kirpal that He showered grace on me and I am able to serve you in the group. It is very interesting to know that this is one of the biggest groups we have ever had, and in this group we have received many more letters, almost double what we get in the other groups. But it is all His grace that all the works are being done and all the credit goes to Him.

What I said in yesterday's satsang, I was compelled to say, because I received many letters from many dear ones, satsangis and non-satsangis, about what happened and how they were protected by the Master Power. I also received many letters from people who do not believe in me and go to somebody else. Just recently I got a letter from Delhi from a person who goes to see somebody else, and he said in his letter that as long as Master Kirpal lived in Delhi, nothing like that had happened in Delhi. And he wanted to know now that I was living in Rajasthan, was my state peaceful? And I can say with God's grace and Master Kirpal's grace, Rajasthan was the most peaceful state during this tragic event. That dear one wrote me in his letter that that person in whom they believe, now he is losing his faith in him because he thinks that that dear one did not protect those people in Delhi as Master Kirpal used to do in His time. And he was also wondering what effect all this has had on me. I have lovingly replied to his letter and posted it just this morning. I told him that whenever tragic events happen, it always affects the Perfect Masters of that time. And they have to shed their blood in order to save the souls. They not only save their disciples but they also save those dear ones who remember them with love and affection. And for a Perfect Master, it makes no difference if such things are happening in a city or outside a city. In any part of the world, when anybody is in trouble and he remembers the Master with love and affection, Master Power goes there and sheds his blood to save that soul. Since the Masters give their blood, or shed their blood in order to save the souls, it affects their span of life. Once Master Sawan Singh Ji was talking with some Akali leaders, Master Thara Singh and Master Uthum Singh Naboukai who were very famous religious leaders. At that time the commander of our army was also present there along with all of us. And they asked Master Sawan Singh, "We know that in your horoscope it is written that you have a life of a hundred years. Is that true?" Master Sawan Singh replied, "Yes, that is very true. But I will live to a hundred years only if the dear ones will allow me to work peacefully. If people throw their difficulties and problems on my head and if I have to shed my blood to save the people, then I will not be able to live that long." The people who meditate know that Master Sawan Singh left the body ten years earlier than he was supposed to leave. In the same way, because Master Kirpal Singh was burdened by the problems and difficulties of the dear ones, He also left his body fourteen years early. Saints do not like to shed their blood for no reason, but they are helpless because they are very gracious on their souls, and whenever they see that the people are fighting with each other and killing each other, they at once go there and go to rescue them. The grace of the Saints is not limited to just His city or state or country. His grace is extended to everyone who remembers Him with love and affection. Even a worldly father is affected if he sees that his two children are fighting with each other. He also feels sick. In the same way when the Saints see that the people are fighting with each other and killing each other, they also feel very sad for them and they intervene in their fight, and in that process they have to sacrifice themselves. Saints do not perform any miracles and they do not use their supernatural powers. But it is true that during such happenings, nature itself takes up the form of the Saints and goes to rescue the people.

I am not telling you this incident to praise myself but this is the fact. I have received a letter from a non-initiated person who lives in the town of Sirsa. He has written to me that he had met me in 1978 when I was going to Delhi. On our way up to Delhi, Pathi Ji and my driver went to buy some ice, and that man was sitting in his shop about a hundred feet from our jeep. I was sitting in my jeep and that person was looking at me, and after a few minutes he came to me and said, "I could not resist, your personality has attracted me to come to you." In my humor, I said, "Dear one, I am not a magnet who could pull you here." But that person said, "Well, you can say whatever you want but I am telling you the fact that you have pulled me here." He greeted me and afterwards he went back to his shop. It was just a brief meeting in which he did not ask me who I was and I also did not inquire about him. Outwardly, he was a person like me, I mean he was also a Sikh with a beard. And during the events which happened in Delhi, he was visiting his relatives in Delhi and he got stuck over there. Whatever happened in Delhi was not fighting between Hindus and Sikhs. In many places Hindus protected Sikhs and in many places Sikhs protected Hindus. So it was not like communal fighting as it has been reported. It was the work of the bad elements, the plunderers, who got an opportunity to go and plunder and they made the Sikh community as their target.

So he was driving his car and at one point he was trapped by many Hindus who wanted to kill him. Suddenly he remembered the brief meeting which he had had with me. And Nature, or you can say God, came in the form of a clean-shaven man and told him to hide under the seat and that clean-shaven man offered to drive the car. Afterwards that clean-shaven man took the car to a safe place and to the relatives of that person where he wanted to go. And before leaving that place the Sikh man asked him to tell him his name and address so that he could thank him. But that person who had helped him said that he didn't have time to tell him his name and address and that he had to go and protect many other people. And he disappeared from there. Afterwards that dear one came to realize that it was the Master Power which had protected him. He had remembered reading Sant Bani Ashram's name on the jeep. And he wrote me a letter writing only that much of the address on the envelope. That was not the correct postal address, and he was not sure whether I would get the letter or not. But many people in Rajasthan know me, and even if you write only Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, sooner or later the letter will get to me. So I got that letter in which he told me all about our meeting in 1978 and how he was protected by God and all that. And he asked my permission to come to the satsang.

So the reason of telling this incident to you is that whenever such tragic events happen, at that time when the souls are saved, Nature takes up the form of the living Saint and in that way protects the souls. Someone has to pay off the karmas, someone has to suffer on the account of the past karmas, either the person or some other power which is bound to help that soul. Nature, or you can call it God, takes up the form of the living Saint, and Nature does not pay anything itself; it is the living Saint who has to pay.

I ate my last meal correctly on the 30th of last month. And until yesterday I did not eat anything. I just used to have tea and nothing else. I am not in the habit of eating cashews or dried fruits or other fruits, because I have kept my diet very simple since my childhood. But because of all that was happening, I was so weak I could not digest anything; I did not eat anything. Just yesterday I felt like eating a good amount of food and I ate it. I told Pappu about that yesterday.

Group Two was here when all those things happened in Delhi. And I knew that this was not a problem between Hindus and Sikhs. That is why I personally went with the group up to Sirsa, keeping my car in front of the bus. And we had to go through many villages where only Hindus live. I knew that they were my brothers and no harm would be done to me. And when we got to Sirsa I said to Pappu, “I am confident in my Master that you will reach Delhi safely,” and with His Grace, Group Two reached Delhi very safely.

So whenever the souls are saved or whenever the sufferings of the souls have been reduced, somebody has to pay for their karmas. No karma is erased without paying for it. Mrs. Indira Gandhi was not a bad person, she was a very good person and she helped a lot in keeping our country united. She had respect for all the religions and communities and she used to treat every person alike. But I don't know why those two misguided people assassinated her; she was deceived by them.

Not everybody in a particular community is a bad person. Even though the two people who assassinated Mrs. Gandhi were from the Sikh community, still you cannot say that everybody in the Sikh community is a bad person. There are many Sikhs who are holding very high positions in India, and our President is also Sikh. The souls who have been rejected by God, and the souls who have not been given the opportunity to do the devotion of God, we should always be afraid of them.

Once Prophet Mohammed was sitting with his disciples, and with some other religious people, and one initiate of his was also sitting there who had done some kind of misdeed. So the other disciples of Prophet Mohammed told him that this dear one had done this misdeed. Prophet Mohammed said that as all the Saints love to be just and always like justice, Prophet Mohammed was also very just. So he said that he would not be responsible for that disciple who had killed somebody; he would not be responsible for that disciple who had deceived someone, he would not be responsible for that disciple who had stolen things from others; and He would not be responsible for those disciples who commit adultery.

When he made this very strong statement, one of His disciples said, “Master, right now you need many disciples, so you should not give this disciple such serious punishment.” Prophet Mohammed replied, “I do not want to become the guru of the false Muslims and I do not want to have such disciples who would do all these misdeeds. I want to become the Master of the true disciples.”

When Guru Gobind Singh came into this world, at that time also, such fire of tyranny was burning as it burnt in Delhi. The fire in Delhi was extinguished soon, but when Guru Gobind Singh came it took him a long time to extinguish it. Guru Gobind Singh protected many innocent souls and in that process he sacrificed himself.

The dacoits do not belong to any one community and they do not favor any one community. If they see that at some place there are many Hindus, they will become like Hindus. If they see that there are many Sikhs in one place, they become like Sikhs. Nowadays many artificial beards and things like that are available; if you don't believe me you can ask our Principal Sahib; he will also tell you how sometimes he has a false nose or false moustache. Saints love all the communities, all the religions, their own and other people alike.

If we live up to the teachings of Guru Gobind Singh Ji Maharaj we will not find anyone as our enemy. In the war when Guru Gobind Singh was helping the innocent people, he had a disciple whose name was Bhai Khanaya. He was given the job of giving water to the wounded soldiers in the war. That dear one used to go within and he had understood the teachings of Guru Gobind Singh. So when he would go to the battlefield to give water, he would not only give water to his own countrymen, he would also give water to the enemy. So the other people complained to Guru Gobind Singh, saying, “Master, we with very much difficulty hurt the enemy, we make wounds in their bodies, but Bhai Khanaya gives them water and so they again get up and start fighting with us.”

So Guru Gobind Singh called for Bhai Khanaya and said, “These people are complaining about you; they say that you give water to the enemy also.” Bhai Khanaya replied, “What enemies? I don’t see any enemy there; wherever I look I see only You.” Guru Gobind Singh was very pleased with him and told the other people that he had understood His teachings. He got so much blessing from Guru Gobind Singh, that even now there is a sect which functions in the name of Bhai Khanaya.

All the Saints come into this world to teach us unity and love for other fellow beings. They tell us that we should love our neighbors as we would like to be loved and we should treat our neighbors and other fellow beings as we would like to be treated by other people. They teach us to live and let others live. Even more than that they always tell us that just as a human being has a right to live on this earth, in the same way the other creatures – animals and birds – also have the same right to live on this earth. Those people who go away from the teachings of such Masters, they walk on the path of killing and disturb other people. They make their own lives restless and they create disturbances for the other people and make the lives of other people restless also.

1985 March: On Raising Strong Vegetarians

This darshan session was given in Rajasthan, October 3, 1984.

QUESTION: Is it all right to feed your children eggs?

SANT JI: Often I have made this clear in children’s darshan, that children are innocent souls that are given to us to take care of; they are the innocent gifts of God. And since they are going to make the future of the nation in which they are born, it is the responsibility of the parents to make their future. When the children are born they are ignorant, they do not know anything of this world. They don’t know whether eggs have enough proteins and vitamins or if vegetarian food has. It is the responsibility of the parents to give them correct diet, correct knowledge, and they should guide them to be vegetarians.

Regarding this I have talked very openly about myself: that since my parents were vegetarians, I was also a vegetarian from birth.² My father was so strict in the matter of diet, that he did not even like to sit near a person in the habit of drinking or eating meat. So he never allowed any of us to go near a person who was eating non-vegetarian food or who was drinking. Because of his strictness we were also vegetarians, and it did not have any bad effect on my health. Many times I have said that in the army, there was no one who could defeat me in running or high jumping. I was very healthy. Often under dangerous conditions I was more courageous than other people. I have said that during the Second World War when Hitler was progressing, nobody wanted to join the army because they feared that if they went to the battlefield they would not come home – that death was certain.

² The contrary statement about Sant Ji’s parents in the Introduction to Streams in the Desert p.2, is in error due to a misunderstanding on the part of the Editor.

So people preferred to go to prison for twenty or thirty years. They thought that joining the army was like committing suicide. I was the only person in my village at that time who was happy to go in the army. I gladly gave my name to the people in charge; I told them that I wanted to fight on the battlefield. At that time I was not 18 years old. The commander and others in charge were surprised at my courage. The doctor who examined us, told us all to take off our shirts so that he could see who was weak, to recommend that they get milk to drink. When he asked the commander who should be recommended to get milk, the commander started weeping and said, “They are all scapegoats, they are all going to die; why don’t you recommend milk for everyone?”

So this was the condition at that time. Nobody wanted to go in the army because death was sure for everyone. But I was very courageous and I think that this was only because of the vegetarian diet on which I was raised right from birth. We do not have complete knowledge of the vegetarian diet. It is an illusion that people say that there are more proteins in meat or in eggs than you can find in vegetarian foods. There are many vegetarian foods in which you can find more protein and vitamins than in the other non-vegetarian foods.

In the border area there was a cantonment; Master Sawan Singh had been one of the engineers who was in charge of the construction of that cantonment when He was working in the army. Once they had a sports meet there and sportsmen from all the different battalions of the army were invited to take part. Our battalion was invited, and a battalion of Pathans also came, from across the border. The Pathans were very tall and sturdy and healthy-looking. They eat only meat and other non-vegetarian food. They were also very well known for their athletic abilities.

Many people knew about me also. In my regiment, I was the person who always defeated everyone in running. So one man who was well known in his battalion came and asked me if I was Ajaib Singh. I replied, “Yes, I am.” He asked me how much meat I ate and I replied that I had never seen meat. So he laughed at me and said, “I will carry you in my arms after the race will start.” I told him, “Okay, time will tell who will carry whom.” They made a joke of us vegetarians. They used to say the vegetarians would eat the cereals with the cereals, they do not eat any flesh and that is why they will never get a sturdy body. “They can never defeat us because our flesh is made of flesh.” But we were all very sure of ourselves.

We had to run for one mile; there were four rounds of 440 yards each. I used to run normally for the first three rounds but in the last round I would run very fast. Even if a mare was chasing me, she could not catch me because I used to run so fast in the last stretch. So for the first three rounds when that man was ahead of me, the people of his battalion were encouraging him to keep ahead of me, and the people of my battalion were encouraging me. But when the last round came, that man’s friends did not cheer when I passed him and came in first. So I mean to say that those people used to laugh at us because we were vegetarians, but when the time came for competition, then they came to know how much energy we got from the vegetarian food even though they were very tall and very healthy looking. When that man was standing near me I looked like one fourth of his size, but nobody noticed that when I passed him and defeated him.

Generally people do not know why mankind started eating meat and drinking wine. In the earlier days when human beings were not so developed, and lived in the forest, in order to satisfy their hunger they used to kill animals and eat their flesh. Since they were eating raw meat which was not easily digestible, out of necessity they invented wine. Wine is also referred to in the Vedas as Soma Ras. It is not a new thing, it is a very old thing, and it was made only to help digest the raw meat that people used to eat. Gradually when mankind started developing and people started living in groups, they learned more about farming and cultivating land and they started growing food. In the beginning when they did not have any knowledge of how to grow fruits and vegetables, they used to kill animals and eat meat. Since they found it tasty they went on eating it and it became very difficult for them to give up eating meat and drinking wine, even though they produced many other different kinds of vegetables and fruits.

Now that God has blessed us with so many vegetarian foods there is no need for anyone to eat meat because there is a substitute for everything. Since we do not have to live in the forest, we have all the means to cook all the vegetables and fruits easily. Since we have been blessed with so many different kinds of vegetarian foods, I think that there is no need for any non-vegetarian food.

A child is innocent and does not know anything. He tries to catch snakes; he does not know that the snake will bite him and the poison of the snake's bite will kill him. Out of his innocence he tries to catch the snake, but the parents will at once come and save him from the snake. In the same way since the child is innocent, he does not know fire will burn him and he tries to touch the fire and again the parents come to help him. In the same way it is the duty of the parents to teach children about vegetarian food because he does not know anything about the food. It is the duty of the parents to teach the children which food is good for them and which is not. It is their duty to teach them about good vegetarian foods.

Master Sawan Singh used to tell a story about the king of Balkh Bokhara. It so happened that once he went on pilgrimage to Mecca. Mecca is that place in Saudi Arabia where Prophet Mohammed was born and every Muslim person thinks that by visiting Mecca and doing that pilgrimage which is called haj, at least once in his lifetime, he will achieve liberation. So many people went to Mecca on pilgrimage and the king of Balkh Bokhara was one of them. It is said that at that time three and one half million people gathered there for that pilgrimage. And when everyone got there a sound came from the sky: "This time many people have come to do this pilgrimage but only one person's pilgrimage has been accepted and he is the shoemaker of Damascus, even though he has not come here personally."

The king of Balkh Bokhara was a pure soul so he was surprised to hear that. He wanted to know what the shoemaker had done which had made him worthy of the pilgrimage without his even going to Mecca.

The King went from Mecca to Damascus and found the shoemaker; and he told him what he had heard in Mecca, and asked him: "What good deed have you done? How have you devoted yourself to the Almighty Lord that your pilgrimage was accepted even though you did not go to Mecca personally?”

That shoemaker was a very poor and humble person. Those who are devoted to God Almighty always like to remain in poverty and humility. They know that humility is the ornament which beautifies them and which God likes. So humbly he said: “I am a poor man and since I had the desire like other people to make the pilgrimage to Mecca, I started collecting money many years back.

“When the time came to go to Mecca my neighbors were cooking some meat and the smell was all over the neighborhood. My wife told me that she also wanted to eat meat so I went to the neighbor and asked him if I could borrow some meat from them. I told them that my wife would also like to eat some meat so would they please give me some. They replied, ‘This is not a good thing for good people to eat. This is the flesh of an animal, which is very impure. Only those people who do not have anything else to eat, eat these impure things. It is not good for you, so you should not eat this.’ When I asked them why they were eating that impure thing, they replied, ‘We have been hungry for the last eight days and we did not have any money to buy anything so we have killed this animal and are cooking it.’

“When I came to know that they were hungry and did not have anything, I was very moved by their poverty and I brought all the money which I had collected for the pilgrimage and gave it to them.”

He was sorry that for the last eight days when the neighbors were not getting anything to eat, that he did not know. He repented and gave that money to his neighbors. He told the king, “I have done only this. You may consider it as a good deed but I think that I have done my duty because they are my neighbors and I gave them this money so they would not have to kill any other living creature to eat. I gave them this money since I thought that I could go to Mecca later on but first I should save the creatures that would have been killed.”

Master Sawan Singh used to say, “As we have the right to live on this earth, in the same way all other living creatures have the right to live on this earth. If you want to eat flesh, eat your own flesh. Why don’t you cut some flesh from your body and eat that? Because when you kill some creature to eat its flesh, do you think it will be giving you its best wishes? As we would not like our body to be cut up, in the same way no living creature would like the same treatment from us.”

That is why we should always try to protect all living beings because we are all created by God and we all have an equal right to live on this earth. Master Sawan Singh used to say that we have to teach all these things to the children and we should tell them the benefits of the vegetarian diet and that eggs and other animal products which people eat increase our burden of karmas; and it is our duty to lovingly explain to our children that they should become free of this burden of karmas and not eat such things which may create the load of karma on them.

Master Sawan used to tell another interesting story: Once there was a boy who got in the habit of stealing things. His mother did not stop him, but instead she encouraged him. If he would bring a small thing, she would encourage him to bring something more valuable. So it went on and gradually he became a very well-known thief. Once he went to the palace to steal things and he was caught red-handed. He tried to escape and in doing so he killed a person there. So when he was captured by the people over there, he was sentenced to death. When he was put in jail and was waiting for his execution, they asked him if he had any last request. He replied, “I just have one desire and if you fulfill that I’ll be very grateful. Kindly bring my mother here to see me.” When his mother came, she stood on the opposite side of the bars. She asked him what he wanted to tell her and he replied, “Mother, why don’t you come close to me. I have something very secret to tell you, bring your ear close to me.” When she brought her ear close to him he cut her ear very severely and she started weeping. And then he said, “If you had given me good teachings in the beginning, if you had not encouraged me to steal, I would not have become a dacoit and I would not be sentenced to death. It is only because of your bad advice and bad inspiration that I became a thief and now must be put to death.”

So it is the duty of the parents to give their children good advice and good inspiration, because it is the responsibility of the parents to make a good future for the children.

QUESTION: I have two cats. Should I feed them vegetarian food?

SANT JI: Many dear ones have come to this ashram in the past few years and they might have noticed that we have three or four cats here and they even come to your room and eat your cookies. We do not feed them any non-vegetarian things and I think they are in good shape. This is a matter of habit for them. They have gotten used to eating chapattis; they like chapattis with ghee on them. So since we have made this habit for them they are used to that.

QUESTION: If a married disciple is inspired by the Master to take a vow of chastity, and he gets the Master’s protection, and then through his own fault, he breaks that vow and fails, what can he do to regain the Master’s protection and reaffirm that vow?

SANT JI: First of all we should try to maintain chastity in married life. We can maintain chastity in married life only if our partner agrees with us. The grace of the Master is the same after the promise is broken as it was in the beginning. But what happens when the disciple breaks that vow? His mind takes the opportunity to bring that thought always in front of him. The mind makes him think that since he has broken his promise, he has lost the grace; he has lost the protection of the Master. Because of his own fault, he thinks that he is not getting the grace of the Master. But that is not true; that is a trick that his mind is playing on him. His mind does not want him to take advantage of the grace of the Master. That is why he makes him feel that he has lost the grace of the Master. But it is only our own idea, that since we have broken the law and not kept our word we feel that Master has taken away his protection. It is not true.

QUESTION: Master, what is the meaning of communion in the Christian church? Christ took some bread and broke it among his disciples and gave it to them, saying, “This is my body.” Does the parshad that Sant Ji gives us and the words that Sant Ji has given about parshad, is that the true meaning of what Christ meant?

SANT JI: The reality is that when the Masters leave this world, the followers change their teachings according to their own interest and what is convenient for them. Guru Gobind Singh did not even allow onion, garlic or chilies to enter his langar, but after he left the body, people wrote that Guru Gobind Singh used to go hunting, and he used to kill animals and eat them. All the Sikh Gurus were vegetarian.

When the Master is present in this world, at that time his teaching is well preached. His teaching tells the Reality, to connect the soul to the Shabda, and to take them back to their Real Home. But when the Master leaves the body, after that only a few people remain who are really practical, and the others who just have the theoretical knowledge involve the people in rites and rituals and outer things.

1985 May: Beyond Hell and Heaven

Questions and answers from December 30, 1984, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan

SANT JI: All right, now you can ask your questions.

QUESTION: When we sit with pain in meditation, is that a way of burning off karma?

SANT JI: When we have pain in meditation it means that we are getting the key to success in meditation. And when we become successful in doing meditation, when we rise above the physical, astral, and causal bodies, and after removing these covers we reach Par Brahm, then we start paying off our karmas in the real sense.

QUESTION: People have asked me recently to pray for them. Even an initiate who is a very strong meditator and is having a hard time asked me to pray for her. I'm confused because I don't know how to do that or if that's the right thing to do – to pray for someone else, even if they ask.

SANT JI: In Sant Mat every satsangi is taught how to first make his own mind still, first make his own mind reach the destination, and then think about others. First he should become successful in carrying his own burden and then he should start sharing the burden of others. First you should pray for your own self and when your prayer becomes successful, only then should you try to pray for others. That satsangi whom you have mentioned, if she is a strong meditator, why doesn't she pray for herself? Why is she telling you to pray?

Rabia Basri was a very famous Saint among the Muslims and once some satsangis came to Her and they said, "Well, tell us something about the will of God." Rabia Basri said, "Since you have brought up this subject, it is better if you say something about it." One of them said, "Whatever pain God gives to you, you should accept that, and patiently bear it."

Rabia said, "Well, that is not the correct attitude for the lover satsangis, because in this statement there is still some smell of egoism. In this statement it seems that you are saying, 'I am bearing' or 'I am suffering the pain which God has given to me.'"

My reply does not mean that you should not have sympathy for anyone. You should have sympathy for the dear ones who have difficulties and problems. but up to a certain limit. And you should lovingly inspire them to do Simran, because Simran is like a prayer. If he will do Simran, he will definitely become free from bad karma. Simran is not less than a prayer.

It is a matter of great understanding. If someone has arranged for water before he is going to feel thirsty, only then will he become successful. If he has not arranged for water, and instead he thinks that when he feels thirsty he will dig out a well and get water, that is not going to work. In the same way, if someone says that he will learn to fight only when the enemy comes to his door, it is not possible. The same principle applies in Sant Mat also. If we have not done Simran while we had happier moments, then our Simran is not going to work when we have pain. Kabir Sahib says, “If the disciple has not done Simran when he was living happily and if he remembers the Lord only in the moments of his pain, which Master is going to listen to the plea of that disciple?” He who remembers God only when he is in pain, Master does not pay any attention to him.

If you have a friend who is having problems, if he is a satsangi you should bring his attention towards Simran, you should remind him of the love of the Master and inspire him to do Simran. If he is a non-satsangi then you should tell him to accept the will of God, and if you will sit near him and do simran he will definitely get some benefit, and he will get the help to accept the will of God.

QUESTION: Talking about Simran, Master, in our area, sometimes we practice standing up, instead of sitting down, in the night time. And I’ve found that a very good help to get the Simran going. Can you say something about that? Is that a good practice? You have said that Sawan stood up, and that Kirpal would meditate in water up to His neck.

SANT JI: You see, the correct posture for sitting for meditation is the one which you were told at the time of Initiation. And that is sitting cross-legged. That is the easiest posture, and you should try to sit in that way. But if you have sat in that position for five or six hours and if you want to meditate more, and if you have gotten tired or are feeling sleepy, then you can stand up and continue your meditation. And if you want you can even tie your hair to a nail and you can meditate in any way you want. But the best posture for sitting for meditation is the cross-legged one. If people have not yet become tired while sitting in the cross-legged position, but stand up anyway and continue their meditation like that, sleep bothers them even in that position, and they fall down. I have seen many dear ones who, when they fell down on the other people meditating there, hurt them also.

Master Sawan Singh and Supreme Father Kirpal had met God, They were one with God, and in fact They were sent into this world by God Himself, and the principle of Their life was meditation and nothing else. How can we imitate Them? Guru Nanak Sahib says, “We try to imitate those who have reached the door of the Lord but we do not look at our bad deeds.”

You can read many stories about Sunder Das, an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh, because many of his stories are written in Mr. Oberoi’s book. And he was number one among the meditators, he used to meditate a lot. Once Master Sawan Singh was talking about how Guru Ramdas would meditate tying his hair up, and meditate for many hours. At that time Sunder Das, who used to meditate for eight hours at a stretch, said laughing, “Master, Guru Ramdas had to liberate the whole world, why do we have to meditate for so long? Because we know that we are going to get liberation from You. So we do not need to meditate all that long.” So it means that those who have taken refuge at the Master’s feet never try to imitate their Master, they just obey the commandments of their Master.

QUESTION: Master, sometimes people go to a lot of trouble to make a room dark to meditate in, and they close it all up and wear hats down over their eyes. And other times people go to a lot of trouble to make a room light and they turn lights on; they want to meditate where it's bright. Does it matter whether it's light or dark where you are meditating?

SANT JI: Well, only those who have some problems with either light or darkness know about this and they can answer your question. Usually it happens that some people have difficulty in closing their eyes so that is an accommodation for them to use a blindfold or to turn off the lights and sit in the dark.

But the meditator should only pay attention to his own meditation. We should not pay any attention to why they are turning off the lights or why they are turning on the lights. Swami Ji Maharaj had meditated for seventeen years continuously sitting in a dark room.

QUESTION: I have a couple of questions. Today before lunch my heart was longing to sing a bhajan to You, but I was afraid, because it is so silent, that it would displease You if I sang to You. The other question is that a couple of nights ago when we were singing the bhajans to You, You looked so sad and I just was wondering about that.

SANT JI: Well, we have set aside the time for singing the bhajans which is in this session and once every three days we sing the bhajans and you should take advantage of that opportunity. Or you can join the other people singing after the morning meditation. At the time of lunch it is very important to maintain silence. It is required very much, so you should try to be quiet and silent at that time. And you should sing the bhajans at the other times. I try my best to remain happy and go jolly as much as I can do. But some dear ones know that in the past month I became sick and maybe my body is looking a little bit weaker. But the happiness which I have cannot be described in words; it is beyond any kind of description. When I was returning from Sirsa after seeing Group Two off, I wrote this bhajan which says that the happiness has gone away and the pains have come, who else can listen to my plea, come and listen to my plea, O Beloved Kirpal. I did not write this bhajan in sadness; I was very happy because I was feeling like a very fortunate one, because He gave me the human body, and He Himself came in a human body to meet me. And He chose me for His devotion, and He has given me so much grace, so I was feeling very fortunate and very happy. And the happiness which I have because of His grace cannot be described in any words. As Kabir has said, "If you make a dumb person eat rock candy and then ask him about the sweetness, he cannot describe it in words because he cannot speak. He can only dance and show his happiness." In the same way, the happiness which He has given to me, I cannot describe that outwardly in any words.

Before 1947, Master Sawan Singh used to say, "I do not feel old, and from within I am very active and I am very young." Even though he was very old at that time. But in 1947 when India and Pakistan were formed during the partition, people played the game of blood in the name of God, and they killed many people. Everybody was killing the other people and a lot of blood was shed. At that time whatever account of Kal the Master had to pay, to settle, Master Sawan Singh did that. In many places He appeared in His physical form to save souls, to save people's lives. And at many places He appeared in the form of the Shabd. He saved many people. And people know about this: how He went to many different places and saved the lives of the people. And in that process He had to give a lot of His blood from His body which made Him very weak. And You know that only after 1947 He became chronically sick and very old, right after that, and He lost a lot of blood from His body. Whatever has happened in Delhi in the past months, it is not hidden from anyone in the world. Everyone knows how in the name of God people were killed. This time also, this body had to pay to the Negative Power; because it is up to the Negative Power how he wants the karma to be settled. So this body also had to suffer a lot. Before this happened I had told Pappu, “I don’t feel that I am becoming older, I feel that my body is like a spring, it is very active.” Because the amount of food that I eat is so small, that no body could live on that, but I have something else within me, some other Power within me which is keeping me alive. So I was telling Pappu that I did not feel old and that I would never become old because I had never become sick, I had remained active. But after all this happened I became weak, and now I feel that maybe I am getting older. So maybe because of that weakness you would have seen me sad, but I am not at all sad. The happiness which I have received is beyond any description. I consider myself as the most fortunate one. I have very great fortune that Master Kirpal chose me; He used to make me sleep in the same room with Him; He used to feed me with his own hands. And He did every possible thing for me; He gave me so much love that I cannot forget that happiness. And even now He is taking care of me and the happiness which He is giving me from within is not something which I can describe in words.

I thank all the dear ones who were concerned for my health. During that time when Paul Young heard about that, he sent me some medicines and some pomegranates which I returned lovingly, saying, “I do not need any medicine, because this is not the sickness which can be cured by the medicines.” This was something else. And I requested all the dear ones here who were trying to give me medicine, I told them, “Don’t call me, let me just remain like I am. It will be better for you. Just leave me alone.” During that time, the Bagga family who were in Canada had many experiences, ten days before all these things happened, and they wrote me several letters. In one of the letters they wrote that they had seen me sick and they had seen how I was paying off the karmas of the dear ones and how I was giving the blood of my body. And they also wished that it might not become true. They had this experience on the twentieth, and the incidents happened ten days after that. And there is one lady in Delhi who once was sitting in meditation, and she also had this experience that the Master was carrying the dead bodies to one place, and she told her son, and he came here, and he told me about his mother’s experience. This is the only reason why Hira Lal, Pappu’s father, has come from Canada. Because of all the experiences which they were having, he was worried, so that is why he came here to see how I was doing. A few years back, when I was on one of my tours, when I became sick in America, Bibi Prakash, Pappu’s mother, had this experience while she was in Delhi, that I was sick, and she wrote me about that and she was worried. But since I was across the seven seas in a far country, I did not want to make them worry so I wrote them a lie, “Don’t worry, I am not sick; I am well.” But that was not true. When we came back from the tour, then I told her, “Whatever experience that you had was true.” So I mean to say that if you people also would meditate, and if you have your attention toward the Master, you can also know in your meditation what the Master is doing, how the Master is functioning in the inner planes, and how He is taking care of the souls.

QUESTION: You know we hear all these different things and someone said to me that he’d heard that we pay off the good karmas first after we get initiated, and then after we enjoy the fruits of our good karmas, then we pay off all our bad karmas. And I wonder if You could say if that's true.

SANT JI: Regarding this, Master Sawan Singh used to say that it would be better if you went within and asked him who is making you pay the karmas. Because he knows whether he has to give you the prize of your good karmas first or whether he has to give you the punishment of your bad karmas first.

QUESTION: Master has said that without leading a righteous life, we can't go within in meditation. And sometimes because my life isn't very righteous I get discouraged about working hard in meditation because Master said that your life has to be righteous to be able to see in meditation. I was wondering if You would comment on that.

SANT JI: Nothing is impossible. One can become righteous if he works hard for it; he has to be determined. And if one is determined, he can do it. I also said that no matter that all these five dacoits are chasing every disciple, the disciple is not alone; he has the Shabd, he has the Master on his back, and with every single breath he is getting the protection from the Master. So why not take advantage of the protection and the help of the Master and become successful in this lifetime? I passed many difficult tests of the wireless radio in the army, and even the test which they used to give in the place called Poona which was the most difficult one at that time. I passed even that one. But I was never afraid or worried whether I would pass the examination or not; I would just do my job. Since I was confident and I had worked hard then I knew that whatever I had done was correct and I would definitely pass the examination. Always after appearing in the examinations I would write, "R" which meant "Right." Now also when I see some students who have appeared in the examinations, and when they come out, and I ask them how they have done in their test, they say, "Well, we will know when the results are posted." But I said, "No. That is not the correct attitude. You should know what you have done. If you have done right, they you should know that you have done right and that you will definitely pass that test."

If a wrestler goes into the ring thinking that he is going to get defeated, he will definitely get defeated. He will not be successful. If the wrestler goes there with confidence that he will defeat the other person, only then can he defeat him. In the same way, the disciple should never lose his confidence. He should always have the love and faith in the Master, and confidence in his own self that he will definitely pass his test.

Supreme Father Kirpal used to say that there is hope for everyone. A satsangi should never become hopeless. I have always said that meditation is the struggle, and you should continue struggling with your mind. Never listen to your mind; never obey your mind. Always go on fighting with your mind. Whatever the Master is telling you in the satsang, do that; obey His commandments; you do according to His instructions. If you have love for the Master, if you have faith in the Master, always go on doing what your Master is telling you. If you have love for the Master, and if you are listening to Him and not to your mind, then you will definitely become successful in this struggle.

Many people who try to continue the struggle with their mind become successful and they come to me and tell me in their interview that they have got rid of lust or of anger and the other passions are also going away. I tell them, "One day all these passions will leave you and you will see that the Shabd is ruling everywhere within you."

QUESTION: I would just like to ask if Sant Ji thinks that things in Delhi are over has that debt been paid? – and whether He thinks we will always be able to come here, regardless of political conditions in this part of the world.

SANT JI: Well, you see the thing is that Saints never make prophecies. They never play the game of the astrologers. We should always remain happy in the Will of God. Whatever is going to happen, will happen, and we should always accept the Will of God. Many people have seen Shanti Chopra, an initiate of Master Sawan Singh who used to live in the ashram. He became very sick towards his end. His stomach got inflated and became very big. He was about to leave the body and it was his desire that I should come to see him before he left. When I was going to America, I had planned to leave Rajasthan the same day we were going to fly out from Delhi. But because of Shanti I went to Delhi a day earlier, and when I went to see him, at that time he wanted to talk with me, but his children wanted to tell me how they could arrange a very good doctor and bring the medicines and things like that. He was not pleased with all that and he told his children, “I don’t want any kind of medicine, because it is up to the Master. It is up to Master Sawan. If the amount of meditation which I was supposed to do in this world has been done, then He will take me now. If He wants me to do more, then He will keep me here. Whether you bring the doctors or not will not make any difference.” But the children did not believe in that, and they always tried to bring some medicines and things like that which he was not pleased with. When I went to see him he was very sick and he told me about his desire. When I left for America I gave the duty to Mr. Oberoi to see him every day until he left the body.

Mr. Oberoi did go to see him every day, and on the final day when he was about to leave the body, since he was from the Sanatan dharma, (the Hindu religion) his wife said, “Since we are Sanatanis, let us take your body down off the bed.” Because in the Hindu religion they do not let the person leave the body while lying on the bed, and they also take the body out of the home. So he said, “Well, whatever you want, you can do.” His wife said, “Let me make some light for you so you can put your attention into the light.” To which he said, “It is up to you. You can do whatever you want, but I don’t want all these things, and I don’t need all these things.” And then he started singing the bhajan, Sawan Kheria Ranga Vich Razi. He sang the whole bhajan and in the last line where it says that Ajaib dukhia hoja razi, he sang Shanti dukhia hoja razi, and that was the moment when Master Sawan took his soul up. He removed the sickness of his soul, and he became his soul, healthy forever.

So we should have faith in the Master. I am sure that Supreme Father Kirpal will continue showering His grace. He is showering a lot of grace on us.

1985 September: Faster than a Bullet

This question and answer session took place January 2, 1985, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Master says that unless we have our attention at the third eye we cannot be pulled up, that unless we have completed the Simran we cannot be pulled up; so what is the situation for the children who are only initiated into the Sound?

SANT JI: As I have said earlier also the attention of the children is not scattered much; they do not take much time to concentrate their attention at the eye center. Maharaj Sawan Singh Ji used to say that many times, even though the parents have been initiated for a long time, they have not opened their inner vision or contacted the Master within, but their children have already done that. Many times they get direct messages from the Master for their parents.

Often I have told the story of a boy who used to live in Ganga Nagar, and had experience of Master Kirpal. Supreme Father Kirpal appeared to him in his meditation and gave him a message for his father. His father was a camel dealer and he was not successful. He was very poor. So Supreme Father Kirpal appeared in that boy's meditations and told him to tell his father that since he had traveled so much trading camels and had gotten nothing out of it, he should stop that business and he should open a shop in a village called Manjuwas.

The next morning that boy told his father about the message he had received from Supreme Father Kirpal. Parents might or might not believe what their child was saying; but since the father had much faith in Master Kirpal, and he was tired of trading in camels anyway, he stopped that business, and obeying the message which had been received by his son, he went to the village of Manjuwas and opened a very small shop with a very small investment. But later he became very successful from that shop, and now they are living comfortably.

Since the attention of children is not scattered much in the world, whatever attention is given them they will accept, and they can become receptive to the Master's grace much sooner than we can. Many times we see that when the children who have been initiated into the Sound start enjoying inner bliss and going within, when they open the inner veil and see the Master within, they become so absorbed in their experiences that they start giving more time to meditation. Some parents don't like that; they are afraid that if the child does a lot of meditation it is possible that he will give up all interest in studying or worldly pursuits. So sometimes they try to stop the child from doing more meditation. But I have seen many six- or seven-year-old children in the Satsang whose souls were pulled up within and when people would pull them out they would say, "Why did you bring me back? I was having the darshan of Master Sawan Singh (or Supreme Father Kirpal)." Children are innocent souls and since their attention is not spread as much in the world, they don't have those wild thoughts; it is easier for them to concentrate at the eye center and open the inner veil.

Once a general came to Master Sawan Singh for Initiation, and when Master Sawan Singh gave him the initiation he said, "First I received initiation from Seth Pratap Singh (who was Swami Ji Maharaj's brother) and then I got Initiation from Hazur Rai Saligram, and then I got Initiation from Sarkar Sahib (Rai Saligram's successor), and now I have received Initiation from You. But even after receiving Initiation from so many Masters I have got nothing. I don't see anything inside; what is the reason for that?" Master Sawan Singh replied, "The woman who has thirty-two husbands cannot please anybody. The same is true with you intellectuals: you try to please everyone and you get nowhere, you have no experiences. Your attention is spread so much in the world. You go everywhere and your attention goes everywhere, and you are not able to please anybody or get any experiences." Master Sawan Singh used to say that it is worth it to spend one's whole lifetime trying to please one Master. But how can those who try to please so many Masters become successful?

When Master Sawan Singh told that general that his attention was scattered all over the world and that is why he could not see anything within, he did not agree. He said, “Well, I don’t agree with this because I know about my concentration, and my attention is not scattered in the world. I can concentrate very well.” Then Master Sawan Singh said, “But then why don’t you see? You have been explained the theory and you know the technique of meditation, why are you not able to concentrate and see the things within? We have experiences in meditation only when we are able to concentrate at the eye center.” But even then that general would not agree that his attention was scattered in the world. His nine-year-old daughter Kamla was also there and Master Sawan Singh told that girl to close her eyes. Then Master Sawan Singh gave her His attention and asked her what she could see. She reported, “Now I see the stars; now I see the sun; now the moon has come.” Then Master Sawan Singh told the girl to open her eyes, and then He said to the general, “Now, you tell me whether your attention is scattered or not. Kamla’s attention is not scattered in the world, so whatever attention I gave her she accepted and she became receptive to it, and as a result she started seeing all these things. Whereas when I gave you my attention, you were wandering here and there. You are not concentrating, that is why you are not receptive to my attention and are not utilizing it in seeing within.” Hearing this the general felt very embarrassed.

QUESTION: Master, I work in a school where the people are very concerned with what they term “social justice” and some programs for the starving and hungry people in the world such as Ethiopia and also in poor sections of our own city. Could You comment on the role of a Satsangi in such programs?

SANT JI: Regarding this Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “First provide for the needs of your own family; if you are successful in that, then think about the needs of your neighbors and try to provide them with their needs; if you can do that, then think about your city or town where you are living: you can help people there. Afterwards, if you have more, then think about the people living in your country. And if you are able to afford to provide things for all the people in your country, then you can think about people in other countries.” He used to say that it is not a bad thing to think about and to help others.

I have seen many “philanthropists” who seem to be thinking and worrying a lot about other people, and who collect a lot of money from other people; but if you saw how much they spend on their own selves, you would be surprised to find that they spend not less than a king would spend on himself. Satsangis are not told not to help others. You will find many Satsangi poor ones who need help; you can help them. You can help your Satsang, and if you have more after helping the Satsangis and your Satsang, then you can think about helping others.

You know that when I went to Sant Bani Ashram last May, for several days it rained, and because the dear ones had worked very hard and had spent a lot of money, they had made a very good place where we could all sit, and people were able to meditate and take advantage of my visit there – only because a very good place was made for them to sit. Even though it was raining outside, they were able to sit inside. So do you think that the people who worked hard in making that Hall, or who contributed money in the building of that Hall, will not get anything in return? No, they will definitely get a lot in return, because God is not unjust; He is just and He always pays the people for what they have done for Him. Master Sawan Singh also had made a very big Satsang Hall; He used to say, “Those who have donated in making this Hall will definitely get the benefit of the meditation of those people who come here and meditate. Even when the donors leave the body they will get benefit from other people who use this hall for their meditation.” That hall was also made in a T-shape, like it has been made at Sant Bani Ashram, New Hampshire.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, to meditate seems to require enormous endurance. How do the very old grandmothers and grandfathers in India meditate when they do not have that kind of endurance?

SANT JI: You see, there is not much difference whether an American person meditates or if an Indian person meditates; they all have the same kind of problems. It is universal whether it is here or there, and unless they have the endurance, the patience, to meditate, they cannot do it. If we do not have endurance we cannot become successful either in our meditation or in worldly work. It is not only for older people; for the young people it also applies. If they do not have the endurance to meditate they cannot become successful either.

I'll tell you one incident of the time of Master Kirpal. Once an elderly initiate came to see Him and he wanted to tell Master Kirpal, “Even the farmers forgive an old bullock, they don't take any work from that bullock but they feed him. In the same way when I have become old I should be excused from meditation. I should not be told to meditate, I should be given this concession.” He told me that he wanted to ask that from Master Kirpal and I should arrange his meeting. So I did. When he went to Master Kirpal he said, “All my worldly responsibilities have been taken care of; I have four sons and they own a very good grocery store and they are well settled, now I have nothing to do. But I have become old and even farmers don't allow the old bullocks to work. So like that, You should also excuse me from the meditation. You should not tell me to meditate because I have become old; You should take me without meditation.” Supreme Father Master Kirpal laughed and said, “You are right that farmers don't make old bullocks work, but if all your responsibilities have been taken care of and you have nothing to do, then why don't you meditate all the twenty-four hours? From now onwards, you should meditate twenty-four hours; all day and night you should be meditating.” He could not argue and he came back.

That old person used to have the habit of keeping a watch in front of him when he would sit for meditation, and since I knew that he had been told by Master Kirpal to meditate for twenty-four hours, I was surprised to see him using a watch – because when you are told to meditate always, then why do you need to have a watch? So once I said in front of all the people in the sangat, “Why does he use a watch when he has been told by Master that he should meditate for twenty-four hours?” And afterwards he gave up that habit.

So I mean to say that it makes no difference whether an old person is from India or from America: when you have taken care of all your responsibilities, when you have finished all your give and take in the world, when everything is all settled for you in the world and you have all that free time, then you should use that free time in doing meditation.

Maybe the older American people have the impression that Supreme Father Kirpal or Master Sawan Singh used to give a concession to the older Indian initiates and they were excused from the meditation, but that is not true. The old person whose story I told you was about a hundred years old at that time and he left the body after living a very long life. So Masters never excuse anybody from the meditation whether he is American, or Indian or African. Because you have to do the meditation; that is very important.

QUESTION: Master, when the Sound and the Light and the Form of the Master is so sweet, why is it frightening at the first part of meditation to sit with the intention of going in, to say, “Today I’m trying to die”? . . . [tape unclear]

SANT JI: In the beginning I used to meditate on the first Two Words and I have said many times that only the beginning practices of Sant Mat are difficult. But once you get going in meditation, then they are not difficult. You need some courage in the beginning to go within, but if you have gone within even just a little bit you get a lot of courage and then it is not difficult. Yesterday in Satsang I said that the satsangis should make the Tisra Til or eye center their seat. If their attention remains at the eye center while they are walking, talking, doing other things, it means that they have made the eye center their seat, and when that has happened, then the Shabd will pull you up by itself. You do not need to go within or do anything; you just need to make the eye center as your seat.

The things which He is supposed to pull – the mind and the soul – if they are not present at the eye center, whom will He pull? At that time the mind and soul are spread all over the body and the world, so the Shabd, even though it is present there, cannot pull anything because that which He is supposed to pull is not present there.

Swami Ji Maharaj says that leaving the Ocean of All Consciousness, leaving Sach Khand, our soul first came to Daswan Dwar and after that she took the company of the mind and came down into the body, and from the body, she has spread all over the world. So when we collect our scattered thoughts and make Tisra Til our seat, when we make the habit of sitting at the eye center all the time, then it is not difficult for us to go up – because the Shabd comes there and if we are also present there, then the Shabd pulls our soul up.

Many times I have told this story and I will tell it again. It is possible that it has been published in Sant Bani Magazine. It is about when I used to make people meditate. There was a person who had the habit of sleeping during meditation, and whenever I told him that he was sleeping in meditation, he refused to believe that; he would argue that it was not true and that he was not sleeping; and he told me that next time when I found him sleeping I should wake him. So afterwards when he sat for meditation along with many other people, he slept and started snoring very heavily. So I woke him up and at that time he was embarrassed and he also laughed, and then he told me what he was doing at that time. His village was about forty miles from the Ashram and at that time, while other people were sitting for meditation and he was also – in a way – “sitting for meditation,” he was trying to pull his cart which was stuck in a berry tree. He was sitting there for the meditation and the Shabd was coming there to pull his soul and mind up, but he was not there – he was not even present in his body, he was forty miles away from the place where he was “sitting for meditation,” totally involved in his worldly pursuits. So, you know that when people “sit for meditation,” their body sits, but you don’t know: if you try to introspect your mind, you will find that many times the mind gets on different flights and goes here and there and does so much worldly business.

In this context I have often told the story of my mother’s brother-in-faith who used to stay up all night and do some kind of meditation, but at that time, since I was very young, I did not know what meditation he was doing. But during the meditation, people had heard him, and I also heard him, say many different sentences. Sometimes he would say, “Yes, have you come now? Okay, come and sit down.” Sometimes he would say, “Okay, so now all of you have come together? All right, all of you also sit down.” He was a cobbler, and he used to have some shoemaking instruments with him so he would sometimes say, “Okay, all of you have come now to bother me? I’ll kill all of you with this weapon I have.” (One of his tools). And sometimes he would say, “I will break all of your teeth” and things like that. So sometimes he said things which gave us the sense that he was trying to chase some people away, but we did not know what was happening. In the morning when I used to go to him with some tea or something, I would laugh at him and say, “Okay, uncle, should I also take your teeth out?” I would laugh at him, not knowing what he was doing. So then he would say, “Son, I will ask you this question; when and if you are given the meditation practices which I have been given, I will ask you – how will you struggle in doing this meditation?”

So sometimes when we have the thought of a relative, the image of that relative comes in front of us, and we get involved in that. Sometimes we have the thought of worldly business and we get involved in that, and because of all those worldly thoughts we do not do the real thing for which we are sitting. That is why Saints always say you should withdraw your attention from all the worldly things and make Tisra Til your seat. Because if you do that, you will not have to do anything. If you will remain at the eye center all the time, without getting involved in worldly things or lower thoughts; then the Shabd will come there by Itself and will pull your soul up.

The thoughts of the world and the pleasures of the organs of senses are the only things which are pulling our soul down. If we withdraw our attention from all these thoughts and rise above all these thoughts and make Tisra Til our seat, our soul will go right up much faster than the speed of a bullet.

QUESTION: Master, sometimes I feel that I hear You tell me things within, even when I’m not meditating. But I’m not seeing Your Form within. How can I know when it’s truly something that You are telling me to do or when it’s the Negative Power or just my mind?

SANT JI: I am sorry to say that Satsangis, even after seeing and knowing all things from the Masters, still create questions like this. When you are seeing or hearing things within, you should know whether it is from the Master or from your mind. You should know that your mind will never inspire you for the things of the Path, he will always create dryness within you. So when you hear things like that, you should know. You should be able to decide whether it is from the Master or from the mind. If you think it is from the mind, don’t pay any attention to it. Don’t listen to it.

During the first tour, in Nanaimo [in 1977], in the initiation, many dear ones had very good experiences. Russell Perkins asked them about their experiences after the meditation and they were all very happy and satisfied. Out of them, Mansa Singh and Martha also had very good experiences which they told me in front of the other people. And then Mansa Singh asked me, “Will we see this again, when we go back to our home, or is it here only?” I laughed and said, “Well, you cannot decrease what you have been given. You can, of course, increase it if you will meditate with love and faith.” So I mean to say that the mind is such that even after seeing all these things, still he will nod his head, and refuse, saying that he has not seen anything. Or sometimes he will have this question or doubt: that this is some kind of magic which the Master is doing and we see these things only in His presence, but when we go back to our homes that magic will not work and we will not see anything. We always remain like toys in the hands of the mind, because first mind will make us sit for meditation and then he will tell us to get up from meditation. If we have good experiences, then he will make us think that it was not a valid experience. Because he does not want us to take the advantage of the experience which we have gotten in meditation, and he does not want us to continue with meditation. That is why he creates such doubts and things. Since we have become toys in his hands, we always follow him. Kabir Sahib says, “I thought that my mind had died and become a ghost, but now in the form of the ghost he is even more powerful. Because wherever I go he follows me.”

QUESTION: Master, at times we are asked to sing devotional songs at funeral homes; would it be right for us to sing these songs of the Masters?

SANT JI: Usually people get the opportunity to visit such places, the funerals or cremations, and it is all right to sing bhajans, because sometimes people don't sing bhajans or devotional songs and get involved in talking, which is not good. But you have to be selective. You should see what kind of atmosphere is there, whether the people there will be pleased hearing the bhajans or not. In the Sikh community, in the final rites, they do the kirtan sola and read many other things from the Granth Sahib and sing a prayer, and they also sing many bhajans. Kirtan sola is one of the banis of the Guru Granth Sahib.

So it is better to sing the glory of God, and to put the attention towards God; if you can do that by singing bhajans there, it is much better than talking about useless things. It is better for the one who is singing and also for the soul who has departed.

QUESTION: Master, if we do a good deed or have a good thought and then the mind or ego asserts itself, and says, “How good I am,” have we lost the benefit of the good that we may have thought or done?

SANT JI: I always advise the dear ones that they should not stop doing their Simran even for a second, because egoism is a very powerful thing and it is the last one to surrender. It is very powerful; and you have to fight a lot with it; it is the last thing which leaves you. You can only abstain from it by doing Simran. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that when you have egoism about anything you have done, you lose the benefit of all that you have done. If you have had some good thought or have done some good deed, you should understand yourself as the most fortunate one, and just as you have worked hard and had that good thought or done that good deed, at the same time you should work hard to maintain its fruit. You should be grateful to the Master that because of His grace you were able to do this good deed, and you should always feel yourself as the most fortunate one.

But the satsangi should not expect a reward for any good deed which he has done, because egoism comes and we get stuck in it only when we expect a reward for our good deed.

Supreme Father Kirpal told me, “Dear son, if anyone gives you water, you should accept it as milk and appreciate it; and if you give anyone milk, you should forget that you have done that.” So it is better for us to forget after doing any good deed.

1985 October: The Reality of the Saints

This darshan session was given March 31, 1985, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: If our own will intervenes at the beginning of the meditation when we sit, when we make our mind quiet and concentrate, could You then tell us when does our own will stop and when does the grace of the Master start? Do we have to become completely empty or can we visualize the form of the Master and still go within with our own will or the grace of the Master?

SANT JI: If you sit for meditation making your mind quiet and emptying yourself of worldly thoughts, then there is no question of your will intervening in your meditation; you have already made your mind empty.

If you sit with the desire that you want to go within, it is possible that the mind may make you lose this determination and attach you to some other desire of the world. Yesterday I described how our mind works like a competent lawyer. Sitting within us he goes on presenting excuses to us: sometimes he tells us in a friendly way, sometimes he comes as an enemy and frightens us; he tries his best to make us give up doing our meditation. So when we sit for meditation it is very important for all the Satsangis to remember the few things I often say before we sit for meditation: that you have to make your mind quiet, you have to make your mind empty of worldly thoughts, and you should not allow your mind to wander outside. You should sit there with your mind quiet, and concentrate.

I have often repeated what Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, that the person at whose door a bullock or some animal is standing, is worried about that animal; he knows when he must bring it from the sunshine into the shade, and when he has to give it water or feed it. He is worried for it and he takes very good care of that animal, because he is responsible for it. In the same way, if you have some servant working in your home or in your store, you know when you have to pay him and what time he should be released, and so forth. And you will take care of every possibility, because you are responsible for him.

In the same way when we are working for our Master, when we are sitting at His door, He is responsible for us; as we do not keep our servant unpaid, do you think that He will keep us unpaid, if we work for Him? He is not unjust. He is full of justice, and He always takes very good care of all those who sit at His door and work for Him. Our job is to do the meditation, to keep our mind quiet and concentrated. When we sit at His door, when we do our work, then He performs His duty, He also does His work. Our job is to sit at the door, our job is to do the meditation; it is the job of the Master to pull our soul up. We don't have any way, any technique, by which we can pull our soul up by ourselves; it is the job of the Master. Our job is only to sit at the eye center and do the meditation as we have been instructed. It is the work of the Master to pull our soul up.

Swami Ji Maharaj says, "The Shabd will be opened with the grace of the Master, and the mighty Master pulls the soul up." Whenever our Shabd is opened, it is only with the grace of our Master, and He will pull our soul up. If we are doing our job, if we are taking even one step towards the Master, Master will come down fifty steps to take care of us and to pull our soul up. So we should also honestly and sincerely do our part: the part of the meditation which we have been given by our Master.

QUESTION: Master, I'm a little confused about when to sit for the Sound Current. I've heard that you're not to sit until the last ten minutes of meditation, and also it's been said, not until you've risen to see the light within. Could You please answer this for me?

SANT JI: Usually I have said that we should spend at least one-fourth of the total time for meditation in sitting in the Sound. By doing that we get the habit of sitting for the Sound practice and every day, by trying to listen to the Shabd, our mind also gets intoxicated by hearing the Shabd. If all the satsangis make Simran as the principle of their life, and if they go on doing the Simran even when they are not sitting for meditation, when they are doing other things of the world, or of their work if they do the Simran at those times, they will not have to work hard for doing Simran when they sit for meditation. When you sit for meditation after doing so much Simran during the daytime, your attention goes straight into the Light and you will not have to work very hard, you will not have to give so much pain to your body, trying to do Simran and sitting for meditation.

QUESTION: Is it all right to give parshad as part of a medical treatment?

SANT JI: In one of the question and answer sessions in Bogota I had replied to this question and it was even published in Sant Bani Magazine. You should try to find that and read that. You will get the answer to this question there.

Still I understand that it is very important for you people to understand the value of parshad. Parshad is another name of grace. Do you want to misuse that grace? Do you want to go on wasting that grace? Master has given you that grace for your own upliftment and purification. Instead of purifying your own self, do you want to waste it for other people?

There is a lot of charging of the Master in parshad which They give us, a lot of grace is contained in that parshad of the Master. If we take that parshad with full love and faith in the Master, we can gain a lot, and a lot of our karma can be paid off by eating that parshad.

Regarding parshad, I would like to tell you a story of Guru Gobind Singh. Once it so happened that he had two disciples in the place called Dina Kungur and the names of the disciples were Lakmir and Shamir. They were two brothers and they were very devoted to Guru Gobind Singh; they did a lot of seva for Him. They would even stay up all night guarding the place where Guru Gobind Singh used to live. They didn't want their Master to have any kind of discomfort, so they would always stay up and guard that place and do every possible thing to please the Master.

Guru Gobind Singh became very pleased with them and He called Shamir and told him, “I am very pleased with you, and I want to give you something.” He gave him some puffed rice as parshad and told him, “This is very valuable and you should take it.” Now Shamir did not appreciate that parshad; he came to his family and he wanted to distribute that parshad among his family members. But his uncle did not believe in Guru Gobind Singh; he used to worship someone called Sultan. Nobody knows the history of that Sultan but people believe that he is some kind of deity, and some people still worship him. Shamir’s uncle also used to worship him, and when Shamir wanted to give some parshad to his uncle, he became upset and said, “How can this little puffed rice cut the cycle of 84 lakhs births and deaths? How can your Master liberate you? This is not true. You should believe in Sultan, otherwise he will destroy you and you will have to suffer.”

Now when Shamir heard all this from his uncle he was frightened, and he did not have the courage to revolt against his uncle. What usually happens when the Saints and Mahatmas come into this world is that people think They are not very learned, They do not have many means in this world, They are not very rich. People do not understand the reality of the Masters. But after the Masters leave this world, then people realize the glory of those Masters and they repent; but what is the use of that?

So at that time there were many people who did not appreciate Guru Gobind Singh, and Shamir’s uncle was one of them. So when he did not appreciate the parshad and rebuked Shamir for bringing that parshad into the home, Shamir was afraid, so instead of giving that parshad to anybody he buried that parshad in the ground.

His daughters were watching, and after Shamir left the house they dug it up and ate it. As a result, their inner vision got opened and they started seeing many beautiful things within. When they saw all those things within, Shamir came to know about it, and then he realized that he had lost the grace which Guru Gobind Singh was trying to give to him through that parshad. Then he repented and he went to the Guru and said, “Master, I am sorry that I did not appreciate the parshad which You gave me. I wanted to give it to my family members but I was afraid and I did not give it to them. I buried it in the ground and my daughters ate it, and now they are talking about the higher planes. I am very sorry that I wasted that grace. Now You should give me such a grace that I will not waste. You should cut my cycle of 84 lakhs births and deaths.”

Guru Gobind Singh was very pleased with Shamir because he had done a lot of seva, and He wanted to liberate him. Masters never want Their disciples to come back into this world again: They are determined to cut down the cycle of 84 lakhs births and deaths in this lifetime. They want to liberate the souls in this lifetime. So Guru Gobind Singh graciously told him, “Okay, Shamir, go and sleep, and let us see what kind of grace you will get.”

When Shamir went to bed, in his dreams he saw many different things: he went into many different bodies, suffered a lot of pain, enjoyed a lot of happiness, and all the incarnations, the births and deaths which he was supposed to go through, happened in his dreams. And finally when his last birth came, he was born in a very poor family and had many children. He did not have enough food to feed his children, so he used to go in the forest and harvest fruit. Once it so happened that he had climbed a tree and was eating the fruit from that tree. The trunk was very weak and he fell down and broke his leg and he felt that pain. Sometimes when we have experiences like this in the dream state, when the pain comes we feel that even in the dream. So he felt a lot of pain and he woke up. When he woke up he was surprised to find the skin from that fruit in his mouth, and then he realized what his Master had done for him. At once he went to Guru Gobind Singh and told Him about all that he had gone through. Guru Gobind Singh told him, “Look here, Shamir, this is the grace of the Master. You were supposed to go into all those lives, but graciously Master has cut down all that pain for you and now you are released from birth and death and you will get liberation. You did not appreciate the parshad and you could not take advantage of it, but looking at your devotion and your service, Master is pleased with you, and you have got this grace.”

So I mean to tell you that if Shamir had appreciated the parshad in the first place, if he had eaten that parshad without thinking of giving it to anybody else in the family, he would not have had to go through all that pain and those incarnations in the dream state, and Master would not have had to work more to give him liberation. If he had appreciated the parshad in the first place he would have gotten the liberation right then. Parshad is something which should be taken with appreciation. If you give the parshad to somebody it means that you have not appreciated the parshad. And if that person doesn't take the parshad with appreciation, it will not work for him. So if you don't appreciate it, only then you give it to other people; and they also do not appreciate it, so it will not work. So parshad is something which should be taken with appreciation and then it works like a miracle – if you take it with appreciation and faith in the Master.

Only a hungry person appreciates food; only a honey bee who is fond of nectar appreciates a flower; and only a thirsty person appreciates water. In the same way, only those gurumukh disciples who go within appreciate the reality and glory of the Master because they have seen the glory of the Master within and they know how outwardly also, through the body of the Master, God is functioning: how God is looking at us through the eyes of the Master, how when the hand of Master is moving it is not the hand of the Master, it is the hand of God Himself. And it seems like the Master is speaking and the voice is coming out from His throat and mouth but in fact it is the voice of God. Only the gurumukhs who go within and have realized their Master within know about this truth, and only they appreciate. So when they get parshad they know that it is not given to them by some human being, it is given to them by the Almighty Lord Himself. They know that through the body of the Master God Himself is functioning. Kabir Sahib says, “Brahm speaks through the body of the Saint; how could even Brahm speak without a body?” So only the perfect disciples, those who go within and have seen the glory of the Master, know the reality and the value of parshad, and they are the only ones who appreciate it.

Once some people were doing seva at Master Sawan Singh's farm, and every morning Master Sawan Singh would visit those people and He would take them the leftover chapatis from the previous day. And also He would take some sugar which was made from the sugarcane juice produced on His farm. Every morning He would visit the sevadars and give that parshad to them. Once it so happened that when Master Sawan Singh went there to give food to the people, Mastana Ji of Baluchistan was also there, and he crawled to the place where Master Sawan Singh was standing. He did not worry about his clothes; he did not even worry about his body. Master Sawan Singh Ji told him that he should walk and not crawl, but he said, “No, I would like to crawl on the sand where You have put Your feet, because it is like parshad to me.” There were some gentlemen there who were very much worried about their clothes and were not interested in doing the seva of carrying baskets full of mud, and they were even complaining to the other people, “You should keep yourself away from us, because when you carry these baskets the dust comes and spoils our clothes.” When Master Sawan Singh came there, the same people told the sevadars that they should go away because the dust was blowing towards the Master and it was spoiling His clothes.

But Master Sawan Singh Ji said, “No, don’t do that, because this dust of the sangat is very precious to me; it is very sweet and nectarful to me and I like it because it is from the sangat.” At that time I was also present there, and I was wearing a sheet. When Master Sawan Singh wanted to sit there I put that sheet down under Him and I was very fortunate that He sat on that sheet. I preserved that sheet and when Supreme Father Kirpal, that gracious Lord, came to my home, I told Him, “This is the sheet on which God Sawan sat, and I am very fortunate that now God Kirpal is sitting on it.” Master Kirpal also became very happy. I still preserve that and appreciate it, because I know that twice God came and sat on that sheet – once in the form of Sawan and once in the form of Kirpal. But not everyone can have that kind of appreciation; only those who go within and realize the glory of God, the reality of the Saints, can have such appreciation.

I have often said about my early days when I met Master Kirpal, once when He came in front of many people in the sangat, I stood up and told Him, “Master, I don’t care for any God; I don’t care for any Anami or Sat Naam because I have not seen them. I have known only You, I have seen only You. And for me, You are my only God.” I have often said that those who catch hold of the Master get Anami; they get Sat Naam; they get the Almighty Lord; they get everything. But those who do not catch hold of the Master, no matter how hard they work in their life, still they get nowhere and they never become successful.

Before meeting Master Kirpal I was in a way cut off from the world because I had meditated for seventeen or eighteen years and I did not know what was happening in the world during that time. When I met Master Kirpal I understood this: “This is the Path of Love on which I have been walking without really meeting the Beloved. Now that I have met my Beloved, I should continue walking on this Path of Love. Up until now I have kept my life without any stain and I have kept this path of love free from any stain or impurity, and now I should continue the purity of it. If I withdraw from this path of love it will mean that I am not fit to become a lover and I will have made this path impure. I should not withdraw from it; I should go on walking on it, go on practicing it; even if I have to sacrifice my own life, I should not worry. I should continue following this path and loving my Beloved.” At that time I often used to say, “In the court of love I have transferred my life in the name of Kirpal. Now my life belongs to Kirpal, and I have no ownership or control over it. Ajaib Singh has transferred his life to Kirpal Singh.”

So when I gave away my life in the Path of Love to my beloved Kirpal, and tried to follow His Path of Love with sincerity, He showered all His grace on me. Dear ones, when we give away our life for the Master, when we sacrifice our life for the Master, the love for Him is developed within us by itself, and the faith in Him also starts to come within us by itself. When we love someone and have faith in someone we will definitely be afraid of Him. You know that if we want to please any worldly relative we are very careful not to do anything which would upset our relative, because we love him and respect him. In the same way, if we love our Master, and if we respect our Master, if we have faith in Him, then we will be afraid of His displeasure. We will not do anything which would cause displeasure to Him. So when we have real love for the Master and faith in Him, and if we are afraid of Him, all the impurities and bad qualities within us leave and in their place the good qualities come.

During Swami Ji Maharaj's time, many non-initiates who lived in the same city used to come and eat food which the dear ones would prepare with love and affection. They were not satsangis, but they used to come and eat the food, and without appreciating it they would criticize the food and the way it was being served. The dear ones who were preparing the food were very disturbed, so they came to Swami Ji Maharaj and asked Him to get rid of those people who were not satsangis. So Swami Ji Maharaj brought some water in His mouth and, in front of all those non-satsangi people, He spit that water on the food when He came to bless it. When they saw that, at once they started criticizing and left that place without eating, saying "Who would like to eat that contaminated food?" Now for the dear ones, the satsangis and those who had faith in Swami Ji Maharaj, it became parshad and it was very good for them; they all took that food with a lot of love, faith and affection for the Master. Since then many people still have that impression that the Radha Soamis make food contaminated by spitting in it. Many people even came to Master Sawan Singh complaining about that because they had heard it from other people. But Master Sawan Singh said, "No, that is not true. Nobody does that." It was a way that Swami Ji Maharaj used to keep those people away from the langar, but otherwise the Saints never do that. They touch the food and bless it and put a lot of grace in it and make it parshad. But only the real dear ones and devotees understand that food as parshad and appreciate it, whereas the other people don't.

Those who have had the good fortune of having the darshan of Supreme Father Kirpal will remember that towards His end time He used to have the problem with breathing and He would often spit. He used to carry a small bowl-like thing in which He would spit. When He came to Rajasthan for the last time many people saw that and many people even made a joke of it, and even now they say that Master Kirpal used to collect the spit for His dear ones. So now also when people say that, I tell them, "Yes, you should be careful when you eat from the langar here; it is possible that I will also spit in it."

So I mean to say that Saints are very gracious on Their disciples and They always want to shower grace on them. But those who do not appreciate the grace of the Master – because they do not know the reality of the Master – they make much bogus gossip like this. Those who understand and appreciate the value of the parshad make their lives just by eating that parshad which is touched or blessed by the Master. But other people, because they do not know the reality of the parshad, do not appreciate that parshad and do not take advantage of it. Those who know and appreciate its value take it with full love and faith in the Master. They become so happy in receiving parshad from the Master that they feel that they have got the Kingdom of the whole world and they feel a lot of happiness after receiving the parshad of the Master.

Master Sawan Singh was once giving Satsang in Shimla and two wealthy Sikhs came there. The Master said, “Well, if you want to talk with me about something, or ask me anything, I can stop the Satsang and we can talk.” But those people said, “No, first do Satsang, and then we can talk.” After the Satsang was over and the parshad was brought for distribution, those two people before receiving the parshad asked Master Sawan Singh, “Tell us whether this parshad is pure or contaminated.” The Master replied, “Well, it is pure as well as contaminated.” Those people said, “How is that possible that it can be both pure and contaminated?” Master Sawan Singh said, “You see, these people just brought the food and I just touched it. So it is pure; nobody has taken parshad from this plate up until now. Nobody has eaten from it. But you know that when we make food for parshad, in our mind we make a prayer, ‘O Lord, we have made this parshad for You, may You eat this and touch it and make it worthy for other people to eat.’ If God has accepted our prayer, if He has eaten from this plate, it means that He has contaminated it in that way.”

Then those people understood. They had been misunderstanding that the Masters of the path of Sant Mat always contaminated the parshad. When Master Sawan Singh was replying to their question, many other initiates who were sitting in the Satsang had seen a beautiful vision. After the Satsang they told Master Sawan Singh that when He was talking to those people, they saw Master Jaimal Singh standing behind Him helping Master Sawan reply to the question of those Sikhs.

So the meaning of this is that when Masters give parshad They do not contaminate it, or make it dirty. The parshad is as pure as the Master is; and in the parshad Master gives a lot of His grace. Master Sawan Singh, at that time, also said, “You see the person who had spent so many nights doing meditation, collecting the wealth of spirituality, do you think that he would like to waste his spiritual wealth by giving contaminated food to other people? By giving his leftovers to other people?”

When you give your leftovers to anybody else, you give some of your spiritual wealth to that person. Master Sawan Singh said, “You can ask my children; up until now, I have never allowed even my own children to eat from my plate, because I know the value of the spiritual wealth and I do not want to lose it.” So Masters never give contaminated parshad; but They definitely give the grace which They have from Their Master in the form of parshad to the dear ones.

The dear ones always appreciate parshad and long for it. When I first went to Delhi, I had this habit of cleaning my plate after eating my food. I would take only that much food which I would need and then I would literally clean the plate. I would not leave even a little bit of leftovers. So Hira Lal, Pappu’s father, saw this for the first few days and since he wanted to have parshad, he told me many times that he needed parshad. But I was also determined not to give any leftover food as parshad. I told him, “No, it is not possible.” But he went on struggling and I also went on controlling myself. But finally I could not resist, so he told me that I should eat whatever I want and leave the rest in the same plate, and not keep it in a separate plate. And then I could not resist any more and I started giving the leftovers to them. And since then giving parshad has been started. Before that incident I was very much a miser. I would not give any parshad and I was very determined not to give any spirituality to people in the form of parshad, and I had closed and locked all the doors. It was the grace of Supreme Father Kirpal that He made me open those doors, and now sitting within me He is giving the riches of spirituality with both his hands.

1985 November: The Master Cares For You

This question & answer session was given March 28, 1984, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, when I sit for meditation and close my eyes, my attention goes up to my forehead, but I'm also aware that I can sense the direction that my eyes are pointing and I feel like I'm looking in that way too, which is down. So I feel very conflicted about the attention. Can You explain what's happening and how I can get my attention to go up?

SANT JI: Often I advise the dear ones that they should read Sant Bani Magazine thoroughly and very attentively because most of such questions are answered in the magazine. So if you would read those magazines properly you would find the answer to your question.

Often I have said that when we sit for meditation our body should be still, our mind should be still, and surat and nirat should also be still. When our body is still it will help us to make our mind still; and when our body and mind will be still it will be very helpful in stilling our surat and nirat.

Surat is that faculty or power with which we hear, and nirat is that power or faculty with which we see. So that is why it is very important for us to keep our body, mind, surat, and nirat still when we sit for meditation. In this regard I have often given the example of how we were taught to use a gun. When I was in the army they used to teach us that in order to send the bullet straight to the target we need to keep our body and the gun and the target all in one line. If any of those things are not in line or if any of those things are moving, we won't be able to hit the target. In Sant Mat also the same principle applies: If you want to meditate properly your body should be still, your mind should be still, and your attention should not be very much upwards or downwards. It should be just a little above the eye center, between and behind the eyebrows, and you should be looking inwardly and not outwardly as you have said.

At the time of Initiation the dear ones are told, "You do not need to form any images or anything when you sit for meditation. You should just close your eyes and whatever you are seeing inside, it is your third eye which is seeing those things; and you do not need to find the third eye." When you close your outer eyes your third eye starts functioning. That is why I always advise dear ones that when they sit for meditation they should not exert any effort to look or see things, or form images by themselves. They should just keep their attention at the eye center and do the repetition of the words. Why does it happen that dear ones do not know where they have to concentrate, and why do they sometimes look upwards or downwards or to the left or right? Because they have not collected their thoughts. Their thoughts are dispersed everywhere; that is why they spend all their time struggling over where to concentrate, and where to keep their attention.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, we're supposed to use the Simran to control our mind, but we also need to rely on our mind to remind us to do the Simran. It sort of seems like setting the crows to watch the corn. I don't quite understand.

SANT JI: It's not like that. At the time of Initiation, you are told that when the disciple is initiated, the Master sits within the disciple in the form of the Shabd. So when you are doing the Simran you should seek the support of the Master and you should be remembering and longing for the support of the Master for doing Simran, instead of the mind.

QUESTION: Could you please tell us a story? [much laughter]

SANT JI: [Sant Ji laughs.] When we are talking about meditation, only the stories regarding meditation seem nice to talk about. And if, in the reply to any question, a story comes up naturally, only that looks good; otherwise it doesn't look nice to tell stories. [more laughter]

QUESTION: Sant Ji, when I listen for the inner Sound Current, I hear different tones, sounds, and they vary in pitch, and I wonder can I concentrate on a pitch? I guess my question is: Do the higher pitches make any difference, or should I be happy just to have the Sound?

SANT JI: This is why I always advise the dear ones to read Sant Bani Magazine thoroughly, because all such questions are answered in that magazine. I have often said that when the water is coming down from the mountain, that water has one kind of sound, and when it is traveling on the stones it has another sound, when it flows over the sand it has a still different kind of sound, and when it finally merges into the ocean it has a different kind of sound. But the water was the same; the sound varied only because the places where the water was traveling were different. In the same way, there is only one Sound coming from Sach Khand, but because it travels through five different planes, that is why Masters have said there are five different sounds. In fact, there is only one Sound coming from Sach Khand, but because it travels through the five different planes, that is why it sounds different. So in the beginning, whatever sound you hear, you should catch that sound and concentrate on it, whether it is of low tone or high tone. Every day you should try to catch that sound and concentrate on it. You should not change the sound from day to day; you should catch one sound and concentrate on that, because all the sounds which you hear have the connection with that higher Sound which is coming from Sach Khand.

These are the general questions which almost everyone has, and they have been answered many times. So that is why we should carefully read Sant Bani Magazine. If we have not read the earlier issues we should read those also, because that will be beneficial for you. I do not mean to say that you should not ask me any question. I don't mind replying to your questions, no matter if you ask me the same question again and again, but I want that you should read the magazines, and the holy books, so that you will know what the Masters have written in those books and how those things can be helpful to you.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, sometimes when I get sick, I get the feeling that, even though I feel sick, the mind is doing it to keep me from meditating. And I wonder does that happen and is there some way to tell when that's happening and how to overcome it?

SANT JI: In fact, pain, happiness, wealth, poverty, good health, and bad health are due to our own karmas. As far as the mind is concerned mind only presents excuses within us so that we will not sit for meditation. If we have real love and faith in the Master, if we are devoted to the Master, if we have self-confidence, no matter how sick we are, still we will not postpone our meditation. If we do not have that love for the Master, that self confidence within, then even if we are not very sick our mind will tell us, “You are very sick,” and we will postpone our meditation because of that.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, You've told us in the past that sometimes the Master keeps us from having inner experiences because our ego wouldn't be able to handle it, so they are postponed on and on. Also You've told us that we should look to our outer life to see why we are not progressing, because we're failing in the discipline. Is there any way to know which it is?

SANT JI: Supreme Father Kirpal invented the diary for us only for this purpose: so that we may know where we stand and what good and bad karmas we are doing. Do you think that you won't be aware of whatever good or bad karma you have done? Whatever good or bad karma we do we always remain aware of it; it is not as if somebody else will come and do good or bad karma for us and we will get the benefit of it, or pay the reaction of it. All the karmas, whether they are good or bad, which we have done, will bear fruit; we will have to pay off their reaction. Sufi Sant Farid Sahib said that the farmer is longing to have dates but in fact he is planting chilis. How can he get wool when he has not worked for it, and when he has sown cotton? I have often said that when we are doing any deed we know what the reaction of it will be, what result we will have. When we are sowing anything we know what will grow. Baba Bishan Das Ji used to say, “You are planting useless bushes and hoping that you will harvest a very good dish.” While you are planting useless trees you are expecting to have sugar cane. How is that possible?

When we will do our meditation honestly and with good thoughts, then we will have no complaints like this. Because then we will be capable of seeing what our Master is doing for us. Those who want to see where they stand and want to see progress in their meditation, they also work hard in making their life pure, and they always keep their thoughts pure. And those who do their meditation wholeheartedly and honestly by keeping their life pure, with pure thoughts, they can not only see their own progress, but they can also see how Master is pulling their own soul up and how He is working even for others.

Often I tell the story (and the question of that dear one who wanted me to tell a story will be answered now) of one fakir whose name was Suthra. He was a very fearless fakir and had written many humorous parables. Once he asked someone how to make a house strong. That person replied that if you put many pillars in a house it can become strong. So he started putting in pillars and he filled the whole house with pillars until there was no room in the house for him to sit. Suddenly it started raining, and since he did not have any place in the house he was standing outside, shivering in the rain. Someone came by there and asked Suthra why he was not in the house. So he replied, “If there were any place inside the house, I would have put one more pillar in there.” So on one side we ask how do we know that Master is protecting our progress, how can we be convinced? But on the other side we are not ready to give up lust, we don't want to give up anger, attachment and all the bad things. We have all sorts of bad deeds and bad habits, and still we argue and complain, “How can we be convinced that Master is protecting our meditation?” So our condition is like that fakir who has filled up his house with pillars and hasn't left any place for himself. We have filled up the place where our Master, our God, is, with lust, anger and all the bad things of the world, and we have all kinds of worldly desires and attachments, and we don't have any place for Him to come and reside. And still we have this question: "How do we know that Master is protecting our meditation?" Unless we have a place within where we can go and see what the Master is doing, how can we know that He is protecting our meditation?

Do you think that the Master, Who is within you and is always watching over you, does not care for you? He knows about your thoughts even before you think them. He knows every single action you do; He knows every single feeling and thought which you have. Even without your asking He knows everything that you want. Since He cares for you, He wants you to leave your body and go back to the Real Home. That is why He always works and cares for you. Sometimes when the disciple is doing bad karmas or bad deeds, the Negative Power makes Him feel embarrassed and says to Him, "He is the person to whom You gave Initiation? Was he worthy of getting Initiation?" At that time Master has to keep silent, but still He says, "No, he is my dear son, but he is innocent, he does not know what he is doing. Gradually he will understand his mistakes and he will come back." The Master has a huge amount of patience with the disciple and always patiently waits for us to come back to the real path: because He knows that some day we will definitely come back. That is why the Master Who is sitting within us, cares for us and always protects our meditation. He has given us Initiation and He knows that when we become free of our karmas, when we will give up doing the bad karmas, our soul will go up to the Real Home very quickly like a bullet shot from a gun; we will go up, riding on the Shabd, to our Real Home. It is only our bad deeds and karmas that keep our soul in the body; otherwise there is no other thing which keeps our soul from going back to the Real Home.

About four years ago, one initiate of Master Kirpal Singh reported that his soul was getting pulled up within and that he was getting a beating from the Master. He used to sell vegetables and he would deceive people by adding water to the vegetables to increase the weight". So Master pulled his soul within and he told the people that he was getting a beating from the Master within, and Master was telling him that he was doing a bad thing. After some time he came to 77 RB and asked for forgiveness. I told him, "The Lord Who is going to forgive you is within you; now if you take a vow that you will not add water to the vegetables, then you can be forgiven." Then he took the vow. He is still alive and he still does the same business, but now he has repented and he has taken a vow that he will be honest in his business. Generally Saints do not do things like this, but sometimes in order to show the people, in order to make people know that Master is aware of every single one of our actions, sometimes They perform such miracles.

So we should know about the good and bad deeds which we do during the day; when we sit for writing our diaries at the end of the day we should know how many good and bad deeds we did today – and why we did the bad deeds. We should know why we did not meditate for this much time today, why we were lazy. We should fill out the diary honestly so that we may know where we stand and what things are keeping us from progressing. You people are Satsangis. You follow Sant Mat and you have a Master; therefore your life is insured. Your Master is determined that He will definitely take you back to Sach Khand. There is no doubt in this fact. But just imagine the condition of the other people in the West and all over the world: how the flood of pleasures and lust and all those bad things are harming them. People do not understand how serious this thing is. They just take it as a very ordinary thing and that is why they do not make their lives pure. They always stain their life. Often I have said, quoting Kabir's bani, "When we are married, it is all right for us to have the connection with our wife, but to have lust for someone else outside of married life is counted as adultery. And those who are involved in committing adultery can never be forgiven, and their soul can never become pure. They can never ride on the Shabd and go back to the Real Home." Guru Nanak Sahib has said that the person who gives up his own wife and goes to another's wife is like a blind man who does not see the reality and goes after the unreal thing. We have made our life like that. We do not pay any attention to our companion and we go to other people. In that way we are wasting and losing our life.

In Sukhmani Sahib, Guru Arjan Dev Ji has written that we should not look at other women. We should always remain in the company of the Master. He says that women should not look at other men with lust in their eyes. He has not written only for women; this applies for men also. Men should not look at other women with lust in their eyes, nor should the women look at other men with lust in their eyes.

Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj says that the woman controlled by lust does not want to miss any opportunity to indulge in lust with another person. And in the end she is eaten up by lust, greed, and anger. Do you think that when a person commits adultery or is involved in bad deeds, his brain is not affected by that? His brain is also affected by that because there is a power within us who always curses the person who has done something bad, and even he himself thinks about it and knows that he is doing something bad; and he always repents for that and worries that if someone else finds out about his bad deed he will be embarrassed.

I had many opportunities to sit at the feet of Beloved Master Sawan Singh and I heard many of His talks, and still the words of great Master Sawan Singh are sounding in my ears. He often used to say in the satsang, that if you cannot remain celibate, then you should get married. What is wrong in getting married? From outside we pretend that we are good meditators, we are celibate; we do not get married, so we are maintaining chastity. But from inside we are always thinking about women and we are always thinking about indulging in lust. Outside sitting with the other people we pretend that we are good meditators, but inside we are committing sins. Do you think that our Master is not aware of the sins we are committing inside? Master always knows everything we are doing. If you don't have thoughts of indulging with a woman even in your dreams, then you can shout from the rooftops that you have maintained chastity, and that Supreme Father, Almighty Lord, has been very gracious on you that you have controlled this element. Then it is all right if we don't get married. But if lust is bothering you even in your dreams, in your thoughts, then there is no harm in getting married. You should without any hesitation get married.

This will help you a lot in your spiritual upliftment. Many times in Satsang I have said, "Why do the Masters emphasize remaining loyal to your companions? Because it affects our spiritual progress." Those who do not maintain chastity in this physical world, I often say that when they go to the astral world they will meet astral men and women over there who are very radiant and very beautiful. So those who cannot control lust while in the body, just looking at the physical body of another person whether it is man or woman, those who get involved in lust – do you think that they will be able to maintain chastity when they come in contact with the radiant astral men and women? So that is why we should always try to maintain chastity. Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj says that just for the pleasure of one moment one suffers for one crore days. (One crore days means thirty-three thousand years.) Just for getting the pleasure of one moment he has to suffer for that much time. Guru Arjan even says that lust is such a bad thing that it takes you in many different bodies and even into hell.

Saints have been householders as well as renunciates. Yesterday I said that there were many Saints who lived a householder's life and there were many Saints who were renunciates. And neither the householder Saints have said that renunciation is bad, nor have the renunciate Saints said that the householders are bad. They say that it does not matter whether you live a householder's life or the life of a renunciate: the thing that counts is your strength or maintenance. If They have been a renunciate They have been completely renunciate, and if They have been a householder, They have always maintained that religion of the household. Saints always say that if your mind does not bother you for lust and if you can do without getting married, there is no need to get married; but if your mind bothers you, then in Sant Mat there is no bar against getting married, you can easily get married.

I often say that you should just live a pure life for some time and start enjoying the purity of life. Start enjoying the maintenance of chastity. The time will come when you will not be willing to give up your chastity – no matter what you are offered you will not be willing to give up your chastity.

The question which was asked was how do we know whether it is our Master Who is holding back our progress and not letting us see it, or if it is because of our shortcomings in our outer life that we are not progressing. You know that when it rains or snows the wind which blows through that place where it has rained or snowed becomes cold and spreads coolness everywhere. In the same way, if you have maintained a pure life, if you are living a pure life, Master is no doubt aware of it, because He is sitting within you. So when you are living a pure life, not only you will be aware of your progress, but even the people who are living around you will know about your purity, and they will also say that you are a pure man or woman.

Once in the army there was a theft and many guns were stolen. They said that it was because of the carelessness of the guards, and the commander and everyone was very upset because they did not know who had stolen them. They were going to punish many people including many innocent people. They did not know how to find out the truth of who had really stolen those things. In the army they often used to call me “Bhai Ji” or “Gyani Ji,” and they knew that I was a very sincere, truth-speaking person. They respected me a lot. Our commander told everyone in our group in the army to come and touch the body of this man, “Gyani Ji” and say that they were sincere and didn't know anything about this theft. Out of fifteen hundred people, there were only four people who were involved in that theft. Only they were not able to touch my body and say that they were true and did not know anything about it. I did not tell them that I was pure, and I did not threaten them or do anything. It was only because of my purity that they could not dare to touch me and lie. The others who were sincere had no problem, they came and touched me and said, “I do not know anything about it.” But the real thieves when they came near me started trembling. So I mean to say that when you are living a pure life, when you are pure within, your purity is such a great thing that it will be spread everywhere and even the bad people will not dare to come in front of you and lie. Do you think that when you live a pure life, your friends and neighbors will not be aware of that? They will definitely be aware of it, because purity spreads like a fragrance. And those who have their nose open always smell it and know about it. In the army it was a very unusual thing for a person not to eat meat and drink wine and I was one of those people who did not. So people knew everywhere that I did not eat meat or drink wine. I have often said that while serving in the army I never visited any city; even for buying small things, I would tell my friends to go and buy them for me, because I was very religious minded. I would spend my time in the religious places and live a pure life. And only because of that purity I was known everywhere, and people even used to swear in my name.

I often say that the house which we live in, or the land where we live, at least that land or house should be proud of us, that such a good person lives here. Your Master is very pure and very holy; He is above the dirt and bad things of this world; so why don't you rise above the dirt and bad things of this world, and become as pure and holy as He is, so that He may manifest Himself in you and be proud of you, that His disciples are so pure and holy? When Supreme Father Kirpal came to my ashram for the first time, I told Him, "Master, I don't know what question I should ask You, because my heart and brain are empty; since my childhood I have kept them empty." He smiled and became happy and said, "Only because your heart and brain are empty have I come so far. I have traveled five hundred kilometers only because your heart and brain are empty, and I have come to give you something." And because I was hungry for His grace and He had the grace, He showered His grace on me. I was burning like a fire and He had Naam with Him. He caused the rain of Naam to shower and He cooled down my heated heart.

1985 December: The Philosophy of Karma

This talk was given on October 2, 1985, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: I was wondering if you could clarify how it is that the Master suffers pain when we do not meditate. I've understood from what I've heard previously that the Master takes on pain when we do not meditate two hours a day. And also I've been told that every cell of His body is suffering excruciating pain. I was wondering if you could clarify this, if you could elaborate.

SANT JI: You know that when we plant a plant we expect that when it grows up, it will yield fruit. In the same way, when we get initiation from a Perfect Master, our desires know no limits. We have limitless desires, and that is why we have come to the Master: so that with His grace we may fulfill our desires. The letters of the dear ones show how many desires they have. Their desires are limitless; and after making so many demands, they even confess that they cannot meditate, which is required. So they request to the Master, "Master, shower Your grace on us so that we may get this thing and that thing." Now you know that when desires are to be fulfilled, it is necessary that the karmas which are involved in doing that be dealt with; unless our karmas are paid, unless it is written in our fate, we cannot get what we want. Sometimes we ask for things which are not written in our fate, but still we make our request in love for the Master, so out of love for His disciples, Master is bound to give to the disciples that which they have requested, even though a lot of karmas may be involved in that. As Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “It is up to the Negative Power to decide in which way he wants the karmas to be paid.” The disciple pays the karma, or the Master who has become responsible for the disciple pays the karma. The Master has no choice regarding how to pay. If the Negative Power wants blood from the body of the Master, He will have to give that; if the Negative Power wants that the Master’s body should suffer with fever or any disease, in order to pay the karmas of the disciples, the Master has to do it according to the wishes of the Negative Power. This law of the Negative Power cannot be changed. The Masters suffer pain only because of the karma which the disciples should be paying, which they are not able to pay because they go on requesting the Master, “We cannot pay off these karmas.” In other words, they say, “We cannot meditate. If we meditate we can pay off the karmas; but we cannot meditate. That is why we request the Master that He should shower grace on us, because we cannot meditate.” This is the condition they put. That is why the Masters have to suffer so much pain. You know that not everyone in this world has the same kind of thoughts, the same kind of compassion and kindness, for other beings. You would have come across such incidents many times in your life: Suppose there is a person lying on the roadside suffering pain. Many people don’t even bother to look at him, to find out what is wrong with him, what to speak of stopping and taking care of him. But there are some people, those who are compassionate, kind and gracious, they may stop by that suffering person, ask him what the problem is, and it is possible that they may even take that person to a nearby hospital or doctor and give him medicine. Afterwards they may keep visiting that person. They do that because God has put within them a lot of grace, a lot of kindness and compassion, for all human beings.

This is a worldly example. Saints and Mahatmas come into this world carrying a lot of grace and kindness for all human beings. When any of their disciples – or even someone who is not a disciple of the Master, but remembers Him – cries for help, Master cannot stop Himself, He cannot control Himself, He always comes down to help that disciple. And you know that when you help someone, you have to lose something of your own.

Master Sawan Singh became very ill towards the end of His lifetime. He became so sick that He lost a lot of weight and became very weak and thin. The devoted disciples who lived near Him said, “Master, you should pray to your Master, Baba Jaimal Singh, that He will allow you to spend some more time among us, and you should request Him for recovery of your health so that you may become free from the diseases you have.” Master Sawan Singh said, “I cannot do that; if I pray to my Master for my health, that will make a difference in my discipleship. I have never done that. I don’t want my Master to carry the burden of my karmas, that He should suffer for me. I cannot do that, and I will never do that. But if you feel like doing it, you can pray to Him.” So Master Sawan Singh never prayed to His Master even though He suffered a great deal towards the end. It was always His disciples who used to pray to His Master, Baba Jaimal Singh, for His speedy recovery and His good health. Master Sawan Singh Ji always used to say that the disciples do not know, they are blind: they do not know why the Master is suffering. Many times it happens that the Master is suffering on account of the karma of a disciple who is having bad feeling for the Master. This is my personal experience, that Saints do not have any karma of their own, They always suffer because of Their disciples. Saints and Mahatmas never want that their Masters should suffer on account of their karma; whereas we the disciples, if we have even a little bit of difficulty, we always make a prayer to the Master; we do not want to suffer even a little bit. We always want that our Master should suffer for us. And when it does not work, then we become upset.

There was one initiate of Master Sawan Singh who had a little bit of physical difficulty, and when he did not recover quickly, since he had to suffer a little bit, he became upset at Master Sawan Singh and told another initiate, "I am upset at Master because He did not protect me, He did not take care of me." That dear one went to Master Sawan Singh and told Him, "Such and such a disciple of yours is very upset at you because you did not cure him when he was sick." Master Sawan Singh said, "That poor fellow does not know how much of his karma Master has taken on His body and how much pain has been reduced which he was supposed to suffer."

Master Sawan Singh Ji often used to tell about this incident: Once He was suffering from some disease, He was paying off the karma of one disciple, and that very disciple had a bad feeling for Master Sawan Singh because he saw that Master Sawan Singh was suffering very much. His faith was shaken and he started thinking, "Why should a Saint like Master Sawan Singh suffer so much?" So he asked Him, "Master, is this your own karma which you are suffering?" Even though Master was suffering the karma of that very person who had asked that question, still He said, "No, this is not my karma, this is the karma of one of my dear ones." Masters never complain. Patiently and lovingly, when the disciples make any request to them, they always bear the karma, they always suffer the sufferings of the disciples, and they always reduce the pain of the disciples.

I have often told you about my childhood, when I had boils all over my body; it was so painful that whenever I would wear any clothes they would all get stuck to the wounds. I still remember those painful moments even though I was a child at the time. My father always used to cry looking at my condition because I was his only child. Nobody else would love me because I had those boils; nobody would allow me to come near them. My parents and the family members used to love me only because I was their only child. Once my father took me to Baba Bishan Das, and he wept. He told Baba Bishan Das, "God has given me only one child and I don't know how many bad karmas he has done in his past life that he has these boils and blisters and he is suffering so much. I cannot bear to see him suffering. Either God should take him back, or he should be cured." Baba Bishan Das laughed and said, "God never takes anyone back; everyone has to suffer the account of their own karma, or someone who becomes responsible for the karma of that person can pay it. Otherwise that person who is suffering has to suffer." Then Baba Bishan Das asked my father, "Are you ready to pay the account of the karmas of this boy?" My father could not say anything, because you know that it is very difficult for anyone to agree that he will suffer for someone else. We may say outwardly, "I am ready to suffer." The parents love the child very much, but when you ask them, "Are you ready to suffer for your children?" nobody will be ready – because who wants to suffer for others? We can hardly suffer for our own selves; how can we think of suffering the pains of another soul? When my father did not agree, Baba Bishan Das said, "Okay, I will take him to a place of pilgrimage in Punjab and over there he will become all right. But I will have to put some signs on his body: this is the will of God and his body should have some signs." So this tattoo on my hand, and also two other signs which I have, were also given to me at that time when Baba Bishan Das took me to that place of pilgrimage. He also wanted to put a sign on my forehead, but my father again wept and requested him not to put a sign there because it would look very bad. My father asked Baba Bishan Das to put signs on my body in such a way that they would not look bad. So Baba Bishan Das took me over there. People may say that it was because I was taken to the place of pilgrimage that all the boils and the disease was cured, but that is not true. Baba Bishan Das was very gracious and I don't know how many karmas I had, how many bad karmas I had done, and how much Baba Bishan Das suffered in order to remove the boils of my body. It is possible that a lot more complications were going to follow because of those boils, but graciously Baba Bishan Das removed all the problems; all the complications and suffering he took on his own body.

So this is the grace of the Master. When we request the Master to heal us, to make us all right, then we are not ready to pay the karmas which we are suffering; we are in a way requesting the Master to take those karmas on His body, which He lovingly does; and that is why He suffers for us. His body suffers when we do not meditate because when we meditate we get the inner strength to bear the karmas, but when we are not strong enough to suffer the karma, then someone has to suffer, and who else can suffer our karmas except our Master?

During the second tour, when I went to Boston, a recently-initiated dear one came to me who had some skin disease; he had boil-like things all over his body. An old initiate, who was his friend, brought that person to me and told me about his sickness: he removed his shirt and showed me the difficulties he had. At that time I felt very gracious on him, and I remembered Master Kirpal's name and I touched his body, and the next day he was all right. When the old initiate saw that that person was free from his disease, he realized that it was the Master who had taken the disease away, and that the Master would have to suffer. He came to me and wept. He told me, "Master, I did not mean that you should suffer on account of that person, I just wanted to mention that he is a new initiate and was having this difficulty; he just wanted your advice. He did not want, and I also did not want, that you should suffer the account of this dear one's karma." What could I say at that time? Whatever was done was done. In the same way, in Ganga Nagar, there was a trader, an initiate of Master Kirpal Singh, who had some problems on his body, boils and skin disease. He was suffering a lot and he tried many doctors for many years, but he could not get any help. Once when Master Kirpal came and he could not bear it any more, he took off his clothes and stood in front of Master. Master's gracious sight removed all his difficulties, and he became all right. Master did not complain; you know that the Masters have been sent into this world by Almighty God to help the weak souls. To whom can the Masters say, "I cannot take your karmas," or "I cannot help you, I cannot suffer for you"? If the disciples have real love for the Master, they will never do anything like that because they know that when Masters graciously remove the pain of the disciples, it is not that the pain is eliminated and does not go to anyone's account. If the pain is eliminated from your account, it definitely goes into the account of the Master, and He has to suffer for that. So if the disciples have love for the Master they will never do anything like that; they will always do the devotion of the Lord so that they may become strong enough to bear their own karmas. If the disciples have love they will suffer the karmas and they will never pray to the Master, "Master, shower grace on us and remove this karma."

Baba Bishan Das Ji used to tell me a story of a Muslim Saint whose name was Hazrat Luth. There were two cities; I don't remember their names. Once some angels were sent by God to Hazrat Luth, with a message from God, saying "If there are at least fifty people in both these cities who do the meditation of God and who are really devoted to God, then God will be gracious on these cities and they will not have any natural calamity. But if there are not at least fifty people who do the meditation of the Lord sincerely, then God will not be gracious on these cities and they will be destroyed. There will be a rain of stones and fire and all the people who are in these cities will be destroyed."

Now Hazrat Luth was a perfect Saint and He knew how many devotees there were in those very big cities. He said, "Angels, one thing: Fifty is a little more than you can expect. Even if there are ten people who are doing the devotion of the Lord, even then God should be gracious and not destroy these cities." The point is that the perfect Masters always know how many people there are who really do the devotion of the Lord. We may find millions of people who do the devotion of the Lord outwardly, who do it only for name and fame, who do it only for showing other people that they are meditators or devotees. But if you go within you will find just a few people who really do the devotion of the Lord. Guru Nanak says, "If you want to find the best ones you will find one out of millions, because in this world, rare are those who do the devotion of the Lord."

Kabir Sahib has said, "The sky is on fire and everywhere the fire is coming down. If there were no Saints present in this world, the whole world would have burnt in the fire." Saints are sent into this world by Almighty God. They always remain connected with God and they always connect those souls with the Shabd Naam who come to them for doing the devotion of the Lord. And only because of the presence of the Saints and of those people who are connected with the Shabd Naam, this world is sustained. Otherwise, where the sin increases, and where there are not so many people who are connected with the Shabd Naam, and where there is no Saint, that place is destroyed, either by a natural calamity like earthquake or tornado or hurricane, or sometimes God destroys that place by other methods. It is only because the sin increases at that place, and there are not so many people there who devote time in the devotion or meditation of God. When the Saints come into this world they connect so many people to the Shabd Naam. It does not matter from this perspective whether they meditate or not: only because of that connection to the Shabd Naam, this world is sustained; and this world is as it is now only because the Masters come into this world again and again and connect the souls with Shabd Naam.

Guru Nanak says, "I sacrifice myself millions of times on that Master Who Himself is the Liberated One and Who has come in this human form to liberate us."

So graciously the Master always showers grace on His disciples. Those disciples of the Master who do the meditation, who do the devotion sincerely, they find that the strength comes in their soul to suffer the consequences of their karmas; and when they are in any kind of difficulty, they never run away from those difficulties or request the Master to suffer their karmas. They always bear their karmas on their own self. But even on them, Master showers grace, and whatever help is feasible, Master always gives them that. We can understand this philosophy of karma and the grace of the Master only after going within. Just by reading books outside or even writing books about the subject outside, we cannot understand how these two things work.

Jamuni Muni was the disciple of Ved Vyas and he wrote a book on the philosophy of karma. When he brought that book to Ved Vyas, the Master said, “Yes, it is a good book. But it would have been better if you had done the meditation and gone within and then written the book. Then I would have said, ‘What you have written is true and since you have practiced it and it came out of your experience, this is the best thing you have done.’ But since you have not done meditation and have not gone within, and have written this book only from your mind and intellect, I can only say that it is a good book and nothing more than that.” But Jamuni Muni was not satisfied. He said, “Master, what is the use of meditation and going within? I have written this very good book on karma; those who read it will get to know how the philosophy of karma works. And since I have written all those things, I am sure that I will do what I have written and always be aware of the consequences of the good or bad karmas which a person does.” Ved Vyas used to go within, and he was a perfect being. He knew that Jamuni was only talking from outside. He did not have any inner experience and he was not very strong in his devotion, or in controlling himself. So Ved Vyas said, “Okay, sometime I will put you to a test and then you will realize whether what you have done is good or not, and how important it is first to experience something and then to write about it.” Jamuni Muni was very confident about his writing and he said, “Okay, whenever you want you can do that.”

After some time Ved Vyas changed his form and disguised himself as a woman, and went to the hut of Jamuni Muni. Seeing the woman, Jamuni Muni was delighted, and that woman, who in fact was Ved Vyas, told Jamuni Muni, “I have lost my way, and since it is nighttime, you should give me shelter. I want to spend this night here; tomorrow morning I will go.” At that time Jamuni Muni was very much in his senses, and lust and other things did not bother him. He was very strong and said, “No, I am not in a position to give you a place to stay here in the nighttime; you should go and find some other shelter.” But Ved Vyas wanted to test him, so He said (in the form of a woman), “If you do not give me shelter and tigers or lions or wild animals kill me, you will be cursed, because you will be responsible for my death.” Hearing that, Jamuni Muni was inspired to give her a place, but even then he was very strong. He said, “Okay, close the door from inside. And even if I tell you to open the door you should not open it.” He did not want to lose himself or get involved in any kind of bad karma. But after that when he sat for his devotion, or whatever he was doing, he started thinking about that woman instead of doing his devotion. And his mind told him, “Well, she looks like a very good lady. Why don’t you go and talk to her? Maybe she needs something else. And what is wrong with talking? You are only just going to talk to her.” Mind always works like a competent lawyer in the beginning. He always inspires us in the beginning like that:

“What is wrong in doing this?” or “What is wrong in doing that?” But we never know what eventually he is going to make us do. We realize that only when we have indulged and lost ourselves.

So when Jamuni Muni was inspired by his mind in that way, he knocked at her door. Ved Vyas said, “I will not open the door because you told me not to open it even if you knocked.” But Jamuni Muni by then was obsessed by lust, so he broke the roof; but when he went down in there, he saw Ved Vyas sitting there, and seeing Him he was very embarrassed. So the meaning of saying this is that we can understand this philosophy of karma and all these delicate points only when we go within and when we bring all these things into our experience. Just by writing or reading about all this we cannot comprehend how this philosophy works and how we can save ourselves from the cycle of karma.

King Bhoj was a very learned Sanskrit scholar and he had defeated many great scholars in debates about the Vedas and other holy scriptures, and he was a very good and righteous king of that time. Once he thought, “Why did I become king? Why has God been so gracious on me that He made me a king? What good karma did I do in my past life that God became so gracious on me and gave me this kingdom? Because I am living a life which is much better than millions of other people have, there must be something very great which I did in my past life which God was pleased with, so that He gave me this very good position.” When he could not find the answer to that question by himself, he called all the wise men and sages and sadhus in his court and asked them. One sadhu, among all those who were invited, knew the secret, but he did not want to tell King Bhoj himself, so he told the King, “There is a certain sweeper who is cleaning the dirt of the city; go to her and she will tell you why you became the king of the city in this lifetime.” When King Bhoj went to the sweeper, she told him to go and see a sadhu who was sitting outside the city. When King Bhoj went there, that sadhu told him, “Okay, I will tell you what you did in your past life as the result of which you got to be king. But before that I want to show you what is being done for you in the heavens.” Using his yogic powers, that sadhu brought down a plane from the heavens and making King Bhoj sit on that, he took him to the heavens, and there King Bhoj saw that they were constructing a very big palace. When he asked them why they were constructing it, they replied, “It is for King Bhoj of the mortal world because he is a very righteous king and in his kingdom no one is unhappy. After he finishes his time in the earthly world he will come here, and since he is making good karmas, he will be given this beautiful palace to live in.” After showing that to King Bhoj, that sadhu brought him back into this world and told him, “I will tell you why you became a king in this lifetime. There lives a madwoman up in the hills. She tears her clothes and wanders here and there all the time. That madwoman was our mother in her last lifetime and you, I, and that sweeper were brothers and sisters. Our father had left the body when our mother was very young and we were very poor, so we did not have anything to eat. Once it so happened that somehow our mother collected some wheat flour and she made some chapattis for us and we were very hungry. We each got one chapatti to eat, because our mother had made only four chapattis. But as we were about to start eating, a sadhu came and asked for food, and my mother got so upset at him that she tore off his clothes. Our sister was so upset that she threw all the garbage on him, and I was so upset – because we had barely gotten that food and he had come there asking for it – that I gave him a beating with a burning stick. So as we did those karmas then, according to that we got this present lifetime: Because I beat him with a burning stick, I have got this punishment – to sit by the fire and perform austerities. Our mother is wandering here and there like a madwoman and she is compelled to tear off her clothes; and that sweeper in the city who was our sister, since she threw all the garbage on that sadhu, now she is cleaning the garbage of the city. You were the youngest of all, and you were very kind to that sadhu: You gave your one chapatti to that sadhu and he became very pleased with you, and only because of that you became king and are enjoying this life.” The point is that if by reading and becoming learned and intellectual and a scholar, one could understand the philosophy of karma; if only by reading and writing we could know for what karmas we are suffering and for what karmas we are enjoying, then what would be the use of doing meditation? We can understand the philosophy of karma and know how the karmas work only by going within; because when we go within after doing meditation, all this philosophy of karma becomes an open book in front of us, and we can easily know for which karma we are suffering and for which karma we are enjoying.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that Masters shower a great deal of grace and mercy on the souls, but we are ungrateful ones and do not realize how much grace the Master is showering on us. Since we do not know and cannot see how much grace is being showered on us, we do not express our gratitude to the Master. But Master is very gracious. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that Masters are so gracious that if they eat the fruit of any tree, that tree at once leaves its body and gets the human body. And if the Master rides on any animal, that animal also gets the human body in its next lifetime. He also used to say that if by accident the Master puts His feet on any creature and it dies, then that creature also gets the human body. So just imagine how much grace the Master is showering on those souls who get the human body right from the body of trees or worms or animals like that. Even on human beings He showers so much grace: that we, the drunkards, the meat-eaters, the bad people, have been brought into their company, and are being prepared for our journey back to the Real Home. Except for the Saints, who is there in this world who can shower so much grace on us? In fact, only Saints know the glory and grace of the Saints. How can we, the worldly people, know about the grace and glory of the Saints? “Only the cuckoo knows where the cuckoos come from.” How can the other birds and creatures know where the cuckoos come from? Saints on one level are living in this world among us and they are talking to us, but on the other level in another form, they may be giving Naam to someone, they may be taking care of some souls. They function at many different levels. When I took Baba Bishan Das to see Master Sawan Singh, there were some people sitting with the Master as we are sitting here, and Master Sawan Singh was talking with them. One Muslim fakir stood up and said, “Master, before this lifetime, in your previous birth you were born in the form of the King of Faridkot” (a state in Punjab). Master Sawan Singh kept quiet but later He said, “Yes, I know that. And I also know that before that I was born in very poor families.” So the Masters know everything of their own past, and they know about their future. They also know about the past and future of all their disciples. They are omnipresent; They are all-conscious; They know everything of the past, and of the present, and of the future; and only the Saints, the Masters of their degree, can understand and appreciate the glory and grace of the Masters. How can we, the worldly people, know the grace of the Master?

I am sorry that I took a long time to answer this question; this question could have been answered in many more talks, because we cannot describe the glory and grace of the Master. I am sorry that the other dear ones who were waiting for their turn to ask questions did not get to ask them. I am sorry for that.

1985 December: On the Grace of the Master

This question and answer session was given September 29, 1985, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village I6 PS, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: I have two questions. The first is: Master Kirpal often referred to Naam as the God-into-Expression Power. But then He also said that the quality of the Positive Power is to pull the soul back into its origin. Is this not a kind of contradiction ? And the second is: once I read in Swami Ji's Sar Bachan that there were created seven original surats. In Anurag Sagar it is said that Sat Purush gave the Root Seed of the jiva Sohang to Adhya. Does this jiva Sohang refer to one of those surats? What does the word Root Seed mean? Does it mean that there was only one seed who became many souls?

SANT JI: There is no difference between the Naam and the Positive Power. When Master said that Naam was the God-into-Expression Power, and that the Positive Power always takes the soul back to its origin, that is not contradictory because Naam and the Positive Power are one and the same thing. It is only a difference in words. Sat Purush, or Kal Purush, Naam, all these refer to one power, and there is no difference between Naam and the one who becomes the form of Naam. We know that when we start any work we start with a scratch, just a little bit, and later on it goes on manifold. In the same way, as far as the question of how many souls were created in the beginning and how many more souls are coming, it is all in the hands of God. Only God knows how many souls He has to give to Kal and how many more souls He has to send into this world. This is something which we can understand and believe in only when we go inside and see what Sohang really means, what Sohang is, and what the souls are, and why the souls were given to Kal. Outwardly we try to compare the writings of the Mahatmas, but that is not possible. You will find in two different books written by the same Master, two different things which you may think contradict each other. But that is not true. Masters never write any statement which contradicts their own statement in another book or another talk. Their purpose of telling us those things in so many different ways is that somehow, by one way or another, we may get inspired to go within and see our real home, Sach Khand. We can get the answer to all those questions and the clear understanding of all those problems of the creation and the Negative Power and Sohang and all that only by going back to our real home, Sach Khand.

In the beginning the people who translated Anurag Sagar and then the people who first read Anurag Sagar, had difficulty understanding how the Negative Power could create a hundred and twenty-five thousand jivas after devouring a hundred thousand jivas. They asked me, "How is it possible for the Negative Power to create twenty-five thousand more souls when he has already devoured one hundred thousand souls? Doesn't that mean that when he devours one hundred thousand souls he has finished them? How can he create more? He doesn't have that power of creation!" But later on when they read it again and again, and when they did the meditation, when they went inside, they got the answer to their question themselves. Only then they came to realize how God created the souls, how the souls were given to Adhya, how many souls were given to Adhya, and how Kabir Sahib, who in fact was Sat Purush, came in the human form to liberate the souls. So I hope that if you have any questions regarding Anurag Sagar or if you don't understand something, you should do the meditation; because only by doing meditation and going within can we get a clear answer to all our questions. You know that Masters always refer to themselves as female beings in front of their Masters. In their writings, in their poems or songs, they always refer to themselves as a female being, like the wife of Master or God. Some women satsangis once asked Master Kirpal, "Whenever you say things to the dear ones, you never say, 'This is for the women' or 'this is for the men' – why is that? And you always refer to yourself as a female being in front of your Master." Master said, "Those who do not go within, do not know who is male and who is female."

In fact, we are all female in front of the Almighty Lord. He is the only male, and the difference between male and female comes to an end when we enter into Daswan Dwar. Before we enter Daswan Dwar we are either male or female, but when we go into Daswan Dwar we see that we are all souls and God Almighty is the only one whom we can call a “male being.” So unless we meditate and go within, unless we rise above body consciousness and enter into Daswan Dwar, we cannot understand all these writings of the Masters.

QUESTION: Master has spoken often of criticism and I'm sorry if I ask this again. Lately I am more and more aware what criticism means, and sometimes when I say a word I lose a lot of energy and I understand how terrible He feels. But one thing I don't understand: Sometimes people come to us, complain about their life, about injustices done to them, and we sit and listen to them in sympathy because they need help. How much is that criticism? Should we listen to such things, or somehow avoid them?

SANT JI: Supreme Father Kirpal used to say that it is a sin to get involved in criticism and it is also a sin to hear criticism of other people. He used to say regarding this situation which you have just mentioned, that if it happens that you have to listen to someone, you should be very careful that you are not having critical thoughts for the person who is being mentioned, and you should be very careful in listening to the other people. Because if you really want to help them, you can help them only if you don't get involved in criticism of the person he is talking about. You should listen to him carefully and patiently and then you should lovingly advise him, “Dear one, you should forget about all that has happened, and we can help you in this way.” So without your criticizing or having critical thoughts for the person who is being mentioned by the other person who has come to you for help, you should try to help that person out. You can be sympathetic with someone without being critical of the other person.

QUESTION: Master, what is the difference between a karma we are receiving back, and making a new karma, and how is the situation with non-initiates and with initiates? How do we know whether we are working out an old karma or if it is a new karma we are making? Master, when a meditation is painful, either physically or mentally, is it because that moment we are paying karma, or is it because it is not being done according to instructions?

SANT JI: The lives of the satsangis and the non-satsangis are different, and satsangis have knowledge from hearing the satsangs of the Master that whatever karmas they are suffering, that is the reaction of their own karma which they have done either in this lifetime or in a past lifetime. As far as how to differentiate between the karmas we are receiving back or new karmas we are making: if whenever you are suffering any karmas, if you think about the suffering and what you have done in your past – I don't mean in a past lifetime, but in this lifetime – if you are suffering the karma of this lifetime, you will become aware of the karma which you had done. Most satsangis suffer karmas which they have done in this lifetime, and when they have to suffer the karmas they get feasible help from the Master; whereas non-satsangis do not have any Master and cannot even think about the karmas they are suffering so they do not know what they are suffering, whether it is from this lifetime or a past lifetime. And since they have no guidance from the Master, they go on making new karmas and suffering the karmas of the past. The karmas of the satsangis and the non-satsangis are different because, even though we have all come from one source, all people do not do the same kinds of karmas and the suffering also differs. But satsangis always get feasible help from the Master, because the Master wants them to pay off all their karmas in this lifetime so that they can go back to their Real Home. In Punjab there was a man who was a normal person, he was very intellectual, and he was also very good looking. In the will of God it so happened that after some time, his body shrank as though it had been thrown in the fire, and he became very bad looking. I used to go to see him and I saw him in that condition when I was still a child, so I did not know what he was going through. So I became sympathetic to him and told him, “God has been very unjust with you, that is why you were a good person and still you had to suffer so much.” He said, “No, don’t say that. It is not anyone’s fault. It is my own fault, because I know what deeds I have done in this lifetime.” He told me many things which he used to do. He told me that he used to cut the throats of hens and burn them alive, and he also told me that once he was hunting deer and he killed a fawn. The fawn’s mother remained with her baby so he killed her also; both of them were killed very brutally; he did not have any mercy on either of them. He told me many other incidents of his life and then he said, “It is not anyone’s fault that I became like this. This is the karma which I am paying because of what I have done in this lifetime; I don’t know what I have done in my past lifetimes, but just because of what I have done in this lifetime, I think I deserve this punishment which God is giving to me.” So the meaning of saying this is that those who are wise and who think about what they have done in their past, they will realize that they are suffering the karma of this lifetime.

I had a relative who was in the police and he used to take bribes. He was so involved in taking bribes that once someone took his father to him, thinking that he would hear his father and not ask for a bribe. But he did not even oblige his father. He said, “No, I don’t know anyone, you are not my father: The money is my father.” So his father became very sad. The point is that all his life long, he continued taking bribes from people and he made a lot of money that way. Just last year, one month before he left the body, he started having a vision that he was being made to sit on a donkey and taken around the city while wearing a garland of shoes, and he was being defamed and criticized by the people. He also had visions of his colleagues who had lived a very simple and very pure life and who were not involved in taking bribes: They were traveling in cars and had a very good life. He used to see that vision and he realized that only because of his bad habit of taking bribes, he was going to go through all that suffering and he would be criticized and given a very bad time in the Court of the Lord. So he came to me and told me about his condition and I told him, “Now you realize that whatever karmas you have done in your life, you are paying for them; and the same thing will happen to you when you will enter the Court of the Lord.” After that he left the body.

Master Sawan Singh Ji also used to talk about a police officer who was in charge of supplying food to the cows. But instead of giving food to the cows he kept the money, took bribes, and made a lot of money. Just before he left the body, he started telling his wife, “The Lord of Death has come and the cows I was supposed to feed are here too, and are beating me from behind”; and in that painful condition he left the body.

So whatever karma one has done in this lifetime he will have to pay. We do not suffer the consequence of any karma which we have not done. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Whatever you have done you will have to suffer for it.”

When the Masters choose us for initiation they do not make any mistakes. They know how much karma we are supposed to pay back to the Negative Power and how much Master will have to pay from that account. So whenever they give us initiation they do not make any mistake and they know all about our karma. Graciously they burn off all the sanchit karmas which we have been storing from ages and ages, from birth after birth. And for kriyaman or the present karmas, they tell us that we should do selfless karma so that we may not have to come back in this world again to suffer or to enjoy the consequences of those karmas. As far as the fate or pralabdha karmas are concerned, they do not touch them. They tell us that we will have to suffer or enjoy those karmas at any cost. But in that also, Masters lovingly help us.

From reading the letters of the dear ones we come to know how much they are being helped by the Master Power. And some dear ones, those who go within and who meditate, whenever they get sick or have to suffer any karmas, they always request Master, “Master, don’t suffer for my sake”; because they know how much Master will suffer and how much Master will help them. But those who do not go within, who do not meditate, as soon as they get any difficulty or pain, they at once request the Master, “Master, help me!” or “Master, save me!” etc. You know that if we serve even a tree it will bear fruit and it will give us fruit. Do you think that the Master Whom we are serving and Whom we are remembering, will not give us any fruit, will not protect us when we are suffering?

Now the other question, about pain in meditation: Usually we have pain in meditation only when we do not meditate regularly. You know that when we do something, if we do it regularly we become competent in doing that. We have pain in meditation only when we meditate for a couple of days, and then leave it off, and then again start. So if we were to meditate regularly, then this problem of pain during meditation would go away.

QUESTION: Master, could you talk a little about sitting in bhajan in front of the children in the family?

SANT JI: You can sit for bhajan in the family, but you should make sure that you have covered your head so that no one looking at you can see what you are doing. Often I have said that children are innocent souls, and when they see you sitting in meditation, they also try to imitate you; and since they are innocent souls their souls are not so much of the world. Their attention goes right up and they start seeing things and sometimes it can be dangerous. That is why it is advisable to sit for bhajan only after covering your head so that they may not imitate you, if they are not initiated.

In California I made one child sit for bhajan and when he closed his ears he started hearing the Sound and it was so loud that he could not bear it. So he started crying. At that time I told Pappu to unplug his ears and when he did that at once he became quiet and he started wondering what had happened.

QUESTION: We have heard that if we are under the influence of the five dacoits, that God would not open His door to us. But we also hear of people who maybe are involved in alcohol or other intoxicants who have the darshan of the Master with them; or even non-initiates who have Master's darshan. So could you say something about the grace of Master?

SANT JI: This is a very deep secret, and you should try to understand it. Actually you can understand it very clearly only when you go within. But outwardly I will try to make you understand how this happens.

There are souls who are very good, and who have special grace of the Almighty Lord, and who are chosen from the Real Home to come into this world to do the devotion of the Lord; but because of the environment in which they live, and because of the company they keep, they get involved in alcohol and things like that. But underneath they are very good and very holy souls.

I have met many dear ones who drink alcohol or do bad karmas, but afterward they feel very bad about it and they curse themselves. So if after making the mistake you realize it, and you curse yourself for doing it, it is also like having a victory over the mind.

Such people, even though they are addicted to drinking and eating meat and things like that before they come to the Master, when they come to the Master and have His darshan, they get relieved of everything. Before they come to the Master, people may even talk about them – “How will he be able to give up his bad habits?” But when they come to the Master and have His darshan, they do give them up. They meditate more than other people and become very devoted disciples.

Only the Saints know about the grace of the Saints. Other people cannot have any idea how the grace of the Master works. When the Master has to liberate anyone, it does not matter where that person lives or in what condition he is living. Master Himself goes there, sometimes in dreams, sometimes He appears in front of them, and it doesn't matter what that person is doing: If the Master is determined to liberate that soul, He will do everything possible to liberate that soul.

I have often told you the story of Harnaam Singh who used to live in my earlier village. That story has been published in Sant Bani Magazine also. The city of Abohar is about fifty miles from the village where I used to live. And once Harnaam Singh went to Abohar and Master Kirpal was coming there from Delhi. You can imagine how much darshan he would have gotten at that time, because Master was traveling in the car and he was standing there. But that much darshan was enough for him. He exchanged his sight with Master; those eyes of great Master Kirpal, He absorbed into them; and he remembered the beautiful form of the Master after that. And he became so absorbed in that much darshan which he received that a unique kind of awakening happened within him. Before he had had the darshan of Master, he was not a very good person, he did not have any spiritual qualities. He used to drink, smoke, and do all kinds of bad things, and he was very dirty. He was not of a very high caste. But as soon as he had the darshan of Master, he decided to give up all the bad things he had been doing. When he came back to the village from Abohar he told me, “You always talk about spiritual things, and today I will tell you that I have seen such a great spiritual man – I don't know Who He is but I have seen Him dressed all in white. He had a white beard and he was all pure, all holy, and I cannot forget those eyes. I still remember the eyes and the form of that spiritual being, and from now on I have decided that I will give up all the bad things I have been doing.” I was very surprised to hear this from him, because he did not have a very good past. He lived for one year after that incident, and he never touched any bad thing, and he became a very good person. Now you can see that Master did not explain any theory to him – “You should give up drinking, you should give up smoking,” etc. That was the grace of the Master which created that awakening within him so that he gave up all those things without anyone explaining to him. He did not get initiation, but still he remembered the form of the Master; he never forgot the eyes of the Great Master.

One year later, when he, along with forty other workers, were in my field harvesting the crop, he seemed to be in good shape, very healthy, but suddenly his son came to me and said, “I don’t know what has happened to my father!”

I went there and asked him, “Harnaam Singh, what has happened to you?” He told me, “Nothing has happened to me; but now I am going, because that spiritual being, that person Whom I saw one year ago and told you about, now He has come all dressed in white. He has come in a plane and now He is taking my soul up to the Real Home. It is all His grace; and one year from now He will come to your place by Himself and you should prepare for Him and welcome Him and respect Him and He will do everything for you.” And after saying these things he left the body.

So you can see how the grace of the Master works. Harnaam Singh was not initiated; he had not heard about Master Kirpal Singh, he had never heard about the theory of Sant Mat, and nobody had ever explained to him that he should give up drinking and smoking and all those things; but it was the grace of the Master, that just from that much darshan he got that awakening and it changed his life and he became a very pure and holy being. So such souls, those who are chosen by God for their upliftment, for their liberation, Master always finds some way or other to liberate them. No one can question the ways of the Master; only the Masters know how the Masters shower grace on the dear ones.

You know how much I travel: I go to Delhi, I travel in the plane to many other places, and many times I come across people who seem as if they are waiting for me and as soon as they see me they fold their hands and salute me. But some people, even though I put my attention on them, still they do not want to look at me. It is all a matter of the grace of the Almighty Lord. Some people, those who look at me and those who look at me with respect, are chosen by God and God has been very gracious on them; that is why they get the grace of God. But the other people, even though I try to look at them, I try to give them darshan, still they don’t want to look at me, because they are not fortunate enough to have the darshan of a Saint. So it all depends upon one’s fate.

I often talk about the army. You know that when anyone wants to join the army first he has to become a trainee. During the period of training, if he commits any mistake or fault he is always forgiven. The officer asks him, “Why have you made that mistake?” and he says, “I did not know about it and I will not do it again.” And he is forgiven. But once he has completed his training, and takes the oath that now he will be loyal to his country, when he formally joins the army, after that even if he makes a very small mistake, he is not forgiven. So when the Master gives us the initiation he lovingly explains to us what things we should do and what things we should not do. He lovingly tells us that we should not steal other people’s things, we should have a very good life, and things like that. So if after knowing all these rules and regulations we make mistakes, then we will definitely be punished. The non-satsangis, since they have no guidance, since they do not know what is good or bad, when they make mistakes and ask for forgiveness with sincere hearts, they can be forgiven because they did not know what was bad and what was good. You know that the person who knows the law, if he makes a mistake, is liable to get more punishment than the person who has made the mistake innocently.

I hope you have understood what I was trying to say. It was a very interesting question and I could have replied in even more length but I will stop now. I have always said that we are the wrestlers of the Satguru. After taking the initiation from the Perfect Master we should not get involved in the five passions. We should not make any mistakes, and sincerely and wholeheartedly we should do our devotion to the Master and we should not drink wine, we should not eat meat, keep ourselves pure.

1986

1986 February: The Means of Receiving Grace

This question and answer session took place October 30, 1985, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: We are told that Simran is superior to all other mantras. I quote, “because behind those words the charging of the Perfect Master who is the giver of Initiation is working.” (Sant Bani Magazine, April ‘85, p. 26) Would Master please tell us how and when this charging takes place, and how it is maintained? Is this a “one shot” effort or does Simran have to be “recharged” periodically to remain effective, etc.? Who was the first known historically documented person prior to Kabir to apply Simran? From whom did that person receive it? Did Simran evolve gradually to its present outer form? If so, can we expect further modifications?

SANT JI: All of you have heard this question. Now you should listen to the answer because this is for everyone and all of you should pay attention to this and try to understand the answer.

All the Saints have said this, and Master Sawan Singh has written very clearly, that Kabir Sahib was the first Saint to come into this world. He came in all the four ages. You can read the Anurag Sagar and you will find the same thing there. He came in all the four Ages: In the Sat Yuga or the Golden Age His name was Sat Sukrit. In Treta Yuga or the Silver Age His name was Maninder. In Dwapar Yuga or the Copper Age He was called Karunamai, and in this Iron Age He was called Kabir. In the first three Ages they did not give the knowledge of the Shabd until the disciple had perfected the Simran. But in the Iron Age graciously Kabir Sahib started giving the initiation of both Simran and Bhajan together. The planes do not change, the Simran does not change. Sach Khand never changes. All the planes and Simran and Sach Khand are unchangeable. The only difference is that when the dissolution occurs, all the planes up to Brahm are destroyed and the souls who go up only to Brahm have to be born again, and all the planes up to Brahm are created again. In the same way, when the grand dissolution happens, all the souls who reach up to Bhanwar Gupha are born again because all the planes up to Bhanwar Gupha are destroyed, and they are also created again. But Sach Khand is a plane which never gets destroyed either in dissolution or grand dissolution. That is why the souls who reach Sach Khand never have to come back into this world again. Except for the Saints, those who come into this world to release us, no soul who has reached Sach Khand comes back into this world. Even the Saints come into this world with an order in the will of God. They have no interest of their own in coming into this world, nor do they come into this world as we come – as prisoners. Earlier the Saints used to give only the Simran and until the disciple had perfected the Simran they did not give bhajan or the knowledge of the Sound. In many cases the disciples would leave the body before they had received the knowledge of Sound from Them. That is why in this Iron Age graciously Kabir Sahib started giving both Simran and Bhajan together so that the seeker would not have to remain in between but could do the practices together. Often I have said that the work of Simran is to collect our scattered thoughts and attention and bring it to the eye center. And by the help of Simran we have to cross the stars, suns, and moons, and reach up to the Form of the Master. Simran cannot take us beyond the Form of the Master. Liberation is in the Dhunatmak Naam; that is why earlier, when the Masters did not give the Sound initiation, it was like half the initiation for the seekers and that was the difficulty. Often I have said that when the disciple reaches the form of the Master and the Sound starts coming within him, then it is the Sound of the Shabd which takes the soul back to the Real Home; and Master accompanies that disciple, that soul, and plane after plane it is the Sound of the Shabd which guides the soul back to the Real Home.

Now regarding the question of how the Simran is charged and whether it remains charged forever or whether it has to be recharged, or when the charging takes place, you should pay attention to this. Well, dear ones, first of all you should know that such great souls come from the Home of God all perfected; they are perfect beings right from the beginning.

Guru Gobind Singh has written in his history that in his previous life he did great austerities, he performed many austerities, he rose above duality and became one; he got liberation. He did not want to come into this world. But at that time people had started worshipping stones, and all the powers whom God had sent into this world to remind the people about the devotion of God, instead of reminding the people to do the devotion of the real God, they started making the people worship them. At that time God Almighty told Guru Gobind Singh, "I am sending you into the world as my son, and you should go and remind them of the devotion of Almighty God." Guru Gobind Singh has written, "I did not want to come into this world, but I could not refuse the order of my beloved Father; that is why I came. I told Him, 'I will not seek any power or any support from any god or goddess, no matter how powerful they are. Whatever boon or grace I may need, I will ask You for that. And I would want that all my sangat, all my dear children, may live happily, and always remain connected with the Naam.'"

Guru Gobind Singh has written, "I stood in front of Almighty Lord, folding both my hands and bowing down to Him. I told Him, 'O Lord, this Path, this Faith, will continue in this world only if You will be helpful and only if You will shower grace on me.'" So now you can imagine what relation the Masters have with Almighty Lord. As the father knows what his son likes and what are his needs and He always provides the son with all the things he needs, in the same way, God Almighty provides all the things to the Masters because they are His real sons. Guru Nanak Sahib has said that the gracious Father says, "My son, whatever you ask, you will get it." He says, "The gracious Lord has assured me that whatever I will need, whatever I will ask for, I will get it."

Nowadays the means of transportation have changed a lot and you can find jeeps, cars, buses, etc., everywhere. But I am talking about that time when there were not so many means of transportation and in this area people used to use horses a lot for going from one place to another. In Punjab there is a place of pilgrimage called Muksasar, and once a year many people get together there and they have a horse race over there. Riders from all over the country go there and participate in that race. Once my father took me to attend that fair and my father liked the horse who had come in first in the race. He went to the owner, whose name was Inder Singh, and asked him how much was the cost of the horse. Since that was the best horse, Inder Singh said, "Why are you asking me? Are you ready to buy it?" My father said, "Yes, I want to buy it; that is why I am asking you." So whatever he asked, my father gave him and bought that horse. My father thought that when I would ride on that horse I would look good. Many times he made me sit on that horse and ride it and he would become happy. So I mean to say that as the father becomes happy when he sees his child doing good things and becoming good, in the same way also God becomes happy when He sees that His beloved Sons, the Masters, the Saints, are doing good things; and whatever they need, they are given. The relation between the Masters and Almighty God is that of son and father. And just as a son gets everything from his father, in the same way whatever the Masters need they ask from Almighty God and He gives it.

Master Kirpal had a unique kind of all-consciousness. When He was in fourth grade once he told his teacher that he should be given leave because his grandmother was leaving the body. The teacher did not believe in Master Kirpal, so he got upset and said, “Well, you go and sit there. How do you know that she is leaving the body?” But after a few minutes when somebody came from Master Kirpal’s home and requested the teacher to let Master Kirpal go, then he realized that he was not an ordinary boy. After that, that teacher always respected and appreciated Master Kirpal. I mean to say this, that in childhood, many people make mistakes and many good things also happen. But those souls who have come from God and for doing the work of God, they are always connected with Almighty God right from the beginning. And many times in the state of innocence they may say things which indicate that they are not separate from God but are one with Him. At the last satsang, my oldest sister came here and requested Initiation. In my childhood, when she was also very young, she used to say, “Look here, O Brother, I have only your support.” I would laugh and say, “Why are you saying that? Am I a god or something like that?” But that same sister came here last month and requested Initiation. I had not seen her for at least twenty-five years, so I could not recognize her because now she has grown very old, and has grandsons. When she came she asked me if I recognized her. When I told her that I did not recognize her, then she told me that she was my sister and she reminded me of the thing we had talked about when we were very young children. She told me that she had come here once to hear the satsang and did not meet me at that time, but now she had come for Initiation. I told her, “In childhood you used to say that you had my support and now you have come to make that statement a reality.” So I mean to say that such souls, who come into this world for the liberation of other souls, they are Perfect Beings, right from the beginning. They are always connected with Almighty Lord, but until the appropriate time comes they do not reveal their power to the people and do not start working in this world. Such vessels are fully prepared before they come into this world. But still in order to give us the demonstration, they work very hard and they receive a lot of charging from their Masters.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that within the Saints some Power works. We cannot even call that thing a power, because you can estimate power, you can measure it. But that which works within the Saints, you cannot measure it. So that is why the charging which the Masters have is not like a battery that gets used up. They are directly linked with Almighty Lord and they are always charged.

And now that part of the question which asks when this grace of the Master was gotten and how this charging takes place. Every satsangi should pay attention to this part. Supreme Father Kirpal used to say for twenty-five years in the satsang that He who has come into this world to give has no problem. If there is any problem it is with us, the receivers. When He has come from Sach Khand only to give us that grace, He has no difficulty or problem. It depends upon us how and when we accept that grace and receive that blessing.

Master Kirpal used to say, “How can we expect to get anything from a treasurer who has nothing in his treasury? In the same way, if the treasurer has a lot of wealth in his treasury but does not have the heart to give to us, what is the use of having such a treasurer?” So the treasurer should be one who has a lot of wealth in his treasury and at the same time has a very big heart and wants to give us a lot of wealth.

The Path of Bhajan and Simran which you have been taught is the means of receiving grace from the Master. By doing Bhajan and Simran the disciple can receive the grace of the Master whenever he wants.

Why do we lose faith in the Master, and why is it that we are not successful in receiving grace from the Master? The fact is that we do not ask anything for our soul. All the things which we ask from the Master are of a worldly nature. And when we do not get those worldly things, then we lose faith in the Master. Some people say that Master should help us in our lawsuits, and some say that Master should remove our problem of unemployment. Some people ask for wealth, some ask for a son; and when Master gives them the son, if the son bothers them all night long they request Master to make him quiet, but He does not do that. So then they lose their faith in the Master. We don't even know what to ask from the Master. We ask for worldly things and when we don't get them we lose faith; or if we get those worldly things and after some time again the same worldly things become the cause of our suffering, then we lose faith in the Master. Our relation with the Master is of a spiritual nature, and the job which the Master has to do for our soul is to take our soul back to our real home, Sach Khand. If we would always remember that, and ask only for things which are beneficial for the upliftment of our soul, then we would never lose faith in Him.

If you go to a diamond merchant and ask for coal, he would not be able to give you coal no matter how many names you call him or how much you bother him. How can he give you coal when he does not have any in his shop? In the same way if you go to the person who deals with coal and ask for diamonds, he will not be able to give you even one diamond because he does not have any. So when you go to the Master and ask only for things which are good for your soul, you get that and you never lose faith in the Master and you get a lot of grace from Him. Guru Nanak says, “O Lord, to ask anything from You except You is like asking for the sufferings of the world.” So the thing is that we don't even know what to ask from the Master, and that is why we suffer.

One of my cousins had a hard time getting married. So my aunt told me that she would believe in my Master Baba Bishan Das and would go to see him every month if he somehow would get her son married. She told me to request this of Baba Bishan Das when he came to visit me next. So when Baba Bishan Das came I told him about my aunt's request. Baba Bishan Das asked my aunt, “Do you promise that you will come to have darshan once every month if your son gets married?” She said, “Yes, if he gets married I will definitely come to see you every month.” So Baba Bishan Das said, “Okay, we will see; your son will get married and you will have a daughter-in-law in your home. And let us see whether you come to have darshan every month or you chase me to beat me.” So the boy got married. But my aunt had a very bad temper and she always used to find fault with the daughter-in-law, and they suffered a lot because of that. Once when I was going to have the darshan of Baba Bishan Das I told my aunt that I was going there, and asked if she wanted to go with me. She was so upset with the daughter-in-law that she said, “I will believe in your Master only when both my son and daughter-in-law die.” So this is our condition. First we ask for the worldly things and when they don’t work, or if we get sufferings from them, then we want the Master to perform another miracle.

One lady came from the West and she wanted to have many children. I told her, “This is the home of Kirpal, and whatever you ask for you will get.” Later on she had two babies and it became very difficult for her to take care of them. When I went on the Tour I saw her taking care of both the babies and I understood her difficulty. She was holding one baby and the other baby was with somebody else. Before I could say anything she said, “Well, please have mercy on me and don’t do it again.” So first we ask for things and then when it becomes too much for us then we don’t want it.

So dear ones, Satguru is giving His grace with both His hands. But the pity is that we don’t know what to ask from the Master. When we ask for worldly things Master knows whether it is good for us or bad for us, and He responds when we ask things of Him. But since we have not yet attained the capability of listening to His voice, we do not know what He is answering.

Dear ones, many dear ones get in serious accidents and if the Master did not have that charging He could never appear and go to the place where the dear ones are in the accidents. Sooner than seconds the Master goes and protects and helps the disciples. It is only because of that charging that He goes there at once and protects them. I receive many letters from dear ones who tell me how they were involved in an accident and how Master came there and they had the protection of the Master. Many dear ones, when they are having operations, or when babies are being born and they have to be born by operation, even at that time they have the protection of the Master and they don’t feel any pain and they always feel the presence of the Master the entire time the operation is being done. It is because of that charging, because of that Power, that Master is always there to help the disciples. No doubt the Master is always with the disciples, but when the disciple has so much faith and yearning for the Master, when the protection of the Master is needed, He even appears and makes them feel the presence outwardly also.

Suppose the disciple needs the current and the Master says, “Wait, let me charge my battery.” How can the disciple get anything from such a Master? We have to go to such a Master whose battery is always charged, and who is always linked with Almighty God. What is the use of going to a blind Master? But I’ll tell you one thing: that unless the disciple becomes perfect he cannot even know of the perfect or fully charged Master.

I was searching for God ever since my childhood and I meditated on the first two words for eighteen years. And when I got the full initiation from Master Kirpal, after that also I meditated very hard for many years. You all know that He Himself came and put that wealth of Naam within me. As it is very difficult to find a perfect Master, in the same way the perfect Master always looks for the perfect disciple. And as we get the perfect Master only if we have good fortune, in the same way the Master can get the perfect disciple only if he has good fate. In one of the bhajans I have said that people say that love is very easy. But it is as dangerous as the poisonous snake. And its attack is as forceful as that of the lion. You know that the lion snatches away its prey just by attacking once. And the black poisonous snake also tells the person he is biting, “Don’t fall on me, fall on the other side.” In the same way, when the perfect disciple comes in the company of the Master, at once the Master showers all His grace and makes him His very own.

1986 March: The Different Kinds of Simran

This darshan session took place December 29, 1985, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: Master, when doing meditation, is it better to concentrate on the Simran and listen to yourself doing Simran in the mind's eye until it is perfect, or to keep the Simran more as a background to concentrating on the Light?

SANT JI: Often I have said that satsangis should not do any thinking or any fantasizing of the world while doing Simran. There are three means of achieving liberation: Simran, Dhyān and Bhajan. All these three practices can happen within our body. By doing Simran we vacate the nine openings, and after crossing the stars, sun, and moon we reach the Form of the Master. Simran takes us only up to the Form of the Master.

When we manifest the Form of the Master within us, that form is very clear: It is as clear as we are sitting here in front of each other. He will answer all our questions. When the form of the Master is manifested, we need Dhyān to keep Him there. Usually when the Form of the Master comes within the disciple, sometimes he feels that the form has gone, sometimes he feels that it has come; but that does not happen. It is not the Form of the Master which comes and goes. It is because the disciple has not attained enough concentration; he has not had so much Dhyān or contemplation on the form of the Master, and that is why he feels that the Form sometimes comes and sometimes goes. If at that time the disciple would contemplate so much on the form of the Master that he would forget his own self, so that he may only remember the Form of the Master, then that Form would remain there forever and the happiness which the disciple would receive cannot be described.

Many times when we do meditation, if something is going on in our mind, or if we are aware of our mind, then when we get a little bit of concentration, and if suddenly the Light is manifested within us, since we are not fully concentrating and since our mind is also working or thinking about something, then we become afraid and don’t know what to do. Many dear ones stop doing meditation when they have such an experience. Many times it so happens that when the disciple is meditating and if he is not avoiding his mind, if his mind is also working at that time, then if graciously Master manifests His Form there, that disciple does not understand Whose Form has come there, because his mind is pulling his soul down while the Master is trying to pull him up. So he becomes afraid and gives up doing meditation. So it is very important that when you do Simran, you should not be aware of your doing Simran. You should not allow your mind to even bring that feeling.

There are a couple of things which I always say before we sit for meditation. I say them to all the dear ones in all the groups. The purpose of saying them is, that you should always remember those things whether you sit for meditation here or back in your home. If you remember them, you will be able to do the meditation correctly. I always say that you should make the mind quiet, that you should not understand meditation as a burden, and you should not pay attention to the outer disturbances. You should not allow your mind to wander outside. This is a reality: it has come in my own experience that when the form of the Master is manifested within you, He remains with you all the time; like a shadow, he accompanies you. Not even for one moment does He go away from you. But the thing is that you should first manifest the form of the Master, and you can do that only when you are meditating correctly, when you are not allowing your mind to play tricks on you.

When the form of the Master is manifested, other people who have eyes, they can also see that that Form is accompanying you and that he is always with you. Once when I was going to Punjab on the Rupur canal, at a village called Dyali I saw that a sadhu was sitting and there were many other people listening to him. And since that sadhu had performed austerities and had done other japas and tapas, I felt like paying some homage and giving some respect to him; because as you know, before meeting the Masters, I also had done rites and rituals, performing of austerities, and things like that. So I always had the appreciation for those sadhus who had really done austerities. Even though I did not get anything from that, still I appreciate them, because it is very hard work. So when I went there, he was sitting with some other people of the village. He was sitting on a rope bed, and as soon as he saw me, he got up from that bed and welcomed me. I was trying to sit on the floor, but he said, “No, don’t sit on the floor, come and sit with me on the rope bed. Because I see Someone with you.” I told him, “No, I am like your servant, and I have come to have your darshan; let me sit on the floor.” But he did not let me sit on the floor. When he insisted, I sat on the gunnysack which was there for the people. While I was sitting there he would talk to the other people, and after talking to a couple of people he would again tell me that he was seeing Somebody with me dressed in white with a very great personality. So when he told me repeatedly, I told him, “yes” – since I knew that it is that God Almighty Kirpal Who is pervading everywhere, and it is all His grace that this sadhu is seeing His presence and could tell that the Master was accompanying me. So when you are in meditation, when you attain that high position where the Form of the Master is manifested within you, the people who do a little bit of meditation and go up a little bit, even they can also see that the Form of the Master is with you. They can very well see that.

But when you attain such a position you should be very careful; you should not talk about that to other people, because other people will become jealous of you; they will start thinking, “He is an initiate like us – how come he has progressed so much and we have not? And why is Master so gracious on Him and not on us?” Their jealousy may spoil their meditations. So I always say that when you attain such a position you should protect it and not talk about it to anyone except the Master. You should protect it the way a woman protects her body. Because this is the grace of the Master, and when you have had it you should not show it off to the other people.

QUESTION: I have another question about Simran. Sometimes when I do my Simran it sits in my throat and I can be concentrated at my forehead, but sometimes with Your grace the Simran is just in my mind, with my thoughts, and I wondered if in time that moves up from the throat? By doing a lot of Simran, will it move up to the third eye? Because I find that I say it to myself a lot like I am speaking to myself a lot, like speaking from inside, and that's why it is just stuck in my throat.

SANT JI: I have often said that the work which we do every day, if we do it regularly, we become competent in that. If you continue doing Simran in your throat, gradually it will move up and it will start happening with the tongue of your mind. Do you think that the thoughts which you are having twenty-four hours a day, all the thoughts which are bothering you, that you have not practiced those thoughts, you have not repeated those thoughts? Now you don't need to work to have those thoughts or fantasies come in your mind; they come by themselves. Do you think that you have not practiced for that? Ever since we got separated from the Almighty Lord, no matter in which body we went, whether it was the body of a bird or animal or any body, we always had the thoughts of that body. We always create a desire for the worldly things and materials and because of all those desires we have developed, we have practiced those thoughts, and it is those thoughts which are bothering us now. It is those fantasies which come in our mind without our making any effort in that. Saints have the knowledge of that and they know what it is that keeps the souls in this world, and they tell us that at the time of death there is no one in this world whose tasks have all been accomplished. If anyone is able to fulfill ten things, five or ten other things remain unfulfilled; and at the time of death those unfulfilled tasks and the thoughts of those tasks go with that soul and in the next lifetime it is those thoughts and fantasies that bother him. So, just as you do not have to make any effort in having those worldly thoughts and fantasies because you have practiced them a lot in your previous birth – you don't know how many ages, how many births, you have practiced them but you don't have to make any efforts in thinking those thoughts now – in the same way, if you practice the Simran with the same amount of strength and energy, the time will come when you will not have to make any effort in doing Simran; it will happen by itself.

These thoughts and desires which we have at the time of death, our intellect for the next lifetime is determined or decided by them. Our thoughts and desires of the time when we leave the body have a direct effect on our intellect. Because of those thoughts of the previous lifetime our fate, our intellect, and our thoughts of the next lifetime are determined. When I was commenting on Tulsi Sahib's Ratan Sagar in Colombia, in one of the Satsangs I told a story that Master Sawan Singh used to tell, of a potter. Once he was taking his female asses loaded with clay to the palace, and he was saying, "Come, mothers, come, sisters, come, friends – like that. He was calling the asses "mothers and sisters and friends." So someone asked him, "Why are you doing that? Because they are asses!" He said, "I am practicing, because I am a potter and I am in the habit of speaking very loosely, so I don't want to speak any bad word in the palace; if I speak any bad word in the palace, the king might put me to death. So I am practicing now so that I may speak politely in the palace." So why do the Saints always emphasize doing Simran? Why do they make us do Simran? They make us do the practice of Simran so that at the time of our death either we should be doing Simran or we may have the Form of the Master within us. If we are doing Simran, or if we are remembering the Form of the Master, we will go direct to Him.

Saints have the knowledge of how, because of the simran of the world, we come in this world and we go back from this world; we again and again take birth in this world because of simran of the world. And they know the weakness of our mind and how we are stuck in this world, and they also know that the crop which is destroyed by water can be healed or made whole only with other water.

They give us the Simran which they have earned themselves; and behind that Simran given by the Masters, their renunciation, their hard work, their Charging, is working – and they know that only by doing the Simran of the Master can we cut the simran or remembrance of the world. That is why they tell us to do Simran. And as you know, when we do something without making any effort to have the image or the form of that thing in front of us, that form or that image comes in front of us – if we do the Simran given by the Master, without our making any effort of having the Form of the Master in front of us, we can have it. In that Satsang I had talked about the personal experience of Master Sawan Singh, Who used to say that there was a judge who all his life long gave out decisions and worked as a judge. At the time of his death, on one side he was about to leave the body, but on the other side he said, “Objection overruled.” Whatever simran he was doing all his life long, at the time of his death he spoke the words according to that. I also spoke about my own experience, that once there was a business man in Padampur who never got married. He always craved for that, he had the desire of getting married, but somehow he never did it. But he always used to think about it. When he was about to die they took me to see him, because at that time I was practicing Ayurvedic medicine. When I went there and held his arm to feel his pulse, he thought I was tying a wedding band on his wrist – because in those days in India there was a tradition that people tie a piece of thread to the wrist when they are about to get married. Nowadays they don't have those traditions, but when I held his arm he felt that I was doing that, so he at once said, “Are you tying the wedding band?” I thought in my mind, “Brother, now you are preparing for the journey to the beyond; how can we get you married now?” So whatever simran he was doing throughout his life, he remembered that at the time of his death and he spoke out from that. So whatever simran, whatever remembrance, you do throughout your life, you will remember it at the time of death.

Bhagat Trilochan, whose bani is included in Guru Granth Sahib, has written that those who at the time of death do the simran of, or remember, women, are born into the body of a prostitute where they have to indulge with so many men. Nature is not a useless thing. According to our desires, according to our thoughts, we get that in our next lifetime, in our next birth. So those who remember women at the time of death, they become prostitutes and their death desire is fulfilled; but in that body they make many more new desires and in order to fulfill those new desires they have to come back into this world again.

Bhagat Trilochan says that at the time of death those who do simran of their homes, they become ghosts and come and live there. Those who do the simran of, or remember, wealth, they come as snakes.

I have seen many married people who do not have any children. Whenever they give any donations, or do any good thing, they always have this desire: that they will be rewarded with a child. So He says that those who die doing the simran of children, they come in the body of a pig; you know that pigs have a lot of children, and the sow is always bothered by children because she gives birth to so many children at one time.

Finally Bhagat Trilochan Ji says that those who do the Simran of God, those who love God Almighty, God manifests in their heart, and they are the ones who get liberation. So we should always do constant Simran, because only by doing Simran can we vacate the nine openings and open the tenth door. Beyond that we do not need Simran, beyond that we cross the planes only by climbing on the Shabd.

1986 April: The Suffering of the Soul

This darshan session took place on January 25, 1986, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: Dear Beloved Satguru, yesterday You spoke about the hotel fire. You spoke about Your sufferings had You not seen our faces and had Supreme Father Kirpal not suggested to you to make the group come earlier, rather than later. I was wondering whether it was in the whole group's fate to be in the hotel during the fire and whether these karmas have been graciously taken off all of our heads, by You. And if this is so, what about the suffering that You are bearing for us?

SANT JI: There is no doubt in the fact that those dear ones who were going to be in this group and who were going to stay in that hotel at that time were definitely going to be in that fire. This is not a miracle. In this no one has done a favor to anyone. This is all God Kirpal's doing; He has changed the program for the benefit of His children, understanding all of us as His children. It is not that God Kirpal has sacrificed other people. He is the abode of grace and even now He is showering grace on all of us. He is all gracious. Those people who were burned in that fire came there for that, and stayed there only for that purpose. They were supposed to be there. He protected us only because we were calling Him. We were requesting and praying to Him day and night. He definitely hears the plea of all those who are calling for Him. Those who ask for help, definitely get help.

Just today an incident happened about seventy kilometers from here. One dear one got burnt in his home with petrol. They lost a great deal because they had two tractors which were burned in that fire. But this is true, that when that dear one remembered and asked for help from his beloved Master, the Almighty One, the fire was extinguished. Even though he is burned very seriously, still he is lying there peacefully. They might have lost a great deal more than they have lost. In that house were many other members of the family; there were young children there also, and animals. Anything could have happened; all of them could have been burned. But God Almighty reduced the pain from the gallows to a pin prick. I have just come back after visiting that dear one.

I have often said that the Negative Power has got some boons from the Positive Power. Those boons were: No soul should have any remembrance of her past life; no one should remember what good karmas she had done or what bad karmas she had done, what is responsible for her suffering or for her reward; also that no one should know where he was born in the past life, who were his parents or his children. Nobody, in other words, should have any awareness or knowledge about his or her past life.

The other boon which the Negative Power took was that Saints should not perform any miracles when they come into this world, and they should not liberate anyone without making them meditate. This is why Masters always put a lot of emphasis on doing meditation. They give us warnings through the satsangs and they tell us, “This is your work and you have to do it.” They do not perform any miracles because this is a promise which the Almighty Lord made with the Negative Power, that whenever Saints come into this world they will not perform any miracles to attract people back home. Master Sawan Singh used to say that if God Almighty had not given this word to the Negative Power it would not have been a difficult task for the Saints to take everyone back, because for a perfect Saint it is not a big thing to give an eye to a blind person, or to give a leg to a person who cannot walk. For them it is a very easy thing, because they are the owners of all, they are the Almighty Ones. But since this is a promise given to the Negative Power, they do not perform miracles.

So according to that promise Saints do not liberate anyone without making them do meditation. The Negative Power has made this promise to Almighty Lord, that whenever He sends perfect souls, Saints, into this world, he will have to give them bodies; and according to that promise whenever Saints come into this world they are given a body by the Negative Power.

Now according to the laws of the Negative Power, the karmas which the disciples have done must be paid. It doesn't matter whether the disciple pays that karma, or the Master who has taken responsibility for the disciple pays that karma. All the karmas must be paid. Now he has left this for the Master to decide, who will pay how much of the karmas. But this is sure, that nobody can go back to the Real Home without doing the meditation and without paying off all the karmas which the soul has made. So this is why in order to help the disciples (because the disciples cannot pay off their karmas by themselves) Master always helps them pay off their karmas. All the karmas must be paid. Now the Saints do not have any choice in how to pay off the karma: in whatever way the Negative Power asks for the payment of the karmas, they have to do that. If the Negative Power asks for an eye, they have to give an eye. If he asks for a leg, they have to give a leg. They do not have any choice; they cannot say, “We will not give you this and we will not give you that.” In whatever way the Negative Power wants the karmas to be paid, they have to do that. And this is why you might have seen the Masters suffering. Saints are pure souls and they are not involved in any kind of karmas, because they have not made any karmas which they have to suffer or enjoy. They are free from karma, and whenever you see them suffering it is always because of the sufferings of their disciples. Since they are innocent and they do not reveal that they are suffering for us, they may seem to be suffering, but in fact it is on account of their disciples.

Once Master Sawan Singh was suffering a great deal; He was suffering for a dear one who was present there and, instead of understanding the reality, that dear one started having negative thoughts for Master Sawan Singh. He thought, “He is the Master and still He is suffering so much?” So he asked Master Sawan Singh, “Master, is this your own karma for which you are suffering?” Even though Master Sawan Singh was suffering the karma of that dear one who had asked this question, still he did not say, “Dear one, I am suffering your karma.” He said, “No, this is not my karma, this is the karma of one of my dear ones.” So even though Masters suffer for the karmas of the disciples, they do not say when they are suffering for us because they are not doing any favor to anyone; it is their job and they have been sent into this world by the Almighty Lord to help the disciples go back to their real home. This is not a small incident which I have talked about, the fire in the hotel. It is similar to the Bhopal gas tragedy which happened last year, in which thousands of people were killed. It took about eight hours for the machinery to control the fire. It happened at two o'clock in the morning when everybody was sleeping. All of them were attacked by death when they were in deep sleep. All the newspapers and radios were filled with the news of this incident and even in Parliament this has become a big issue and they are talking about it very seriously.

Dear children, when someone's son is involved in any kind of accident, that father tries his best to save the child in every possible way he can. When a worldly father can do every possible thing to save his child from an accident, our Almighty Lord, who is our God, and our Real Father, when He sees us in any kind of difficulty or any kind of calamity, then He also does every possible thing; whatever He can do, He does that for us. Those who have love and faith in Him, according to our faith and yearning for Him, we get help from Him.

QUESTION: Dearly Beloved Satguru, I asked myself, if God loves us and our soul so much, then how can it be that we have separated ourselves from him? If our soul is innocent then why is she suffering so much? Then I asked myself, Well, maybe it is not so, maybe the soul is not suffering, maybe it is just the other parts that are suffering.

SANT JI: Every Satsangi should read Anurag Sagar, because this question is answered in that book; it is connected with the subject of that book. Kabir Sahib has written very clearly why the souls came into this world and why the souls were given the body and why they are suffering. Still I would like to explain it to you in brief.

When a piece of iron is heated in the fire it becomes very hot, but it does not melt. Whatever you touch with that heated piece of iron also burns. In the same way when the body is suffering, it suffers very much. So the soul that is living in the body, will she not get any suffering? Will she not be affected by the suffering our mind and our body are getting? When you say that the soul doesn't suffer, it is the other parts of the body which suffer, that is not true; because our mind as well as our senses do not have any power of their own. It is just like a vine which grows on a tree; it does not have any root of its own, it does not have any power of its own, but it takes its strength from the tree on which it is growing and it weakens the tree. In the same way, our mind and the organs of senses are receiving power and strength from our soul, and in return they are making our soul weaker and they are making our soul suffer. And all these organs which we are using for bad deeds, they will all go and bear false witness. When we go back to the Lord of Judgment they all speak against us. The ears will say that they did not hear bad things [the soul did]. Our hands and feet and all things which were given to us for doing good, since we did not do good with them, they will speak against us, and they are not the ones which are suffering. Ultimately it is our soul which will suffer. When she will be given another body, when we will suffer according to our deeds of this lifetime, it will be our soul which will suffer, not the other parts of the body.

QUESTION: What obligations and responsibilities do we have to our blood relatives; for example, if our brother goes bankrupt and owes a couple of hundred thousand dollars?

SANT JI: I am sorry to say that people do not understand the teachings of Sant Mat. Whatever is written in the literature, you people read that, but you do not understand it correctly. This question regarding the worldly relations has been answered so many times very clearly. It is not a bad thing to help others. As souls, we are all brothers and sisters; those whom we understand as our real brothers and sisters, as long as we do not get attached to the Shabd Naam and go within, we understand them as our only brothers and sisters. We know that we can never satisfy our relatives, because the more you will help them, the more demands they will put and expect from you. So before helping others, first you should be sure why you are trying to help them. If you are expecting thanks or anything in return, then you should better not help them because you know about worldly relations: one day they will thank you and the next day when their other demands are not fulfilled, they will get upset with you. So you may help them a little bit and after some days they will get upset with you because you will not be fulfilling their further demands. I do not mean to say that you should not help your relatives. You can do that but be very careful, and before helping others, you should know why you are trying to help them. If you are expecting any thanks or appreciation from them, you should better not do that because the worldly relatives may thank you one day but next day when their worldly demands are not fulfilled, they may get upset with you, which you may not like.

QUESTION: You said that the Saints never perform miracles and yet I see them about all the time. And in more recent times I can give you an example of a satsangi, he had such an illness which is considered, at best, that the person maintains about the same state of functioning, but usually the person deteriorates in brain and mind. Now this satsangi spoke to you and you told him to do Simran and Bhajan and to attend satsang. And so it happened that the person went to satsang, was constant at satsang and was keeping the company with satsangis, and he recovered from the illness to the point that his mind is even better than it was before. You don't call that a miracle? I told you about the car that was heading toward the river off the road, that made a complete one hundred and eighty degree turn around. Don't you call that a miracle? And I could go on and on like this, and talk about miracle after miracle.

SANT JI: Well, dear ones, still I cannot say that I performed any miracles. It is still all the grace of Master Kirpal, because He is the one who is doing everything. I agree that when the dear ones are at this state they give all the credit to their Master, and like you, when Hira Lal Bagga, Pappu's father, went to Canada he sent me a taped letter in which he said, "You may say, and You have always said, that Saints never perform any miracles, but whatever I have gone through ever since I left India for Canada, on the way, I have come across so many things which were not less than miracles." I would like to say that Saints do not do anything except perform miracles. But still I would tell you, that there is nothing which I have done; it is all the grace of the Master. Because Saints know that first it is all the Master who has done everything. They always remain innocent and they never say that they have done anything. During the Second World War, I was in the Yole Camp. Yole is near Khandra in the mountains and at that time in Khandra Master Sawan Singh was giving satsang and I was also present there. One Army man was wounded, and had lost his leg; he had an artificial leg attached to him. He had been wounded in Italy, and he came there. After Master Sawan Singh finished the Satsang, he stopped Master Sawan Singh and said, "You always say that You do not do anything, that You never perform any miracles, but You tell me one thing: We are very ordinary beings, but still You went so far to take care of me and to help me.” Then he told what he had gone through. He said that in the front in Italy he was wounded by a bomb. He lost his leg and at that time Master Sawan Singh himself carried him to the base where they had a hospital. There again the enemy came and they surrounded and attacked the hospital. So the doctors and the officers decided that those who had minor injuries should be taken to headquarters, and the others who did not have any hope of surviving should be given injections of poison and put to death. “And I also came in that category. When the doctor was going to give the injection to me, I pleaded that he should try to save me; he should not put me to death. But he did not listen to me; he injected the poison into my body. At that time I saw the earth moving around, and I saw everything green. But I remembered Your Form and I did Your Simran. They threw my body in the water, but when I remembered You, at once You came there in your car, and took me out. You brought me out from that water and put me in Your car, and You brought me into the headquarters hospital. So how can You say that You did not perform any miracle, or You did not come to help me? Why do You say it is all Your Master that is doing this when I have seen with my own eyes – I was very much aware of your presence – I saw with my own eyes that You came there to help me.” Master Sawan Singh said, “Well, you can ask all these dear ones: I have never gone out. I did not go anywhere. I was just sitting here giving the Satsang. If anything happened to you it was all the grace of my Master.” Later when Master Sawan Singh was having His food that dear one went inside and lay down in front of Master Sawan Singh, because he could not bend over because of his artificial leg. And he said to Master Sawan Singh, “The government has not given me any credit, and I am not getting any pension or anything, so it is very difficult for me to maintain myself.” Master Sawan Singh told him, “Don’t worry: God, Who protected you earlier, will make arrangements for you now also.” Then He recommended him to one Tisraldar whose name was Thakur Singh, and He told him, “He will take you to the government, and he will help you get a pension. And he will help you get the reward.”

When the dear ones get the opportunity to talk to the Master, they always express what they have in their hearts. There was a young girl who stood up and told Master Sawan Singh that when her grandmother left the body she said, “Master Sawan Singh has come and I am going with Him.” Master Sawan Singh said, “There are many people whose grandmothers leave the body; and Baba Jaimal Singh comes and takes care of them.” At that time Mastana Ji of Baluchistan was also there and He had brought two bags full of ashes and bones of many people who had left the body because of a cholera outbreak in Baluchistan. He told Master Sawan Singh, “All these people whose bones and ashes I am carrying, they all said, ‘We are leaving; Master Sawan Singh has come to take our soul.’ You say that it is Baba Jaimal Singh coming to take their souls. But they reported that Master Sawan Singh had come to protect their souls.” Master Sawan Singh said, “Mastana Ji, you are brave.” He meant to say that those who are the brave satsangis, the meditator satsangis, they see their Master functioning everywhere.

Tulsi Sahib has also said that it is very difficult to understand a Saint. About those who say that they have understood a Saint He says, “I touch my ears. God forbid, nobody can do that.” Even if you sit in front of the Saint and tell Him, “You protected us; You did this, or You did that for us” – still He will never agree and say, “Yes, I did this for you; I did that for you.” He will always say, “No, that is not me. I have not done anything.”

Because He is a very innocent being, and He is a very serious being, and He will never say that He has done anything. It is very difficult to understand the Master.

I see my Supreme Father Kirpal working everywhere, even now, and even during His lifetime I would see with my own eyes how He would come to protect the souls; many times He would make this very obvious and very clear how He was functioning and how He was taking care of the souls. Now, even though he is still present among us, He is with us, and we can see him everywhere – I can see him everywhere even now – since He is not physically present in front of us, we can express what we have in our hearts for Him, we can glorify Him, we can sing praises of Him; but if, when He was in his physical body, I would try to glorify Him, I would try to sing praises of Him, He would not be pleased with that, He would not get inflated like a balloon. He would always be very quiet and very kind, and whenever anybody would try to sing any praise or try to glorify Him, He would not be pleased. He would say, “This is all Master Sawan Singh’s doing; this is all the grace of Master Sawan Singh.” He would give the credit to His Master. Master Sawan Singh also would not get pleased when Master Kirpal would call Him “True Emperor.” But sometimes I would call Master Kirpal True Emperor, and when I would do that He would always catch my ears and say, “Be careful! Don’t say that again!” He never wanted anyone to praise Him; He was never happy when anyone praised Him. He always remained in humility, and He would become very pleased when He could remain in humility.

Once Master Kirpal was wearing a shawl and He was looking very beautiful. In Punjabi a shawl is called by the word Kumbali, and it had a spiritual significance. So I said a short line, “Everybody is talking about the Kumbali, but I see that You are the one with the Kumbali; Ask me and I will tell You, that You are giving me a very beautiful experience.”

I got many opportunities to have the darshan of Master Sawan Singh and I was very fortunate to sit at the feet of Master Sawan Singh. Blessed were His holy feet where I got many opportunities to sit. He had a very attractive form and His darshans were also very attractive. Mastana Ji was His dear one, and Mastana Ji also loved Master Kirpal Singh very much. Whenever Mastana Ji wanted to glorify the Master, he would make me stand in front of the sangat and say how Master Sawan Ji used to look, because he knew that I had seen Master Sawan Singh Ji so many times. So whenever Mastana Ji used to ask me to describe the form of Master Sawan Singh, I would describe the form of Master Sawan Singh as I had seen Him, because He had a very attractive form; His face was very pink, and He had a very broad forehead. It always seemed as though there were two lights burning in the forehead of Master Sawan Singh. Whenever I would describe Master Sawan Singh, he would become very happy; because only he is the gurmukh who becomes happy hearing the praises of the Master, and only he is a real disciple of the Master who always narrates and talks about the form of the Master.

Mastana Ji of Baluchistan used to call Master Sawan Singh God, and Master Kirpal the Son of God. And he would always say that Master Kirpal had done a lot of meditation. Always he would tell me that such a Power would give you the Initiation, and such a Power will get manifested in you Who is so powerful that even if there were two cannons blowing the fire, if He put His hand in front of the cannons, they would stop. He would always say that Master Kirpal had done a lot of meditation, and those who want to see the fruit of meditation should go see Master Kirpal. Those satsangis who have seen Master Kirpal Singh know how many nights he stayed up, and how hard He worked in meditation.

1986 May: Faith is the Victory

This question and answer session took place January 1, 1986, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: I was once told that Sant Ji said that when you tell the Westerners to do something, right away they feel guilty. I was also told once that Master Kirpal said that guilt was a trick of the mind. I was wondering if Sant Ji could explain this to me, and also is there a time when it is good to feel guilty?

SANT JI: First of all I would say that regarding myself I understood myself as the guilty one in front of my Master – not once, but millions of times – but I never said about any Indian or Westerner that they feel guilty when you tell them to do something.

Because it is not a principle of Sant Mat to make others feel guilty or to say that others are guilty. The principle of Sant Mat is that you should look at your own faults and look at the good qualities of others. The reality is that Saints come into this world to become an example for others. Kabir said, “When I went looking for the bad ones, I did not find anyone bad. When I looked within myself I found that I was the worst of all.” Even though They are not the guilty ones, still, in order to make us understand, Saints say, “We are the guilty ones,” so that we may understand that we have to feel ourselves guilty. Because They know that we do not have any good qualities in us. If we get the Naam Initiation it is only because of the grace of the Master. It is the Master who gives us the Initiation. If we have developed any good qualities it is all due to the grace of the Master. But still we feel that we are something, we have egotism. That is why, in order to make us understand, They say that They are the guilty ones.

In all the Satsangs I have done on the Gauri Vars I tried to explain that those who look at the faults of others carry the burden of that karma on their head. But those who look at their own faults remove those faults and go across this ocean of life and become liberated ones. All Saints have said that. Saints develop so much humility, and They always call Themselves guilty ones and other people good ones. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Understand yourself as the bad one and understand the rest of the world as the good ones.”

Regarding the Westerners, Master Sawan Singh did say that they have this feeling of hurry in their minds – because one dear one who was initiated just a week before had written to Master Sawan Singh complaining that he had not gotten any results or experiences in his meditation. That is why Master Sawan Singh said that in the Westerners’ minds they expect results very quickly; they have this feeling of hurry.

QUESTION: In the school where I teach, very much is spoken about angels. The teachers pray to the guardian angel of each child, and also to their own guardian angel, to be inspired in their work. And the satsangis there were talking and we wonder, what is the relationship between Masters and the angels and the disciples? Because the Masters, as we understand it, take on the guardianship of the souls whom They initiate.

SANT JI: It is very interesting and it is worth understanding. The satsangis have seen the Master and that is why they can pray to the Master and Master has become the guardian of those satsangis. But I will tell you truly that those teachers have never seen any angels; they have not even seen the Master and they don't have any idea Who is the guardian, Who is the protector of the soul. Except for God Almighty there is no one else whom we can call the protector of the soul. No god or goddess or angel can be the protector of the souls. I passed my gyani grade in the State High School of Sangroore in Punjab, and our teacher used to say to the students, "Those of you who have prayed to the so-called gods for forgiveness for not doing your homework, I do not acknowledge them, and I am not going to spare you for that. Those who have done the homework, only they will be forgiven." In India the teachers are very strict, and the students who did not do their homework would pray to their so-called gods and angels to be forgiven. But the teacher would never spare anyone, and I have seen that those who did not do their homework were told to stand on their head, and they would get the punishment in that way. But those who had done the homework did not need to pray to anyone and they did not get any punishment.

For your satisfaction and in reply to the question I would like to give the example of Swami Ji Maharaj. He said, "In the worship of the Master comes everybody's worship." Just as all the waters from different sources go and become one in the water of the ocean, in the same way in the worship of the Master comes everybody's worship. Because if we are doing the worship of the Master, if we are praying to the Master, it means we are praying to and worshipping all gods and angels and everyone – because all of them respect the Master and obey the words of the Master.

When the dear ones write to me that they have received Initiation, I write back to them saying, "I am very happy to know that you have gotten the holy Initiation. Now it is your job to dive into the ocean of the love of the Master and bring out the pearl of Naam from within that ocean." You should see the truth with your own eyes. I am not telling anything to you from hearsay. This question cannot be solved only by talking about it or reading about it from books. Reading from books is one thing and doing what is written according to the books is another thing. We have to do it practically; we have to go within and see for our self. Only with the grace, mercy and blessings of my Master was I able to obey the orders which He gave to me. And only because of that was I able to see the real glory of my Master. I was able to see what position He has in the inner planes. Even now He is coming through those inner planes and going back, and the disciple who goes within and sees the glory of the Master in the inner planes, only he can know how great his Master is. When the Master comes to the lower planes, which we call "heaven," wherever He goes, all the gods and goddesses and angels who have reached up to those lower planes treat Him with great respect, they give Him a place to sit, they all give him a lot of respect, and they appreciate Him a lot. All the gods, goddesses, and angels who are stuck there beg Him for liberation; they all beg Him, "Kindly take us along with You." He loves those souls also, and He tells them to be patient. He tells them that it is the law of nature that only when you are given the human body can you get Initiation into Naam, and liberation lies only in the Naam. When they say that they did not appreciate the human birth when they were given it and it will be very difficult to get liberation, Master tells them to be patient and to wait for the time when they will be given human birth. So only the disciple who goes within knows how much respect and appreciation the angels, gods, goddesses and other spirits who are in the inner planes give to his Master.

Suppose a session judge is walking on the street in a city. He may be wearing ordinary clothes and he may be wandering here and there and may buy vegetables from a shop; and people may not realize that he is the session judge because they don't know him. But if someone knows him, and recognizes that in his speech or in his pen there is great power – then with that person the judge can do anything he wants. That person who knows the judge will respect and appreciate him even in a place where no one else has recognized and respected him. In the same way, a Saint or Mahatma is seen by millions of people in this world. Many people look at Him and for them He may seem to be an ordinary person. But those who go to the inner planes and who know the real glory and position of the Masters, when they see a Saint, even in His ordinary outfit, still they appreciate and respect Him, because they know how much power God has given to Him and how many rights this Saint or Master has received from Almighty God and what He can do. Only that dear one who goes within and sees the Master's real form is aware of the glory of the Master in the inner planes, and only such a person can have real appreciation and respect for the outer form of the Master.

You can see for yourself, as Guru Nanak said, "If you bow down to your servant, you will not have any glory." It is not good for you to bow down to your servant. What will people say? In the same way with these gods, goddesses, and angels who bow down in front of our Master – if we do their worship even after receiving Initiation from the perfect Master, if we keep worshiping angels, gods and goddesses whose planes we have to go through when we go back to the Real Home – what will the owners of those planes say: "They are higher than us and still they are bowing down to us?" I will tell you an incident from the time when I was in the army. There were two beggars from my village who happened to be in that place also and they found out I was there. They thought, "He is from our village, so we will go to him, spend the night there, and maybe he will give us some money also." So when they came to me I knew that they were beggars, but still I did not show it. I did not say that they were beggars and when I told my friends to make very good beds for them and when I told them to bring good food for them they were surprised and they thought that maybe I had not recognized them. But since they were beggars and they knew what position they had, they felt very embarrassed because I was offering them such good food and beds. So they came to me and said, "We think you have not recognized us. We have always been begging for things from your father and forefathers and we do not deserve such good food and such good beds because we are only beggars from your village." I told them, "I know that, but don't tell this to anyone else. It was my job to offer you good things and I have done that." But since they knew their position, they could not eat or sleep there. They were so embarrassed that they suddenly left the place when I went away for a short time. They left without eating food or sleeping there.

So I mean to say that when we bow down to angels, gods and goddesses who are of the lower planes, those very beings who bow down before our Master, and respect Him, they feel very embarrassed; they feel very let down, because they know that we are the children of that Almighty Lord to Whom they are bowing down. Not even the angel of death can come near the disciple of the Master, what to speak about the angels and gods and goddesses of the lower planes. Master Sawan Singh Ji often used to talk about the “family gurus,” because this happens, especially in Punjab. The ten Gurus, whatever work They were given in the Will of God, They completed that and They went back to the Real Home. But those who were born in Their families started calling themselves as “the ones who held supernatural powers.” They would go to people, saying that they were of the same family as the Master, and once or twice a year they would collect things from people. And people also used to believe in them. People used to say, “They are of the same family as the Master,” and they believed that whatever these people said would come true. So in that way, there were so many family gurus; all over Punjab there were so-called Masters all belonging to the family of one or another of the ten Gurus. Master Sawan Singh also had one family guru like that. Master Sawan Singh used to say that before receiving Initiation from Baba Jaimal Singh his family had a family guru who visited them once in a while, and Master Sawan Singh would give him some money. But when he received Initiation from Baba Jaimal Singh He realized that He was a perfect Master and then He did not feel the need for any other Master. So when that family guru came again, Sawan Singh said, “Before I used to give him one rupee, but at that time I gave him ten rupees and folded my hands to him and told him, “Now I don’t need you, because I have found my Master.” So that great soul knew right from the beginning that when one has got the Initiation from the perfect Master he does not need to rely on any other master or any other angels or saints.

Master Sawan Singh used to tell a story about one Muslim fakir who was a perfect Master and had many disciples. Once a Maulvi – a Muslim priest – who was going on the sacred pilgrimage to Mecca, the birthplace of Prophet Mohammed, came to attend the Satsang of that fakir. That maulvi talked to the fakir’s disciples, and you know that if someone comes to our Satsang who does not believe in our Master, we feel very bad; we feel that he should also have faith in our Master. Because usually the disciples who have seen the glory of the Master, even a little bit within, they want others to also take their Master in the same way, and also to understand that their Master is the Almighty Lord. This is a usual feeling of all disciples, so in that way, there was one disciple of that Muslim fakir who felt very bad: “Why is this maulvi here? Why is he sitting in our satsang when he does not believe in the Master?” He wanted that maulvi to believe in his Master. But the maulvi was orthodox and he did not want to believe in the Master, and after the discourse he talked with the Master about the importance of the pilgrimage to Mecca. He said, “Every Muslim should go to Mecca, the birthplace of Prophet Mohammed, because that is a sacred place and there Prophet Mohammed waits for every Muslim, and once in their lifetime, everyone should go there. If one does not go there even once in his lifetime his human birth is wasted and he does not get liberation.”

When the maulvi was talking about the importance of Mecca, that disciple who had a lot of faith in his Master felt very bad and could not control himself and he held that maulvi by his neck and pushed his head down at the feet of his Master, and said, “He is the real God! Who else can be God other than Him? Why don’t you bow down to Him? He is the real Master.” When he did that, the maulvi became very upset, because he was a strict and orthodox Muslim and he did not like to bow down in front of a human being; usually orthodox Muslims think that it is a very bad thing to take a human being as God. So he got very upset.

Now Saints have their own ways of making things understood to people and their own ways of working. So the Master said to that maulvi, “I apologize on behalf of my disciple; he does not know what he is doing, and I will give him punishment. Since he has insulted you, he will also go to Mecca with you.” Hearing this, the maulvi became very happy and he thought, “Now he will learn the lesson of the importance of going to Mecca.” So both of them went to Karachi and from Karachi they boarded a boat, because in those days they did not have any means of flying. After some time there was a big storm in the ocean and the whole sky was filled up with dust and the boat was wrecked. So both the maulvi and the disciple were drowning in the ocean and they were on one wooden board. Now that maulvi did not have anyone to whom he could pray, who could come to rescue him, but the disciple had the Master; so he could pray to Him. But he had faith in Him and he knew that if it is in the Will of the Master He Himself will come to save him. After some time a hand appeared and a voice came saying, “Give me your hand and I’ll save you.” The disciple said, “But who are you?” He replied, “I am God.” The disciple said, “My hand is not for God because I have sacrificed my body, my hand, everything, for my Master and I will not give this hand to anyone. It is not for you.” So that hand disappeared and afterwards another hand came. And the voice said, “Come, give me your hand, I will save you.” The disciple said, “But who are you?” The voice said, “I am the Master of your Master.” But the disciple said, “No, I don’t want your help; because I have a living Master and if He wants, He can save me. I don’t have anything to do with you.” (In Sant Mat the relation of the grand-Master or the great-grand-Master does not mean anything; only the relation between the Master and the disciple works.) So I don’t want your help.” So that hand also disappeared and finally the hand of the Master came and when He said, “Come, give me your hand, I’ll save you,” and the disciple said, “But who are you?” He replied, “Don’t you recognize me? I gave you initiation.” And when he realized that it was the hand of the Master he said, “Not only my hand but my head, my everything, my whole body is yours,” and he did not even think that if he removed his hand from that wood board he would be drowned. But happily he left the board and gave his hand to the Master, and the Master rescued him. Hanging onto the other side of the board the maulvi saw all of this and he was very surprised to see how three hands came and the disciple did not accept any of them except the last one. He thought, “If I was in his place I would have accepted the hand of God which came in the first place, and I would have been rescued.” But seeing all that, he was very impressed, and he realized the importance of the living Master and he told the disciple, “Kindly pray for me so that I too may be rescued.” So that disciple prayed to his Master and with the spiritual grace of that Master he was also rescued, and later on when they came back, since that maulvi had realized the importance of the living Master, he came and bowed down at His feet and asked for initiation.

Master Kirpal used to give the example of Laila and Majnu. He used to say that once somebody told Majnu, “Mr. Majnu, God wants to see you.” Majnu replied, “If he comes in the form of Laila, I will see Him.”

Satsangis should make their hearts like this. My uncle always used to taunt me. He used to say, “You have sold yourself, you have sacrificed yourself for that Kirpal and you say that He is the most beautiful one? You say that He is the gracious one?” I gave him the example of Laila and Majnu. I told him that no doubt Laila was dark-colored. I told him that I have read in the history that Laila was of dark complexion and Majnu was of fair complexion and people used to taunt him: “O Majnu, why have you sacrificed yourself for Laila when she is not even beautiful, she is dark-complexioned?” So he replied, “That is right, but you should see Laila through my eyes. People of the world see only one part of Laila but I see the complete beauty of Laila.” So it is not the body which is beautiful. It is the love which is beautiful. The form of the Master is very beautiful because He has love; and love is that which makes this form beautiful. He has such a love which enchants your mind, which takes over your mind.

Laila and Majnu were not ordinary human beings because their love was not made dirty by lust. They were true lovers. Everyone wants to become Laila and Majnu, but it is very difficult to become like them. Mahatma Chattardas has written, “Once Majnu came and sat outside Laila’s city. Everyday Laila sent milk and good food for Majnu but once she sent an empty cup asking for blood. Since that Majnu was not the real Majnu, he at once ran away. Everyone wants to become Majnu, but when it comes to sacrifice for Laila then they run away.”

Baba Bishan Das was very loving. He knew all the tricks of the mind and he had struggled very hard because as I have often said the earlier practices of the Path are very difficult. Later on to go in the higher planes is not so difficult. In the lower planes you have to struggle very hard but later on you have got the satisfaction and happiness and since you have become competent in going within, then it becomes much easier to go into the higher planes.

If such a soul as Bishan Das had received full initiation in his earlier life he would have become successful in it, but because he was a very sincere and true soul that great Master Sawan Singh showered much grace and blessings on him. Because he was very old and his body was weak, Master Sawan Singh told him that he will make him do the meditation in the inner planes, and he would liberate him like that.

Baba Bishan Das used to say that there is no greater coward than the mind and there is no greater or mightier lion than the mind. If he reaches his destination, if he reaches his real abode, then there is no one more powerful than the mind – because then he controls all the organs of senses. But if he is controlled by the organs of senses, then he does not take even one moment to run away – he becomes very cowardly.

God had given all conveniences and comforts to Baba Bishan Das, but once he got initiation from his Master Baba Amolak Das, He never tasted any salt, sugar or pickle. He used to say that if anyone becomes bad, or if anyone loses, it is only when he indulges in taste. Once it so happened that Baba Bishan Das was struggling with his mind, and when the mind started giving him a lot of trouble, he threw it out, and as a symbol of that he bought a pig and tied it to his door. There were many Muslim people living around the place where Baba Bishan Das’ ashram was located because there was only one street between the ashram and their mosque. So next morning when the Muslims came to worship in the mosque, they saw that there was a pig; and you know that Muslims don’t like to see pigs. They take it as an inauspicious thing. So when they saw that, everybody got together and got upset at Baba Bishan Das and started saying, “What has Baba Bishan Das done? He is an atheist!” and they started talking against him. Baba Bishan Das came out and said, “Well, you have a lot of anger in you and that is why you are getting angry at me. But first listen to me, talk to me, and then if you think that I am guilty you can give me any punishment you want.” There were some people who were wise so they said, “Well, what is wrong in talking with Baba Bishan Das?” and they came forward and talked with him. Baba Bishan Das said, “First of all tell what is meant by ‘pig’ in your holy book – who is called ‘pig’ and who is the one whom you don’t like to see?” They were wise people and knew about the sacred teachings, so they said, “In our book it is written that the unruly mind is like a pig and we should not have anything to do with that unruly mind and that is why we don’t like to see the pig, which is the symbol of the unruly mind.” Baba Bishan Das said, “I have tied this pig to my door only to show that my mind has become like the pig; he has become very unruly and I have thrown him out. I am showing that I have thrown out my mind and he is in the form of the pig. You people have that mind within you and I have got him outside. What wrong have I done?” So hearing that they were all satisfied and stopped fighting with him. Baba Bishan Das, during that time, when people would offer him good food, he would say, “Yes, I have tied that dog, that pig, over there but he is not barking and I don’t want to feed him.” He used to call the mind either as a pig or a dog.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “The weak mind is like a goat, and the strong mind is like a lion. And we bow down to the lower powers only when we give up having faith in the Master and the support of the Master.”

Our condition is like that person who went into a Sikh temple asking for parshad for the second time; he had already got parshad once and he went to get some more. And the hand holding the parshad he already had he put behind him, to hide it, and a dog came and ate it at the same time the bhai who was distributing the parshad remembered that he had already given him some, so he did not give him a second helping. So there is a saying, “From the front the bhai did not give him parshad, and from the back the dog took the parshad that he already had.” We bow down to lower powers and go to lower powers only when we do not have enough faith in the Master. If we have faith in the Master then even if we don’t remember Him He will come and help us. But if we have faith in the Master there is no question of not remembering Him; we will definitely remember Him. When we do not have enough faith in the Master, only then we look for support and seek refuge of the lower powers. But they do not do anything for us; they do not help us. And why should Master also help you when you don’t have faith in Him?

Well, whatever I have told you is based on my own faith which I have in my Master. I have told you about that because for the one who has faith in the Master, all things are accomplished. A disciple who has faith in the Master, will not do anything which will defame his Master: there is a common saying that if the dog is bad it is the owner who is blamed.

1986 June: The Traps of the Negative Power

This question and answer session was given on April 2, 1986, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: Master, I know the Path is a very serious thing. But sometimes that seriousness and discipline feels like a great burden. I know also the other side of that is the real joy in the Path. I wonder if you could say something about how we might get more in touch with that joy and less in touch with the burden.

SANT JI: This is a matter of great understanding. It is a very good question. We feel the Path as a burden only when we leave our mind open and free to do whatever he wants to do. When we do not want to improve ourselves and when we leave our mind to do whatever he wants, when we ourselves create the difficulties and get stuck into that, only then we feel that the Path is a great burden on us.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that if one is fortunate enough he may get birth into a satsangi family. And if he is more fortunate, his parents, who may be also very good satsangis, may bring him up according to the teachings of the Path; and if he has been brought up in the atmosphere of the Path, then he would not get into any habits that would become very difficult for him to give up. He also used to say that if someone is still more fortunate, he might come to the Path in his childhood, and when he has started following the Path in childhood, he would not fall into habits which may become difficult for him to give up in later times.

In the present time the Negative Power has laid down so many snares, so many traps to trap the souls. You know that in the universities of this world you will find only a few teachers who have maintained a very high, very pure character. And you would not find many students who go to the universities or schools who also have the same kind of good character. When the student goes to the university it is something new for him, but there he does not find any teacher who can leave a very good pure impression upon him, because the teacher himself is not maintaining a very good character. And along with the studies there are drugs, movies and other things which are offered to the student, and the student gets confused. Moreover in the home, along with their studies they have television, movies; they have magazines and many other things which do not help them to build up character; in fact they destroy character. So when people get involved in all those worldly things they get perturbed, confused, because they do not find anyone who can leave a very good impression on them. They do not find any students in the universities or in the schools who have maintained good character, or who allow others to maintain good character. So when they spoil their character, and get confused and perturbed in the world and when they come to the Path of the Master, the Master always tells us that we have to discipline ourselves, we have to maintain good character. And when the Master teaches us to keep our lives pure, first of all we do not have as much interest in the Path of the Masters as we do in the path of the world, and also we do not get so much time to spend with the Masters and the Path as we do in the open world where there are many other things which influence us. That is why it becomes very difficult for us to get the color of the Master, and that is why we get confused and feel that the Path is a burden on us: because we do not get that much time, we do not have that much interest in the Path as compared with the interest we have in the world.

People have made television an issue of prestige. They think that they should have a television because their neighbor has a television. Until recently, in India there were not so many televisions; but nowadays the government has been copying the Western countries and that is why they have introduced television. Whenever they inaugurate a new television station they always announce that so many thousand people or so many thousand villages will get benefit from this television station. But they do not look into the future and see what harm it is going to do to the people.

Last time I went to Pappu's house I went outside up on the roof just to walk a little bit, and over there I saw that on the house next to Pappu's house, there were three television antennas. There are three brothers who live in the same house but they each have their own television. And they all had their television on to see some program. They could not turn on one television and watch that because they thought that if one particular brother did not turn on his television it is as if he could not afford to do that. So the brothers had all three televisions on. Do you think that we will feel peace after seeing all those things which are against the peace of our soul? Do you think that we will be able to keep ourselves in discipline after seeing all those things?

The Hindu Shastras have left no stone unturned in explaining things to us. They say that when the husband and wife want to have a child, when they are trying to have a child, they should have very good thoughts. In the room in which they are trying to conceive the child, they should keep pictures of the Saints and Mahatmas and holy men so that they may keep their thoughts pure and clean. And the married men know when they can conceive a child. The Shastras have said that once you have indulged with your companion and once you have conceived a child, after that for three years you should not go near your wife. Because if you conceive another child during that period of three years, the milk of the mother will become sour; and if the baby is born within three years of the delivery of the other baby, then that child will not obey you. Either he will be born sick or he will not obey you. Because the deeds and thoughts of the parents affect the child even in the womb of the mother.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that for the first twenty-five years of your life you should maintain chastity and you should gain knowledge as much as possible. And after you have gained knowledge, after you have finished your first twenty-five years, then you can think of getting married. But it is a pity to say that in the schools and colleges, the boys as well as the girls have already destroyed their lives by indulging with each other, and at the time of the wedding they have become completely bankrupt.

Pappu knows this because he translates for all the interviews and also all the letters of the dear ones: some very strong-looking people, when they write in letters, or when they talk to me, tell me how they lose their vital fluid in their sleep or in dreams in the night, and how their clothes get dirty. Hearing their condition I get so moved, I sometimes feel like weeping, because I feel sorry for them for how they have spoiled their life with their own hands.

In the past the teachers or acharyas used to give education to the children as a donation to them. They used to have a very good and high character, and they used to teach the same thing to their students. And the students also used to get knowledge from them sincerely. They used to get religious education also and the teachers were proud of their students because they themselves had maintained their character and they were proud of the character of their students. After the students completed their education and went into the world, some would become officers or other great men because they had made their earlier life good. That is why later on in their life they were able to attend to their worldly responsibilities and they were able to make the right decisions: only because they had not spoiled their lives in their earlier days.

I do not mean to criticize anyone. You can decide for yourselves how much nowadays in the radios, in the newspapers, magazines, the element of lust has been propagated.

I have often said that nowadays in the newspapers you can read an advertisement that says if you want to regain your lost vitality and lost youth come to us and we will give you some medicine and you can regain your lost youth. You can go and see those people who boast of giving the lost vitality and youth back to people. First go and see their faces; you will not even like to look at their faces because their foreheads have become black, the light has gone out from there. So when you do not even like to go and look at the faces of those people who claim to be the givers of the lost youth, how can you expect that those people who go to them and take the medicine will regain any lost youth or vitality? The vitality of youth is like an arrow. Once the arrow has slipped out of the bow, it does not come back. In the same way, once you have lost your youth you cannot get it back.

Why is the youth of today so addicted to drugs? Because they do not like to study, they do not like to do anything of the world, so they find an escape and get addicted to drugs. Because they have lost their vitality, they have lost their power, since they have spoiled it right from their childhood. That is why when they do not have that power in them, they do not like to study or do the worldly things. And as a result of that they get addicted to the drugs, they find an escape through the drugs, and after that if you try to explain to them about the disadvantages of drugs they will not understand it, because they have lost all their enthusiasm and all their energy to do anything of the world.

This is my personal experience: In the villages we used to play together up till the age of twenty years old; the boys and girls used to play together even at nighttime. But nobody had any thought of lust or anything like that. But nowadays you will find that a young boy, a young child of even two years old, would know about lust. Why is it so? Because in the past times the parents would not even sit together in the same bed in front of the child, and there was no question of kissing or hugging in front of the child, and that is why the children did not know anything about that. But nowadays you see how free we are. We go on kissing, hugging each other in front of our children, and whatever we do our children copy us and they do the same thing.

There was an Udasi sadhu who used to live in the gurdwara of our village. He used to drink wine and smoke cigarettes and do all sorts of things, but I did not know how bad they were because I was a young child at that time. Since I used to see him wearing the colored robes I thought he was a good mahatma, and I used to go and spend time with him. My father knew about that sadhu and told him that he should not allow me to come and sit near him. But he did not take any action regarding that. My father also tried to explain to me that I should not go there, but I did not listen to him because I thought that he was a good sadhu. Once my parents thought of a plan to intimidate me and stop me from going to that sadhu. I had gone to see him; he was sitting on the bed and I was sitting cross-legged on the floor. At that time he was smoking a cigarette and he was also taking snuff because he was addicted to that. I was sitting there when suddenly my father came from behind and kicked me on my neck with his foot, and he hit me very terribly. I started weeping and I started running because I was afraid that he would hit me again. It was very quiet in the village since it happened at night, and as he was chasing me he made more noise and beat me less; finally I came to my mother and requested her to save me from the beating of my father. But she said, “No, I cannot do anything today.” Anyway I pleaded to her and she saved me from the beating, but that experience made such an impression on me that after that I stopped going to that sadhu.

My father had said to me, “Why do you go there? Do you want to learn smoking and other things which that sadhu is doing?” But until I got that beating I did not understand that, but after my father gave me that beating I understood and I stopped going to that sadhu. At that time I did not understand why it was important for my father to give me that kind of punishment, but later on the result became very clear to me. Then I came to realize what would have happened in my life if I had continued going to that sadhu, if I had started learning smoking and the other things which he was doing. I would have ruined my life. So after that I stopped going to that sadhu, and later on, just remembering that experience, that beating which my father had given me, I never went to anyone who would smoke and do other things like that.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that as the parents, so the children. . . . Children always get the habits of their parents. Whatever the parents are doing, the children also learn the same thing. Responding to the question that was just asked – why sometimes we feel the Path as a burden – there is a lot to say about this but I will divide the answer into two different parts. The first part is about why we sometimes feel that Sant Mat or the Path is a burden. Although there is a lot I could say, I will try to be brief in replying to this. I will say that since we are not brought up in good conditions right from our childhood, that is why it is very difficult for us. When we finally get interested in the Path of the Masters, and with the grace of Master Himself come to the Path. He tells us to discipline ourselves. He tells us good things and then we try to understand the teachings of the Path and we try to change ourselves according to the teachings of the Path. But since we have not had that good company right from our childhood, since we have not made our life ethical and good according to the teachings of the Path, that is why we find it very difficult to be in the discipline according to the teachings of the Path.

Many times we try, we even swear by God that we will not do the bad things; but again because the mind is there he always misleads us, he always brings us back into the bad things. That is why after doing good things for some time, we again start doing bad things. And again we say that we will not do that. But because of the mind we again fall into bad habits. So that is why when we go on following the mind, since we have not been brought up in the good way, as we should have been brought up, we find it difficult to follow the teachings of the Path completely and we feel it as a burden.

When I went to Sant Bani Ashram the first time in 1977, there were two crazy people who came there. They themselves were disturbed and they disturbed the whole sangat. Whenever they did anything disturbing to the other people at once they said to call David Teed or Kent, or someone who could explain to them and take them out. When these dear ones came and had to deal with those crazy people, they know how difficult it was for them in the beginning to make them understand and how they convinced them to leave the Ashram. Outwardly they were also human beings like the other dear ones, but from inside they were different, and those people who know how to deal with the crazy ones, only they know how difficult it is to deal with crazy ones in the beginning, but later on when the crazy person starts understanding you, then it is not so difficult.

This world is a forest of passions and pleasures of the world, and our mind has become wild and like a madman he is wandering here and there. We have no control over our mind and we have loosened the rope over our mind and it is wandering here and there and creating destruction. As it is difficult and takes some effort to explain to the crazy person in the beginning, in the same way it takes some effort, some time, to make our mind understand certain things. Sant Satgurus come into this world which is full of passions and pleasures, where the mind is like a wild person and we do not have any control over it. Sant Satgurus come and teach us how to control the mind. Just as we teach the mad person to behave well and be in the discipline, in the same way Sant Satgurus come into this world and teach us how to bring our mind under control. They give us the medicine. Guru Nanak Sahib says that the world is sick, Naam is the medicine. Without the Truth one does not get rid of this sickness. So Sant Satgurus come into this world, they give us the medicine of Naam and they tell us how we have to bring our mind under our control. Along with the medicine they also tell us certain things which we should not do which will help to improve our condition. But we do not understand the value of it and we do not appreciate it. It is as if you try to give rock candy to someone who has malaria; he will say, “No, don’t give it to me, it is bitter.” In fact the rock candy is not bitter, but the taste of his mouth has become bitter and so he thinks everything is bitter. In the same way, in the beginning when the Sant Satgurus give us the medicine of Naam, we do not find it very sweet, we do not find any joy in that, because our taste has been spoiled and we think everything is bitter, everything is bad. But gradually when we go on doing certain things which they tell us to do, and when we go on taking the medicine of Naam, then our mad mind comes under our control and we start feeling joy from this Path.

What is the poison which is affecting us? It is the poison of the passions and pleasures of the world. It is the poison of the organs of sense. Because of this poison, the sweetest thing, the sweetness of Naam, does not attract us and we feel that everything is bitter.

Sant Satgurus do not apply any force on us, they do not impose anything on us. They lovingly tell us through the satsangs that if you will give up your bad habits one by one and if you will go on living up to the words of the satsang, and along with that if you will do the meditation of Naam, then all these bad habits in which you are involved, you will get rid of them one by one very easily.

Suppose someone is standing on the ground and another person is on the roof of some house. If the person standing on the ground wants to go up to the roof, but does not have any means of getting there, he can get there only if he stretches out his arms towards the person who is standing on the roof and if the person on the roof lowers down some ladder or rope. Only if he helps him can the person on the ground go up to the roof and see the things. In the same way, Sant Satgurus lower down Their rope and tell us to hold Their hand. We are standing in the well of this world. They graciously lower down the rope of Naam and tell us, “Dear one, catch hold of this and come up.” If the disciple makes some effort and if the Master showers some grace, only then can he become successful and come out from this well of the world.

We become successful only if we have kept our mind in the discipline and only if we are fond of keeping ourselves in the discipline.

Once a boat was floating on the water. All those who had taken support of that boat were also floating with the boat and they were going across the river or they were easily swimming across. In the same river there was another vessel which would sometimes sink deep under the water, and sometimes it would come out, and anyone who would seek the support of that vessel would get drowned in that water. That sinking vessel – when it saw the boat which was easily and smoothly going across the water and that all those who had taken its support were going across very easily and not drowning asked it, “Dear sister, tell me why it is that you go very easily and smoothly across the water, whereas I myself sometimes go down and sometimes come up, and those who take support of me get drowned. Why is it that you do not have any difficulty whereas I do?”

The other boat replied, “Dear sister, this is all the grace of the carpenter who made me. First when I went to him, mercilessly he chopped me into small pieces, and after that he joined me using nails; he nailed me and only after that have I become like this. I myself am the liberated one and those who seek support in me, they also get liberation. They also go across the water. But you should have the desire to become like me if you want to go to the carpenter.” In the same way, if we go to the Master we should also have the desire to become like the Master; because if we do not have the desire to become like Him and if we are not receptive to the grace of the Master, then how can He do anything for us?

This is the difficulty and this is the reason why we feel the burden, because we have to keep ourselves in the discipline. In the satsangs Masters tell us about the inner planes, about the inner journeys; and being inspired from those talks, we do meditation and, keeping ourselves in the discipline for a few days, we progress. But after that we lose the discipline and the progress which we have made does not remain clear to us because we have made ourselves go down; we have started following the mind. After a few days again we start remaining in the discipline, again we start doing the meditation and then we progress, and again we fall down. So we go on in this way all our lives, and that is why we feel it as a burden, because we do not do it constantly.

I have often said that it is not true that we were not the true lovers of God. It is because we were the true lovers of God that we have come to the Path, we have gotten Naam initiation and come to the Masters. Everything is all right: we have got the initiation, we love the Master, we love doing the meditation – everything is all right up until this point. But after that our mind creates laziness within us, he deludes us, he does not allow us to keep our devotion constant as we should have done, and that is why we feel a burden and where all the difficulties come up. Often I have said that if the devotion and yearning which we had on the very first day when we met the Master, if that devotion and yearning could be maintained throughout our life, what is the question of one’s own liberation, such a person can liberate millions of other souls.

Paltu Sahib says, “Run away, O child of Fakir, because in this world there are the gardens of wealth and woman. If you will not run away from these attractions you will be the fool. Because even the great rishis like Shringi were killed by this wealth and woman. Only he will be saved, only he can escape them, who sits in the satsang and remains awake day and night.” Master Kirpal used to say that what a man has done a man can do. If the Saints could control their mind, if the Saints could keep a strong guard against the mind, if by doing the meditation of Shabd Naam They could keep themselves in the discipline, then we can also do it. If we remain awake in the satsang, if we will keep a strong guard against . . . but your mind is wandering here and there, sometimes it is going to Germany, sometimes it is going to America, sometimes it is going here, and sometimes it is going there. So in that case you are not sitting here doing meditation. You are wandering here and there because you are following your mind.

1986 June: The Pearls of Spirituality

This question and answer session was given at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, India, on February 23, 1986.

QUESTION: When children are raised on the Path and they start meditating and going to satsang, and then they hit teenage and they don't want to meditate and they don't want to go to satsang anymore, where is the balance of love and discipline?

SANT JI: Often I have said that it is the first duty of the parents to mould the lives of their children. You should tell them of the goodness of going to the satsang and sitting for meditation, and the benefits of attending satsangs and doing meditation. And also what good it does to get a good education. You should tell them about the disadvantage of using drugs and doing the bad things which most of the young people in the West do. You should tell them about the disadvantages and all the bad things which may happen if they do not attend satsang and if they do not meditate. You should tell them all these things lovingly. If you teach them lovingly it will make all the difference. But the pity is, what happens when the parents are teaching all these things to the children? Either they are angry, having spoiled their own peace when they are explaining things to the children; or when they are trying to explain things to the children they are not doing it in a good way. Most of the time the parents are explaining these things to the children only after they have fallen into the bad habits. It is much better, and it is advised, that before the children fall into the bad habits the parents should explain the things to the children in a loving way – not getting upset, not with the tone of anger, but peacefully and lovingly.

I will tell you a story which Master Sawan Singh also used to tell very often in the satsang. And I have also told this story very often in the satsang. Once upon a time there was a prince of a state, and he fell in love with the princess of another state. They wanted to get married but their parents did not agree. So both of them decided that they would run away from home and get married and live happily afterwards, in some other state. So one night as they had made the plan, the princess brought a she-camel and she came and also took the prince with her. When they were running away from home they had to cross a small river. So when the she-camel came near that water, the princess said, "Pull the rein, otherwise she will sit in the water." And she added that her mother also had that habit of sitting in the water.

Now when the prince, who was a very wise person, heard that the camel's mother also had that habit and as a result the she-camel also had the habit, he realized that if even in the birds and animals the children take on the impressions and habits of their parents, then what about the human beings? He thought about the future. He thought, "Today this girl is going away with me and we'll get married and have children. What if my child, be it a boy or a girl, if he or she were to run away from home and go and get married with someone whom I would not like and to whom I would not agree? What will happen to me? People will criticize me and say, 'His son or daughter has run away and has gotten married,' and at that time it will be very difficult, because whatever we are doing, our children will also do the same thing.”

Since he was wise and got that wisdom, right then he changed his heart and did not want to run away with that princess. So he said, “I have forgotten one very important thing in my palace; let us go back and get that. We still have a long night and we still can make it after we go and get it.” The princess did not know that the heart of the prince had changed, so she agreed and they went back. When they got back to the palace the prince folded his hands to her and said, “Thanks to God that we have been saved from doing a sin, because if we had gone away and produced children it would have been possible that, like this animal, they would have become like us, and then people would have criticized us. So it is better that you should go to your home and I should remain in my home and we should not do anything like this.”

So the purpose of telling this story is that when the birds and animals have the impression and habits of their parents, the human beings also have the habits and impression of their parents. That is why Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that if you want to make your children good, first of all you should yourselves become good, because the children learn a lot from the parents. So if you want to teach or explain anything to a child, first you should become perfect in that.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to talk about His neighbor whose son would steal things from others, and when he would come bringing things from other people, his parents would always appreciate that and say that he was a good boy. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “What can you say to such parents who encourage their child in bad things?”

When a child falls into bad habits he spoils his life, and you know that sooner or later the child definitely gets this thought: “My parents did not do anything good for me, and whatever I have become today it is only because of my parents.” I meet many children in the interviews who have had bad impressions from their parents, and they tell me how much it affected them when their parents were not getting along with each other. Some children who have had very good impressions from their parents because their parents are very good, they also say that they are very grateful to their parents because they have learned a great deal of good from their parents.

Those children who wander away from home and who fall into bad habits, finally when they do bad things and they are put into jail, they suffer a great deal of bad karma. They suffer a lot in this world. So those children who make such bad karmas, their parents are also responsible for those karmas, because it was their duty to make the lives of their children but they did not attend to their responsibilities. That is why whatever karmas the children are making after wandering away from home, the parents are also responsible for that. Kabir Sahib says, “Even the dog of a devotee of the Lord is much better than the mother of a worldly person, because the dog of a devotee, even though she cannot do the devotion, at least she earns the praises of God, whereas the mother of a worldly person or bad person always encourages and inspires the child to do bad things.”

It is my personal experience that those parents who have good character, who do meditation, who go to satsang and who have a very good life, they do not need to explain or tell anything to their children, because children learn by themselves. They go to the satsang, they sit by themselves, nobody needs to tell them anything.

In the month of October I went somewhere to hold satsang. They had set up a tent there and the dear ones had made all the arrangements as we do here for the satsang. After I returned from the satsang the dear ones told me that for two months the children went on imitating how we do satsang. The children did not have any tents to set up; they would gather some rags and used clothes and things like that and make a small tent-like thing and some children would become as the sangat and someone would become as the Baba or the Master and they would pretend they were holding satsang. They had also made a small underground room-like thing where they would say that the Baba was meditating there. So I mean to say that whatever they had seen, for two months continuously they went on imitating that, doing the things which they had seen. When Pappu's nephew used to live with them, Pappu's mother told him, "Whenever you go to school you should always bow down to the Master." So whenever he used to go to school he used to come and bow down to me and then go to school. But when he did not have to go to school, when he had a day off, even though I would be standing near him he would not bow down to me. If he had been told that he should bow down to the Master every day, he would have done that. But since he had been told only to bow down when he went to school, that is when he would do it.

So dear ones, the parents should take good care of their children. You know that they are innocent souls and they have come into this snare of mind and maya. They also have been given the opportunity to progress spiritually in this world. If their parents are good, they can not only make their worldly life good but they can also progress in spiritual life. You should be very patient when dealing with children. The Masters always behave as a child of forty days old in front of their Master and they always get the grace of the Master. Guru Nanak Dev Ji Maharaj says that even if the child makes so many mistakes, the mother does not get upset at him; she always showers grace and she is very kind. The child may do anything wrong and he may make mistakes, but the mother always extends her gracious hand and she is always kind towards the child, because she has to make his life.

Further He says, "O Lord, I am your child; why don't you forgive me and forget all my sins?"

QUESTION: It seems that ever since I was a small child I have been taught to make judgments and to think critically. And up to a point this has been very productive, but having done this all my life the mind now judges automatically, and I find that the judgment extends to people's behavior. I do not wish to do this and I was wondering if there is any way or any kind of secret that one could find to stop this judging of other people's behavior.

SANT JI: The first thing is that it is very difficult to give up a habit. But the only way to give up this habit is meditation; other than that there is no other way by which you can give up this habit. You may have to struggle for the first few days and you may find it very difficult. Whenever your mind inspires you to fall into this habit, you should start doing Simran. He will pull you towards the habit of judging others, criticizing others, but if you are strong and keep doing Simran, gradually by doing Simran and doing meditation this habit will go away.

In the satsangs Saints always explain these things to us, because satsang is the only cure for all these things. Always when we sit in the satsang we should sit with our mind and brain attentive and we should be very attentive to the satsang. We should sit empty and we should be very attentive to the words of the Master. We should sit wholly, physically and mentally, in the satsang so that we can understand what the Master is saying. In the satsang Masters always tell us that you should try to look at the good qualities of other people, you should not pay attention to the bad qualities which they may have.

Once there was a Muslim fakir who went to a market place where he saw that they were selling julabies. Julabies are a kind of sweet, and his mind told him he wanted to eat julabies. The fakir thought, "Today the mind is asking for julabies and tomorrow he will ask for a woman and then he will ask for something else. So I will spend my life fulfilling the desires of my mind and it is not a good practice, so I should teach a lesson to the mind." Since the mind had created the desire of eating those sweets, the fakir said, "Okay, but in order to buy the sweets you need money and you don't have any money. Let us go to the forest and pick up some wood and after selling the wood and getting some money, then I'll buy the julabies." So he went to the forest, and in the forest his mind told him, "Here is a good spot and you can pick up the wood and that should be enough for buying the sweets." But since the fakir wanted to teach a lesson to his mind, he said, "No, let me go a little further and I'll get better wood and so get more money." So in a way he gave punishment to his mind. He went very deep into the forest and collected a lot of wood. Where he was going to carry one load of wood he carried two loads. The mind told him that it was too much for him to carry, but he said, "No, if I carry more wood I'll get more money and I'll get more julabies."

So when he came to the city he sold the wood and he bought the julabies. The fakir then told his mind, "Let us go outside the city and then we will eat there." So when he went outside the city he ate some julabies. After eating some his mind said, "That is enough." But the fakir said, "No, you wanted julabies, so you should eat all this." When he ate all that he vomited. Then the fakir told him, "This is not a good thing, you should eat this vomited stuff also." So he made his mind eat the vomited stuff also. Then his mind said, "No, that is too much, I cannot do anything more." Whatever julabies were left the fakir gave to the people who were passing by that place, and then the fakir told his mind, "This was a punishment for you. Today you asked for the julabies and I have given you that, but now you have realized what good it has done for you. Now this is your punishment: for one year you will not get anything except warm water. And where you were meditating for one hour everyday, now you will have to meditate for two hours."

So the meaning of this is that whenever the perfect soul's mind encourages him or tells him to do anything bad, which takes them away from the Path, they always give punishment to the mind. They do not give in to the desires of the mind. They do not fulfill the desires of the mind, because they know that if one desire is fulfilled he will create many others.

The Negative Power has imprisoned the soul, and to the soul he has attached the mind, and mind has many types of snares and baits to attract the soul and get her involved in the snare. Just as when anyone wants to capture a bird, they spread out some food and they also have a cage in which they catch the bird; in the same way the mind has spread so many kinds of foods and snares to trap our soul. To whatever food the soul is attracted and in whatever way the soul could be captured and imprisoned, mind always uses those means, and the soul is helpless and cannot do anything even though she sees that she is being trapped. She cannot do anything because she is under the influence of the mind. That is why Saints always tell us that we should keep a strong guard against our mind and we should not let our mind have any influence on our soul; and the only way of doing that is by doing Simran. Only by doing Simran can we save our soul from the traps laid down by the mind.

QUESTION: I have read that if we can reach the point where we can keep those tears within the eyes and not let them drop out, they become pearls of spirituality. Would you comment on that, please?

SANT JI: When we reach the stage which you are talking about, we get a lot of patience, a lot of contentment, and after that we develop such a state that cannot be described in words. Bikhan Shah has tried to describe that state in His writings. He says, “In both of my eyes I have got the real contentment. Wherever I look I see only Him; whether it is inside or out, I see Him with both my contented eyes.” When a soul reaches that state which you have just mentioned, that soul gets patience and contentment and real inner bliss. After that she does not weep and show the tears outside to the people; she does not weep inside, because she is seeing the Almighty Master everywhere. Outside she sees the Master, made up of the physical form which has five elements, who is none other than the Almighty Lord, and that Form of the Master tells the disciple to go within. And when such a soul goes within she sees that the same Master is there. So when the soul reaches such a state, then she does not need to weep or shed any tears. Even if she wants to do that, she cannot do that. If she wants to become happy she cannot do that – because she has become content, she has attained inner bliss, inner happiness. So all these things like shedding tears have no meaning for such a soul, because she has achieved that for which she was looking.

It is just as if you make a plan or design for making a house. The builders or masons can make the house according to the plan you have made, but a plan is different from the actual construction of the house. If by just having the plan or design of the house, you say that the cement will also come here or you will get the masons and things like that, you cannot get the idea of how all these people are going to work and how you are going to get the house constructed. When the house is constructed according to the design, only then are you convinced that this is the reality. What you made earlier was not the real thing, it was just the design.

In the same way, to talk about the state or the point which you are talking about, when the tears become the pearls of spirituality, you cannot get the idea about what that stage is just by talking about it. When the Mahatmas write about all those things in books it is different, but that point or that stage is worth experiencing for the disciple. The intoxication and happiness which the soul gets when she reaches that point is so great that it cannot be described in words. It is just like what you have said. It is just like the design: to go and live in the house is different from seeing the design. In the same way to experience that point, or that stage, where your tears become the pearls of spirituality, is different from talking about it.

It is pleasing to have the cold sighs, and it is worth having the cold sighs, only when the Beloved for whom you are having the cold sighs is in front of you. It is worth shedding tears, if the Beloved for whom you are shedding the tears is right in front of you and He is there with the handkerchief to wipe off the tears, because He knows that the tears which you are shedding in His remembrance, the tears which you are having for Him, are not ordinary tears, they are the pearls, and He does not want to waste any of those, and that is why He has the handkerchief there, He is Himself there to wipe off the tears. He is there to wipe off the tears Himself and to share your pain. Such dear ones, those who have reached this stage which you have mentioned, when they have cold sighs, or when they weep tears in the remembrance of the Master, it is so full of the effect that they can even make the birds of the forest cry, just by their weeping. Their cold sighs are so effective that even the poisonous snakes would not dare to come out of their homes and stand in front of the person who is having cold sighs for the Master. Because they know that the person who is having the remembrance of the Master is so effective, it can do anything. So the point which you have made is worth experiencing.

They are the most fortunate people in the world, they are the best people in the world, who have this kind of crying and who can shed this kind of tears. Master Kirpal Himself told me that when Master Jaimal Singh left the body, when Baba Sawan Singh went to visit the body in Baba Jaimal Singh's home village, over there Baba Sawan Singh wept very much. He wept so much that the sangat who was accompanying Him could not resist and they started weeping. When the dear ones said to Baba Sawan Singh, "If you are weeping in your condition, then what is the hope for others; what will be the condition for us, the sangat?" Baba Sawan Singh replied, "Look here, O Dear Ones, if my beloved Master Baba Jaimal Singh would come in His physical form which was made up of five elements in front of me even for a moment, I am ready to sacrifice everything just for that one glimpse of His physical form."

I had many opportunities to sing bhajans in front of Master Kirpal. I did not prepare for singing the bhajans. It was not that I would write a bhajan and then sing it to my Master. It would come instantly. In fact it was He Himself who would make me say the words of praise of Him. So whenever in my words of poetry, in my bhajans, when I would sing, the name of Master Sawan would be mentioned, at once the tears would start rolling down His cheeks and He would start weeping. And those fortunate souls are the best people, those who shed tears in the remembrance of their Master.

When Supreme Father Kirpal left the body of five elements . . . He came in the Will of God and He left in the Will of God; but when He left His physical body this poor Ajaib wept very much in His remembrance. When I was weeping, one person came to me and said, "You have always said that you should never cry or weep when anyone leaves the body, because just by weeping or crying for someone you cannot bring that person back. You have always said that, but now you yourself are crying. You are a wise person; why are you crying?" At that time I was in deep pain, I could not talk very properly, but still I told him the story. It was like this.

I told him that there was once a king who decided to go on a tour to some other states, to some other kingdoms. He told his queen that he was going on the tour. When he went on the tour he did not really go on the tour; after some time he just came back, canceling his tour. But his wife the queen was in love with another man, and when the king had gone for the tour she had already made arrangements with this man she loved, saying, “The king has now gone on tour and he will not come for some days, so you come and we will enjoy.” But when the king came back, at that time the queen and the other man were enjoying and sleeping together. When the king came there he was surprised to see that there was another man with the queen and he was also surprised because that was the palace. How could another man come into the palace? But when he saw that the other man was with his wife and they both were sleeping naked, he did not get upset. He did not show that he was there and they did not know that the king had come back. The king simply took off his shawl and covered them with it, and he went into the other room.

Now when both of them woke up, the queen was terrified to see the king’s shawl over them, and she thought that now the king would give her punishment because the king had seen all that they had done, because this was the shawl of the king and nobody else would have come and covered them with the shawl except him. So when the queen thought of that she became very afraid. But the king did not mention anything about that to the queen; even though they met many times after that and lived together for many years, the king never mentioned anything about that to the queen.

After some years, when the king’s end time came, he called his sons and gave the successorship to the sons, and then he told his sons that they should respect their mother and obey her. “Take good care of her, she is a good woman; do what whatever she tells you.” And then he transferred some property and things for the expenses of the queen also. But when the king was saying all these things to his sons, that they should take care of their mother etc., the queen started weeping and went on weeping very bitterly. The king asked her, “Why are you weeping now? I have transferred so much property in your name and you will be comfortable when I die. What else do you want, why are you weeping?” She said, “I am not weeping for any wealth. I am crying because now, when you are leaving, who will come and throw the shawl over me? Who will hide my faults?” So I told the dear one that that was why I was weeping. I told him that when the beloved Master was in the physical form He used to hide my faults, He used to forgive me for my faults. Even now when He has gone back to Sach Khand in His Radiant Form He is showering grace on me and He is forgiving me and hiding my faults. But when you have the physical form of the Master in front of you, you can express what is in your heart, you can go and weep at His feet.

Just by having the darshan of the physical form of the Master you can get rid of so many bad sins and bad karmas that you have done, which you cannot do very easily when the Master is not there in His physical form. So that is why those who go within and see the glory of the Master within, and who know how the darshan of the Master works, they weep in the remembrance of the Master because they know that now the Master is not going to come back in His physical form and hide their faults: He is not going to come and throw the shawl over their faults.

1986 July/August: In the Hands of Kirpal

This talk, part of a question-and-answer session, was given at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, on February 26, 1986.

SANT JI: When go within and the inner path becomes open to us, then we realize what we really are. After that we do not feel anything, neither joy nor sorrow. We come to realize that our soul has been sent into this world with two different kinds of clothes to wear. One you may call joy, the other you may call sorrow. When we go within and realize our own Self, and the path is opened up to us, then we do not become happy in joys, we do not become unhappy in sorrows, because we come to realize the duality of our soul and to know that God has given us these two garments. When the time comes for us to wear the garment of sorrow, we wear it; but we do not become unhappy. When the time comes for our soul to wear the garment of joy, we do not become excited or very happy in that. It is easy to talk about all these things but it is difficult to experience sorrow and joy and remain detached. Until we go within and absorb ourselves in the Shabd we cannot reach that point.

Guru Nanak Dev Ji Maharaj has said that pain and happiness are two different garments which all human beings have to wear.

Guru Nanak Dev Ji even says this: “Don’t get excited by looking at joyful things, and don’t weep looking at suffering: there is always pain after happiness, as the same Creator has created them both.”

Kabir Sahib says that everyone gets punished because he has assumed the body. The wise people suffer the consequences understanding it as the will of God; patiently they do that. The unwise people weep; but they also have to suffer the consequences.

Dear ones, we obtain the real knowledge only when we shake off the physical, astral and causal covers from our soul. When our soul reaches Par Brahm only then we get the real knowledge. In Trikuti our soul is kept for a very long time, while all the collected or stored karmas are resolved. There the soul is purified and separated from her bad karmas, just like the thresher separates the wheat from the chaff. In the same way, when the soul is kept in Trikuti she is made to meditate a lot, and she is made to pay off all the stored karmas from the ages and ages in birth after birth which she has collected. After that, the soul goes to Par Brahm, and only then she gets the real knowledge, only then she becomes a pure and holy being. Such a soul who has reached Par Brahm is not affected by the kriyaman or the present karmas which she is doing; they do not have any effect on a soul who has reached Par Brahm.

As far as the prahlabd or fate karmas of such a soul is concerned, that soul who has reached Par Brahm becomes so intoxicated in the love of the Master that she becomes neither unhappy in suffering nor excited and happy in joy. Whatever comes in the fate karmas of such a soul who has reached Par Brahm, she pays that and suffers or enjoys without minding or complaining about it. As far as the stored karmas are concerned, I said earlier that when the soul is kept in Trikuti, she is made to meditate and the stored karma is finished there; after that, such a soul does not have anything to do with the Lord of Judgment.

The Lord of Judgment cannot write down the account of the Kriyaman, the present, karmas of the Saints. This is a special gift which the Saints have got from the Almighty Lord. They are free from all the present karmas. Of course, the Mahatmas who have reached Par Brahm do not do any bad karmas because they are the abode of grace; they do not curse anyone or do anything bad to anyone. But even if they were to make any present karmas, it would not be in the reach of the Lord of Judgment; he cannot write down the account of that because Saints are free from all kinds of karmas. If, in love for their disciples, the Masters have to pay for any of the karmas of their disciples, or if they have to forgive the sin or fault of their disciples, they suffer the consequences of those karmas and they do that through their body. But the Negative Power or the Lord of Judgment cannot write down the karma which is paid by the Master in his register, because the Negative Power only cares that the karma is paid. It does not matter to him whether the Master or the disciple is paying off the karma. That is why Saints continually tell us that we should be very careful in making present karmas; because either we or the Master will have to pay for whatever karmas we are doing. We already know to what extent we are capable of suffering the consequence of our own karmas; even if we get a little pin-prick in our foot, all night long we go on praying, “Master, save me, Master help me,” – we go on saying like that. So how can that Master who has given us the initiation and who has taken our responsibilities on His shoulders, not help us? He definitely helps us and He suffers our karmas because we are not able to do that by ourselves. It is like we have planted a small plant and we are nourishing it; later on when it grows it gives us fruit, and shade. When a plant which we have planted can do so many things for us, can our Master, whom we are believing in and who has taken responsibility for us, not come to help us? He will definitely come to help us because Saints are the abode of grace and they only know how to shower grace on their disciples; and they tell their disciples that before doing any karmas, we should be very careful, because we should realize that either we or our Master has to pay off those karmas.

You know that all the perfect Saints who have come in this world up until now, they have always gone to the feet of their Master, they have sacrificed a lot, they have made themselves very pure, and they have devoted themselves to their Master very much. Those disciples who go within and who are able to carry on the work, when they were given the work of the continuation of the mission, they have always begged their Master, “Master, this is a very heavy burden to carry. You Yourself do this work; we cannot do it.” They have never claimed to be the successor of their Master and they have never wished to do the work after the Master leaves the body. But on the other side you will find also those people who have not perfected their meditation, who have not made their life pure, but still after the Master leaves the body they claim to be the successors of the Master. They even go to court and fight for the property of the Master. Because they have not done meditation, they do not know how heavy that burden is that they want to carry. I do not mean to criticize anyone by saying this; I am only telling you things which history has witnessed and what has happened with the Saints in the past and with their successors.

When Bhai Lehna, who later on became Guru Angad, came to Guru Nanak, Guru Nanak asked him, “What is your name?” He said, “Lehna.” In Punjabi that means, “I have to take.” Guru Nanak said, “If your name is Lehna and you have to take, then my job is to give to you.” He embraced Bhai Lehna and afterwards He made him Guru Angad. Angad means “of my own body.” When Guru Nanak told Guru Angad, “After me you will have to continue this work,” He wept and said, “Master, this is a very heavy burden; I cannot carry it.” But still Guru Nanak insisted and told Guru Angad that he would have to be his successor. His sons Sri Chand and Lakhmi Das got upset at Guru Nanak and told him, “He is our servant and you are giving him the successorship and all our things?” Guru

Nanak told Guru Angad, “Leave all this property here at Karturpur for them; you go to your own village of Kadur Sahib and do your work there.”

When Guru Amardas went to His Master Guru Angad, He also served Him very wholeheartedly and He molded His life according to the instructions of His Master. When Guru Angad Dev was about to leave the world, He told Guru Amardas, “After me you will have to do this work of giving Naam-initiation.” Guru Amardas also said, “It is a very heavy thing and I cannot do it.” But still when Guru Angad insisted, He also had to do it. But here too Dasu and Datu, the sons of Guru Angad Dev, were opposing Guru Amardas. When Guru Amardas sat down to do the satsang they came and kicked Him and said, “Are you in your senses? You used to be the servant in our home and now you have become the owner of our home?” At that time Guru Amardas did not get upset at them; He was the abode of peace and was very humble. He told them, “Forgive me, but I am an old person and my bones are very stiff, it is possible that when you kicked me you might have hurt yourself. So please forgive me.” And He left all that property there and went to the place called Goindwal, where He started His work.

In the same way when Master Sawan gave the orders to Master Kirpal to do the work, He asked His dear ones to bring the register and count how many people He had initiated; When they told Him, He said, “Kirpal Singh, I have done half of your work. The other half you will have to do.” So Master Kirpal wept and told Him, “No, you should do the other half also.” But when Master Sawan Singh said, “No: this is your job and you will have to do it,” Master Kirpal said, “Well, whatever You tell me I will do that. I am just the pipe; you will have to send the water. Whatever way you make me dance I will dance.”

Master Kirpal had made a very beautiful house in the Dera of Master Sawan Singh and when Master Sawan Singh left this earthly plane Master Kirpal could not even look at the house which He had made Himself, He just bowed down to that place and peacefully left the Dera, and in the remembrance of His Master He went to the forest of Rishikesh where He did His devotion.

Regarding myself, you may have read in Mr. Oberoi’s book that when Master Kirpal came to my ashram He told me that I should come with Him to His ashram and take care of the things there. I wept and said, “All my life long since my childhood, I have been waiting for You, and now when you have met me You want me to go and get involved in the bricks?” At my ashram we had so many bricks, and I told Him, “If you want to hit me in the head with bricks, here they are; You can hit me. I wanted only you and that is why I am content with you and I don’t want anything else.”

I have often told this story: that when Master Kirpal Singh was supposed to go from Kunichuk to Ganga Nagar He had me sit in His car with Him for two or two and a half hours. At that time He was not physically well, and I wanted Him to lie down in the back seat and I would go in my own car. But He said, “No: come with me in my car because I want to talk about something very important with you.” I begged Him to lie down comfortably and I would go in my own car but still He insisted. He took me in His car with Him and then He started talking about the things which His Master Baba Sawan Singh had told Him when Baba Sawan Singh gave Him the orders to do the work of Naam initiation. He told me that there are many orders which the Masters give to the disciples and the disciples obey those orders even though they do not want to because it is for the good of the people. He said, “When my Master told me to do initiation, I told Him that I could not do that, but He insisted and said that I would have to do it. He told me, ‘There will be many people who can explain the theory in a much better way, but it will be very difficult to find someone who will meditate and make others meditate. I don’t want my teachings to be lost in the world; I am giving this job to you to make sure that my teachings remain alive and are given to the people. I am giving this work to you and you will have to do it.’”

When Master was telling me all these things which His Master had told Him, I got the hint that He was going to tell me the same thing, and I felt like opening the door and jumping out of that car. But He held me very tightly and He told me, even though I had refused earlier; but when He told me that time, Tai Ji, who was sitting in the front seat, said, “Just imagine how much the sangat will lose if you refuse to do that, and remain inside.” I said, “Yes, I know that. The dear ones will lose a lot.” Then Master told me that I had to do this work. At that time I begged Master Kirpal, “Master, people criticized you and Master Sawan very much even though You are competent. You are filled with worldly knowledge and you are competent and Almighty. In the same way people will criticize me also, but I do not have any worldly knowledge or anything. How will I bear that? How will I do that?” Master told me, “When the bad people do not stop their bad deeds, why should the good people stop their good deeds? You will have to do this work.” I had spent all my life sitting underground doing meditation and I did not know anyone in the world. You can ask Khulwant, who is sitting here: I did not know the Bagga family, I had never known them. It was all the arrangement of Master Kirpal that He brought them into contact with me and everything happened. At first Khulwant came, and he did not speak very good English; then he brought Pappu, who at that time did not speak good English, and did not have any idea how to translate; I told him that he will get the initiation and everything will become all right. Later on he got the initiation and with Kirpal’s grace everything was all right. He started doing the work of translation, and did it very well. When Khulwant brought him he told me, “We all are initiated by Master; he is the only black sheep in the family and has not got the initiation.” So I told him to get initiation, and when with the grace of Master Kirpal he got it, you know how everything happened.

When we started thinking about the first tour one person came here, a very learned person, and asked me, “Why are you taking Pappu? He is just a kid, he does not speak very good English – how can he do a good translation?” I told him, “It is all in the hands of Kirpal: whomever He has chosen to go with me is going; I do not have any choice.” Then another gentleman came from Delhi. He was a very learned man and spoke good English and he said the same thing. And he said, “You do not even know about the westerners. Even God fears the westerners, they are so smart; they will ‘sell’ you so you should be very careful with them.” I mean to say that they tried in every possible way to intimidate me. I told him, “Go within and ask Master Kirpal Who has made all these arrangements. I cannot go against His wishes; whatever the Master has wanted I am doing.” So they tried to stop me; they did not want that I should go out and give the message of my Master.

But I had His support and I told them, “I cannot go against the wishes of my Master. Whatever arrangements He has made I will abide by.” I also told them, “You have said that in the West when someone goes to give a talk, if the audience does not like that they start saying, ‘Stop this, shut up, stop this nonsense.’ So if people do that, then I will have to face it, and what will I do? I will just keep quiet and come back.” So then that dear one went, because he wanted that I should not go outside and I should just remain here. So I mean to say that this is all the grace of Master Kirpal, He has made all these arrangements; now you know that here is the same Pappu, and he is doing a very good work of translator, he can explain things very well to the dear ones. So all these things were arranged and done by Master Kirpal Himself.

When that dear one had come from Delhi and he was talking with me about all those things, Kent Bicknell was also here and he got very upset, he did not like the things which that dear one was saying to me. Because he was saying that westerners can “sell” people and like that. So when Russell Perkins came to me the second time, I told him, “Some dear ones have come and have told me that I should be careful with westerners because they can even sell a person.” Russell Perkins said, “Yes, they are right; I will sell you. Now it is up to you to decide whether you want to come out with me or not.”

The meaning of saying all these things to you is to just make you understand that God, our Perfect Almighty Master, forgives our Karmas only when we do some sacrifice, when we take some initiative to get His grace. When we give up name and fame and the things of the world, when we make our heart empty for the Master to come and reside, only then He resides within us. And when He comes within us, He brings all the prosperities of the world. Guru Ramdas Ji Maharaj says that even if the Master offers all the material of the world, all the gold and precious things, to such a disciple, that disciple will not look at all that. He will only ask for the intoxication of the Lord, and for the darshan and the Naam of the Master. I have often said that I always ask for darshan from the Master; I only ask for His love. Ever since my childhood, I was the devotee of love; and He gave me love. I did not ask for any worldly thing from Him.

So Master showers grace on the disciples: when we obtain the knowledge, then all the Karmas are erased. When the knowledge is obtained and the soul reaches the place where the real knowledge is, then the present karma which the soul is doing is not counted anywhere. Because not even the Lord of Judgment can do anything with the account of the present karmas which that soul is doing because such a soul has been forgiven by the Almighty Lord. Such Sadhus or Mahatmas, who have obtained that position, they do not do any bad karmas, they love everyone, they do not curse anyone and they shower grace on everyone, they do not criticize anyone. They always say, “Everyone else is better than me.” They always say, “It is possible that I am the worst of all, and that you are the good people.” So such a Master, or such a soul who has reached Par Brahm, who has obtained the real knowledge, His karmas are not counted anywhere because His Master has showered grace on Him and He has been blessed by the Almighty Lord. And such a Master has love for everyone and He hates no one.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that if we win the battle which our Master has made us fight, the battle with our organs of senses and the mind, if we win that battle, Master gives us the prize of the highest status, and He is always ready to welcome us.

Guru Nanak Dev Ji says that the Lord of Judgment, who writes the account of the karmas of the souls, does not look at the accounts of the devotees of God.

1986 November: The Example of the Fly

After morning meditation, October 14, 1976

QUESTION: There was some improvement over the day before . . . but there's still a lot to improve upon.

SANT JI: I also advise you that you improve more, you progress more. Now you need to leave the worldly thoughts. Still you have some attention to the person whose photo you have shown me and you still are worried about your marriage.

QUESTION: Not very much, I don't think.

SANT JI: Then also your mind is not still at this place. Sometimes your mind goes.

QUESTION: Sometimes it does.

SANT JI: I am telling you what I am seeing. Whether you believe or not, it is up to you. If your mind is going away, then my idea is true. But if you say that your mind is not going away, then I am wrong.

QUESTION: My mind does go away some of the time, definitely, but much less than it's used to going away.

SANT JI: But it goes away.

QUESTION: Oh yes, it still goes away. But it used to go away all the time.

SANT JI: A while it's going. You are a true seeker and you need badly to still your mind. You be in Master's love. Surrender your life to Master, surrender your life at the Master's Feet and you will get that benefit. What is left in the world?

QUESTION: Yesterday you gave me some love, enough to show me what it would be like to be made with love, but then it went away. It was so wonderful when it was there, this love for the Guru, but then when it went away, it's not so good.

SANT JI: The love goes away when mind comes in you. Once when Master Sawan Singh Ji was holding Satsang, Mastana Ji asked him, "What should the disciple give to Master if he finds interest in meditation?" Then Master Sawan Singh Ji told him, "He should give up his mind; he should give away his mind."

QUESTION: Is it wrong when a disciple gets so attached to his Guru's successor that he'd rather be in the presence of the successor, that's all he can think about? Is that wrong?

SANT JI: No, it is not wrong.

QUESTION: Is it all right when the disciple feels... well, just thinks about his Guru's successor rather than his Guru?

SANT JI: If he is convinced that the same power is working in that body, then he will see his own Guru in that body. Many initiates of Master Sawan Singh Ji used to stay with Master Kirpal Singh and they served the same as they were serving Master Sawan Singh Ji and they saw the same form of Master Sawan Singh in Kirpal Singh. And there were many initiates of Baba Sawan Singh Ji who were with Mastana Ji of Baluchistan and those initiates of Baba Sawan Singh also saw the same form of Master Sawan Singh in Mastana Ji. And they were serving Mastana Ji with their mind and with their body. The same power is working there and you will see the same. Don't think that there are two powers; there is only one power. Where there are two, Guru and disciple are different, then there is nothing; but where the Guru and disciple are one then there is no disciple, he is Guru. I gave you an example from the teachings of Guru Nanak that he says that the Light is the same, but He changes the body. And the successor who has become one with Kirpal Singh, he sees Baba Kirpal Singh in the initiates of Baba Kirpal Singh; moreover, in all the creation, all the birds, animals, he always sees Baba Kirpal in them. The main criterion of the real one, of the perfect one, is that there is no enemy, he does not have any enemy, he is not criticizing anybody, he will not talk against anybody; in his Ashram also, nothing else will be talked about, only Master. That is the main criterion. You have been staying for many days in this Ashram, you can see that you will find nobody who criticizes or who talks against anybody else. Everybody has Baba Ji's love in him. And you tell me if anybody is criticizing or anybody is commenting on others in this Ashram.

The main sign of the real one is that he will not criticize anybody, and he will have love for all. Just as when Guru Amardas was commissioned by Guru Angad Dev to carry on the mission – he was holding the Satsang and once in the Satsang, Datu and Dasu, the sons of Guru Angad Dev, came there and they started beating him, saying, “You are the servant of our house and now you want to become the owner of our house!” On hearing this and on having some beating from them Guru Amardas told them, “My body is old, please forgive me if you have hurt yourselves because of my body,” and saying that he left that place, he left the Sangat, left the Satsang, saying this to the Sangat: “This is the Gadi, this is the seat of Guru Nanak and you should all sit here.” and he quietly left that place. Datu and Dasu took all the wealth, they took all the property and Guru Amardas left that place and he went to Govindwal, a place named Govindwal, and sat in one hut and wrote outside, “Whoever comes through this door is no Sikh of mine.” So he started doing meditation there; but Datu and Dasu did not have any earnings of meditation, so how could they satisfy the Sangat? So after a few days the Sangat started searching for Guru Amardas and there was one Baba Buddha, who went off in search of Guru Amardas and he found him. But it was written that nobody should open the door. So they broke down the hut from the back side, saying that you have written that nobody should open this door, so we have come through the wall, and now you come back to the Sangat and please work. And after that he started giving initiation.

You can read in the history of Baba Kirpal Singh Ji, it is written in the book Pita Put [Father and Son], that when Master Sawan Singh Ji left the body, Master Kirpal Singh quietly left the Dera at Beas, he never quarreled for the seat, quarreled for the property, but on the contrary, he left his own building in the Dera.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, why is it that when Saints leave the body, they never make a public announcement of who the successor is going to be?

SANT JI: Nobody believes them. Who believes them if they announce it in public, who believes them?

QUESTION: He's the Master, you can believe him.

SANT JI: Nobody believes them. Too many people are worshiping Maya, wealth; they want to become guru, so nobody will believe him, nobody will obey him. There is one incident of Baba Sawan Singh's life at a place named Dalhousie. He fell sick. For a few minutes he was not in the body. So looking at this there was one lover, one very close disciple of Baba Sawan Singh Ji. He made a false will, untrue will, saying, "I am the owner of all these things." And when Master came into his body, people told him, that this man has done this, he has prepared the untrue will in his favor. So Master Sawan Singh Ji told them, "Don't worry, I will take him earlier" – and he took him. And so, while the Saints are in the body then also people are not afraid to prepare such wills. Whatever I am telling you now about these wills, etc., all this is written in Pita Put very clearly, everything is written there. Baba Ji [Master Kirpal] used to say that those who live very close to Master they become the bloodsuckers. I am not telling you this from my own heart, I am telling you what He spoke.

QUESTION: He used to say those who come from afar are there to get the milk; those who are always around suck the blood.

SANT JI: That is why those who live very close are called blood-suckers, because they always suck the blood; but those who come from far, they are benefited by a Saint, they get milk.

QUESTION: When we would ask Master, "Who will be your successor?" the reply that He most often gave was, "Look here, if you see your friend in a different coat, will you not recognize him?" And I'd like to say that I do recognize him.

SANT JI: It's good if you have recognized, now develop this in your heart and maintain that.

QUESTION: You'll have to help me.

SANT JI: The help is supplied by Baba Ji. Baba Ji is helping you. You say that you have recognized; you have recognized Baba Ji, and He's helping you.

QUESTION: Today I felt quite peaceful. I find I'm getting worried about what's going to happen when I go back to America, thoughts of my family, of my work, keep creeping in, try to creep in.

SANT JI: You cannot do anything while you are here. You cannot do anything with your family, you cannot do anything with your work, so while you are here always think of Baba Ji and develop the remembrance of Master within you.

QUESTION: While I'm here I feel stronger than I feel when I'm at home. At home I've been very much a manmukh. Being here you've given me encouragement to be brave and to be strong against my mind, but I'm afraid that when I go home I won't be able to be strong and then I'll fall back again. I don't want that to happen.

SANT JI: Be in Master's love and remembrance . . . I hope that whenever you will meet me again, either in Sant Bani or when you will come here, you will tell me that you have progressed a lot and I also hope that whenever I will go to Sant Bani and will see you, you will tell me about your progress. I am ready to obey you, can't you obey my one advice?

QUESTION: Yes, I can.

SANT JI: Everybody should have this thing in his heart, that we have to develop more love for our Master.

QUESTION: Can you tell us a little bit about how husbands and wives affect each other? Is it like two horses, two bullocks pulling one wagon? If one of them falls down then the other one has to pull both, and vice-versa? We should both try to pull together; we can help each other or we can keep the other one back. Can you tell us about that?

SANT JI: Both the husband and wife, they should not pollute their thoughts, they should love each other, and if one of them makes any mistake, they should forgive each other. And if we will do this, and carry on this life with love for each other, if the husband is having any pain or is in sorrow, the wife should understand his pain as hers and should try to help him to bear that pain. If both of them will do like this they will cross the ocean of this life very smoothly and they will have a very good home for life. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell one story about how to live this type of life. He used to use the example of one fly, who comes and eats honey from a cup but does not go in the honey; she keeps herself away from the honey, eats it, and then flies away. But there is another fly who comes and gets into the cup of honey; she can't eat the honey and moreover she dies there. So you also have to lead this type of life, so that you eat the honey but you also fly away; don't get involved and die in there.

So the husband and wife who behave like that fly which enjoys the honey by staying away from it – they are not involved in the world and they enjoy the household life and they also go to the court of the Master. But the greedy couple, those who think that the woman is only for enjoying, or that the husband is only for enjoying, they can do nothing; they die in this world and they are involved in this world and cannot go to the Master's court.

QUESTION: If a disciple has a true desire, or has a desire to have the darshan of the Guru, but the Guru's head is turned away, will the Guru manifest eyes in the other side of his head and look through those at the disciple?

SANT JI: Guru looks in all directions, Guru has eyes in all directions, his body is full of eyes, he looks everywhere; it is because of the disciple that he cannot see the eyes of the Guru. Because of the body, you can see Guru at one place, but because of the Shabd, the Power working in him, He is all-pervading. And the guru which can only see in one direction at one time – how can he liberate us, how can he help us? But unless the disciple rises above he cannot understand this thing. If a disciple wants to see this thing he has to rise above up to the level where the Master resides.

QUESTION: My ego is still very strong, I think stronger than most of the people here; I have a real lack of humility, in the sense that Master Kirpal said that humility was a freedom from all consciousness of self, and I have total consciousness of myself at all times. I never lose that consciousness of myself, and I'd really like help with this, this developing humility.

SANT JI: Swami Ji Maharaj used to say, that those who do not want to meditate – they feel sleepy, they are lazy ones. So don't sleep in respect to the Master, don't sleep in respect to the Master; awaken in respect to the Master, and if you will do that, if you will meditate and if you will have love for the Master, you will not have that problem, not have such thoughts. And only Master is helping you, you see; Master has brought you from far away and he's telling you, "Leave all the worldly thoughts and think always about Satguru, always be in the love and remembrance of Master." Baba Ji is doing all these things, I am not able to do anything. The only help I can give you is to tell you again and again to give up all worldly thoughts and remember the Master constantly.

QUESTION: Seems to be the same answer to most of our problems is the fact that we're too much in the world and not enough in God.

SANT JI: But now don't you do like that because now you have the Naam initiation. Master has chosen you to unite with him, so now you leave that, don't get more involved in the world.

QUESTION: Would you say something about humility specifically?

SANT JI: To make more humility you think in your mind, what is the thing in this world which will accompany you in the Beyond? Is your health going with you? The day will come when you will grow old. Is your wealth going with you? The day will come when you will become poor. For making more humility you see in this manner, what is the thing that we are going to carry with us? I always had a curiosity that after dying, after death, where does the man go? I went with Hindus to the graveyard and I saw that they were burning up the bodies; I went to the graveyard with the Muslims and I saw that they were burying them in the ground; but still I had the curiosity to know after that, where does the man go? And so generally I used to say that if after dying the man has to go alone, then why is he having ego of all the worldly things? Always think of yourself as a traveler in this world and always think that you have to go one day, and if you will think like that you will never have problems with the ego.

1986 December: In the Will of Master Kirpal

This question and answer session was given October 26, 1986, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: Master, in Colombia, when we heard about your illness, we were all very moved and we prayed to Master Kirpal for your complete recovery. Could you tell us, as far as we can understand, how this has affected you, what are the consequences of your illness on you, how you are now, and what was the cause of the illness?

SANT JI: I am thankful to you for all the sympathy you have shown for my sickness. It is possible that hearing all the prayers of the dear ones, Master Kirpal has made me ready once again for your service. It was natural for you people to become sad hearing about my sickness, but also the dear ones who live here at the ashram and who take good care of me, they were also afraid and worried. Even the doctors who were taking good care of me were worried; my condition was such that they thought that maybe I would not come back in the body. Even though I tried to inspire the doctors, I tried to console them – instead of them giving me courage, I gave them courage – but it is a pity that they left me. So it is all due to the grace of Hazur Maharaj Kirpal that once again He has prepared me to do the service of all the dear ones.

Baba Sawan Singh Ji used to talk about an incident which happened in the lifetime of Baba Jaimal Singh. Once Baba Jaimal Singh, on the invitation of an initiate, Moti Ram, a tailor, went for one month to the city of Umballa to give satsang. Moti Ram was a very devoted initiate of Baba Jaimal Singh and he requested Him to give initiation to one person there whose name was Sardar Hukam Singh. Hukam Singh was a very well-known wealthy person of that town and Moti Ram thought that if he could get initiation, it would glorify the name of the satsang.

So when he requested the initiation for Hukam Singh, Baba Jaimal Singh said, “If you want, I will give initiation to two hundred other people, but don’t ask me to initiate Hukam Singh.” But when Moti Ram insisted on giving initiation to Hukam Singh, Baba Jaimal Singh said, “Okay, I will give him the initiation, but only on this condition: I will not stay here for one month, I will go back to the Dera right away and you will have to come to the Dera.”

Moti Ram said, “It is all right; we will come to the Dera for the satsang, but you should give the initiation to Hukam Singh.” So Baba Jaimal Singh told him: “Okay. I will give him the initiation. Get a tonga for me so that I can go to the railway station.” And he told the dear ones to load all his luggage on the tonga, and he started giving initiation to Hukam Singh.

Right after that initiation, Baba Jaimal Singh went to the railway station, took the train, and started his journey back to his Dera. On his way, since Baba Sawan Singh’s village was near the station of Ludiana, Baba Sawan Singh had come to see Baba Jaimal Singh at the train station, and Baba Sawan Singh requested Baba Jaimal Singh to get down from the train there and go to his village so that his mother could also have His darshan, and Baba Jaimal Singh could rest a little bit. But Baba Jaimal Singh said, “No, I have no time now, I must go to Dera right away.”

Baba Jaimal Singh also told Baba Sawan Singh not to come to the Dera that Sunday but to come a week later. Baba Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “At that time I thought maybe Baba Jaimal Singh told me not to come to the Dera this Sunday because we used to go to the Dera every weekend, without worrying about our worldly responsibilities; and when we got there Baba Jaimal Singh would rebuke us and tell us to go back home and take care of our worldly responsibilities. But I had no idea why he was telling me not to come to the Dera.”

Only the Saints know the secrets of the Saints. So when Baba Jaimal Singh came back to the Dera, he got a very high fever and told his dear ones that he should not be bothered and no one should give him any kind of medicine for at least fifteen days. After fifteen days, if they wanted, they could give him medicine. So when Baba Sawan Singh went to see Baba Jaimal Singh in about two weeks, he was very worried and upset to see Baba Ji in such a serious state, because at that time Baba Jaimal Singh’s face was very pale, as if there was no blood in his body. He said to Baba Jaimal Singh, “Master, if you had allowed me to come to see you before, I would have taken care of you, I would have served you.” But Baba Jaimal Singh said, “No. It was possible that looking at my condition, you would have lost your faith in me. You would have thought, ‘Well, is this the condition of the Saints – do Saints also have to go through all this suffering?’ That is why it was better that you did not come.”

When Baba Sawan Singh asked Baba Jaimal Singh to tell him the cause of His sickness, Baba Jaimal Singh first refused – he said, “You won’t be able to digest it.” But Baba Sawan Singh said, “No, I will not tell this to anyone in your lifetime. After you leave the body, it may be up to me to reveal this to other people.” So Baba Jaimal Singh said to Baba Sawan Singh, “Hukam Singh had very heavy karmas to pay off and Kal was going to make him sit on hot coals for many births. But because Moti Ram insisted that I should give him the initiation, I had to take on his karmas.” Baba Sawan Singh did not mention this to anyone as long as Baba Jaimal Singh was in the body; but after He left the body, in the satsang, he used to talk about this incident.

As far as the cause of my sickness is concerned, it is not appropriate to tell you why it happened. But I will tell you one thing: that it all happened in the will of Master Kirpal. I have no complaints. And you should know that Saints have no karmas of their own to suffer; they always suffer for the cause of the dear ones.

I have told the cause of my sickness to those for whom I thought that it was okay, and to whom I felt it was appropriate, but I will tell you that all this happened in the will of Master Kirpal, and I am very grateful that whatever work my Master Kirpal gave me to do, I was able to do that.

It always happens when Saints and Mahatmas come into this world, they have to suffer for the cause of mankind, because, you know what is happening in the world today in the name of religion, in the name of God, how people are deceiving each other. Everywhere there is fire raging, everywhere there is unrest. As Kabir Sahib has said, “If there were no Saints in this world, this world would have burnt down.” Saints and Mahatmas come into this world and they sprinkle the rain of Naam, and those who get a drop of that Naam, they rise above countries, they rise above religions, and they are able to get peace and they help others also to get peace in this world which is full of sufferings. Saints do not have any of their own karmas to suffer because they have risen above karmas. Whenever they suffer, it is always to protect someone – or they are suffering for some other dear one.

During this sickness, the thing that was bothering me the most in my mind, was that the group was here, and the monthly satsang was going to come, and I was afraid that I would not be able to do the seva of the group. Even though I had been suffering for the last two months, still I was very sad because the group was here and the satsang was coming, and I was afraid that since I would not be able to do all this, the dear ones would be sad, because the sangat is very dear to the Sants.

In the remembrance of Baba Sawan Singh a bhajan has been written and in it is written, “As the sons are dear to the mother, the devotees are dear to Almighty Lord.” The Almighty Lord is in the control of the devotees, and being controlled by the devotees, He does everything for them.

Before Baba Sawan Singh went back to his real home, Sach Khand, He had suffered for the dear ones very much on His body. Towards His end, when He was suffering very much, the sangat asked Him to request Baba Jaimal Singh to shower grace on him, but Baba Sawan Singh said, “No, I cannot do that, because that will make a difference in my discipleship. If you want, you can continue with your prayers.” Baba Sawan Singh said, “I have to do the work which my Master has given to me, and Baba Jaimal Singh has to do the work which he has to do, so if you want, you can continue with your prayers.”

The sangat was praying that Baba Jaimal Singh should allow Baba Sawan Singh to stay in this world a little more time. At that time I did not know that Master Kirpal Singh was a very advanced disciple of Baba Sawan Singh, but later on Master Kirpal Singh himself told me that at that time He had also requested Baba Sawan Singh to shower grace on Himself. He said, “Master, you are almighty. If you want, you can restore your own health. You should take care of yourself and you should make yourself all right.”

Baba Sawan Singh did not reply at that time to Master Kirpal Singh, but one day Baba Sawan Singh called Master Kirpal and told him to sit by his bed and told him, “Today in Sach Khand a decision is going to be made. Close your eyes and see what the decision will be.” So Master Kirpal Singh saw that in Sach Khand all the Saints who had been to this mortal world had gotten together, because They all have so much love for each other – They are like good friends. And They were talking about keeping Baba Sawan Singh in this world for a little more time. Everyone said that he should be left in this world for some more time, but Baba Jaimal Singh did not agree to that. He said, “No. The conditions are not very favorable and he should be brought back soon.” After that Baba Sawan Singh asked Master Kirpal Singh, “Yes? Did you see what decision has been made?” Master Kirpal Singh had no reply. He just bowed his head to Baba Sawan Singh. This is what it means, as Supreme Father Kirpal used to say, that “the eye gives to the eye.” After Baba Sawan Singh made Master Kirpal Singh see all the things within, Master Kirpal Singh looked into the eyes of Baba Sawan Singh and He gave him all His wealth. After that, the eyes of Baba Sawan Singh closed and started looking within. They did not open after that. This is what is meant by “the eye gives to the eye.” Supreme Father Kirpal used to mention this many times. When the end time of Master Kirpal Singh came, Tai Ji herself told me that she had requested Master Kirpal to ask Baba Sawan Singh if he could stay in this world a little more time. Master Kirpal Singh refused and said, “It will make a difference in my discipleship. But if you want, you can request the Master.” Tai Ji said, “Yes, I will request the Master. But where is he?” Master Kirpal Singh said, “When did he go away from me? He is always with me.”

Saints live in the will of God. They do not complain, nor do They make any kind of prayers to the Almighty Lord. They tell their disciples also to live in the will of God, because They say that God knows best and whatever is the best for us, He gives only that. Even though we have eyes, still we cannot see, we do not see, the Light. We do not know what is good for us, what is bad for us. We do not know whether pain is good for us, or happiness is good for us. But Master knows what is best for us and we should always live in His will.

Baba Sawan Singh Ji used to talk about the death of his mother. She was supposed to leave the body a day before the satsang and Baba Sawan Singh was very worried, because the dear ones in the sangat were going to come to the Dera for the satsang and Baba Sawan Singh was worried that if He was not there for the satsang, they would all be unhappy. So when Baba Sawan Singh’s mother saw him sad, she asked him, “Dear son, what is the reason for your sadness? Tell me why you are sad.” Baba Sawan Singh said, “Mother, tomorrow is the satsang, and if you leave the body today, I will not be able to go and do satsang tomorrow, and many people who will come there expecting to see me and to hear the satsang will be sad and disappointed, and I am worried for them.”

Since Baba Jaimal Singh had been giving darshan to Baba Sawan Singh's mother before, and since He had told her to prepare herself and He might be coming any time to take her, she knew that she was going to leave the body on that day. So when she heard about the sadness of Baba Sawan Singh she went inside and had the darshan of Baba Jaimal Singh and told him about Baba Sawan Singh's sadness. Baba Jaimal Singh used to call Baba Sawan Singh Berkodar, which is a very loving and respectful Punjabi word for someone who is younger than you. So Baba Jaimal Singh told Baba Sawan Singh's mother, "Tell Berkodar that he should do satsang and I will take you only after he comes back from the Dera." So next day, Baba Sawan Singh went to the Dera to do satsang, and after the satsang he was very tired, so he thought, "Why not rest here tonight and go home tomorrow? Baba Jaimal Singh has said that he will come to take mother only after I return from the satsang, so why not rest here tonight?"

So Baba Sawan Singh stayed at the Dera that night and next morning he woke up and he told some dear ones who were there and who knew his mother, "My mother is going to leave the body and if you want to have her darshan, you should come with me." So when he came to his village, at the train station he met one dear one and asked him about his mother's welfare and he replied that she was doing fine. When he went to his home, the dear ones who had been to see his mother the night before, said, "Baba Jaimal Singh came to take her last night, but since you were not here, He said that he would come back when you return from the Dera." So when Baba Sawan Singh's mother saw him, she went inside and Baba Jaimal Singh gave her darshan and said, "Now I will take you up." She came back in the body and told Baba Sawan Singh, "Dear son, now I am going, because Baba Jaimal Singh has come to take me." Baba Sawan Singh said, "Even though I loved my mother very much, because Baba Jaimal Singh had come to take her, I did not feel sad; I happily allowed her to go; I happily bade her goodbye."

By saying this, I mean to say that the sangat is very dear to the Masters, and when they are not able to serve the sangat, they feel sad. Whenever the Saints become sick, or whenever they are not in a position to serve the sangat, They are always very sad, because the sangat is very dear to the Master.

Not all the souls get such grace as Baba Sawan Singh's mother got. Sunder Das, who used to live with me (his stories have been published in Mr. Oberoi's book), was very fortunate to spend some time in the company of Baba Sawan Singh also. He used to tell me about his mother, how she was very good and how much she was devoted to both Baba Jaimal Singh and Baba Sawan Singh. In the time of Baba Jaimal Singh there were not so many machines, so she used to grind flour with her own hands in the mill and she used to maintain her family and also she would contribute from her earnings to the langar of Baba Jaimal Singh. She used to grind the flour for Baba Jaimal Singh herself. She was very devoted, and she had so much faith in the Master that she was given a grace at the time of death such as not everyone gets.

When we hear such stories about how Master showered such grace on the souls, then we also feel like receiving the same grace. But what is our condition? We drink wine, we do all sorts of bad deeds – if we do not prepare our vessel for grace, how can the grace of the Master come to us? Unless we obey the commandments of the Master, unless we remain devoted to the Master's will, we cannot get such grace. Kabir Sahib says, "If the yearning that we had on the first day when we met the Master could be maintained throughout our lifetime, what would be hard in receiving liberation for ourselves? We could liberate millions of other souls.”

1987

1987 January: The Meditation of the Saints

From a question and answer session on October 29, 1986.

QUESTION: How do the Perfect Masters meditate? How do you meditate now?

SANT JI: This question is very interesting. All the satsangis should listen to it carefully and live up to it.

No doubt such great souls come into this world being sent by Almighty God. They go on searching for Almighty God Who is All-pervading, and the Perfect Master, the human pole where the power of God is working, until they meet Him. They are sent into this world by God Himself for the benefit of other people, and right from their childhood they know about their mission, they know for what purpose they have been sent into this world. Their meeting with the perfect Master, or that human pole on which the power of God Almighty is working, is also predetermined. And at the appropriate time they meet the Master. Before that appropriate time which is determined for them, they search for the power of God. They have the effect of Maya before that time, but they do not get misled by Maya; because right from their childhood they know about their mission and they always yearn for the perfect Master. They always keep a distance from the imperfect or false masters. And when the appropriate time comes, they meet the perfect Master and get initiation from Him.

You know that if your vessel is not ready you cannot put something right into it. In the same way if the land is not prepared beforehand you cannot sow the seeds in it. If a person wants to put something in a vessel and the vessel is not ready, he will take some time to clear it and then he can put the thing into it. In the same way if you want to sow some seeds in a field, first you will have to prepare it. If it is not prepared, then it will take some time to prepare it. So such great souls who are sent into this world by Almighty Lord, they prepare themselves and make their vessels ready before they meet the perfect Master. And when they meet the perfect Master, for them it is not difficult to put the thing given by the Master into their vessel.

Right from the early stages the riddhis and siddhis, the supernatural powers, stand in front of them holding out their hands offering themselves to such souls. But they are not interested in those supernatural powers. Right from their childhood they have a unique kind of consciousness. You can read the history of Baba Sawan Singh Ji and you can also read the history of all the perfect Saints who came into this world in the will of God. You can read the history very well and confirm this.

You know about Master Kirpal Singh when He was a child in school. Once He asked for leave from His teacher, saying that His grandmother was dying and he should go home. But the teacher did not believe Him; he thought that maybe He was making a joke or some false excuse. So he said, “You go and sit in the class. How do you know about all this?” A few minutes later somebody came from His home saying, “Please send Pal home because His grandmother is leaving the body and she is remembering Him.” After this incident that teacher always respected Master Kirpal Singh.

In the same way there is a story from my childhood which I have not told anyone up until now. I was about eight years old and we had some neighbors who were Muslim people. They were good people. Once I had an experience that my neighbor Ajujdeem was taken by the police after being handcuffed. In the morning at about eight o'clock when I would come out of the house he also would come out and we used to make jokes with each other. So that morning I told him, "Ajujdeem, today you will be taken by the police; they will handcuff you." He laughed and said, "Did you have a dream about me?" I told him, "I don't know anything about the dream but this is what I have felt and I am telling you." He did not believe me. But in the Will of God, at about ten o'clock the police came and they handcuffed Ajujdeem and took him into police custody. After a few days they released him because they could not find any evidence against him. Somebody had just complained about him but he did not have any fault.

In the home of my father there were many facilities, many conveniences, and my father was a good person. I could easily get whatever I wanted. Once somebody asked me if I had ever seen hell. I said, "Yes, our home is like hell." So I mean to say that such souls, when they are born into this world, are not affected by poverty or by riches.

All the Mahatmas have taught that we should protect ourselves from the effects of maya. They have said that it is easier for an elephant to pass through the eye of a needle, than for a rich person to do the devotion of the Lord.

When I was with the Mahatma Bishan Das, who laid the foundation of this poor Ajaib, I used to take all my earnings, whatever I used to get in my share of the farming, or whatever I would get as pay from the service – and offer it to Baba Bishan Das. It is very easy to give away your earnings as a donation if the Master thanks you and accepts it with love. But with Baba Bishan Das it was exactly the opposite. He would accept what I would take to him and also he would slap me. It is very difficult to suffer beating after you have given away all that you have earned. But in my case I did not feel like that. I would think, "There is some Reality and I have to look for it."

In the state of Punjab I had many facilities, because right from the beginning the state of Punjab was a very developed state because the canals came there before they came to other states. I left that state about thirty-five or thirty-six years ago and came to Rajasthan. At present you see green trees and all kinds of things growing here, but in those days it was nothing like that. There was no water in this area. People used to go twenty miles to bring water for drinking. It was difficult for someone who had all the facilities of Punjab to leave that place and come to Rajasthan. But Baba Bishan Das told me to go to Rajasthan. This area is called the area of Bikaner and it is called a religious land. The people in this area did not kill goats or cows; they did not hunt animals for eating. They were very righteous, very religious minded. They did not drink wine and we never used to have any doors in our houses. This was because the king of this area was also a very righteous person. He was very devoted and he had done a lot of austerities. And he used to understand the people of this state as his children and he used to protect them. This area was considered to be the most religious area, and that is why Baba Bishan Das told me to come to this area and live here. And he told me that the person or the Mahatma who would give me further knowledge would come to be by Himself. I came here after getting Initiation into the first two words from Baba Bishan Das, and for eighteen years I did the meditation of those two words. I did not waste even one minute of my time in worldly pursuits; I only meditated during that time. Because I was sitting in the remembrance of the Master who was going to come here and give me further knowledge, I did not get involved in worldly pursuits, I did not do anything else other than meditation in that time.

Kabir Sahib said that if someone is thirsty he will drink the water with much yearning, with much love and appreciation, and he will also thank the person who has given him the water. He will say, “You are very great because you have saved my life.”

Baba Sawan Singh Ji used to give the example of Tan Sen, the great musician, who was one of the nine jewels in the court of Emperor Akbar. Akbar was a very good king, and he had nine “jewels” or people in his court who would give him good advice to rule over the people in a good way. He was called Akbar the Great. So Baba Sawan Singh Ji used to say that someone who wanted to learn music would go and wipe off the shoes of Tan Sen, but someone who was not interested in learning music – even if Tan Sen came and wiped his shoes, he would say, “Okay, I’ll think about it.”

Baba Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “I searched for twenty-two years. I searched in every society, in every religious organization, and I went to every so-called mahatma of spirituality in India at that time. But when I heard the satsang of Baba Ji, (of Baba Jaimal Singh), every single word pierced through my heart and removed every doubt that I had had for the last twenty-two years.”

When I met the Lord of my soul, Master Kirpal, I did not ask Him which caste He was from, whether He was married or not, whether He had children or not. I did not go into any kind of details like that; because the thing for which I was searching, I got that and I was content with that. The purpose of giving all these examples and telling you all these things is that I want you to understand the answer to your question very clearly. Now I will answer your question. The question was, “How does the Master meditate, and how do the Masters get the Naam?”

First of all they have a unique kind of yearning in them. So whatever their Master tells them, they accept every single word, understanding His words as the words coming from Almighty Lord.

It depends upon the Mahatma of the time, whether He wants to explain the theory to the sangat or whether He wants to give the Initiation without explaining the theory. If He wishes He can give His attention and take all the souls back home without making them understand the theory, or without making them do the meditation, because He has no karmas of His own to suffer. But He makes us do the meditation just to give us a demonstration and to create this desire within us, and just to make us understand that He also has done a lot of meditation, He also has worked hard. Such pure and holy souls are very few to be found in life.

As I have said, I had been meditating on two words for the last eighteen years since my path had been opened to me, so when I met Master Kirpal He did not feel the necessity to explain the theory to me. He took me into His room and with His grace He took my soul up, and for whatever time He felt appropriate, He kept my soul there. And afterwards He told me to go to 16PS and meditate, because He said that by meditating every day one becomes more competent.

I had this habit of closing my eyes and sitting on the ground, on a mat-like thing, right from my childhood. And later on when I was young I would make underground rooms and sit there for meditation.

Even though Hazur Himself used to stand in the waters of the River Ravi to do His meditation, and even though it was very difficult to sit in the rooms here for doing meditation because the hot wind blows here in the summer, He Himself instructed me to make the underground room here, and with His grace the underground room was made here. He Himself put His hands on my eyes and closed them from outside, and He told me to meditate; and He also told me, “Whenever I feel it appropriate I will come to see you myself.”

The faith and love was such that when He took me out of meditation . . . at that time He was giving Initiation to the dear ones. He had already explained the theory to them and He told me to make them learn the simran. I said, “Master, what is the simran? What is the theory? Why don’t you show them the Real Form of yours which you have shown me today – so that all the fighting may come to an end? The pundits should not say that only by putting on the saffron color sign they can do the devotion of Lord; the priests should not say that just by blowing the conch they can realize God. Why don’t you show them your Real Form which you have shown me, so that everyone in all the homes may love you, and the people may not fight over the issues of temples and mosques, and all the people may know that their God resides in a Man?”

After hearing all this, Hazur said to me, “Don’t make the people tear my clothes.”

So when such great souls meet such perfect Masters, whatever the Masters tell them to do they do that wholeheartedly. They do not waste any of their time, nor are they affected by hunger and thirst. If they wish they sit for weeks in the remembrance of the Master, and they have no problem with sleep.

I advise the dear ones here, that those who have not had the practice of getting up early in the morning in their homes, those who have not meditated enough in their homes, they should stick to the schedule and get up only when the bell rings at three o’clock. Those who try to get up before the bell rings, looking at the other people, since they have not had the practice of spending so much time in meditation, it affects their health.

If you don’t believe this you can ask Pappu who is the witness. On the tours whenever he has become sick it is only because of lack of sleep. Once in Nanaimo he did not sleep enough and he got sick. Yagya Sharma, who is here, helped in doing the satsang; you can ask him. About three or four doctors tried to help him, but when I came back after the satsang I folded my hands to them and told them, “Now all of you should go. You have done a good job, but now let me treat him.” I told him, “Now you quietly go to sleep; don’t talk, just sleep, and you will be all right.” So when he slept he became all right; the fever went away. In the same way, when we were coming back to India after the first tour, he got sick in the airplane. Gurbhag Singh who was accompanying us got very worried and went for some medicine. I told him, “What medicine? Why don’t you go and see if there are any empty seats so that he could lie down?” So when he lay down and slept he became all right. So I mean to say that if you have not had enough sleep, only then you become sick. Not everyone can bear the lack of sleep. If the satsangis did not have the difficulty with sleep, lust, and appetite, then it would be very easy for them to meditate.

Yesterday I had said that it is the highest tradition of God Almighty that once He opens His door to any soul, He does not forsake that soul.

You can read all the writings of the Mahatmas and you will find that Kabir Sahib had said, “Now I neither close my eyes nor plug my ears, because with my open eyes and open ears I see the beautiful Form of my Master.”

Such a Master’s work – whether it is the work of farming or of the home or of the sangat – all the work which such a perfect Master does is counted as His devotion, because all of His work is holy.

What to talk about criticizing others, such a Mahatma cannot even think of criticizing others. Such a Mahatma Himself is a pure being, and gradually after making the sangat understand the realities, He makes them also pure.

I get the opportunity of seeing the dear ones in the interviews, and in the interviews they tell me about their condition. Some people come here after becoming spiritually bankrupt. God Kirpal showered grace on them in one way or another. Some people get the grace of the Master in this way or the other way. Some people are purified by the Masters, and for some people the Masters suffer for their karmas. In one way or another He always purifies the souls who come in His contact. Because the Master wants that in His lifetime all the souls who come in contact with Him, He should purify them and somehow He should make the stream of Shabd flow in them.

1987 March: The Awakening of Our Love

The Master is answering questions at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, on December 3, 1986.

QUESTION: Master, can you transcend the inner planes just by doing meditation [Simran], without doing Bhajan or the Sound?

SANT JI: I have replied to this question earlier, many times, but I will reply again today. I have often said that the Five Sacred Names which we have been given at the time of initiation must be repeated when we do our meditation. Only by doing the repetition or the Simran of the Five Sacred Names can we cut the simran of the world which brings us back again and again. As I said earlier, in this world you will not find anyone who has fulfilled all desires. Some people fulfill ten of their desires and four remain unfulfilled; others fulfill four of their desires and ten remain unfulfilled. At the time of death people remember their desires and with those desires they leave the body: according to that they get their next birth. In their next lifetime they easily get what they were craving in their previous lifetime, but again they get involved in many other desires and fantasies of that birth. And again some of their desires get fulfilled, some of them remain unfulfilled. So in that way the cycle of doing the remembrance or the simran of the world goes on and on and the simran of the world or the remembrance or desires of worldly things brings us back into this world again and again. Saints lovingly explain to us the importance of doing the Simran which they have given to us. You should know that the Simran which the Masters give us is not hearsay: they have not picked it up from any book or scripture.

The Simran which the Master gives us is the Simran which He has earned Himself, which He has meditated upon. He has practiced that Simran according to the instructions of His Master and in that way He has perfected it. That is why behind such a Simran given to us by the perfect Master, the charging of that Master works. And only by doing such a Simran, which has been given to us by the perfect Master, which carries the charging of that Master, can we cut the simran or remembrance or desires of worldly things. In the beginning, when we get the Simran from the Master, it may be difficult for us to repeat it. But if we go on repeating it wholeheartedly and honestly, gradually it comes onto our tongue and then it goes on happening within us automatically.

When we remember something again and again, when we do something again and again, we become competent in that. In the same way when we go on doing the Simran given to us by the perfect Master, we become competent in that. We start forgetting the simran or desires or thoughts of the world and in its place the Simran given to us by the Master resides. When the Simran of the Master is happening within us, with the help of doing that Simran we can easily concentrate at the eye center. When our attention is concentrated at the eye center with the help of the Simran, we easily cross the suns, stars, moons, and finally we reach the Radiant Form of the Master. This is the function of the Simran: Simran can only take us up to the Form of the Master. We know that whatever work we do is our work. Suppose we have a family: we just need to remember our child and his picture, his form, will appear before us by itself. Suppose we are working in an office: we just need to remember the office and the files, and whatever we are supposed to do will come in front of us and we will start seeing that. In the same way, if we are traveling and we remember the airport, all the flights and airplanes start coming in front of us. So the point is that whatever work we are doing in the world, we do not need to think a lot about it. Just by giving a little bit of thought to it we start seeing all those things in front of us, they all come into our mind. As the form of the worldly things come into our mind just by remembering them, in the same way, if we remember the Master, if we do the Simran of the Master, the Form of the Master also starts coming within us. Then, when gradually the Form of the Master starts remaining still within us, we start going upwards. Because when we think of somebody bad we get the bad qualities of that person, but if we think of somebody good, if we are doing the remembrance or the Simran of someone who is high, pure and holy, we start getting the qualities of that person. When we do the Simran of the Master and the Form of the Master starts coming within us, gradually we get all the qualities of the Master in us.

The remembrance of the worldly things pulls us down into the lower centers of the body, whereas the remembrance of the Master, or the vision of the Master, pulls us up beyond the eye center. The seat of our mind and soul is at the eye center and when we sleep, our soul drops down into the lower centers of the body and starts functioning through those centers. Because our soul is functioning through the lower centers of the body, we cannot remain awake. Sometimes we think of something, but we get the dreams of something else. Sometimes those dreams are incomplete, and we do not know what is happening. Sometimes we even get visions in which we are trying to run but we are not able to run. That is why Saints say that the worldly people do not have peace even in the dream state. This is because our soul is not at its center, it has dropped down into the lower centers; but when sometimes graciously Master pulls our soul up and blesses us with His visions, at that time we do not feel anything like that, we feel a lot of love and peace coming from those visions. This is because the Master is very pure and very holy; He never comes down into the lower centers of the body. When He sees that the dear one has never gone up, at that time graciously sometimes He showers grace on such a disciple and pulls the soul of that disciple up so that he may have the vision of the higher planes. You may have noticed that it is very easy for you people to have dreams of the world, but to have dreams of the Master is difficult. You may have noticed that when you have a dream of the world you wake up with a lot of unrest and you do not have any peace, but when you have the vision of the Master you feel lighter; and many times it happens that people who had not been able to do meditation started enjoying it after they had the vision of the Master. Because we people have the habit of having dreams of the world, we think that when we have a vision of the Master that is also like a worldly dream. But no: that is not the case. When we have that vision, Master is pulling our soul up and showering all His grace on us.

In the Vedas and Shastras and all the holy scriptures the great Masters have talked very highly of the Radiant Form of the Master. Those disciples who go within and see that Form will also talk very highly of it. When we reach the Radiant Form of the Master our sleeping love gets awakened; we start sleeping towards the world and awakening in respect to God Almighty. Regarding this Radiant Form of the Master, Guru Nanak has said, “Those who contemplate on this Form of the Master get happiness in this world as well as in the world beyond.” Masters always say that we should contemplate on the Radiant Form of the Master. They never say that you should contemplate on pictures of the Master, because pictures of the Master are without life. They always emphasize contemplating on the Radiant Form. The Radiant Form of the Master is full of life, and life gives life. If by contemplating on pictures we could have made our work, then we could have easily contemplated the pictures of past Masters. But that is not the case; the Masters talk about the Radiant Form of the Master, and when they say that we should contemplate on the Master’s Form they mean the Radiant Form.

In this world of the Negative Power who makes the forms of husbands and wives, how the souls are losing themselves, indulging with each other! I have seen many satsangis who say, “From now on we will maintain chastity, we will not indulge with each other.” But they keep failing again and again. But the soul who has reached the Radiant Form of the Master does not want to look even at the radiant women who are inside. Because the Radiant Form of the Master is such that he gets intoxicated. Swami Ji Maharaj says, “If someone goes within and sees the Radiant Form of my Master, he would not like to even look at the angels and fairies.”

So this was the answer to the first part of your question: Simran takes us up to the Radiant Form of the Master. It does not take us beyond that form.

I have said that these Five Sacred Names which we repeat are the names of the Lords or owners of those five great planes through which our soul has to go. Our soul can transcend the five planes only by climbing on the Shabd.

Satsangis do not have the knowledge of the importance or greatness of Simran. Since we don’t know the greatness of Simran and do not appreciate it, when we sit for Simran, out of one hour of sitting, we may hardly be doing real Simran for five or six minutes: the rest of the time we spend thinking about things of the world. Our mind takes us to some other place. When we get up from meditation after, say, meditating for one hour, we put down in the diary that we have meditated for an hour and a quarter, because our mind convinces us that we have done a lot of Simran. But we never think about this minutely and discriminate how much time we have really done Simran in that hour. We do not think that out of this precious hour, this holy hour which our Master has given us to do Simran, how much time we have thought of the world and how much time we have remembered the Master.

Now at present we may be hearing the Shabd or the Sound Current but that Shabd is not pulling our soul up, because our soul is involved or stuck in the nine openings of the body, and the Shabd is coming at the eye center. If we do Simran, vacate the nine openings of the body, and bring our soul up to the eye center, then we would be bringing our soul within the range of the Shabd, and the Shabd would pull our soul up and take her from plane to plane.

On our soul there are three covers, physical, astral and causal covers. When through meditation we reach the first plane or Sahansdal Kanwal, the physical cover is removed from our soul. Similarly when we go on meditating and reach the second plane, the astral cover is removed from our soul; and when we reach the third plane, our soul becomes free from the causal cover. After removing all these three covers when our soul reaches Daswan Dwar then she comes to realize her reality, she come to know that she is just a soul – she is neither a woman nor a man, she neither belongs to America nor any other country – she is only a soul, of the essence of Almighty God.

Right now we are sitting in the physical body and functioning through it, and we see the Master also in His physical form, outwardly through His body giving us answers to our questions, explaining things to us, and inspiring us to go within. When we rise above the physical body, remove the physical cover from our soul, and go to the first plane, then we see the Master in the form of Shabd. There Master is functioning through His astral form. Further when we remove the causal cover and reach Daswan Dwar, then we see the Master working in the form of the pure Shabd. As we go on progressing upwards in the inner planes the form of the Master goes on changing from pure to purer and in Sach Khand we see the purest form, the Sar Shabd form of the Master. Often I have said that Sant Mat is not a fairy tale, it is reality, and those who work hard and go within see all these things with their own eyes. Saints and Mahatmas lovingly tell us, “As long as you are outside, sometimes your mind will allow you to have faith in the Master and sometimes he will not; he will say, ‘How can a man be God?’ and sometimes he will say, ‘Well, he is God.’ In this way he will always keep you going back and forth but if you go within even once and see the Form of the Master inside, after that the faith you will develop will be such that no matter if the whole world goes against you, your faith will not be lost.”

Regarding this form of the Master, Sufi Saint Bulleh Shah has said, after going into the higher planes, “God has come after becoming a man.” Guru Nanak also said, “O man! Don’t understand the Satguru as the human form.”

When my beloved Guru Dev withdrew from this physical world, when He changed His body, at that time it created an uproar. People went into the courts claiming to be successors and heirs to the property and things like that. But this poor Ajaib stretched out his arms and shouted aloud, “The Master is not dead, the Master has not left! Those who say the Master is dead should be taken to the court and asked why they took someone as a Master who was involved in births and deaths” – because he who is involved in births and deaths, how can he liberate you? How can he rescue you? Kabir Sahib also said, “O man! You have the body of the Master, but you have not realized, you have not searched for, the real Satguru within; and this way you will come back into the cycle of 84 lakhs of births and deaths again and again.” Masters always say, “While your Master is within the body you should rise above your body as well as the body of the Master and go within and see what Power your Master is and from which country He has come.” Masters never attach us to their body; they always attach us to the Shabd which is working within them.

Guru Nanak said, “My Master is permanent, He never comes, He never goes, He is an indestructible being and He is present within all.” Masters never exhibit their power and they also tell their disciples, “If Master has showered grace on you, you should hide it and keep it within you.”

1987 June: The Land of Karma

This talk was given March 28, 1987, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Yesterday Sant Ji said that when we were initiated, all the accounts of our stored karmas – our sanchit karma – are torn up by the Master and the disciple doesn't have to worry about them; they are wiped out. I was curious; I thought there was some karma we had to eliminate by meditating later as we progress in the higher planes. I would like to know, if those aren't the stored karmas, are there other karmas? I was also curious to know what the Master has to do to wipe out that account. I know there is a story of King Janak liberating all the souls in hell through one moment of Simran, and I was wondering if it was like that or if He has a greater price to pay.

SANT JI: I am very glad that you have asked such a deep question, because this is something which is worth paying attention to. It is possible that many other dear ones may also have this kind of question, so it is good that you have asked it.

First of all I would like to tell you that those dear ones who go within know how all these things work. Often I have quoted Master Sawan Singh Ji, who used to say, “Unless we go within we do not know Who is doing everything. Until we go within we may think, ‘we are going to the satsang,’ or ‘we have come to the Master for receiving initiation,’ or ‘we are making efforts and following the Path of the Master.’ But once we go within, and contact our beloved Master there, then we come to realize that it was not because of our effort that we were coming to the satsang, it is not because of our effort that we got initiation, it was in fact the grace of the Master Who brought us to the satsang and made it possible for us to receive initiation.” In the same way, after receiving initiation and making some progress in meditation, until we have gone within and seen the beloved Master with our own eyes, we may say, “We are doing the meditation, we are making efforts and progressing.” But when we go within, we come to realize that our efforts were of no use. It was all the grace of the Master which made it possible for us to do the meditation. In fact He Himself woke us up for meditation, He Himself gave us the inspiration and the courage to sit in meditation, and He Himself pulled us up and made it possible for us to achieve progress in meditation.

I have often said that at the time of initiation, Sant Satgurus make a unique arrangement within us so that we pay off the consequences of the karmas which we are supposed to suffer, our pralabdh or fate karma. And side-by-side, along with paying off those karmas, we go on progressing in meditation. When we do the meditation it is like preparing our soul for that time when we will have to face the consequences of our fate karmas, or deal with the suffering which is going to come according to our fate karma; that is why Masters always say that we should meditate, because when we meditate we are preparing our soul to face that difficult moment.

I have often said also that when the storm comes even the strong trees get uprooted, what to speak of the small plants or weak trees. In the same way when the wave of karma comes in our life, many of the dear ones lose their faith; their faith is shaken and they may even leave the Path. But those who do meditation and go within know why that pain and suffering has come, and they are also aware of the help they are receiving from their beloved Master. Only they know how from one side they are getting pain and suffering and from the other side they are getting help from the Master. Those dear ones who go within and do meditation, they also feel pain and suffering when the wave of karma comes, but they do not complain. They remain happy in the will of the Master because they know how much their Master has done for them and what kind of karma they are suffering in that moment. The other dear ones, who do not do the meditation and who have not gone within, they do not realize what Master has done for them, and whenever they have to face such a situation, they at once become dry; they either leave the Master or their faith is shaken. Swami Ji Maharaj has described the condition of the dear ones who go within; He has said, "You should always understand the moment of pain as a blessing," because He knows that the dear ones who go within, face such a moment understanding it as a blessing from the Master; because in the moment of pain we can remember our Master in a much better way than we can remember Him in the moment of happiness. You see that not all the satsangis have this attitude; only those who go within, because they know the reality of what karma is finished by the Master and what karma they are suffering now. So those who have got that realization and that kind of awareness of karma do not have any complaint and always accept happily whatever comes in the will of the Master.

We can get this understanding of how the Master showers grace on us, how He cuts our karmas, and how He is showering His grace and helping us, only after going within. Outwardly by hearing the words of the Master we may get a little bit of relief; we may get a little bit of faith in Him. But Masters always lay a lot of emphasis on going within because only then can we understand and accept the Reality. That is why Masters always say, "Go within and see everything with your own eyes."

You know that Baba Bishan Das had the Knowledge of the Two Words and he was practically successful in that Knowledge; and he gave me that Knowledge of the two lower planes and with his grace he himself made me practically successful in that. He made me realize my previous birth – where I was born and who were my parents. And with his grace only I was able to know my connection, my give and take, with my present parents, the parents who brought me up and took care of me, and he made me realize my give and take with other people in the world; and with his grace I was able to finish my give and take with them. Only because of his grace I was able to tell my parents how long

I was going to be with them; many years before I left my home I told them that I would be leaving my home at this time. So you see that it was all the grace of Baba Bishan Das that I was able to know all that.

When a mahatma who had the knowledge of only two words could tell so many things and know so much, you can well imagine how much more knowledge you can have because you are on the complete Path. You have the complete knowledge and you can very well imagine how much realization and awareness you can achieve, if you would practice.

The satsangis who go very high in meditation and the Saints and Satgurus Who know everything, have so much patience and endurance in them that they do not perform any miracles. Even though they may know that just by walking a few steps they are going to meet with an accident, still they will not try to change that because they do not do anything against the will of Nature. They do not perform miracles and even though they know everything, they will not try to change the Will of God.

There was an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh Ji who was from a low caste. He was a very good meditator but his wife had a bad temper and she constantly rebuked him and fought with him and sometimes she gave him a beating, which upset him very much. He was a very nice man, a very good devoted dear one, and once he went to Master Sawan Singh Ji and told Him about his sufferings. If we do the meditation, the work which our Master has given to us, and if we then go to the Master and tell him about our sufferings and pains, sometimes He will give us hints and shower special grace on us; He will make us know why we are going through that suffering and what is the cause of that pain. So when he went to Master Sawan Singh and told Him about the nature of his wife, and how it was very difficult for him to live with her, Baba Sawan Singh Ji in His full glory and in His Will, told him, “Dear one, do you know who you were in your last life? You were a crow. And your wife was a she-ass with a wound in her back, who was owned by a washer man; and when that washer man would bring that ass near the place where you used to live, you used to go and sit on her and put your beak into that wound and torture her. Sometimes when you wanted to clean your beak you used to do it in that wound. So you have tortured her a lot, you have given her so much pain. Because your give and take with her was not good in your last life that is why in this lifetime she has become your wife and you have become her husband and now it is her turn to give you the same kind of torture; because all the Masters have said that whatever you have done in your past lives you have to suffer the consequences of that. So now this is your karma, and it is better for you to finish that karma in this lifetime so that you may not have to come back into this world again and again.” Since that dear one used to go within and he knew how the Law of Karma worked, and since he now had the realization that this was his own karma, he lived with it, he suffered whatever came in the Will of God and he never complained.

I did not know that person; but about fifteen years ago I went to a town called Sangria and I saw there a man and a woman who were moving from that town. After they had done all their packing and they were about to leave their home, I was very surprised to see how his wife was treating him. She gave him a beating and he said nothing; he just patiently suffered whatever came while she beat him with a stick. Finally she shoved the big stick into the mouth of that person and he did not even say a word. I was very surprised. I could not understand how on earth there could be a person with so much patience and endurance. I thought, “Well, I should find out about this person.” So I waited there, and after they finished packing and started moving I followed them for about a mile. When they realized that somebody was following them, they stopped and asked me, “Man of God, why are you following us?” So I said to that man, “Well, I have never seen a person like you. I do not know what is wrong between you and your wife, but I am surprised to see how much patience you have. Can you tell me how you do this?” He said, “About forty years ago I was initiated by Baba Sawan Singh Ji and I asked Him why my wife is like this, and I told Him that it was very difficult for me to live with her. And he told me this story” – what I have just told you – “and now I know that it is my karma which I am suffering, and I do not have any regrets, because it is my own karma which I am paying in this lifetime. And I know that if I do not pay this karma in this lifetime, I may have to come back into this world again, because whatever I have done in the past I have to suffer its consequences. But this which you have seen is nothing in comparison with what I went through in the beginning. This happens every day – if not every day, once every two or three days – I get this kind of beating and sometimes it is even worse, but I do not have any complaints. I know that I have done even worse to her.”

So you see, that those dear ones who go within and have complete faith in the Master, know which of their karmas Master has finished and which karmas they have to suffer, and they do not have any complaints or regrets; they lovingly and happily suffer the consequences of the karmas which they have done in their past lives, and Master helps them a lot in understanding them and in paying them off. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that all of our present family members and friends, our brothers and sisters and relatives who are connected to us in this lifetime, are connected as the result of our past connections with those souls and that we have smooth and normal relations with those souls with whom our give and take was good, but with those souls with whom our dealings were not good in the past, in this lifetime also we have difficulties with them. That is why in a family, you have good relations with some members and with some you do not. So Master Sawan Singh Ji always used to say, “When we do meditation and go within, only then can we come to know what kind of karmas we are paying and what Master has done to remove our karmas.” In Mr. Oberoi’s book, the story of Sunder Das, an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh, was written. You know that Sunder Das was a very devoted initiate of Baba Sawan Singh Ji and he lived with me for many years. He was a very good meditator and Baba Sawan Singh Ji once, when He came in His Will, told Sunder Das what was going to happen in his future. He told him, “Your wife will die and your son and daughter will also get killed. This will upset your mind, you will go crazy and in that madness you will kill somebody; as a result you will be sent to prison, and there you should confess what you have done. Even though people will try to help you, you should not accept anyone’s help, you should go through the trial and accept the punishment. You will be sentenced to jail for twenty years, but do not worry; have faith in the Master. You will be staying in prison only for six years, and then you will be released.” It is a very interesting thing that when Baba Sawan Singh Ji told Sunder Das all this, he was not even married yet. But since he used to do a lot of meditation, and he was going within, and he was very close and devoted to Baba Sawan Singh, he took whatever the Master said as the truth. When he came to know this about his future, he thought, “Well, I won’t get married. Then I won’t have any children and all those things won’t happen.” But the circumstances were such in his life that he had to get married. When his family told him to get married, since he knew all this about his future, he said, “I don’t want to get married.” But they said, “Either you get married or we will all jump into the well and commit suicide.” There were five people in his family and they all threatened to commit suicide if Sunder Das did not agree to get married. So he gave in to them.

Eventually, as Baba Sawan Singh had said, everything happened: he had a daughter and son; his wife left the body; then his son in the prime of his youth was killed; his daughter also was killed; this made him crazy; and in that craziness he killed someone. When he was brought to the judge, the King of Faridkot was a good friend of Sunder Das and he knew that at that time he committed that murder he was not in his senses, so he tried to help him. He told the magistrate that this old man, this baba, was not in his senses and he should be forgiven, but Sunder Das – because Baba Sawan Singh had told him not to accept anyone’s help – said, “No, I was not crazy when I did this murder. Why don’t you punish me?” So because of this confession, he was given a sentence of twenty years; but in 1947 when India and Pakistan were formed they released all prisoners who were sentenced to twenty years or more, and Sunder Das was one of them. When he got out of jail, he had been there for exactly six years. After that he came and lived with me.

He was so much devoted to the Master that he always remained faithful even though so much happened in this life. All those things he lived through even made him crazy, but still he did not lose his faith in the Master because he used to go within and he knew that everything that happened to him was according to his own karma which he himself had to pay; and he knew how much Master Sawan Singh was helping him. Often I have told you how he used to sit with me for meditation – we would sit for eight hours at a stretch – and once when we were sitting, his leg got burned and he was not aware of it. When he got up from that meditation with his leg burned, he said, “Today I have gotten such an intoxication in meditation that I have never gotten in my whole life.” He was not aware of his burned leg, and you also know if you have read that book,³ the interview which he had with Master Kirpal Singh Ji, and how Master Kirpal graciously took him inside and how he was made to tell people the things which he had seen within. So those who do meditation and who go within, always remain devoted to the Master; their faith never gets shaken off; they never lose their faith in the Master because they know how the grace of the Master works to pay off our karmas.

I always inspire the dear ones to read Sant Bani Magazine because a lot of satsangs and talks and questions and answers like this have been published there, many subjects are touched on, and you can learn a lot of things by reading the magazine. Last time I went to America I gave many talks regarding the inner planes, and I tried to explain how things work in the inner planes; I gave brief talks about that. I also said that at the time of initiation Master finishes up those karmas which can be an impediment or an obstacle for us in our way of going within. When we bring our attention to the eye center we see that our Master Who has given us the initiation is present there even before we get there, and

³ Support for the Shaken Sangat by A.S. Oberoi, pp. 304-312.

He helps us to go within; and, as we go on progressing in meditation, we see how He, along with our progress in meditation, helps us to pay off our karmas.

I even said that when we do our meditation and progress in meditation and go to Trikuti, the place where our store of sanchit karma is, there also we are made to meditate a lot if we are not glorified enough. Because the effect of the bad karmas on our soul can be removed only after doing a lot of meditation, and only when it becomes completely pure can our soul go to the super-causal plane beyond Trikuti.

We do not know anything about the inner planes. Master always helps us. He is with us every single step we take in our inner journey. We cannot take even one step without the help and guidance of the Master. He is always with us within, and as we progress in our meditation from the astral to the causal plane, and as we go on further we realize more and more how great the help of the Master is and how much Master is doing for us. Master takes us up from plane to plane, all the way to Sach Khand, our Real Home. Even after we reach Sach Khand, He does not leave us. He makes us stand in front of the Almighty Lord and He requests the Almighty Lord on our behalf; He says, “He is Your child, he had forgotten Your home, and now he has come back asking forgiveness from You and You should forgive him.” The point is that Masters always help the disciple in the inner planes, on the inner journey. When we go within we cannot take even one step without Them, and before we reach Them, They are already there to help us.

Swami Ji Maharaj has said, “If you want to see everything while you are living, if you want to experience practically all the things which you are told about, that is your courage and your effort – you are great if you have that desire – but the most important thing, the first thing, which you need to do in order to go within, is that you should understand and accept the grace of the Master.” In the sangat we have faith in the Master according to the meditation we have done. Those who have done more meditation, those who are going within, have more faith in the Master; those who have not done a lot of meditation do not have enough faith in the Master. Those who have a lot of faith in the Master because they do the meditation do not find fault with the Master even after reaching Sach Khand. In fact, they realize their debt to the Master after reaching Sach Khand; but those who have not done a lot of meditation easily find fault with the Master if anything goes wrong.

Dear ones, my point is this: All the Mahatmas have said that this world is the land of karma, the place where our karma is paid off. We have been given this human body to enjoy the rewards of our good karma and suffer the consequences of our bad karma, and only in this lifetime can we square them off. In Gita, Lord Krishna told Arjuna, “Neither our good karmas nor our bad can give us liberation from this body.” He said, “Good karmas are like gold chains and bad karmas are like iron chains.” Neither our good nor bad karmas can help us get liberation. Liberation lies in the meditation on Naam.

Guru Nanak says, “O brother, do not blame anyone for the sufferings you are getting. Whatever I have done, I suffer the consequence of that, and I am the one who is to be blamed.”

So we should also lovingly do our meditation according to the instructions of the Master, go within so that we may become free from this imprisonment of karma, and gain the pleasure of the Master.

1987 August: No New Faith, Mind That!

This question and answer session with Sant Kirpal Singh Ji took place at Tustin, Calif., on December 18, 1963.

QUESTION: What is the relationship between the Sikh religion and our faith?

THE MASTER: What is your faith? I am teaching no faith.

QUESTION: Well – we do not have Sikhism, and we do not have...

THE MASTER: The basic principles of all religions are the same. I am teaching no “ism,” mind that. Remain in your own faiths. But, there you have taken the first step – the elementary step. It is meant for the preparation of the ground. Now you have to take the other step which is referred to in your scriptures, but which we have forgotten. This is no new faith, no new religion – nor am I going to advocate any religion whatsoever. There are already so many faiths existing. Do you follow me? This gathering here is a purely spiritual gathering, a common ground for all to sit together, irrespective of whether they belong to one religion or the other. AS man we are one, as soul we are one, and also the one whom we worship – God – is also the same. There is no ism here, no ritual, no rites, no special form of prayers.

QUESTION: This very question was answered by a man I asked it of. I said, “What is the relation between the Sikh religion and the Radha Soami faith?” And he said, “It is the same, with the addition of the Master.” That’s the way he answered this question.

THE MASTER: No, no, no.

QUESTION: So I'm glad to hear this said this way.

THE MASTER: These are the facts. Sikhism also preaches the same thing. I think if all the other scriptures of the world were put together and the purely spiritual part were taken out, they wouldn't form even one-twentieth of the Sikh scriptures; it is a voluminous treasure. But they all referred to the Light and Sound Principle and to the need of a Guru or a Master. Even the Sikh scripture enjoins that. It says, “Nobody can see God except through the Master.” It not only says that, but it says, “Nobody has ever been, nor is, nor ever will be able to know God without a Master.” So, Sikhism does provide for a Master, and very emphatically so. But the general point is that when Masters leave, there are formations. So long as the practical Masters are there they go on all right. But for want of practical Masters, formations become stagnations; then stagnation results in deterioration; and there are fights between religion and religion.

So this is the truth. We forget it, and Masters come to revive that truth, again and again. Don't you see that when Christ entered the synagogue, he said, “You have made the house of my Father a business home.” Is it not so? And he drove them out. The teachings are the same. To err is human. For want of practical people we dwindle down into error.

Sometimes the disciples say, “We are proud of the Masters to whom we belong.” The question arises whether the Masters to whom we belong are proud of us. They can be proud of us only if we live up to what they say. They said you must be reborn. All Masters say the same thing. But we don't know what the meaning of being reborn is. Christ said, “Marvel not if I say, you must be reborn.” Now people have forgotten. They simply interpret it as having certain forms and rites and rituals and believing in some Master; and that is to be reborn. Well, that is not so. If you go to it without any prejudice, you will find the same truth. We, in our own zealousness, consider that perhaps we have the only truth and nobody else. Well, the truth is there; Masters came to give out the truth. Of course they gave out whatever was necessary at the time. But they all referred to that: “you must be reborn.” By a parallel study of religions, which I have done since I was a child, and by sitting at the feet of my Master, I have come to that very one hundred percent truth. I have met heads of various religions. They all give in there; they cannot deny it. Fact remains fact; truth is truth. So, I have regard for all Masters.

This question was put to my Master:

“Why don’t you raise a new religion?” What did he say? He said, “There are already so many wells existing. What is the use of digging up a new well? Why not take the water out from the wells that already exist?” Truth is there. You perhaps have read the book, Naam or Word. What is in there? It gives references – quotations – from all religions. What more is wanted? The pity is that we have forgotten. We worship the same God – call Him by one name or the other; that makes no difference. We are concerned with that Reality which is spoken of by so many names. Whether you say water in English or aqua in Latin or many other names in other languages, all the same we are concerned with the liquid called by those names. Unless we have the liquid, there is no use simply repeating one name or the other. That only directs our attention towards that thing that is liquid, by drinking which your thirst is quenched. This is the truth. Who can deny it, tell me, when all men are born the same way? Is there any man who denies that? Brahmins are people, I would say now, who claim, “We are born with special privileges from God – we are superior to all men.” Once Kabir, the great saint, simply put to them a very blunt question: “If you are superior, why were you not born some other way?” Do you see?

All men are alike. Their outer construction is the same: they have all got two eyes, two ears, two hands, two feet. They are born the same way, and all other things are the same. It is we who make differences. It is we who make divisions. When Masters come, they look from a universal point of view. They consider all humanity to be their family.

Four children of the Tenth Guru of the Sikhs were killed. His wife came and asked him, “Where are my children?” He said, “Never mind: four have died, but so many are alive.”

This is the angle of vision of the Masters. They look from the angle of the man-body, or the soul – the embodied soul. As a man we are all one. Of course, I’m carrying this badge, you’re carrying those badges: all the same, we are men first. The same difficulties reside in us:

Our souls are under the control of mind; mind is under the control of the outgoing faculties; we are given up to outward enjoyments, all of us. They say the body is the temple of God. We are in the body, there is some Power which is keeping us in the body; otherwise we would have run away, out of this man-body; but we cannot. So unless we withdraw from the outside – our attention is withdrawn from outside – we can have no awareness of our own. Unless we know ourselves, we cannot know about the Power that is controlling us in the body.

Then where is the difference? God is Light – all Masters say so: God is Light. Of course they use their own words. Some say it is Jyoti; some say it is Noor; some say it is “Truth clothed in Light.” Where is the difference? Even when Zoroaster came, what did he say? He advised his followers to keep a fire burning constantly in their homes. And what sort of fire? It should be unstruck fire: Sraosha. My point is, I am not giving out something new – some new religion, some new concept. This is the old, old truth which has been the same all along. We have been forgetting it; Masters have been coming to revive it. Again the time has arrived. We have so many religions. Why are there so many religions, when the truth is one? The difference is due to this fact: among those who have realized the truth, there is no difference; among those who have not realized it, there are parties and separate sects, sub sects and so on – and they are increasing daily. This is apparently due to the fact that we have not realized – seen – the truth, that’s all. So, when Masters come, they don’t start any new religion. They say there are already so many social bodies of religions. Remain in whichever one you are; you have taken the first step. Now take the other step, which is given in our own scriptures, but which we have forgotten. What do they do now? I went to the king of the army of the Templars. He had invited me. They were going to make new Templars. Generally they don’t allow anyone else to be there, but in Germany they especially invited me. I went there. What did they do? Those who were to be made Templars were made to stand up. A candle was lit outside and they put it in front of them. Then each one was given that which they customarily give him. Then another man put a sword on his head. Well, what does that show? We must crucify ourselves to reach that Light. But they have forgotten the inside, and they don’t know how to crucify themselves – to take up the cross daily. What is the cross? Have you ever considered it? A cross is that. [Master opens his arms wide, so that his body makes a cross.] Is it not a cross? Take the cross daily; rise above body-consciousness, and see the Light within. That is becoming a true Templar. In any religion you’ll find the same thing. In all places of worship you have the same symbols: Light and Sound. Unless we rise above the body – take up the cross daily – we cannot have that Light, we cannot hear the Voice of God.

So, I assure you I’m giving you no new faith, mind that. Don’t be misled. Remain in your own religion, but try to understand more. The pity is that our ministers are also not in the full know of things. I had a long talk at the Vatican in Rome – about two or three hours long – with the bishop in charge of the non-Christian religions. When we talked over the whole thing he said, “What you say is right.”

“All right, now that you see this is the true teaching of Christ, why don’t you change the whole thing?” I quoted the example of Pope John. When he started something, he never consulted his committee – he ordered: “Do that!” If John could order it, why can’t it be done now? He said, “If we do it now, half of the bishops will revolt. We will bring them around in time.”

So truth is truth. Any awakened man does realize that. That’s another thing: one man thinks, in the zealotry of his own system, we have got the only truth. Mohammedans say they are the only ones born that way. And the Christians, too, perhaps say that nobody else at all has come into the world with the truth. Well, truth is truth.

The other day I went to a Unity Church. I asked the minister, “What are your teachings?” He gave me a pamphlet. I read it; it said there, “Christ lived before Jesus – that very wording is there: “Christ lived before Jesus.” And what is Christ? One man came up to me when I was here the last time in 1955 and put the question to me, “When is Christ returning?” I told him, “Has he ever left you?” That is the point. Christ said, “I shall never leave thee nor forsake thee till the end of the world.” If He has not left us, where is the question of returning? So, I read the pamphlet the other day. I’ve got it with me. It says, “Christ lived before Jesus.” Christ is the God Power or the Guru Power which continues to come from time to time for the guidance of the child Humanity. It came even before Christ Jesus, before Buddha or Guru Nanak or anybody. We are all His children. How can He disregard His children? Those who were born before Christ Jesus or Guru Nanak or anybody – what about their fate? And what about those who came after them? Let us assume for one moment that those who believe in them will be saved. Then what about those who came before them? Will they all be doomed? This is seen from a common sense point of view. The fact remains a fact. Any awakened man realizes that.

My point is, we are all children of God: The soul is of the same essence as that of God, and the same Controlling Power is keeping us in the body. The man-body is a golden opportunity we have in which we can realize God. But to realize God we must know ourselves first; because it is only the soul, the conscious entity, that can know Him: like alone can know the like. He cannot be known by the outgoing faculties, or by the intellect, or by the vital airs. These are the facts. So that God Power continues – the Sonship continues. Only for want of practical people we zealously stick to one thing or the other; and what is the result? – religious wars, in which thousands of people are killed.

I am giving you a broader view. Does not the Bible say that God does not reside in temples made by the hand of man? What should we say now? We have respect for the holy places of worship, because people sit together there in sweet remembrance of God. “Where more than one man sits,” Christ said, “I am there.” Who is Christ? Christ is God Power. Call it Christ Power or Guru Nanak Power or Kabir Power – that is God Power which manifested at human poles to guide the child Humanity. So we have regard for them all.

So, this is no new faith, please, mind that – there are no labels so far. So long as I remain, I won’t permit it. If the people after me do it, then that is their own fate. But remember, this is no new faith. It is only a common ground, called a spiritual gathering, where men of all religions sit together – here, sometimes in the hundreds; in India, in the thousands – of all faiths, of all religions. They’re given only the teachings of an ethical life, of purity of life, and of a contact with God, that’s all. You may say a prayer this way or that way, or perform a certain ritual this way or that way. Of course, they are meant to develop love and devotion in us. That is the first step – that’s all right. The second is to understand the true import of the scriptures that we have – to understand them. But to understand them we need somebody who has had those experiences, who has been put on the Way. That is why all are dear to me.

Hindus ask me to come; I go over there and give them something from their scriptures: “Your scriptures say that.” I go to the Sikh temples; “Here are your scriptures.” Do you know what I mean to say? They consider that their religions probably have something new. Well, I say, “Although the outer social bodies of all religions are different, of course, the inner truth is the same.” I go to all different kinds of churches: I met the Orthodox Christians; I met the Coptics, the Byzantines, the Protestants, the Roman Catholics; I met the Jews. Among all, the basic principle is the same. I gave a talk in a Jewish temple. Do you remember how they appreciated it? Moses heard these commandments through Light and thunder. They referred to it. The pity is that we have forgotten the truth, that's all. For want of practical people we consider that we know better. Well, truth is one. You join a school in order to get a degree in your education. You must be educated. And when you come out of any school or college and you have your degree, do you write on the degree, "I have an M.A. from a Christian college or a Hindu college?" You never write that. Similarly, this is a degree in spirituality, already referred to in our scriptures, but which we have forgotten. We need someone who knows the Way, that's all. He knows the Way; He can give us that experience.

Past Masters are also needed; had they not come, their scriptures would not have been with us. Now, they testify to what we say. Yet, I tell you, a Master who has known the Way is not dependent on the scriptures. Even without past scriptures, he knows the Way, he can give the Way. He simply quotes from scriptural references in order to give satisfaction to people who then realize, "Really, these are our own teachings." That's all. It's a practical thing.

Thank you, this is no new faith, mind that, dear friend.

QUESTION: What effect does suicide have on the soul's development, Maharaj Ji?

THE MASTER: Well, the blind lead the blind, and both fall into the ditch. They are expecting heaven after death. If while alive, a man is not in heaven, how can he be after death? A man who is learned while alive remains learned after death. If I go out of this room, I will be the same as I am here; I cannot change, by my going out; I remain the same. So similarly, you see, what we are when we leave the body, we cannot change by leaving the body; we cannot become, I mean, angels. Those who are given up to the outward enjoyments, they are the earth-bound souls. Those who are better, who have gone a little higher – and that is what is proved nowadays by the Spiritualists – they contact souls. And those who have become divine or spiritually pure, go to the lap of the Father.

QUESTION: Is there a particular karmic punishment because of the act of suicide or are the problems that caused the suicide doubled?

THE MASTER: By suicide what do you mean? He meant something else.

COMMENT: No, taking your life.

THE MASTER: Yes. You see, our life is more valuable than our body; our body is more valuable than outward things. If we enter into a state of mind that we even hate our life, that we are going to kill ourselves – this is a very strong action and that reaction will come. The Theosophical Society says that a man who commits suicide will commit suicide for at least one hundred births afterward. Each time that reaction will come again. Some people commit suicide for no reason.

COMMENT: Because the urge of killing is there.

THE MASTER: Yes, yes, it is a reaction.

That's a heinous crime, to kill oneself. How can you ever dream of killing your own life? It's a very strong reaction. If some Controlling Power, some higher Power or God Power or Christ Power, you might say, is there, that reaction might be softened down; that's another thing.

QUESTION: You say a hundred times thereafter?

THE MASTER: This, theosophical literature tells us. That reaction comes up. We generally never want to sacrifice our life; with how much difficulty we do! We wouldn't like to die; we would rather sacrifice everything, all our outer possessions and even have the body cut open, to save it. Nobody wants to die. But if a man wants to die it means it is a very strong action; that must react. Yes, please?

QUESTION: You say that God is love and love will take one to the heart center: that's in the heart – in the heart center, and yet the Science of the Soul begins at the sixth ganglion, and there's still a center in between. How can that be reconciled?

THE MASTER: I tell you, these are the words that sometimes mislead us. Soul is love personified. God is love and soul is also love, being of the same essence as God. The heart of the physical body lies here [Master points to the heart]. The heart of the Saints lies here [He points to the forehead between the eyes]. Do you see? When they say it is a question of heart and not of head, they make a difference here. The head means the intellect; not this head, but this intellect. And the heart means our own Self. Love is ingrained in our own soul, not in any particular part of the body. What is the machinery of the heart? It is only some little growth of flesh. It is left behind when we die. If it is love, even when it is left behind, it should emit love. Does it? When a man is dead and the soul leaves the body, is there any love left in the heart? So, love is in our souls. And the seat of the soul is at the back of the eyes; from there it enlivens the whole body. There are six ganglions in the body, but Masters don't touch them. They give you a lift to come up to the seat of the soul all at once, and they start from there. How great a concession it is! Yes, please?

QUESTION: Masters speak of wrong yoga practices leading the forces down ward on the spine into the area of the kundalini. Could you expand on that a little bit, please?

THE MASTER: I tell you; there are ways and ways: there are man-made ways, and there are God-made ways. The times have changed. There are so many systems of yoga. These yoga systems were introduced in the olden ages. There are four ages: the golden age, the silver age, the copper age and the iron age. They say these systems were introduced in the golden age. Then people lived up to one million years. It is said so in the Hindu scriptures. One sage, Siringi Rishi, put in 88 thousand years in yoga practices; and excuse me, I need not point out that, as told in the scriptures, he was led away by desire and had a son. Even after doing 88 thousand years of penances that way, he could not control lust. Do you see? Then, in the second age, the life-span was cut down to ten thousand years. Even then we could put in some one, two, or three thousand years in the practices. In the copper age their length of life was cut down to one thousand years. Even then we could put in two or three hundred years that way. Nowadays, nobody lives beyond sixty or seventy years, on the average. How can we today do those systems that were introduced in the olden ages? We are hereditarily not fit for them. Those are longer ways, time-consuming and hazardous. So, Masters cut out the prana system altogether, to befit the times. This is the natural yoga that you have been given: it requires only that you be still physically and intellectually; and a little lift is given; you know your soul. You are of the same essence as that of God. This concession is given according to the times; Masters introduced it.

With due deference to all those ways – they are difficult, and we are not fit for them. You referred to the kundalini question. The kundalini arises from the rectum and passes through the spinal cord and comes out at the head. That is a very much longer way. And from its practice, the whole body appears to be burning like fire from head down to foot. There is no remedy for it. Only a very strong man could suffer and withstand it.

One man met me in India about three years ago. He was doing kundalini and he was all-burning from head down to foot: that kundalini power had awakened. And he came to me and said, “I am in very much trouble; I cannot do anything about it. I’ve been to hundreds of people, but nobody can help me.” I told him, “Please put that aside. Your purpose here is to come up here [to the seat of the soul]. Why not come up by the straight way, the natural way?” So, I gave him a sitting. He was initiated, and all the trouble was gone.

Why take up the longer ways? If you have airplanes nowadays, why do you go on plodding on foot? Times have changed. There are various ways, of course, but we are not fit for them, honestly – without any exaggeration. Today, three children sat: they saw light, and they heard the sound of bell and thunder and drum-beat. The other way you cannot prove it. And the yogis, I tell you, cannot prove spirituality all at once as you do in this way. They say, “Go on, do it! It will come in due course.” But this way, everybody can prove it – see for his own self – within half an hour or so. So, this is the latest, I mean, concession of God for those who are really seeking after Him, to befit the age; that’s all... Yes?

QUESTION: Is the life span of an individual determined at birth?

THE MASTER: Yes.

QUESTION: Nothing one can do about it to either shorten it or lengthen it?

THE MASTER: Yes. He can shorten it, he can prolong it. But it is definitely ordained – all Masters say so. Even Christ said, “Thy days are numbered.” Our age is fixed, not according to the number of years or months or days, mind that; it is fixed according to the number of breaths we take. Do you see? The right use of breaths can prolong our life, and the wrong use of breaths can shorten our life. Normally we take eight to ten breaths a minute. When we are passionate, we take eighteen to twenty breaths a minute. Is it not shortened? If you have a rhythmic life, you take three or four breaths a minute – that prolongs it. And if you do kumbhak, you learn to control the breathing inside. I have met people who could even control their breath for two hours;

I have met people who were put underground for seven days; then, your life is prolonged. But Masters don’t advise us to take up that way because we have to develop spiritually; by following that way you do not. It can show miracles to others; but, really, your inner life should change. You must come in contact with the Light and Sound Principle. Your life can be prolonged and shortened, but not beyond the number of breaths you have to take. Yes?

QUESTION: In leaving the body – for instance, when the spirit leaves the body – what might be considered the escape hatch, you might say? At what point would the spirit leave the body?

THE MASTER: At what place? Have you seen a man dying? What happens then? The life is withdrawn from underneath; it goes up slowly and then comes to the back of the eyes; the eyes are upturned; then the drop-scene⁴ comes. So, the seat of the soul is at the back of the eyes; there the drop-scene comes. That is why Masters say, “Learn to die so that you may begin to live”; that is, to whatever point in the body you go at the time of death, you are to go while you are alive. When the meditation is given, you come up here, is it not so? And here the soul leaves the body. Yes?

QUESTION: When you leave the body does the heart stop and everything?

THE MASTER: No, no. The heart stops only when you control the prana, the vital airs. In this, the heart continues working; nothing is disturbed. The heart stops only in cases of those who are put underground, who control the pranas. No, the heart does not stop; not in the least. The breathing becomes rhythmic, of course. Yes?

QUESTION: Is it not actually the diaphragm that is the last thing to stop beating?

THE MASTER: Yes, surely, surely

QUESTION: The heart goes first and the diaphragm is last.

THE MASTER: Slowly, the breathing goes out, stops, becomes long breaths. Even when machinery stops – the engine is stopped – the lower portion goes on slowly.

QUESTION: Would you please give us some lesson on how we might be more loving? How we might practice the values – how we might practice love more?

THE MASTER: Love? I think there is no need of giving any lecture. Everybody knows how to love. But we have not understood the right way to love. That is misused, I would say. Love is ingrained in our own selves. God is love; and love is also ingrained in us, because we are of the same essence as that of God. Love knows attachment; that is but natural. We must have somebody to be attached to – it may be right, it may be wrong. We are spirit. The love of the spirit or the conscious being should be love with the All-Spirit, All-Consciousness. That natural love which is within us is attached to the outward things: to the body, to the passions, to the enjoyments. Those are not conscious. But the more you are attached to those things you feel drawn from inside; that is but natural. But that love has been misplaced. When that very love is attached to the body and outward enjoyments, it is called attachment. And when that very love comes in contact with God, it is called charity. It is the same thing – misdirected. Misdirected love is called attachment, and rightly directed love is called charity.

This question was put to Maulana Rumi, a Mohammedan saint. He said, “Don’t think that that is love which is developed by our eating and drinking. That is called lust.” Love is the quality of the soul. The soul overflows with love if it is withdrawn from outside. The outward expression of soul is what? Attention. In the many ways our attention is diffused, so also is our love distributed. If that is withdrawn from outside that will overflow. And if it comes in contact with All-Consciousness, the love will be the mouthpiece of God. They say a saint is defined as one who is overflowing with the love for God and for all of humanity. So, it is not lust, mind that: that love is attached to the body and the outgoing faculties, and it stands in the way of realization, mind that. If love starts from the physical body and becomes absorbed in the soul, that is right; you can go up. But if it is just attached to the body and the outward attachments, it is standing in the way. That very thing is called lust. So, if you want to develop love, just withdraw your attention from outside. Come within your own self; you'll be overflowing with love. If you come within your own self, then you'll see the Controlling Power which is All-Love, and you'll be overflowing with love. This love cannot be purchased in shops; it is not grown in fields. It is already within you. There is one way to have an impetus to have it; that is, by being in the company of saints, of those who have a life of love – not of lust, mind that, but of love. In their company, our love is awakened – it is flared up.

⁴ Drop-scene: A term used for drop or act-drop; also for the final scene of a play or drama in real life, that on which the curtain drops.

This question was put to Guru Amar Das. He said, “Thousands of curses be on the man who has the man-body and has not developed love for God. And thousands of curses be on the man who is attached to the outward side, to the world, and has forgotten himself and God.” Then he said, “What are we to do? Where are we to get this love?” All Masters say, Love God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, with all thy mind. So, we have to love God. But he said, “How are we to have it?” The first thing is by withdrawing from outside and coming in the company of someone who is love personified, who is overflowing with love for God and for all of humanity – for the sake of God, not for the sake of the physical bodies that we are carrying, whether they are black or white: for the sake of the soul in us. That love will be flared up when you come across the company of someone in whom that love is overflowing. They are called saints. They have that love flared up. What happens? When that love is there, all attention is withdrawn from outside and is attracted there. The glory of God, or the beauty of God, is centered there. That attracts every soul. When the soul has been withdrawn and the attention has also been withdrawn from outside, you get a flaring up. The principle works the same way, by withdrawing your attention from outside. First you have to make an effort. In this way you are drawn in of itself. When you come within you, love is there. Yes?

QUESTION: Do you have in India, in Delhi, India, a protégé under your tutorship to carry on when you leave the physical plane?

COMMENT: Do you have a successor that you are schooling now?

THE MASTER: Yes, I am schooling so many; let us see whom the God selects. Truly speaking, mind that, even in the Master, it is the God working in him. That will come of itself when God wishes it, you see. I wish each one of you would be selected. But you must come up to the mark. I wish each one of you would be ambassadors. Yes.

I told you what happened last time when I came in 1955. Two children came to me. I generally make children sit; and they got some light, etc. Then, I asked them, “What do you want?” They said, “We want to become Masters.” “All right, you have been put on the Way. Go on with it – you may be selected as a Master.” It is not a selection from the people below as you select a president or a minister, or this and that thing. It is a selection from God, you see. Yes?

QUESTION: Master, in one of the mimeographed releases through the years it was said that Guru Nanak prophesied there would be fourteen Gurus of the Sikhs and then seventy lesser Gurus after that.

THE MASTER: What have you to do with it? Mind your own business. The same thing comes up: “When is Christ returning?” It is God’s Will. He cannot leave His children, who are seeking, alone. There is food for the hungry and water for the thirsty. Yes?

QUESTION: I wondered what system of breathing we should all use that would help us?

THE MASTER: Natural. Very plain. When a child is born, what sort of breathing has he? We distort our breathing, I tell you honestly. Children take a deep breath; their belly is first full, and then the lungs. And our lungs are filled first and then the belly. That’s the wrong way. You watch any child, any little child, when he is breathing: first the stomach is blown up, and then the upper portion; and then the stomach – like that.

COMMENT: Abdomen.

THE MASTER: Abdomen. Now what do we do? Our lungs are first swollen, then the belly. And the breathing does not go into the belly – abdomen. That’s the natural way. Yes, please?

QUESTION: Can we send the circulars that are released to people whom we think might be interested, but know nothing of the Path?

THE MASTER: Oh yes, send them to anybody; it is all a gift of God. I have no reserved rights; even in my books I have not given any reserved rights. People write a little pamphlet and they say: “All rights reserved.” I have given out books and there you will find: “No rights are reserved” – as it is a gift from God for all of humanity. You’ll find this seems very unnatural in the eyes of some people, because they want to earn – usurp – some rights. Well, this is a gift from God. If I have anything, that is from God, and God’s gift should be given to all. We must learn to stand on our own earnings. And to sell the gifts of God?! Is it not like that? Guru Nanak says it is a heinous crime to sell the gifts of God. They must be given free.⁵ What are we doing? Any Master who comes up will look at it from that very angle. Nowhere in my books will you find rights reserved. You will find, of course, that the rights of the books are not reserved; for they are given to all of humanity. You can make hundreds of copies and send them out to people at large. That is what I mean. Are there any rights reserved on the Bible? I think they have got it now. Similarly, for the other scriptures too, they have reserved rights now; but it was not so before. Yes?

QUESTION: Master, would you kindly explain the principle and the importance of Simran?

⁵ This refers primarily to copyright, which Master felt very strongly about and which He spoke about to me personally at great length when He first assigned me the publication work. While Master was always pleased to have His books given away, and instructed me to give them away to persons who could not afford them, He recognized that the publication of books costs money, and the logical person to defray that cost is the buyer; consequently, all of His books published during His lifetime, while they were not copyrighted (except when His wishes were ignored) did carry a price which covered the cost of the book and also produced income for other aspects of His work. In some cases, He fixed the price Himself. THE EDITOR.

THE MASTER: Well, it is very clear. Whom do you remember? The one whom you love, don't you remember him? What is remembrance? It is a symbol of having love for somebody. If you have love for somebody, all the time you are remembering him, perhaps not with your mouth, but with your heart. And whomever you want to love, remember him constantly, and that will develop love, that's all.

Why do we do Simran or remembrance, the first step, in this way? Because, you know, through the various outgoing faculties, the impressions of the outside world have been heaped up within us, to overflowing capacity. Our subconscious reservoir of the mind is overflowing with worldly impressions. These impressions came by the remembrance of outward things. We want to deplete that and then fill it with the sweet remembrance of God – so much so that even in dreams we will have the same thing; so much so that even if we go into a very deep state of sleep, these words may reverberate through our mouth. Suchlike remembrance is the first step: to deplete the subconscious reservoir of the mind which is already overflowing with the impressions or the remembrances of the world. Then the next step is, truly speaking, purity of heart: when nothing else is there other than love of God, or remembrance of God. That is a truly pure heart. And such a heart is required for someone to come up to Him.

So Simran is the first step, done for the sake of taking up the spiritual way. They say love God, is it not so? How? With all thy heart, with all thy soul, with all thy mind, with all thy strength. And loving God is what? You remember Him. The one whom you love, naturally his remembrance is there. Whomever you want to love, just keep him in your mind and that will react in his mind. This is but natural. That is what Christ meant when he said, "Let my words abide in you, and you abide in me." The first part is very clear; but how can you abide in him? When you remember someone, that naturally causes a reaction there. That's a reaction, you see. If you want to abide in him, you must only develop remembrance, sweetly. When you remember him, you think of him; as you think of him, you become what he is. "As you think, so you become." So this is how you can abide in me. And he says then, "Whatever ye shall ask, you will have it." This is the first step. This is the principle on which this Simran, or repetition, or the sweet remembrance – call it by any name you like – is based: "As you think so you become." Yes?

QUESTION: Master, we seem to have difficulty in learning to love our enemies, or those with whom we do not agree. That seems my biggest problem.

THE MASTER: Well, that is everybody's biggest problem. But the point is, if we know that he has the same soul which has been misdirected by mind under some impressions – he has the same soul; it's simply misdirected – if we have realized that, only then can we love our enemies. For the time being, sometimes you have to say something to somebody.

In the life of the Tenth Guru of the Sikhs there was some aggression on another's part. He had to take a stand to save innocent people. At that time, a battle was fought with arrows. So, what did he do? In the front of each arrow he put some gold, so that if anybody was hurt, he could remedy it. A man is not killed by an arrow all at once – he only becomes wounded. So he put some gold in the front of the arrow which would go into someone and inflict a wound; so that if he were wounded he would have some money to help himself get cured. This is what is called, love your enemies.

QUESTION: Master, in the meetings there are times when people come to tell us that they have taken an oath of poverty, and they feel that it is wrong to have a lot of things. And we were going to ask you about it – how to handle that situation.

COMMENT: She said at the meetings many people come and say they have taken an oath of poverty – they don't want to have a lot of money.

THE MASTER: Yes.

COMMENT: And so that's the question that comes up – how much poverty should one have?

THE MASTER: That is a good question. The world is full of hypocrites. You have to guard against that. Do you see? The point is, we are only to live on two loaves of bread or one loaf of bread. Our own expenditure is not more than a dollar or two a day, if we live a simple life. All the rest of what we earn is for the children or friends or other people. If we hold on to millions, they are left behind. We simply use what we spend for clothing or what we eat. So all Masters say you should earn your living by the sweat of your brow, by the dint of hard labor – honest earnings. Live on it your own self and share with others.

In Punjabi, this man-body is called day. Day means two things: one, “body”; the other, “give.” Kabir says, “So long as you have this ‘day’ or body, always learn to give, give, give and give.” So, whatever we earn, it is not for our own selves. That is why I issued a circular: simplify, simplify, simplify, and simplify. We should cut down our desires, demands, to what we want. Then we will have money to help others. Now people say we do not have enough money to live on our own selves. Why? Because our desires are greater than what is really wanted. You cannot help others unless you cut down on your own living: not cut it down to your death, I don't mean that. Maintain yourself, maintain your family, and try to share with others, however little it may be – it may be one cent. In that way the self expands. Give, give, and give. And love knows service and sacrifice. If you love God and love all of humanity, naturally you'll know to serve others who are naked; the hungry, the thirsty; others who are in want, who are sick. So man is one who lives for others, mind that. Even animals live for their own selves. What then is the difference between the two? Yes, please?

QUESTION: Do I understand you to say that, in other words, in another way...

THE MASTER: Yes...

QUESTION: that a person can be a millionaire or a multi-millionaire...

THE MASTER: Yes ...

QUESTION: and live very simply with the minimum of comfort...

THE MASTER: Yes...

QUESTION: and yet have his money work to help others to employ others?

THE MASTER: What did Christ say? He clearly said, “Those of you who want Him – who want to enter the kingdom of God – distribute all your wealth and come to me.” The he said, “It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a wealthy man to enter into the kingdom of God.”⁶ That refers to the man who has expanded out into the world – who is very much given up to the outward enjoyments, in an expanded way. Instead of that, you can live in a simple way which is best suited to maintain your health. Maintain your health; the body is the true temple of God. The longer you can keep it, the better, because in the man-body only you can know God. But, we can live on whatever is required. With whatever you can save, you can help others; otherwise you cannot help others. That’s the natural law, you see. Yes?

QUESTION: Master, was there ever such a thing as a Pope, I mean, Saint Peter?

THE MASTER: Well, I don’t know. I’ve read about him in scriptures. The scriptures tell us there was. Excuse me, now people are even going to doubt whether the Christ, Jesus, lived or not. Then what are we to do? We are concerned with the teachings, please – that’s all. The teachings are the same as given by the Masters – with due deference to all. History is generally written later on, when nobody any longer knows.

I tell you, I was going to write about Tulsi, a great Saint from the East. I wanted to find out his lineage, in connection with the life of Baba Jaimal Singh I wrote. I could not find it. He was the eldest brother, who was to succeed to the throne of the Hulkar family. He left the scene, became a recluse, and later on turned out to be a saint. And the second brother sat on the throne. I tried to find out whether his name was Sham Rao Hulkar, but his name was also not given in history. What was I to do? I know that when a man leaves a place, the people there say that he was nobody. I am nobody in my home there, at the feet of the Masters. This generally happens.

So history is history. Whether he existed or not, the important thing is what we learn from his teachings – whether we get anything. If we are going to doubt, then everything is doubtful. Well, Masters always say, Only believe what you see. Don’t believe in the sayings of the past Masters, unless you have the same experience your own self. You can take it up as an experimental measure. But we cannot be convinced unless we have the same experience our own selves – whether it is a little or more; we can develop it. Yes?

QUESTION : Coming back to simplifying the life: Those of us who have houses – they all need upkeep – the garden, and so forth. Would it not be better, the, to sell the house and just move into a small little cabin or a room and have more money then, or time on hand?

THE MASTER: All right – why spoil the show? Continue with that. And then save further if you can, that’s all.

QUESTION: But it doesn't give enough time.

THE MASTER: Well, I tell you: if need be, you may sell your things – if need be. If thousands of people are dying and hungry – well, sell your everything for them. Out of love you have to do that. But that is not a general rule, you see. That’s giving up everything for the sake of others. That requires a very great development. If you sell all that, then where are you to live? If you can afford to have another place, that’s all right. Now we can change our life for the future, at least. And if you have anything – enough to spare – you may share it with others. There’s no hard and fast rule against it.

⁶ Matthew 20: 21-24.

That love knows service and sacrifice.

Yes?

COMMENT: You've been here an hour and a half now.

THE MASTER: Well, we're talking; time flies away. That's all right. Anyhow, in talking we get so many things cleared up that you don't find clear while reading through scriptures – although references are given there.

1987 August: Trapped In His Love

These questions were answered on April 1, 1987, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: If someone is working with you and you know that they are stealing from you, but you have no concrete proof, what is the best way to handle that?

SANT JI: First of all, you should find out for sure whether he is really stealing or not, because if you do not have a concrete proof against him, how can you do anything to him? You should first find out whether he is really a thief, or if it is your mind who is blaming him, or if somebody else is misguiding you in that.

In history you can find many stories in which a person who is called a thief in fact is not a thief: he is a devotee, a true and sincere person, but since other people call him a thief he is punished and suffers without doing anything wrong.

In the district Sealkot, which is now in Pakistan, there used to live King Salwan, whose queen had given birth to a son; he was not content with him, because when he was born, the king asked his advisors and astrologers about that child. They told him that the child was not good for him – he was like a bad omen, and the king should not allow him to live in the palace, but should make such an arrangement that he would spend his childhood underground. So the king made all sorts of underground rooms for him and left his son there in the care of babysitters and other people. The child was not given any of the privileges or honor of a prince.

Now that king grew old, and in his old age again the wave of lust bothered him and he wanted to marry again; he wanted the happiness of having children. Since his first wife was not appreciated by him (when the astrologers told him that the child which she had given birth to was not good, he had left her), he wanted to get married again. So in his old age he married Luna, a young woman. Now that child, whose name was Puran, was being brought up underground and since he was not exposed to the things of the world he remained devoted to the Almighty Lord; sitting underground he did the devotion of the Lord. He didn't want to come out from his exile because he was enjoying the meditation of the Almighty Lord, but after twelve years the king wanted him to come out, and so he did. By that time he was sixteen years old and because he had been well-nourished, and well taken care of, he was a very handsome, very good, very strong young man.

So when he came out the king was very pleased with him, because he had been longing for a child and he did not have any child from his new wife. So he told his son, "Go to your mothers – all my wives – and seek their blessing; bow down to them and ask them for their best wishes." He went to all the queens of his father, and finally he came to Queen Luna, the youngest of them all, who did not have any child. She was fascinated by Prince Puran and wanted to satisfy her lust with him. But since he was a devoted person he knew what was right and wrong, and he did not give in to her desire. He said, “How is it possible? You are my mother! How can I indulge with my mother? If I do indulge with you, I will not be entitled to sit on the throne of my father and I will not be able to dispense the justice which my father does. If I try to, after indulging with you, both myself and the people who follow me will go to hell!” (This is the tradition.) “So that is why I do not want to indulge with you and I cannot satisfy you.” When he said that, Queen Luna replied, “You are not my son. I have not given birth to you, you did not come out from my womb; it doesn’t matter because you are not my real son.” He replied, “No. You have married my father, and all those who have married my father are my mothers, and I treat you only as my mother.”

So because he refused, she said, “If you do not satisfy me, then I will complain to your father and make him give you severe punishment.” He replied, “It doesn’t matter; I cannot fall down from my religion, I should maintain my chastity.” So because Puran did not satisfy her, in the evening Queen Luna complained to the king: she said, “You call your son Puran a very good and devoted person, but look what he has done to me! He has misbehaved with me, he has molested me.” Without finding out what the truth was, the king got angry with Puran and the next day in the court he gave judgment against him: he said that his hands and feet should be cut off and he should be thrown into a well. So, according to his orders, it was done; he did not die but his hands and feet were cut off.

Gorakh Nath, the great yogi, along with his disciples, was going somewhere and on his way passed the well where Puran had been thrown. When his disciples lowered the pail to take some water from the well, the pail got stuck because of Puran and they could not get any water. So they called down, “Who is in the well? Who has taken our pail?” Puran replied, “I am the man! I am here, please take me out!” Now they were afraid; the well was very deep and they thought that maybe some evil spirit or ghost was there. So they called Gorakh Nath and he understood the whole story; he took Puran out from that well, and using his supernatural powers he restored his hands and feet. After that, Puran lived with Gorakh Nath, obeyed his instructions, and became a perfect yogi like him; he also acquired all the supernatural powers. After some time, Puran Bhagat came to Sealkot along with his Master Gorakh Nath. The king had been unhappy every since he had thrown Puran into the well; he did not have any child from his wife Luna, and his first wife had long ago been thrown out because according to the astrologers she had not given birth to a good child. The longing to have a child was very intense in that king. The garden which he had made in the remembrance of Puran was not blooming either; nobody had been taking care of it and all the trees had dried up. When Gorakh Nath and Puran came there, and Puran stepped into that garden, all the trees started blooming and the flowers came back to life, as if Nature was helping him and was happy on his return.

Now Puran’s mother, Queen Ichra, who had been thrown out by the king, had wept so much in the remembrance of her son that she had lost her eyesight. So somebody told her, “Mother Ichra, why don’t you go see the yogi who has come? On his arrival, Puran’s garden has bloomed; and he is such a yogi that anyone who goes to him has all of his wishes and desires fulfilled. It is possible that you will regain your eyesight! But even if you don’t, just listening to his words will give you some peace and comfort.” Now Queen Ichra was longing very much for her son; she did not know that he was alive, she thought he was dead, and she was weeping in her pain. But as soon as she heard the voice of Puran she at once recognized her son, milk started coming from her breasts, and she regained her sight. The love for her son was so much that God Almighty helped her.

In the meantime the king and Queen Luna had tried many different things but they were not able to have a child; and he was dying for a child. So when they heard about the yogi that was fulfilling the desires of the people, they both came to have his darshan, thinking, “Maybe he will give us a blessing and we will have a child”; because he wanted a successor for his kingdom. So when he came there, he asked the yogi Puran for a child. Puran said, “Your majesty, I can see that you once had a son, and you still have a son.” He replied, “I don’t want to talk about that son; he was not my son, because he tried to indulge with his own mother.” Puran said, “No. That is not true, there is some misunderstanding, I know this: God Almighty will become pleased with you if you tell the truth about what happened.”

Now selfishness – self-interest – is a very sweet thing. Once Emperor Akbar asked Birbal, “What is the sweetest thing in this world?” Birbal replied, “Selfishness.” So, because Queen Luna was selfish and wanted to have a child, she gave out the truth. She said, “Your majesty, up until now I have always lied. But now I will tell you the truth, because this yogi says that if I do, God Almighty may give us the blessing of a son. Puran did not try to indulge with me. It was my lust. I was trying to satisfy my lust with him, and since he did not do what I told him to do, I lied and complained to you, and as a result we lost him also. He did not have any fault. If there was anyone at fault, it was me.”

Now when Queen Luna said that, the king got upset and he took a sword to cut off her head. But Puran the devotee said, “No, King, you should not do this. When you gave the judgment against Puran, you did not use your patience either: you did not find out who was at fault and whether Puran was really guilty or not. Now also you are giving this judgment in anger. Don’t do it! Have patience.” Then Puran told him who he was and in that way they all met. So the point of this story is, before we say that anyone is guilty, before we say that anyone is a thief or anything like that, we should first have proof as to whether he is really guilty or not. We should not listen to other people. We should not believe in anyone unless we see with our own eyes.

Dear ones, almost all the difficulties and problems which we have in our homes are because we do not think about things, we do not use patience and understand them. We fight with each other, create conflicts and difficulties with each other, only because we do not understand their causes; we do not pay attention to them. We always make our decisions in anger. You can talk to the doctor and he will also tell you: when you are in a wave of anger, your blood pressure rises up – how can you expect to make a right decision when you are in this condition?

Conflicts between husband and wife are created only because we do not think. Conflicts between father and son happen only because we do not think. When our beloved one leaves this world, we weep, we mourn his death. Why do we do that? Because we do not think about it. If we would think, “Why are we weeping, why are we mourning?” – if we would think that no one is going to live in this world forever, if we would think that we are also going to leave this world one day, we would never mourn anyone's death. All our conflicts and difficulties can be removed only if before doing anything we would think about it.

Once after satsang one dear one stood up and asked Master Sawan Singh, "Master, up until three days ago, I used to have your darshan every day, but now I am not having it. Why is it so?" Master Sawan replied, "You must be having some worry on your mind." He said, "Yes, Master, I worry about my son who has left the body; that bothers me a lot." Master Sawan replied, "Why don't you accept the will of God Almighty? Why worry about your son? You should not worry about anything, because worrying is not less than the funeral pyre. Why don't you accept the will of God and go jolly in that?"

QUESTION: Could you talk about Dhyān and its relationship to Simran and Bhajan?

SANT JI: Unless we give up bad thoughts we cannot develop the habit of having good thoughts. When we pay attention to our day-to-day thinking, we will realize how bad thoughts are being created within us. When we give up those bad thoughts, and with our good thoughts sit at the eye center, which is between and behind the two eyebrows, then the forces which are pulling our soul down from the eye center become weak and with the help of those good thoughts, we start repeating the five holy words sitting at the eye center. In that way we develop good contemplation. Satsangis are good; they are very loving; they do make efforts at doing Bhajan and Simran; but since they do not pay so much attention to their thoughts, they do not progress as much as they should. When they think about and purify their thoughts, it becomes easier for them to go within; unless we have good thoughts we cannot go within. Satsangis do not pay attention to their eating or their outer environment. When they improve their outer life and their thoughts, and go within with good thoughts, it becomes very much easier for them to contemplate and do their meditation.

In order to get a good crop from any land, you have to work hard. First you have to prepare that land, clean it up, put manure in it, etc., and only after you give a good amount of water to that land and take good care of the seed can you get a good crop. In the same way if we want to yield a good crop of Naam, we have to prepare the land of our heart. We have to purify ourselves; only then can we get the juice of Naam; only then can we enjoy the plant of Naam which is planted within us.

QUESTION: I thought it was the other way round: that we did Simran and Bhajan in order to purify our thoughts. Or is it the other way around? That our thoughts must be pure in order to do Simran and Bhajan?

SANT JI: You see, if you want to clean a dirty cloth you will have to put it in detergent. And you will have to put the cloth with the detergent into a washing machine, and only then can you remove the dirt from the cloth. In the same way, if you want to purify yourself, just as you are prepared to do Bhajan and Simran, at the same time you should be prepared to purify your thoughts also.

If you think that you want to eat the fruit first and then plant the tree, that is not possible. If you want to enjoy the fruit, first of all you have to prepare the land, then sow the seed, and then nourish the plant; only after that will you get to enjoy that fruit. In the same way, when we have the yearning and longing to do our Bhajan and Simran, at the same time we should also have the deep yearning and longing and determination to purify ourselves; we should have the determination to prepare our land also. If we are doing all this, we will enjoy our meditation; we will not have any complaints like, “we do not enjoy our meditation,” or, “our mind is not still in meditation,” or, “we feel sleepy in meditation.” If you have prepared yourself for the work of Bhajan and Simran and you are doing meditation along with purifying yourself, you will not have any difficulty.

The purpose of Hazur Maharaj Kirpal’s inventing the diary was that you should both do your meditation and purify and improve yourself.

It is not that difficult. If we do meditation, and if we pay attention to improving ourselves, it will come naturally. Along with our meditation, the good thoughts will come from within by themselves. Patiently you should think how those confusing thoughts bother you. Even sitting here in satsang, when you should not be having such thoughts, still those confusing thoughts are bothering you.

Usually worldly people do not know from where their thoughts come and how they can be bothered by them. But you, the santsangis, know how the bad thoughts can bother you and take you away from the Master. Now you do not make any effort to bring those bad thoughts into you; in the same way, if you have made it a habit of creating only good thoughts, then you will not have to make any effort to bring them. They will come to you by themselves.

Only the weak mind makes many excuses. Only the weak mind says, “how will this happen?” “how is that possible?” and things like that. So don’t let your mind become so weak: you should always give him the taste of Simran, always keep him employed in doing Simran, and make the habit of creating good thoughts; and then they will come by themselves.

QUESTION: Can you tell us what the relationship is between the Master and the Lords of the five different planes?

SANT JI: Master loves them all, and the souls who go with the Master are not stopped by the Lords of the five planes: They respect those souls, They welcome those souls, and the Master has a deep connection with those Lords. And They all respect and appreciate the Master because He is the incarnation of Sat Purush.

Master is the Power within Whom the limitless Shabd, the non-stop recitation of the Shabd, is manifested in this physical world. In fact, He is the Shabd incarnate. Master comes into this world to free His gypsy child, the soul, who is trapped in mind and maya. He comes into this world only to free his child, soul, from the trap of maya.

QUESTION: It's been a long time since we heard you sing a bhajan . . .

SANT JI: I am sorry that I cannot sing. The last time I sang was in New York and there also I could not sing very well. In fact I used to sing only in front of my beloved Master. I miss singing, but now my voice is such that I cannot sing a complete bhajan.

Many people in your country, America, also appreciated my singing. Some dear ones told me that many people from India go to States for singing and they have the concerts and things like that. But they sing in such a way that their voice gets stuck either in their throat or it seems as if they are singing through their nose. But they said that my voice was such that they could feel that it was coming straight from the heart. Now I like hearing you sing the bhajans.

QUESTION: Master, will you tell us the story of how you stole a bus to go have your Master Kirpal's blessings?

SANT JI: We don't have enough time to tell you the whole story, but that was a very true story. You know that if someone is yearning for the darshan of the Master, he cannot get satisfied unless he has it; and he who has this pain of separation, who has the yearning to have the darshan of the Master, cannot resist, and he will do every possible thing to have His darshan. He was a very powerful Master. His love was such that He used to trap the souls in His love. It was all His grace that He made me sit here in the underground room. If He had not done that with me, I would have done many things like stealing the bus and going to have His darshan. Because His love was such that I had the habit of seeing Him and I could not live without His darshan. Once when He told me to explain the theory to the people about initiation, I told Him, "Master, why don't You give them the open darshan? Why don't You show them What You really are? You can explain the theory to other people, but to these people You should show Your Real Form." Master smiled and He said, "Don't make them tear my clothes. Do what I am telling you to do." His love was so powerful; He was great; and if He had not made me sit in the underground room I might have done many other things like that.

Dear ones, He was the Power Who controlled this soul. Right from my childhood I always had this innocence. When I met my Master I did not have any wisdom, I did not use any wisdom: I was like an innocent child forty days old before Him. And even now I have the same attitude: even for the sangat I am as innocent as a child forty days old. Yesterday Pappu was showing me some pictures of the dear ones which Doris and Greg have brought from Texas. It was like an invitation for me to go to Texas. Before that I did not plan to go to Texas on my tour. But the pictures were such that I had to accept that invitation; and I told Pappu, "These people have got this innocent fakir, and if he doesn't do what they want him to do then they show pictures like this and in that way they trap him in their love."

1987 September: On Parents and Children

This darshan session for Westerners was held on July 9, 1987, in Bangalore, India.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, could you explain how we harm others through our attachments?

SANT JI: It is a very interesting thing, and worth understanding. Usually only those who are the slaves of the mind fall into this trap and get attached to people, or make other people attached to them, only to fulfill their own interests, and they are attached, or make other people attached to them, as long as their purpose is not served. When their interest is fulfilled then they reject that person. Usually innocent or ignorant people fall into this trap. Sometimes people get attached to others because of their own motives, and interests, but instead of making other people work, they start working for them and instead of deceiving others they fall into deception.

Saints always warn us against getting attached to every place. They always say, "Don't stretch out your arms to everyone you meet, don't get attached to everyone, because you do not know what kind of people are there. It is possible that on the other side you may find selfish people.” Saints do not attach disciples to their body. They attach the disciple to the Shabd, and if we do the meditation of Shabd Naam, if we keep ourselves connected with the Shabd Naam, then we can easily prevent ourselves from falling into the trap of deception. By doing the meditation of Shabd Naam such an intellect is created within us which can easily discriminate between the true and the false.

QUESTION: Master, when you say that people who just see the Master one time and people who have not meditated through Master’s Grace are liberated when they leave the body, what exactly does that mean? Do they ever have to come back and get another body?

SANT JI: Dear ones, many times in the satsangs I have answered this. Often I have said that all the souls who come in contact with the Master are protected by Him. He protects all of them; He takes care of the soul of all of those who come in His contact. Those who have faith in the Master, and those who do a little bit of meditation, their soul is also protected by the Master. Now it all depends on the Master: He makes the decision. Only He knows which soul He has to keep in the higher planes and make that soul meditate, and then take him to his Real Home; or, if there are so many desires of that soul which she wants to fulfill, it is up to the Master to make the decision whether He wants to send her back into the world again and give her another body. This is a decision which He makes at that time and this is such a decision which we cannot change or challenge; only the Master knows how He has to liberate the souls. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that the Perfect Masters always try to prevent Their souls from being sent into this world again; because this is a very confusing world, full of difficulties, and when the souls come back into this world they spread the snare of the karmas so much that they get involved in them and become deluded.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that every satsangi should work with a confidence that he will not come back into this suffering world again, he will not come into this prison of the Negative Power again. He should always have faith and confidence that this is his last time and he will be liberated from the suffering world. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that if a prisoner, after serving his term, before leaving the prison tells the superintendent, “Save my place, I’m coming back again” – just imagine, what is the fault of the superintendent? He served his term, and he should have been confident that he would never come back.

Not even worldly parents, who have been given the role of looking after children, wish that their children should be in any kind of difficulty. They do not wish to see their children suffering; they always think of making things better for their children. You can imagine the condition of the Master, Who has a lot more love than thousands of parents’ love put together. Do you think that He will want His children to come back into this suffering world again? Do you think that He will want that His children should do those things which will bring them back into this world? Master never wants His disciples, His children, to come back into the suffering world. He never wants His children to do those things which will bring them back into this world. He always wants that, now that His children have come into this world, after becoming perfect they may go back to their Real Home. That is why Masters always have this faith and confidence and desire: that in their lifetime – because He connects His children with the Shabd Naam with so much faith in them – He wishes that in His lifetime only, His children should become perfect and should have faith that this is their last time and they will never come back into this world again. Saints and Satgurus have a lot of faith and trust in the souls they initiate, and They come into this world with a lot of faith in God Almighty; because of that, when they put souls in the ship of Shabd Naam, They are aware of the waves which come in the way of crossing this ocean of the world, They are aware of all the ups and downs, and They are confident that They will be able to take the ship of the disciples across. And having a lot of faith and confidence in their Master, They do take it across. They sail that ship with faith in the Master because They are aware of the waves and They know that They can do it. But this is our mistake, our foolishness: that we become lazy. When the Masters come in this world they start the satsang. Why do they start the satsang? Because only through the satsang can They tell us about our faults; only through the satsang can They improve our conditions; and only through the satsang can They create in us the desire of going back to our Real Home from this world. But when we become lazy and do certain things which not only spoil our spiritual life but our worldly life too, then it is our foolishness: because the Masters have given us the Naam initiation with a lot of faith and trust in us and They want us to become better.

QUESTION: Children that are born onto the Path, especially children that live in ashrams, live very sheltered lives and as they get older it seems there's a lot of curiosity about the world. What's the best way to help children be prepared as they get older and ready to go into the world?

SANT JI: First of all I would like to tell you about my own life. Ever since I gained awareness in my childhood, I spent my time sitting underground doing some sort of devotion to the Almighty Lord. Even when I was in the Army I was not in the habit of socializing with people. I would not go to watch movies, I would not go to places where crowds might be, I did not go to market places. I would just go out, do my work and come back to my barrack. I did not socialize with people. People used to taunt me and laugh at me and say, "Why have you come into this world when you don't know anything about it?"

Then when I got initiation into the first two words by Baba Bishan Das I did that meditation sitting in an underground room for eighteen years and every morning, since I had to walk past a few houses in order to get to that underground room, people would see me going to do the meditation and they would laugh at me and say, "Why have you come into this world when you don't have any knowledge of this world?" I would just keep quiet and go and do my work. Sometimes I would invite them to talk to me; I would say, "Come to me, let us talk, let me see how much more you know about the world than I do." They would not have any answer.

So for eighteen years I heard those taunts and I heard what people had to say about me and they always said that I did not have any knowledge of the world because I was not going out in the world, I was just doing my work. But when the time came you know that I was sent out into the world and I went to so many places, I met so many people, and in this way I came to know about the world. There are many people, who travel so much just to get more knowledge about the world, but what do they get except difficulties and problems? They get nothing else.

In the same way, as long as children live in the shelter of their parents they get good guidance and teachings and do not fall prey to any difficulties of this world. But when, to fulfill their curiosity, to know more about the world, they leave the shelter and guidance of their parents and go out into the world, you know what happens: how many things there are which confuse them, how many times they fall into difficulties and sometimes when they have ruined their life they even come across people who tell them, “Your parents did not give you good guidance or a good education and that is why your condition is like this.” So I would say that it is not necessary to leave your parents, it is not necessary to leave the sheltered environment, just to fulfill your curiosity about the world. You can get all the knowledge about the world just sitting in your home because there are so many means of communication – radio, television, newspapers, and things like that. By reading newspapers you can get the knowledge of the world, you can know what’s happening where.

Pappu is a learned man, he has traveled very widely, and he lives in a big city like Delhi, so he knows more about the world. When we were going on the first tour and we boarded the plane for the first time, Pappu was telling me how we have to fasten our seatbelt and how we have to keep our body. When he was telling me that, he was under the impression that this was the first time that I was flying and that I did not know anything about all this so that was why he was telling me. When he told me all that I said, “Pappu, it looks as if you are afraid,” because that was his first time flying; and he confessed, “Yes, I am afraid.” I told him, “This is not the first time that I have flown. When I was in the Army I have even dived out of moving airplanes using parachutes, and I have flown many times.” Afterwards when we went on the tour many people asked me, “How was the flying? Was that the first time you had flown, or seen the airplane?” I said, “Yes, I’ve seen airplanes before and I have flown in them too, this is not the first time.” So I mean to say that the more contacts, the more knowledge we get of the world, the more difficulties we invite, the more problems we create. I get many letters from children like you, many children come to see me in the interviews also; and when they tell me about the difficulties they are in, or the difficulties which are created by their parents, then I feel very sorry for them; because they are my children I have sympathy for them. So I mean to say that the more contacts, the more dealings we have in the world, the more complicated is the life we make for ourselves, and we fall into more problems. We do not need to become so extroverted just to know the world because if our mind is well, we can know everything of the world; but when we become too extroverted in the world, then we have such questions, with a disturbed mind, we have all these questions like you have asked.

QUESTION: When you sit a baby down and show him a picture of Master and he starts laughing and smiling at the picture, what does that mean?

SANT JI: Children are innocent souls and they get affected very easily. When they see the picture of the Master they become very happy; the child expresses its happiness only by laughing and smiling.

Children who are of three or four years of age and whose parents always tell them about the Master and the Path get themselves connected with the Master very easily, and get many messages and experiences from the Master; and sometimes the parents ask them about the experiences and when that child tells them, he loses all that he has gained.

Many times parents receive messages through the children, and many times they also benefit a lot from the children.

I'll tell you one incident of my lifetime. In Sri Ganga Nagar there was a lady civil surgeon who was an initiate of Master Sawan Singh Ji. She was very well respected there because she was very sympathetic to all the patients who would come to her for treatment; she was very popular. One married couple came to her for getting an abortion and since it is against the teachings of the Path, and since that lady surgeon had a lot of sympathy for all the people because she was an initiate, she advised them not to have it. She said, "If you had taken some measures before the baby was conceived then it would have been all right; but now that your wife is already pregnant you should not do this thing, because it is like a crime." But they insisted on getting their abortion. Since I also knew that couple and I knew that lady doctor, because I used to visit them often, she requested me to somehow advise them, and convince them that they should not do that serious thing because it is neither healthy nor good.

So I tried my best to advise them. I suggested many things to them but they were not willing to accept any of my advice and they wanted to get that abortion done so finally I had to give this offer. I said, "Whether it is a boy or a girl, when the baby is born you should give it to me and I'll take care of that baby; if you are afraid of the expense, don't worry; I'll take care of that too." In India usually people don't like to have daughters because when your daughter gets married you have to spend a lot of money. In many cases one has to spend the earnings of his lifetime just to get one daughter married, so people are afraid and don't like to take the responsibility of raising a daughter. So when I told them, "Whether it is a girl or a boy I will look after that child," then they agreed.

When that baby was born, he was a boy and he was very beautiful and very loving so I gave him the name Gopi; because, I said, the gopis of Lord Krishna were beautiful and he was also beautiful; so I gave him the name Gopi and I took care of him. He was very loving, very beautiful and he was very devoted to Master Kirpal. He used to live with me and we both used to sleep on the terrace and the latrine was downstairs. Since he was very young and small it was difficult for him to go down during the nighttime to use the latrine; so whenever he had to pee he would have that difficulty. Once Master Kirpal gave him darshan and graciously told him, "Gopi, you don't have to go downstairs to use the latrine. You can pee right here in the rainwater drain pipe" – which was on the terrace not far from where we used to sleep, and it was near the latrine which we had made and reserved for Master Kirpal. And so he used to do that. When I asked him why he was doing that, he told me, "Master has given me orders and I can do that." I said, "Well, if Master has told you to do that you can do it, and I don't have any objection."

Master Kirpal did not have any fixed time or program to come to see me. Whenever He would feel like coming He would come, graciously He would come and give me His darshan. One day when Master Kirpal had come, but we did not know that He was coming so we did not do any cleaning or anything, He was going to use His latrine when He smelled that bad smell on the terrace and He asked me, "What kind of smell is this? Who is making this place dirty?" I said, "This place is made dirty by Your disciple, Your child whom You ordered from within." Master Kirpal laughed and was very pleased with that boy, and always whenever He would come He would give him a lot of darshan; and Gopi would tell us many things about the Master, many experiences which he had with the Master. Master became so pleased with him, He gave him parshad and He also told me, “He is a very beautiful and loving boy, a very good soul, but unfortunately he does not have a long life to live on this earthly plane; he will hardly live up to twenty-five years and after that he will die.” When He told me that I became very sad because he was a very loving boy, very beautiful boy, very devoted.

When he was eight years old, his parents came to me and said they wanted their son back because they did not have any other child as beautiful and as loving as him in their family. I resisted; I told them, “You do not have any right to take this boy back because you have already given him to me,” but still they wanted him back. I even called their relatives to see that justice was done, but still they did not listen to anyone and they took that boy. So I had to tell them, “You are taking this boy, but you will repent in the end because my Master has told me that he does not have a long life to live. Whatever he is doing here with me is good for him and for his soul and you should leave him with me.” But they did not believe that and they took the boy away.

About a year ago that boy left the body. He spilled some petrol on his body and caught fire, and after that he became sick for a month and was in the hospital. While he was in the hospital he did not have any pain. Whenever I went to see him he regretted that his parents had not done justly with me, and he blamed himself because he left me even though he was supposed to be with me. I lovingly told him, “Dear son it was not your fault, it was your parents’ fault that they took you away from me; but now it is okay.” Finally in the hospital of Bikhaner he left the body after remaining in the hospital for a year.

So the point of this story is the kind of souls that children have, and if they are inclined towards the devotion of God, how much grace of the Master they can get, and that they can give us messages. They can get themselves connected with the Almighty Lord very easily because we the grownup people have our attention so much spread in this world it is difficult for us to concentrate but since the children are innocent souls and their attention is not spread so much into this world it becomes very easy for them to receive the grace of the Master.

I would say that our Master was so gracious that He would even direct the children where to go to use the latrine, where to go and pee. How much more grace can a Master shower on the children? Mr. and Mrs. Oberoi also always loved Gopi because Master Kirpal Singh used to love that boy and he used to get a lot of love and affection from us. Afterwards when that accident happened and he was in the hospital he always told his family that they did not do the right thing and afterwards he told them, “You should buy a special jeep and go to the satsang every month. You should not miss the satsang even once.” He did not feel any pain and he left the body peacefully. Fifteen years ago when he was taken away by his family there was some tension between me and the family and they had stopped coming to satsang; but since he left the body that family has started coming to satsang once again. Every month they come to the satsang; they are doing what Gopi told them to do.

I have told you the story of this boy just to explain to you how the life of a child can be changed, how one can make the life of a child. We can not only change the spiritual life of a child, but if we are good and if we give them good teachings and a good education we can even make their worldly life good. But we can make the life of the children only if we have made our lives good. Master Sawan Singh used to say, “It is not possible for parents to make the lives of the children good if their own lives are not good.” So first of all, if we want to make our children good we have to make our lives good.

In this context Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell a story about a prince and princess who fell in love with each other and wanted to get married. But in those days in India people used to believe in high and low castes, and because the castes of the prince and princess were not equal their parents would not agree to their marriage. But since they loved each other very much they thought, “It doesn’t matter if our parents don’t agree to our marriage; we should leave them and run away from this place and we can get married and we can live easily, leaving our families.” So one day they made the plans to meet in the night time and the princess brought a camel in order to run away. So as they ran away they came to one small river and the prince had the reins of the camel in his hand; and since that camel belonged to the princess who knew the habits of that camel she said, “Pull the rein tightly. Otherwise she will sit in the water,” and at once she added, “Her mother also used to do the same thing.” Now when the prince heard that, that the camel has the same habit as her mother, a thought came in his mind, “When animals get the effect of the habits of the parents, what about the children of human beings? Whatever the parents do, the children will also do the same thing.” And then he thought, “Today I am taking this princess without the permission of my family and we will be getting married without doing the social rites and rituals and then we will have children. If in the future my children, my daughter, will run away with someone like I am running away with this girl, then how will I feel? It is not a good thing; people will blame me, they will also taunt me; so it is not a good thing for me to do this. Whatever I am doing it is wrong and I should not do it.”

So at once he changed his mind, and he said, “Let us go back because I have forgotten something very important which we should take and we should not worry about the time because the night is very long and we can still get away before morning.” The princess did not have any idea that the prince had changed his mind, but when they came back to the palace the prince said, “Look here, we were going to make a very big mistake. We were going to run away and do something which was against the wishes of our families, and our children would have also done the same thing – because whatever we have done, our children will also do – and it is not good for us. You go to your home and I will go to my home.” So the point is that when even the animals get the effect of the habits of their parents, human children also get the same thing. Whatever we do our children also do the same thing, so if we want our children to become good, it is very important for us to develop good habits and do good things – if we want our children to follow in our footsteps.

1987 October: On Faith In The Master

This talk was given in response to a question after a morning meditation session, on January 11, 1978, at Village 17RB, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: On a question regarding faith in the Master. . . .

SANT JI: Many times regarding this I have told a story about Guru Gobind Singh and His disciple, Bhai Bella. Once Bhai Bella came to Guru Gobind Singh and wanted to serve Him. So Master asked him, “Do you know any reading or writing; are you a learned man?” He said, “No Master, I am an illiterate man; I don’t know anything about reading or writing.” Again Master asked him, ‘Do you know how to fight on the battlefield? Do you know how to use a bow and arrow?’ He replied, “No Master, I don’t know this thing either.” Master said, “Ok, what can you do?” He replied, “I am a farmer and I can take good care of the horses. Please give me the seva of taking care of the horses.” So Guru Gobind Singh gave him the seva of taking care of the horses. Moreover, He told him, “Daily I will give you one sentence to learn. You should go on repeating that sentence, and in that way you will learn reading also.” So Bhai Bella started taking care of the horses, and daily he would go to Guru Gobind Singh, and get one sentence which he would go on repeating all day long.

In those days there was a lot of unrest in the country and Guru Gobind Singh had to fight against the tyranny. So Guru Gobind Singh was getting ready to go to the battlefield, and Bhai Bella thought, “Guru Gobind Singh is going to fight and if I do not go earlier to get the sentence from the Master, He will go away and I will be left without any sentence for the day.” So he went to Guru Gobind Singh and asked Him to give him the sentence. At that time the Master was just climbing on His horse to go. So looking at the innocence of Bhai Bella, He smiled and said, “O Bhai Bella, don’t you know what I am doing, and what is this time?” Then He rode away. Bhai Bella thought, “Master has not said this thing only to make a joke of me. There is some secret behind it, and maybe this is the sentence which Master wants me to repeat.” After saying those words, Guru Gobind Singh left and Bhai Bella thought, “This was the sentence of the day.” So he went on repeating the same thing: “O Bhai Bella, don’t you know what I am doing, and what is this time?”

Looking at Bhai Bella, the other intellectual people who were in the court of Guru Gobind Singh started laughing at him. They said, “Guru Gobind Singh told him this sentence because at that time He was going to the battlefield, and He just laughed at him. But this foolish man took this as the sentence given by the Master for repeating, and he is doing that. He is really an ignorant, foolish man.” And they laughed at him. But Bhai Bella was not worried about them because whatever Master told him, he would take that as his commandment, and he would just go on repeating it while remembering his Master. When Guru Gobind Singh returned home in the evening, the intellectual people, who were laughing at Bhai Bella’s ignorance, came to Guru Gobind Singh and asked Him, “Did you give any sentence to Bhai Bella for repeating?” Guru Gobind Singh replied, “No, I didn’t give any sentence to him.” But they said, “Bhai Bella had been repeating these words since the morning, “O Bhai Bella, don’t you know what I am doing, and what is this time?”

So Guru Gobind Singh said, “Yes, that is true. Those who don’t notice what the time is and who just go on obeying the Master, only they can succeed on this Path.” And Guru Gobind Singh was so pleased with Bhai Bella that, giving him His attention, He took his soul right up. When the other people saw that Bhai Bella was enjoying the inner planes – his soul had gone up – and Master was giving him very good experiences, they started complaining to the Master. They told Him, “There is no justice in your court, because Bhai Bella came to you only a few days ago, and you are so pleased with him that you have taken his soul up. We have been here for many years, but you have never taken our souls up; you have never showered such grace on us. That means you are not just. You don't look upon everybody with the same eye."

Guru Gobind Singh said, "Don't get upset with me. I will reply to this question also." To have faith in the Master and to obey Him is more important than only to listen to His words. In order to make them understand that only listening to the Master is not enough, He told them to bring some hemp and make a drink out of it. After the drink was made Guru Gobind Singh told some people to rinse their mouth with that drink but not to swallow it. And some other people were told to swallow that drink. Those who had rinsed their mouth with the drink didn't get any intoxication. When the Master asked if they were intoxicated, they replied, "How can we get intoxication when we did not swallow it?" But when the other people who had swallowed the drink were asked, they said, "Master, don't ask us anything about the world, because now we are in deep intoxication of the hemp."

Then Guru Gobind Singh told them, "This is the answer to your question. Those who take the words of the Master deep in their hearts and, having full faith in Him, meditate and obey His commandments, only they get the intoxication of the Naam, just as these people who have swallowed the hemp are getting the intoxication of the hemp. But the ones who only listen to the Master with their right ear, and take out the words either from their mouth or from their left ear, and do not mold their lives according to the commandments of the Master, do not get any intoxication of the Naam, even if they come and live near the Master for thousands of years. If they do not practice what the Master tells them, they cannot get any benefit.

"The other thing is to have faith in the Master. Bhai Bella had faith in me. Whatever I told him, whether it was just to make a joke or it was his sentence, he took all my words as a lesson, and he practiced them throughout the day. So until you have faith in the Master you cannot succeed. Even if you meditate for hundreds of years, you cannot succeed if you do not have complete faith in, and devotion for, the Master.

"So that's why you should have faith in the Master, because faith in the Master brings the grace from Him. When we work hard to keep our faith in the Master, and remain devoted to Him, the grace of the Master will come to us in abundance. In that way we can succeed; and we can achieve our goal very easily. In my childhood, when I was very young, I always had faith in my parents. I thought that they were my only protectors and they would protect me in every field of life. I did not know then that God is the only protector, and parents and everybody are going to die one day.

That's why I had full faith in them. But at the age of nine years old, I saw someone's parents dying, and the thought came into my mind, "When this boy's parents are dying, that means that my parents will also die, so how can I think that they are my protectors, because they will die before me." My real parents who gave me birth – my real mother and father – left the body as soon as I was born. I understood the other parents who raised me, as my mother and father. They brought me up as their own son. Even though my real parents had already died, this thought did not come to me earlier, because I was not conscious of them. But when I saw somebody else's parents dying, I thought, "These parents are also unreal because they are also going to die, and I can't count on them as my real protectors." At that time I was playing with some children, and I don't know where this thought came from, of doing something very special which transformed my life. I started making heaps of sand while I was playing with the children. I made heaps, and I started counting them. I made the heaps for the members of my family: my relatives, my brothers, sisters, and my father. I don't know how it happened but I made one more heap, but I didn't know whose it was. After that I started smashing the sand heaps one by one, saying, "This is my sister and she is going to die; this is another sister, she will also die; this is my brother, this is my father, this is my mother; they all are going to die." In that way, counting all the relatives, I smashed all the heaps. But in the end one heap remained. And I thought that this is that Almighty God, and I bowed down to the heap, and I thought, "He is my only protector." So right from my childhood I had faith in God, that He would save me from death.

My father was watching all these doings. He called and asked me, "Why did you make all these sand heaps, and after that smash them all except one. And what were you doing in front of that leftover heap?" So I told him, "I was counting on you as my protector, but when I saw the other boy's parents dying I understood that you will also die, and in that way you cannot be my protector. And then I thought deeply about my sisters and brothers and all the relatives and all our community and all the people in the world, but they will also die one day as you will. So I made the heaps, I counted them; and then I smashed them. Because I knew that they will die one day. But the last heap was of God, and you know that God is never going to die. He is my protector, and He will save me from death." My father was very surprised and he told me, "Dear son, you are very young to think about things like that. Don't worry, I will give you everything you will need. I will even arrange your marriage and you will have a very beautiful wife." He started saying things like that to me. So I asked him, "Father, tell me, will that wife not die; is she going to live forever; can she save me from death?" He said, "No, she is also going to die; how could she save you from death?" So I said, "I don't want to marry and now I know that only God can save me from death."

This was only because of the faith I had in God: that He was my only protector and definitely He would quench my thirst, and He would save me from death. I started searching for God and godly men, and in the end when I met Master Kirpal, I asked Him the same question, "Can You save me from death?" He said, "Yes, I can save you from death." And after that, I obeyed whatever commandments He gave me, and molded my life according to His instructions. When He told me how to solve the mystery of life and death, I did the meditation and I was able to succeed in that. This was only because of the faith I had in Him. Whatever He told me to do, I did that; and now whatever you see is all because of His grace and the faith I had in Him. In that way, if we all have the same kind of faith in our Master – that He is our only savior and protector – and, if having faith in Him we go on doing the meditation, no matter what happens to us in the worldly life, definitely the day will come when we will succeed in solving this mystery of life and death.

1987 October: Meditation is the Only Means of Receiving Grace

This question and answer session was given in Bangalore, July 8, 1987.

QUESTION: Beloved Master, I want to tell you something. I was sitting close to the TV at the video satsang, looking at You with very much love, and suddenly I became aware of a kind of telepathic message from Master, with these words, “I want you to come to Bangalore in July.” And in the same way, without thinking, I answered, “But it is very expensive for me to travel at this busy season.” And the voice answered very quickly, “For what am I leaving you the work and the money?” It was all. But it happened in a second, very, very fast, and the voice was using a word for money, which I almost never use. Of course, all that was in my language. After the satsang, I thought that I would do all possible to come, and so now I am here, and I know that nothing happens without Master’s wish, but I would like to know, what You would say about that message, and if it is okay to tell this to the satsangis. I am very, very thankful for the grace You have showered on me to come here.

SANT JI: First of all I would like to apologize for not being able to come to attend the satsang yesterday because of my health. You know that the Masters love the sangat more than their own selves, and since I was not able to come and serve you yesterday, I am sorry for that. The experience which we get is for our own selves only. The directions, or the hints, or the messages, which we get from the Masters is also for us only. It is not a good thing to talk with other dear ones about one’s experience or messages, because that will not help them. Everyone has his own faith. Everyone has his own way of understanding things. That is why, if we go on telling our messages or experiences to other people, it will not do any good for them. When a student pays all his attention to his studies, the teacher also pays a little extra attention to that student, and he gives him more education.

In the same way the Master with whom you have been connected, is nowhere outside; He is within you. And sometimes when your mind becomes quiet and gets connected with the Master, who is sitting within you, then you get such experiences. Once, the satsang was happening like this, and a girl stood up and told Master Sawan Singh, “Master, whatever experiences I was getting in the meditation, that has all been lost. That all has gone away from me because I made the mistake of telling my experiences to somebody else.” Master Sawan Singh Ji said, “Dear daughter, if you show a mirror to a person who has a very bad face, what will he do? He will break the mirror because he is not ready to accept what he looks like. In the same way, if you tell your good experiences to those who do not deserve that, who are not worthy of that, what will they do? They will envy you. They will say, ‘Why is he doing so much meditation,’ or, ‘Why is he getting so much grace from the Master?’ Then their jealousy, their envy will affect you, and your experiences will stop.” You know that if you have valuable things like rubies, diamonds or jewels, and if you go on exhibiting them to the people, it is possible that somebody may come to you and steal all your valuable things. Do you think that Naam is not as precious as the jewels and other valuable things, that you should go on throwing it around by telling people? Whenever you get such grace from the Master, you should not exhibit that to the people. You should not tell the other people about it.

It has been my experience also, that when the dear ones come here, they do meditation, they get a lot of experiences, but when they go back to their homes, they talk about those experiences with other people, and as a result, they lose them. Then they write and tell me that they have lost what they had gained by coming here. And you can imagine whose fault that is. Is it my fault, or the fault of the dear ones?

The other thing: about talking in your language. In the early days an article was published in Sant Bani Magazine about coming to India. In that, I said, “For a Perfect Saint, it is not difficult to talk in the language of the dear ones.” Many people say that they have heard Master speaking in their language, and I get many letters from dear ones, in which they write that they have heard me speaking in Spanish or English. Also in that message, I had said, “In the place where the Shabd has to talk with the disciple no translator is needed, because the Shabd talks to the disciple in the language which the disciple understands.” It is not difficult for the Perfect Masters to talk in the language of the disciple, but when They come in this world, They live like innocent beings, and They do not exhibit Their qualities. It is not any miracle or anything like that. It is just the grace of Hazur Kirpal.

The grace of the Master is always flowing towards the disciple at all times. There is not even one moment when the grace of the Master is not flowing towards the disciple. But the question is about our receptivity; it depends upon how much we are ready to receive His grace. As far as He is concerned, He is always showering His grace on us. Master Kirpal Singh Ji went on showering grace for twenty-five years, but it depends on how much we were ready, and how big our vessel was, to receive His grace. Master always showers grace on us, but we are not receptive sometimes. That is why we feel that He is not showering grace on us, and that the grace of the Master is not always coming to us.

I have always said that meditation is the only means of receiving grace from the Master. On such occasions when our mind is quiet, and we feel gratitude and love for the Master, we should sit for meditation and take advantage of that grace; we should receive the Master’s grace. But unfortunately the dear ones do not take advantage of the grace of the Master when such things happen.

QUESTION: Master, how do you break an addiction to either food, alcohol, or a drug, when it has taken over a person so much that one feels helpless, even in the face of Simran, and remembrance of the Master, and you cry out for help but you feel helpless?

SANT JI: Those who have an addiction, those who have become the slaves of their mind, and those who have surrendered to their mind, only they are addicted to things. But those who have pity on their own selves and have love for the Master, they can get rid of their addiction, because no addiction, no bad thing comes to you by itself; it is you who go to them. There was an initiate of Master Sawan Singh Ji, who used to drink alcohol. Once he told Master Sawan Singh, “Master, I cannot leave this addiction of alcohol because it does not leave me.” Master Sawan Singh Ji laughed and said, “Well dear one, tell me, does the alcohol not leave you, or do you not want to leave the alcohol?” Master Sawan Singh said, “You see that the alcohol does not come to you by itself; it does not say, ‘You come and drink me.’ It is you who always go there; you go and buy the alcohol, and then you yourself drink it. Then how can you say that this alcohol does not leave you? So it is you who have to leave this addiction.” Master Sawan Singh Ji said, “Those who are addicted to alcohol, whenever they remember alcohol, only then do they get the desire to buy it and drink it.” So if you want to leave any kind of addiction, just don’t remember that thing, don’t think about it. Then it will not be difficult for you to give it up.

In the same way, when Babar, the Mogul emperor, came to India, he was in the habit of drinking the hemp. In those days people believed that fakirs, saints, and so-called holy people, were addicted to some kind of intoxicants. And they believed that they always sat deep in meditation only because of using those intoxicants. This was the belief at that time. Usually, in order to encourage the spread of drugs, the people who use them spread such rumors that the saintly people are also addicted to the drugs. But that is not true. Babar had imprisoned certain people including Guru Nanak, at a place called Amnabar. They were making all those people grind flour in a mill. Then one of his people came and told Babar, “Your majesty, you have imprisoned one Perfect Saint along with the other people. Everybody else is grinding by themselves, but there is one mill which is moving by itself, and that Sadhu, that perfect Fakir, is sitting deep in meditation with his eyes closed, and he is very much intoxicated.” Then Babar realized his mistake, and he went there.

When he saw Guru Nanak Dev Ji in deep intoxication, in deep meditation, he said, “Master forgive me.” Along with him he had taken a cup of the hemp drink, thinking that it would give more intoxication to Guru Nanak. He offered that drink to Guru Nanak, and told him, “Master, drink this, because this will give you more intoxication.” Guru Nanak Sahib smiled and said, “Look here Babar, I am not addicted to this hemp drink. I have the intoxication of the Naam. I have drunk the nectar of Naam. The intoxication from this hemp drink will last only for one or two hours, but the intoxication of Naam will last forever.”

The other part of the question says that even in the face of Simran and remembrance of the Master, one cannot leave the addiction. Excuse me for using these strict words, but I will say that those who say this, are speaking nonsense and nothing else. Those people who say this do not have any knowledge of the importance of Simran. Simran gives you so much intoxication, Simran gives you so much belief, that if you are doing the Simran sincerely and wholeheartedly, then you will not feel addicted; then you will not feel the need of doing any other addiction.

When disciples say, “We cannot give up this addiction even by doing the Simran” – they do not try. They do not try enough to give up the addiction, and they do not do the Simran sincerely. Those who do not have any love for their health, who do not have any love for their brains, only they say this; and they are in a great deception. They even deceive other people; and those who hear that even by doing Simran we cannot give up addictions are also in a deep illusion. They do not have any understanding, any idea, how powerful the Simran is. You people have this Simran of the five words given to you by the perfect Master, behind which the meditation, hard work, and sacrifice of the Master is working. The Simran which you have received is very high and very powerful.

This is an incident from the time when I had only the Simran of the first two words from Baba Bishan Das. You may remember that Sunder Das, who was mentioned in Mr. Oberoi's book⁷ also, used to live with me, and we both used to meditate a lot. There was another person who used to come to see us every night. One day I was talking with Sunder Das – very loving talks about the Masters, about the Path – and both of us were very much intoxicated in the love of God. We were talking as if we were drunk. When that person came and heard us talking, he thought that maybe we had taken something to make us intoxicated, so he just sat there. Because we were talking about God in such a way which gave him the impression that we were not in our senses. So he sat there expecting us to come back to our normal state so that he could talk to us. He sat there for an hour or maybe more, but when he did not see any change in us he left. He looked under the beds and every place trying to see if there were any empty bottles of wine, but he did not find anything, so he went back to his home. Next morning he came and apologized. He said, “Last night I came and I thought that both of you were drunk, and I had terrible thoughts for you. Please forgive me for this.”

⁷ Support for the Shaken Sangat

So you can see that just by doing the Simran of those two words, there was so much intoxication, that the other person felt that we were intoxicated. And you have the Simran of five words, so just imagine how much more intoxication you can get if you do the Simran sincerely. I was an eye-witness to that incident when Sunder Das burned his leg while sitting in meditation. He sat in meditation; he was doing the Simran; and he was so much intoxicated by doing Simran that he did not even remember his body. Even though his leg fell in the fire and burned, still he was not aware of it. When he came out from that meditation his words were, “Today I have received much more intoxication, much more interest, in meditation than I have ever received so far.” So this is the meaning of doing the Simran. Dear ones, if you do the Simran sincerely, with all your heart, and without remaining aware of your body and other things, then you will see how much intoxication you get. And when you are doing such Simran, then there is no question of any addiction coming and bothering you. Regarding the people who say that they do the Simran and they also use intoxicants, Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Their condition is like this: they say to other people, ‘I have not indulged with my companion, nor have I seen him any time, but still I call myself married.’”

Everyone should give up the bad habits, but an addiction is broken only if you want to break it, and only if you break it. Satsangis need good health, good bodies, because if your health is good then you will be able to sit for a longer time in meditation, and you will be able to concentrate better. A satsangi should understand the importance of the Naam, the importance of meditation. He should try his best to go within, and connect himself with the Shabd Naam as much as possible.

QUESTION: Could Sant Ji speak about Baba Somanath.

SANT JI: Whatever I know about Baba Somanath Ji, I have said that earlier also. I do not know more about Him outwardly.

The dear ones who want to know the Shabd Form of Baba Somanath – what was His relation with Baba Sawan Singh and Master Kirpal Singh Ji – should go within, because there is something which you can know only after going in the within.

I know only this, that if those great souls had not come in this world, if they had not showered grace on us, we would not have gotten together here, and we would not have been able to do the devotion.

QUESTION: Why is it that some souls get no opportunity to come near the Master?

SANT JI: In Kabir’s Anurag Sagar the difference between the Negative and the Positive powers and their functions is written. You should read that book and you will understand more. For every soul the time is determined when that soul has to come to the Master, and when that soul has to get the liberation. Poverty, richness, sickness or good health, name and fame – all these things occur in our life when the fixed time for them comes. In the same way, the soul's meeting with the Perfect Master, and her time for going back to the real home is also predetermined; and it happens on that fixed time. Just as day and night happen without anybody doing anything, and they happen at the exact time, in the same way, the souls come to the Master and get liberation in their time. Many times I have told you the story of Harnam Singh. He was a low caste person, and he used to smoke and use other intoxicants also. But he had a brief darshan of Master Kirpal Singh about fifteen miles away from my village. At that time Master Kirpal was driving in a very fast car. So he had Master's darshan just for a moment. He bowed down his face to Master Kirpal Singh when he had his darshan. And he was so much impressed by the darshan of Master Kirpal that the face of Master Kirpal Singh remained within him. He always remembered that face. When he came back, he told me about that enchanting face of Master Kirpal Singh, and after that, without anybody telling him, he gave up all the bad habits he was involved in. And then he used to tell me, "I always feel the presence of that Power whom I had seen just for a moment."

After that experience, one day when he was working in my field, harvesting along with forty or fifty other people, suddenly he became unconscious. His son came to me and told me about his father's condition. I went there and I put his head on my lap; I asked him, "What's wrong, Harnam Singh?" He said, "Today that Power, about Whom I told you earlier, Whose presence I always feel, today He has come with an airplane and He is going to take me home."

When I go to Delhi, we travel for five hundred kilometers, and on the way, in many places we are stopped and some people check us. And out of those people there are some who bow down, who fold their hands. So you see, it all depends upon the receptivity of the people. We do not tell those people who check us that we are thieves, or any bad kind of people, nor do we tell the people that we are good ones, etc. It all depends upon their thinking; it all depends upon the mirror of their way of seeing things. Once when I was returning to the ashram from Delhi, because it was very hot on the way, the dear ones traveling with me thought of buying some ice at Sirsa. So they stopped the jeep in the market place, and they went to buy ice. There were many people walking on that street, but nobody there was folding their hands to me; there was nobody who was paying any attention to me. But there was a person who was sitting very far away from where the jeep was parked; he was sitting in his shop, and at once he came to me, asking, "Where are you going? Who are you? Your face has attracted me here." I did not have any magnet with which I had attracted him there, and I was not keeping other people away. It was all because of his receptivity that he was brought there. Often I have said that a good soul is attracted by the Shabd by itself.

All the Saints have talked very highly about the eyes. Our Satguru Maharaj Kirpal Singh Ji also used to say, "Only the eyes pull the eyes." Guru Nanak Dev Ji Maharaj has also said, "The perfect Master liberates with His one glance." But we jivas do not know the importance of the glance of the Master since we do not go within. If we were going within, then we would know how the glance of the Master liberates, and how He is purifying us, and how by getting the darshan of the Master we are coming closer to God.

Often I have said that eyes are the dyer, eye is the dye stuff, eye is the one which gets dyed. Eyes work for eyes without asking for any payment.

Saints come into this world with open eyes, with a lot of grace for the people. What to talk about liberating millions of the souls – with one glance They can even liberate the whole world. If the whole world would come to Them, They would liberate all of them. But you know that many great Saints came into this world. Our Masters came; Guru Nanak, Kabir, and many other great Saints came. But how many people got benefit from them? How many people got liberated by them? You can count the number of people who got the benefit, and got the liberation. But the number of the souls living in this world is not in millions or billions. It is innumerable, but only few people got the benefit and the grace of the Master. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to talk about his distant relative, an uncle who was not initiated, but whose wife was initiated. So many times his wife would tell him that he should go to Master Sawan Singh and get the initiation, but always he would make some excuse. Sometimes he would say that his clothes were not ready. Sometimes he would say that his coat was not ready, or he would go next month, etc. And in that way, he spent all his time making excuses, and he never went to Master Sawan Singh. When his end time came, he complained that the angels of death were bothering him, that they were burning his body and his hands. At that time his wife said, “I told you many times to go to Master Sawan Singh, because He is the only one who can save you from the punishment of the angels of death. But you did not go there.”

So you see that we all have relatives who are good people. Just like that uncle of Master Sawan Singh, even though his wife told him many times, still he never went to Him. I had one brother who left his body last July. He was very much against the Masters. First when I was initiated by Baba Bishan Das, he was very much against Baba Bishan Das, and later on when I came to Master Kirpal Singh, he was very much against him also. We never got along, and we never sat together in love. We never talked together in love because I would always try to inspire him for the Path – I would always talk about the Masters – and he would always try to take my attention away from the Path of the Masters. So that is why we never got along with each other. Last July he was healthy, and he came back from his farm, saying suddenly that four butchers had come and they were about to kill him. His family members asked him, “Who are the butchers? What do the butchers look like?” He said, “They are the butchers of Kasur.” Kasur is a place in Pakistan now, and the butchers of that place were very famous. So he said that they looked like the butchers from Pakistan. And at once he said, “But now Master Kirpal has come, and he has released me from them.”

And after that he left the body right there, as if he were sleeping for a long time. So even though he always opposed the Masters, still Master showered grace on him and he was liberated. Before he left the body he told all the family members, “I made a grave mistake by not going to the Masters, and not getting the initiation, but you should go to the Master, and you should get the Initiation from Him.” So after he left the body, all the family came and they got the initiation. If a satsangi is strong in his devotion, if he has a lot of faith in the Master, and even if the relatives of such a satsangi do not believe in the satsangi, even if they do not come to the Master, still their souls will be protected by the Master. Masters not only protect the souls of the relatives of the disciple, but They also take care of the souls of the animals and birds of the disciples. Sometimes the relatives of the satsangi will think about the Master; they will think about that person, that Master, to whom his relative is devoted. And I will say that the relatives of a strong satsangi always gain, and they get the benefit from the Master.

When I go to the West, many relatives of the satsangis, and many parents of the satsangis come to see me. They come to see me because they think, “Let us go and see that person to whom our children are devoted. Let us go and see what he looks like, what he is.”

When they come, they tell me that they have just come to see me, but they do not believe in me. They have come to see me only because their relatives or their children believe in me. I do not mind their saying that, in fact I tell them, “It is all right if you do not believe in me, but I believe in you, because you are a soul.” Do you think that they will not get the benefit of spending that time in the company of a Master?

A satsangi should remain strong in his devotion to the Master. One generation of his family gets the liberation if he is strong in his devotion. And if he is a very good meditator he can liberate many generations. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “One generation of any ordinary satsangi gets liberated, and many generations of a satsangi who does a lot of meditation get liberated.”

1987 November: Fortunate Are the Real Lovers

This question & answer session was given January 28, 1986, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: You have talked about the journey of the initiates through the various planes back to Sach Khand. I have wondered whether the soul passes directly through all the lower planes and gets back home quickly after leaving the body, or whether it spends a long time on each plane meditating and finishing off the karmas it contracted in its last life. Could you please comment on this?

SANT JI: Every soul has her own account and it is different for different souls. The soul who is going in the within when she is in the body, when such a soul leaves the body, it does not take much time for her to go back to Sach Khand. Just as when a bullet is fired from a gun, you hear the sound later on but first the bullet goes out; in the same way, when a soul who is already going within leaves the body she goes back to the real home at once. For the souls who have not gone within the account is different. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “This is the decision which the Satguru has to make, whether He has to give such souls another birth, or liberate them by keeping them in the inner planes and making them meditate.”

QUESTION: I wanted to ask you, when we meditate with you, whether we could also meditate on the bhajan, or is it better to do the simran?

SANT JI: You can sit for bhajan also. No one has said that you cannot sit in bhajan. Some dear ones do sit in bhajan.

QUESTION: O all-conscious, gracious God Ajaib, in Bombay you gave a discourse on attachment and you said that we should accept the Mahatma as reality, but not become so involved and so attached that we are only for them. Forgive this beggar, great all-knowing emperor, but how can a poor soul win your love unless he is only for You, and attached and involved in his heart-of-hearts only with You?

SANT JI: You did not understand the discourse which I gave. What I meant was that the Form of the Master is the Shabd, and our soul is the form of the disciple. Unless we rise above our own body, and unless we also rise above the body of the Master we cannot develop real love and we cannot develop real faith in the Master. Because if we have not gone within and have not seen the reality of the Master, we can lose whatever faith we have gained outwardly if a few people criticize the Master. Again we get that faith if some people praise the Master. So that is why, unless we go within and rise above the body of the Master as well as our own body, we cannot develop that real faith for Him.

I also said that Saints never connect anyone with Their body. They connect the disciples with the Shabd, and Shabd is not involved in birth and death. Maharaj Kirpal used to say, “Respect my words more than my body.” Yesterday in the satsang I said that unless we respect the outer body of the Master, how can we love the inner Master also? Loving the Master does not mean that you have to get attached to the body of the Master. Yesterday I tried to make you understand that if the Master had not assumed this physical form Who would have cleared all the doubts from our within? Who would have given us initiation, and who would have created the yearning to do the devotion in our within? There is great difference between love and attachment. Unless we know the difference between love and attachment we cannot take advantage of love. Attachment means that you get attached to someone and except for that object or thing you don’t see anything else. But love does not make you attached, love does not attach you to something like that. Love makes you free. In love you can see the glory of God, you can see the Power of God everywhere.

When you sit in the Satsang your eyes should be only for the darshan of the Master and your ears should be only for hearing the words of the Master. When you are sitting in the Satsang and hearing the words of the Master, you should try to understand and absorb every single word which the Master speaks. It is not good if you keep your body in the Satsang but allow the mind – to whom you need to explain things – to wander here and there in the markets and countryside. Unless we sit with all our concentration in the Satsang, and unless we hear and understand every single word of the Master very carefully, we cannot take advantage of the words of the Master. Many times we can misunderstand or misinterpret what the Master is saying.

Many dear ones from the groups, even from this group, have kept their mind present during the Satsang, and have understood the Satsang. When they come to see me in their interviews they tell me that all their questions were answered in the Satsang and they have come to the interview only to have darshan; they have no questions. Not everyone who comes to see me in the interview has questions. Only a few people who do not keep their minds present in the Satsang have questions, otherwise all the questions of the dear ones are answered in the Satsang. Often I have said that I never asked any question to my beloved Master, because whatever He said, I understood that. Whatever He told me to do, I did that. When you have understood all that the Master has said, and when you have done all that the Master wanted you to do, then what question is left? When that Almighty Master showers grace on you, and you become receptive to the grace, then where is the place for any questions? In the Satsang all the questions are touched very lovingly; they are opened up and everything is explained very clearly. So if you attend the Satsangs carefully with your mind present then there is no need to ask any question. I do not mean to say that you should not ask me any questions. Dear ones, you can ask questions because you have come here to ask and it is my job to answer your questions. But it is my duty to make you understand that you should attend and listen to the Satsang with all your attention and concentration. We do not know how much grace God Almighty has given us to have this opportunity to be in His company, and how fortunate we are that we are attending the Satsang. Only those moments are precious and are counted in our devotion which we spend in the company of the Master.

God Kirpal told us to keep the diary. In the beginning when Mr. Oberoi came to see me, I asked him this question; it is also written in his book. I asked, “Tell me, did you keep the diary? Did you dear ones who used to live close to Master Kirpal, did you ever keep the diary, did you ever do the meditation?” He told me, “No, those who were around the Master, the dear ones who were near Master Kirpal never kept the diary, and there was no question of doing the meditation. They would only go and have the darshan of the Master. They were just close to Him physically; they did not do the meditation; they never kept the diary.” Even now, when they come to the Satsang, I meet many of the dear ones who were very close to Master Kirpal. After the Satsang they confess and tell me, “This is the first time in our life that we have heard the complete Satsang. Because when we used to go to see Master Kirpal Singh we would always go towards the end and we never heard the entire Satsang.” Just imagine, how could He become pleased with those who never attended the Satsang, who never heard what He was saying? Only he can be called the beloved son who is obedient to the father. In the same way, in this Path, only that disciple can become perfect and only he can please the Master, who has done what the Master has told him to do. Those dear ones, those who practiced, who worked hard, who understood and obeyed the commandments of the Master, they were much better, and even now they are much better than those who only caught the body of the Master. Because Masters always say, “This is the Path of doing and not of talking.”

QUESTION: I understand that there’s a lot of grace in just getting the glimpse of the Master’s turban or part of His body. Is it also similar if one hears only the Master’s voice but doesn’t see Him? Is there a similar benefit in just hearing your voice?

PAPPU: Is this outwardly, or . . . ?

QUESTION: Outwardly.

SANT JI: The question is of our love for and our faith in the Master. What matters is our love and faith for the Master. If we hear the voice of the Master, or if we get a glimpse of any part of the body of the Master or His turban or anything like that, if we have love for Him, if we have faith for Him, all that is beneficial. God does not spare anyone. That Almighty Shabd Master does not spare anyone. He does not let anyone who is dirty in his heart stand near Him. And those who are dirty in their hearts, who are not cleaning their hearts, they cannot make Him open the door. But those who are determined that they will make Almighty Master open the door for them, even if they get the opportunity to have His darshan from a distance, even from a far distance, still they are content with it and they always struggle hard to come near. And even if they have to spend all their time sitting at the door of the Master, they would prefer to remain there and they will not want to go away. Sitting at the door of the Master, they do the Simran, they remember Him, and are grateful that God, or Almighty Master, has not kicked them away from the door.

Such dear ones who have love, faith, and devotion for the Master, even if they are not allowed to go inside, still they become grateful and they say, “We are very grateful that you have allowed us to sit at Your door, and through the windows You’ve allowed us to have Your glimpse, have Your darshan. This is a lot for us, much more than the kingdom of the seven heavens.” Mahatma Chatardas was an initiate of Master Sawan Singh who lived in Pakistan. He used to say, “He is the disciple, he is the true lover, who understands himself as the dead one when he does not have the glimpse of the Master. The breath in which the Beloved is not seen, that breath is full of sufferings.” Master Kirpal Singh Ji used to give the example of the love between Laila and Majnu. He used to say that once Majnu was sitting in the remembrance of Laila and the breeze was blowing towards the palace of Laila. He thought, “This is a very good way to telephone. Since this wind is touching the palace of Laila, I should send some message through the wind.” So he said, “O wind, you are going towards the palace of my beloved; tell her that I am sitting in her remembrance.” You can very well imagine how deep their love was, even though they had the worldly kind of love. The relation between the disciple and Master is much more deep, and if the disciple also feels the same way for the Master as Majnu felt for Laila, he can achieve everything, because the love and the relation of the disciple with the Master is even deeper than the worldly love.

Once Majnu was kissing the feet of a dog, and somebody asked, “Mia Majnu, what are you doing?” He said, “This dog sometimes visits the palace of Laila, and that is why I am kissing his feet.” Bhai Gur Das also has written in his writing, “Meeting the dog from the palace of Laila, Majnu became fascinated and he loved that dog.”

The cremation ground of this village is on this side, right outside from where we are sitting, over there, and Delhi is also on that side, in that direction. Usually the people here don’t like to make anything which is directed toward a cremation ground, because they think that it is not a good omen. But when I made this house here, the door of the house was in the direction of the cremation ground. When somebody asked me why I had made the door of my house in the direction of the cremation ground, I told him, “Only my Beloved and I know this secret.” As long as Master Kirpal lived in the body, I would always keep my face towards Delhi, and I would always sleep keeping my face towards Delhi, and I did not even mind when the cremation ground was in that direction.

Because of all these things, my family members used to call me mad, and they used to call Master Kirpal a magician. They used to say that he has done magic on me, and I would tell them, “There is no one more beautiful than my Beloved.” I would always say, “There is no photographer in this world who can capture the glory and grandeur of my Beloved.” They used to see Master Kirpal on the worldly level, but I used to see Him within me, that is why I would tell them, “There is no one in this world, no photographer, who can capture His glory, His grandeur, in a camera, the glory which I can see in my within.”

Bobbi has taken so many pictures of Master Kirpal. You can ask her – because she has so many different cameras – “Can she capture that real glory, the Real Shabd Form of Master which He always assumed?”

In the heart of the true lover, that Real Form of the Master dwells. In the eyes of such a true lover, the form, the glory of the Master dwells. And through his mouth, he always sings the glory and praise of the Master.

Before the wireless came into existence, the army used to send the signals through the sunlight [by flashing with mirrors]. During the night they used to send signals with the light of the lamp, and during the daytime they would send the signals with mirrors. Looking through the sunlight which was very radiant and bright, most people's eyes would start to water when they would read those signals. But when I used to do the work of the signaler, my eyes were so good that I could tolerate that radiance of the sunlight and read the signals very well. In the same way, in the night also, my eyes would not water and I would receive those signals very clearly. My eyes did not have any difficulty and water would never come out from my eyes. But when I would look into the eyes of Beloved Master Kirpal, at that time the water would start coming out from my eyes, the tears would start rolling down my cheeks. At that time I would only see my weaknesses; I would only see my shortcomings. But I would get so intoxicated looking into the eyes of my Beloved that I would not even remain aware of my body. Even now remembering those moments, I am moved, and I understand that fortunate were those who got the opportunity of sitting with such a great personality, with such a great Master. Many times I remember those occasions when I spent time with Him and looked into the eyes of my Beloved Master, and I become moved and always start weeping.

Fortunate are those who have the real love for the Master; for them distance does not make any difference. Those who are wounded by the sword of love can do anything, because the things which love can do, no sword can do that work. In the battle of the sword, you get the wound only one time, but in the battle of love you get wounded every minute.

Such a lover doesn't love eating; such a lover doesn't love sleeping. Sleep goes out of his eyes; he does not like to eat. He has only one desire, and that is for his Beloved to shower His gracious sight on him.

Stretching out both his arms he says, "O my Lord, O Master, I swear by You that I do not have any desire. What to talk of indulging in the worldly pleasures, I don't have thoughts of them, even in my dreams." And with his mouth he always goes on repeating the name of the Master, and he always remembers the form of the Master within him. In his heart, the form of the Master dwells.

The worldly matters of the true lover are finished, and such a true lover, going in the within, has the darshan of his Master twenty-four hours a day. His Master always lives with him. Whenever he wants he can have the darshan of the Master. He who, after going within, meets his Master, is the true lover. We are not the lovers, we are the indulgent ones, and we do not want to give up the pleasures of the mind and the sense organs. We have loved sleep. We do not want to give up any pleasures, and we are in love with the worldly things.

We meet those who can cross the ocean in just one step. Which ocean? This ocean of the pleasures of the world. We meet those who become free from pleasures, and who remove that wall or barrier between them and the Master, but we do not become like them.

Such a lover and the Master outwardly look like two different bodies, but they both are one and the same. It is just like sugar and patasa. The sugar has lost its existence in the patasa, and the patasa is also nothing other than sugar. In the same way such a true lover of the Master loses himself in the existence of the Master. He becomes like the Master; he also becomes the Master. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Giving up his own self, he absorbs and dissolves himself in the Master.”

We are talking about the Master, about the love of the Master. The question was one which awakened the remembrance of the Master, and I would like to talk more, but I see that there are some dear ones who want to ask questions, so it is important to answer their questions, too.

QUESTION: Master, you told me that we can pay off karma also during dreams. Could you please tell me more about it?

SANT JI: In Sant Bani Magazine a lot has been answered about how the karmas are paid in this way. It would be better if you would find the magazine and read it. The Satguru is a free or independent being. He has been given the full authority by Almighty Lord that however or in whatever way he wants to liberate the souls He can do that. But also in one of the Satsangs recently, I said that the Negative Power once did the meditation and devotion of Almighty Lord for seventy ages standing on one foot, and another time for sixty-four ages standing on one foot again. Becoming pleased with him, God Almighty gave him the souls to develop his region, his plane, and he was promised that the Saints should not perform any miracles, and They should not liberate anyone without making them do the meditation.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Even though the king has full authority, still he has to obey the laws, and even though he has to obey the laws, still he has this full authority. He can release anyone, he can bind anyone.”

The Master also has such kind of authority in the spiritual regions, but He usually considers the laws laid down by the Negative Power also.

This is the reason why our faith gets destroyed when we see the Master living like other ordinary human beings. When Indra Mati was taken to Sach Khand by Kabir Sahib, and when she saw that Sat Purush was none other than Kabir Sahib Himself, she said, “Why didn’t you tell me earlier, that you were the All-Owner, that you were the Sat Purush? Why did I have to struggle? If you had told me earlier I would have not needed to struggle so hard.”

Kabir Sahib said, “If I had told you earlier that I was Sat Purush, you would not have had faith in me. You would have thought, ‘How can an ordinary person be the All-Owner of the Creation?’” I will tell you a story. About three hundred years ago in India, when the Moguls used to rule this country, they were the prisoners of religion. They were very orthodox people, and they did not allow Sant Mat to spread. Those who used to get the initiation into Sant Mat from Guru Gobind Singh, a perfect Master of that time, would be tortured by the Moguls. It was very difficult for Guru Gobind Singh and His disciples to do the devotion of Naam. Because of the tortures, hardships, and troubles created by the Mogul army, Guru Gobind Singh had to take up arms and fight with them. When the Mogul army was sent to chase Guru Gobind Singh, no one came to help Him except one dear one whose name was Shamir. He did not care for anything; he took care of Guru Gobind Singh in that time of crisis, by working very hard, serving and protecting Him from the Mogul army. Even though the Mogul army tempted him and told him that he should help them find Guru Gobind Singh, he said, “You can arrest Him only if you arrest and kill me.” He was so devoted to Guru Gobind Singh that he did not care for his own life; he protected his Master Guru Gobind Singh. Now, when a disciple has done so much for the Master, Master also has to give something to him, so Guru Gobind Singh was pleased and told him, “Shamir, I want to give something to you. Ask for anything and I will give it to you.” That disciple who was content in the will of the Master said, “Master, You have blessed me with everything. I don’t want anything else. You should kindly shower grace on all my family so that their cycle of eighty-four lakhs births and deaths may be cut down.” Guru Gobind Singh gave him some parshad.

When he came to his home he wanted to share that parshad so that everyone would become liberated. But his uncle used to believe in and worship Sultan. (Sultan is some kind of unknown deity. No one knows where or when he was born, or whether he was born at all; but still people believe in his existence and they worship him.) Shamir told his uncle that he should also take the parshad which Guru Gobind Singh had given him to cut the cycle of eighty-four lakhs births and deaths. But his uncle who did not believe in Guru Gobind Singh said, “How can he, who could not protect his own home, cut the cycle of eighty-four lakhs births and deaths for all of you?” And when he did not believe in Him and when he spoke things like that, Shamir also lost faith in Guru Gobind Singh. But since Guru Gobind Singh had given him the parshad and he did not want to throw it away, he buried it in the ground. Later on his daughters took out that parshad and ate it, and they became the liberated ones.

After that Shamir came back to Guru Gobind Singh. Knowing everything that he had done with the parshad, still Guru Gobind Singh wanted to shower grace on Shamir, so He said, “Shamir, ask for anything and I will give it to you because I am very pleased with your seva.” But Shamir did not ask for anything, so Guru Gobind Singh told him, “Okay, take this horse, and whatever area you will cover with this horse, you will become the owner of that land.” When he came to his home and told his family members about that grace of Guru Gobind Singh, again his uncle did not believe. Since he did not want to upset his uncle, and he did not want to displease his Master, he only went around his village on the Master’s horse. But even now that particular piece of land which he covered with the horse of Guru Gobind Singh belongs to his family. Since he did not cover more area, he only got that much.

Now Guru Gobind Singh knew that also, so when he came back, He told him, “Shamir, I am very pleased with your seva, because you have done a lot for me. Ask for anything, and I will give it to you.” Now this was the third time that Guru Gobind Singh wanted to shower grace on Shamir, and Shamir did not want to lose that opportunity, so he said, “Master this is the third time you are offering, you are giving me the grace, now I will not care for anyone. I want you to cut my cycle of eighty-four lakhs births and deaths.”

Guru Gobind Singh told him, “Okay, you go and sleep.” In his sleep, Shamir was made to go through many different bodies. Sometimes he went in the body of the animals, sometimes in the body of the birds, sometimes in the lower bodies, and after going through all those difficult bodies, suffering pain, and doing all the things which he was supposed to do, in the end he was brought into a human birth. In that human birth he was born into a family where there were many children. Nowadays people have the means of limiting the number of their children, but in the olden days people used to have many children. So in that human birth Shamir was born into a family which had many children, and then he himself had many children, so his living conditions were very poor. Once he went to get some fruit for his children, and when he was on top of the tree suddenly the branch on which he was sitting broke and he fell down and broke his leg. There was some fruit in his mouth at that time. When he fell down, at once he woke up, and he thought that he was seeing all those horrible dreams. When he told Guru Gobind Singh about all those horrible dreams and all he had gone through, the Master told him, “You were supposed to go into all those bodies and suffer difficulties. But with the grace of the Master, you have been liberated from all those births and deaths and now you will go back to the Real Home.”

So this was a special grace which Guru Gobind Singh showered on Shamir only because of his seva. The seva which he did – taking care of Guru Gobind Singh, and serving Him at the time when nobody wanted to come near or help Him escape from the Mogul army – was a lot of seva. Guru Gobind Singh became pleased with him, and he showered such grace on him. Usually it does not happen that Master pays off the karmas of the disciples through dreams. Only in rare cases when the yearning and the faith of the disciple is very strong, do the Masters shower such grace on the disciple.

1987 December: If You Love Your Master

This question and answer session was given September 30, 1987, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: I wonder if the Satguru would give us some helpful words about retreats and ashram centers, encouragement or whatever is needed. Attendance is difficult and low. Should we go forward; should we make better quarters or better situations for the people who come; should we abandon having them.

SANT JI: The people responsible for such retreats should make the arrangements for the visitors according to the facilities available there. And the dear ones who take part in the retreats should be well informed about what they should bring and what they should expect over there. A lot of emphasis should be put on meditation. The schedule should be announced to the people so that when they come they are well prepared for it.

The arrangements depend on the place where you are going to have the retreat, and also on the number of people who may attend the retreat. So the dear ones who are responsible for managing the retreats have to see what kind of arrangements they need to make. It all depends on the place and the number of people coming to the retreat.

For the dear ones attending the retreats, it is very important for them to bring whatever things they may need during the retreat. When you come for meditation you should not be pre-occupied with what things you need, and if you have not brought those things, it may disturb your peace of mind. That is why it is very important for the visitors to plan things beforehand and to bring whatever they may need during the retreat.

Also it is very important for them to maintain good health. Because if you get sick during the retreat, the other dear ones who are attending the retreat may be disturbed, and they will serve you. So whatever amount of meditation you have done, those dear ones who will serve you will take the benefit of that meditation, and you will come back from the retreat empty-handed. So that is why it is very important for the dear ones attending any retreat to maintain good health and do the meditation for which they have come.

When we attend such retreats, what normally happens is that we have not developed the habit of sleeping less and meditating more at our homes, but we then see other people meditating more than we do. So, looking at them, we also feel inspired to sleep less and meditate more. But since we do not have the habit of doing that and we try to cut down our sleep all at once, it has a very bad effect on our body. If we are in the habit of sleeping ten hours and cut it down to two hours all of a sudden, you can very well imagine the bad effect it will have on our health. People should try to reduce their sleep while at their homes. If we do it gradually, say in months, then it will not have any bad effect on our health. But if we try to do it all at once then it will definitely have a bad effect on our health.

It is the same with the food. You should not try to reduce your food all at once. You should do it gradually. And it is very important not to sit for meditation right after eating heavy food, because it can have a very bad effect on your digestive system. What I have come to know from doing so many tours of the West in the past is that the dear ones who are responsible make perfect arrangements as far as living quarters and things like that are concerned. They offer their best possible arrangements for the dear ones, but most of the dear ones have their own schedule, their own arrangements. Either they modify the schedule of eating, or of some other thing. And in that way, instead of enjoying that program, instead of taking advantage of all the arrangements, they create difficulties not only for themselves, but also for the organizers.

QUESTION: What is the relationship between the malaria You had as a child and the Satguru's illness.

SANT JI: I did not have any malaria when I was a child. I spent most of my time sitting underground. I did not have much connection with the people of the world. But it was the Will of Lord Kirpal that He brought me out from that underground room and He made my connection with the dear ones of the West. And when they lovingly invited me to come to the West, first I had to go to Delhi. I had never been to such crowded places before in my life. I had to spend a lot of time in Delhi, where there were so many mosquitoes and that is how I got malaria in the first place.

You know that I have suffered a great deal on account of that malaria. It did not leave me for several years. Even though I got the medication and the malaria was cured temporarily, later on, when I went to Sant Bani Ashram, I had a relapse and became sick again. I am very grateful to the dear ones over there who took me to very good doctors who gave me a permanent cure of the malaria. They guaranteed me that I would not get malaria in their country, America. But they said that if I returned to India and was around mosquitoes, I could get it again. But since then, even though I was very weak after the malaria, still I have not had any after that. I became sick this last January because of the sudden change of climate. As I just now said, when you try to reduce sleep all at once it has a bad effect on your health. In the same way sudden changes in climate or places have a very bad effect on my health. When we went to Bombay last January, even though the dear ones tried their best to make good arrangements for me, things are not the same in India as they are in the West. In the West wherever I go the dear ones are very particular about making the best arrangements for me because they have all the facilities there. They even find a place for me to take walks; they see that my room is well ventilated and things like that. So I never have any difficulty doing the Western tours. But in India it is not like that. We have limited facilities here, and we have limited space. So, last January when I went to Bombay I did not get a cold; I did not have any fever. But I became very sick because the place where I was made to stay was such that I felt suffocated. For the first couple of days I did not feel anything, but later on I became so weak that I could not even walk to the dais by myself.

The same thing happened in Bangalore, also. We do not have many places here, where I can go and take walks. And when there is a place for me to walk, the dear ones in India will always come to the place where I am taking the walk, so I don't feel like going there for walking, and that restricts me from coming out of the room. It always happens that despite the best efforts of the dear ones, still I am made to stay at such places where I feel this suffocation after a few days. And that is how I get sickness.

So, the last two times that I became sick were only because of the sudden change of the weather. I cannot stand that since I have spent most of my time sitting underground.

The other thing is that I am not a swadhu – one who has the passion of eating good foods. Baba Bishan Das never ate any salt in his life; he did not eat any sugar either; and he suffered a lot of hunger and thirst. If I don't have many of his qualities in me, at least I have some of his qualities regarding food. And because of that I have not had any passion to eat good food. My stomach has shrunk and I do not have much appetite. Whenever the person who cooks my food is changed, it definitely has a bad effect on my health. When I go to different places it is not possible for me to take the same cook everywhere. When the dear ones cook food for me they do their best to prepare good food, thinking that Baba Ji will eat this good food. But the Baba Ji is such that if he eats one apple, or one banana, he will eat less regular food because he can only eat a limited amount. With love they offer me a lot of things and I cannot not reject their offer. Even though the food is not made according to my liking, still I will not comment and I will not say that it is not made well. I always appreciate what people do for me. You know that this body can only function with the support of food. And if you do not get food according to your liking for many days at a time, how can you survive? So that is also one of the reasons why I become sick.

I don't drink much tea, and the tea I do drink does not have much milk in it. I don't drink much sugar, and I eat only two meals a day, because I do not have the habit of eating many times a day.

I have been healthy throughout my life. But in 1984, a lot of blood was lost from my body – and only Lord Kirpal knows for what purpose this blood was lost. Since I lost that blood I have started feeling weak and sick. But I do not have any regrets, because everything is His Will. Other than that I have never had any sickness. Only once did I have malaria and then I lost this blood. Otherwise I have enjoyed good health throughout my life. You already know that I was a fast runner and that I would challenge people to run with me because I had very good health.

You know that when you do meditation you do not have much appetite, and that is how the body becomes weak. I did not become weak only because of the sickness. I became weak in the first place because I did not eat very much. You know that you can take only one taste at a time. Either you can taste the good foods, or you can taste the elixir of Naam, the devotion of Lord. When you do the meditation you definitely don't like to eat too much. And because I did not eat very much food while I was doing the meditation, I did not have much physical energy in me. Still I never felt any weakness or sickness. Only since 1984 when I lost a lot of blood have I started feeling weak and sick.

I have never used many medicines and drugs in my life. I never used any vitamins or tonics and things like that. Pappu knows about all of this because he has been with me for such a long time, and his family also knows about my food and what I eat. So when they cook food it is all right. But when someone else cooks my food, then it definitely has a bad effect on my body. Bant, the girl who lives here, is the one who cooks for me here. And she knows what kind of food I eat. So whenever those people cook food for me I do not have any difficulty, because I have told them which things I like to eat, and which will keep me in good health. And they prepare the food according to my instructions, so that I have no difficulty.

I have spent many days without eating food, because it is very difficult to control the sense organs; it is very difficult to control oneself. In your youth it may be easy to climb the cross, but it is very difficult to protect yourself from the passions and to control the sense organs. So one has to eat less when he is doing the devotion. Kabir Sahib said that no one has realized God by laughing and enjoying this world. If God could be realized by laughing and enjoying this world, what would be the need of suffering and weeping for Him?

I have met with the sevadars who used to live with Baba Sawan Singh and also with the colleagues who used to work with Him. And they often talked about the abstinence and the discipline which Baba Sawan Singh maintained regarding His food. He would tell his only servant, "Prepare the food for me and leave it. I will come and eat whenever I want to." He always gave priority to meditation. First He would meditate and then He would eat the food.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, will You comment on what it is to rest in Simran, and how we might learn to make proper effort without straining, so that our Simran can continue more and more in our work and in our daily life?

SANT JI: In the beginning we have to do a little bit of struggle in order to rest in the Simran. But later on it becomes very easy. We have been having thoughts and doing the fantasies in all of our past lives. And even in this lifetime we have not paid much attention as far as doing the Simran is concerned, because we have kept our mind free. We have allowed our mind to wander outside in the world. That is why we do not have the habit of controlling our mind. But fortunately we have taken refuge at the feet of the Masters Who tell us, "The remembrance of the worldly things is what is bringing you into this world again and again. If you want to finish the cycle of coming into this world again and again you had better do the Simran of the Masters and forget the simran or the remembrance of the worldly things.

There is no one in this world who has fulfilled all his desires. You may find many people who have fulfilled nine desires out of ten and still one desire remains unfulfilled; or there are many who have fulfilled only a couple of desires and they have so many desires unfulfilled. So what happens is that when we are not able to fulfill all our desires, then at the time of our death, if we do not have the guidance of a perfect Master, we start thinking about those things which we have not yet obtained, those desires which we have not yet fulfilled. When we leave the body, according to those desires, we get another birth. And since the desires of our past lifetime have to be fulfilled, we are born in such circumstances where they can be fulfilled. Those past desires get fulfilled, but in fulfilling them we create new desires; and again some of our desires are fulfilled and some of them are not, so this cycle goes on and on.

Saints and Mahatmas know about our weakness and that is why They give us Their own Simran, so we can forget the desires of the world. They know that the crop which has been ruined by too much water can be restored only by watering it properly. They know that only the Simran of the Master can cut the simran of the world. They know that only the contemplation of the Master can cut the contemplation of the worldly things. You know that even though you may not make any effort to remember the image of any person, whenever you think of him, his form will appear in front of you. In the same way, if you do the Simran of the Master properly, and if you would remember His form, then you can easily see His form and do the Simran. And if you are able to cut the simran and the remembrance of the world you can easily make yourself rest in the Simran.

If you love your children, you just need to think about them and you will remember their beautiful faces. In the same way, suppose that your wife has gone somewhere outside. If you have love for her you will think about her and her face will appear in front of you. You will start remembering her form. In the same way, anything of this world that you love, if you remember it, the image of that thing will appear in your mind. This is because you have so much attachment to the worldly things that sometimes without even making any effort, they are remembered in your subconscious mind. They are always there, and you always remember them.

Masters tell us that you remember all these worldly things because you have love for them and are attached to them. If you would love your Master, then His remembrance would also come to you by itself and you would start seeing His beautiful face. They tell us that if you really love the Master, then do His Simran, remember Him, because His Simran will help you forget the simran of the world. Now it is very difficult for you to do the Simran given to you by the Master because you are involved in the simran of the world. But if you develop the habit of doing the Master's Simran, if you develop your love for Him, and if you remember His form all the time, then it will be very easy to do His Simran. As it is now impossible for you to give up the remembrance of the world, then it will become impossible for you to give up the Simran of the Master. We do not know the Power of Simran. If we knew the Power of Simran, we would never want to give it up. We would always want to go on doing Simran. When we do the Simran we start gaining concentration. As we go on gaining the concentration, we can easily experience spiritual miracles within ourselves, which are often referred to as supernatural powers. But Saints always tell Their disciples, "You should not get involved in this; you should not use those powers, because your journey is further up.” If we would do the Simran we would gain the concentration and then we would never want to give it up.

Masters do not need our love, because They are already in the love of Their Master. But unless we have real and sincere love for the Masters, we cannot do the Simran given by Them. If we really love Them, if we really remember Them, we will do the Simran They give us, without understanding it as a burden. And that Simran will start happening within us by itself. Just as now the worldly simran is happening without making any effort, in the same way, if we really love the Master, then the Master’s Simran will happen by itself. We will not have to make any effort, because when you love someone you obey Him, and you will definitely remember Him. Now, because we are doing the simran of the world, it is making us dry. But when we will keep our tongue absorbed in the Simran of the Master, we will not be dry. In fact, we will always remain wet in the remembrance of the Master, and the grace of the Master will flow upon us.

We have to take the help of our mind only when we do some accounting job. Otherwise, no matter what work we are doing, we can easily do the Simran along with that work, while we are sitting, standing, or doing anything of the world we can still do the Simran very easily. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “The dear ones deal with the people in the world, but within they are always linked with their Beloved Master.”

Such a dear one can make a jungle or wilderness in his own home. He can easily create seclusion in a crowded place. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “For him who has stilled his mind, anyplace is secluded.”

19881988 March: On Marriage and Karma

This question & answer session was given October 26, 1987, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Master, I wish to ask You something about marriage and divorce. In Colombia there are two different types of marriages. There is a religious one and there is a civil marriage. In neither of those two types of marriage can people get a divorce. Nevertheless, the people do separate and then they get married to someone else.

So, my question is, when a couple separates, does that mean that the karmas of the husband and the wife of that marriage are finished? Or, on the contrary, do they only stay dormant? When they get married again and a new relation is created, does that create a chain reaction of karmas that never ends because they are never paid off and because new ones are created?

SANT JI: Master Kirpal used to say that only because of our past karmas, our past give and take, we are bound in the binding of the love, we are bound in the binding of the marriage.

And Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that because of our give and take of the past lifetime, we either love the people or hate them. If our give and take with a certain person was good in our past lifetime, then we love that person. But if our give and take with that person was not so good in our past, then again, as a result of that disharmony of the past lifetime, we either hate that person or we have the disharmony with that person. We are brought together as husband and wife only because of our past karmas. Since the husband and wife have not yet reached the point where they can know whether their karmas together are finished or not, they do not know, at the time of the separation, whether they are finishing their karmas or they are creating new ones.

No matter in what country a marriage takes place, whether it is religious or civil, the Rishis and Munis have made their own laws of marriage and there is no room for divorce or separating in any marriage.

It is just an excuse of our mind, if, after getting a separation or divorce, we say that our karmas are finished. The Mahatmas who went within, whose inner eyes were opened, have written in the scriptures that the husband and wife should always live together. They should be separated only when the death separates them.

Master Kirpal Singh Ji and Guru Nanak also wrote that the husband and wife should live together throughout their lives and should leave each other only when death separates them. Otherwise they should always live together. Regarding this matter, I receive so many letters from the dear ones. Sometimes the husbands write me the letters; sometimes the wives write me. I always advise them that getting a divorce means separation and separation cannot solve any problem. It may create more problems.

The fact is that we people do not understand the greatness and importance of marriage. And we do not even make any effort to understand its importance. The union of the husband and wife is made by God Almighty so that they may help each other in their worldly life and make their home a heaven on the earth. And while helping each other on this worldly plane they may progress towards God Almighty and go back to their Real Home.

I have often said that it is not a bad thing to get married, but it is very important always to keep the promises we make at the time of the wedding. It is very important for us to live up to the things which we are told at the time of the wedding.

There should be love and affection for each other in the hearts of both the husband and the wife. They should always use respectful and loving words to each other. The husband should not have a violent attitude towards his wife. He should not beat his wife; he should not think his wife has no status in the home life. The wife should also do the same. She should not beat her husband nor think that her husband is nothing in the family. Both of them should give equal love and respect to each other. When people do not give due respect to each other, and when they do not give enough love to each other, then that disharmony becomes the cause of their separation. We know what is happening nowadays in the West – how people get a divorce just for a small reason. Do you think, that, after getting the divorce, those people are able to live their life without anybody else? without any other companion? No, it is not possible. We have seen that after they get a divorce they always look for some other companion; and many women get worse husbands than their previous husband; and many husbands get worse wives than their first wife. In that way they do not get any peace or any contentment. Some people marry several times, but still they do not get any contentment. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that if you can maintain love with one person even after struggling for it all your life long, still you have done a good job.

The great Saint Baba Sawan Singh Ji used to say that a woman who has 32 husbands, how will she please all the husbands? In the same way, a man who has 32 wives, how is he going to please all those wives? It has already become very difficult to finish our give and take with one person. How can we think about finishing our give and take with all those new relations we are creating? Guru Nanak Dev Ji Maharaj says, “Don’t call them husband and wife who only sit together; call them husband and wife who work like one soul in two different bodies.”

If they want to get married, they should have the attitude that if the husband has a fever, the wife should feel the heat. Your life and my life should be one. The relationship between a husband and a wife is very deep and in this relationship the first important thing is to have respect and love for each other. When someone would ask Master Sawan Singh about getting married, He would say, “Well, if you can carry this burden, then you can get married.” If someone would ask Him about not getting married, He would say, “If you can live without a wife, if you do not want to molest yourself by going from door to door, and if you can live celibate, then it is all right not to get married.”

Usually it is seen that when the husbands and wives have any problem it is always a minor thing; only in few cases is there a serious problem. Most of the dear ones, who even think about separation and divorce, do it only for the sake of doing it.

Once a couple came to me and they told me about their feelings of wanting a separation. The wife said, “I want to get separated from my husband.” But the husband said, “If she will leave me then I will die. How can I live without her?” So I said to that woman, “Dear daughter, tell me what is your problem so that I can tell your husband to remove that problem, and maybe he can help you little bit in that. Tell me the problem which is bothering you.” She replied, “Well, we don’t have any problem. It is just that we have been living together for four or five years continuously and now I feel like separating.”

This happened at 77 RB. Pappu might remember this. One dear one woke up early in the morning at 3:00 to do his meditation. When he started enjoying the meditation he woke his wife also, saying, “I am enjoying the meditation. Why don’t you also sit in meditation?” She got upset and when she came in the interview, she told me that she wanted to get separated from her husband because he didn’t let her sleep. So you can see what kind of problem they had. We Satsangis are supposed to inspire other people to do the meditation. And when the husband was trying to do that to his wife she got upset, and she wanted to get divorced.

Kabir Sahib says that if you wake up the Sadh, he will do the meditation of Naam after getting up. But it is better to leave these three people asleep: the worldly person, the lion, and the snake.

Dear ones, in the Satsang it is always said that in this world there is no one who has fulfilled all of his desires, who has achieved all of his works. If someone has completed ten works, two or three works remain incomplete. If someone has completed just a few works, there are many works which are not yet completed. At the time of his death he starts thinking about the things he has not yet accomplished. Sometimes he calls his wife or children and tells them to finish his work. When he has the remembrance of all those worldly things which he did not finish, according to the direction his thoughts pull him at the time of his death, he gets the next birth. When that person is born again, he is born in such an environment and in such a place where all the incomplete works of his past lifetime get completed. But over there he also has to face many difficulties. In this way the cycle of births and deaths goes on and on. And because of his desires he never gets liberation. So Saints and Mahatmas always tell us that we should do the Simran of the Master so that at the time of our death we will only remember the Master and His Simran. We should let no one come between us and the Master at the time of our death.

Regarding the husband and wife who have gotten separated and who want to come back together again, Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that it is never too late to mend. After making the mistake of separation in the first place, if they realize it was a mistake and want to come back, they should come back together. They should learn a lesson from whatever mistakes they made in the past, and never repeat them again.

In Sant Mat, the practice of becoming Sati (Sati means to burn yourself alive with the dead body of the husband) is not allowed, and the government also does not allow this tradition. It is considered the same as committing suicide and those who inspire someone to become a Sati get imprisoned for seven years. Still, in the area of Rajasthan where we are living now, last September one girl burned herself alive with the dead body of her husband.

Even though there is a law made to prevent this kind of happening, the native Rajasthani people are fighting against it because it is in their tradition to become Sati with the dead body of the husband. Sant Mat does not allow this because it is like committing suicide, and Saints never allow suicide; still you can understand why those girls who become Sati do that. The idea is that they want to remain loyal to the husband even after the husband has left the body.⁸

Masters never recommend Sati. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “She who burns herself with the dead body of the husband is not the Sati. She who maintains a pure life after the husband has left the body is the real Sati.”

When our marriage breaks, since we people are not Mahatmas, that is why we cannot forgive the faults of our companion. Outwardly we might say, “I have forgiven you,” but deep within we are not able to do that. So when we have bad feelings or hatred for our previous companion, that affects our meditation.

Often I have said that the direction of the badness is always degrading. Even one single bad thought can bring you down from the peak of Brahmand.

Do you think that the Satsangis whose life is full of such kinds of problems can do meditation? Are they not harming themselves? Are they not losing in their life regarding the meditation?

Once a group from the army had gone to see Master Sawan Singh and one of us told Him, “Master, I used to do very good in the meditation. I used to go very high up. I used to see the stars, moons and many times I even used to have the grace of Your darshan. But now I do not see anything except the darkness.”

Master Sawan Singh Ji looked at that person for awhile and then He said, “You must be having some problem.” That dear one replied, “Yes, Master, my wife has left the body and I miss her very much.”

That was the cause for his coming down in meditation. Because he was remembering his wife who had left the body, that remembrance of his wife was not allowing him to have beautiful meditations. So you can see that even though that person’s wife had only that much life to live and even though she had left the body, just her remembrance was bothering his meditation a lot. Those who get separated or divorced, whenever they meet their companion or think about those times when they lived together, do you think that does not bother them in the meditation? Does all that not have any effect on their meditation?

Those who go very high up within in meditation know what bad effect it has when people get separated or divorced from their companion. When they remember whatever time they have spent together, when they miss each other, and if sometimes when they meet they have bad thoughts for each other, all that creates confusion and disturbance in their concentration.

But in America, Colombia, and Europe there are also many strong people who have maintained their married life and who are very strong in that. It is not true that everywhere the people are weak and are getting the divorce. Those who have a weak mind – a weak mind is like a goat which runs away from responsibilities – only they have such difficulties. But those who have a strong mind – a strong mind is like an elephant, whatever the burden, he carries it – whatever their responsibility they always carry and always fulfill that.

⁸ The ideal is often subverted, and rather than choosing out of loyalty, the poor woman is forced by tremendous social pressure which leaves her no future if she does live. See The Ocean of Love, pg. 5.

1988 April: Satsangis Should Become Strong

This question & answer session was held on October 28, 1987, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Master, in Colombia when the young men turn 18 years old, the government calls them into the Army to work for the service of the country. In a few years some other Satsangis and I will be called to serve in the Army. There they make the food with meat. I want to know what we can do once we get called and have to go.

SANT JI: It is not only in Colombia, but in many other countries when the young men turn eighteen they are called in the service of their nation. I myself have served in the Army and it is not that difficult. It is my personal experience that where there is a will there is a way. So, if you have faith in God Almighty, then there will be a way for you so that you can eat vegetarian food there. No one will force you to eat non-vegetarian food in the Army.

There will be people there to ask you what kind of food you would like to have. In the Army they don't force non-vegetarian food on you. They do teach you how to maintain the discipline, how you should be patriotic, and how you should be loyal to your country. They also teach you how to obey orders. In the Army the rations are given to the people equally. If they are non-vegetarian, if they drink the wine, if they smoke the cigarettes, they also get an equal amount of rations as those who do not consume all these things.

And in the kitchen over there the food is prepared according to the wishes or the liking of the people.

No one gives us the correct information about the Army. Those people who like to eat meat and do all those things tell us that in the Army they are forced to eat all those things and that is why they are eating them, but they are using that only as an excuse.

I'll tell you about an incident which I saw with my own eyes and heard with my own ears. Once when I was coming back from Punjab, I had to go through a place called Pakasahana, and over there they were changing the contracts of the wine shop. In India when the contract of the wine shop is being changed, for the last few days they sell the wine at a very cheap rate so that they can finish all the stock they have.

So they were selling the wine at a very cheap rate, and they had loudspeakers announcing, "Today there is an opportunity for you to plunder; come and take as much as you want."

Over there, there was a so-called holy man, one of those with colored robes who mislead people, smoke tobacco, who drink wine and eat meat, who mislead the world and inspire people to eat meat and drink wine. This person was inspiring people to take more wine. When our bus stopped at that place and when this voice announced that today wine was very cheap, one of the persons sitting on the bus went there. It is possible that if he had not heard that announcement he would not have even bought one bottle of wine, but because he heard the announcement, he bought twelve bottles of wine.

He showed those bottles to another passenger on the bus. He told him, “Today that Baba is also there, and you should go and get some wine.” So that person, who looked like a beautiful person with a very neatly tied beard like a gentleman, also went and bought some wine. One of the ladies who was also riding on the same bus did not like it and she wanted to ask that person why he was also taking the wine.

She told that person, “You appear to be a good person. It is a pity that you also are involved in drinking wine.” So he replied, “What can I tell you? You see, I went in the Army, and over there you have to drink wine and eat meat because it is an order; and that is how I got into the habit of drinking wine.” He went on saying that in the Army, if you do not drink wine, the water doesn’t suit you, and you have to go to different places and you can get malaria and things like that.

When he was saying all those things I could not bear it because I also had served in the Army and I knew that all those things were false. So I could not stop myself and I asked him, “Tell me, where did you serve in the Army and how far did you go?” I told him that I had served in the Army and I had not found anyone who forced me to drink wine or eat meat. And that I had gone to so many different places. During the Second World War, I went to Javass, Matras, Burma, Italy; but I never had any difficulty with the water and I never had any malaria.

I told him that, of course, when you join the Army the people already there want to increase their majority. That is why the people who eat meat will inspire you to eat meat, and those who are drunkards will try to make you one of them. But if you are strong and if you don’t want to drink wine and eat meat, nobody forces you to eat meat or drink wine.

So when I asked him how far he had gone in the Army and how long he had served in the Army, he told me that he had served in the Army for only five days and that he had gone only up to Jalundar which is not far from this place. You see, he was just using the Army as an excuse for drinking the wine. In 1942 or 1943 when I had gone to England to participate in some games, we had to go by ship. Some people had said that when you go by ship and when you go up on the roof to do the physical training exercises and see only water all around you, you’ll feel like you are losing your heart and at that time you need to drink wine.

But when we went on that journey I experienced that I did not have to drink wine; I did not lose any heart; I was very strong. I was much stronger than the people who used to drink wine. In fact, those who are vegetarians and who don’t drink the wine are stronger than those who are not vegetarians and who do drink wine.

Even the animals who are vegetarians have more stamina to fight and can fight longer than the animals who eat meat. You know the tiger eats meat but he does not have much energy to go on fighting for a long time. But the elephant who is vegetarian can fight for a very long time. Just as they do not give correct information about the Army, and those who are fond of eating meat themselves tell other people that they have to eat meat in the Army, in the same way, those Indian people who migrated to the European countries, those who went abroad, when they come back to India, they give the same kind of information. They tell the same thing, that you cannot live in the foreign countries unless you eat meat. Because their families or their parents are vegetarian, when they say that their children who have gone abroad have now become non-vegetarian, they don't like it. And when they tell them that it is not good for them, they reply, "What can we do? In that country we cannot live without eating meat." They even say that you cannot get any vegetarian food over there.

In the beginning when the Westerners started coming to Rajasthan, nobody would believe that all the Westerners who were coming here were strict vegetarians. Because they were told that the Westerners and all those who live abroad all eat meat and there are no vegetarians. But you know how many Satsangis there are and they are strict vegetarians. And besides Satsangis there are so many other people who are vegetarians. I have seen many people, many Satsangis and other strict vegetarians, who are so strict and so particular about the vegetarian food that they don't even like to eat where they serve meat or wine. Are you satisfied?

QUESTION: I had a dream in which I asked the Master how He is affected by the food we eat. When I woke up I knew the meaning was: how is the Master physically affected when we eat? – for instance, in restaurants or at houses where the people are not Satsangis; or when we don't eat the food with devotion; or any mistakes eating food – how is the Master physically affected?

SANT JI: I'll tell you an incident which might help you to understand this. Rabia Basri was a Perfect Meditator. She was a Perfect Saint and She was connected with Lord Almighty. Once it so happened that She was so tired, She was so physically tired that She could not get up early in the morning to do Her meditation and get Herself connected with the Power of God.

On that day all of Her followers who sat in meditation saw Rabia Basri as a dead person. So they all were very sad; because only the disciples who value the Master know what is the pain of the separation. It is such a wound that unless you have it you cannot understand it.

So when all of them had the same kind of experience – that Rabia Basri was dead – they all came to Rabia Basri's house. And when they saw Rabia Basri sitting there, they were amazed and they told Her about their experience. Rabia Basri didn't mind their experience. She said, "Yes, your experience is true. Today I did not sit up for the meditation. I did not connect myself to Lord Almighty. That is why I am a living dead person." So the Master who has taken up your responsibility is aware of your every single need, and whatever good or bad you do, He has to pay for that. He gets affected by it.

If you eat something which is not proper, if you eat at some improper place, or if you do any kind of bad karma, big or small, it is the law of nature, as Master Sawan Singh used to say, that whatever karmas you do, that must be paid off either by the Master or by yourself. That karma has to be paid off. So whatever improper or incorrect thing you do, somebody has to pay for that, either you or the Master.

When you have a little bit of pain, say in your thumb, you go on requesting to your Master to remove that pain; and He definitely hears your request and He removes that pain. But the karmas involved in that – the pains which you were going to suffer – Master takes on those pains and He suffers for that karma. Even a small seed which you plant and which you nourish gives you the fruit when it grows up as a tree. In the same way, when you devote yourself to the Master, when you do His devotion, then He also gives you all the things which you need.

So whatever good or bad karmas you do, whatever mistakes you make, Master has to share that pain with you. He not only shares your pain when He is in the body, even after He leaves the physical body he is always there to help you and share your pains.

It has been quite a long time since Master Sawan Singh and Master Kirpal left Their physical bodies. But even now I get letters from the dear ones, and they tell me in the interviews, about how those great Masters were there to help them with the payment of their karmas in their suffering.

Satsangis should become strong. They should make their hearts like that made of iron. Master used to say that they should not become like those people who when they go to the River Ganges call themselves Ganga Ram, and when they visit the river Jamna they call themselves as Jamna Ram.

They should not become vegetarians when they go in the company of a few vegetarians and then switch to the non-vegetarian diet if they spend time in the company of non-vegetarians. They should remain strong in their devotion; and whatever duties they have been given at the time of Initiation – with full determination and devotion – they should live up to those teachings.

They should pay a lot of attention to their diet. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to talk about a dear one whose surat, when he was about to leave the body, was attached within and Master Sawan Singh was also there to take his soul up. But his family members called a doctor. And the doctor suggested that brandy be put in his mouth and that he should be fed eggs so that his pulse might start moving normally.

So, without his desire, his family members gave him wine and eggs. Master Sawan Singh then told him, “Your family members have done this and now you will have to suffer for four more days. Then you will be purified, and I will come to take you.”

When he came back in his consciousness he asked his wife what had been put in his mouth. She replied, “The doctor said to give you wine and eggs, and that is why we have done this.” He replied, “Whatever has been done in the past is all done; but now for the last few days, since you are my wife, you should look after me. Sit in the doorway and don’t let anyone come in this room unless I leave the body. Don’t call any doctor, because Master Sawan Singh has told me that He will come to take me after four days.” Master Sawan Singh used to say that eggs, wine, meat, all these things cannot prolong your life. And all these things do have a very great effect on your body, mind and soul. All these things make your body dirty and when the body is dirty the mind and soul also become dirty. That is why it is very important for all the Satsangis to be very particular about the food they eat.

1988 May: The Fruit of Simran

This question and answer session was given at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, December 30, 1987.

QUESTION: I would like to know what Sant Ji thinks about blood transfusions? Do I take the karma of the donor, whose name I don't even know? And if the person (receiving the blood) is pregnant, does the baby take karma?

SANT JI: You will have to pay for it, whether you pay for it with your money or with your good karmas; because without finishing this give and take one cannot remain. As Guru Nanak has said, “No one can live without finishing their give and take.”

When someone is dying and needs blood, if the person who has given the blood to save his life is paid with money then he is paid right then, but if he has done it lovingly without expecting anything and if he has just given the blood as a donation even then you will have to pay for it. Then you have to take his karmas because this tangle of the karmas is the only thing which brings us back into this world again and again.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, I would not have continued coming to You for so long had I not, in Master Kirpal's words, “recognized my old friend in a new coat.” However, since I know You outwardly much better than I ever got to know Master Kirpal, I find myself sometimes praying to You instead of to Him. Even though I know it is His form waiting for me within, I sometimes feel a bit unfaithful to Him by praying to You. Please comment on this.

SANT JI: Master Kirpal also used to say that when one bulb fuses another bulb is installed at its place; it is replaced by another new bulb. The current is the same; the power is the same; and that bulb gives the same amount of light. The question is of our mind and our receptivity, because it is the same Power which has come into expression. It is the same Current; it is the same Light which we are getting. And if we follow that Light He will take us to the same Current, same Power and same Light. The thing is, that if in the beginning you pray to Him wholeheartedly, if you do your devotion wholeheartedly, then you will not even recognize to whom you are praying. Because that form will be changed into the newer form, and you will not find any difference. You will find both forms as one.

Dear ones, I have had the opportunity of meeting many initiates of Master Sawan Singh who after He left the body came to follow Master Kirpal Singh Ji. They did not find any difference between the forms of Master Kirpal Singh and Master Sawan Singh. They saw Him within and without – the form of Master Sawan Singh – working through the body of Master Kirpal Singh, because they saw that through that pole of Master Kirpal Singh the same power of Master Sawan Singh was working.

There was an initiate of Baba Jaimal Singh who was very old and his name was also Jaimal Singh. He used to come to see me very often. He used to say, “I see the same form of Baba Jaimal Singh in Baba Kirpal, and I'm getting the same grace from Baba Kirpal as I used to get from Baba Jaimal Singh.”

It is a matter of one's own receptivity, and it is a question of one's own vessel. How has it been prepared to receive the grace of the Master? Because you know that the ones who mislead are always there. There were many people who used to tell the dear ones who came to see Master Kirpal, “Beware, don't ever look into the eyes of Master Kirpal, because he has magic in his eyes. Don't even have his darshan; don't even sit in front of him, otherwise he will do magic to you.” So when such people would go to have the darshan of Master Kirpal – just imagine, you have gone to have the darshan of Master, but instead of looking into His eyes, you are sitting in front of Him with your eyes closed or you are sitting in the back, or behind Master Kirpal – how can you know what Power Master Kirpal is, and what is the similarity between Him and His Master? How He became one with His Father, and how both Master Sawan and Master Kirpal are the same? So how could those people get any benefit from going to Master Kirpal Singh? But those who would go to Master Kirpal Singh with an open heart would get benefit from Him and they would know that He and Master Sawan were one.

When we have searched for the Master and we have come to a Saint, a Master Soul who has forgotten everything in this world only for his Master, and who always talks about his Master and who doesn't want to do anything except talk of the Master, who only gives the love for the Master – just imagine where He will take you? He will take you only to the Master, and He will give you only the love of His Master.

Guru Nanak Sahib says, “You see the image of God according to the feelings you have for Him.” Leave aside everything. When I go to Bombay and Bangalore where most of the initiates are of Baba Somanath, there are many dear ones of Baba Somanath who don't even want to come to the Satsang. But those who do come – not hundreds but thousands of dear ones come to the Satsangs – they tell me that they see the form of Baba Somanath in me. And they say that they are following me, understanding me as Baba Somanath.

I will tell you about a recent incident. Just the day before yesterday one husband and wife came from Punjab to see me. They were initiates of Master Kirpal and they suffered a great hardship because it is not an easy road to come here. You have to go through so much suffering because the roads are not so good. So they had some difficulty getting here. When they came here and saw me, the first thing they said was that I should make the ashram on the highway so it would be easier for the people to come. I told them that it is not in my hands because I am just a doll and my string is in the hands of my Beloved Kirpal. Wherever He sends me I have to go and live there. So when I told them that, they just kept quiet and then they started talking to me. That husband who had come all the way from Punjab to see me was not looking at me, he was looking at one side. Even though he was talking to me, because somebody had told him, “You are going to see him, but you should not look into his eyes.” So the same thing which people used to tell other people when they would go to see Master Kirpal, that same thing is happening with me also. So he came and he did not look at me, even though he was doing all the talking, but his wife who was very devoted kept looking at me and she got the love. She was full of love, and she got the love of Master Kirpal from me. So when they came down after talking with me, the husband went back the same as he had come, but his wife went back a changed person because she came with love and she got all the love. They were husband and wife, and they both came together, but it is because of their vessel that one person got the love of the Master whereas the other person did not get anything.

Tulsi Sahib says, “There is everything in this world, but one gets according to his own fate.” It is only a matter of fate, and good luck that you get the things from the Master. If we have good fate, only then we start from our home, doing all the preparations, how we have to go to the Master, how we have to deal with Him, and how we have to take the benefit from Him, and how we have to receive the grace from Him. And if we do not have good fate to get the grace of the Master, then we will not know how to go and behave in front of the Master. So dear ones, it is all a matter of fortune, good fate, how much grace we receive from the Master.

Saints keep Their hearts open to all who come to Them, but it is a matter of fate, how much they receive from Him. You know that I have had the darshan of Baba Sawan Singh in Peshawar, and that darshan was so beautiful that I could never forget that beautiful face, and I have even written in one of my bhajans, “I have seen millions of faces, but Your face cannot be forgotten; I cannot forget Your face.” And just because of that darshan, even though I was doing the meditation of the first two words at that time, I could never forget the beautiful face of Beloved Sawan. I always remembered His face. I met Master Kirpal Singh much later after I had had the darshan of Baba Sawan Singh, but I always remembered Him. And one year before I met Master Kirpal Singh physically, I used to have His darshan internally, and I did not feel any difference between the form of Master Sawan Singh and Master Kirpal Singh. And it is true that when I met Him for the first time physically, I did not see Him as any different than Master Sawan Singh.

Dear ones, when you see the bhajans, you should read them thoroughly, and you will not be able to say whether the writer of this bhajan is an initiate of Master Sawan Singh or of Master Kirpal Singh. You will not see any difference, because the writer of these bhajans understands both Master Sawan and Kirpal as one. And understanding both of them as one and the same, he has written all these devotional bhajans.

When Guru Nanak left the body His initiates went to Guru Angad. Guru Angad and Guru Nanak had become one, so those disciples of Guru Nanak asked Guru Angad, “Do we have to take Initiation again from You?” Guru Angad laughed and said, “No. How can I teach those who are already taught by Guru Nanak?” He said, “You do not need to take the Initiation; you just need to concentrate at the eye center, and remember the form of Guru Nanak. You will see the form of Guru Nanak within, and outside also, if you are receptive. There is no difference. And you do not need to take the Initiation. You are my brothers in faith, my gurubhais and I have much respect and love for you.”

Dear ones, it also depends upon our love and affection. Once a person went to Majnu and told him, “A woman waiting outside wants to come and see you.” He replied, “Yes, she can come to see me, but she should come in the form of Laila.” So if you have love and affection for the Master, then the human pole through which your Master is working – it is a law of nature – will come in the form of your Master to see you – if you have the real love for Him.

QUESTION: Does each word of Simran represent a god of that region? Why do we have to do the devotion of these four regions when we have Sat Naam? And how does the Simran work in improving our lives, and how can we develop more love for Simran ?

SANT JI: Often I have said that these five holy words which we are given as a Simran are the names of the owners of those planes through which our soul has to go while meditating.

I will give you an example to understand this. Suppose you are coming to India from America and even though you have the visa to come to India, on the way you have to stop to do something. Or suppose you are to go from India to America, and even though you have the visa to go to America, on the way you have to stop at so many different places. You will have to obey the rules and regulations of the places where you stop. You can come out of the airplane, and visit there only according to that country's laws, and while there you will have to obey them. You cannot break the rules and regulations of those places just because you have a visa for America. In the same way, even though we have to go to Sach Khand, still we have to go through all these planes and we have to follow the rules and regulations of these planes. How soon we cross these planes and go to Sach Khand depends upon our devotion and our effort. Since we have to spend some time in these planes it is very important for us to do the devotion of the owners of these planes. We have to maintain the discipline of these planes.

It is like when we go to school. Unless we have learned everything, we have to respect, appreciate, and love all the teachers with whom we work. When we finish our studies, pass the final examinations, and complete all the school requirements, then it is up to us whether we will have any dealings or connections with the teachers who taught us. When we have become like them, when we have gained all the knowledge, then it does not make any difference whether we talk to them or not. In the same way, when we have reached Sach Khand, after that it is up to us whether we have to stop on those planes or have to deal with all those planes or not. In fact, it becomes very easy for us to go straight to our home, straight to Sach Khand. Gurumukhs always come and go very easily, because once they have reached their Real Home, Sach Khand, then it becomes very easy for them to come and go.

Love for the Simran is awakened only by doing it. You know that you can know about the quality of a tree only when you have eaten the fruit of it. In the same way, when you eat the fruit of the Simran – when you know how effective the Simran is – only then do you appreciate and start doing more Simran. When we do the Simran, we love the Simran, then we come to know how delicious and fruitful it is. When we start getting the fruit of doing Simran, we start to withdraw from all outer attachments and we withdraw from the sense organs. We rise above the level of mind and senses and get attached to the Shabd. Once we become attached to the Shabd by doing Simran, after that we get so much love for the Simran that even if we want to break it we cannot. As Guru Nanak Sahib says, “My Lord has tightened my string so tightly that it cannot be broken by anyone.” When you develop love for Simran and enjoy the taste of the fruit of Simran, then your condition becomes such that even if you want to break the habit of doing Simran, you cannot do it. But in the beginning, love for Simran is awakened only when you do it.

QUESTION: My dearly beloved Satguru, would you tell us about the principle of purity and how we can avoid the subtle worldly influences which dilute it? And what is maintaining a pure body?

SANT JI: Regarding purity, a lot has been said in the Satsangs and has been published in Sant Bani Magazine. I am sorry that even though you all subscribe to the magazine, still you do not read it carefully. If you read the magazine carefully, you can get the answers to all your questions. Guru Nanak Sahib said, “Truth is above all, but higher still is true living.” Master Kirpal also said, “No doubt truth is the highest, but true living is higher than the truth.”

Still I will try to explain to you. Sometimes when we are just sitting, in our mind we start having bad thoughts for someone. Many times we are not even near that person physically – we may be thousands of miles away from him – but we may start fighting with him in our thoughts. This is called having impure thoughts.

Until we make our thoughts pure, we cannot make our mind pure. And if our mind is not pure, if our mind is not eliminated with the purity, our soul can never become pure. And if our soul is not pure enough, then the mirror of the soul always remains dirty and heavy. And she cannot see her own light within.

Master Kirpal Singh Ji used to say that usually the good souls were given birth in India because in the early days in India people were not attracted very much to meat and wine and all those things. They knew how to keep their lives pure and almost all the people in India at that time were Godly-minded. They knew how important it was for them to maintain their marriage and how they had to maintain themselves and keep the family together. They had respect for their elders and did all the good things. So in those days it was very easy for the people to do the devotion of God.

India was called the land of the Rishis and Munis, because many great Rishis and Munis were born in India. And people from all over the world were attracted to this land of India because they were searching for God Almighty. But now the times have changed: India is also getting the effect of the Western countries. Now it is very difficult to find pure people who want to do the devotion of God and who understand the higher values of life. It is very difficult to find the true ones. There are many hypocrites who teach others to become good, but there are very few who themselves practice what they are preaching. There are many ashrams, many places of devotion which people have made so beautiful and comfortable. Those who go there are given all kinds of comforts and many good kinds of food. How can those people who are searching for God do the devotion of God; how can they do any Bhajan and Simran if they are given all those comforts of the world and are given good food to eat?

When I was doing the austerities and performed the practice of water falling on the head, at that time I came across many sadhus or holy men who would stay up day and night struggling with their minds and sense organs so that their thoughts would not become impure.

They would work very hard, because they did not want to have any impure or bad thoughts. So they would stay up all night and struggle so hard. Kabir Sahib also said, “Everyone in this world is happy because they eat, drink and sleep; but unhappy is poor Kabir who stays up all night and does the devotion of God.” Once in Vancouver, a dear one, who had spent a long time visiting many beautiful and comfortable ashrams in India, came to see me, and he wanted to know about the ashram here. So Mr. Sharma told him about the schedule we follow: how every morning at three o’clock you have to get up and sit for meditation, and how all day nothing else happens there except the meditation. So he was very impressed, and he asked me whether he could come to my ashram. I lovingly told him, “Dear one, I know that you have been to so many beautiful and comfortable ashrams in India, and I don’t think that you would like my ashram . . .”

You know that we do not have any conveniences or comforts. We do not have anything here except meditation. Once in 1978, an Indian businessman came to 77 RB ashram – those who have been there know that that place and this place are similar; that was in the jungle and this is also in the jungle – so that dear one had a great difficulty getting there. So when he arrived he was very tired and exhausted. When I saw his difficulties, I folded my hands to him and said, “Forgive me, that you had to go through all these difficulties in order to get here.”

He said, “No, I will not forgive you – you should make the ashram on the highway. It doesn’t matter if it is thousands of miles away from this place, but you should make it on the highway. And whatever money you need to make that ashram, I am ready to give that; but it should be on the road so that we can travel there without any difficulty.” I told him, “No, I cannot do this, because it is not in my hands. It is in the hands of my Beloved Master.” So the meaning of saying this is that, dear ones, you are very fortunate to get the opportunity of coming to this place, again and again. That is why you love the earth and sand of this place. You are always inspired to come and visit this place so that you can do the devotion of God. Whereas the Indian people who come here once and have difficulty in getting here, they don’t want to come back again. [laughter]

So dear ones, if you will maintain purity, you will start enjoying the fruits of the purity. It will have a very good effect on your physical health and on your meditations – you will start enjoying the meditations.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, can You speak about the disciple’s effort and the Master’s grace? How much effort are we really able to make? Master Kirpal used to talk about effortless effort. Is that just an expression of our soul’s longing?

SANT JI: Our efforts and Master’s grace both go together, because if we make efforts and Master does not shower grace on us, we cannot become successful. In the same way, if the Master showers grace on us and we are not making any efforts, still we cannot achieve any success. Regarding the grace of the Master, all the Saints have always said that the Masters are the form of grace and They are always showering grace on Their disciples. Their vision is always towards Their disciples, and not even for one moment do They take away Their grace from the disciples. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “The Masters are always pleased when They are able to mend the spoiled ones, but the disciples are such that they always want to spoil the things. And when the Masters mend the spoiled disciples, They are very happy and proud of Their improving the condition of the disciples, but the disciple does not understand that and he always goes on spoiling.”

The disciples always go on obeying their minds, and they always go on committing the sins. In the times of Master Sawan Singh, when people came to ask Him for forgiveness for their faults, Master Sawan Singh would ask them, “What fault or wrong have you done?” He would always say, “All right, you are forgiven; don’t do it again.” – because He was so gracious. I have seen the same thing with Master Kirpal Singh also. People would commit sins, and they would come to Him and ask for forgiveness. Always, in all His glory, He would forgive them. When the dear ones come to me, they tell me how many bad deeds they have done, and what bad qualities they have – I never ask them what they have done wrong, I always tell them, “I have sympathy for you; you are forgiven. You are not all alone in this battle; on your back there is the mighty hand of the Master. Get up and work hard, and don’t do this fault again.”

Dear ones, you might remember the first message I gave regarding coming here. In that I said that those who are planning to come here should prepare themselves, so that when they come here, it will be very easy for me to fill their vessel, and they may get the grace of the Master. But rare are the souls who come with that kind of preparation. It is not that nobody comes after preparing themselves; there are some souls who come with preparation. When they come here, it is very easy for them to continue doing their meditations, and it is very easy for me to fill up their vessel; and they go back with their cup filled.

But there are some dear ones who come here with empty hands and say, “We have nothing, and have come to get the grace. We want enough grace for six months.” Some people say they want enough grace for one year, and some people say they do not have anything and they want all the grace. They are asking for grace for six months or one year only because they have become confused by their mind. They are doing whatever their mind tells them. If they would not listen to their mind – you know that the Giver is ready to give the Bread of Life for the whole life – why ask for only six months or one year? When you have come here, you should come with all the preparation done, so that you can get the Bread for the rest of your life.

What do some unwise people do when they come here? When they sit for meditation, they sit there – but instead of doing Simran, and remembering the Master – they start praying for the worldly things. Some people ask for sons, some people ask for good health, some people ask for employment, and some people ask for this or that worldly thing. In that way they spend their whole hour remembering the worldly things and asking for those things. They don’t even know when the hour is spent and they are made to leave off the meditation.

And you can very well see whose devotion they are doing. Are they doing the devotion of their mind, or the devotion of the Master? Who is creating all these desires and thoughts within? It is our mind who creates all these desires and thoughts. And who do we want to fulfill our desires; we want our Master to fulfill all our desires which we are creating while sitting in meditation. So just imagine: are we doing the devotion of our mind or of the Master? If the dear ones, instead of doing the devotion of the Master, go on remembering the worldly things, does it not show how little love they have for the Master? Do we have any love for the Master? Do we have any affection for the Master? Are we here to do the devotion of the Master?

I am sorry that I took some more of your time and Pappu’s. If I had not looked at Pappu’s face, it is possible that I would have spent ten more minutes in talking. [Laughter.]

1988 June: The Path of Doing

This question & answer session was given December 27, 1987 at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Could You tell us a little bit about where Mother Millie is now, and what she is doing, and maybe when we’ll get to see her again.

SANT JI: I thank God Kirpal Who gave the secret of His Real Home to all of us, and Who put us on the Path which leads us to our Real Home. You know that Mother Millie did a lot of seva for my beloved Master, and she also served the sangat a lot, and she also did a lot of seva for me also. Right now she is at the feet of beloved Master Kirpal. She is enjoying her being there, and she is doing very well over there. You have been initiated, and you all can go within, if you would do the meditation. Even while living, you can go and see how she is doing and what she is thinking about us.

Dear Ones, the Masters say that this Path is not the Path of just talking, this is the Path of doing. And all the Masters have said that all those who go from this world do not come back and tell us what it is like over there. Only the Master Who comes from that side, tells us what it is like over there. He tells us that all the worldly things which we have been given, once we lose them, we cannot get them back in their original form. So once we have lost anything of this world we do not get it back, that is why Masters always say, “Don’t get attached to the bodies. Don’t get attached to the worldly things. Get attached to the Shabd Master, Who is the Form of the Shabd and Who is in your within.”

QUESTION: Great Master, I was wondering if You could give us some hints about the nature of how we help each other in Sach Khand?

SANT JI: You see, Dear Ones, it is not a bad thing to help others; it is a good thing to help. But before trying to help others we should look in our within and see whether we are capable of helping others or not. You know that in Spirituality – what to talk about helping others – we are not even able to help our own selves. All the Saints have said that Sach Khand is the land of peace. Over there, there is no birth and death. There is no need to help anyone because no one needs anybody’s help.

The souls who have reached there talk with God Almighty with their attention, and just with their attention. And looking at God Almighty they get to drink the nectar from Him. All the souls who have reached there are illuminated in their own radiance. They have become one with God Almighty because over there only God Almighty exists.

Dear Ones, a doctor is needed only where there are many sick people. And only a sick person has to go to a doctor for treatment. But where there are no sick people, nobody suffering, what is the need of the doctor there. Over there a doctor also lives like any other person, because he is not needed over there. Are we doing the devotion of the Lord and are we trying to go to that Land of Peace, only to seek help from others? What is the use of going to the place where we again have to seek help from others? Dear Ones, when our soul goes there it does not need anybody’s help, because over there only God Almighty exists. Everywhere the Power of God is existing, and all the souls who have reached there also become the form of God. In fact all the souls who reach there, do so only after becoming the form of God. It is like a drop of water mixes with the ocean and it also becomes the ocean. In the same way when our soul mixes with God Almighty, when our soul also becomes the form of God, only then does it reach Sach Khand. And that is why over there she does not need anybody’s help. In Sukhmani Sahib [The Jewel of Happiness] you would have read that Guru Arjan Dev said, “As a drop of water mixes with the other drops and becomes the whole ocean, in the same way the light mixes with the light and becomes the Supreme Light.” When the soul mixes with the Oversoul she also becomes the Oversoul.

I will tell you a short story which will help you to understand this. Once there was a king and one day he announced, “Today I will give away things; whatever people ask for they will get. So all those who want things should come.” So everyone came and got things.

Some people got clothes, and some people got other things. But in the evening, when it was quite late, one sweeper came and said, “Your Highness, I have just learned that today you are giving away things, and I am sorry that I am late, but I request you to give me something.” Even though the time had passed, still the king thought, “Since this person has come a long distance, and is showing so much humility, I should give him something.” He was very pleased with the sweeper’s humility and he gave him a plate of gold which was studded with five jewels and one diamond. The sweeper became very happy after getting that gold and jeweled plate, and he went to his home and gave the plate to his wife. His wife did not know the value of that plate. She thought she could use it for removing dirt. She thought, “Everyday I buy a plate-like thing, and it always gets broken. But this looks like a very sturdy plate, and I can use it for sweeping up the dirt from people’s homes.” So next morning when she went to work, she used that golden plate studded with jewels and the diamond, and the plate got dirty and became black. A voice came which said, “You are doing the wrong thing – this golden plate is not supposed to be used for this purpose.” But she did not hear that voice, and she continued using the golden plate as a dustpan.

This is just an example: what is the reality? The reality is that God Almighty is like the king who gives everything to the souls. And after we have gone through all the different bodies, finally when our time comes and we come to God Almighty, we request of Him: “God Almighty, You should give us something. Going through all the different creation we are now tired.” Then graciously, God Almighty, looking at our humility and willingness to improve, gives us the precious human body. The human body is just like that golden plate. And along with the human body He gives us the intellect which is like the diamond. And He gives us the five organs of senses which are like the five jewels on that plate. But what is our condition? Instead of using this body for the purpose for which it was given, we are misusing it. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “It is a special commission given to the Saints and Mahatmas that if They ride upon any animal, or if They step on any creature, or if They eat the fruit of any tree – it is the law of nature that those souls get the human body.” So because of one or another of our good karmas of our past lives when we were in the lower bodies, finally we get the human body which is like a golden plate. God Almighty gives us all these things but we do not use them for the purpose they were given to us. Instead of doing the devotion of the Lord and appreciating and valuing the golden plate – the human body – what we are doing is putting in it the meat, wine, and all other kinds of dirty things. We are indulging in the worldly pleasures and we are doing all those things which we should not be doing. In that way we are making this human birth black like that sweeper’s wife had made that golden plate black. Guru Nanak Sahib says that we got this human birth, this human body, which was worth a diamond but we are wasting it for the shells. All the worldly things we are doing are like dealing with shells; and we are using this precious human birth, which is like a diamond, just in exchange for the shells.

The hansa or the swan was supposed to drink nectar and eat pearls, but instead he is indulging himself in the rubbish of the world. In that way he is wasting his birth also. That is why all the Masters say that when we have gotten this human birth which is a very precious diamond, we should use it for the purpose for which it was given to us.

QUESTION: I have two questions: The first is – How far can a satsangi go to try to prevent an abortion? I am a doctor and people come to me for advice. Should a satsangi go so far as to adopt a baby, to prevent an abortion?

The second is, when you had that little boy living with you,⁹ and he urinated in the drainpipe, and he told you that Master Kirpal told him to do that—well, I wouldn't have believed him. I would have said, "Don't do that. I want to hear that from Master Kirpal myself" How did you know to believe him? And how can we become like you?

SANT JI: If someone has a long question he should try to make it brief because the answer to the long question is also long and that takes up the whole time of the other dear ones. There are other dear ones who want to ask questions.

I know that you are a doctor and there are many other doctors sitting here. Nowadays the world is such that people have gone so much in this direction that even if the doctors don't want to do an abortion, still the people come to them and request them, and tell them, that it should be done.

I, myself, have practiced medicine and right from my childhood my thoughts were religious, very godly. If anybody would come to me asking for this thing I would always tell him, "No. If I have done this practice, if I have learned the medicine, it is for saving the lives of people, not for taking anyone's life." Dear ones, just think, when life is put into the body, at that time the baby is very helpless, the baby cannot do anything. If at that time, in the womb of the mother, he is killed, he is made to leave the body – Guru Nanak has said that such souls have very hard karmas to pay off and that is why they meet their end in this way – but still, after all, sin is sin, and those who do that get the punishment for it. They have to pay for it. Using the chemicals or other things, when you abort the child, when you kill the child in the womb of the mother, it is very painful. Just imagine if you were in that situation before you were born. If somebody were to kill you, what would you feel? Would you feel happiness or pain?

We are the Satsangis and we have been taught that an account will be asked of our every single deed and we will have to pay for it, as that is the punishment for the sins; that is the reward for the good deeds, also. So that is why we should abstain from this kind of deed.

The child whom you have mentioned was saved by the doctor. She was a civil surgeon, an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh. When the parents wanted to abort the child (the parents were also Satsangis; they were also initiates), because she understood and remembered the teachings of great Baba Sawan Singh, that is why she called me in and asked why this was happening. She said, "The parents are initiates; I am also a Satsangi. This is not a good thing to have happen." That is why whatever I could do at that time for the child, I did. I told that couple, "Whatever the child is, whether he is a boy or a girl I will be responsible for that child and I will take care of it."

Regarding your other question about that child saying and my believing, you said that if you were in my place you would not have believed until you had talked with Master Kirpal. This all depends upon one's receptivity. It all depends upon what kind of vessel you have. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that many times it so happens that because the children are innocent, they are connected with the Master, and many times they gain so much more concentration than the adults. And they see and get instructions from the Masters a lot more than the adults do.

⁹ See Sant Bani, September 1987, pp. 6-7. June 1988

There is a very famous incident of our area. Once there was a satsangi who used to buy and sell camels but he was not doing very well. He had been in that business for many years but still he was very poor and he was not earning enough from that business. His son got an experience from Master in which Master told him to tell his father that he should stop doing the business of the camels and he should go to a certain village and start a shop over there.

So his son told him about his experience, and about what Master had told him to tell his father. That dear one, that Satsangi, came and asked me whether what his son was saying was true or not. I lovingly told him, “Whatever your son is telling you to do you should do. Because he is right. The children are the innocent souls and many times they can concentrate much better than we can do. Many times the Masters give them good experiences and give them the darshan. That is why you should do it.” He did that and whatever experience that boy had related, that was very true. Now regarding the other part of your question about how you can become like me: You know that you are a very learned man; you are very educated; you are very rich. I am a poor person: I am ignorant; I am not very educated. I understand myself as the dust of the feet of the Sangat. You have also been put on the same Path as I was put on. And you also know to do the same things which I have done. So by doing all those things you can also become like me. Because all the Masters want that Their disciples should become like Them in their lifetimes.

Those who have spent their lives with me are still here and you can ask them if I ever gave them the opportunity of seeing me in any cinema or if they ever saw me eating good foods, or if they ever saw me condemning any food which was prepared for me. If you want, you can talk to them and they will tell you that they have never seen anything like that in me. In my whole life I never wore good clothes; I never went for the delicious food. Whatever was prepared for me I always gladly accepted that, whether it was prepared well or badly. I never commented on any food which was prepared for me. I always lived a very simple life. Whatever the Saints and Mahatmas have written in Their banis about the five dacoits, with the grace of my beloved Masters, I always abstained from them. And I can say that it was only because of the grace of the Masters that I was able to live my life according to what the Masters have written in the scriptures and holy books.

Baba Bishan Das prepared me. Many times when I went to Him, He taught me a lot. He made my life. He gave me a lot of beatings, also. Whatever He did with me, if I would do with you, I don't think that you would want to even sit here. It is very easy to give a donation to the Master. Master will take it and He will thank you for that and it is all right. But if instead of thanking you for the donation you have given to Him, if you get a beating from the Master, can you imagine sitting in front of Him? I am sure that you will not be able to do that; you will run right away.

As I have said earlier, many times when I would go to Baba Bishan Das with a large donation, He would take it and then He would also slap me; He would beat me. Instead of thanking me for the donation, He would give me a beating. He was doing all that because He wanted to make my life. In fact, He made my life by doing all the things He did. He made me suffer the hunger and thirst. He made me go through so many things. He was doing that only because He wanted to make me the strong one. You know that in order to become a pot, what process of sufferings the mud has to go through, the mud has to suffer. First the mud is dug from the earth. Then it is ground into fine clay and afterwards it is mixed with water, and then on the spinning wheel it is spun. And after that with a piece of very fine thread it is cut. In the end it has to be baked in the oven, in the fire. After that it becomes a pot.

In the same way, dear ones, it is not an easy thing to become a Saint. I would say that in order to become a Saint or in order to even become like a Saint, if you spent numerous lives, still it is worth it. I had all the worldly things which I wanted. My father was able to give me all those things, but I was devoted to something else. The devotion and love is, after all, love and devotion. Wherever one is devoted and whatever one loves, he wants to do only that.

If we maintain the purity, then we will appreciate what purity is. In the same way, if we concentrate, then we will know how fruitful the concentration is and what we get by concentrating at the eye center. Those who have abstained from the five evils, those who have abstained from them and who have maintained purity, only they know how much peace they get when they have controlled all these organs of senses. Because you know that when these sensual pleasures, these five dacoits confuse you, when they mislead you, then what happens? Neither in the day nor in the night do you have any peace. In the nights also, you have the dreams and thoughts of all the five dacoits bother you.

I am very pleased with the dear one who has asked this question. At least he has this thought that he wants to become like me.

QUESTION: I have been told that Master Kirpal told His initiates, that at the time of death, when the Lord of Judgment asks them, “Whose disciple are you?” they should say, “Kirpal Singh of Delhi.” And He emphasized that they should say “from Delhi.” For those of us who are Your initiates, when we get asked that question by the Lord of Judgment, should we say “Ajaib Singh from 16PS?”

SANT JI: It depends upon one’s faith. Whatever Master said is true. But I will say that you should do the meditation. You should not even wait for the Lord of Judgment. You should only wait for the Master.

Even the Negative Power is made by the Timeless One, the Sat Purush. And He also functions with the support of the Sat Purush. But those who have already taken refuge at the feet of the Sat Purush, the Negative Power does not come for them. It is always the Sat Purush, the Perfect Master, who comes for them. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Even if we don’t do the meditation, still the Master will come for us. But it is not our bravery. We do not get any credit for His coming because we have not done the meditation.”

It is a very special grace which the Master showers on the disciples, to warn them, to make the disciples remember. They say, “At least you can remember, at least you should say that you are the disciple of such a Master.”

1988 August: On Helping Others

This question and answer session was given on March 27, 1988, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, one of the most moving things about Jesus Christ was that He seemed very vulnerable and He exposed His suffering at the end of His life. When He was dying on the cross He even seemed to reach the point of human despair and called out to God and asked Him, “Why have You forsaken me?” Can You tell us if You or other Masters have reached that point of despair and have called out to God because of the suffering You do for our sins?

SANT JI: Master Sawan Singh Ji used to talk about the sufferings the past Masters had to undertake. He used to talk about how Guru Arjan Dev Ji was tortured and how Jesus Christ was also tortured and similarly what happened with Kabir Sahib, Mulana Rumi, and how Shamaz Tabrez was de-skinned. When He used to talk about all those past Masters’ sufferings on account of the payment of Their disciples’ karmas He also used to say, “If we were not under the British rule, it is possible that we also would have been judged and we also would have suffered the same kind of things which the past Masters suffered.”

You can very well imagine how the Saints suffer because the Negative Power does not spare anyone as far as the karmas are concerned. It is the same for everyone. Either the disciple has to pay off the karmas which he does or the Master who has given him the initiation has to pay off the karmas. The Negative Power does not give any concession to anyone. All Saints have to suffer on account of the karmas of Their disciples. It is up to the Negative Power to decide how he wants the Saints to suffer, if he wants he can ask for an eye; if he wants he can ask for any other part of the body; and it is possible that he may torture the Saints to death as he has done in the case of many of the past Masters.

Regarding Jesus Christ saying, “O Lord why hast Thou forsaken me?” – this could never happen. You know, the historians have written the account a long time after the Masters have left Their bodies and it is possible that the person who wrote this may have misunderstood or he may have made some kind of mistake. The Saints could never say to God Almighty, “Why have You forsaken us?” The Masters always pray for the well-being of Their disciples.

They pray for those people who are putting Them to the cross, who are torturing Them, but They never say, “God, why have You forsaken us?” God Almighty is within Them and They see that whatever is happening is in the Will of God. There is no way that They would say something like this to God; They would never utter these words to God.

Dear ones, I have often said that Saints do not have any karmas of Their own to pay off. All the suffering They have are due to the karmas of Their disciples. Often it happens that while the Master is suffering the karma of some dear one, that same dear one might see the Master suffering and he might have ill feelings for the Master, lose his faith in the Master, and wonder why the Master is suffering so much.

Once Master Sawan Singh was ill with a fever. He was suffering very much and a dear one asked Him, “Why are you suffering so much?” Master Sawan Singh was suffering the karma of that dear one and He knew that. That dear one asked Master Sawan Singh, “Is this Your karma?” Master Sawan Singh made His heart very hard and He said, “No, this is not my karma. This is the karma of one of my dear ones.”

In 1984 the hearts of the people in India had turned demonic and they did not have any love or sympathy. They were very brutally killing the people of one particular community. The way they were killing those people cannot be mentioned or described because it was so bad and so brutal. At that time when innocent people were being killed in that way, I did write this bhajan and I did say these words to my beloved Master, “The happiness has gone away. Who will look after our sufferings. Come beloved Kirpal. To whom else can I tell about my sufferings?”

Guru Nanak Sahib was in Amadebad when the Moguls were torturing the other people. No one’s life was secure at that time and when He saw how people were molested and how they were killed He felt sorry for them. He felt a lot of pain and sadness for them. He said to Almighty Lord, “All these souls are crying. Don’t You feel the pain? O Lord, all these souls are crying and they are suffering like this. Don’t You have any pain for them? Don’t You have any sympathy for them?”

Babur, the Mogul emperor, had captured Guru Nanak Sahib with the others and those who were captured were given a very huge amount of grain to grind into flour. It was not possible for one person to do so much, but still they were made to grind all that grain. Guru Nanak Sahib was also given a mill and grain, but He did not lose any faith. He said, “In pain or in happiness we should remember only Him.” He told all the people around Him, “This all has been given to us by God Almighty and we should remember Him all the time whether it is the moment of pain or happiness.”

To understand Jesus Christ as different than God Almighty is a mistake. God Almighty was present within Him and whatever He wanted He could have done, but outwardly, for other people’s eyes, the Masters always pretend to be simple people. If you go and sing Their praises, if you go and tell Them that They have all these good qualities, They will say, “No, we do not have any good qualities in us.” They will give all the credit to Their Master. They would say, “All these qualities were in our Master.”

QUESTION: Master, there are people in Colombia who are saying that if you give money or do anything for other people you create karmic debt and you have to pay it back. Now they are afraid to do anything for other people.

SANT JI: It is a very good question but I am sorry to say that I have answered this question in one of the Satsangs. I had very clearly explained this in the Satsang. It is possible that at that time you may have been controlled by sleep.

I said that you should not hesitate in helping others and giving things to others if they need it, but it should be done in a selfless way and you should not remember after you have helped anyone. Right after doing that good deed you should forget about it. I have also said that when you are giving donations or when you are helping people whether they are Satsangis or non-Satsangis you should forget it right away and you should not expect anything in return. You should not do any good deed, you should not give money or things to anyone expecting a reward from it.

If you help someone expecting something in return or expecting a reward, then you will have to come back to get that thing back. Saints never make Their disciples ungracious. They never say that you should not help others. They say that you should help others, because the tradition that They have started of helping others is the result of Their broadmindedness. The Saints give the donation of Their own life to the dear ones. But They always say that when you give things to others, when you do anything for others, you should forget about it and you should not expect anything in return.

Guru Nanak Sahib said, “By giving things away with your hand you should make good for other people.” He said, “If God Almighty has given us anything which we can give to others, if we have helped others, we should be grateful to God Almighty and we should tell Him. We should be grateful that we are not attached to the Maya, and we should be grateful and pray to Him. We should thank Him because it is only because of His grace that we were able to do this.”

Only he who is not attached to the Maya can give the donations. Only he who understands the Maya as the dirt of his palms make a donation and give things to others. Such a person does not hesitate to help others.

Kabir Sahib said, “A miser neither eats the food himself nor does he let other people eat. He neither donates money himself nor does he let other people donate.” He said, “O Kabir, the wealth of the miser is only for seeing because it cannot be used. It cannot be given away. If even one penny is decreased then the owner of that Maya will break your bones.”

Kabir Sahib also said, “If your boat is filling with water the wise person is the one who takes out the water. In the same way, if your home is flooded with wealth, if you have a lot of wealth, the wise person is that one who gives it away to others as a donation.”

Master Kirpal Singh Ji used to say, “Before giving donations we should think about where we are making the donation and we should only give to needy people. We should not give a donation where it is not needed, where they already have the vessels made of gold and where they have the floors made of marble.”

Where they have so much and they do not need your donations, you should not donate. Those who have vessels made of gold and the floors made of marble do not remember God Almighty. They don't do the devotion of God. They only make nice houses and nice buildings. Then because of that, one community fights with another community; one party fights with another party. I do not mean to criticize anyone but I am saying only what I have seen with my eyes and what our beloved Master Kirpal said about donations.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell a very interesting story. Once there was a Mahatma who had this rule that he would eat food only at a person's home who earned his livelihood honestly. So one day he went to a city and asked the people there, “Is there anyone in this city who works very hard and who earns his livelihood honestly?” Some people told him, “Yes. There is a trader here who is very true and he does not lie. No matter who goes to buy things from him whether it is a child or an old man or a grown-up man, he treats everyone alike. The rates are alike for everyone and he does not cheat anyone. He is the only one who earns his livelihood honestly.” The Mahatma further inquired about that trader. He asked how many sons he had. He was told that he had four sons. And when he asked how wealthy he was, he was told that he must have something like four hundred thousand rupees.

So, the Mahatma came to that trader and told him that he had come there to eat at his home. The trader welcomed him and said, “Yes, Mahatma Ji, come, please take your seat.” And he asked his family to make food for that Mahatma. After some time while they were talking the Mahatma asked the trader, “Dear one, tell me how many sons you have.” He replied, “Mahatma Ji, I have only one son.” Mahatma was surprised because he had heard that that trader had four sons. He asked him further, “Okay. Tell me how much wealth you have.” He replied, “I have only one lakh rupees. I have only one hundred thousand rupees.”

The Mahatma was so upset that he got up from his seat and he was about to leave. The trader said, “Mahatma Ji, why have you gotten up? The food is being prepared for you. Please sit down and have your food and only then should you go.” The Mahatma said, “I understood that you are a very truthful person. But people told me that you have four sons and you are telling me that you have only one son. Do you think that I am going to take your three sons away? Why have you lied to me? And people told me that you have four hundred thousand rupees. But you tell me that you have only one hundred thousand rupees. Why is that? Do you think I am going to take your wealth away?” The trader said, “Mahatma Ji, you did not understand what I was saying. Please sit down and listen to me.”

Then the trader told the Mahatma, “You see, only one of the four sons helps me in the spiritual cause, so I consider that he is my only son. The others are the gamblers or the drunkards and they have come as my sons only to take their debt back. So that is why I don’t consider them my own sons. I consider only one my own son because he helps me in the holy cause, in the spirituality. That is why he is my only son.”

“Regarding the money, so far I have spent only one hundred thousand rupees in the spiritual cause. I know the money I have spent in the spiritual cause is the only money which is counted in my name. It is the only money I can call my own because I am only going to get the benefit of that much money. The other money will be spent in paying the fees of the doctors or to the lawyers. I don’t know how I am going to use that money. I do not know whether I will be getting any benefit from that money. That is why I say only one hundred thousand rupees belong to me. Because I am sure I have used that money in the spiritual cause, and I will be getting benefit from that money.” When the trader explained this to the Mahatma in this way he understood and did not have any other excuse, so he sat down there and he ate his food.

So Guru Nanak Sahib also said, “Before giving donations you should first check the same way you test the field before you sow the seeds. You should check the field where you are giving the donation. You should not give the donation to the place or to the people who are not going to use it in a good way. And once you have given the donation you should forget about it.”

The following story is from my own experience with Master Kirpal Singh. There was an initiate of Master Sawan Singh Ji who used to live in this area. He used to be a business man and he had very heavy losses in his business. He owed people a lot of money. He was so disappointed with his life that once when I was going to Karampur in the jeep, he laid down in front of my jeep. When I saw him there I stopped the jeep and asked him why he was doing that. He said, “I owe people so much money – more than the number of hairs on my head – and I have lost my reputation. Unless I get the money to pay back to the people I am not going to survive. I am going to commit suicide. So you help me.”

I told him, “If you had come to me last night I would have made some arrangement, but I cannot do anything right now. I have to go to see the Master. Give me some time and tonight I will sell one of the squares of my land and I will give you something like five or six hundred rupees and you can pay back your debts and then you don’t need to worry about anything.”

That person listened to me and he knew I could do that because I had so much love for him and he knew that I would give him the money. So after telling him all this I went to see Master Kirpal. After seeing Him I was in a rush. I had to come back and arrange to sell the land so I could give the money to that dear one. When I asked Master’s permission to leave He asked me why I was in such a rush. I told Him about that dear one. Right then another dear one had come to see Master Kirpal and he had given Him a huge amount of money, a large donation. At once Master Kirpal gave me that money and He told me, “You can sell the land later on but take this money and give it to this dear one. Maybe he can use this money.”

But I am sorry to say that before I reached that place that dear one had already committed suicide. He did not wait for me. His son met me in Purampur, about sixty kilometers from that place, and he told me about him having committed suicide.

The dear one who had come to donate that money to Master Kirpal Singh must have thought that Master had accepted that donation because He needed the money. But Master did not keep that money with Him even for a second. He gave that to me to use for that other dear one. It is possible that if I had reached there in time, if it was meant to be, then that person’s life would have been saved. And the person who had given the money would have earned a good karma for having saved one person’s life. But it did not happen. It is possible that Master wanted His money to be utilized in some other cause, in some better cause.

Saints have a very big heart. There was an initiate of Master Kirpal Singh who was an Inspector on the Police force. He was a very truthful man. He would not accept bribes and he would always do his job in a good way. But somehow there was a false lawsuit against him because he had been determined not to take bribes.

As you know, these days it is the habit of the leaders that unless you accept bribes from the people and share with them, the leaders, using their power, always keep your bags packed. They always keep you moving from one place to another and they make trouble for you such as false lawsuits and things like that. They do not like you if you do not take bribes and share it with them.

So, that Police Inspector was the victim of poor leaders like this. When that false lawsuit was brought against him, he thought of committing suicide, thinking that there was no use in living in such a world where people don’t appreciate the truth. Since he was a very good person, an initiate, he came to my village to discuss all this with me and he wanted to seek my advice about whether he should commit suicide. When he told me his story I lovingly told him, “Why do you feel like this? Why do you consider committing suicide? You will definitely get whatever is written in your fate and if you want anything I have fifty kilos of land here and this house which I can give to you.” I touched his feet and told him, “Don’t try to end your precious life.”

When I told him all these things and when I offered him the land and the house he was soothed and he gave up the thought of committing suicide, and he again started living his normal life. Just a couple of days ago, after a period of about fifteen years, he came here having been promoted to the District Superintendent of Police, and brought with him many of the other policemen. The people who used to live with me at that time had seen him as the Police Inspector, which was a lower rank, but when he came here as a higher officer along with the other policemen they did not recognize him. So, he asked the people here, “Do you recognize me?” And when the dear ones here said, “No. We don’t.” He replied, “I am the person who was offered the land and the home by the Master. His offering changed my life and I am here to see Him. You can imagine how much it affected me that He offered me all those belongings.”

Earlier, an army officer was visiting me in my earlier village and I served him good food to eat. In that place I had many big houses on my property. After eating the food and after being served very well he looked at all the buildings and things and he said, “You are not married; you do not have any child; but you have all these big houses and all this property. Who are you going to give this to after you leave?” I told him, “Dear one, you see that you came here and I served you selflessly, but you are looking at my property?” The meaning of saying this is that people are always attached to the property. They always look at the things of the Saints, but Saints do not even take one moment to become detached from the property. They do not even think twice before They give away all the worldly properties that They have. If we make our hearts like the hearts of the Saints then we will not be involved in these kinds of questions – whether we should give things to others, whether we should help others or not, or whether we will have karmic debts or not.

Dear ones, to accept things from people is a bad thing. But to give things to people when they are in need is not a bad thing. Whenever we get the opportunity we should always be ready to help others.

Swami Ji Maharaj said, “The Master is not hungry for your wealth because He has the wealth of the Shabd Naam within Him. But by accepting your wealth as a donation He makes your wealth successful and He does good things with that money by giving food to the hungry and water to the thirsty and by doing good for others.

Only the father knows how hard or how honest the earning of the son is, and only he knows how he has to appreciate and protect that and use it in a good way. That is why the Master is the only One who is worthy of our donation and we should only give the donations to the cause of the Master. As Kabir Sahib said, “It is of no use to give the donations to someone other than the Master, or to move the rosary without doing the devotion of the Master.”

If there is any Satsangi who needs our help and if we can help him, if God has showered Grace upon us, then there is nothing wrong with helping him. But your help should be selfless.

In Rajasthan there is a saying that, “In one hand you have the food for others, and at the same time in the mouth you have taunts for him.” It is as though you help someone and then you go on taunting him saying, “I have helped you and you do not appreciate it and I will not help you again.” You should not do this. Dear Ones, whenever you help anyone, you should forget about it right away.

I hope that now your dear ones, the dear ones in Colombia, will not hesitate to help others.

1988 September: When You Recognize Your Friend

This question & answer session was given February 28, 1988, in Rajasthan.

QUESTION: I have been told that it is not good to discuss your meditation experiences with anybody; I wondered if that includes your mate as well.

SANT JI: In our religious scriptures it is written that there are four ages: one age comes after another. So there are four ages: the golden age, the silver age, the copper age, and the present Iron age, or Kali Yuga. And it is written in those scriptures, that in the Sat Yuga or golden age if a person would do anything good or bad, if he would commit any sin or if he would do anything good, everyone had to pay for that deed, everyone would enjoy the fruit of his good deed or suffer for his bad deed. In the silver age it so happened that if a person did any bad deed the whole city in which that person lived would be responsible for that one bad karma of that person. In the same way, if he did anything good the whole city would enjoy the fruit of his good deed. In the copper age, it became like this: if a person did anything wrong his consequences had to be paid by his family. And in the Iron age, the present – we call Kali Yuga the worst age because the mind has become very swift, there are many passions, there are many snares in this iron age, and that is why all the souls are very much stuck in this iron age – that is why we call this age, the Kali Yuga, as very bad. The rule of this age is that whoever does any good or bad karma, only he is responsible for that. Not even the wife of a person is responsible for any good or bad deed the husband has done. And in the same way the husband is not responsible for any good or bad the wife has done. Whoever does anything, good or bad, is responsible for that and he has to suffer or enjoy that account of that karma. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Whoever does the karma, only he is held responsible for that; others are not responsible for that.” Master Sawan Singh used to say that not even the husband or wife have the same kind of experiences, whether husband or wife we all have our own karmas. Since we all have our own karmas, the relation between husband and wife is of a worldly nature – but here we are following the Path of Spirituality; it is different than the worldly ways. In the worldly ways we have to cooperate with love and respect for each other, but as far as the Path of Spirituality is concerned we are responsible for our own selves.

Do you think that the husband and wife will not be jealous of each others’ progress if they knew about it? Jealousy of the other person has a great effect on our practices. I know this because I receive so many letters from the dear ones, from the husbands and wives; and the love between the husbands and wives easily changes with the waves of the mind. One wave of the mind comes and both of them come very close to each other in love, but when the other wave of the mind comes, that takes them apart. There was an initiate couple, a husband and wife, of Master Kirpal, and once they had a little bit of an argument, and got upset with each other; after that the husband sat in meditation. He was sitting in the courtyard doing his meditation, and his wife was cleaning the courtyard, and when she saw that her husband was sitting in meditation she prayed to Master Kirpal Singh, “O Baba Kirpal, if you are listening to me, don’t let my husband’s soul withdraw. Don’t let him concentrate, because he is sitting in meditation after getting upset with me.” So do you think that if such a wife knows about the progress of her husband that she will not be jealous of her husband? There are many things of this world you can share with your wife. If you can live a very loving life with her, you can gain even more experience, you can gain a lot more comfort in the worldly life also.

Pappu knows about this: once there was a dear one who had just gotten married, he had met a woman and had gotten married to her; it was the love of the beginning, a new relation was formed. Now they were very happy, there were so many desires and so many good things in their minds. The husband was flying so high in his emotions. “Ever since I met this woman, I have gained everything. I see everything in her; she is the real peace- and happiness-giver to me. I see Kirpal only in her. She is everything . . .” He went on saying all these things to me. I did not feel very comfortable arguing with him, and I only said, “I can only wish that your love for each other may grow with the grace of Lord Kirpal.” I did not want to say anything more.

After a few months they got upset with each other and got separated; then I tried my best to bring them back together. I even reminded him of that time when he was talking very highly of his wife. But until now they have not yet gotten back together. So what kind of love do this husband and wife have for each other? What kind of relation do they maintain; and how much do they understand about the strength of the relation of husband and wife?

Once a similar question was asked of Kabir Sahib and he said, “Looking at such people I feel embarrassed.” Because the love of the Master is very high, very pure; but what do we do? We bring that love to the level of the mind and sense organs – to the level of passions. And looking at the condition of such dear ones who bring the very high and pure love of the Master down to the level of the worldly love, then the Masters feel embarrassed.

QUESTION: For quite a while I have been wondering, when you were in the room for three years, I wonder if you might relate to us some of the experiences you went through? Did you have to fight with Kal and the Greater Kal and if so what form did he take, things like that? I wonder if you can give us more detail on what happened in those three years?

SANT JI: Regarding this I have often said that during the Second World War, I had happily proposed my name even though it was not my turn and even though I was not asked to join the army and go to the war front. At that time there was no law that you had to be eighteen years old before you could join the army. At that time they wanted people to go fight against Hitler whose army was advancing very much. They were not worried whether one was young or old, they only wanted to reduce the number of bullets, thinking that if they would have more people on the war front, then that would destroy more bullets of the enemy. They were many times forcing people to join the army. I have often said that at that time many people preferred to go to prison for twenty or thirty years, but they did not want to face certain death fighting against Hitler. Since he was advancing very fast, they all knew that if they would join the army, death was certain for them.

At that time, even though it was not my turn and no one was forcing me, still I gave my name; I joined the army and I gave my name to go to the war front. So when I appeared in front of the officers they looked me over and were wondering how such a young boy had joined the army, and why he was prepared to go to the war front. Just a month after we were drafted and when we were about to be sent to the front, they called all of us and the medical doctor looked at all of us. They told us to remove our shirts so that they could see who was weak and who needed milk. When the doctor asked the commander who should be given milk and who should not, the commander wept and said, “They are all scapegoats, why don’t you give milk to everyone?” Because he knew that all those who had joined the army would definitely meet their death. I have told you many times that at that time I was not worried about death and I was very happy. I did not have any regrets because I knew that death will come no matter where you are, and in whatever way it is destined for you, death will come. So I did not feel any fear, I was not afraid and I did not have any regrets about joining the army.

But when it came to the meditation and when I was sitting here meditating, one day when I was going to the underground room to sit in meditation, the Negative Power, or Mind who is the agent of the Negative Power – no matter what name you call that Power – that Power came in front of me in the form of a lion and he opened his mouth, and he did not let me go inside. He was adamant; he was determined that he would not let me go inside the meditation hall. It was very difficult for me to face that and at that time I realized how it was easy to go into the army and accept death, but how it was more difficult to go into the meditation hall and face the Negative Power.

On the battlefield you know that the bullet will come and hit you and at once your body will cool down, but here there is no bullet. And here you don’t have any weapon, you don’t have any bow and arrows, the only thing you have is the Master and the shield of the Shabd Naam which Master has given to you. But when I had to face the Negative Power in the form of a lion, then I realized how difficult it is to go inside and struggle with the mind. It is not only me who is saying that it is very difficult to struggle with the mind – all the Masters, all the Saints Who have done the meditation, and those Who have struggled with the mind have said so. When Baba Sawan Singh Ji did His meditation He also realized how difficult it was to fight with the mind. And He also said that it is very difficult to fight with the mind. And when our True Lord, Great Emperor Kirpal Singh did His meditation, He also witnessed the same things and He also said that is not an easy thing to fight with the mind.

Tulsi Sahib also said, “O Tulsi to fight in the battlefield is the work of a day or two, but to fight with the mind is a continuous struggle, a continuous battle, in which you do not even have any weapons.”

Supreme Father Kirpal used to say, “If your friend goes away and he comes again in a different coat will you not recognize him?” In the same way, if that Almighty Lord who had once come to you and after going away, now when He has come back again in a different coat, in a different form, will you recognize him? If you are sure – if you have recognized Him – that He is your same Father, He is your same friend, who once came to you and offered His hand to you, and you caught hold of His hand, but after some time you let go of His hand – and now He has come again to help you; will you ask for the experiences from Him? Or will you just follow Him and do what He is telling you to do? I think that if you get back your Friend who you lost and if you are sure that He is the One Who will take you to the Real Home, you will definitely obey His commandments and not ask for anything else.

Mahatma Chatar Das was an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh, a very great meditator. He used to say, “When one recognizes his Friend, he embraces Him and he loves Him.” And He used to say, “What is the condition of the dear one, when he recognizes his Friend? He becomes one with his Friend like the sugar becomes one with the patasa.” You see that the sugar mingles in the patasa [sugar candy] and the patasa is not different from the sugar; there is no difference between them. In the same way when you recognize your old Friend you become one with Him. I put this in a different way, I say, “When the dear loving soul meets the Perfect Master it is just like bringing dry gun powder in contact with fire.”

I learned the habit of obeying the commandments when I was in the army because you know that in the army it is a rule that whatever order you have been given, first of all you are supposed to carry that out, and then you can make excuses or ask questions. If they tell you, “You should cook the food.” The food should be cooked, you cannot make excuses, that you do not have firewood, or you do not have water, you don’t have salt, or you don’t have rations, or anything like that. Whatever they have told you, if they have told you that the food should be cooked, it should be cooked. Afterwards you can report and tell them that you did not have this thing, and some other thing was away, etc. So when I was sitting here meditating I used to think, “I used to follow the orders of the worldly people, but now the Great Man – He is not a man, He is the Almighty Lord – has come to my home, showering a lot of grace on me; can I not obey His commandments like I used to follow my officers in the army?”

Kabir Sahib said, “If a thirsty person goes to a man who has water with him, that thirsty person will not ask any questions – whether the water is hot or cold, whether it is dirty or clean, or what kind of water it is. He will at once ask for water and at once request that person to quench his thirst.” In the same way Guru Nanak Sahib also said, “If you try to sell your true goods to the people who do not have appreciation for them, they will not appreciate them; it will be of no use. But if you get a person who appreciates your goods, and if you give the goods to him, then he will value and get a lot of benefit from what you give him.”

I had thirst in me – right from my childhood I was very thirsty. I was so much thirsty that when God Almighty Kirpal came with the bag of Nectar, that Water which I was longing for, I did not ask him any questions. I did not ask Him from which caste He is from, whether He was married or not, whether He had any children or not. I did not ask Him any question, I just got the thing I was longing for since my childhood. When He gave me that thing, I did whatever He told me to do. He made room in my within, and He allowed me to dwell in Him. Dear ones, what more experience can you ask from the Master if you know He is the one who has come to quench your thirst?

Many dear ones have heard the story of Hir and Ranja; they were two great lovers in India. Ranja used to live in a place called Tukat Hazara. Ranja was his surname; his first name was Deeto; and he belonged to a very good, well-to-do family. Hir was also from a very good family and she used to live in the place called Junsheal. Ranja had love for Hir even though he had not seen her. It was not the worldly kind of love, not made dirty with the worldly indulgence; it was the real love of the soul. So Ranja left his home, his family, his comforts, his everything. He crossed the river and he went to the place where Hir used to live in a place called Junsheal. Hir's family had a lot of buffaloes. In those days it was not very easy for any man to go and propose himself for marriage, so Ranja did not dare to go to Hir's parents and tell them that he wanted to marry Hir. He had the real love for Hir, but he could not even tell Hir that he loved her. So instead, in order to remain close to his beloved, he started working for Hir's family taking care of the buffaloes. He used to work very hard; he used to do the work of four servants only so that Hir's family would not turn him away and he could always remain there near his beloved.

Since it was very difficult for anyone to propose himself for the marriage, Ranja could not propose the marriage, but Hir knew that Ranja was her old friend, and she also knew about the real love he had for her. But it was not in their hands to talk about marriage – because in those days you had to face death if you talked about such things. They could not even talk about getting married. Hir was engaged and married to someone else, but she did not accept that person as her husband, because she knew deep in her heart that Ranja was her real husband. And Ranja also could not live comfortably after Hir was married away to someone else.

In the great epic Hir and Ranja written by Hazrat Varis Shah, he mentions about Hir's uncle whose name was Kado, and who was crippled. He is mentioned as "mind." As the mind does not allow the soul to meet the Oversoul, in the same way Kado did not allow Hir and Ranja to meet. He made a false story of the love of Hir and Ranja and in that way he worked against their love; that is the reason Hir was engaged and married to someone else and not with Ranja. After Hir was married to someone else Ranja became very upset. Later Hir was told a lie, that Ranja had died, and she said, "Now what is the use of my living in this world, because my life was only with my beloved Ranja." She also left the body right then. And when Ranja (who hadn't really died) came to know about the departure of Hir he also left his body right then. So this is called real love. They did not have anything like worldly love, they did not have passionate love; it was real love, the love of the soul. And even though they had not talked about their love with each other, still they knew about that love because the heart knows the heart, and their love was on the level of heart.

Bulleh Shah, the Sufi Saint, has also mentioned about the love of Hir and Ranja in His writings. He said, "When Hir inverts within and goes back to her beloved Ranja, she becomes one with Ranja." He also called our soul as Hir and the Shabd as Ranja.

Once it so happened that since Hir was so in love with Ranja – she was always remembering Ranja – she forgot what her name was. So once some friends came and she said, “Have you seen Hir?” The friends laughed and said, “Who are you; are you not Hir?” She felt embarrassed, but she said, “Calling the name of Ranja I myself have become Ranja. Don’t call me Hir, call me Ranja; I have forgotten my own name.” So this is the condition of the lover when he meets his beloved; when he remembers the beloved all the time, he forgets who he is because he becomes the form of his beloved. There is no difference between the disciple and the Master.

So when you meet your beloved Lord, your beloved husband Ranja, and when your soul inverts, when your soul goes back and becomes one with the Shabd, then what kind of experiences can you ask from that Master? You can only remain intoxicated; because when you know and you become one with your long-separated God, what else can you ask from Him?

Ranja was the owner of Takat Hazara, he had all kinds of comforts and conveniences in his home, but still because of his love for Hir, he left everything. He left all the comforts and went to work as a servant for Hir’s family. In the same way, God Almighty, the Owner of Sach Khand, only for the love of this poor soul, His lost forgotten Hir, He came down, giving up all the comforts all the pleasures and conveniences of Sach Khand. He came down to this world full of sufferings only because of His love for His Hir, His poor Ajaib. How could this poor Hir not remember Him? How could this poor Hir not long for and remember Him? It was only His grace that He came and gave up everything for this poor soul. And this poor soul was also able to remember Him.

Those who do the devotion of the Lord do not make any excuses. What more experience can you expect when you know that God Almighty Himself has come into this world for the sake of your liberation, when you know He has come only for you? Those who do the devotion of God do not talk about all these things. Sheikh Farid said, “Those who are close to God do not give this secret to anyone.” Kabir Sahib also said the same thing, “Just as a dumb man cannot tell about the sweetness of jaggery, he can only express his happiness through his actions. In the same way, those who have realized Him, who have become one with Him, what can they say about realizing Him and what can they say about uniting with Him?”

Once in the lifetime of Hazur Maharaj Kirpal Singh Ji I was going to talk about my experiences with Him – how I had realized Him, what He is for me, and what I saw in Him. When He was going to give an Initiation He told me to explain the theory to the dear ones, and I lovingly requested Him, “O True Lord, You are the True Emperor, why don’t you show them Your Real Form? Why don’t You give them Your open darshan? Because if You will give them Your open darshan all the disputes between the pundits and mullahs will be finished, and there will be peace all over. In every home they will talk only about You. So why don’t You tell them Who You really are, and why don’t You give them the open darshan to all these dear ones?” I said, “If You do not want to shower Your grace on all this world, at least on these dear ones who are sitting here for Initiation. Why don’t You tell them Who You really are and why don’t You give them the open darshan?” At that time Master Kirpal made me quiet and He said, “Don’t let them tear my clothes; you do whatever I am telling you to do.” So you see that I was going to tell about the experiences and He told me to keep quiet. Once a dear one who was present at that time happened to meet Mr. Oberoi and when Mr. Oberoi asked him to tell him something about me he said, “Yes, I remember that time when He told Master Kirpal to bless everyone with His open darshan. At that time Master Kirpal said, ‘Don’t let them tear my clothes,’ and Master Kirpal had told Him to keep quiet.” So you see if Master had not told me to keep quiet it was possible that in His lifetime I would have told other dear ones about my experiences with Him. But you know, dear ones, He Who showers the grace on a person, He Who gives a lot of things to a person, He also has the power to keep that person’s mouth shut.

Dear ones, you know that there are so many things that I can say about this, there are a lot of things that I can talk about this thing because the stories of the love of the Masters are such that they come out by themselves. But time does not permit me to speak more on this subject, because now the time is up.

1988 October: If We Have the Yearning

This question and answer session was given October 27, 1985, in Rajasthan.

SANT JI: When I went to Bogota On my first tour, the Colombian children sang this bhajan. Whenever anyone sings this bhajan I always remember the children because they sang this bhajan with much love and devotion.

QUESTION: Master, I would like You to speak about the twin souls – [Master Kirpal referred to husband and wife as] – one soul that lives in two bodies. How does the Master unite these souls? When do they lose their characteristics of being a man and a woman and become one, and when does He take them to Sach Khand?

SANT JI: It is very simple. Just as God is One, and in the Form of the Shabd He resides in each of us, in the same way, there is only one soul, but it is residing in many different bodies. When the soul becomes one with the Shabd, then all the souls become one, just as the Shabd or Almighty God is One. Soul is of the same essence as God, so as God is One, even though He is residing in every one of us, in the same way, there is only one soul, and when the soul gets connected with the Shabd, she also becomes one.

On the morning of the 26th, before we sat for meditation, I had said that we have to do constant Simran. By doing the Simran we have to come to our eye center. And after crossing everything which I mentioned at that time, we have to reach the tenth door and open the tenth street. We have to shake off three vestures – physical, astral and causal. When we reach the tenth door, then our soul will realize that she is neither black nor white. The soul realizes that soul is only soul, and she has God for Oversoul. There the difference between male and female does not exist. There is only one soul over there, so when the difference between a male and female doesn’t even exist there, how can we say that there is one soul living in two different bodies because the body also does not exist there.

Swami Ji Maharaj has said, “When the soul reaches this place, the duality goes away and one looks into the Light.” Another time He said, “When the soul reaches this place, Master makes that soul one from two. He takes the soul back to the Real Home after making the soul cross the planes one by one.”

QUESTION: Sant Ji, I want to make a request for all of us who are sitting here, and that is that You may allow us to sing Your love and be able to be filled with Your love for twenty-four hours of the day.

SANT JI: Sant Satgurus always give a lot of love to Their disciples. Regarding myself, I have often said that my Almighty Master was the Ocean of Love. I was thirsty for one drop of His vast ocean, and since I was the devotee of His love, He gave me only His love. Whatever love I have received from Him, I am giving that to all my dear ones.

Today I have written a bhajan and the chorus of that bhajan says, “Why do you worry since Kirpal is worrying for you?” Why do we have to worry when our Master is worrying for us and He is taking care of us? It is all His grace; and because He has given us that love, we are sitting here in His remembrance. If He had not been gracious on us, if He had not given us His love, we would never have been able to come here and sit together in His remembrance.

There is another bhajan which says, “I have looked at millions of faces but no face seems attractive to me. By uttering Your name, O Sawan, the boat does not sink.”

I had just started to write a third bhajan but someone came and knocked at the door. [Laughter] The only thing I could write was that we should remember or meditate upon the Name of Kirpal and remove the pains of ages and ages. [Sant Ji laughs]

QUESTION: Master, I have only two questions. One is about Master’s earlier years and the other one is about Simran. The first question is: Many years before our present Master Ajaib was liberated by Master Kirpal, He had already, as a young man, contacted the greatest living Master of His time, Maharaj Sawan Singh. Why did Sawan Singh decline Initiation to Ajaib, Initiation that was so readily available to everybody else, causing immense frustration and giving young Ajaib maybe twenty more years of incredible agony? Would Master find us worthy enough to share with us His feelings about the mystery of Sawan Singh’s decision and give us an insight into Ajaib’s inner pilgrimage during those many years of painful waiting in endless meditations? And then I have a second question after you answer this one.

SANT JI: First I would like to tell you that whenever you ask a question you should try to make it brief, because you know that when the question is long the answer also becomes long. That does not allow other people to ask their questions.

I don’t have any objection this morning to this long question, but when I answer this question it is possible that you may not have enough time even to ask your second question. Anyway, I am very happy that you have asked this question; it is very interesting. Before I reply I would like to suggest once again that everyone should read the book written by Mr. Oberoi, because in the part where he has talked about me he has written many things which can answer these questions.

You have heard a lot about me; you have read a lot about me. Still, briefly I would like to tell you something more. When I was very young, maybe five or six years old, before I was old enough to understand all these things, I used to go to the Gurdwara, the holy temple of the Sikhs, with my parents, because I was born in a Sikh family. I would hear the glory and the praises of the ten Sikh Gurus, and the desire of doing the devotion of the Lord would come in my within.

Whenever I heard the stories of the great Masters and Their disciples, a question would rise in my within; I would wonder if I would be so fortunate or so worthy to have such a Master in my lifetime. Also whenever I heard stories of those who left the Masters, obeying their minds, I would feel pity for them. Then I would think, “If I were ever fortunate enough to get such a Master in my lifetime, then I would never obey my mind. Whatever my Master would tell me, that I would do.” These were my feelings when I was very young.

Because of this yearning for God I did not have a lot of sleep, I lost my appetite, and I could never find comfort in sleeping on a comfortable bed. I never liked to live in a very good house. My parents did not like this attitude of mine. Many times my mother would get upset at me when I would not sleep on the comfortable bed. I have often said that God had given a lot of material wealth to my father and he did everything possible to make things comfortable for me. Even now in Punjab there is a house in a garden which my father had constructed only for me – it is still standing there.

But it is a fact that I never went into that house to rest, and I never took any facility or any convenience from my father. I always used to think, “God made this very big world and there are so many people in this world. Can I not do something to take care of my own self?” That is why, right from the beginning, I always did one thing or another to earn my livelihood. I always did some work to earn the money.

When I got this yearning and started my search for God, at that time in India there were many Paths, many communities, who had the knowledge of One Word or Two Words. It is not like that now. In India there are people who know how to give lectures and talks, but they don't have any practical knowledge. But in those days, there were some people who had some practical knowledge up to the Second Plane.

Gradually those people were given the gifts and the property and the worldly things. Then the meditators left this world and after them only the people who had the outer knowledge remained there. That is why the Spirituality that was there at one time went away.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that the doctor, the lawyer, the Saint, and the leader are not respected and appreciated in their home town. Neither the maternal nor paternal families nor the other family members get any advantage from them. In the same way Guru Nanak Sahib came and many people took Initiation from Him. He was God. In fact, God Himself came into this world to give the knowledge to the people. Many people took advantage of His coming into this world. But Sri Chand, His son, did not take Initiation into the Five Words from Him. He went to Avanachimuni and took Initiation into the Two Words.

In India at the time I started my search, people used to perform austerities including one practice called jaldara in which they have a stream of water falling on their head. Some people had about one hundred pots of water poured on their heads; some had more than that.

This austerity is done in the month of December. A rectangular tank-like thing is constructed which has a little hole in it. The tank is filled with water which is very cold. And through that small hole the water flows on the head of whoever is doing that practice. Because the water is very cold, many people become so cold that they fall down before they finish their practice. Then they are put on very hot ashes so that their bodies warm up again.

Some hypocrites who want to attract and impress people don't let the water fall on their heads. Instead they do some kind of thing which does not allow the water to fall on their head; it goes on some other place. Or they let the water fall on their hand but they show the people that the water is falling on their head. They also use a lot of marijuana and a lot of other drugs to impress the people that they are intoxicated. But the loving dear ones do not do that. They do it correctly. They let the water fall on their heads and they do not mind even if they become cold.

I did this practice many times along with the practice in which fires are burning on four sides. The person who performs this austerity sits in the middle of the four fires. They start this practice at noon in the month of June, which is very hot in India. They do it for five or six hours, doing the repetition of the word Naam for ten thousand times or even more. The person who does this practice has to practically sit in the fire for five or six hours. I have done this practice as well as the practice mentioned before. But when I did not get anything from doing those practices I went to Baba Bishan Das.

Baba Bishan Das then told me, “All these outer practices do not have any connection with our soul. If by sitting under the water one could get the liberation, then why are the fishes and frogs and other creatures who live in the water not liberated? And if only by sitting in the fire one could achieve the liberation . . . you know, there is already a lot of fire going on within you. There is the fire of lust, greed, attachment and egoism. What is the use of having more fire outside?”

Baba Amolak Das, the Master of Baba Bishan Das, was initiated by Baba Sri Chand, son of Guru Nanak. Sri Chand lived for about one hundred and fifty years and Baba Amolak Das also lived for about a hundred and forty years.

When Baba Bishan Das gave me the Initiation into the first Two Words, he did not tell me to be content with only what he had given me, because he knew there was something more than these Two Planes. He told me to continue the search, because he himself was not content with what he had achieved and he knew that there was something more.

In the army we were once posted in the cantonment of Nowshera which was built by Baba Sawan Singh when He was serving in the army. And in our cantonment some Pathans from Peshawar used to come to sell the neem sticks to the army.

Once some of the Pathans came and they were saying, “We don't know how far Baba Sawan Singh has gone within or how great the Master is. We don't know anything about His inner condition, but outwardly He looks very beautiful and attractive.” They were talking about Baba Sawan Singh whose darshan they had in Peshawar, not far from us. It was about two or three hours from Nowshera to Peshawar by train. When I heard that they were talking about a Mahatma, I was very interested and I told the commander, who was also very religious. Anytime anyone told him about any Saint or Mahatma he would at once go and visit that Mahatma. So, when I heard from them about Baba Sawan Singh I told my commander and he said that we would go to see Him.

When we went to see Him, the attractive, impressive form of Baba Sawan Singh was so beautiful, so enchanting, that I could not take my eyes away from Him. I was so fascinated by the beautiful form of the Master that I could not forget Him. I did not know anything about His inner condition but I felt for sure outwardly that He was a perfect Mahatma.

I went to Baba Bishan Das and told Him about Baba Sawan Singh. Bishan Das was not a narrow-minded person, he was not a frog of the well; he had a very big heart. So he at once agreed to go and have the darshan of Baba Sawan Singh. At that time Baba Bishan Das was very old and his body was very weak. Sawan Singh told him that this was not the time for him to get the Initiation and meditate, but Baba Sawan Singh promised that He would take Baba Bishan Das up and make him meditate in the inner planes. Baba Sawan Singh promised to liberate him.

Baba Somanath had also done a lot of japas, tapas; He had performed austerities and done many kinds of outer practices. So when Baba Bishan Das was talking to Baba Sawan Singh, he praised me and said that he had this disciple who had done all these outer austerities and practices. Baba Sawan Singh then mentioned Baba Somanath, saying that He also had a disciple who had done all those practices.

In my childhood and also in my youth I was very beautiful; I had a very attractive face. Not only the women, but also the old men were attracted to me and they would come to see me. They would praise my eyes and my face. When I used to perform the austerities, sometimes women would watch; they would say that they couldn't understand how my mother allowed me to leave home and do what I was doing. They used to ask me about the pain and why I was causing my body so much suffering. They wanted to know why I was doing that. I was doing all that only because of the love of God. I was doing all that only because I was searching for Him.

Once later on, a young widow came to me crying. She told me that it was very difficult for her to live because people would bother her. I said that it is difficult for a man also to live in this world, because I remembered how many women got a beating from me because they came to bother me when I was a young man doing those practices. Unless you have love for the Master, it is very difficult for you to get rid of this passion.

We all talk about chastity; we all talk about the love for the Master. But it is very difficult for us to maintain and develop love for the Master. Some people used to live with me and boast of their chastity and love for the Master. I used to tell them that you should look into your heart, you should comb your heart and see how many times in a month you make your underwear dirty – how many times you lose the vital fluid.

From the letters of the dear ones and in their interviews, the dear ones who are married tell me about how they lose their vital fluid in their dreams, and this is the condition when they are married. Just imagine what would be their condition if they were not married.

This is not the question of man or woman. Because where Naam is manifested lust cannot come there. And where the lust is prevailing, Naam can never manifest there.

So when I appeared in front of Baba Sawan Singh requesting Initiation, I had taken some donations for the langar; He was very happy. He was in a very jolly mood; He was very gracious. He told me, "The time will come when you will have to do a lot of seva." He told me, "This is not the time for you to get Initiation. Because everyone's time is predetermined."

After that I used to go to see Baba Sawan Singh very often because the commander of our army was initiated by Baba Sawan Singh. In this area, at that time, there were only eleven initiates of Baba Sawan Singh and I used to celebrate Baba Sawan Singh's birthday with full enthusiasm. I would travel up to twenty miles to be near those initiates and I would spend all the money I had for the celebration of Master Sawan Singh's birthday. I was fully devoted to Him, and I had complete love and faith in Him. It is all because of that and His grace that He showered a lot of grace and blessings on me.

In those days there were no good roads here, there was no canal, there was no water here. It was very dusty, very sandy here, and to travel twenty miles used to take about five or six hours. You know that he who is thirsty will never ask the question whether the water is good or bad, or whose water it is. So when I used to go to see Baba Sawan Singh I was very thirsty. I did not ask Him any questions; whatever He told me I believed in that and I accepted it. He had a very dear disciple, Mastana Ji of Baluchistan, who was made the emperor of Bagar (in this area) by Master Sawan Singh. This area was a very poor area so he distributed a lot of wealth to the poor people. He always used to talk about Baba Sawan Singh, and many times I went to see him. He was very intoxicated in the love of Sawan Singh and I always used to go to him. And I was always happy to hear him talking about Sawan Singh. He used to love me a lot and many times when he wanted to tell people in the Sangat about Baba Sawan Singh he would tell me to stand up and talk about Sawan Singh. And then I would tell the Sangat what I had seen in Master Sawan Singh.

Once when I saw Mastana Ji in a good mood, I asked, "Are you the one who is going to give me the Initiation, as Sawan Singh said?" He told me, "No, I am not the one who will give you Initiation. He who is going to come to give you Initiation has done a lot of meditation. He is so powerful that if two cannons were firing, and He put up His hands, He could stop those cannons. He will come to you by Himself and He will give you the Initiation." So according to the promise made by Baba Sawan Singh, Master Kirpal Himself came and He quenched the thirst of my soul. How can I thank Him? Because He made my life; He gave everything to me. He gave me so much love and it is only His love which I am giving to all of you. We cannot thank Him enough through our tongue. The only way to thank Him is by going within and bowing to Him there in the inner world.

I had the yearning for many years and what I have told you is just like a drop from the ocean. I have told you things very briefly. It could make many books if I went on telling you all the incidents of my yearning, because it was a long search and a long period of yearning. If we have the same kind of yearning, then God will run after us, because He is always looking for those who have yearning for Him.

1988 November: To Be Steadfast on the Path

This question and answer session was given March 2, 1988, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Would it please Sant Ji to comment on the disciple's attitude toward earthly life in connection to true submission to God and the Master?

It is a good question. We hear in Satsang and we read in the Masters' writings that we must submit ourselves to God. When the Masters come into this world They live that exemplary kind of life in which They give full importance to meditation. They live that life to teach us that along with doing all the worldly things we have to obey the Master. We have to give importance to the commandments of the Master, and do the Bhajan and Simran. Since They Themselves live a life like that They inspire us also to live the same kind of life.

Yesterday we had a Satsang on Guru Nanak's bani in which we heard how Guru Angad, along with attending to the responsibilities of his earthly life, did his job towards his Master. We heard how he pleased his Master, how he obeyed the commandments of his Master, how he surrendered to his Master and how he became as the part of the body of the Master.

Swami Ji Maharaj said, "When the dear one comes to the Master he should chase away all the religious deeds which he has been doing. Whatever Path the Master puts the disciple on, that Path should become his religion, his everything, and he should remain true to the devotion of the Master." I have often said, "Before you come to the Master, search as much as you want, read the history of the Master, see if He has done any meditation or not; but after you have taken Him as your Master, whatever the Master tells you to do you should do it. After that, it is not good for you to be wishy-washy; you should be steadfast on the Path which your Master has put you on."

Master Sawan Singh Ji served in the army, and he did many other things in this world, but he gave most importance to meditation, love of the Master, and obedience to the commandments of the Master.

What is our lacking? We do not give that place to the love of the Master which we should be giving. We are not ready to refuse the orders of the mind. We are always eager to refuse the order of the Master because we have understood the mind as our owner.

Once there was an initiate of Kabir Sahib who after receiving Initiation from Him went on different Paths, he did many other things, but finally when he was in trouble he remembered his Master Kabir Sahib. And when he came to Him, Kabir Sahib said, "Why did you wander here and there and give so much suffering to your soul? If you had done what I told you in the beginning, if you had given your soul the great Elixir of Naam to drink, you would have not gone through all these sufferings." Even after that – Saints are very gracious – He lovingly accepted him and He embraced him and gave him all His grace.

Master Kirpal often used to talk about the love of Laila and Majnu. He used to say that they did not have a worldly love, they had a very pure and high kind of love. When people hear stories of the lovers they are eager to go and see them, so once a prince came to see Majnu – he wanted to see the person who had become emaciated in the remembrance, in the separation, of his beloved. When he came, somebody came to Majnu and told him, "A prince has come to see you," Majnu replied, "Yes, I will see him, but he should come in the form of Laila." So do you think we have even that much strength? Do you think we have that much love and affection for the Master?

Usually people go to the courts to sue for the deras or the ashrams [when their Master leaves the body], but Param Sant Kirpal was the only great Saint Who did not fight for His Master's Ashram. He left everything there. I have seen the house that Master Kirpal had made in the dera. He did not even go there for that, because He had completely surrendered Himself to his Master and He did not care for those things. He used to say, “Whatever I have done, I have done only for my Master.” Because he had completely surrendered Himself to the Master, he did not look for anything, he wanted only his Master. This is called the total submission, the total sacrifice, for the Master.

Dear ones, we can sacrifice or surrender ourselves to the Master completely, only when we give first preference to meditation, and obedience to the commandments of the Master, and if we consider the world second, only then can we become successful. Master Kirpal always used to say, “I became successful only because I gave first preference to God, and the world came next.”

Dear ones, when we understand our Master as our everything then we always give first preference to Him. Master does not want us to change our society. He does not want us to change anything of this world. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “We have met the Perfect Master and along with living happily in the family life He is making us achieve the liberation.”

Master does not want us to leave our families, our home, or our society. It is a fact that we may not be willing to attend to the responsibilities which we lovingly ourselves have taken on our shoulders but the Master always inspires us to attend to the responsibilities of the world, and He always showers grace upon us. But what is the reason that love for the Master is not awakened within us? What is the reason why we have not surrendered ourselves completely to the Master? Only because we do not give the first preference to the Master and to meditation. We always give preference to the passions and things of the world. We have fallen into the swamp of lust, anger, and the other passions and because we have given preference to them and not to meditation, to the Master, that is why our condition is like this. If we were to give first preference to the Master, if we were to completely surrender ourselves to the Master and to the Bhajan and Simran then we would not have any difficulties.

Master Sawan Singh Ji often quoted a saying in Punjabi which meant, “Your hands to work and heart to the Beloved.” How many of us have adopted or have developed this quality of remembering our Master when we are working in the world? Almost all of us bring the worldly thoughts when we sit for meditation; when we are supposed to be remembering the Master, then we are thinking about the worldly things. But how many are there who bring the Form of the Master in front of them or remember the Master when they are working in the world?

Dharam Das was an initiate of Kabir Sahib whose questions and answers you always read in the book Anurag Sagar. He was very wealthy. At that time in India the currency had greater value, and at that time he was so wealthy that he was called by the name “Wealthy” Dharam Das because he had fourteen billion rupees. You can imagine that since he had so much money he must have had so many different kinds of businesses and things to attend to and you can imagine how many responsibilities he might have had at that time. But when he met Kabir Sahib he got Initiation from Him. After that when he went within he said, “O Master I swear by You that I don’t have any desire except for Your Will even in the state of dream.”

You see that if one is a true disciple of the Master he will never swear by the name of the Master, he would be ready to incur any kind of loss but he would never swear by the Master because he understands that the Master is God. But only to express his true condition he said, “I swear by You, O Lord, that I do not have any desire of lust or any other thing. I have only desire for You even in dreams.” If the beautiful Form of the Master is in front of us while we are awake and while we are doing the worldly work do you think that we will not have the darshan of the Master when we are asleep? Only those who remember the Form of the Master during the day get the darshan of the Master while asleep. If we have any desire of the world during the day those same desires come in the form of the bad dreams. But if we have only desire for the Master during the day and if we have only remembered Him and His beautiful Form, in the night also He will show us His beautiful Darshan.

Dear ones, the creation of this world is such that the Negative Power has spread His snares all over. Not even the Saints and Mahatmas can tell you about any place on this physical world where you can go and not get involved in the worldly affairs or where you can get the completely pure love. But it is the personal experience of the Master that if you go within, if you rise above the physical body, remove the physical veil from your soul and then if you go to the Astral plane and remove the Astral cover from your soul, and then further if you cross the Causal plane and remove the Causal cover from your soul, then you can reach a place where the creation of love starts, where there is no difference between male and female, where there is no enmity, where there is nothing of the worldly nature, only love exists over there. When we reach there, after removing all these covers from our soul, only then do we know how to become grateful to our Master and only then can we learn how to completely surrender to the Feet of the Master.

When we reach the plane of love then we see how long we have been attending to the responsibilities of this world. Then we understand why we have to do our real work of meditation. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell a very beautiful story in this context. There was a person going someplace on a horse. On the way his horse became thirsty and he wanted the horse to get some water. He came to a place where a farmer was taking out water from a well using a bullock operated pump. He asked the farmer to give his horse some water. The farmer told him to bring his horse near where the bullocks were pumping but they were making a lot of noise. When they moved and made noise the horse became afraid and shied away and he would not drink the water. So the rider said, “Why don’t you stop the bullocks?” But when the farmer stopped the bullocks the water stopped flowing, and when they moved, the horse would not go there to drink the water because he was afraid of the noise. The farmer had the experience and he said, “The water will not come out unless the bullocks move and your horse will have to drink the water bearing this noise of the bullocks.”

So in the same way we will have to live in this world attending to the responsibilities of the world and we will have to do our Bhajan and Simran attending to the responsibilities of the world no matter how difficult they may be. But we should give first preference to our real work which is the Bhajan and Simran. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “He may be talking with the people of the world with His mouth but within He has manifested His Beloved Lord.” He says, “The life of a Gurumukh or of a Satsangi should be like this: outwardly he may be talking or doing the things of the world but within he is always remembering his Beloved Master.”

In one of the bhajans it is written that, “This is the call of Ajaib, the string is moving from within.” What is called the moving of the string is that on your tongue the Simran of the Master should be going on. In your eyes the beautiful Form of the Master should be installed and all the time you should be remembering His beautiful Face.

Mahatmas tell us that in order to get the darshan of the Beautiful One people do so many things. They leave their homes; they go to the forest and they do so many other kinds of practices. They even make their body very thin, suffering hunger and thirst. But doing all these things they do not get the beloved Lord. Finally when they get nothing from outside they come back to their home. When they left their home in search of Almighty God they did every single practice; but by doing those practices neither their lust was decreased nor their anger was removed. They could not get rid of any of their passions. When they did not realize the Almighty Lord they came back to their home and had to face embarrassment because when they came back without success people laughed at them and again they had the same passions, the same difficulties. Even though they left their homes still they did not become successful. But the Perfect Saints don't tell us to leave our homes; They do not tell us to become renunciates. They tell us, “Every morning get up and do your meditation for two or three hours, live a pure life; earn your livelihood by honest means and attend to the worldly responsibilities which you have been given lovingly and happily and you can still get the liberation while doing all the things of the world if you would give first preference to meditation and if you would surrender yourself to the Master.”

I will tell you an interesting story which happened when I was in the army: once I came home on two days leave, with me there were three or four friends also. We all had to go back on the same train – the other people also lived in the same area – and at exactly twelve noon the train would come to the station of our village. But we did not go to the station at twelve o'clock, instead we left our homes at one-thirty, and when we got there the train had already left. As a result we got back late to the army. When we got there late they told us that we will be questioned because we had not come back on the exact time. Next day we were summoned by the officer and he asked all of us, “Why were you late, why didn't you inform us? Why didn't you send a cable?” That was our first mistake and usually for the first mistake you are forgiven just by being given a little warning. So we were not very worried, but still since the officer was going to ask us questions we were very confused, and we did not know what to do. He started asking each one of us why we did not come on time. All the other four friends said that the train was delayed, but when that officer came to me I felt that I should be telling him the truth. I told him, “Dear Sir, the train did come on time but we left our home late. That is why we missed the train. Now it is up to you, whatever punishment you want to give us you can give us.” So because I had told him the truth and I had surrendered to him he became very pleased and he forgave us. At that time I learned this lesson: that if we had left our home at eleven o'clock, an hour earlier than the train, we would have got to our duty on time and then nobody would have questioned us, nobody would be scared of any punishment and there would be no reason for us to be confused and perturbed and there would be no reason for anyone to speak a lie. It was only because we wanted to rest one hour more in our home that we had to go through all that difficult time.

And then I thought, “As we were afraid of that officer and we were confused and the other people were not even able to speak the truth, are we ever afraid of our Master like this? Do we ever take our meditation so seriously?” There are many dear ones, those who do not do meditation for many days, many hours, who don’t remember the Simran for many months together; but do they ever think that they will be questioned by the Master? And when the Master summons them, when the Master asks them the questions what will they say? Will they be strong enough to tell Him the truth? Remembering that incident I always think that we people always give preference to the worldly things but we never give preference to meditation, to the Simran. We never care for the Master as much as we care for a worldly officer.

In that book which Mr. Oberoi has written, the stories of Sunder Das are written. Sunder Das was a person who got many opportunities to be in the company of Master Sawan Singh and he paid off many karmas which Master Sawan Singh told him about well in advance. We used to live in the same house; we used to eat together and meditate together. He often used to say that if we remember the Simran for one moment it means that we have gotten the Simran for twenty-one moments. And he used to say that if we have forgotten the Master for one day, that means we have forgotten the Master for twenty-one days. Similarly he used to say that if we had not had the darshan of the Master for one year it means we have not had His darshan for twenty-one years, and we don’t know if we are going to live that long or not, so how are we going to fill up that gap which is created by not having the darshan and not remembering the Master for those many days and years. He had given preference to his meditation and we used to meditate together.

Once when we were sitting in the field meditating we were sitting around a fire. We sat continuously for eight hours and during that sitting a piece of burning wood fell on his leg. That piece of wood burned his leg but he was not aware of it burning. You know how painful it is when your body burns but he did not feel any pain; because when the soul is withdrawn, when you are enjoying the inner planes then you forget all the pains and everything like that. So he did not feel any pain. Afterwards when his meditation was completed, when he came back to physical consciousness, he said, “I have never got such a taste in my meditation as I have got today.”

The doctors said that his leg was so badly burned that it needed to be amputated but it was the Grace of Supreme Father Kirpal who told him not to get his leg cut off. When Master Kirpal came to my ashram, along with the other dear ones with Him, He said, “You see, this is the devotion, this is called meditation. Is there anyone from you who does meditation like this? Is there anyone among you who forgets his body and everything and remains attached to the feet of the Master in meditation like this?”

So you see this is what it means to attend to the responsibilities of the world while giving preference to the Master, surrendering completely to the Master. Sunder Das used to attend to all his worldly responsibilities, all his worldly obligations, but he had given the first preference to his Master, to the Bhajan and Simran, that is why he was successful in his meditations.

Dear ones, nowadays we have tractors and other machinery to plow the fields, but at that time we had only one camel and two bullocks with which we used to plow the fields. We both used to work together; we used to plow the fields and grow the crops. The people who used to live around us would hide and try to listen to what kind of conversation we used to have. And when they heard that we only used to talk about the Master and the love of the Master they were very impressed and they wondered how we had so much love and devotion for our Master? We used to do our Simran; and we used to do our meditation without missing it; and we also used to do a wonderful job at the farming. Just he and I were there. Some people would even say, “They do not have any worries; they have no worldly things to do, that’s why they are always talking about the love of the Master.” Sunder Das was an old man so people used to say, “His family has died that is why he doesn’t have any worries, and the other person,” referring to me, they used to say, “He never got married so he has no family to take care of, that is why they are always devoted to their Master and they are doing the devotion of God.”

Since I was younger than Sunder Das I would get up every morning and after taking the shower I would make tea and then I would call Sunder Das to get up. I would say, “Sunder Das are you awake?” He would say, “Yes, I am awake; but I am lazy and don’t want to get up, that is why I am pretending as if I was asleep; but I am awake.” So then he would get up, drink the tea and then he would say this hymn from Tulsi Sahib’s writing, “He says, ‘For doing the Bhajan and Simran, for doing meditation and the things of the Lord, I am always very lazy but for eating, drinking, and all sorts of worldly things I am always awake.’” After saying this and drinking the tea he would start doing his work, and then he would do his meditation also. So both of us used to work very hard and we never allowed any third person to come and live with us because Sunder Das used to say, “If we will let another person live here he will create problems and then we will not be able to do anything.” So just between him and me, we used to finish all the work of the farming and along with that we also used to do our Bhajan and Simran. At that time I had the Initiation into the Two Words and I used to do meditation on those Two Words. Sunder Das was an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh and he had the knowledge of all the Five Words and he used to do meditation of Five Words.

Right from my childhood people used to come to see me, saying that I was a Saint; and they always wanted to come and see me. Even though we were not allowing people to come to see us – but as Master used to say: “Even if the perfume seller does not want to sell his perfume but still sometimes one of the bottles of perfume remains open which attracts the people.” So sometimes the people would come and they would want to see the Saints they had heard so much about, and when they would see me working in the field in my work clothes and I would be carrying a plow or something like that they would not think that I was a Saint or that person whom they have come to see. So they would say, “We want to see the Saint.” And I would say, “Okay, let us sit here and wait and he will come.” And then they would start talking to me and then they would realize that I am the person they had come to see. So I never wore good clothes and I never pretended I was a Mahatma even though people used to call me a Mahatma. I always remained very humble and very simple and I used to do all the worldly things, all the farming and all the other things, and still our Simran and Bhajan was going on with all the other things. We never missed our meditations. Many times if there was too much work to do we would stay up in the night and finish that work, but we never allowed anyone else to come there and we never missed our meditation. We did our meditations and we also did all the worldly things.

There is so much to say in this matter, but since time is running out I won't say anything more, but I would like to make a request to all the dear ones: that you should follow the schedule of meditation we have made here. Before coming here you should prepare yourself; those dear ones who do not have the habit of meditating for longer hours in their homes, when they come here and see other people doing meditation for many hours they also want to follow them and that is why they do not take enough sleep. And since they have not slept enough, then when they come here to the Satsang some people are having a difficult time staying awake. So you should follow the schedule of meditation which is made for you. You should not sit for meditation right after eating food because that affects the digestive system. And if you are feeling sleepy here in the Satsang it is natural that you will be sleeping even during meditation. So please follow the schedule of meditation and sleep according to the schedule so you will not have any difficulty getting up early in the morning.

The Light Of Ajaib

Questions and Answers from Sant Bani Magazine

Volume 3: 1989 – 1992

Volume 3: Table Of Contents

1989.....	5
1989 January: Simran Cuts the Simran.....	5
1989 February: It Depends Upon Your Faith, Love, Devotion & Effort	11
1989 March: To Become Successful on this Path	18
1989 April: The Stamp of the Master	25
1989 May: The Storm of Love.....	30
1989 June: On Forgiving Others.....	36
1989 July: A Very Good Seva	43
1989 August: Only by Going Within.....	49
1989 September: Take the Master's Example.....	56
1989 October: Be Careful in Making the Karmas	60
1989 November: On Surrendering Our Will	67
1989 December: The Guru Never Wavers.....	74
1990.....	79
1990 January/February: On Karmas, Love, and Marriage	79
1990 March: What We Should Ask of the Master.....	86
1990 March: Understand and Have Faith	94
1990 April: Not Even a Leaf Can Turn	99
1990 May: Become a Good Example for the Children.....	104
1990 June: Before Your Mind Attacks You	110
1990 July/August: The Effect of The Grace of The Master	116
1990 September: The Servant of the Servants.....	121
1990 September: On Carrying the Karmas	128
1990 October: Until We Become Disciplined	135
1990 November: Give Up Two Things: Laziness and Hurry.....	140
1990 December: The Master's Grace is Equal for All the Souls	144
1991.....	152
1991 January: The Laughter of the Saints	152
1991 February: The Limitless Gift	156
1991 February: Love Does Not Ask for a Reward	160
1991 March: The Ambassador of God.....	166
1991 April: The Quality of Innocence	170
1991 May: Sickness, Treatment & Accepting God's Will.....	177
1991 June: Heart Communicates with Heart	180
1991 July: Masters Always Shower Grace	187
1991 August: To Bathe in the Dust of the Master's Feet	193
1991 October: The Karmas are Revealed Within.....	199
1991 October: The Value of Seclusion.....	205
1991 October: Kirpal Singh On Justice	211
1991 November: It is Never Too Late to Mend.....	212
1991 November: With Yearning in our Heart	219
1991 December: Only a Lover Surrenders Everything.....	223
1992.....	233
1992 January/February: On Prayer: Listen to God's Answer	233

1992 April: The Example of the Birds.....	238
1992 May: The Bead Under the Teeth.....	243
1992 June: The Saints Work Day and Night	247
1992 July: He Comes Only to Give	252
1992 August/September: Born in the Home of the Satguru	258
1992 October: Don't Be Attached to the Ashrams.....	263
1992 November: The Power of the Master is Always With Us	270
1992 December: The Beauty of His Form.....	275

1989

1989 January: Simran Cuts the Simran

This question-and-answer session was given on April 3, 1985, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16 PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: If Kal takes the form of the Master in dreams and the initiate cannot repeat the Simran in the dream, how can he protect himself? How can he know whether that dream was a spiritual dream and if that was Kal, or truly the Master who appeared and how can we have confidence in the words that He said? Second, some Catholic people (non-initiates) say that they sometimes have deep feelings of infinite peace and love and in such moments they feel God is very near to them. What are such experiences really?

SANT JI: I have often said about this that when our soul comes down from the eye center, only then do we have dreams. And regarding dreams of the Master I have often said that Master never comes down from the eye center. We do not know about the inner planes because we do not go there in the state of consciousness, in the awakened state. But sometimes when our thoughts are pure and concentrated, then Master graciously pulls our soul up. That is a very loving and very beautiful experience and it should not be counted as a dream because it is not a dream, it is the Grace of the Master. If you have developed the habit of doing the Simran during the daytime then you will find no difficulty doing the Simran during such kinds of experiences where the Master has pulled your soul up.

In the nine openings there is filth and dirt, it is a very dirty place; but the Master who is very pure and holy will not come down into the nine openings; He always remains at the eye center. And whenever He graciously pulls our soul up, and if we have such kinds of experience, we should take advantage of it as I have said earlier. We should try to utilize that vision of the Master in doing our meditation because the intoxication and happiness which we have experienced at the time of that vision, remains for many days and we can take good advantage of it by utilizing it in the meditation.

Regarding the other question, it does not matter if one is Catholic, or Hindu, Moslem, Christian, or Sikh – all the people who believe in the religion say that they feel near God and they feel the love and peace of God. But their condition is like that of a person who does not collect material to cook halva, but in his thoughts he makes the halva, and only in thoughts he eats that halva; and he tells people that he has eaten and tasted it. But in reality he has not eaten the halva, and he is not satisfied. In the same way, people who say they feel the love of God, or they feel nearer to God – are not feeling any love of God, and they are not any nearer to God because they don't even know where God resides.

In the beginning, before I got the Initiation into the first two Words, since I was born into the Sikh family I used to do all the Sikh rites and rituals. I was very devoted to the Sikh religion and I had this firm belief the he who does the devotion of the Lord, all his desires are fulfilled and God always takes care of him. Once when I was living in Shimla, I became sick and the army sent me to Patiala for treatment. One of our companies was also stationed in Patiala and since I was very devoted, everyone knew about my devotion, and they all respected me. So those people came to see me in the hospital. Some people would bring food, some people would bring money, and they would leave the money under my pillow. I didn't know that because I was having a very high fever. After a few days I had recovered from my sickness and was about to leave the hospital; as I was packing I saw there was a lot of money there and I was very surprised. I did not realize that it was from all the people who had come to see me, I thought maybe that was a miracle of God. I thought, "Since I do the devotion of God and I am a very good devotee, maybe God wanted to give me something because I am sick and cannot earn money." I became very happy and that intoxication remained with me many days because then I started thinking, "I am a very good devotee, I am very close to God." I felt a lot of love and peace coming from God at that time. When I went back to Shimla, after a few days I started thinking about that again and then I came to the conclusion that it was not anything which God had done, because why would God want to give me any money? It was good that God had given me my health back, why should He give me any money? Then I came to the conclusion that it was my friends who had left the money. When that company came back to Shimla, I told them that all those who had given me money should come and take it back. I was very grateful that they left the money for me, because I thought that it was from God and that gave me intoxication which helped me to continue with my devotion for some days. So just imagine, it was just a very small thing, but for many days I felt that I was very close to God, that I was the perfect devotee of God, and in a way I felt a lot of love and peace coming from God.

This was a very interesting question and I would like to tell you a very interesting story in response to this question. Once there was a person whose name was Sheikh Tilli and he was a very humorous man. He used to make many plans but would do nothing about those plans. Once a policeman wanted someone to carry a container of oil to the nearby city; he saw Sheikh Tilli there and told him he would pay him half a rupee to carry that container for him. Sheikh Tilli became very happy, because that was a lot of money at that time. He carried that container on his head and while he was going to the city he went on making plans.

First he thought, "When I get this half rupee from the policeman I will go and buy some eggs and those eggs will hatch some hens and later on I will sell them and I'll get some more money. And then I will buy some buffaloes, cows, and other animals and then I will do the business of buying and selling cattle and then I will get some more money." It went on and on like that and then finally he came to a point where he had collected a lot of money and he got married. Because in India it is a very expensive affair to get married. So after he had collected all that money – in his thoughts – he got married. Then he thought, "When I get married I will have a couple of children, and then my children will come to call me for dinner. They will come and say, 'Father come and eat' and I will shake my head and say, 'No, I don't want to come.'" So in that way he nodded his head and the container of the oil fell onto the ground. Then that policeman became very angry at him, and he said, "You have lost so much oil and you will have to pay for this." But Sheikh Tilli was worried for his own self, and he said, "Well you are talking about your oil, but what about my children, my buffalo?" So I mean to say that all those so-called religious people, in reality they have nothing like Sheikh Tilli who did not have any wife, who did not have any children, but still he was worried for them. In the same way those religious people don't know where God resides. God resides in our within but they have never thought of going in the within, they don't even know how to go in the within, so how can they realize God? I myself have done a lot of rites and rituals and I have not found any peace, any love coming from God outside. Whenever the love and peace will come, whenever anyone feels close to God, it is only when he goes within.

Look deeply into the religions which prevail in this world and you will find that the Master in whose name that religion was started emphasized the necessity of a living Master, and you will find in His writings, in His teachings, that He also realized God only by going in the company of the living Master.

QUESTION: Master I have a question about worldly work. I was wondering if it creates bad karma or if it has a negative effect on spiritual progress to clear tables in a restaurant where they serve meat?

SANT JI: First of all you should try to find some vegetarian place to work, but if you cannot do that, if you are compelled to work in such a place where they serve meat, while you are doing your work you should try to do Simran as much as possible and you should not pay any attention to what is being served or what is lying there. As Kabir Sahib has said, “O Kabir, you live next door to the people who cut the throats of others, but why are you worried? Those who will commit the sin will repent, you should not become sad.” So in the same way while you are doing your work you should not let the smell of the meat go within you [your consciousness]. You should not take in the impressions of those non-vegetarian things, and you should never allow your mind to think that it is very delicious food, or that it is better food than you eat. If you can prevent all these impressions from going within you while you are working, then it is all right to work there and the best way to do that is to do Simran constantly.

QUESTION: Master when I sit to meditate I cannot keep my mind still, even when I am saying Simran my mind is going. I cannot get to the eye center either, what can I do about this?

SANT JI: When you are sitting for meditation you should not allow your mind to work too much. Even when you are not meditating you should try to keep your attention at the eye center and you should try to do the Simran, because when we allow our attention to drop down from the eye center we lose a lot of our spiritual energy.

Those people whose mind works too much during the daytime, even when they are not sitting for meditation, those who always go on thinking useless things and who always get involved in useless pursuits, only those people have the difficulty concentrating at the eye center. They should make the habit of keeping their attention at the eye center even while they are doing their worldly work and they should always try to do the Simran.

Now you people have left your worldly homes behind, very far away from this place. Even if nobody tells you to go back, still your attention will go there by itself. And even if you try to stop your attention from going there, it will not be stopped; it will go there by itself, because that is your home and you are attached to it. In the same way, when we make our eye center as our real abode, then even if the other impressions and the other forces try to keep us away from the eye center, our attention will not be stopped, it will go straight back to the eye center if we have made it our real home.

The birds don't have much intellect, but even they have the knowledge of their home. If they have spent a couple of nights at some place, or if they have got food from some place, they understand that place as their real home and they come back to that place in the evening. In the same way, if you will make the eye center as a place for your mind to live, as the place for your mind to stay – because at the eye center there is peace and love – so if you will make the eye center as the seat of your mind, then your mind will always feel the necessity of going back to the eye center and you will have no difficulty concentrating there.

QUESTION: Sant Ji are there different gradations of parshad? Is it all right to take a bag of parshad in to be blessed for the sangat and does that have the same value as parshad that Master gives you of His own Will?

SANT JI: The thing is that we do not get anything by trying to split hairs. We should not allow our mind to have so many thoughts going on within us. As far as parshad is concerned it all depends upon your faith. It does not make any difference whether you have brought something to be blessed or if the Master is giving you something of His own. Sometimes it happens that if people bring their own things one part of their mind says that it is all right because they paid for that food and it is all right because Master has just given the blessing to that food. Sometimes when they receive the parshad from the Master one part of the mind says that it does not belong to them because they have not paid for it, it is Master's food, Master has given that and then also they are bothered. But I would say that it all depends upon the faith. As far as the grace of the Master is concerned, it is all the same, whether you bring the food to be blessed or if He gives the things of His own.

Master wants to take you to such a place where such illusions are removed; where you would not find any difference between you and the others.

QUESTION: Master I have a question about praying for a soul that has left the body at the time of death and not having any real connection to that person but knowing their family. Say for instance, I know their son and out of my love for their son I pray for them when they die and I ask for their protection. Is that okay or is it better to leave it?

SANT JI: First of all a Satsangi should stand on his own feet. And when we can stand on our own feet, we can become independent. Only when we rise above the level of the mind and organs of senses will we get absorbed in the Shabd Naam. And when you have become absorbed in the Shabd Naam then you will not need to pray for such things because you will have the direct connection with your Master and you can tell him right then and there to protect the souls.

Masters have written the prayers or the benedictions only after going within and They have prayed to Their Master, face-to-face, internally. When we people pray for the protection for the other souls, the problem is that our mind is not completely present there so sometimes it doesn't work.

QUESTION: Master, please will you tell us how to die while living?

SANT JI: Well, every day I try to make you people prepare for that. Every day in the morning and evening. But still I will try to explain some things to you. You know that our soul, after coming down from the eye center, has spread in all the cells of the body. And it has not only spread in the body, it has also spread outside the body. It has gone into religions, communities, societies, in the family, in friends; it has spread all over.

Saints ask us, “Why are we born again and again into this world?” Because we do the simran, or remembrance, of the world and because of the simran of the world we are born into this world again and again. Whatever thoughts we have at the time of death, according to that we get our birth in the next lifetime. Most of the time we come back into the same family, into the same homes, and if not there then we might go somewhere in the neighborhood.

It is a personal experience of the Saints that Simran cuts the simran and the Contemplation cuts the contemplation. The Simran given by the Master is the only thing which can cut down the simran or the remembrance of the worldly things and the Contemplation of the Form of the Master is the only thing which can make us forget the contemplation or the remembrance of the worldly things. Saints tell us that when we give up doing the simran of the world, when we do the Simran given by the Master, gradually the simran of the world goes away and then whom do we see? On whom do we contemplate? We contemplate on the Form of the Master who has given us Initiation and the forms of the world will also go away.

The simran of the world is also going on at the eye center. You know whenever you try to remember anything, whenever you try to visualize the form of anybody or try to remember anyone’s face, at once your attention goes to the eye center. It is not like you are putting your attention at some other part lower than the eye center and thinking about some person. Always your attention is at the eye center whenever you are trying to remember something or some form. So at the eye center the rosary of the simran of the world is going on twenty-four hours a day.

So when sitting at this place if you are doing the simran of the world, for instance, if you are remembering your father, your mother, your son, your daughter, your wife, your husband, what will happen? Since all those people are outside your body, your attention will go outside your body and you will become extroverted, and because we have been extroverted for many births, we have never thought of becoming introverted and that is why we find it difficult for our attention to go within.

When the Master gives us the Initiation what does He tell us? He tells us, “The Master is within you; God is within you.” He gives us the Simran to do internally. He tells us that all the things are within us and we have to come to the eye center. So when we do the Simran given by the Master, since the Master is within our soul, and God is also within us, when we start stilling our attention at the eye center, when we start sitting there, then that beautiful Form of the Master is manifested over there and then not even for one moment will we take our attention away from that beautiful Form of the Master. The Master who has given us the Initiation is not different from Almighty God. The Formless Lord has taken up the Form of the Saint and He resides within us. So when the Master gives us the Simran and we do it honestly, in the beginning we find it difficult to bring our attention inward because we have become extroverted. But when we do it, when we still our attention at the eye center, Master is there, God is also there, and when we see His Inner Form even once, then we won’t like to come outside.

In the Satsangs as well as at the time of Initiation we are told that by doing the Simran we can withdraw our attention from all the outer things and from our body and come to the eye center. In that process when our soul starts to withdraw from our body, first it is withdrawn from the outer world and when it comes to withdraw from the body we feel as if ants are biting our feet. When the soul goes upward then the body below becomes numb and finally when the soul comes to the eye center we feel as though the body below the eye center is not there; it is all numb and we lose the feeling of it, and then we feel that it is like a rented house, it does not belong to us.

In the process of death also the same thing happens. Those people who have made their Simran very strong, for them it is easy to withdraw from the body, it is very easy for them to bring their soul to the eye center. For them it is like pulling a hair out of butter. But some people who have not perfected their Simran and who only meditate occasionally, if their soul tries to leave the body they find it very difficult. They find it very painful, like the process of death, and sometimes people get so frightened that they don't like to sit for meditation again. On the last tour, at Sant Bani Ashram, one person who was getting Initiated was sitting on a chair doing the meditation. At once his soul left the body and it was very painful for him because it was the first time that he had meditated. He fainted and fell down off the chair. Earlier, I had told Russell Perkins and Pappu about such happenings, because sometimes when the soul is pulled up like this the person feels a lot of pain and even faints. But if that happens, we should not worry; if we give a massage to the back of the neck then the soul comes back into the body and the person does not feel any pain. And when that person fell down, they both gave him some massage and he came back into the body and he did not feel any pain.

All the Saints have said, "Those who want to do the meditation of Naam should make their heart like iron." One day everybody has to die; why not do that thing – which we have to do one day – while we are living? Why not die while we are living? Guru Nanak Sahib also says, "The place where we have to go after death, why not go there while we are still in the body?"

Since the soul is spread throughout all the cells of the body, when it is withdrawn from all those cells and goes upward, it is natural for us to feel pain; because in the process of the soul's withdrawal the lower chakras are broken. When they are broken it is natural for a person to feel the pain. But if we have the Simran given by the Perfect Master, if we have the grace of the Master, then we do not find it difficult.

In the beginning when I had the Initiation into the first two Words, many initiates of Baba Sawan Singh who had the full Initiation of five words would come to meditate with me. We were about ten or twelve people and they were very loving, devoted souls and they would come to meditate with me. And we always had one person standing up, while the others were meditating, to check the other people. If anyone was falling asleep in meditation or if he was trying to move, the person who was in charge at that time was told to slap the person on both sides. So I mean to say that only the brave courageous people can do meditation and only those who have real love and faith can become the real meditators. No one was allowed to make tea, no one was allowed to sit in meditation after drinking tea, and no one was allowed to bring any kind of food to be distributed as parshad. Because it was a very strict period of meditation and we used to think, "He who brings parshad and he who distributes food to the other people wants to take away the meditation of others and that is not fair."

At that time I did not sit on any kind of cushion; I had only some sticks or hay underneath me, and I never even put a gunny sack under me; sometimes I sat on a flat wooden platform.

You would have read, in the book written by Mr. Oberoi [Support for the Shaken Sangat], the stories of Sunder Das, who was an Initiate of Master Sawan Singh. With him I used to have sittings of eight hours at a stretch. In that you would have read about how we can die while living. Once when we were meditating we had some fire going on and his leg had fallen into the fire and he did not know his leg was burning, because he was so much absorbed in the meditation.

When he got up from that meditation, he told me, “The intoxication that I have received today in meditation, I have not got that any time before.” Imagine to what plane he must have gone in that meditation. If he was in the body – you know that even if we get a little bit of pain, we move – but he was not in the body that is why he did not even know that his leg was burning.

Mr. Oberoi did not write all those stories only from hearsay, he tried to find every possible person who had meditated with me and after meeting them and confirming all the things with them, he wrote down the stories.

Usually when the western dear ones have the yearning and longing to do the devotion, they also have a feeling of hurry. They want to get results right away and in that they do not become successful. Master Sawan Singh Ji also used to say, “Western dear ones have this habit that when they have the yearning to do the devotion, they sit for meditation, but they want the results right then, and it does not work like that.” We should do our devotion, our meditation, with love and faith, and patiently we should wait for the results.

1989 February: It Depends Upon Your Faith, Love, Devotion & Effort

This question and answer session was given September 25, 1988, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16 PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Dear Master, I was initiated eight years ago but none-the-less through my efforts I can't obtain any progress on the Path and in the meditation. My meditation doesn't light up the Path and my path doesn't light up the meditations. This is very evident and somebody criticizes me and You for this. I have suffered it alone but now I ask why? Is my temper too bad or my karma too heavy or is there some other reason? How much can You suffer for my safety? I don't know what I should expect.

SANT JI: Every satsangi should think about this question patiently. Maharaj Sawan Singh Ji used to say that not even the experiences of the husband and wife are alike, because they have their own karmas and they have different karmas to pay off. We do have the effect of our bad karmas as we also have the effect of the good karmas on our soul. As our good karma has a good effect, in the same way the bad karma also effects us very badly and has a direct effect on our meditations. Often I have said that it is worse to surrender than to be defeated. You should not surrender to your mind. You should continue your struggle and when your karmas are paid off, then you will get all the experiences and then your path will brighten up and you will make progress. But you should not be disappointed. You should not surrender yourself to the mind. You should go on doing the meditation.

It has been my experience that out of hundreds of people who get the Initiation, not everyone has the same kind of experience. Everyone's experience differs. There are many people, even after being given two or three different sittings, who don't get any experience at all. But the grace of the Master is equal for everyone.

For those people who did not get any experience or those who do not yet have the experience after meditating for so long, or after being on the Path for so many years, I would like to advise that they should continue doing their meditation practices with love, faith and devotion for the Master. If you will maintain your faith and devotion for the Master, sooner or later, after your karmas are paid off, you will definitely get what you are looking for.

Many times when the good souls come to get Initiation they do not need to have so much explained, they just sit there and when they get the Master's attention they confess that they have received very high experiences and thus there is no need to spend much time explaining the theory to them. They accept the attention of the Master and they do not have any difficulty in getting the experiences. Many times it happens that our mind will not let us confess our mistakes and as a result even though we know, deep in our heart, the reason why we are not getting the experience, still, because of the influence of the mind, we are not able to understand and we do not believe that it is the mistake of our mind. It is our mistake that we have not received the experiences at the time of the Initiation.

During the first world tour, at Sant Bani Ashram many people were initiated and one dear one came from South Africa to receive the Initiation. She was a good soul but she did not get any experience of Light or Sound at the time of the Initiation. She was a good soul and she knew what her mistake was. She told me with love and patience that she knew why she did not get any experience at the Initiation and that she was sure with Master's Grace everything would be all right. I was very impressed by her patience and by her devotion. She continued doing her meditation after the Initiation and even though she did not get any experience she continued doing her practices with love, faith and devotion for the Master. All the dear ones in her area, including her husband, were so impressed by her faith and devotion for the Master that they also were drawn to the Path. Later on they received Initiation and because of her, now there are many initiates over there. That dear one knew about her mistake and she gradually removed it and after a year she got the experiences and everything became all right and now she is a good, leading satsangi over there.

At that same place there was another dear one from the same area who had come for the Initiation and he was given two sittings at the time of the Initiation but he did not get any experience at all. He had done something wrong before coming for the Initiation and even though he knew that he had made some mistake, his mind did not allow him to put the blame on his own self and he did not confess that it was his own fault. Instead he was putting the blame on the Master. After some time, about six or seven months later he came to realize his own mistake then he wrote me a letter and he told me, "Now I realize why I was not having any experience at the time of Initiation. I had done this thing wrong and I was so embarrassed to admit that in front of all the people that I did not tell you. My mind did not let me confess it at that time, but now I confess my mistake and now you should shower grace on me.” Later on he also got the experience.

So I mean to say that many times our mind is so powerful that he will not let us believe that it is our own mistake; and under the influence of mind, we lose faith in the Master. If we would continue doing the meditation with faith and love for the Master and with all our devotion, then after some time everything becomes all right.

Once Master Sawan Singh Ji went to the Dhiri area and over there many people came to hear His Satsang and they got Initiation from Him. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that those people were so innocent and such good souls that they all got very good experiences at the time of the Initiation and they became very devoted to the Path of the Masters.

In the same way, last year in Bangalore many people came to attend the Satsang and many people got the Initiation. Those poor people did not understand the Hindi language very clearly but they were such good souls that I did not have to give another sitting to anyone because everyone got very good, very high experiences at the time of the first Initiation sitting.

Last time when I went to Colombia many dear souls came there for the Satsang and they attended the Satsang for many days and they understood the Satsang, they understood the Path. Afterwards when they received the Initiation they got very beautiful experiences and I did not have to give another sitting to anyone over there.

This Path of the Masters is not like government service where if you serve for many years you get a promotion; it all depends upon your faith, your love, your devotion and how much effort you put in doing your practices.

Dear ones this is something which needs your consideration. Many times it happens that we do our meditation wholeheartedly and we do all the things which are required of us but we do not give up those things which we are supposed to give up and that is why we do not get anywhere in the meditation, we do not make any progress.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that if a sick person goes to the doctor, the doctor gives him some medicine. If he takes that medicine but does not abstain from the things which the doctor told him to, then that medicine will not work for him.

Swami Ji Maharaj also says the same thing, “The disciple does not abstain from the things which he has been told to but instead he blames the Master for not getting any progress.”

As far as getting criticism of our own self and also of the Master this is because of our own ignorance; because we do not understand our responsibility to do the Path. It is the responsibility of all the dear ones, all the satsangis, to present an example for the people in their home and in their neighborhoods, so that looking at the satsangi’s way of living people may be impressed and they may also come to the Path and improve their lives.

I will tell you an interesting story about my father. We were born in a Sikh family and it is considered that those who read the Jap Ji Sahib early in the morning are doing a good deed. So my father, because he was a Sikh, read the Jap Ji Sahib in the early morning.

Once he met a mahatma who didn't have any knowledge of going within and who did not know the secret of the inner worlds, but he was a good mahatma and he gave my father a rosary to move. He told my father, "If you will move the rosary along with the reading of Jap Ji Sahib then all of your difficulties will go away." So my father used to read Jap Ji Sahib in the morning along with moving the rosary. You know that in the home there are many problems and difficulties, and even if there are none we ourselves create many difficulties and problems. My father had this habit of calling names at his servants every morning whenever they would do the work. So on the one side he would be reading Jap Ji Sahib and moving the rosary and along with doing that he would also put the feed in front of the cattle and at the same time he would be calling the names at the servants and he would be rebuking everyone in the family.

Both my mother and I would ask him to tell us what he thought God would accept – "Will He accept your reading of Jap Ji Sahib, your moving the rosary, or your calling your servants names?" So when my father went to Baba Bishan Das, Baba Bishan Das told him, "Instead of moving the rosary and reading Jap Ji Sahib and doing everything all at the same time, you should sit at one place quietly, read Jap Ji Sahib and move the rosary. Then all your difficulties will go away and the people who see you doing that may also get impressed that you are not fighting with anyone, that you are not rebuking anyone, and in that way they will see that you have improved your life.

Dear ones, the fragrance of Naam should come out from the satsangis. Each satsangi should always be determined to do the meditation; he should not go after getting experiences, he should only be determined to do his meditations regularly and wholeheartedly. The Light is within you, the Sound is within you, all the stars, suns, moons and all the beautiful glimpses, all the beautiful things are within you. Your Master is also within you. He is the Form of the Shabd, He is sitting there within you and you should only be determined to do the meditation and you should not worry about getting any experience. We complain only when we do not sit for the meditation. If we abstain from the things which our Master has told us to and would sit for meditation and if we withdraw our attention from the outside world, concentrate at the eye center – if we do all these things – it is not difficult. Our mind has made it difficult but in fact it is not that difficult if you would only obey the commandments of the Master and do the meditation.

QUESTION: Should a satsangi ask for or yearn for the darshan of the Master?

SANT JI: We ask for the darshan of the Master only when our mind is quiet and when we are concentrating at the eye center. If we are asking for the darshan in that condition we are not the thief. In fact whenever this condition comes we should take advantage of it and we should at once sit in meditation and ask for the real darshan of the Master.

Regarding the darshan of the Master I would like to tell you a story of the sixth Guru, Guru Har Gobind, and His disciple. The Master is residing in us, He is present in every single cell of our body in the form of the Shabd and He is not unjust. Whenever the disciple longs for His darshan He always supplies it. He always provides the disciple with whatever he needs and whenever the disciple longs for the darshan He is always there to give it.

Bhai Rukhchand was an initiate of Guru Har Gobind; he had one brother and both of them were farmers. It was the month of April or May and it was very hot and they were harvesting wheat. In those days there were no refrigerators so there was no way of cooling the drinking water. As they were working they became thirsty and they came to a place where the water was very cold and Bhai Rukhchand at once said, “We should not drink this water. Our Master should be the one who drinks this water because it is very cold.”

Now at that time they were about fifty or sixty miles away from where Guru Har Gobind was doing the Satsang. Bhai Rukhchand was at his place doing the work of farming but he had the desire of taking that water to his Master. He had the desire of having the darshan of his Master, even though there was no means of traveling the distance to his Master at that time of day, but still he had this desire.

Guru Gobind Singh was sitting among the other dear ones of the Sangat and He was giving Satsang. He became thirsty but He did not drink any water and suddenly He said, “I have to go to a place where one of my disciples is very thirsty.” Bhai Rukhchand was very thirsty because it was very hot but he had not drunk the water because he wanted his Master to drink that water, and on the other side Guru Har Gobind also did not drink the water and suddenly He left the Sangat. Guru Har Gobind was a very good horse rider and at once He took the horse and He rode all the way to the place where Bhai Rukhchand had by then become unconscious from the heat. Guru Har Gobind came there and He Himself made Bhai Rukhchand drink that water.

So now you imagine, was there any telephone there, was there any cable system there? There was no telephone, there was no outer way of communicating. It was in the heart of Bhai Rukhchand that his Master should come and drink that water and he had the pangs of separation and he wanted to have the darshan of the Master. The Masters are All-Conscious, that is why Guru Har Gobind knew what was in the heart of His disciple. He left the Sangat and went at once to Bhai Rukhchand and made him drink the water; in that way He not only quenched his physical thirst but He also quenched the thirst of his soul.

Raja Ram Sahib was a very devoted dear one of Master Sawan Singh Ji and Master Kirpal Singh Ji often used to talk about him. Once he bought a piece of melon. It was very sweet and as he was about to eat it he tasted that it was very sweet and at once a thought came in his mind, “My Master Sawan Singh should eat this melon because it is so very sweet.” And right then he drove all the way from Husan, which was very far from Dera Beas to the Dera to give that melon to Master Sawan Singh. When he reached Dera Beas he did not find Master Sawan Singh there because He had gone to Peshawar to give Satsang. So Raja Ram Sahib continued on to Peshawar and on the way it was very stormy and all the roads were blocked because there were many trees uprooted. Still he was not stopped by any barriers; he went straight to the place where Master Sawan Singh was and he presented that melon to the Master. As soon as Master Sawan Singh saw Raja Ram bringing the melon He said, “Raja Ram why did you take so much trouble in bringing this melon all the way from Husan? I got this melon as soon as you thought about me having it.”

So you see, who will fulfill the longing of the disciple? only He who has created that longing in the disciple. Whenever we have the longing, whenever we have the thirst for the Master, He has inflamed that love within us and He is the only one who will extinguish that fire of love. He is the only one who will fulfill our longing because He is the one who has created that longing within us.

Guru Nanak Sahib said that He knows everything without your asking. To whom are you praying? He knows your every single need and He gives you whatever is appropriate and whatever is good for you.

We become disappointed after praying to our Master only when the thing which we are praying for, which we are asking for, from the Master is not feasible, is not appropriate for us, is not good for us. But we do not know what is good for us or what is not good for us. That is why whenever we pray for anything from the Master and if it is not given to us then we become disappointed and we think that Master has not heard our prayer. Master knows everything and only He knows what is good for us. Many times we think something would be a good thing for us but eventually we find that it was not a good thing after all. Master always protects us and He knows, “This thing is not good for my disciple.” That is why even though we pray for it sometimes He does not give it to us. He knows our every single thought and He always gives us those things which are good for us.

When we ask for the darshan of the Master He always comes to give us the darshan provided our asking is sincere and it is coming from our heart. This place where you are sitting now, at this time it is full of all the conveniences. We have an orchard here, we have good roads and we have all kinds of things over here. When beloved Master Kirpal used to come here to give me His darshan, at that time there was nothing here. We did not have anything, we did not even have good roads for Him to travel, it was all sand everywhere and it was very difficult for Him to come here physically but still whenever He was remembered with love He would come here to give the darshan.

I often used to say that there is no enjoyment or happiness in weeping if you do not have someone to wipe off your tears. And it is true that whenever this poor soul would remember Him and whenever this poor soul would cry in His remembrance, He would come here to give me darshan and He would wipe off those tears of the pain of separation and He would give whatever this poor soul needed at that time. This small place which you go to see, the Underground Room, was also made according to Master Kirpal's orders. Otherwise we had nothing here; but still He used to come here to quench the thirst of my soul and He used to come here to give His darshan.

I would like to tell you that Master always gives us whatever thing is being asked from Him but the thing is that we should be also doing our part. We should obey His commandments. It all depends upon our faith, love and devotion and it also depends upon how much we have devoted our self to obeying the commandments of the Master.

Dear ones if you would go in the within, after doing the meditation, if you would remove all the three covers from your soul, then you would see the Real Form of the Master. Then you would understand that Master is not the body. He has assumed the body only for this world, only for this plane and He is going to leave this body here in this plane. The Real Form of the Master is the Shabd, which will go with us. Then we realize that Master does not have to come from anywhere outside to give us the darshan, He is within us and whenever we remember Him in our within, He is there to give us the darshan.

Very often such things happen between the Master and the disciple. Many times Master helps us through some other people. The dear devoted souls at once recognize that it was the Master Himself who has worked through this person; and whatever sympathy or whatever help we have received, from this person, is in fact coming from our Master. Baba Jaimal Singh told Master Sawan Singh that many times the Master gives us comfort, He gives us happiness and help through other people.

Sometimes it happens that if you are lost in the wilderness and it is dark and you do not know which way you should go, Master will appear there, not in His Real Form, but in the form of somebody else to guide you on your way. If you are remembering the Master, if your attention is toward the Master then it is possible Master would appear there in His Real Form and show you your way. But because our attention is not there, since we are very much confused and afraid at that time, that is why He appears there in somebody else's form to give us the right direction and to guide us to a safe place. He does not perform any miracles, but we take it to be a miracle because we have this realization that it was the Master who helped us.

If the Master appeared in His Real Form without our remembering Him, without our paying attention to Him, then it would be considered as a miracle. Then we would make His life very difficult, because we would go on telling people how Master appeared there, and in this way we would make His life difficult. That is why He never performs such miracles. But because He has taken responsibility for us, that is why whenever we are in difficulty He appears there in some form to guide us to our destination.

Once we were driving along the canal of the River Mali near Nervankar and suddenly it started to rain, as it rained today, and it was an unexpected and very heavy rain. There were many ditches along the road where we were driving and they all filled up with water and we did not know which way to go. One of the tires of our jeep fell in a ditch and our jeep got stuck. I told the driver that I would try to lift up the side of the jeep and he should start the engine and try to move the jeep and with His Grace everything will be all right and we will continue our journey. At that time I was just initiated and I remembered my Master and I told Him, "Help me, just like you saved the honor of Draupadi."

You might have heard the story of Draupadi, how Durianajan was trying to take off all of her clothes. But she was the disciple of Lord Krishna and she remembered Lord Krishna saying, "Today my honor is at stake and it is in your hands, you have to take care of me." So at that place Durianajan tried his best but still he could not take off her clothes, he couldn't unwind her sari, because Lord Krishna from the other side was making the sari cloth longer and longer, and in that way her honor was saved. So I remembered my Beloved Master in that way and we were saved from the difficulty. You see that it was not my miracle; I had just recently been initiated, and I just remembered my Master, so who did that? It was the Master who was doing everything from behind the curtain. Master does many different things to protect the honor of the disciple. But the thing is that you have to remember Him. If you remember Him, surrendering yourself completely to His feet then He will take care of your every need.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that ordinarily if our son gets sick we at once request and pray to the Master to make him all right because we do not have any idea of how many karmas were involved in that, we only see our son suffering. We have prayed to the Master and if he does not become all right then we lose our faith in the Master. Or suppose we are involved in some lawsuit and we pray to the Master and if we do not win that case then we lose our faith in the Master. Suppose we do not have a child and we pray to the Master, even though we do not know whether we are meant to have a child or not, or whether it is good for us or not. But if we do not get the child then our faith in the Master breaks. If with His Grace we do get the child and if the child is crying a lot then we request the Master to make him quiet and if that does not happen then we lose our faith in the Master.

So we go on asking for such small things and if they are not done then our faith in the Master breaks. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that such people who come to the Path, and who request the Master to fulfill all their small desires without knowing whether they are good or bad for them – such people should not come to the Master, they should not come to the Path, it is better for them to stay in their home. Only those people who have the desire to do the devotion of the Lord, who are here to surrender themselves to the feet of the Master, only they should come to the Path. Only those who really understand the Path can get the benefit from the Master by surrendering themselves to the Master.

All the world dances to the tune of the mind – whether one is a warrior, a ruler or a poor person, all dance to the tune of the mind. Mind is the only thing which dances to the tune of the Shabd. He is present within us and He is present within every single cell of our body and He is present everywhere in this world.

The relationship of the disciple with the Master is unbreakable, it does not end only in this lifetime, only in this world; it continues even after we leave this world. It is permanent and it always remains there until our Master takes us to our Real Home.

1989 March: To Become Successful on this Path

This question and answer session was given March 24, 1988, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16 PS, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: Master, why does it take so long to make the same spiritual progress after we leave the physical body than it does when we still have the human form?

SANT JI: The fact is that you people don't even know whether it takes more time to progress in the inner planes than it takes here in this physical plane because you do not know how it works inside. Often I have said that sometimes we are not able to do the meditations in this physical plane. But if one has real yearning for the Master and for meditation, then for such souls it does not take very much time, even in the inner planes, to make progress. Whether it is in the inner plane or here in the physical plane it all depends on the love, faith, and yearning of the disciple.

Dear ones, often I have said that this is not like government service or a job in the military, where the more you serve, the more seniority you have and the more promotions you get. It all depends upon the love, faith and yearning of the disciple – how much effort he makes and how much yearning and love he has for the Master. It is not like flying where it takes a specific amount of time to fly from one place to another. The plane of the Surat Shabd that the Masters have for us, moves very fast depending on the yearning and love of the disciple. If one has more faith and yearning for the Master, then when such a disciple climbs in that plane of Shabd Naam it will move very fast. Master Sawan Singh

Ji used to say, “It is like a bullet: you hear the sound of the bullet later, but it hits the target first.” In the same way, the flight or progress of the Soul is such that when you have developed going inside you also progress like that. It all depends upon the yearning of the disciple. The more yearning one has for the Master the quicker he goes to his destination.

Dear ones, I will tell you a story which Master Sawan Singh as well as Master Kirpal Singh Ji used to tell in Their Satsangs. At the time of Guru Gobind Singh there were many disciples, initiates of Guru Nanak, Guru Angad, and many of the other ten Sikh Gurus, who used to be very closely associated with Guru Gobind Singh. They were the old initiates, but because of their carelessness and lethargy they had not taken the advantage. Even though they used to live in the homes of the past Masters still they did not do their work; they did not progress in the meditation.

At that time, one illiterate farmer came to Guru Gobind Singh. When the Guru asked him what his name was, he replied that his name was Bhai Bela. Guru Gobind Singh asked him if he had learned anything. Did he know anything about reading or writing? He replied that he was an illiterate farmer. He did not know anything about reading or writing but he could take care of the horses. He said he had much experience in caring for horses and he would be very grateful for the job of caring for Guru Gobind Singh’s horses.

So Guru Gobind Singh Ji told him, “Yes, we need a person like you to take care of the horses. Everyday you should come to me and I will give you one line to repeat, and in that way gradually I will teach you to read and write.” Now that dear one was very faithful and devoted to Guru Gobind Singh. He took care of the horses and every day he went to Guru Gobind Singh and Guru Gobind Singh Ji gave him a line to repeat. All day long he kept on repeating that line, and learning the line by heart. This went on for some time.

As you know Guru Gobind Singh had taken up arms only to oppose the tyranny.¹ He had no other reason for going to the battlefield and fighting. He only did that to protect the religion.

Once when Guru Gobind Singh Ji was going to the battlefield Bhai Bela remembered that he was supposed to go to the Master and get the line for that day. He went to Guru Gobind Singh who was in a rush to go to the battlefield and said, “Master, what about my line for today? Give me that line.” Guru Gobind Singh Ji was much impressed by the simplicity and humility of that dear one and He laughed and said, “O Bhai Bela, you don’t consider the time and the opportunity.” And after saying this Guru Gobind Singh went off to the battlefield. Bhai Bela was so devoted and faithful to Guru Gobind Singh that he did not realize what Guru Gobind Singh had said was only to get rid of him because He had been in a rush to go off to the battlefield. He thought that whatever words Guru Gobind Singh had said, the words of the Master were the words spoken by God Himself. All day long he went on repeating those same words, “O Bhai Bela, you don’t even consider the time and the opportunity.”

¹ For a further account, see Servants of God: Lives of the Ten Sikh Gurus, by Jon Engle.

When the older initiates of the past Masters, who used to live with Guru Gobind Singh, saw Bhai Bela repeating those words which Guru Gobind Singh had said only to get rid of Bhai Bela, they laughed at him. All day long they went on playing jokes with him. They said to each other, “Guru Gobind Singh said those words only to get rid of him but he is understanding it as the Divine order and in that way he is repeating those words.” So they were laughing at him but he was not bothered and he went on repeating those words.

You know that such mean people, who do not understand the reality, always complain about such things; they are always ready to criticize other people. So in the evening when Guru Gobind Singh Ji came back to His place those people went to Him and said, “Look at your disciple Bhai Bela. Ever since you left this morning he has been repeating the words which you spoke to get rid of him. He has been saying, ‘Oh Bhai Bela, you don’t consider the time and the opportunity.’” Guru Gobind Singh Ji was very impressed and so pleased with Bhai Bela’s devotion that He called him and, looking into his eyes, He gave him such grace that He took his soul up, and he started enjoying the intoxication of the inner planes.

Now the older disciples, when they saw that Bhai Bela’s soul was attached within, and he was enjoying the inner planes, they felt very bad. They said, “We have been initiated for so many years and have been living with Guru Gobind Singh for such a long time, but still we have not gone within, we have not enjoyed anything of the inner planes. Look at Bhai Bela, he came only a few days ago, and today he has gone up in meditation, and has started enjoying the inner experiences.” They thought it was not a just thing, so they complained to Guru Gobind Singh, saying, “What kind of injustice is this in the court of Guru Nanak? We have been initiated into this Path for so many years, and we have been with you for so many long years, but still we have not enjoyed anything; we have not gone in the within. But Bhai Bela, who came just a few days ago, is getting so much grace from you that he is enjoying everything within.” They said this because, after Bhai Bela’s soul was attached within, and after he started seeing the inner experiences, he started talking about the importance of the Master, the glory of the Master, and he started talking about very good things which impressed the other people.

When the people complained like this, in order to satisfy them, Guru Gobind Singh said, “I will answer your question. You should bring some hemp.” They brought some hemp and made a drink from it, and Guru Gobind Singh told one group of disciples, “You take that hemp drink in your mouth – but don’t swallow it.” He told them to just take it into their mouth, and then spit it out. But He told some other people to take it in and swallow it. Now when those older initiates took the hemp drink but were not allowed to swallow it, they did not get any intoxication from it, whereas the ones who were told to swallow it became intoxicated.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that when we have some faults within us, we ourselves sometimes talk about it one way, and sometimes another. So when Guru Gobind Singh asked those people who were not allowed to swallow that hemp drink whether they got any intoxication, they replied, “Master, how could we get any intoxication, when you told us not to swallow it?” When the other people who were told to swallow the hemp drink were asked, they said, “Well, Master what to talk about the intoxication, we see all different colors and we have lost all consciousness of the earth, we are so much intoxicated.” So Guru Gobind Singh told them, “This is the answer to your question. You people no doubt were initiated a long time ago; you have spent so much time with the Masters. You attend the Satsangs; you even try to do the meditation. But when you attend the Satsang, you listen to the Satsang through one ear and let it out through the other ear. You do not live up to what the Master's say. Just as when you did not drink the hemp drink, you did not get the intoxication, similarly, since you do not live up to the words of the Master, you do not get any intoxication, you do not go within. But look at Bhai Bela, he came just a few days ago, and whatever I told him to do, he did that, and as a result he has been enjoying the inner planes."

Masters never want their disciples to remain the slaves of their minds. But what is our condition? Even though we have received Initiation, we come to the Masters, we attend the Satsangs and we even try to do the meditation. But at the same time we have become the slaves of the mind; we do not want to give up any pleasure of the mind, and that is why we are not going within and are not progressing. Master does not want us to remain slaves of the mind after He leaves the body, that is why He always tries His best to make us free from the clutches of the mind while He is still in the body. He is like the pilot who has come with the airplane of Shabd Naam, and like an efficient pilot, He takes off at the right time. In the same way, the Master comes with the plane of Shabd Naam and He also wants that before He leaves the physical form He should make all the souls He has initiated sit on the plane of Shabd Naam and take off and go back to Sach Khand. But if we are obeying our mind, if we have not yet given up the slavery of the mind, what can the Master do?

Dear ones, why do the Sant Satguru's make us do the meditation? Why do they lay so much emphasis on living a pure life? Because if we have not done the meditation in this lifetime, if we have not made a practice, not made a habit, of doing the meditation here, then it will be difficult for us to meditate in the inner planes. The worlds we have to cross during our journey in the inner planes – that place is much more beautiful than this world and if we have not maintained ourselves, if we have not maintained a pure life here, then it will be very difficult for us to go through that place. Talking about the dear souls, Master Sawan Singh Ji used to speak of an incident when he went to a place called Kalukabar to give Initiation. He Initiated many hundreds of people there and many of them were attached inside and they had beautiful experiences. This same thing has happened in my own lifetime as well. When I went to Bangalore about one-hundred and twenty-five people were Initiated and there was not even one person who did not see any Light or did not have any experience. Everyone who was Initiated was given the experience of Light. But when we had the Initiation in Bombay, the same person was there to explain the theory, the same Master was there to give the Initiation, but out of so many people who were Initiated at that time there were only a couple of people who raised their hand saying that they had had the experience. All the others were quiet and had to be given another sitting.

So you see, the Naam was the same, the person who explained the theory was the same, and the Master who was there to Initiate was the same. But why at one place did everyone have the experience and at the other place only a few people got the experience? It is because of our faith, our love, and our yearning. It is because of our karmas. We do not know how many karmas we have to pay off before we can get those experiences and accept the grace of the Master. As far as the Master is concerned, His grace is constant for everyone.

In my lifetime I have done only two meditation programs. One was a very strict kind of meditation program. It was something like the non-stop repetition of Guru Granth Sahib that the Sikhs do – one person reads from the holy book and unless another person replaces him that first person will not stop reading; the reading has to be continuous – non-stop. So we also had a meditation program like that. We divided the whole Satsang into three groups and one group would start doing the meditation and the other group after some time would take on the meditation and in that way it would go on non-stop. In that way everyone would get the opportunity to sit for meditation every four hours. I was also participating in that meditation program; it was not that I would make them sit in meditation and go back to my room, I would also be there to meditate and do the seva of guarding the people. We had guards during the meditation so that if anyone was found drowsing or showing any signs of laziness he would be slapped and would be taken out. It was only in order to keep everyone awake and keep them doing the meditation. And those simple villagers, those illiterate people, who had come there to do only the meditation and nothing else, had beautiful experiences and were able to do the meditation without any difficulty. Whereas the people from the cities had complaints that the rice was not cooked well, or the tea was not made well, or they could not sit for the meditation, or they were having pain in the body. The meaning of this is that those illiterate people, those humble and simple villagers, who had come there only for meditation, were successful and they did not have any complaints.

In the same way, this month from the ninth to the sixteenth we held a similar kind of meditation program which was very successful. Many dear ones participated and they did a lot of meditation. After that meditation program the people who talked about their experiences, those who had the beautiful experiences, were the villagers. Whereas the people who came from the cities had complaints about the food and other things and they were not able to meditate as much as the villagers did. One day it so happened that some rice was left over from lunch and Mr. Oberoi thought that it would be nice for the people from Karnataka, the south of India, to have additional rice in the evening with their dinner. So he distributed the rice among the south Indian people. But the people who had come from the cities they did not like this and they created an uproar saying that the rice should have been distributed to everyone. Even though, just three hours before, rice had been given to everyone, they made a big deal out of it and they started fighting over that issue.

Another time we made rice pudding in the morning and parshad halva in the evening. After that there was one dear one who came to me and told me, “Master this morning your rice pudding created heat in my body and in the evening the parshad which was made also created some trouble in my body.” So you see if I do not do a seva like this, if I do not make good food for the people, then from the within Master asks me why I do not take good care of the people; but when I do that, then people complain about the food. If I make good food for them they complain; and if I don’t still they complain. So how can those people get any benefit from coming to the Master and how can those people do any meditation? Kabir Sahib has said that when you go in the company of the Master, even if you are given a dry chapati to eat, still you should be content. You should understand that only that is written in your karma. Be content with that, eat it, and do the meditation.

The meaning of this, as Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, is that those who read and learn something always debate and they always say, “this thing is written in that book,” or “that thing is written in this book,” etc. They do not understand the Grace of the Master; and they do not take full advantage of the company of the Master. Whereas the simple-minded people, the people from the villages, get the maximum benefit from coming to the Master.

Once three people came to Kabir Sahib; one was an illiterate person, another was a learned person, and the third one was a yogi. Kabir Sahib welcomed all of them and He talked with them and then He asked what they had to say. First He asked the illiterate person what he had to say. The illiterate person said, “I think that one should not learn anything, one should not read anything, because as the color of the ink is black, in the same way those who are learned people their heart also becomes black. So it is better to remain illiterate. It is not a good thing to be learned.” So he criticized the learned persons.

Then Kabir Sahib asked the learned person what he had to say. He said, “Well, what is the life of an illiterate? His life is not any better than the life of the animals because he does not know how to live his life.” And so he criticized the illiterate people.

Finally Kabir Sahib asked the yogi what he had to say. The yogi replied, “I think that one should perform the yoga, he should do the nulee asan and the other yogic practices. Because unless you do this you will not have any life.” And in this way he criticized and condemned the learned and the illiterate.

Hearing what they all had to say Kabir Sahib very lovingly told them, “I thought the learned person was good but he criticized the illiterate person, and when I thought the illiterate person was good he criticized the learned person, and then I thought that maybe the yogi would be better than either of them, but he also criticized both of them.”

So one should find a way to rise above criticism. One should find a way from all of this to be attached to the Shabd Naam and to do the devotion of the Lord. Unless you do the meditation of Shabd Naam you cannot rise above and you cannot get to your destination.

So dear ones, I say that those who have come to the Path with determination and the desire to meditate, and those who meditate with the desire of just doing it, they become successful and they progress in this Path without any time. But those who meditate while thinking, “I will reach the first plane,” or “when I cross the second plane,” and those who go on counting the days and the hours – who think in terms of time – Dear Ones, they remain only counting the days and they get nowhere. So if you want to become successful on this Path and if you want to attain progress then you should meditate with determination and with the desire of just doing it.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell a very humorous story about a merchant family that was very learned. Once they had to go some place and on the way they had to cross a river. In India in those days there were not many bridges over the rivers and there were no good means of transportation so people had to walk and cross rivers by boat. When the family reached the river, the most educated one of them, went up to the river’s edge and he measured how deep the water was. He measured that it was twenty feet deep.

Then he counted the people in the family and they were twenty in number. So he said, “Twenty foot depth, and twenty people. That means that for each person it is only one foot deep. So there is no need to worry. Everyone can easily cross the river.” He sent one person into the river and he drowned. Then he sent another person into the river and he too drowned. He did not realize that the twenty foot depth of the river was for everyone; you cannot divide the depth of the river by the amount of people that have to cross. When he saw that the family members were drowning he once again calculated, “The depth is twenty feet and I had only twenty people so it is one foot per person.”

At that time an experienced person came and asked him why he was sending the people in and drowning them in the river. He said, “Look at my calculation. I have done the right calculation. The river is only twenty feet deep and I had twenty people so that means one foot per person. I don’t know why it is happening.” The experienced person told him, “It does not work like that over here. The depth is the same for everyone. Why don’t you take the help of a boat or something like that to cross the river?”

So that is why Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that we should not rely completely on learning. We should do the meditation. We should seek the guidance of a person who has the experience and using His experience we should also meditate and go within.

Dear ones, that was a very good question, a very interesting question; so much more could be said in response to this question.

It was the Grace of my Beloved Master Kirpal that He made me obey Him. It was only because of His Grace that I was able to obey His commandments and become successful. You know that the mind is such a thing that he makes people fall down and he does not allow anyone to become successful. Unless we have the Grace of the Master we cannot become successful in the Path. So I am very grateful that He made me successful. He made me follow Him and obey His commandments.

Dear ones, I had entered this Path only to do it and whatever my Master told me to do I did that without any questions and as a result you know that I got His Grace. In the beginning when the dear ones from the west started coming to me and when they would talk about their difficulties in the meditations some people would say that they had pains in the knee, some people would say they could not sit for longer hours, some people would say that they could not concentrate and they could not see the light and things like that. It was very difficult for me to understand all that. Because what I have understood from this Path is that when you have taken the Master, when you have entered this Path, it means that you have to do it. When people would tell me that they have pain and they cannot sit through the pain, I would think, “Why don’t these people continue doing the meditation, why can they not stop paying attention to the pain, why can they not do the meditation.” And that is why in the beginning it was very difficult for me to understand what they were saying because when you have entered the Path you should do it and you should not pay any attention to any obstacles or you should not pay attention to the pains or anything like that.

Once in the place called Karumpar Gracious Lord Kirpal was visiting and one dear one who had difficulty in the meditation came to Him and told Him, “Master, earlier I used to see Light but now I have difficulty in seeing the Light.” Master gave him a meditation sitting and even after that sitting he had difficulty and he was talking about the Light and the difficulties in meditation. When a dear one who understands the Master as Almighty Lord and who knows the Reality of the Master sees somebody arguing with the Master about the Light, etc., you can understand what he would be feeling. So I felt very bad and I thought in my mind, “Why doesn’t this person bow down to the Almighty Lord? Why is he arguing and talking and bothering the Master about the Light? Is Master anything different than the Light? He is the Form of the Light; He is the Abode of the Light – why doesn’t he bow down in front of the Master?”

That dear one still comes to the Satsang, but now he repents, asking why he did not have complete faith in the Master at that time. Why he did not bow down in front of the Master; and why was he only bothering about the Light and the experiences. So dear ones, I mean to say that when you have entered this Path, you should just do it without paying attention to anything. Because if you will devote your soul completely to the Master He will definitely shower His Grace upon you.

1989 April: The Stamp of the Master

This question and answer session was given January 29, 1989, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan, India.

SANT JI: Yes, now you may ask your questions.

QUESTION: Dear Master I often ask myself which limit and what difference there is for an Initiate between being spiritually introvert and talking little but heavily, and being unfriendly or inconsiderate with others. And also between advising and expressing one’s own ideas frankly and judging, talking, sternly as though we were oracles of absolute truth. In general what limits and difference is there between an inner detachment and indifference or coldness with respect to others, considering another person’s problem as their own karma. I do this question because I often feel in my own self and others opposite attitudes that are sometimes humiliating and create resentment or incomprehension.

SANT JI: I did not want to say this but now I am compelled to say it. Whenever you ask any question you should make it brief and to the point. You should not make it so complex and so complicated that it becomes difficult to find out what you want to know.

This particular question could have easily been made brief and to the point; it would have been easier for me to answer and easier for you to understand what you are really asking for.

I don’t have any objection when people ask me long questions but I mean to say that when you ask a question it should be regarding one, or at the most two, particular points, so that it becomes easier to answer.

Now in this question it is very difficult to find out what is the real purpose of the person who has asked this question.

There are many things which are answered in the question itself. A similar thing happened once during the first tour at Sant Bani Ashram, one dear one stood up and he asked me a very long question and by the time he had finished, he had already answered his own question, and when he realized that he laughed, and all the dear ones in the Sangat also laughed. So I mean to say that whenever you want to ask any question make it very brief and to the point. It is not that I don't like or cannot answer the long questions, but when you are sitting here with the other dear ones in the Sangat, you should ask the question in such a way that they also understand what is being asked, and afterwards, when that question is being read or when the answer is read, the dear ones who are reading that question or answer should also be able to gain something from it.

In the army we used to have a court of the commanding officer once a month when we were allowed to ask any question we wanted. But they told us we should ask questions of a general nature the answer of which would be helpful for our future and even to all the other dear ones. Over there we were not allowed to ask questions of a personal nature, about our families or things like that. Only questions related to the army work were allowed, and if anyone would ask any complicated or long question which did not have any connection with army work, then the commanding officer would not answer that question. But the person who would ask such a question would become the cause of a joke for the other people.

We all know that there are a couple of basic things which all the dear Satsangis have to face: sometimes it is very easy for us to concentrate and go within and see the things; but other times it is very difficult to face our mind, it is very difficult for us to do our work and do the concentration of the mind. So these are a couple of basic things which affect our meditation and our attitudes. I would like to explain to you that we should not have any thought or attitude which will result in taking us away from the eye center. Whatever we think of others, whatever we talk to others, or in whatever way we behave in front of others, it should not be one which will take us away from the eye center, it should not be one which could break our concentration. Whenever we speak anything or deal with anyone, first of all we should think of the effect it is going to have on the other person. Most of all we should always be considerate, we should always consider whether this action, or this thought, or this attitude of ours, is going to be helpful to us in concentrating at the eye center or whether it will diffuse us more in this world.

So that is why whenever we deal with the other people, whether it is with other family members or other Satsangis or anyone in this world, we should always be very considerate and always be very careful. We do not want our mind, our attention, to be spread more in this world, because our Path is that of concentration at the eye center. We should do only those things which keep us at the eye center. In fact I would say that whenever you think anything you should always keep yourself at the eye center. Now about expressing what we have in our heart for others. You know that love cannot be completely expressed through our outer actions; it is not something which you can show off, it is something which is felt by the other person. In fact, when we start remaining at the eye center, when we go within, and when we see the whole world belongs to the same Almighty Lord, then love for every creature is developed in us. After that even though we may not express it to others, still the other people will feel the love coming from us. Master Sawan Singh used to say, "When you have good feelings for others it doesn't matter if you express it outwardly or not, but when you are having good feelings for them and when you are sending good feelings to them they will also receive those good feelings and they will feel the love coming from you."

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that heart talks to the heart. Once Emperor Akbar and his minister Birbal were going along to some place; they were walking and Birbal had told Emperor Akbar, “Whatever thoughts you have for someone, that person also has the similar thoughts, he responds in the same way as the thoughts you have for him.” Now Emperor Akbar did not want to believe in that unless he had some proof, so he asked Birbal to give him some proof.

Birbal said, “Well, here comes a person and you should have some thought of him and let us see what he thinks of you when he sees you.” So at once Emperor Akbar thought, when he saw that farmer coming along the other side of the road, “I should put him in jail, and get him a beating from the police, and I should punish him as much as I can.” He told Birbal about his thoughts for that person.

So when that person came he was asked what kind of thoughts he had for this person, Emperor Akbar. In those days not many people used to see the kings and the emperors physically, so that farmer had no idea he was talking to the Emperor. He was very fearless and said, “As soon as I saw him I thought, ‘This person has a very heavy mustache, and I would like to pull his mustache; and I would like to beat him.’”

So then Emperor Akbar was convinced, “Because I had the bad thought for him, he also had bad thoughts for me.” So the meaning of saying this is that if you have good thoughts and good attitudes towards others you do not need to express them outwardly, just your thoughts will carry what feeling is in your heart for them, and they will also respond in the same way.

I would like to say that the fragrance of Love, the fragrance of Naam, should come out from within the disciple of the Master, from the Satsangis, and just by looking at his face the other people should know that he is an initiate of a Perfect Master and his dealings in this world are perfect, and whatever he does is a good thing. Just by looking at his face people should get the idea that he goes to a Perfect Master. Often I have said that the earth on which we are living should also be blessed and should also be proud of us. We should do such things, and our way of living should be such, that not only our Master, but the whole world should be proud of us. History bears the witness that up until now the Negative Power has always bothered the Saints who came into this world, and those who follow the Path of the Perfect Master are always bothered. But the Masters never encourage Their disciples to follow and respond in the same way as the other people. They have always said, “You should always be loving to them.” Our beloved Master Kirpal always used to say that when a bad person does not stop doing his bad deeds, why should a good person stop doing his good deeds?

Kabir Sahib was the first Saint to be incarnated on this earth and He never went below the human body and those who had the blessed opportunity of having His Darshan, and those who got the opportunity of getting the Initiation from Him, they also did the meditation and they realized that Kabir was not different from God Almighty. In His writings Kabir Sahib has also written that there is no difference between the Saints and Almighty Lord, in fact Saints are the Form of Almighty God. But history bears the witness how the government of His time did not spare any efforts, did not leave any stone unturned, to torture Him and give him trouble.

Kabir Sahib came in a Muslim weaver family and at that time, the most powerful king who was ruling over India was also from the Muslim religion, his name was Sikunder Lodi. He tied the hands and feet of Kabir Sahib with heavy iron chains and he also attached some more weight to him and threw him in the water of the Ganges. But with the grace of God Almighty all those chains were broken and Kabir Sahib came up and floated, sitting cross-legged, on the water of the River Ganges, as if He was sitting and doing His meditation.

Another time Sikunder Lodi he tied Kabir's body in the form of the bundle and he threw Him in front of an intoxicated elephant. But when the elephant came near Kabir Sahib, it just bowed down in front of Kabir Sahib and it did not do the thing for which it was made drunk. It was made drunk to step on Kabir Sahib but it did not do that, instead it just bowed down to Kabir Sahib. Now the Kazi who was responsible for passing judgment against Kabir and for executing this so-called punishment was encouraging and getting upset with the mahout of the elephant. Why was he not making the elephant step on Kabir Sahib? But even though that mahout did so much but still the elephant would just go near Kabir Sahib and bow down to Him and nothing went wrong. The elephant would not do any harm to Kabir Sahib, instead he just bowed down and respected Kabir Sahib.

Kabir Sahib mentioned this incident in His writings. He said, "What mistake or what sin has the beloved of God has done? He was thrown in front of the elephant. The elephant understood that He was the Beloved of God and he bowed down to Him but that ignorant Kazi did not understand what has happened. Three times he was encouraged to come and step on me but each time he came he bowed down but that ignorant Kazi still did not understand what was the reality."

They did all this in the name of religion because Sikunder Lodi was a Muslim and he believed in Prophet Mohammed and he tortured Kabir Sahib because he was trying to prove that he was the only true Muslim, loyal to Prophet Mohammed. According to the Muslim religion one who goes on a pilgrimage to Mecca is called a true Muslim. He had been there many times, and he was calling himself as the true Muslim. But they did not know what Prophet Mohammed has really written in the holy book Koran Shah, how much love and how much compassion He had for the whole of creation.

Once Prophet Mohammed, along with one disciple, had gone to some village and there a person in the market was calling names to Prophet Mohammed. Prophet Mohammed just kept quiet and listened to all the abuse that person was saying. His disciple asked Him, "Why don't you answer his abuses. Why don't you tell him that he should stop?" But Prophet Mohammed just kept quiet and He just listened to all the abuse he was saying to Him.

After some time when that person got tired of calling names to Prophet Mohammed, then Prophet Mohammed told His disciple to go and ask him, "What does he need? Can I help him?" Now that dear one who was with Prophet Mohammed was surprised, because that person had been calling names to Prophet Mohammed for such a long time and in the end, Prophet Mohammed, instead of getting upset with him, was offering him any help He could give to him. So you see how much love, compassion, and humility the Masters have. And we, who start the religions in Their Names, do not have any idea; and that is why we torture and give a hard time to the Saints and Mahatmas who come in this world.

Whenever the Masters come into this world they live a very pure, a very high kind of life, and they inspire us, they encourage us, also to live that pure and very high life. They always tell us that we should not do anything which would bring a bad name to our parents, which would bring a bad name to our society, or the country in which we are living; and that is why they always tell us to live a very pure and high life.

So dear ones, once again, I am sorry to say that since the question did not make any sense to me that is why I was not able to answer it but still I tried my best to explain to you how we should be living and how we should be dealing with the other people in this world. And that is that we should always have a good, loving attitude towards other people and we should not do anything, we should not behave toward other people, in such a way that they feel hurt. In fact we should always do those things which will bring us closer to the eye center, because our job is to stay at the eye center. In fact when we remain at the eye center, go within, and when we reach the Radiant Form of the Master then the real love, humility, and devotion is developed within us and afterwards we love everyone alike.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Break all the different ornaments, whether it is a ring or a bracelet or an earring; whatever you have, you should melt all the ornaments you have, and make a very big necklace which you can wear on your neck; because the idea is to show people that you have so much of gold.” So in the same way, in this Path of the Masters also, no matter what you are doing, the main thing should be that you withdraw your attention from all the outer things and come to the eye center, connect with the Shabd Naam; because when you withdraw your attention from all the outer things and connect it with Shabd Naam you get everything. Dear ones, if you go on talking about this subject: about how we should deal with people, how we should behave, what kind of attitude we should have with people, we will get nowhere, because this is such a subject that no matter how much you talk, you are not going to get anywhere unless you work for it.

Guru Nanak Sahib has said that as long as we are living in this world we have to listen to some people and we have to talk to some people. So dear ones, as long as we are living in this world we will have to listen to the people, we should listen to their loving talks and we should share with them the love we have.

In expressing your love and affection for others, if you spend all your time saying that you have so much love for the other person, it is all a waste. Instead of spending all that energy in saying that you love a person so much, if you would have loving feelings for him, if you would really love him from your heart, then he will receive those loving feelings from you; and in that way it will be good for him as well as you.

The same thing applies in the relationship between the disciple and the Master. Talking about my own self, I would like to say that if I had spent all my life telling Master how much I love Him, how devoted I am to Him, how I always think of and yearn for Him – I don't think I would have become as successful in this Path as I have become. I did express my love and yearning for Him but at the same time I also performed my duty. When I performed my duty He showered His Grace, He also did His job; as a result He made me successful on this Path. The disciple has certain duties and the Master also has certain duties. When the disciple performs his duty then he does not have to wait for the Master to perform His duty; He is always there and He showers Grace upon us.

So dear ones, the Masters have told us that we should always be loving toward the other dear ones and whatever job we have been given we should do only that. The Master has not become careless after giving us our job; when we do our job, He also performs His duty. Master never forgets the disciples; all the disciples, whether they are close to Him or not, are all written on the heart of the Master, and the stamp of the Master is stamped on every soul that He has Initiated. So that is why, dear ones, we should always be loving towards the other disciples of the Master, and we should always do our part and let Master take care of the rest. A wise person always waits for the appropriate time to prove that he is sincere and truthful, whereas the mean person always presents excuses and tries to prove he is a true one. Dear ones, we just need to work on these things; we do not need to exhibit our qualities, we only need to work and wait for the appropriate time when we will be proved to be the true ones.

The true disciple always remains an introvert. He does not talk a lot; but if he gets an opportunity and if need be, he always tells people what the Reality of the Master is; and he never allows other people to praise him. It is always seen that the real disciple of the Perfect Master will never allow anyone to praise him, he will always remain humble and quiet. He himself will sing the praise of the Master and he will encourage us to do the same.

So dear ones, since all of you are Initiated, I would like to advise you, that in the Satsangs, Naam is talked about, and the benefits of doing the meditation of Shabd Naam is always told. We should always do the meditation of the Shabd Naam, because the Master always does His job – even if He leaves the physical body after giving us the Initiation – our progress does not stop, provided we are sincere in our effort in doing our meditation. Many cases have been found where the Master left his physical body but still the disciples continued to progress in their Inner Path. Because the Master never dies, He is always present in the Form of the Shabd; He is always helping the disciples to go within.

So when we do our devotion sincerely, when we go within, then we realize how much Grace and help we are receiving from the Master – how first of all Master came in the physical body to give us the Naam Initiation and after He left He is still helping us. He is always telling us, “You come to me and I will take you to the Real Home; I will take you inside.” So dear ones, when we go within, only then do we realize how much sympathy, how much pain, the Master takes for us, and how much He is helping us. So it is our job to do the work which the Master has given to us. We should do it wholeheartedly.

1989 May: The Storm of Love

This question-and-answer session was given February 1, 1989, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16 PS, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: Does the pain we receive during meditation contribute to paying off our karmas?

SANT JI: First of all, we should think very carefully whether we do our meditations regularly or not, because when we meditate regularly we become competent in it and by meditating regularly all the pains go away.

If we are regular in our meditation, if we are doing it every day, and then if we have pain which starts from the bottom of our feet and moves upwards, then you should understand that it is the pain of the withdrawal of your soul.

The feeling of that pain is as if ants are crawling on your body. So if someone has that kind of pain or that kind of feeling starting from the bottom of the feet, then he should understand that now his soul is being withdrawn from the body.

We can understand that pain as the pain of the karmas only when we have watched our karmas very closely. There are many karmas which we make in this present lifetime and many karmas are from our past lifetimes. Because of those good and bad karmas we suffer pain or enjoy happiness in this world. So we should watch our karmas very closely and we should try to remove our faults or the causes of doing the bad karmas. Because of our past karmas the middle of our soul gets dirty and we can make it clear only by doing the Simran. If, according to our understanding, our present life is going along fine and we are not creating many karmas which would affect our meditation, if we are regular in our meditations, and if we still do not get any progress, or if we feel pain or burden in meditation, then we should understand that all the meditation which we are doing is being used up for our purification because the burden of the karmas from the past life is very heavy. Except for meditating on Shabd Naam there is no other way we can get rid of our past karmas. By doing the meditation of Shabd Naam our soul becomes pure and we become free of the burden of the past karmas.

Moreover, it is very important for a disciple to develop a true love for the Master. In the beginning it is very difficult to develop a sincere love for the Master, but once you develop it, it becomes like a storm and then it is very difficult for the disciple to stop that love of the Master from coming to him. If we have that incredible strong force of love coming to us from the Master, and if we have developed that sincere love for the Master, that love which we have for the Master also helps us a lot in paying off our karmas.

Dear ones, when the true love for the Master is manifested within you, and when that raging storm of the fierce love comes to you – then such a dear one cannot live without sitting in the meditation. Then all the karmas, or whatever is blocking his progress, are all washed away by the force of that love and he becomes a perfect one; he enjoys the grace of the Master within and without. Mahatma Chattar Das, an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh Ji, used to say, “I am so accustomed to the love of my Master that now I have no desire to move the rosary or do any other thing.” The dear one who has developed and manifested such true love for the Master does not want to do anything of the world. He always wants to sit in meditation and wait for the darshan of the Master. He always waits for that precious moment when he can have the darshan of his beloved Master.

I have often told you the story about two initiates of Baba Jaimal Singh. This story was often told by Baba Sawan Singh also. There were two initiates of Baba Jaimal Singh named Machar and Ramdita. They were farmers. Every day, because they were very devoted to Baba Jaimal Singh, and because they were very good meditators, they would have the darshan of Baba Jaimal Singh during their meditation, and then they would start their work. Sometimes the Master puts even perfect disciples to the test. So one day they did not get the darshan of Baba Jaimal Singh in their meditation. That day they were supposed to get the water from the canals and irrigate their corn crop. So Machar asked Ramdita, “Did you have the darshan of Baba Ji?” Ramdita replied, “No. I did not have His darshan today.” So Machar said, “I also did not have His darshan today. Let us stay sitting in meditation until we have His darshan. If this corn is supposed to dry why should we worry; it belongs to Baba Jaimal Singh – it is not ours. We should sit for His darshan.” So, they sat down again in meditation and after one hour they got the darshan of Baba Jaimal Singh. Then they took the water from the canal and irrigated the corn.

So the meaning of this is that those who have sincere yearning and true love for the Master always desire the darshan of the Master, and the Master also showers a lot of grace upon them. He always gives them the darshan. At the time of initiation the Master sits within the disciple in the form of Shabd; He does not have to come from far away. He is within the disciple. It all depends upon the yearning and devotion of the disciple. Whenever he sits in the remembrance of the Master with deep yearning and devotion, Master is always there to quench his thirst.

QUESTION: This question concerns what form our relationship to our Master takes after we leave this physical body. Those of us who have not progressed much within, who have not developed much love within this lifetime, yet who do not have to come back, how much and what sort of contact will we have with You or Kirpal over there after our final earthly passing? Over there how do we go about spending time with the Master? Is there a place like this over there where we may see Him? Will some of us live in families and some at ashrams as here? How will our devotions continue over there?

SANT JI: It is a very interesting question. I hope that everybody will pay attention to its answer.

Often I have said that the mission of the Perfect Masters on this earth is to initiate those souls who have been chosen in the court of the Lord to get the Perfect Master and to come back to the Real Home.

Saints have always said that for a Perfect Master distance does not make any difference. And also, even if the Master leaves His physical body right after giving us the initiation, the progress of the initiate is not hampered. His progress continues even after the physical departure of the Master.

In this context Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell a story about a father and son who did seva with Hazur Rai Saligram; they were very devoted. When the son was about to leave the body the father wept and he said, “You are my only son. Now you are going to leave me.” The son replied, “Father, you should not worry about anything. And you should not mourn my death because I am not going to die. In fact, I am going to live a new life. I know about my previous life, and in my past life I used to be a tree. One day somebody cut a branch off me and he brought it to Swami Ji Maharaj. He used it for brushing his teeth. Because of His grace and mercy I was made to leave that body of the tree. And in this lifetime I got this human birth. But because I came from the body of a tree my intellect was not developed very much, that is why I could not take full advantage of the Master’s teachings. I did not grasp the teachings and I did not live up to the words of the Master. That is why I am not going to get the liberation now. But I know that in my next lifetime, with the grace of the Master, I will be born as a good man and I will go to the Perfect Master, do the meditation, and finally achieve the liberation.”

So, you can see that because that branch of the tree was used by Swami Ji Maharaj, the soul that was in the tree was made to leave that body and was given a human birth. You can imagine how the grace of the Master works, and especially how the grace of the Master works for those to whom He has given the Naam initiation.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Those who say that they have searched for the Master, they go to the Master, or they go to the Satsang – their inner eyes are not yet opened, that is why they say that they are doing everything. But those whose inner eyes are opened do not say things like this. Because they have seen the reality that it is not because of their efforts that they are going to the Satsang and they have got the Master. It is the grace of the Master. It is the Master, Himself, who makes them come to the Satsang, who makes them do the meditation.” Master Kirpal Singh Ji also used to say that it is not within the reach of a blind man to find a person who has eyes. Unless the person who has eyes calls for the blind man and makes the blind man catch his hand, the blind man cannot find his way.

So, the meaning of this is that the Master Himself makes everything happen and He is the one who brings us to the Satsang. He is the one who takes care of us.

Many incidents took place in the time of Master Sawan Singh where people would come from very far distances and they would tell Master Sawan Singh how they had His darshan and how He Himself directed them to come to the ashram – they were brought to the ashram by Master Sawan Singh Himself. Similar kinds of incidents used to take place during the time of Master Kirpal Singh, also. When I went to Sant Bani Ashram for the first time, during the first tour, one dear one came from a very far distance and he told me how he had the darshan of the Master and he was told to come to Sant Bani Ashram and later on he got the initiation and he became a good meditator. In the same way, in Quito, Ecuador, one woman got the darshan of the Master – the same form of the Master whose picture was printed in the Sant Bani Magazine of that month – and she brought me that magazine and said, “I had the darshan of this Master and I was told to come here and to get the initiation.”

So now you can imagine Who chooses us and Who brings us to His feet and who is making all these arrangements for us.

Often I have said about Master Sawan Singh, Master Kirpal Singh, and even myself, that even though they searched for their Master for such a long time, still when the time came and when their search was going to be completed, then it was the Master who chose them and the Master Himself went to the place where they were, to bring them to the Path. Master Sawan Singh had been searching for twenty-two years, but when his time came to come to the Master, his Master came to him even though at that time he was living very far away from the ashram, but still Baba Jaimal Singh went there and He made it possible for Master Sawan Singh to come to His feet. In the same way Master Kirpal Singh also was searching for God Almighty and seven years before He met with Sawan Singh physically, He started having His darshan. And when the opportune time, the appropriate time came, He was brought to the feet of Master Sawan Singh. In the same way, you already know about my history. I used to have the darshan of Swami Ji Maharaj one year before I met Master Kirpal Singh physically. Just a few days before Master Kirpal Singh met me physically I started seeing Him in His Real Form. And even though I was sitting there waiting for Him, searching for Him, and I was doing the meditation of the first two words, I had not met with any critic or admirer of Master Kirpal Singh and I did not know anything about Him. But when the time came, He Himself came, and He looked for me, He searched for me. And He brought me to His feet.

I will repeat the words of both Master Sawan and Master Kirpal. They used to say that after the disciple leaves this physical body, leaves this world, he is in the hands of the Master who has given him the initiation. Whether he should be sent back into this world for more purification or he should be kept in the higher planes and be made pure there, and whether he should be made to meditate in the higher planes and taken back to the Real Home, is in the hands of the Master who has given you the initiation. It is up to Him what to do with your soul after you leave this physical world.

In His sacred writings, Swami Ji Maharaj has written that the Perfect Master liberates His disciple in four lifetimes or in four births. But Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that the Perfect Master always tries His best to give the liberation to His disciple in one lifetime. He does not want the disciple to come back into this world again and again and suffer the hardships of this world. That is why the Master always tries His best to finish all the give and take and all the karmas which the disciple is supposed to do in four different lifetimes – Master makes him pay off his karmas and finish his give and take in only one lifetime. If all the parts of the lamp are in good order and if the lamp has the oil in it, if the wick is also right, you just need a burning match and you can light the lamp and it will give you the light. The meaning of telling you all these things and giving you all these examples and quoting from all different Masters is just to make you understand the answer to the question which was just asked.

Dear ones, just think why the Saints have called this place the world of suffering and unhappiness, the world of births and deaths, why the Saints have called this creation of Kal a world of unhappiness.

We know how the Negative Power has created the disputes between the father and mother, the disputes among the brothers, and of the brothers with the sisters. Somewhere there are problems between the wives and their husbands, and even one community is fighting with another community, one country is trying to control the other countries, and how everyone is armed with all the sophisticated weapons, and how the missiles and the bombs and everything are ready to destroy the other people. So how can we call this place as a place of peace? It is surely and it is truly a place of unhappiness.

First of all, look at the body; look at the condition of your body itself. You know that if we do not eat food we cannot function because the pranas are in the food. And unless we eat food we cannot make our body function in a normal way. And you know how much effort we put in making the pure and holy food, the healthy food. And when we eat it, what happens after some time? We have to excrete the dirt from our body and sometimes some people are not successful, for some people it is a problem. They have the problems of indigestion. And some people have other physical problems. And if their body is functioning normally, then they have other problems to solve, like the problems of unemployment, the problems of poverty and other problems.

Farid Sahib has said, “O Farid, the hunger is worse than death. Because in the evening you eat before you go to bed, but next morning before you wake up the hunger is still there.”

Sometimes the Masters do not call the person or do not call the initiate directly. Sometimes they call him through some other person, but They are the ones who inspire them or who encourage the initiates to come to Him.

Think about this. Suppose there is a man who has been sent to a prison and who has suffered great hardships over there and he has suffered a great amount of punishment and things like that over there in the prison. After some time he is released. Do you think that he will want to go back to that prison again? Definitely not. He would want to improve his life; he would want to live a good life and live peacefully in this world. And he would never want to do anything which could take him back to the prison. When Bulleh Shah removed all the covers from His soul, and when He went back to His Real Abode all His friends came to ask Him how He was. They said, “Now you have come. How are you doing? Are you happy coming back to your home? Tell us, what did you bring from the mortal world?” Bulleh Shah has written, and also He is warning us, that when He went to the palace of God everyone came to ask about His welfare and when they asked Him what He brought from this mortal world he replied, “Nothing but a black face and blue feet.”

I have just told how the Negative Power has created the disputes and problems with even the husbands and the wives and how there are all these problems and sufferings in this world. When we will withdraw from all these things and go within after leaving this physical world, over there we will definitely meet our Perfect Master. He will come to take us and we will be with Him. No doubt about this fact. But do you think that we will be able to answer the question of the souls who have already been there? When they will ask us, like they asked Bulleh Shah, what he had brought from this mortal world, what will be our answer? Do you think that we will be able to tell them, “Yes. I have brought my wife with me.” Or, “I have brought my husband with me.” Or will we be able to tell them about the children and all the ashrams and all the worldly things which we have here? Dear ones, we won't be able to take anything along with us – not even the body in which we are living. We will go there without anything because we have to leave behind all the things which we have on this plane.

I don't know about other people, but I am sure about the people in this group. That if they are asked – considering all the problems which I have just mentioned – whether they would want to live in those miserable conditions, I don't think that anybody would raise his hand and say he would want to live in this world. Because everyone has one or another problem. Also, if they are asked if they want to take along this body which is full of suffering and which does not move and function properly when it becomes old, I don't think that anybody will want to take it with them.

So dear ones, what is the use of going to Sach Khand, our Real Home, if over there we are also going to have the same problems as we have here, if over there we have to deal with our family problems, if we have to deal with the problems of the ashram, and all the physical problems we are having here. Then I think we are much better over here; what is the use of going back to our Real Home? Dear ones, it is not like that in Sach Khand. There is no such problem because the Master takes you and carries you on His wings of Naam and He takes you to Sach Khand which is your Real Home, the abode of peace. And over there we do not have any difficulties. The souls easily recognize each other. There is no worldly example, no worldly way, to explain to you how the souls recognize each other. But it is true that we all recognize each other over there, and over there the food which the soul eats is given to her only through the eyes, and just by having the darshan of God Almighty the soul remains content. Everything happens there with the darshan of Almighty Lord.

Kabir Sahib has said that in the plane of Almighty Lord, in our Real Home, no one hurts anyone and no one feels hurt. There is no bad smell of any difficulties or sufferings. There is only the sweet fragrance of love.

Dear ones, Guru Nanak Sahib has said that the place where you have to go, neither your body goes there nor the caste to which your body belongs goes with you. So when our body and the caste in which we were born does not go with us, how can we expect to take any of these worldly things with us? Of course, our deeds go along with us. If we have meditated on the Shabd Naam, then our Master definitely takes us back to the Real Home. But if we have not meditated on the Shabd Naam, if we have done only the bad deeds, then we must come back into this world, to the very same place where we have done the bad karmas, and pay the consequences.

In Sukhmani Sahib, Guru Arjan Dev gave a very beautiful picture of the departure of the soul to the Real Home. He wrote that as different waters become one when they come together, and as one light absorbs in another light; in the same way, our soul goes and becomes one with the Oversoul, Almighty God. It is like a bit of salt when dissolved in the water also becomes part of the water. How can that salt come out and tell us what is good about being dissolved in the water. In the same way, which of the souls (who go back to their Real Home) wants to come back into this world and tell us what it is like over there? Saints and Masters have told us about its beauty and about the things of our Real Home through examples and hymns, but still it is not complete.

1989 June: On Forgiving Others

This question and answer session was given March 26, 1989, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16 PS, Rajasthan.

SANT JI: Yes, now you may ask your questions.

QUESTION; When someone has done something to hurt me deeply, I may feel that I want to forgive them, and I may say that I forgive them, but I don't know how to truly forgive and forget in my heart. Please help me understand how to do this.

SANT JI: This question should be understood by all the Satsangis, because in the Path of the Masters forgiveness is a very important element. When you have forgiven somebody you should completely forget about it, because if you go on remembering that you have forgiven some person, or if you think in terms of how that person has accepted your forgiveness and how he has taken advantage of your forgiveness – if you will remember all these things – then it is possible that your mind may bother you and you may get more ego. Also it is possible that your mind may give you more trouble, and in fact you have not really forgiven that person. So not even in the state of dreams should you remember that you have forgiven that person. After you have forgiven anyone for their faults you should completely forget about them.

The most important thing is that when you are in a position, or situation, where you have to forgive someone you should remember the Form of the Master, and having the Form of the Master in front of you, only with that kind of feeling you should forgive that person. You should say that it is not you who are forgiving that person but it is the Master who is forgiving that person. If you will take the credit for forgiving the other person, it is possible that ego may haunt you and bother you, but if you will give the credit to the Master and say, “It is the Master Who is within me who has forgiven you,” then you will not have any difficulty with the ego.

You know that we jivas are not worth anything and we do not have the capacity to forgive anyone. Instead of taking the credit on our own selves, that we have forgiven the person, we should pass it on to our Master. And we should instead do our meditation and sit at the Feet of the Master and pray to Him, “O Beloved Lord, you should forgive me as you have forgiven that person through me.”

On this subject I once commented on the bani of Swami Ji Maharaj; it is possible that many of the dear ones may have had the opportunity to read that talk. In that talk I said that if anyone has made any mistake, knowingly or unknowingly, once he realizes that he has made the mistake, he should confess his mistake and ask for forgiveness. He should apologize to the person whom he has hurt; and the one who was hurt also has a responsibility of acknowledging that apology – he should also forgive that person in the Name of the Master. Our soul never makes any mistakes because she is innocent and she is of the same essence as that of God Almighty. God Almighty never makes any mistakes; He is free from all kinds of faults. In the same way our soul is also free of all kinds of faults; she never makes any mistakes. We find faults in God Almighty only when we go away from Him. As long as we are connected to Him we never find any faults in Him, because He does not have any faults. When we are looking at Him as a soul, we do not find any faults in Him; but when we go away from Him, when we get disconnected with Him, only then we start finding faults in Him. So the meaning of this is that the soul does not have any faults, the soul does not make any mistakes, because she is the same essence as that of God Almighty; it is our mind who makes the mistakes. And mind does not have the capacity, the strength, to forgive anyone, because God has not given that capacity or that power to forgive others to our mind. So mind cannot forgive anyone because mind does not have the power of forgiving anyone. It is the soul – or the power of the Shabd Naam which our Beloved Master has put within our soul – who forgives and who asks for the forgiveness.

So you know that whenever anyone makes any mistake it is his mind who is making him do the mistake; but his mind does not want to confess – it does not want to admit – he has made the mistake. And it is the soul, his inner heart, who is confessing, who is admitting, his faults; and it is the Master who is asking for forgiveness. And on the other side also, it is the Master, that power of the Shabd Naam, Who is granting that forgiveness. So when it is the Master who is asking for the forgiveness, and when it is the Master who is giving the forgiveness, then where is the problem? Whenever anyone asks for our forgiveness we should always be willing to forgive them.

I am not much acquainted with the Holy Bible but you have read it many times and you know a lot about it. It is said in the Bible that only he can be called a true Christian who forgives others and who does not hurt anyone. You know that when Christ was being crucified, how much torture He was given. He was made to wear the crown of thorns and He was taken to the cross. You know how painful that would be. The soul trembles just to think of all that torture He was given, and you can very well imagine what he went through. But still He said, “O Lord, forgive them, because they do not know what they are doing; whatever they are doing is in their innocence and you should forgive them.” We are the disciples of those great Masters Whose writings we read every day and from Whom we have learned that They were the Form of Forgiveness and They forgave even the worst sinners. I will tell you something from the history of Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj. You know how much He was tortured and how He was made to sit on the hot coals and how hot sand was thrown on His head. He was tortured so much by the government of that time and toward His end time, the officer in charge, whose name was Chandu Savai, tried to poison His son. His house and family were destroyed right in front of Him but still He didn’t say any word against them, He always forgave them. Even though all these things happened still Guru Arjan Dev was full of forgiveness for all the people. But some time after Guru Arjan Dev left the body, Chandu Savai left his post – because people who are in government do not remain in their posts forever; the time comes when the people who once ruled over the country become ordinary people. And when they fall into the hands of the people who they had tortured, those people take their revenge.

When Guru Har Gobind started working, His Glory started spreading all over, and the government of that time told Guru Har Gobind to do His work wherever he wanted. He was also asked if he wanted to give punishment to Chandu Savai, because Chandu Savai was the main person behind all of the torture that Guru Arjan Dev had received, but Guru Har Gobind said, “No, I do not want to put him to trial. I do not want to give him any punishment, because in the court of my beloved Lord there is no place for punishment, that is the place of forgiveness. And I do not want to give any punishment, because whatever he did, he was supposed to do that. Masters always forgive even the worst sinners, so I do not want to give him any punishment.”

Such was the heart of Guru Har Gobind, but you know that the disciples are very emotional, and they do not have such a heart like the Masters. So when Chandu Savai came into the hands of the disciples of Guru Arjan and when they remembered all the torture which Chandu Savai had given to Guru Arjan Dev, they could not control themselves. They put a chain around the neck of Chandu Savai and made him walk on the streets of Lahore like a dog. When they came to the shop where Chandu Savai had gotten the hot sand to put on Guru Arjan Dev’s head, that shopkeeper became very angry and he said, “Well this is the same Chandu Savai who in the intoxication of his power made me throw the hot sand on that great Guru Arjan Dev.” So he also put hot sand on Chandu Savai’s head and when he did that he hit him with a big stone. Chandu Savai almost died and he called for the help of Guru Har Gobind, saying, “O Guru Har Gobind, now I am in Your refuge and You protect me!”

So by the grace of the beloved Master and because of the forgiveness which the Masters have, Chandu Savai was liberated right then because he requested Guru Har Gobind for His help. So you see how much forgiveness and grace the Masters have; They forgive even those people who have done so many bad things to Their Master.

In the time of Guru Gobind Singh there was a very devoted disciple, Bhai Daya Singh, who used to meditate a lot and go within. One day when he was all alone with Guru Gobind Singh, he asked Him, “Master, I have read about so many great sinners who tortured our past Masters, and how they were bothering the other dear ones – are they in hell now because of all the bad things they did?” He particularly mentioned Chandu Savai who had tortured Guru Arjan Dev. But Guru Gobind Singh Ji replied, “No Dear One, Chandu Savai was liberated right then because he had the darshan of two great Masters. First he had the darshan of Guru Arjan Dev and then he had the darshan of Guru Har Gobind. And also when he was dragged by the disciples of Guru Arjan Dev through the streets of Lahore, at that time he was always remembering the form of Guru Har Gobind because he knew that Guru Har Gobind was the only One Who could forgive him and could protect him. So he had been contemplating on the form of Guru Har Gobind and he was remembering Him so much so that at the time of his death Guru Har Gobind had to come and liberate him.”

So you see, Dear Ones, that we are the disciples of those great Masters Who forgive even the worst sinners. So whenever we are in that kind of situation when we have to forgive anyone we should always remember the Form of the Masters, and in the Name of our beloved Master we should always forgive them. And after forgiving the people who hurt us, or who have done any mistake, we should never remember them and we should never even make them realize that we have forgiven them. Once we have forgiven them in the Name of our beloved Master we should forget all about what happened.

Often I have said that we should not give up this element of forgiveness even in our household, even in our married life. Why do we have all these conflicts and problems in our married life? – only because the husband and wife do not have this element of forgiveness in them. If both of them would have the element of forgiveness and if they would forgive and forget each others’ faults they could easily make their home life like a heaven on earth.

Do you think that we have been brought to the Master because of our good deeds only? Those who go within know that we have not come to the Master because of our good deeds. It was because of the grace and forgiveness of the Master that we were brought to Him; we were already so full of faults that unless He had forgiven us we would never have been able to come to Him. When we come to the Master it is only because of His forgiveness. He forgives our past faults and He tells us not to make any more mistakes in the future; and He always tells us that whatever we have done in the past, we have been forgiven. And even after giving us so much forgiveness the Master never tells us, “I have done this favor for you and I have forgiven you.” He always remains very humble. Even if the disciple stands in front of other people and says, “Master, You have forgiven me for this” or “You have done this seva for me,” He always says, “No Dear One, it is not me who has forgiven you, it is the grace of my Beloved Master Who has forgiven you.”

Matraput was a great scholar of Sanskrit in his time; he had done a lot of research, and he had searched a long time for a Master. Finally when he came to Guru Ram Das, he became His disciple, and was so devoted that his writings are included in the Guru Granth Sahib also. There he says, “I do not have any good qualities in me, I am full of bad qualities. Giving up the Nectarful Naam, I went for the poison of this world, I attached myself to the sons, daughters, and all the family members and everything of this world, but finally after searching all over the world for You, I have come to Your door.

This is one request which the Prakriti² makes to You, ‘O Guru Ram Das, always keep me in Your refuge.’”

Those who have children know that children go on making mistakes all day long, but the mother has forgiveness and the mother has been given attachment to the children. That is why she does not remember any of the mistakes which the children are making. And even though they go on making the mistakes again and again, she always goes on forgiving them. In the same way, the Masters also behave like a forty-day-old child in front of Their Lord, and They always say, “O Lord, as the mother does not remember the mistakes the child makes, in the same way, don’t You remember the mistakes we make. O my beloved Mother, I am Your child and why don’t You forget and forgive me for all the mistakes I make?”

I hope that you have understood lovingly what I told you about the subject of forgiveness; there is a lot more which I could say on this subject.

QUESTION: It is Easter and in my country we give out Easter candy; can You make this into parshad and we can have some Easter candy?

SANT JI: Sure.

QUESTION: I was thinking about Jesus today because it is Easter and when I was younger there was a little hymn that I used to sing to Jesus; it's a very short hymn, in fact it is only two lines and those two lines say it all. And I wondered if I could sing it to the Master. The lines are: “I think when I read those sweet stories of old, when Jesus was here among men, how He called little children as lambs to His fold, I would like to have been with Him then.”

SANT JI: I appreciate the few lines which you just uttered, I appreciate it.

I appreciate your devotion very much but I would like to tell you what Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say; and I hope that you will listen to this patiently. He used to say that there are a couple of things of the present time which can be successful and which can be useful for us. He used to give the example of the doctor of the present time, saying that even though Lukman the doctor was very successful, he had such a power that he could even put life back into the dead body. But he is not present in this world at this moment and if someone becomes sick now and he wants to get the treatment from that doctor, it is not possible. The person who is sick now will have to go to the present doctor and get the medicine.

In the same way, if some girl says that she will get married to a very brave king called Vitamadsit and have children with him, it is not possible because he also is not present in this world. She will have to find some companion of the present time with whom she can have children. In the same way, if we know of some very good teacher who lived in this world hundreds of years ago who was very competent and if we think we want him to come into the world again and give the education to our children, it is not possible, we will have to go to the present teacher.

The same is true of the past Masters. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that we have respect for and we appreciate all the Masters Who came into this world in the past; it was only because of Their coming into this world that people have learned about God. But if we say that just by remembering Them, or by relying on what They said in the past, we will get the liberation, it is not possible; we will have to go to the living Master. And also we will have to live on the actual writings of those past Masters. You know that the words written in the Bible are not exactly the same as they were said by Christ; there have been a lot of other things included also in the Bible. Only someone who has the knowledge of Sant Mat can tell you what parts in the Bible are the real teachings or the real writings of Jesus Christ. Russell Perkins has been commenting on the gospels and the other parts of the Bible.

² see Crown of Life, pp. 12-13

So what is needed now is that we should find out those actual writings of the past Masters and we should live according to their teachings. All the past Masters had the same message to give out; They all told us about the meditation on the Shabd Naam. So according to Their teachings we should also do the meditation on Shabd Naam because that is the only thing which can take us to all the past Masters Who came into this world.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “I searched for God Almighty for twenty-two years in my life, and finally when I came to the feet of Baba Jaimal Singh I believed in Him and I took Him to be the True Master. But when I came to Him for getting the Naam Initiation my mind just caught hold of one small thing and I told Baba Jaimal Singh, ‘Don’t give me the Radha Swami Name. Don’t give me the Naam of Radha Swami,’ because I did not like the word or the name Radha Swami. Then Baba Jaimal Singh Ji asked me, ‘What kind of regular practices do you do?’”

Baba Sawan Singh told Baba Jaimal Singh, “Daily I read the Jap Ji Sahib and the other holy writings from Guru Granth Sahib.”

Baba Jaimal Singh then asked Baba Sawan Singh, “Can you tell me how many names Guru Gobind Singh has given to God Almighty?”

Baba Sawan Singh replied, “Yes, I do not know for sure but Guru Gobind Singh has given at least thirteen, or fourteen hundred names to God Almighty.” Baba Jaimal Singh then replied, “If Swami Ji Maharaj gave one name, Radha Swami, to that Almighty Lord, then what is the problem in that?”

Then Baba Jaimal Singh made Baba Sawan Singh read that part in which Radha Swami was explained, in which it was written that Radha is the name of the eternal soul and Swami is her beloved Lord.

So Master Sawan Singh used to say, “Satsangis should be very careful, you never know how mind is going to make you involved in one small thing which might not have any significance, but he may go on bothering you with that thought.”

I myself have seen that when Master Sawan Singh Ji would do Satsang, there were many people there who would say, “We do not want to listen to the bani of Swami Ji Maharaj, we want to listen to the bani of Guru Nanak and the other Masters.”

Master Sawan Singh used to say, “No, this is not a good attitude, you should respect all the past Masters and you should listen to the banis of the past Great Masters.

We all have come from different communities and religions and before we came to the Path we had someone whom we used to worship and believe in. But when we come to the perfect Master, when we start on the Path, afterwards, although we should have respect and appreciation for all the past Masters, we should give even more importance to the perfect living Master and we should always remain devoted to Him.

You know that I came from a Sikh family and I was given the instruction that there is nobody else whom we can call as the Guru except the ten Sikh Gurus; and I had so much faith in the ten Sikh Gurus. But when I came to beloved Kirpal, after that I never remembered anyone except Kirpal and always I went on saying, “Hail Kirpal, You are the Formless One and I have only Your support.”

So Dear One, when we have come to the Master we should always believe in Him, the Master Who has given us Initiation, and we should always mold our devotion and divert our attention to the living Master only.

Swami Ji Maharaj says, “When the jiva comes to the Master he should give up all rites and rituals. Whatever Path the Master shows to the disciple and whatever Path the Master puts the disciple on, the practice of that Path becomes the rites and rituals for that disciple.” Master Sawan Singh used to say, “When a wise man gets married, he gets attached to his wife, and in the same way, when a wise woman gets married she gets attached to her husband and neither of them ever even thinks of getting separated from each other. Such should be the devotion of the disciple also for the Master. When you have come to the Master, your devotion should be like that husband and wife who never want to get separated from each other.” Because you just have to change your attention, you just have to change your mind, whatever you used to do before coming to the Master you just have to change it, divert your devotion to the perfect Master Who has given you the Initiation.

Bulleh Shah also said, “It is not difficult, you just have to uproot your attention from the world and root it towards God.”

Please do not understand that I am trying to say that you should not read the writings of the past Masters or you should not sing the hymns of the past Masters; you must read Their writings and sing Their hymns, but you should think about what They said and you should consider Their teachings.

We should have respect for all the past Masters. When Bhai Kadadi went to Guru Angad Dev and asked Him, “Master, you say we should do the devotion of God, but how can we do the devotion of God when the fire of all the passions is raging within us and when we do not have any place to go?”

So Guru Angad Dev Ji replied, “O Dear One, you know that when the place where the deer live is on fire, they all leave that place and go to some other place where it is cool and in that way they are saved from that fire. In the same way, when your within is full of the fire of passions, you should go to a place which is cool, and the refuge of the living Master is the only place which can give you the coolness and can save you from all the fire.”

You want to sing the hymn?

QUESTION: [Laughter] I didn't get to finish my question. I wanted to add that it was the love that I had as a child that now I have for the Master and I just wanted to sing that love song, which I sang as a child, to the living Master that I hold now.

SANT JI: I am sorry that you were not able to finish your question. But still the answer that I gave you is for every Satsangi and it is good.

Often I make a request to all the dear ones, and people should know this, that before you ask any question, first you should think about it. You should first think in your mind whether the question which you are asking makes any sense or not. And first of all, you should ask the brief questions because it is easier to reply to brief questions. Today brief questions were asked and it was very easy to answer those questions.

I always try to give the answers according to the questions of the dear ones and many times when the question is asked the answer applies to everyone and people benefit a lot. So it is a great beneficial thing for the Sangat. In the January issue of Sant Bani one question-and-answer session was published and many dear ones told me that after reading that they were able to remove their faults and it improved their lives. So you can see that if you are asking good questions, to the point and brief, you are doing a very good seva, because the answer to such questions is beneficial for many other people.

Those who read the Sant Bani Magazine regularly and understand it lovingly, those who live up to the teachings and mold their lives according to the answers from the magazine, they never come to me with many questions because almost all the questions have been answered in the magazine.

You should not understand this question-and-answer session as something very ordinary because many people are benefited from this.

1989 July: A Very Good Seva

This question & answer session was given March 29, 1989, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16 PS, Rajasthan.

SANT JI: Now you can ask your questions.

QUESTION: If we have a loved one who has stopped meditating and stopped going to Satsang, should we try to bring him or her back to the Master by inviting them to go to Satsang or talking it over with them, what the problem might be, or something like that, or should we just leave it in the Master's Hands and assume that Master will take care of the soul He has Initiated?

SANT JI: It is a very good question and it can benefit all the Satsangis. I agree and understand that the Master never leaves the rope of the disciple; He may loosen it but He never lets it out of His hands. When the time comes He definitely pulls the rope and the disciple has to come back to the Master sooner or later. Master Kirpal also used to say, "It is not the Master who leaves the disciple, but sometimes the disciple may think that he has left the Master."

Often I have said that there are only two ways of looking at the creation: one is from down below looking upward, that is the viewpoint of the disciple, but the Saints always look from above downward.

When we rise above and see the things down below from up there then we understand that it is the Shabd Form of the Master Who is present everywhere. He is present in every single leaf of all the trees; everywhere in this creation, only He is present. Only He is the one who resides within the disciple, He Himself calls the disciple, He Himself brings the disciples to Him, and whatever is happening is happening only because of Him.

According to the same angle of vision, Guru Nanak Sahib said, “He is the only one who invites the people; He is the only one who comes as the people. He is the only one who sits; He is the only one who makes them sit in the lines. He is the only one who cooks food for them; and He is the only one who eats the food. He is the only one who makes the people wash their hands before they start eating; and He is the only one who makes them wash their hands after they finish eating. He is the only one who eats; He is the only one who makes them eat. And after that He is the only one who praises them for good seva; He is the only one who gets the praise.”

So the meaning of this is that only He is present everywhere and He is the ultimate doer, He is the only one who does everything. You sing the bhajan everyday in which it is said, “O Lord, I do not want anyone except You.” In that same bhajan it is said, “Wherever You send, I go only there. Whatever You make me eat, I eat only that. And I do not see anyone else in this world except You.” So dear ones, when we rise above and when we also start seeing things from up above to down below, then there remains no confusion and then we see Who in fact is the One Who does everything. In one of the other bhajans you would have read, “He Himself is the One Who is suffering and He Himself prepares the medicine. He Himself cries in the pain of sickness; and He Himself takes that medicine and gets treated.”

But when we see things according to the angle of vision of the disciple, seeing everything from down below upward, then we see that everyone is making his own karmas, everyone is doing things, making efforts on his own. And being controlled by some hidden power, he does all the activities and things in this world.

So the dear one who goes astray, who goes off the Path, is working according to the angle of vision of the disciple; he is looking at things from down below. That is why he obeys his mind – being controlled by his mind, he goes off the Path and that is why he wanders here and there.

Often the Masters have talked about the importance of seva, because those who do the seva get much honor in the court of the Lord. And I understand that this is one of the best sevas we can do, if we can bring that dear one who has gone off the Path back to the Path.

We know that the mind did not allow that person to have such an intellect with which he could discriminate between things. Because he was controlled by the mind, he did not know what was good or bad for him. If he had known what was good and what was bad for him, he would never have wandered off the Path. His life does not remain like that forever, because when those karmas in which he is involved get paid off, then eventually he has to come back to the Path. And if we make a little effort and if we work a little harder and somehow bring him back to the Path, we also get some benefit from his coming back to the Path. After he stops obeying his mind and comes back to the Path, we will also get some benefit from whatever amount of meditation he does; we will also share the earnings of his meditations.

It may take him years to come back, but finally he has to come back. You know also that the Master never leaves the disciple; He always cares for the disciple. If the Master also adopts the attitude like we have, to “leave him on his own” – then how can the disciple be rescued, and how can he be liberated? When the soul is paying off those bad karmas and the Negative Power is giving him all those hard times, at the same time the Master is very patient and He always waits for the disciple to return. At that time He is telling the Negative Power that after the disciple goes through all these karmas, after he is forgiven for all these karmas, he will come back. The Master always waits for the disciple to come back because He has so much patience, He has so much faith in the disciple, and finally the disciple definitely comes back to Him.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell a story about a person called Kag Busan. One day he had insulted his Master; the Master did not say anything but the law of nature is such that because he had insulted and criticized his Master he was taken to hell. The Master said, “No, don’t give him punishment because he said that only in his innocence. He is innocent, don’t give him any punishment.” And when he was given the punishments, it was His Master only Who screamed and Who cried out in pain. Because he had criticized and insulted his Master he was supposed to be given some punishment, so he was given the body of a crow. If he had been liberated without being sent back in the body of a crow then the tradition would have been spoiled. And it is the tradition that the critic of the Master does not get liberation unless the Master Himself forgives him.

History bears testimony of how Hirnakash had insulted and criticized his Master, Narada, and how he was also given very much hardship. He is called “the cruel one,” and “the bad person” and he also suffered great hardships just because he had criticized his Master. Similarly, Ravana was a devotee of Lord Vishnu; he used to work as a gate keeper of Lord Vishnu’s court. But since he did not obey the commandments and he had insulted his Master, he was given a curse. Every year in northern India people burn Ravana in effigy. We do not know what happened after he actually left his physical body; but even now, after so many years, he is still looked upon as a very bad person. Every year people remember him with a lot of disgrace and in order to show their anger towards him, they make idols in his image and they burn them.

In the story of Jarasang we learn that he also used to be a gate keeper of Lord Vishnu. But when he did not obey his Master, he went off the Path of his Master, and he fought with Lord Krishna. Even though Jarasang was a very mighty emperor, still, because he fought with Lord Krishna and left the Path of his Master, the people did not forgive him and now history says that he was a very bad person.

History tells us that there is no one who can be called more compassionate than our Master is. Even if we are involved in a very big crisis, if we are having a very difficult time, still if we remember Him with all our love and faith He appears there to help us. So if we see any dear one who has gone off the Path, who has forgotten his Master, who is in the clutches of the Negative Power, and has been suffering a great deal, will we not feel pity for him? We will definitely feel pity for him, first because of his condition, and the second thing which will attract our attention is the presence of our beloved Master within him. So if by our making a little effort he can be brought back to the Path, don’t you think that Master will praise you? He will definitely praise you, because you have brought back one of His lost sheep to the Path.

Once Guru Gobind Singh Ji was asked, “Master, what do You give the person with whom You are very pleased and on whom You want to shower Your grace?”

Guru Gobind Singh Ji replied, “When I am pleased with someone and I want to shower grace on them, I send one of my disciples to their home. If they treat him well, if they feed him well, then that pleases me and I shower grace on them. And if I want to shower more grace on someone, then I inspire them from within and I make such an arrangement that they invite all the dear ones to their home and they do the Satsang. In that way they all remember the Master and the Path; and in that kind of congregation it is possible that many wandering souls who have gone off the Path may also come and be served. Then the person in whose home that kind of a congregation, or Satsang, happens also gets a lot of benefit.”

In the writings of Guru Nanak Dev we see how many times He has described the glory of that place where people go for Satsang. He has called that home where people go for Satsang, where people do the meditation of Shabd Naam, as the blessed place. And He has also called those people in whose home such a Satsang takes place as the blessed souls, because there people remember God Almighty and do His devotion.

Nanak said, “Even petty huts where people do the devotion of Naam are glorified like big palaces, but big palaces where people don’t remember God are like ruins because people do not remember God Almighty there.”

Dear ones, even that person who has gone off the Path is a lover of the Master, because he had the love and affection for the Master when he came to the Master and got the Initiation, but because of the mind he has gone off the Path. Mind is our greatest enemy and he is within us. He does not want to lose even one opportunity where he can take us away from the Path. But if we would continue doing the Bhajan and Simran and if we go on attending the Satsangs, then it is not possible for the mind to make us go off the Path.

Master Kirpal even used to give money to people to attend the Satsang of Baba Sawan Singh and those people who had stopped going to the Satsang, don’t you think they had forgotten the Master? Only because they had forgotten and Master Kirpal wanted them to go back to the Satsang, so He used to give them money and inspire them to go to the Satsang.

So in the same way, if you also come across someone, or if you know someone who does not come to the Satsang or who has gone off the Path, you should lovingly explain to him and somehow you should encourage him to come back to the Satsang.

QUESTION: At what time in the life of the disciple does the Master and disciple relationship start? At the time of birth or at the time of Initiation, or before that?

SANT JI: It is predetermined. Even before we take birth it is predetermined for us when we will get to the Master, whether we will have faith in the Master or not, whether we will become His disciple or not. This is all predetermined even before we take birth.

Guru Ramdas Ji Maharaj says, “Only those in whose fate it is written that they will meet the Perfect Master, do meet the Perfect Master in their lifetime. When they meet the Perfect Master, then the darkness of ignorance goes away and the light of knowledge shines in their forehead within them.” They get the precious gem of Naam and do not remain in confusion. Nanak says, “Only those people who have been blessed by the company of the Master, those who have been given that precious gem of the Naam get liberation from this world.”

In the bhajan which the Sangat sings very often, it is said, “O Nanak, only those who are ordained, or in whose fate it is written that they will meet the Master, only such people meet him.”

It is all predetermined and only on that predetermined day do we come to the Master and get the Initiation; and we consider that day as the most blessed day of our life, because on that day we actually met the Master.

It is like if someone is thirsty – if he gets a drink of water at the time when he is really very thirsty, when he can think of nothing else, you know that when he finally gets the water he would be willing to sacrifice everything he has for the person who has given him the water. In the same way, within each one who comes into this world destined to go to the Perfect Master and get Initiation, there is the yearning to meet the Master and do the devotion of the Lord. In some people it is less, in some people it is more, but each one has that yearning. And when the appropriate, fixed time comes he gets to the Master and gets to drink that Water of Naam.

QUESTION: I feel a little embarrassed asking this question because I too am a bad example, but the question is, what should we tell children on the Path, especially teenagers, when they see adults and Satsangis making mistakes and compromises on the Path such as drinking, smoking, etc.?

SANT JI: Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Those who want to make their children good, they themselves should become good.” There is no other example which can be given in this context. It is not good to teach others while you do not practice that thing yourself. It is said that those who teach others but do not live up to it themselves, it is like the sand is coming into their mouth. What they are doing is like protecting other people’s courtyards when their own house is on fire.

So dear ones, it is not good if we ourselves do not remain in control, and if we do not do the things which we want our children to do. Before we tell them they should not drink and do all those things we should make sure we are not doing them.

Children are innocent souls and the dirt of the world has not soiled them so badly that it cannot be easily removed; they still do not have that much dirt of the world on their souls. But because we do not set a good example ourselves, we only preach to our children, that is why it is very difficult for us to tell them that they should not do those things. So first all the parents should be certain that they do not do these bad things, that they do not set a bad example for the children. When you do the bad things in front of the children, they also start getting bad thoughts and they also try to imitate you; the children always learn from their parents. I meet many children who complain to me about their parents. They tell me, “It hurts us very much when we see our parents not doing the meditation, not going to the Satsang, and doing all sorts of bad things.” And some children even tell me, “If this is the condition of our parents, after being on the Path for so long, and after going to the Satsang for so long, what is the hope for us?”

So such kind of negative thoughts come up in the children when they see their parents as a bad example. So that is why all the parents should do the meditation of the Shabd Naam; they should not do any bad deeds; they should not do anything bad which can have a bad influence on the children's mind; and they should always set a good example for them. If your children will be good, it will be good for your future also, because children are the treasure of the future. If they will be good, they will not only be living a good and comfortable life themselves, but they will also make things easy and comfortable for their parents. They will glorify the name of the parents; they will glorify the name of the community; they will glorify the name of the country.

So do you think it is a small seva? No dear ones, it is not a small seva; and I think that if the parents would sacrifice their desires for the betterment of their children, still it is a cheaper bargain because it is the children who have to glorify the name of their family.

Children are the gift of God and it is our responsibility to take care of that gift of God. And it is the responsibility of every parent to make the life of the children.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, "The children become as the parents are." He used to talk about his neighbor when He lived in a place called Murree Hills. He used to say that a drunkard lived on the upper part of the house where He lived and he used to drink and eat meat and things like that. You know that children always like to play together, so whenever Master Sawan Singh's children would go and play with the drunkard's children he would sometimes try to tempt the children of Master Sawan Singh to drink wine or eat meat. He would say, "My children do this; why don't you also try it?" But Master Sawan Singh's children would never come near the wine; they would never even touch the wine. Many times they would even spit, giving the impression that they had eaten or smelled something very bad, because they were so much against drinking the wine and they could not even stand the smell of it. So even though he tried so many times, still they would never touch or drink the wine. Once he went to Master Sawan Singh and said, "Well I don't know what kind of teaching You are giving to them, but they are very strong. Even though I have tried many times, and my children also drink the wine, still Your children are so strong that they don't even like to touch the wine."

So Master Sawan Singh said, "Well, this is because I never touched wine, and because of the teaching I am giving to them; you should also do that for your children." But that man did not understand. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, "After sometime I saw that his daughter had left home and she became a bad girl and his son also became a very bad boy." And then he repented and came to Master Sawan Singh and he said, "Now I understand what your teachings meant and now I realize that it was my mistake that I encouraged my children to drink wine and do all sorts of bad things."

That is why Master Sawan Singh used to say, "The children become exactly the same as the parents are, because it is from the parents that the children learn everything."

Man is made up of five complete elements and in addition to those five elements we have been given this intellect, this sense. And that is why we have the sense of responsibility, we have the sense to differentiate the good from the bad things. But even animals who do not have the intellect and sense of discrimination still feel very much responsible for their children. They have so much love and affection for their children that they will go to any extent to protect and take care of them.

Once I saw a cat who had just delivered some kittens and she was caressing and licking the baby cats in such a way that she was showing a lot of love and affection. So you see that even the animals have the sense of responsibility and they also do everything possible to take care of and protect their children. So as human beings do we not have even that much responsibility and that much sense to protect our children from all the worldly evils?

Often I have seen the animals growing, you people have pets in your home, but I have seen the animals growing over here and I have seen how the cats take care of their babies – they teach the kittens all the things which they should know: how they should jump, how they should catch hold of their prey, how they should eat their food and things like that. And I have seen that the cats are always protecting and always teaching their children until they become strong and can stand on their own feet. They do not leave their children until the time when they are able to feed themselves and take care of themselves. So as human beings, do we not have that much responsibility of protecting our children and teaching them until they stand on their own feet? The children are innocent souls and have come into this physical world not knowing anything of this world, and because we have gone through all this experience, do we not have the responsibility of telling them about our experience? Should we not tell them about the dangers of using drugs? Should we not tell them that it is not good for us to use drugs because it does not keep us in our senses, and it spoils our mind, brain, and intellect? Should we not tell them about all the good things which they should be doing? We have responsibilities toward them because we have to make their life. We should teach them, we should protect them, from all the evils of this world – we should teach them every single thing. Until they become self-sufficient and are able to stand on their own feet, it is our responsibility to take care of them. Many dear ones tell me about their life. The dear ones whose parents had a very confused and perturbed life, parents who were separated – that had a very bad effect on the growth of those children. They tell me how their life was affected because of the difficulties the parents were having together; and only because of that upbringing their mental habits have been set like that. And I also meet the dear ones who have had a very good family life, whose parents were very good, and they tell me how they were encouraged right from their childhood to remain vegetarian. They tell me how their parents had a good family life – they used to do the devotion of God – and that has had a very good effect on them. Only because of that they also have been able to make a very good life of their own.

So you see that this is what happens if we have a good family life. If we do our meditation, then it definitely has a very good effect on the life of the children; they are also able to make their life very good. So it is our responsibility to set an example for the children. We should set a good example for them because it is in our hands to make their lives successful.

1989 August: Only by Going Within

This question and answer session was given December 25, 1988, in Rajasthan.

SANT JI: Now you can ask your questions.

QUESTION: Master, this is a question about the pralabdha karma. It is my understanding that when a disciple is initiated, their sanchit or storehouse karmas get destroyed and the disciple is only left with the pralabdha karma in this lifetime, and I am wondering Master, out of all the karma from our past lives, good and bad, how is it determined what will be our pralabdha karma for this lifetime?

SANT JI: First of all I would like to tell you that in order to understand such a deep thing, Masters always advise us to go within because this is such a thing which we can not understand unless we have gone within. But when the Masters do not find many people who go within, what do They do? By giving us worldly examples and talking to us in an easy-to-understand way, They touch our soul with Their astral intellect and They put us on the Path of Naam. When we are put on the Path of Naam by the Master, then our search for such a deep understanding begins.

Still I will try to explain to you very lovingly about this. It is just like when a farmer sows seeds in a field, he does not use up all the seeds he has, he puts some seeds aside in the storehouse and if his crop fails then he lives on the stored seed which he has kept aside. When we get the holy Initiation from the Master, the Master takes our responsibility on His shoulders; He takes care of all those sanchit karmas stored from the past lifetimes, whether they are good or bad, all those karmas which are stored in Brahm. He does not touch the pralabdha karmas because pralabdha or fate karmas are those karmas by which God Almighty determines all the incidents or accidents or whatever is going to happen in our life. Masters do not touch that because that is something which has to happen in the Will of God and Masters are not allowed to touch them. But as far as the sanchit or stored karmas are concerned, Masters take all those karmas upon Themselves and They have to pay off those karmas. Often I have said that it is up to the Negative Power how he wants the Master to pay off those karmas. So this is something that the Master has to take care of, and the disciple does not need to worry about the sanchit karmas.

But for the pralabdha karmas Masters always say, “Whatever has been written in your fate whatever your pralabdha karmas are, whether pain or happiness, whether good or bad, you have to pay off those karmas and while paying off those pralabdha karmas you should always feel happiness, even in the state of pain, you should feel happiness and you should understand that it is coming in the Will of God, because the fate karmas or the pralabdha karmas are nothing but the Will of God for us in this lifetime.” So that is why Masters always tell us that when a disciple gets Initiation he should forget about the sanchit karmas but for the pralabdha karmas he should always accept the Will of God, and for the kriyaman or the present karmas, we should only do the karmas after thinking about their consequences.

There are many dear ones sitting here who concentrate and go within and for them it is very easy to understand the answer to this question. Masters always tell us that we should not give Initiation to anyone unless Master has authorized us to do so; we should not give out the Initiation instructions to anyone without the permission of the Master. Because when we give out the Initiation instructions or when we initiate other people without getting authorization from the Master we become their Master and then we have to take care of their karmas. You know how difficult it is for us even to take care of our own karmas, so how can we think of taking care of the other people’s karmas.

So that is why the Masters always tell us, “You should never do such a thing, you should never become responsible for others as long as you are not able to be responsible for your own self and even then you should not give Initiation unless you have permission from the Master.”

Masters come into this world in the Will of God. They are the form of love and grace, and They shower grace and love upon the people only because it is in the Will of God. They give Initiation only because They are compelled by their Master to do so. They know how difficult it is and what is involved in giving Initiation. It is the mission of the Masters to come into this world and to awaken the sleeping souls and put those lost souls who have forgotten their Home back on the Path. And even though it is Their job to do this, still They do it only when Their Master has told Them to do it.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Giving Naam Initiation is not only giving out the words, it is taking up the responsibility. If it were only giving out the words a five-year-old girl could also have done that. Only the Masters know how severe, how strong, the karmas of the person They are going to Initiate are, and how They have to purify that soul and take her within; that is why They are the only Ones Who can decide about giving the Initiation.”

You know that a turtle lays her eggs in the dry ground and she herself returns to the water to live; only through her attention she hatches those eggs. Afterwards, when the babies are born, even though there may be many other animals there, those baby turtles would never go with anyone else, they would at once recognize their mother, their parents and they would go and live with them. Imagine how it is possible that those baby turtles recognize their parents at once even though the mother has been away from them for quite a long time.

As the turtle’s concentration of thought hatches the eggs, in the same way, the cuckoo bird lays her egg in the nest of a crow but she wanders here and there away from that nest. But she sings and speaks to her baby, and even though the baby cuckoo bird is still in the egg it is receptive to her. And when it comes out from that egg it doesn’t care for the crow who has hatched it, but at once it flies out and goes to the cuckoo bird. Another bird lays her eggs in the mountain but she herself goes and lives on the plateau, and using her simran, using the remembrance of the eggs, she hatches the eggs.

There is another bird which is called the anul bird; it is mentioned in Kabir Sahib’s Anurag Sagar. You may have read about it. That bird lives in the sky, it never comes down on the earth; when she lays an egg, by the time that egg touches the ground the baby bird is already hatched and she flies out back to her mother.

So the laws of nature are applied to everyone and the same law of nature applies to the Masters also. Masters nourish and protect Their disciples through Their Simran and only through Their concentration and remembrance of Their disciples and through Their Simran do They take care of Their disciples; the distance does not make any difference. Behind the Simran given to us by the Master, His Initiation, His hard work, His meditation works; and that is why His Simran is more effective than the simran of other people. And just as outside He is tells us all these things: He gives us Satsangs, He explains things to us – in the same way, within us also through His Simran and through His concentration and remembrance He teaches us all the things. Those disciples who go within know how much the Master is working within us also. He tells them about those sounds which they catch and those sounds which they should not catch and how they should proceed on the inner journey.

When you go within, Master tells you about everything; and there these subtle things can be understood very well because these things need very deep understanding and we get to know all these things only when we go within.

Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Just as the mother takes care of the baby, she walks around, she moves around, she does everything while at the same time she is also feeding and taking care of the baby. In the same way Master also provides us with all the things we need.” He does not become careless after giving us Initiation; He knows about our every need and He is aware of everything. That is why, even after giving us the Initiation, through that Simran, through that concentration and through the remembrance of the disciple the Masters always nourish and provide things for Their disciples.

Dear Ones, before we jivas enter the womb of the mother, the number of breaths that we are supposed to take and the number of days that we are going to live on this earth are already written, because before entering into the womb of the mother our pralabdha karmas are already determined. That is why we are helpless in front of the pralabdha karma; we cannot do anything because God Almighty has kept everything in His hands. Those moments which we have to live in this world and the time when we have to leave this world, everything has been kept in the hands of God Almighty.

Dear Ones, why do we cry and suffer when we see our friends and relatives leaving this world? We know that God Almighty has kept everything in His hand and we cannot increase or decrease the moments we are supposed to live in this world, but still when we see our friends and relatives leaving this world we cry and suffer. Why is it so? Because we have not yet understood the reality, we have not gone within. Those who have gone within, those who have understood the reality, never become unhappy – they never cry, they never suffer – because they know that for a Satsangi the day he leaves the body is the happiest day of his life.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Usually people consider the wedding day as the happiest day in their life. But for a Satsangi, when he knows that he is about to leave the body and go back to his Real Home and meet his beloved Master, he becomes the happiest person. For him that is the happiest day of his life, because he knows that all the sufferings of this world are going to end and he will be going back to the home which is full of peace and happiness.”

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Those who are Initiated by the Perfect Master for them the beloved Master always comes at the time of their departure from this world, and they will definitely report that the Master has come. You can experience how much happiness he feels at the time of death by sitting very quietly and patiently with that person who is about to leave the body. Don’t feel anxious and don’t even let him feel anxious; just sit there quietly and do the Simran and you yourself will see how the Master has come to take him, and he will also report that the Master has come to take him and he will say how much happiness he is feeling.”

That is why Masters always tell us that we should prepare ourselves for that time. How can we prepare ourselves for that time? How can we die while living? We can do that only by concentrating our attention at the Eye Center and withdrawing our attention from all over the body and everywhere outside, and coming to the Eye Center.

Master Sawan Singh Ji often used to talk about His mother, what happened when she left the body. Master Sawan Singh's mother was very devoted to Baba Jaimal Singh, she was a very loving lady, and she used to do a lot of Bhajan and Simran. Sunder Das got many opportunities to be very close to Master Sawan Singh. (Sunder Das is the person whose stories you have read in Mr. Oberoi's book.) He had seen Master Sawan Singh's mother also and he often told me how devoted she was and how much meditation she used to do. At that time Master Sawan Singh Ji was posted at the Murree Hills, and she would never write a letter to Master Sawan Singh when she became sick because she was worried that if Master Sawan Singh learned of her sickness He would come at once to be by her bed, and she didn't want Him to be disturbed. So even though she became sick many times, she never complained and she never wrote to Master Sawan Singh. But when her end time came Master Sawan Singh was cabled, and when Master Sawan Singh arrived He asked, "Mother, do you have any pain? Any difficulty? What kind of help would you like me to give?" His mother then replied very lovingly, "I don't have any pain; I don't have any complaint. But I am wondering: before this last illness I used to have the darshan of Baba Jaimal Singh but lately I have not been having the darshan of Baba Jaimal Singh. What is the reason?"

Her end time had already come and she was only waiting for her son, and Baba Sawan Singh had already come there so she was going to die, so she requested him to find out from Baba Jaimal Singh why she was not having His darshan. Baba Jaimal Singh told her why she was not having the darshan. He said, "Many times it happens that when a person is going to be sick, or he is sick, or if anything bad is going to happen, he stops having the darshan of the Master. The Master thinks that if this person has the darshan of the Master, instead of enjoying that darshan and utilizing it for going further within, this Initiate will start asking favors from the Master, and it is possible that the disciple may even ask the Master to remove that pain or suffering. And Master does not want the disciple not to pay off his karmas. Master wants the disciple to pay off all the pralabdha karmas which he is supposed to pay, so that it will be easier for the disciple to go within." Because Masters never touch the pralabdha karmas, They always want Their disciples to pay off the pralabdha karmas so that by squaring off all the karmas in this lifetime, in this plane, they may go within and finally go back to the Real Home.

When Baba Sawan Singh told his mother about this explanation, she was content and said, "I don't want to request to Master Baba Jaimal Singh about removing this pain; I am content." And at once she had the darshan of Master Jaimal Singh and she left peacefully.

So this is how the Masters work for their disciples. Masters know how They have to make Their disciples pay off their karmas, and what kind of karmas the disciples should pay and which are the things that the Masters have to do for a disciple's liberation. Those who go within know how much pain of separation they feel when they do not have the darshan of the Master, but when they go within they also know why they are not having the darshan of the Master.

So these are only worldly examples through which I have tried to explain to you how we have to pay off the karmas and how much the Master helps us to pay off the karmas and which are the karmas which the Masters do not touch. But the real understanding about this question of the pralabdha karmas can come only if you were to go within and see with your own eyes inside how all this theory of karma works.

Master Sawan Singh Ji also used to talk about two initiates of Baba Jaimal Singh who were farmers; they were so devoted that every day they would have the darshan of Baba Jaimal Singh. Sometimes the Masters test Their devoted disciples to see how much devotion the disciples have, how much faith they have in the Master. So one day when they were farming they did not have the darshan of Baba Jaimal Singh, so one of those two disciples, named Mucha, told the other one whose name was Ramdita, “O Ramdita, today I did not have the darshan of Baba Ji.” Ramdita replied, “Yes, Mucha, I also did not have the darshan of Baba Ji.” On that day they were supposed to get water from the well and water the field of corn. It was very hot that day and they knew that if they did not get the water, all their corn would dry and they would lose a lot, but still they said, “Well even though we have to do this work but we should first sit down and have the darshan of Baba Ji, if this crop will die, it is the Master’s and not ours.”

So both of them left their work and sat in meditation and after an hour they both got the darshan of Baba Jaimal Singh and then they resumed their work. So such disciples who go within and who know the value of the darshan of the Master, even though outwardly it may seem to them that what they are doing is not profitable, still they will not allow their faith to waver and they will surrender completely to the Will of the Master.

In the same way, dear Glen Jarman, who used to live in the ashram in California, came many times to this ashram. He had the habit of saying “Sat Sri Akal” to me whenever he would see me and he would always be so happy seeing me.³ The last time he came to see me he had already been told by the doctors that he did not have a long time to live in this world and he knew that his death was coming. So when he came to see me for the last time he told me, “Now I am seeing a very bright light and I am very happy. Even though I know I have to leave, I don’t have any complaints; I am not unhappy, I am very much happy that I am leaving this world. Ask Michael and Sally to take care of me until I leave this world.” If someone tells us that we are going to die how would we feel? We would even give up eating and we would die beforehand, because we know that the fear of death is very terrible. But because of the Power of the Shabd he did not feel that fear of death, he accepted it very lovingly and when he left, he left very peacefully and he was happy.

Many dear ones talk about those dear ones who have left this world peacefully, having the experiences of the Master. You cannot hide the truth, and based on their experiences we should also understand, we should also concentrate at the Eye Center because our progress on this Path depends mainly upon our concentration.

QUESTION: Master, I still need Your help in understanding just what exactly is my soul and what affect Your darshan has on it and how meditation is food for it.

SANT JI: It is a very simple thing; if you try to split the hair it is not possible and we may waste all our energy and time. But if you want to understand there is a very simple way to understand this. You know that your body needs food and you feed your body and it is only because you feed your body that your body gets strength and is able to function normally so that you can do everything you want. In the same way, only those who do the meditation know about how the meditation works as food for their soul. Those who are feeding their soul know how much confidence and how much determination they are getting in their soul and how much bliss they are getting within. They do not get confused, they do not become worried, and they do not wander away from the Path whenever anything small or big happens. Whatever happens they accept it as the Will of God and they are always steady on this Path of the Masters.

³ A traditional Sikh greeting, roughly translated as, “Hail Truth Eternal.”

Now what is the soul? Soul is the same essence as that of Almighty God. Soul also has the same qualities, the same attributes as God Almighty has. It is like God Almighty is a vast ocean and our soul is a drop of that ocean, as long as the drop is separated from the ocean it is called a drop, as long as our soul is separated from the Almighty Lord it is called a soul. When she becomes one with that Almighty God she also becomes the same.

Kabir Sahib has said, “O Kabir, soul is the essence of the Lord; as you cannot erase written things very easily, in the same way, you cannot erase or destroy the soul.” When you burn a piece of paper on which something was printed or written, unless you smash that piece of paper after burning it, you cannot erase or remove the print or writing which was on the paper. Even after burning that paper, you can still see that something was written on the paper; such is the existence of the soul. The difference is that the soul cannot be erased; the soul cannot be destroyed, it cannot be cut by any sword, it cannot be burned in any fire and it always remains the same. No one can hurt the soul, no one can beat the soul. Of course you can beat or hurt the body in which the soul is residing, but as far as the soul is concerned it cannot be hurt.

Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Within the soul, where the knowledge of the Naam of God is manifested, pains and happiness do not exist.”

QUESTION: Master, how does one develop unconditional love, and remove fear from the mind?

SANT JI: We can develop unconditional love only when we rise above the snares of mind and matter, when we go within, and when we remove all the covers from our soul. Only then that unconditional love can be developed or created within us. We cannot even call it as unconditional; it is the selfless love. That love is developed within our soul and the soul always loves the Oversoul because she is of the same essence as that of God Almighty. And God Almighty does not have any self-interest in us. His love for us is selfless; the only thing that He wants for us is to go back to the Real Home, He wants us to come back to Himself, and that is why He loves us.

We disciples should look in our within and see whether our love for the Master is unconditional, whether it is selfless or not. You know that we may be sitting for meditation for just a few minutes a day, but we may be spending hours requesting and praying to our Master for doing this or that for us. We always tell Him, “Master, do this thing for us, or do that thing for us.” You know these desires are all created by our mind and we want our Master to fulfill those desires for us. So can we call our love unconditional or selfless for the Master? If there is any such thing which can be called unconditional or selfless love that is the love of the Master for us.

Often I have said that before I met beloved Master Kirpal many of my relatives came to see me; they all had their own desires; they all wanted me to fulfill their desires. Nobody listened to me and nobody cared for how I was doing. Even though I tried to tell them they were not interested in how I was doing. Instead they all told me what they wanted and how they were doing. But when beloved Lord Kirpal came, He did not ask me anything except this: He asked me how I was doing in meditation? I always remember that, and in one of the bhajans I have written, “Many of my relatives came and they all sang their songs, nobody asked me about my welfare; but today I am a very fortunate one because my beloved Lord, the Saint, has come and He has asked about my well being, He has asked me about my meditation.” So Master is the only one who asks us about our welfare; He is the only one who asks us about our meditation and our soul, because He becomes very happy and is pleased knowing about our soul.

1989 September: Take the Master's Example

This question and answer session was given in Bangalore, July 24, 1989.

QUESTION: Is it ever appropriate to spank your children?

SANT JI: I have said a lot regarding the children, I am sorry that you are not reading the Sant Bani Magazine carefully. If you were reading Sant Bani Magazine carefully you would have gotten the answer to this question, because I have said a lot regarding this subject.

Often I have said that children are innocent souls. They understand both the fire and the ice as alike; they understand a snake and a rope as alike – they don't know which is bad for them. They would not play with a snake or put their hand in a fire if they understood any difference between fire and ice. They are without deceit, they are without enmity, they are very holy, very pure and very innocent.

Think about this patiently. The things we see our children do – it is possible that we might have done even worse things than that when we were children. When you spank the children, when you get upset with them, at that time they are developing an inferiority complex. The child is confused and feels very bad when you spank or get upset with him. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Those who want to make their children good, first they should become good then the children will imitate them.” If you spank the children or if you get upset with them, then whatever good qualities they have in their head will go away; then they become obstinate ones, and it becomes their habit – whatever you tell them to do, they won't do it unless you spank them.

Many times we can see that at the time when the children are doing something wrong the parents do not tell the children that they should not do that, they do not explain to them at that time; and later when the parents do get upset with the children, it is really because they are upset with each other. In Rajasthan there is a very humorous saying that a person fell down from a donkey, but he got upset with the owner of the donkey. So if the children are made to understand – “Dear ones, this is not good for you; you are not supposed to do this” – then I think that will work better. It is the responsibility of the parents to make the lives of the children.

If the parents constantly remember the faults of the children then they cannot bring them up. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “No matter how many faults the children make, the mother never remembers them.”

Dear ones, we should take the Master’s example. In the Path of Spirituality we are also like children in front of our Beloved Master; He is our Father. You know how many faults we have, how many times we make mistakes. And sometimes our mistakes, our faults, are unpardonable – they are very bad. But still the Master does not remember all this, and He always goes on forgiving us. Many times we ourselves feel embarrassed to come in front of the Master because we have done very bad things but still Master goes on forgiving us. Because if He were not to forget and forgive our faults, He could never take us back to Sach Khand. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “O my Beloved Lord, I am like a child of yours, why don’t you forget my faults.” Even after reaching Sach Khand, the Masters behave in such a way and understand themselves as a child of forty days old in front of their Master, because They know that only the children are the innocent souls. Children are the only ones who know to forgive and they are the only innocent ones.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to talk about His own life when He was in the army. There was a family that lived downstairs in the house in which Master Sawan Singh and his family lived. Master Sawan Singh’s children had a very good influence on the people who lived downstairs. Whenever his children went downstairs they were encouraged to eat meat and whatever else the neighbors were eating. But Master Sawan Singh’s children were so strict in following the diet that they would never even look at any meat or anything like that. One day when Sawan Singh came downstairs the man who lived downstairs said, “I don’t know what kind of children you have. They do not even look at the meat or the other things, even though we try our best to encourage them to eat the meat. We don’t know from where they have learned not to eat the meat. Even though we tell them that the meat is very good still they don’t eat it.”

Master Sawan Singh Ji said, “This is only because of the influence of their parents. You will also see in your own life the result of your influence on your children.” Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that during his army service he got many opportunities to meet with that family. When the children grew up, one of the daughters became very bad and one of the sons also became bad; then the parents realized that their influence on the children had not been good, and that now it was affecting even themselves. So Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “If you are rebuking your children, if you are spanking them, if you are bringing them up with that kind of behavior, you will see its result in your own lifetime. When such children grow up they have so much hatred in them that they don’t even take care of their parents.”

We can learn a lot from the children. You know that when the child is born, he is no more than just a piece of flesh. Even though he has a tongue he cannot talk; he cannot tell us what he needs. Even though he has legs and he has a body, but still he is like a cripple; he cannot walk or move himself. He cannot tell us about his pains, about his needs and desires. We can learn a lot from them because we also have gone through the same condition, once we were also like that.

Further, when the child grows up, and he has to go to school, the parents who are very patient, those who are very quiet-minded, they lovingly explain to the children, “It is good for you to go to the school and learn from your teachers, because that will make your future good.” Those who are very quiet-minded and patient explain to their children in a very patient way and that has a very good effect on the children. They love going to school and they love learning from their teachers. Whereas on the other side, most of those children are already intimidated and just by knowing that they have to go to school and learn, they feel terrified, they feel afraid of the teachers. And if on top of that you rebuke the children, you spank them and make them go to school and learn from the teachers with that kind of attitude, you can imagine what kind of influence it will have. They will not learn. Instead if you were quiet-minded and patient with them, and if you lovingly explain that it is good for them to go to school, they would go there and learn from the teachers.

Once I saw a drama: I was standing on the terrace and I saw that one mother was beating her child with a stick. The only fault of that child was that he spoke one line of a bhajan, and the mother did not want him to do that so she started beating him. And when I saw that poor child – he had only spoken one line of a bhajan and his mother started spanking him – afterwards she came to me complaining that her son did not respect her. So I told her, “This is because you did not respect him. He had not made any mistake but you were spanking him, so how can you expect him to give you any respect?” The boy is still here and when I tell this, he is smiling. Because we know what the parents do.

In the Hindu Shastras it is written that for the first five years the children need a lot of attention, and afterwards you can explain things to them. And even when we explain things to them, we should be very careful, very patient. We should not ourselves become confused and irritated, we should lovingly explain things to them.

When the child grows up and comes to the age of fifteen years old, then you should treat him like your brother or sister. And then you can only give him suggestions. If you will impose your ideas on him instead of suggesting things to him, then he will go away from you and will not listen to you.

In the Silver Age in India, there was a husband and wife named Andwa and Andli; they were blind and they had a son whose name was Sirvan. Even though they were blind, they took such good care of him that they created the desire in him to do the devotion of God, and they brought him up in a very good way. So when their son grew up he thought, “My parents have done so much for me, how can I do anything for them?” In the Hindu religion it is considered a good thing to go on a pilgrimage to all the holy places. So he thought, “Maybe I can take my parents on a pilgrimage to all the holy places.” But they could not walk that far, and moreover they were blind. So he made a type of sedan chair, and in that he carried both of them all over India to all the places of pilgrimage, and in that way he expressed his gratitude to his parents. Sirvan was born in the Silver Age, but even now in India, if somebody’s son is very good, respectful, obedient, and cares for his parents, people call him Sirvan, and they recall this story.

So you see that if we also bring up our children well, they will also care for us. But what is the condition of most of the parents nowadays. They do not understand the feelings of their children, they do not appreciate what the children’s desires are, and they do not even try to find out what the children’s interests are. Instead they just go on imposing their ideas on them, and afterward when the children grow up they expect a lot from their parents. If the parents were very loving, and if they had taken good care of them, only then when the children grow up would they care for and take care of the parents.

In my own family I had an aunt who was of very bad temper. She would always rebuke her children. Every day she would go on saying that she has worked so hard in taking care of her children, and things like that. She would always try to make her children feel that she had done a lot for them. She would always say things like: “I have worked so hard taking care of you children, that even now there is dirt under my fingernails.” Many times when she would say that, her son would say, “Mother, get me the scissors, and I will cut not only your nails, but also your fingers.” Because he knew what kind of care she had taken of him. She did not bring him up in a good way. On the other side, I often talk about my mother. I have told you many stories about her. She was a very devoted lady, and it was only because of her that I got the inspiration to do the devotion of God. She filled me with the desire to do the devotion of God. She was very good, and one day I asked her, “Mother, you have done so much for me, how can I pay you back for all that you have done for me?” She said, “No, dear son, I have not done anything for you. It was all due to the grace of God Almighty. I just got the opportunity to take care of you, and I have just done my responsibility. I have not done any favor to you. And I am very fortunate that I became your mother.”

She was such a good lady, she would always say this even though I would say, “Mother you have done so much for me.” She would never try to make me think that she had done anything for me. So you can see the difference between my mother and my aunt. It was only because of the good quality of my mother that I got the desire to do the devotion of the Lord.

So this is the thing: if we also have such an attitude [of selfless service] toward our children, then our children will also become good. Usually what is seen is that if some mother does anything for her children, she always goes on saying “I have done this thing for you . . . I have done that thing for you.” And when the relatives or friends come, you go on complaining about your children. You say, “He does not go to school, he does not obey me . . .” and things like that. So you always go on making your children feel like they are nothing, and they are always doing the wrong things. So that creates the inferiority complex within them, and that makes them depressed.

Instead of that if you would always praise and encourage your children, and not always criticize them in front of others, that would have a very good effect on them. Even if they may not be [as good as] what you are telling them that they are, still if you would always encourage and not criticize them in front of other people, they will try to become like that. That will have a very good effect on them.

The life of the Saint is full of experiences. The Bagga family is sitting here and Pappu is also sitting here. You know that sometimes the children make mistakes. Once Babalu (Pappu’s younger brother) did something wrong, and the family members were all set to give him a beating, when suddenly I arrived in Delhi. There was no schedule, there was no program arranged for me, I just went there. When I blew the horn of my car, all the family members came out to meet me. So what they had planned to do – to give the beating to Babalu – did not materialize at that time. And then Babalu said, “It seems like the prayer of the devotee has been heard. You came and I am saved from the beating.”

The next day Babalu told me that I should talk to his father, Mr. Bagga, and I should tell him, “If he wants to spank me or if he gets upset with me, he should not do it in front of the servants, because if the servants see that the father is spanking the son, then they will not obey me, and it will be hard for me to make them work.”

So you see that we people do not realize, we do not consider, the feelings of the children. The children know everything, and that is why he said, “If my father wants to beat me or if he wants to spank me he should not do it in front of the servants.” So you see, when it comes to spanking or getting upset at the children, we people do not think what influence it is going to have on the children, we just want to maintain our own prestige. If we were to discipline the child in a separate place, not in front of other people, the children will also understand what their mistake is, and it will not have a bad effect on them.

There are many things which I can say on this subject, because I have seen what happens to the children. The only advice which I would like to give to all of you is, whenever it comes to the question of bringing up the children, you should always consider that we ourselves were once children and we also went through the same phase of life and through the same experience; so if we were to remember and to consider all that we ourselves have gone through then I think that we will be very careful and we will take good care of the children. Once we were not able to express our feelings and our desires to our parents. We were not able to tell about a pain in our stomach or other things to our parents. So if we would remember all of that, and when it comes to the children if we would place ourselves in their position, then I think we can learn a lot from the children. You know that after every death there is a birth, no matter in which body the soul goes, but childhood is always there. Everybody has to go through the same thing again and again. That is why, if we ourselves would do Simran and also inspire the children to do the Simran and inspire them to do the devotion of the Lord, then we can easily get rid of this problem. If we do the devotion of the Lord we can easily encourage our children to do the same. So the only advice which I would like to give you is that we should take good care of our children.

The satsangis should think about this and they should have an open heart. They should try to figure out why they have problems with their children. Many times we do things without thinking, without considering, and that is why many disputes and problems are unnecessarily created in our home life.

1989 October: Be Careful in Making the Karmas

This question-and-answer session was given December 28, 1989, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16PS, Rajasthan.

SANT JI: Okay, now you can ask your questions.

QUESTION: Master, sitting here for the last couple of days, I have noticed that, when You looked around at the disciples in the group, occasionally You would look over in this corner where there is no one; and I get the sense that someone is there but we can't see them or it. Could you explain why You glance over in this corner so much?

SANT JI: You should know that there is nowhere that God Almighty is not present. He is present everywhere. Everyone has his own angle of vision; everyone has his own way of looking at things. I always look; maybe someone is sitting over there also. [laughter]

QUESTION: I have a question about grace, parshad, and darshan. It is related to an incident that happened after the last time I came here. I took some cashews back to America and I put them in a box in my kitchen. A fifteen-year-old boy ate them all up; he knew nothing about the Guru and he doesn't believe in Gurus or anything like that. I was wondering if he received any benefit from that parshad, and by extension, whether the grace that comes through parshad and darshan depends on the belief of the person who is receiving it or strictly upon what You want to give?

SANT JI: We get benefit according to our faith in the Master, and God Almighty gives us benefit according to our receptivity to His grace. But still it is like the person who ate that parshad did a good karma which will materialize, if not in this lifetime, maybe in another lifetime. He may be brought to the Path of Naam.

The effect of the grace which is contained in the parshad never goes away. Even if a person who doesn't know about it, or a person who doesn't have any belief in the parshad is eating it, he will still get the same grace and the same benefit as the other dear one who has faith in the parshad would get after eating that parshad. But the difference is that person who doesn't have any belief in the parshad may not be able to realize how much grace he is getting by eating that parshad. Even though that parshad will be working for him but still, because he does not know about the parshad, he will not know what the parshad has done for him.

I have told this story previously; also it is possible that some of you might have read it in Sant Bani Magazine. You know that we all should do the Simran of the Five Names accurately and according to the instructions given to us at the time of Initiation. You also know that at the time of Initiation we are told very clearly and correctly about all the five inner planes which we have to cross and we are also told about those lights which we may see during our course in the inner journey. And in the same way we are also told about those sounds which we may hear and we are also instructed which are the sounds that we should catch and should concentrate upon and which are the sounds which we should not pay attention to.

It is like when we are sowing seeds in the ground – even if you do not sow the seeds in a perfect line, still whatever seed has been sown in the land will definitely sprout out and will become a plant and it will bear the fruit sooner or later. Similarly, Param Sant Kabir Sahib says, “Even if you do the meditation or the repetition of the Naam incorrectly also, in whatever way you may do the repetition or the remembrance of the Naam, it will definitely bear the fruit, it will definitely work for you, you will get the grace and one day that Naam will really get manifested within you.”

There was a Mahatma who used to go up in meditation, not very high, maybe up to the lower planes, and one day he came to visit a farmer. You know that usually farmers are illiterate; they do not have much worldly knowledge, and they are very innocent people. But they have a unique kind of faith, whatever you tell them, they will believe that and they will have faith in you. So when that mahatma went to visit that farmer, the farmer said, “Master you know that I am an illiterate person and I will not be able to repeat the mantra which you may give to me in order to remember and do the worship of Almighty Lord. But do you have something simple, some simple word which I could remember and which would be easier for me to pronounce and repeat so I may do the remembrance or worship of God?"

The mahatma did not want to get involved, he wanted to get rid of that farmer and he said, "Well can you at least repeat this word? – Arabun." Now "arabun" was a very simple word for that farmer because in those days the farmers used to wear long underpants called arabun and because he was wearing only that cloth it was very easy for him to remember and repeat that word. So he said, "Okay, I will do this repetition." That farmer became very happy because he had gotten a mantra which was very easy for him to repeat. So everyday when he would go to his work, whenever he would take water from the well, whenever he would work in the fields, take care of the animals, or whatever he was doing, he would always repeat "arabun, arabun." And without knowing what it really meant, he thought that "arabun" was another name of the Almighty Lord.

One day Lord Vishnu was looking at all these worldly doings; he was sitting with his wife Laksmi, and he started laughing suddenly. Laksmi asked him why he was laughing and he said, "You see I have a new devotee and he has given me a new name." Laksmi said, "Well you always talk about your devotees, but you have never made me see one of them, so why don't you take me to the earth plane and let me have the darshan of your devotee."

Vishnu said, "Okay you come along with me." Both of them went there and at that time that farmer was taking water from the well. He was very tired but still he kept on repeating the word "arabun." There had been some problems with his family, so he was very much upset also, but still he did not give up the repetition of the word "arabun."

Lord Vishnu told Laksmi, "I will stay here and you go and talk to him about me. Let us see what he has to say about me."

Now when Laksmi went to that farmer she asked him, "Farmer, whom are you remembering by repeating this word 'arabun'?"

Now at that time he was very annoyed and he said, "I am remembering your husband." Because in India whenever anyone is upset, he will say, "Yes, I am remembering your husband" or "I am doing this to your husband." So at once he said, "I am remembering your husband," and since Vishnu was Laksmi's husband, she thought the farmer was all-conscious and that is why he said, "I am remembering your husband."

You know that God always protects the honor of his devotees, so even though that dear one was remembering God Almighty with a very awkward name, but still that God Vishnu came down to give him the darshan and he protected his honor.

So we were talking about parshad: whatever parshad we take from here we should always take it with much faith, and we should always protect it and appreciate it.

QUESTION: Master, I know you have dealt with this question before but sometimes I get so angry at Kal – because He is such a high being, why does He allow such suffering and trap us in the world. Just before I came I listened to a tape by Russell explaining the Book of Job. I am not sure if I understood – that if the souls came from God initially and were given to Kal and for some reason have to go through the suffering, is part of the reason for that suffering that we are given more when we do finally go back Home? So that we end up ultimately with more than when we began and if that could be a reason for the suffering?

SANT JI: Yesterday in the Satsang I said a lot about this. I said that everything that we do on this earth plane – whether it is walking, talking, eating, sleeping, or whatever – any step we take, somebody is watching over us, somebody is keeping account of all the things we do on this plane.

It would be better if the dear ones would read The Ocean of Love: The Anurag Sagar of Kabir, because Kabir Sahib has written very clearly in it why Sat Purush created the Negative Power and why the souls were given to the Negative Power. In fact the Negative Power does not give suffering to any soul. He is the one who makes the soul pay off their karmas.

In this context, I would like to tell you a story: Once there was a very learned, very highly educated woman and her son was also a very great, learned pundit; he died suddenly in his prime of youth, after being bitten by a snake. You know when somebody's son dies in his prime of youth how very painful that is. Even though she was very learned and had a lot of understanding, still she started calling names at God and she started crying, "Why has God killed my son in his prime of youth." (I don't know whether this story is true or not but it is something from which we can learn a lot.) So to continue the story . . . When she called God names and blamed God for killing her son, God appeared there and He said, "Why do you blame me for your son's death? I did not kill your son, it is the work of Kal and he has done it." So she started to call names at Lord Kal and she started blaming him for killing her son. So it is said that Kal also appeared there and He said, "Why do you blame me for your son's death? I did not kill him; why should I kill him? Why do you blame me – it is the work of the snake?"

So when the snake was called, the snake said, "You know that I have been living here even before your son was born, why did I bite him at this time? This is the work of Time."

So it is said that she started calling names to Time and when she blamed Time for her son's death, Time appeared there and he said, "Why do you blame me for his death? I did not do that, it is the work of the sun and moon because they come out in this world every day and because of that the wheel of time is moving. So whatever was written in his fate – what was supposed to happen at that time has happened. So instead of blaming me you better blame the sun and moon."

So it is said that she started blaming the sun and moon and they also appeared and they said, "Well mother, why do you blame us for doing this, we did not do anything, we are moving according to the Will of God and his death is the work of the Lord of Karma, you had better call him."

So the Lord of Karma was also blamed and when he appeared he said, "Do you know I am not the one who gives punishment to anyone. I do not kill anyone; you should know who does the karmas."

Then that woman realized that it may be because of some karma which her son might have done, as a result of which he had to leave this world in the prime of youth. So then she understood that nobody was to be blamed for his death except for his own karmas.

You know that according to our past karmas, whatever good or bad we have done, the Lord of Karma writes that in our destiny. We have to face that; we do not have any choice about it.

Why should we get angry at Lord Kal, because Lord Kal is not doing anything bad for us; he is not giving us any [new] suffering, all the suffering we get is because of our own karmas.

Lord Kal has appointed many gods and demi-gods to look after our affairs and nobody gives sufferings to anyone. We get all the difficulties only according to those things which we have done in our past lifetimes.

Master Kirpal used to say, even in the Initiation instructions, “We are not the body, we are the soul; but we have got the body only to pay off our karmas.” Now everyone is free and independent to do the karmas, whether good or bad, and because he is the only one who is going to pay off those karmas, that is why he should be careful in making or doing the karmas.

Guru Nanak Sahib says, “When we ourselves are going to pay off our karmas, then why do we do the bad deeds?” We should have a very long vision and we should think about the future and we should never make any bad karma. Also Guru Nanak Sahib says, “We have to fashion our destiny with our own hands.” Tulsi Sahib says, “If you do the meditation of the Shabd Naam you can mend all the mistakes you have done in your past lifetimes with [the grace of] God Almighty.”

Whatever laws, rules, and regulations God Almighty has made, we do not have any right in speaking against those rules and regulations; because we cannot do anything, we cannot make any changes in them.

Once some people went to Guru Nanak Sahib, arguing with Him, “Who made this Creation?” and “Why was this Creation made?” and “When was this Creation made?” So Guru Nanak Sahib replied, “Not even the yogis know about the date and the year in which this Creation was created and the pundits also do not know. The holy scriptures also do not know when this creation was created.” He said, “If the pundits had known when this Creation was created and who created it they would have written down the date and the year when it was created. Only He who has created this Creation knows about It; so it would be better if you would go within and ask Him all these questions – why He made such laws, and why we have to go through all this.”

It is written in Swami Ji Maharaj’s writing, that once when some introverted souls were being liberated by Swami Ji Maharaj, when God Almighty came to liberate those introverted souls they asked Him a similar question (like a part of this question of why Kal was created), so they asked Him, “Now You have come to liberate us, but what is the guarantee that You will not give us back to the Negative Power even after giving us the liberation? And why was Kal created when You were going to come and liberate us eventually?”

So Swami Ji writes that God Almighty replied to them, “I created the Negative Power in My Own Will, it was My Own Wish to create Him because the souls were not remaining in control without fear of somebody and that is why I had to create the Negative Power. But now I will not have such a will again. Once I liberate you, you will not have to go back to the Negative Power because you will be going back to the Real Home; and I am not going to create this Will again and again. It was for once only that I gave you to the Negative Power. Now those souls who will listen to the Shabd, who will follow me to the Real Home will never go into the cycle which is created by the Negative Power and they will not have any sufferings.”

So that is why it would be much better for all of us to get ourselves attached and connected to the Shabd and go within so we could ourselves ask this question to God Almighty and get the answer. If we cannot do that yet, we should read the Anurag Sagar or the writings of Swami Ji Maharaj, because He has also written very elaborately about the difference between the Negative and the Positive Powers, and why the Negative Power was created. By reading the writings of Kabir Sahib and Swami Ji Maharaj, we should try to get the answer to this question.

As a matter of fact the Masters come into this world only to help us solve this riddle. That is why we should go within because after going within we can easily ask this question and get the answer to it. That is why Masters always put such an emphasis on meditation – whether we are sitting, standing, or doing anything – we should always have faith in the Master and do our meditation wholeheartedly.

We should never postpone our work for tomorrow; whatever we are supposed to do, we should do it right now. Kabir Sahib has written that in the beginning when the souls were given to the Negative Power, at that time the souls did not have a burden of the karmas over their head, so it was very easy for them to return to their Real Home. Also at that time the souls did not have the body and the mind, so all at once the storehouse which had been filled up with the souls became empty, and the Negative Power was left with no soul. That is why, when the souls were given to Him again, the Negative Power gave them a body and with the body he attached a mind. Also He established these laws of karma, that whatever karma a person does he has to come back to pay that karma himself. Dear Ones, patiently and with quiet mind, we should do our meditation; because you know that after going through the cycle of eighty-four lakhs of births and deaths finally we have received this human birth. You know that this world is full of much suffering – what to talk about the suffering which the animals have, even in this human birth there is no end to the sufferings, everywhere there is pain, difficulties, and sufferings. So if in this human birth we are fortunate enough to come to a Perfect Master and if that Perfect Master has graciously given us the Naam Initiation, if that Master is going within and if He has the capability of taking us within, we should take advantage of it, we should do our meditation and go along with Him to the inner planes and back to our Real Home. That plane or that home, where we belong and where we must go, is full of peace and happiness; there is no pain nor suffering over there. When we get to our Real Home and from there when we look at this world, then we realize how much suffering and how much pain we had to suffer in this world and then we never want to come back.

Bulleh Shah, a Sufi Saint, has written about the time when He went back to the Real Home. You know when any soul gets liberated from this world of suffering and goes back to the Real Home, all the other souls who are already there come to welcome her. They say, “Welcome. Have you come? How are you?” – things like that – and they ask her, “What have you brought from that mortal world?” So Bulleh Shah wrote, “When Bulleh went up to the palace, to the Real Home of the Lord, people came to ask about his welfare. They asked him, 'What have you brought from the mortal world?' But Bulleh replied, 'Nothing but a black face and blue feet.'"

So that is why, Dear Ones, if we are getting upset at any power, at any being, we are making one more bad karma. So we should not create any more bad karmas, we should rise above the chains of the karmas and by doing the meditation, make our lives successful.

If someone says, "Why were all these police stations made, why were all these prisons made, why were all these laws, rules, and regulations made?" There can be no answer to that. If the people who do the crimes – those who are put into the jails – if they say, "Because the jails are made we are put into them." It is foolish of them to talk like that. Because for the peace-loving people – those who are not involved in any crimes, those who live a very peaceful and very pure and good life – for them all these things do not make any difference, because they do not have to deal with them; they do not have to go to the jails.

Sometime ago a family came from Chandigar to see me; they were very intellectual, learned people, very educated. Both the brother and sister had master's degrees and they were very highly educated, very sophisticated people. They attended Satsang, and when they came to see me, they told me how they had been speaking ill and calling names at God Almighty because they were suffering a great deal. They said that every night before going to bed, instead of praying to God, they were calling names at Him and they were saying, "Why did You give us so much education and why did You give us so much suffering in this world?"

So I lovingly told them, "Dear Ones, tell me one thing, have you ever seen God giving you the suffering? Have you ever seen God? And if you have not seen God, if you have not seen that He is giving you the suffering, then how can you be sure that He is the one who gives you the suffering? Why should you call Him names and have all these disrespectful words for Him? You should attend a couple of Satsangs, take the Initiation, and then we will talk about this more if you want to."

So afterwards, when they attended a couple more Satsangs and got Initiation and started doing the meditation, they realized that it was not good for them to call God names and to speak against God. They realized that God was not giving them any suffering, He was not giving them any punishment; and in that way they stopped doing that bad karma. I hope that you will read The Ocean of Love: the Anurag Sagar of Kabir. It is possible that many other dear ones may also have the same kind of questions bothering their mind, so it is better to read the Anurag Sagar because it is explained in that book very clearly. And also I would like to advise all of you to read Sant Bani Magazine whole-heartedly, patiently, and with all your attention; because whatever are the words of the Master, we should read His words and then we should introspect our own self. We should find out our faults and we should analyze our life with the wise words of the Master and we should apply every single word of the Master to our own selves. Only in that way can we get the answers to all our questions.

1989 November: On Surrendering Our Will

This question and answer session was given September 27, 1987, at Sant Bani Ashram, Village 16 PS, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Master, would You please say something about surrendering our self will. What are the impediments and the helping factors?

SANT JI: First of all, our mind stands in our way; he creates egoism and there are many other obstacles, many other impediments which he creates and he does not allow us to surrender our will to the Master. He has many other forces, he creates lust, anger, greed, attachment, and egoism; and there are many other tricks, playing which, he always creates a wall between us and the Master. It is very difficult to surrender our will to the Master.

I have often talked about living a life like that of a forty-day-old child. You know that a child of forty days old does not have any jealousy, or enmity towards anyone, he has only love for everyone.

He does not even know his mother but since he has surrendered himself to his mother, he is well taken care of. He may not even remember the face of the mother but he can smell the fragrance of the mother and he can even, hearing the footsteps of the mother, know that his mother has come and he will be taken care of. So you see that a child of forty days old does not have any jealousy, he knows only to love; and whenever he needs anything, he knows only to cry. Since he has surrendered himself to his mother he does not have to worry about anything and that is why he does not have any difficulties.

So like that forty-day-old child, when we also surrender ourselves to the Master, when we surrender our will to the Master, we do not have to worry about anything. If we have faith in Him, if we have confidence in Him, we will also smell Him like a child smells his mother, then we know that in our within our beloved Master is sitting. When we go in the within, having faith in Him, then we surrender ourselves to Him and we do not have to face any difficulties. All the passions are also lost; we do not have any difficulties with them. When we know that our beloved Master is sitting within us, and if, having faith in Him, we have gone within, then all the good qualities start developing in us and we remove all the bad qualities. After that there is no question of getting egoism, because once we have gone within and we have surrendered ourselves to the Master, then we realize that all that happens is being done by the Master Himself. He is the Creator, He is the Sustainer, He is doing everything.

So once we surrender ourselves to the Master and go within then we do not have any difficulties and then we start living the life of a forty-day-old child.

Dear ones, by reading the books of the Masters and by doing a little bit of meditation, we may gain a little faith in the Master; we may start saying outwardly that we have surrendered ourselves to the Master and Master is the only one who is doing everything. We may say all these things, but it has been seen that those people who praise the Master like this, who show outwardly that they have so much faith in the Master and that they have surrendered themselves to the Master, they do this only as long as they have good health, as long as they have all the material possessions, and as long as everything is going all right for them outwardly. But when something goes wrong in their life, suppose if they lose their health, or if their possessions are lost, or if anything else goes wrong in their life, they lose their faith in the Master. They do not realize that whatever they are getting that is according to their own deeds.

Lord Krishna told his disciple Udo, “O Udo, I always give three things to those with whom I am very pleased. Those three things are: disrespect, bad health, and poverty.” He said, “When I become happy with any of my disciples I always give him these three things because I know that when he is being criticized by the people, when he does not have the good health, and when he has the financial difficulties he will remember me more and he will come even closer to Almighty Lord. So that is why I give always these three things to those dear ones with whom I am very pleased.”

I mean to say that when the storm comes even the mighty trees get uprooted. So to say that we have surrendered ourselves to the Master, without going within, that is a false thing to say, because unless we go within, and unless we see that our Master is the only One Who does everything, we cannot completely surrender ourselves to Him.

Swami Ji Maharaj says, “Mind is such a thing that sometimes he will come to you as your friend and lovingly he will try to convince you not to do the devotion of Lord. Sometimes he will come to you as your enemy and he will try to frighten you, intimidate you, and in that way he will try to take you away from the remembrance of Almighty Lord. He has many other ways, many other tricks. His job is to check that no soul should do the devotion of Lord, that is why he does all these things.”

Swami Ji Maharaj also says, “When the Master tested the mind, then he left the Divine Music.” He tells us that when Master puts the disciples to the test, most of the dear ones leave the Master, they stop listening to the Divine Music, they leave the practices. It has been seen that when people have to face difficulties in their lives, they often leave the Master, even though it is a fact that whatever one has to suffer in his life is according to his own past deeds.

No mother becomes pleased looking at the suffering of her child; in the same way, no Master becomes happy when He sees His disciples unhappy. But whatever karmas the disciple has done in his past lifetime he has to pay those, and that is why the sufferings come into his life. In that situation also Masters shower a lot of grace on them, and They always extend all feasible help, but still whatever karmas the disciple has done he has to pay at least a little bit of that. But when these things happen most of the dear ones leave the Master and they start having ill feelings toward the Master.

There was a Mahatma who used to go within; he had done a lot of meditation, and he had many disciples also. He was a very good Mahatma of a high nature. He used to walk on a particular street where a prostitute lived, and that prostitute had a dog who had a very beautiful tail. Every day when that Mahatma would pass in front of that prostitute’s house she would come out and ask him, “Mahatma Ji, is your beard better than my dog’s tail?” That Mahatma would never respond, he just kept quiet and continued to the place he was going. With all his humility, he would never reply.

Many years passed and that prostitute kept on harassing that Mahatma, asking that question; but the Mahatma was so patient, so loving, that he never replied, and he never got angry. Because Mahatmas know when they have to answer any question and only

They know how They have to prepare the souls. So that is why that Mahatma never spoke even a word. When the Mahatma's end time came it was night time; he called his disciples and told them to go and call that woman. Even though she was a prostitute, in the eyes of that Mahatma she was a woman. He knew that she was doing that bad job only because of her mind, but underneath that dirty mind there was a pure soul and that was his soul, that is why he said, "Go and call that woman."

At that time, many of his disciples who were not yet perfect, started having bad feelings for the Mahatma. They started saying, "Look at this old man. Whatever he earned during his lifetime, now towards his end he is going to lose all that, because now he is lying on his death bed, but still he is thinking about that prostitute." They did not know what was the secret behind calling that woman, that is why they started having those thoughts, and many even left him at that time. But a few of the disciples who used to go within, and who had seen the real glory of their Master, did not have any bad feelings for him, they at once went to that prostitute asked her to come and see the Master.

When she came, the Mahatma asked that prostitute, "Dear daughter, today you can ask your question; because now I am in a position to answer your question." The prostitute replied, "But Master why didn't you reply earlier? You never spoke a word; now I realize that I was making a mistake; why did I ask you such a foolish question?"

But the Mahatma said, "No dear daughter, whatever you asked was correct, it was a good thing for you to ask; but I was not in a position to answer at that time. I know the quality of the mind: we never know when the mind is going to play a trick on us that is why I never wanted to tell you that my beard was much better than your dog's tail. But today since my end time has come, and since I did not let my mind play any trick on me, I know that my beard is a million times better than the tail of your dog and that is why I am answering this question to you."

That prostitute was so impressed and moved by the humility and patience of that Mahatma that her heart also changed and she at once fell at the feet of the Mahatma saying, "Master, from today onwards I swear by you that I will never commit that bad deed again. Kindly bless me and shower grace on me." So she was also liberated by the grace of that Mahatma. So I mean to say that those Mahatmas who go within, those Who have surrendered themselves to their Master, those Who see the Power of God working in every being, in every leaf, in every creature, and those Who have surrendered Themselves to God Almighty – only They know the reality of the mind. And unless They have conquered the mind They never say anything with full confidence, even though They know that They are above the mind, but still They always know the power of the mind, that is why They are always very careful.

Dear ones, only those who go within, who see the power of God working within everyone, can say that they have surrendered themselves to the will of God.

Master Sawan Ji used to say, "It is not a very small thing to surrender your will to that of the Master. It is not an ordinary thing to surrender yourself to the Master because in surrendering yourself to the Master, you have to give up your wishes and desires and you have to live according to the wishes and will of the Master. You have to give up yourself completely and you have to become of the Master."

Kabir Sahib says, “All the people of this world are like dead bodies in front of their mind, rare are those who are like the dead bodies in front of the Master.” You know that the dead body does not have any choice of its own, it is up to the person who is cleaning it that how he cleans it, whether he uses good detergent or not, whether he puts perfume on the dead body or not, it is completely up to that person, the dead person does not have any choice.

In the same way, if we become like a dead body in front of the Master, we do not have any choice of our own, whatever Master wants us to do, He will make us do that. Once we have surrendered ourselves to the Master, once we have given ourselves up to the Master, then we do not have any choice, whatever Master wishes for us, we have to do that. Once we have given ourselves up to the Master, we cannot hesitate and we cannot make any excuses to do anything.

The bad deeds always makes us fall downwards; even one bad thought can bring us down from the peak of Brahmand. When we surrender ourselves to the Master and when we see our Master working everywhere, there is no question of doing any bad deed. Because when we have surrendered ourselves to the Master then we see the Presence of the Shabd Master everywhere. When we know that He is everywhere, He is doing everything, He is present in every single particle of this creation, then there is no question of doing any bad deed.

About thirty years ago there was an initiate of Baba Sawan Singh whose name was Baba Gurbachan Singh who used to do Satsang in our area. We used to respect him a lot; he would go to people’s homes to do the Satsangs and wherever he went people would go and listen to his discourses because he used to give a very good Satsang. They all used to love and respect him a lot. Once he was invited to a home to do Satsang and he gave a very good discourse about peace of mind and how to go within and do the devotion of the Lord. It is a usual practice with the Indians, when they have a function like Satsang in their home, afterwards they prepare some tea or food for the Sangat. So like that the tea was prepared for all the Sangat. The family in whose home the Satsang was held wanted that Baba to come to the inside room and have tea with the family, after all the dear ones in the Sangat would have had their tea, so first they started serving the tea to the Sangat. When the Baba saw that he was not offered tea first, and that the Sangat was given tea before him, he started becoming angry, he started changing his colors, and he started acting funny just after giving such a beautiful discourse about peace of the mind.

After some time the head of the family came there and requested that Baba to come to the inside room to have his tea. But he was so much controlled by anger that he could not speak a word, he just expressed his anger. The family members were afraid, so they brought the tea to him right there on the dais. But he was so much controlled by the anger that he removed his turban and said, “Now you pour this tea on my head.”

The people who were looking at him saw all this happening. The Satsangis knew how the mind plays tricks on us and how he makes us fall down even if we have reached our destination, how he does all these things. They knew the condition of the mind so it was not a very unusual or surprising thing to them. But for the non-initiates it was a very unusual thing, because just a few minutes ago he had given a very beautiful discourse and he was teaching people how they should control their mind, how they should not fall in the traps of the mind, and how they should always be peaceful and quiet and like that, but now what was he doing? He was not doing what he was preaching; so it was a very unusual thing for them, and they all clapped their hands and left that place.

So I mean to say that those who have surrendered themselves to the Master they know the tricks of the mind and they never allow their mind to play such tricks on them. But those who have not surrendered themselves to the Master, even though they talk about the peace of the mind and the tricks of the mind, but still, since they have not surrendered themselves to the Master, that is why they can easily be tricked by the mind.

Often I have talked about the meditation of the first two Names which I did for eighteen years continuously after I was initiated by Baba Bishan Das. I did that meditation regularly, without understanding it as a burden, for eighteen years, sitting in an underground room. In the village where I used to live, there also I had made an underground room for meditation. Right from my childhood I never had the habit of going out into the world and meeting the people; I always wanted to remain alone. That is why I always made the underground rooms to sit for the devotion. Even though I did so much meditation for eighteen years continuously still, towards the end, the mind started playing tricks on me. The thoughts started coming within me, “You have been meditating for such a long time but where have you reached? What have you received?” And thoughts like that started coming and bothering me.

Once it so happened that I came out from that underground room and I started walking. When I had walked something like one hundred and fifty yards, I don't know from where the voice came but I heard, “Do not lose your heart. Do not be disheartened.” At once I realized it was a trick of the mind which had brought me out from that underground room and I knew I was supposed to go back to that room and start doing the meditation. So I went back and I continued my meditation until the Master showered grace on me.

So dear ones, I mean to say, if you do any good thing in the cause of the Master or for the Master don't become proud of that. At once forget that you have done anything good for the cause of the Master or for the Master, don't let the ego come within you, because the Master who is sitting within you is showering a lot of grace on you, and if you lose all His grace by creating egoism within you then it is not a good bargain. Master is sitting within you, He knows everything that you are doing, and He is the one who is making you do the meditation. Many times when Master makes you do the meditation with His grace He even takes you inside, He even gives you beautiful experiences. But when you have done the meditation and you have received the experiences don't let your mind create this thought, “You have done the meditation, you have got these beautiful experiences.” Because when you start thinking that you have done something or you have obtained something then behind that thought the forces of mind are ready to conquer you. They will create egoism and other passions and they will easily make you fall down.

So that is why even after doing the meditation, even after receiving experiences, do not think that you have done anything or that it was because of your efforts. Always be grateful to the Master, because in fact Master is the One Who is doing the meditation, He is the One Who is making you sit, He is the One Who is giving you all the experiences. So instead of giving an opportunity to the mind to create negative thoughts within you, at once be grateful to the Master, and the best way to remain grateful to the Master is to have His constant remembrance.

Dear ones, it always happens with us that whenever anything good happens to us, we always say that we have done this. Once it so happened that some disciples of Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj went to Him and said, “Master, it is written in your writings that ‘God Almighty is the One Who does everything, nothing is in the hands of man,’ when this is true, then why does the man suffer?”

The Master replied, “Yes, it is true that whatever is done is being done by the Master; a man cannot do anything, because nothing is in his hands. But we people suffer only when we say that we are doing something. When anything good happens you always say that you have done it. But you have your desires, you have your wishes, and in order to fulfill those desires and wishes, you do the deeds, good or bad. But when anything goes wrong you never confess that it is because of your mistake that this thing has gone wrong. You always blame the Master, you always blame God Almighty whenever you have to face any suffering.”

So dear ones when you surrender yourself to the Master, you have to give up your wishes, you have to give up your will, and you have to live in the Will of God. Those who have surrendered themselves to Master, those who have surrendered their will to Almighty God, they do not mind whether suffering comes to them or if they live comfortably.

I appreciate and respect the dear ones who write letters to me, but in most of the letters which I receive, the dear ones either talk about showering grace on them because their husbands are not getting along with them, or their wives are not getting along with them, or they have some difficulties with their health, or if someone has done any bad karma and has gone to jail, he asks for the blessing. I mean to say that most people always write about their physical difficulties and they always want the help of the Master and the grace of the Master to remove those difficulties. There are very few people who ask for the Naam or for the grace of the Master. It is not that all the people only write about their difficulties and there is no one who asks for the Naam; there are people who write for the Master, who write for the Naam, but most of the dear ones always ask about their physical difficulties. They do not realize that whatever they have done in their past lifetimes – it is the reaction of those deeds that they are suffering in this lifetime.

Even though the Master Saints are fully prepared before They come into this world They still work very hard in order to demonstrate to the people that without working hard we cannot achieve success in this Path of the Masters, otherwise They do not need to do all the things which They do in Their early lives. They search for the Perfect Master and They do all sorts of things just to show people that unless we search for the Master, unless we work so hard we cannot get to the Perfect Master and we cannot get Initiation, but otherwise They are fully prepared. When Their fixed time for meeting the Perfect Master comes that meeting is arranged by Lord Almighty and it happens by itself and when such a Master Saint, when such a Soul, comes to the Perfect Master, he does not ask his Master to remove any of his physical difficulties, he only asks that Perfect Master to quench his thirst of spirituality which he had from ages and ages.

You already know about when I came in contact with beloved Master Kirpal. Before I met Him, I had not met a critic of Him or an admirer of Him. It was His grace only that made it possible for me to come to His Feet. So when I met Him I did not ask Him to which caste He belonged, to which religion He belonged, whether He was married or not. I did not place any of my physical difficulties in front of Him, I did not ask him any questions, because I knew deep in my soul that, “He is my Perfect Master, He is my savior and He has come to liberate me.” So since I did not present any of my worldly things to Him, my vessel was prepared, and He was a great Master, He gave me the Initiation, and He filled my vessel up.

We all can do that because our vessel is also prepared. When we are destined to meet the Perfect Master it means we are preparing our vessel. But when we meet the Master, when we come to the Master, if we also do not place our physical difficulties to Him, if we only ask for the Naam and His grace, then He can easily fill up our vessel and He can easily liberate us and make everything easier for us. But not everyone can do this because it is not an easy thing. We do not know how many births it takes for a soul to develop such an attitude. One has to do a lot of religious deeds, one has to do a lot of meditation in his past lifetime, in order to develop such an attitude when he comes to the Perfect Master.

There was an initiate of Guru Nanak Dev Ji whose name was Baba Budha; he lived a very long life up to the time of the sixth Guru, Guru Har Gobind. When he came to Guru Nanak he was of a very young age, but he was very clever and he used to talk about very good things just as an older person would talk, so Guru Nanak said, “You are a young boy but you talk like the elders, like the old ones, so that is why from today your name will be Baba Budha.” (Budha means an older person). He lived up to the time of Guru Har Gobind, the sixth Guru, and each time when they established the successor after Guru Nanak, Baba Budha used to perform the ceremony of giving the tilak, the ceremony of establishing the successor on the throne of Guru Nanak. He did that for all the five Gurus Who came after Guru Nanak.

Once Baba Budha asked Guru Har Gobind, “Master, I have been performing this ceremony for so long, and I am now very old, do I still need to do this meditation? Because I am very old and I think that now that you should release me from this duty of doing the meditation.”

Guru Har Gobind, Who had surrendered Himself to His Master, even though He Himself had become the Form of the Master – He was a Master Himself – but still He did not give up the practices. Because He knew how, even after reaching the Real Home, one has to remain like a child in front of the Master, and how he has to surrender himself to Master, so that is why He told Baba Budha, “Look here Baba Budha, even though you have done this work for so long, you have been meditating for so long, but if you will give up the meditation now, just imagine – what will the Sangat learn from you? If you will give up the meditation, they will also follow you, and they will also give up the meditation, which is not a good thing.”

So the meaning of saying this is that those who have surrendered their will to the Master, even after reaching the Real Home, even if They have become the Form of the Master, still They always enjoy the spiritual practices. The Masters Who have reached the Real Home, even if They are working as a Master in this physical plane, but still every morning They get up and do the meditation. They always present Themselves in front of Their Master as a young infant, as a child, and They always ask for the blessings and grace of the Master even though They Themselves are capable of doing everything. They do this only because They have surrendered Their will to the Master and They do not do anything of Their own; They always work in the will of Their Master.

A lot more can be said in regard to the surrender of the will, because this is the story of love which has no end. I can talk a lot more on this subject. We could even make books on this topic of how to surrender ourselves to the Will of Lord, but I think what I have said today is enough and we should always remember this and follow it.

1989 December: The Guru Never Wavers

This question and answer session, translated by Mr. Oberoi, was given January 19, 1985, in Bombay.

QUESTION: Sometimes negative thoughts occur to me, just come in suddenly. Can I just renounce those thoughts by saying that “I am not the mind, I did not create the mind, I am not responsible for that thought.” And how do I really do that?

SANT JI: Each one of us must understand it clearly that whatever thoughts come into our mind, we are ourselves responsible for them; and we have to suffer the consequences of them because we have created them.

QUESTION: During Your spiritual progress, aside from Your deep yearning for God, what practices did You do during the 1940’s, 1950’s, and 1960’s to keep Your mind alert and attentive through the night to do devotion of God? And also could You talk about ashrams and the beneficial effect that ashrams have on Satsangis.

SANT JI: Ever since I started this search I had a deep yearning, I was always praying that I would be able to come in contact with a Master like Baba Nanak and the other Gurus, who would give me this; I had always that deep desire which was attracting me. Since I had that deep desire Maharaj Kirpal heard my voice. He Himself came all the distance to my ashram and He quenched my thirst; He gave me happiness. As I usually tell you I have always thought of my Master, I have always asked Him of Him, and I have had no other desire except Him. Maharaj Baba Sawan Singh used to say that the side of the balance which carries the most weight goes lower. Similarly whatever thoughts are there, the same thoughts will create further things in your mind. Whatever you think of that will have further impact and the desire will be created.

Guru Nanak Dev Ji Maharaj has said, “You can have only one type of inclination, when you have the worldly inclination you can’t have the other one, and when you have the other one this will automatically go.”

Consequently we should always create the desire towards God, we should make the place for Him to come and stay. Even in the worldly order, before a dog sits, he will clean the place with his tail, similarly if we want God to come we must clean our heart and make a place for Him to come and stay.

Even if some worldly relative has come to our house we clean it, we do all that is necessary to make it proper. Similarly have we ever thought that for the Highest of the Highest to come and stay in our place – have we ever thought of cleaning that place – we have already defiled it – is it not necessary that we should make it clean for Him to come and sit?

Those who indulge in all types of sins and yet think of finding God are making fools of themselves, because they expect both things to be continuing simultaneously.

I often say that at the time of Initiation Guru sits within our heart; the Negative Power is already there. After Initiation, when a person starts going against the teachings of the Master, the Negative Power tells the Guru inside, “Look he is your jiva, but still he is doing all these sins.” But Guru is somebody with great devotion, with great confidence and perseverance, He always tells the Negative Power, “He is my jiva, I have Initiated him, I will do my best to reform him, to bring him up to the level.”

I often say that we have to become the beggar of the beggars on this Path. Baba Ji used to repeat a couplet which says, “Neither have I beauty, nor do I have attributes, I am the lowest of the lowest, and yet You are my spouse; You are my everything, I have to win You over, I have to become Yours.”

QUESTION: Master, I think you have sometimes said that an Initiate has a maximum of four lives to finish from the moment of his Initiation to when he gets back Home. I have always believed that this is my last life and that . . . You will definitely be coming to get me when my end time comes. Would you please comment on this?

SANT JI: One of the army men put a question to Baba Sawan Singh Ji, saying, “Kabir has written that an Initiate, if he does not go for the darshan of the Master for some time, then the relationship between the Guru and the Initiate is broken.” Baba Sawan Singh said, “This was said by Kabir not by me.” Because the Saints, They always see the man; and giving us the darshan, our soul is clapped [awakened] with Their own soul, with Their own radiation, with Their own help, They take us up. And whatever deficiencies are there, they are completed on the Inner planes.

Sometime back a similar question was asked and I replied with reference to what Guru Gobind Singh did in His life, some incident of His life. As you all know Guru Gobind Singh took up the arms because of the tyranny of the Moguls. Once it so happened that some of his initiates who were fighting in the battle, they got a little disgusted, and they went away from Him, after writing a disclaimer that they were not His disciples.⁴ When they went home their wives rebuked them and said, “Look here we are normally wearing the bangles, it is you who should wear the bangles and it is you who should wear these ladies’ dresses.” Now this gave them the feeling that what they had done was wrong. One of the ladies, who was known as Martapago, somehow prevailed upon them; and all of them, forty in number, along with that lady Martapago, went back to the Guru. On the way there was a very severe encounter with the opposition forces with the result that most of them died in the battlefield except one Jatadar Mahan Singh Ji and that lady. When Guru Gobind Singh was told, He came and He saw those people on the battlefield lying dead. Similarly Bhai Mahan Singh was also in bad position; He pleaded, “O Great Guru, whatever disclaimer I wrote, that should be torn up now.” He said, “Take it for granted that it is torn now, I never told you at any stage that I am not your Guru; it is only you who have said that you are not my disciples.” A Guru is someone who would never leave the disciple come what may. We idiot disciples may do whatever we do.

⁴ For a further account of this incident, see Servants of God: Lives of the Ten Sikh Gurus, by Jon Engle, pp. 145-7.

Whosoever has even a little inclination towards meditation would normally be aware of his end-time, and he would tell other people also. Those who are good meditators, they would tell of their coming departure long earlier, but the principle is that if there is no non-Satsangi around the man who is going, he would normally tell the Initiates around him that he is going, that the Guru has come to take him.

Leave alone the Initiates, sometimes others also talk of it, when people come and meet me, in their interview or even through their letters, they talk of such incidents: “so-and-so, when he or she was near the end, felt Your Presence very much; either in the hospital room or wherever he was, You came and You took him.” Some people have even described that they saw Maharaj Kirpal and Baba Sawan Singh also simultaneously at such times.

The Satsangis should be more concerned about the meditation, about doing their practices. The Guru never wavers; He always comes at the appointed time.

QUESTION: I have a question about the future. Eventually will we souls all completely lose our individuality or will we still be individually doing devotion?

SANT JI: I often tell you, soul is above the communities, above the genders, above the forms; at the third plane all these finish and soul is pure soul and not tied to these or any individual entities.

QUESTION: Dear Father, in every Bhajan we hear, we find sounds more beautiful than the last; could we again have the supreme happiness to hear one of these being sung in Your voice.

SANT JI: [Sant Ji laughs] As you know it is the Higher Power who is making me write all this. On the first tour I sang a number of songs but now the voice doesn't help me, I can't really sing.

This malady of writing bhajans is gripping me but Pappu and Kent are asking me not to write any more for some time. [Sant Ji laughs more, everyone laughs.]

I always want that the praise and admiration of my Guru should be done, I should be able to do it, in the new way, in the ever-changing and new way.

It is not possible to sing the full praise of the Guru. Sehjo Bhai has said, “If I could make the whole earth into paper, all the oceans into ink, and all the trees into a pen, even then I will not be able to write the praise of the Guru.”

Every Saint has written about His Guru, about the Naam, about the Satsang in Their own bhajans, because whatever is pent up in Their heart for the Guru They try to express through these hymns.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, what is it exactly to love the Master as long as we are ego because ego always wants to take everything for itself?

SANT JI: As I always say, whenever a Satsangi starts treading on this Path the armies of the Negative Power – the five dacoits and the mind-start attacking us. As I always tell you, sitting in meditation is fighting them out, all these five dacoits. Tulsi Sahib has said, “O Tulsi, to fight on the battlefield is a matter of a few days only, but the soul fights against the mind without any sword, for all its life long.” But those who devote themselves in this, those who fight the mind steadfastly, without the normal, usual weapons, they always succeed. And as I always tell you that those who do it devotedly and succeed in this Path, they get the prime of the place and positions.

QUESTION: Master, do you have a Gurumukh disciple?

SANT JI: [Sant Ji laughs heartily] Look here, I want all of you to become Gurumukh disciples, you kindly cooperate with me; you kindly have courage and do it.

QUESTION: What is meant by natural devotion?

SANT JI: Leaving yourself and getting yourself merged into that Naam, into that Guru, into that Power, into that Nature, call It by any name.

QUESTION: When the Negative Power appears in Your Form within the disciple can you make it out?

SANT JI: It's to enable you to test this that the Saints have given you the Five Sacred Names. They are not those names which They have heard, but they are those on which They have meditated. If you repeat these Five Charged Names in any such situation the Negative Power will disappear; you yourself will be able to test it.

Many times the Negative Power does appear and sometimes It takes the Form of your Master also.

Maharaj Sawan Singh Ji when He fractured His leg, He was in great pain and agony. The doctors advised Him, that if He wants the bone to set properly He should start using meat, meat soup, and other such things. So He sent a telegram to His Guru, Baba Jaimal Singh Ji, telling Him what the doctors had advised and seeking His advice, whether He should do it. Because in the meantime when He sat in meditation, Kal, in the form of His Guru, came and advised Him to do it. At the same time when, on the receipt of the telegram, Baba Jaimal Singh sent Him another telegram telling Him that the Guru gives the order once and that stands. So He told Him these things cannot either save your life or prolong it. These are nothing, if you have to live, you will live, otherwise not; so as ordered, you should not use it. Saint Satna has said that if you go to the protection of a lion then why be afraid of jackals? The power of Naam and Shabd is such that no power on the earth can stand before it. This is the most lasting Power.

QUESTION: Can you speak about how to be a good parent?

SANT JI: I have spoken a lot about it. I would say that you had better check out Sant Bani Magazine, but since you have become a mother recently I would give you something more also.

It's a well known incident Bhagat Farid was made a Param Sant by his mother. Right in his childhood his mother, who was a meditator of Naam and Shabd, used to advise him to devote himself to seeking God. And He would enquire, “Why is it so?” And she would say, “He is very sweet.” So what the mother started doing was that she would put Him into meditation and before that boy would get up from meditating, she would place some sugar candy there, and tell Him, “This was sent by God.” So this continued for a few days with the result that His inclination towards the meditation became more gripping, He started doing it because He knew it was very sweet. The same Bhagat Farid has written in His composition, “The sugar candy is very sweet, honey is very sweet, there are many things which are very sweet; but God is far more sweet than those.” So all those who are Satsangis they should really train their children according to the teachings of Sat Mat so that they start picking it up gradually. If the children of the animals are affected by their parents why would the children of the human beings be not so? Once it so happened that a boy and a girl were in love, but their parents wouldn’t agree to their marriage. They decided to run away together, so the girl brought her she-camel and in the dead of night both of them left that place and went away. On the way it so happened that there was some water, and that she-camel stopped for awhile, not going ahead and that girl immediately blurted out that the mother of this she-camel was also in the habit of stopping wherever she would see water.

The man immediately thought, “If the daughter of the camel was affected by its habits why would my own children be not similarly affected. This girl is fleeing with me against the wishes of her parents, well some time later we will have children out of this wedlock, and would that girl who comes out of our wedlock not behave in the same manner and not flee away? At that same time my own honor would be at stake.”

So after he thought about it, he said that he had forgotten some very important things at his house and convinced his partner to go back. When they got back to the palace he said, “Look here, now we have come to the palace, we are saved of a great sin, let us not enter into it and let it be the end of it.” So I mean to say, that whatever the parents do has a great effect on the children.

Maharaj Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “Those parents who commit wrongs, who do wrong things in the presence and in knowledge of their children, they are spoiling the character of their own children.”

The parents should be become good first, the children will automatically become good.

1990

1990 January/February: On Karmas, Love, and Marriage

This question-and-answer session was given January 15, 1985, in Bombay.

QUESTION: Yesterday You mentioned the Four Ages: the Golden Age, the Silver Age, the Copper age, the Iron Age. In my job I have to teach western theories of evolution – evolution of species, evolution of the human form from animal form – and I wonder how I should understand all this? How does it all fit together? . . . I just wondered if I should worry, or how I should understand this when people ask me?

SANT JI: The only benefit which we have in this Iron Age is that we do not have to live for as many years as we did in the other ages, and in this age Saints have graciously shortened the practice, by doing which, we can go back to our Real Home. In the other ages the jivas used to live for a long time and the practices were also very long; in the Iron Age, we do have to finish the breaths which have been put in our body, but compared to the other ages it is a short time. The practice which the Masters have given to us – by doing that practice, in one second we can go within, the next second we can come out; and in this way, by doing the meditation of Surat Shabd, we can easily go back Home and our evolution can happen very easily.

In the Golden Age if any person would do any bad deed or any sin the whole country had to suffer the consequences of that action. In the Silver Age if a person committed any sin or made any mistake, his whole city had to suffer the consequences of that bad karma, and in the Copper Age if a person had committed any sin or made any mistake his family had to suffer the consequences. But in the Iron Age, if a wife commits a sin, she has to suffer the consequences herself, if a husband commits a sin, he has to suffer himself. If one hand has done any mistake or has committed a sin only that hand will suffer the consequences, only that hand will suffer the karma of that. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “As far as suffering the consequences of the karma is concerned, this Iron Age is the best age because in this age only he who does the karma has to suffer its consequences; it does not fall upon the other people.” Whoever does the deeds, bad or good, only he is responsible for that and only he suffers or enjoys the consequences of those karmas.

QUESTION: In South America, Dr. Molina recommended during Satsang to keep our attention fixed on the Master’s third eye; is it better to fix your attention on the Master’s third eye or on His physical eyes?

SANT JI: What Dr. Molina said is correct regarding looking at the Master during Satsang. Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say also, “Your attention should be so much concentrated on the Form of the Master that you should not even pay any attention to the person who may be sitting next to Him; you should not pay any attention to the things which are behind the Master; if there is any noise or disturbances, your attention should not even go there; you should be continuously concentrated on the Form of the Master.” And He used to say that you should try to look into the Eyes of the Master because the flow of the Shabd, or the flow of the Light, is coming through the eyes of the Master. When we will try to look into both of the eyes of the Master our attention will go automatically to the eye center, that will become our center point.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say, “If you contemplate upon a dirty person, your mind will become dirty, you will get the dirty qualities of that dirty person, but if we contemplate upon a person who has good qualities, we also get the same good qualities which that person has.” When we put our attention on the Form of the Master and when we go on concentrating on His Form, we start getting all the good qualities which the Master has.

Baba Sawan Singh Ji used to tell a story from the Mahabharata about one boy who was from the low caste of Bhil; he wanted to learn the skill of archery. So he went to Drohnacharya who was the teacher of both the Korovas and Pandavas. When that low caste boy asked Drohnacharya to teach him the skill of archery, since Drohnacharya was the teacher of the prince and the royal family, he rejected him. He said, “I cannot teach you.” But that boy had much love and respect for Drohnacharya and he wanted to learn that skill so when he came back to his home, in his hut he made an idol of Drohnacharya. And every day he would sit in front of that idol for a couple of hours contemplating the form of Drohnacharya and he would internally request for that skill. So gradually he learned all the skills, all the things which Drohnacharya was teaching to the other boys from the prince’s family. If Drohnacharya had been going within, he would have known and he would have stopped that boy from learning that skill but since Drohnacharya was not going within, he could not do that. But because of his contemplation, because of concentrating on the form of Drohnacharya, that boy of the Bhil caste learned every skill, he learned everything.

Once when Drohnacharya was wandering here and there in the forest with his disciples, both Korovas and Pandavas, they saw a deer coming from the other side and there was an arrow through his mouth yet the deer was still alive. Arjuna who was the best student of Drohnacharya, asked him, “Master, you have said that I am your best disciple and that you have taught me every single skill and you have taught me so many things which you have not taught to anybody else, but what is this? I see this deer, but you have not taught me this trick [of stitching the deer’s mouth closed with an arrow]. This must have been done by a disciple of yours, because I know that in this world there is nobody else who teaches archery better than you do.”

Then that Bhil boy came out and confessed, “I have done this; I know this skill.” Drohnacharya was surprised so he asked him, “Who taught you this skill and who is your teacher?”

That boy replied, “Master, you are my teacher; you have taught me everything.” Drohnacharya remembered that he had rejected him, so he said, “No that is not true, I did not teach you.” That boy said, “Yes, it is a fact that you did not teach me outwardly, you had rejected me, but come with me.” And in the hut he showed the idol of Drohnacharya to everybody and he said, “I had love and affection for you, so every day I was sitting in front of this idol and contemplating on this form and internally you have taught me everything.”

Now Drohnacharya was not a Saint – he did not go within – so he did not have appreciation for the real disciple. He did not know that he should appreciate the love and affection of the disciple who was contemplating on his form. In order to keep his promise to Arjuna – that Arjuna was his best disciple – he didn’t want that boy to be better than

Arjuna, so in order to prevent him from continuing with his archery, he asked for some kind of offering which the disciple is supposed to give to the Master. He said, “You have taken me as your teacher but you did not give me anything.”

That boy was devoted to Drohnacharya and he had a lot of love and affection for him so he said, “Master, whatever you want I will be very happy to give it to you.”

Drohnacharya was a narrow-minded person so he said, “You give me the thumb of your right hand.” That boy did not hesitate a moment to cut off his thumb and after that he could not do archery.

But the meaning of telling this story is that that boy, even though he was rejected by Drohnacharya, still because he contemplated on his form, he learned all the skills, even better skills than Drohnacharya had taught Arjuna or the other disciples.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say this regarding the importance of the darshan of the Master, “After you have had the darshan of the Master in the Satsang, after the Satsang is over and after Master has gone away from your sight, you should not talk with anyone. It will be best to sit in the meditation and not talk with anybody so that you will absorb that darshan, that Grace, deep in your within.” What happens if you talk after the Satsang? You lose the Grace, the benefit, which you have obtained by having the darshan of the Master and your heart becomes empty.

Once in Bucaramanga I was singing the glory of the darshan of Beloved Master Kirpal. I was saying how the physical form of the Master is also full of Light, it is Light itself, from the tips of the Masters’ toes to the top of Their head They are all Light. But now it all depends on our receptivity; it all depends upon our vessel; it all depends on which kind of eye we have made for having the darshan of the Master. Because Masters are Light, but not everybody can see that, not everybody can realize that They are full of Light and They are nothing else than Light. Kabir Sahib says, “Some people come to the Master with love, some people come to the Master with duality and with bad feelings; but Masters pay no attention to that love or the bad feelings. They accept and appreciate both of them coming, but it all depends upon our receptivity and upon our feelings how we see the Master, how we appreciate His Being.”

About fifteen or twenty years ago in Rajasthan there were not many good roads, there were not so many canals, there were not so many television sets nor radios, and the minds of people were very pure. They were innocent people, and just by giving them a little impetus, just by giving them a little understanding, they would start doing the devotion of the Lord, because their minds and their thoughts were not spread so much into this world. This was the reason that when Master Kirpal came to my ashram, all the people who had His darshan, even though not all of them were initiates, but all of them said that they had had the darshan of the Master in His Real Form, the Form of the Light; they had seen the Master turning into Light, all Light. This was only because their minds were not so swift and they were not spread into the world.

So when I was talking about all this in Bucaramanga, at that time there were many dear ones sitting there who had made their eye, who were fortunate ones to get that realization of the Master. And many people even tried to capture that thing in the camera and some people were successful, they sent me the pictures. Many people saw that the Form of the Master had turned into the Form of Light.

The mind of the western dear ones is very much spread in the world; it works too much. That is why, even after having a very high experience at the time of Initiation, they are not ready to accept it and even then they say, “Maybe it was a trick of the mind, it was not the valid experience.” This is only because their mind works too much. In this group there is a girl who was initiated in 1977 during my first tour at Sant Bani Ashram, she did not have any experience of either Sound or Light at the time of Initiation but she told me that she knew what was the reason behind it. I told her that if she would meditate with love and faith in the Master she would definitely get the experience. So after a year or so she got the experience of both Sound and Light and since she did the meditation lovingly and faithfully she got that experience and she says that now she gets the experience of both Light and Sound. I mean to say that those people whose mind is not working too much, those people whose mind and thoughts are not very much spread into this world, they get the experience very soon, even if they have not had the experience at the time of Initiation, later on, when they continue with the meditation, they get the experience.

Those who know the importance of the Master, they bloom like a flower when they have the darshan of the Master. Guru Arjan Dev Ji says, “When I look at the Form of the Master I bloom like the lotus; I become very happy.”

QUESTION: Master I have a good western mind and it is very active. Frequently there are stories that go on in my mind, they are violent or extreme forms of the five dacoits doing things and I wonder what burden the soul has to suffer for the activities of the mind. If those actions are stopped at the mind rather than being manifested in speech or an action, is the soul still responsible for those thoughts? And do those thoughts continue unless you are doing Simran until you finally reach Sat Naam?

SANT JI: Whatever thoughts we go on thinking during the day when we are lying down or when we are doing other things of the world all those things which we think, following our mind, obeying our mind, these are the only things which are bothering us and these are the only things which are keeping us away from God. You see that mind is an agent of Negative Power, of that Power that has created this world. It is his duty to prevent every soul from doing the meditation of Shabd Naam and he is performing his duty very honestly, doing the job of his Master very honestly, and very correctly. And soul is the essence of Sat Purush, she has forgotten her existence and she has lost all her energy, she has become very weak. Mind does not have any power of his own, but He is taking the power from the soul and is making soul weak. It is like a vine which does not have any roots in the ground, but that vine takes energy from whatever tree that vine is growing on, and makes that tree weak. In the same way, our mind has been thrown over our soul and he is taking the power from our soul and making her weak.

I will give you another example to make you understand how it works. You know that the silkworms make the silk thread from their mouth; they do it lovingly. They just spin out the silk and it goes on forming a cocoon around their body. And finally the people who collect that silk take that cocoon and put it on the fire. In order to refine their silk, they have to kill that worm who has produced that silk. So in the same way, the seed which is sown by our mind, although it is formed by our mind, we are responsible for it. Since the mind is making something like a cocoon around the soul, that is why whatever deed we have done, obeying our mind, or whatever seed which is sown by our mind, our soul also has to suffer the consequences of that. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Our soul has to suffer the consequences of the seed which is sown by the mind just like that insect which produces the silk has to suffer.” Mind has created all the differences and disputes in this world; mind is the only one who has humiliated all the Rishis, munis, and the other people in this world. Kabir Sahib says, “This mind is a great humiliator, he always humiliates people; if I tell him that he is like that he will get upset at me. When I tell him to walk in the direction of the Master, he is not ready to even take one step in that direction.”

If we wisely think about this, if we honestly think about this, we will know that in this world we do not have any enemy. Our only enemy is in our within; the mind is our enemy.

I often say that when you sit for the meditation you should refuse your mind. You should tell him, “Neither will we listen to your talk nor will we make you listen to our talk.”

Kabir Sahib has said, “Following the mind, first the person goes in the forest, and afterwards he comes back into the city; and in this way, following the mind, he goes into the cycle of eighty-four lakhs births and deaths.” He said that first the mind creates the yearning within us that we should go into the forest and do the devotion of Lord, and after the person goes into the forest and starts doing the devotion, many other people come to respect him. They bring a lot of things for him. After eating all those things, and after getting all the name and fame, intoxication comes into the mind and the mind feels like coming back into the city and enjoying the things of the world. When he comes back to the city he gets involved in the worldly things and as a result he goes into the cycle of eighty-four lakhs births and deaths. So it is only because of the mind that first he tries to become a renunciate; but when he does that, afterwards the same mind brings him back to the city and makes him do such things which take him to the cycle of eighty-four lakhs.

Mind is very deceptive, first he will make you do the bad karma and then he will make you realize that you made a mistake.

Just imagine, when you have a thought of lust in your mind, in order to fulfill that thought, in order to fulfill that desire, you will have to take support of someone. A man will have to take the support of a woman, and the woman will have to take the support of a man, because such a karma can only be done if two people are involved in that. And you know that lust becomes the cause of disgrace. Many times it happens that people who are involved in lust do not even see the person standing next to them because lust is such a madness.

In the same way, when we have thoughts of anger, in order to get rid of them, it seems important that in order to get rid of that we will either have to beat someone or we will have to fight with someone and unless we do that our mind remains restless.

The form of the person with whom you have fought will stand in your mind and you will not remember the Form of the Master; and your attention, your thoughts, will be spread all over. So neither the angry person nor the unchaste person can do the devotion of Lord, because the attention gets spread all over in the world by the anger, and by lust the attention goes down.

I have always said that in our mind the meeting of four counsels: mind, intellect, consciousness, and egoism, is always going on; it is always in progress there, and they always create one or another thought.

Mind creates a thought and consciousness makes a sketch of it, makes a figure or form of it, and the egoism strengthens that thought and inspires you that you have to do this thing. And finally we do that bad deed, we do that karma. So that is why we should never let our mind create any thought within us because when we do the deed according to the thought created by the mind, our soul also has to suffer its consequences.

QUESTION: My question is three parts. One, concerning the Charged Names: Your voice is music in the Shabd; should we hear Your voice saying the Charged Names? Two, it has been said that Master Kirpal was the most beautiful, but it has also been said that Sawan was the most beautiful man you have ever seen. I wanted to know if there is any difference, are all Masters completely beautiful? Thirdly, about karmas: if we see an animal suffering on the road and it is surely to die by being hit by a car, if it is suffering very much, is it our right to help it go on and end its life. Or say if a mouse is caught by a cat should we chase the cat away so the mouse can get away?

SANT JI: [Sant Ji laughs] When the group goes to Rajasthan usually I repeat the Simran for them; but I tell them that they should not record that Simran, they should not record the Simran in my voice, because you have to do the Simran yourself. The Sound which you are told to hear in the within, to listen to within, when you will go within, you will realize that that sound was the voice of your Master and the Master was calling you to come into the within.

Love is the most beautiful thing. Bodies also may be beautiful, but love is the most beautiful thing. When we love someone, even if that person looks like an animal still we will find him the most beautiful thing, the most beautiful face in the world.

I have seen Master Sawan Singh from a very close distance, and for a long time I got the opportunity to see Him. The most beautiful thing is our love which is within us, because when we look at the form of the Master with love and faith, the rays of our love will be reflected by the body of the Master and then we will see Him as the most beautiful being in the world. So it is our own love which makes the person whom we love appear to be the most beautiful.

Many people in this world saw Master Kirpal Singh. If all of them had seen Him as the most beautiful being in the world then do you think those people of that certain party who wrote a book against Him, who criticized Him, would have done that? Saints love everyone but unless we have love for Them, unless we have real faith for Them, we cannot see Their beauty, we cannot see Their love.

Once a man from Punjab came to my ashram when Master Kirpal was there. He had a very big turban on his head, and he came there and when he was talking to Master, he said, "I am not seeing the Light; I am not hearing the Sound. You said that when I would meditate, I would see Light and hear the Sound." So he was complaining about not seeing those things, about not having the inner experiences.

I was also standing there and I was looking at the beautiful form of the Master. On that day He had a little shawl-like thing, wrapped around His body and He was looking very beautiful. So in my heart I was saying, “Everybody is looking for the experiences and for the inner beauty, but I see You as the most beautiful thing.” I was thinking in my heart, “Is there any other light in this world which is worth seeing other than the Light of the Master? Is there any other music or any other sound in this world which is worth listening to, other than the music or the voice of the Master?”

I was an initiate of Master Kirpal and the other dear one who had come from the Punjab also was an initiate of Master Kirpal. He was complaining about not seeing the things in his within and I was feeling very happy because I was seeing His real glory, His real beauty outside. So you see that it all depends on our receptivity, it all depends on how much love we have for the Master and how we see the things in Him.

You know that when we people write letters to the Master we always talk about our problems, we always ask for some things of the world and even when we come into the interview, when we talk to Him we again present the same problems of the world and we again ask for the worldly things. But when I used to see my Master, when I used to talk with Him, I had only one prayer in my heart and that was, “Your Eyes are the dyer, Your Eyes are the dye-stuff, the color, and Your Eyes are the ones who will dye the color of my eyes. My eyes have become the servant of Your Eyes; and I am very happy to be Your servant. I will not ask for any kind of payment because I just need Your darshan.” I was telling Him, “I do not mind working for You, for my eyes are the servant of Your Eyes, and I only want that You should give me the color of Your Eyes. You should change my eyes into the color of Your Eyes so that I may always have Your darshan.”

Regarding the third part of your question: you see, when we are living in this world, even if we go into the very depth of all these things, if you try to split hairs it is not possible. But I would say, in that context, that we should try our best to help other beings, to help people or creatures who are in need.

Long ago there was one Muslim Fakir who once went to Mecca. In those days there were not many means of transportation, so he was walking to Mecca, and he had some food that he was carrying with him. After walking for the whole day, he stopped in a mosque to spend the night. During the night some ants got into his food; the next morning he again started walking and, after walking for about twenty miles, he felt like eating the food. When he opened his bag he found that there were so many ants in there. He felt much pity for them and thought, “Some ants would have raised their eggs in that mosque where they got into my food, and some may have left some baby ants over there. If I will remove them from my food here, they will all die, because they will be here and they will be crying for their eggs or for their babies.” So since he had pity and mercy on them, he went all the way back the twenty miles he had walked; he removed those ants from his food in the same mosque where he had spent the night. So I mean to say that those who have love for God they also love his creatures.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, when I was here two years ago I was married to one of your disciples, but since then we have gotten divorced. I feel very bad about what’s happened, because I have a lot of anger towards this woman; we fought a lot in our marriage and I criticized her very much, both to her face and behind her back, and I treated her very badly. I prayed a lot to the Master to forgive me, but I feel that because you sit inside her,

I hurt Your feelings too. I am wondering if I can ever be forgiven for that criticism, and the divorce?

SANT JI: I have often said that it is not a bad thing to get married. It is like taking some companion in life, to do the journey of this life comfortably while accompanying each other. But what happens when we get into this sacred union? Instead of keeping it sacred and instead of keeping it full of love, we make it dirty with the dirt of the worldly pleasures and passions; that is why all our love is lost from the marriage.

Before getting married to any person you should think about that person, not once, not twice, but, if you want, you can think about that person thousands of times, millions of times, you can take your time, you can think for months, you can think about that person a lot of times. But after you get married to that person you should always maintain the sacred union. Once you have made the promises with each other, saying, “I will respect you, and you will respect me, and we both will live together until the end of the life” you should maintain those promises; you should maintain that sacred union. After you have gotten married it is not good to get separated from each other or to get divorced.

No Saint has ever approved of divorce. They always say that both the husband and wife should live in such a way that [they feel as though] one soul lives in two different bodies. And they should part from each other only when the death separates them.

When the dear ones ask me about divorce, I feel as though the earth under my feet is shaking, is moving, because I feel very bad about it. And I always say that if there is any difficulty in the married life, if there is any disunity, you should talk about it with each other. You should sit alone and talk about it. The husband should come a little closer to the wife and the wife should also come a little closer to the husband. If there are any misunderstandings, they should be removed, and by talking and by loving each other, they should create such an atmosphere that the situation for getting the divorce may not arise, because divorce is not the real solution for all the problems.

Regarding criticism I have always said that those who criticize not only lose in this world, but they also lose their spiritual wealth. If a person is criticizing his own worldly companion he is losing a lot.

Regarding marriage I have said a lot in the past; I have said that even if it is a bitter juice, still you should drink it, because that is better for you. Because the mind who makes us love one person and hate the other person now, it is possible that the same mind will make us love some other person the next day, and he will make us hate the same person whom we are loving now. So we should not become like a toy in the hands of the mind and we should remain strong in maintaining our married life.

1990 March: What We Should Ask of the Master

This question and answer session was given January 28, 1990, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan, India.

QUESTION: Beloved Sant Ji, from Satsang and the sacred writings of the Masters we are told that Master has two forms. He has the outer or physical Form, and He has the inner or Shabd Form. The physical form must in the Will of God obey the laws of nature in the physical plane and He is not allowed to show miracles nor attract attention to Himself by showing His true glory in an outer way. It seems that we dear ones often present many questions to the Master which are like personal problems or decisions which will determine the direction of our future, and we expect the outer Master to provide a definite, clear yes/no, do/don't type answer which we then somehow understand as an order which we have to obey.

But since this may not be the role which the outer Master is supposed to fulfill, He may sometimes give a reply which puts the responsibility of that decision back on the shoulders of the dear one. He does not answer that question very clearly, because He wants the disciples to learn to develop their own faculty of discrimination and other God-given resources which are already within us and which God has provided to us for finding our way through the challenges, difficulties, and decisions which life in this world constantly presents.

Would Sant Ji comment on which things the disciples should request from the physical Form of the Master? What is the appropriate and respectful way to use the precious contact we have with His outer Form, and which things are in the Will of God for the outer Master to do for the disciples? ... and what should we do for ourselves by relying upon His constant presence within us in His Shabd Form and how can we develop and use our own discrimination and receptivity to find the answers by ourselves rather than constantly putting all our worldly questions and problems on the physical form of the Master.

[question edited for clarity]

SANT JI: The question is very good and it can be very helpful to many dear ones, but whenever you put a question you should try to make it brief, because the dear ones understand the answers to the brief questions in a much better way.

Most of the things which the dear one has asked in this question are answered in the Satsangs, but we people do not pay any attention to the Satsangs. It is not that everybody does not pay attention; there are some people who pay a lot of attention to the Satsang. But most of these things are always mentioned in the Satsangs: what are our faults and what should we ask from the Master and what we should not ask from the Master. These things are mentioned many times in the Satsangs.

Often I advise the dear ones that they should subscribe to Sant Bani Magazine. You get it once a month and you people spend a lot of money on buying the magazine, so when you get that magazine you should read it thoroughly, because most of such questions are answered in the magazine. Many Satsangs are published, and many question and answer sessions are also published. So if you would read the magazine thoroughly, you can get the answer to most of your questions.

Now I would like to explain the answer to this question to you. In order to understand the answer to this question we will have to go very deep, and we should understand this. A part of this question was asked by Baba Sawan Singh to Baba Jaimal Singh.

Master has given us the greatest gift of Naam and He always encourages us outwardly through His outer form to meditate on the Naam. He encourages us not just by talking to us, but He Himself sits in meditation, and presenting a living example to us, He encourages us to meditate. Also in His Satsangs, in His discourses, whenever He talks to us, He tells us that we have to protect ourselves from lust, anger, greed, attachment and egoism, those five dacoits who are plundering our meditations, who are plundering our souls, and who have made us spiritually bankrupt. He tells us all these things and He tells us how we have to keep our life pure, and He tells us many other things outwardly through His outer form, through His physical form those things which we should do in order to progress in meditation. Swami Ji Maharaj also said that the Master has two Forms: one is the outer, another is the inner. And what did He say to His Master? He said, “Oh my Master! You show me Your Real Form. Even though I love this outer form also, but You show me Your Inner Form also.” Master Sawan Singh and Master Kirpal Singh were the greatest of those souls who came into this world, but still, how much love They had for Their Master, and how hard They worked in order to give us the demonstration. And we know what They asked from Their Master, what questions They asked from Their Master. So thinking and remembering what They did, we need to understand a lot.

Most of the dear ones, whenever they get to see the Inner Form of the Master, they misunderstand it and they think it is a dream which they have had of the Master. But often I have said, “Dear ones, the vision of the Master which you get is not a dream” – because we get the dreams only when our soul drops down from the eye center and goes into the lower organs of the body, and then, according to the thoughts of the past day, we have the dreams. But the Master is very pure and holy: He never goes below in the lower organs of the body, because what is there in the organs of the body? It is only filled with dirt, and the Master never goes there. What happens at that time when we have a vision of the Master, which we often misunderstand as a dream of the Master? Whenever our mind is quiet and peaceful, then Master graciously lifts our soul up through His gracious and loving sight, with the hook of His Love, and in that way He takes us into the higher planes and He blesses us with His Inner Form. But we people think that it was just like any other dream, and so we do not take advantage of it. Often you will find a lot of happiness and peace after you have had such a vision of the Master. Some dear souls who get such Grace from the Master, do not misunderstand it, and for many days they often remember that Form of the Master which they have seen inside, and in that way, taking advantage of that remembrance of that Form of the Master, they progress in meditation.

Once, regarding the Inner Form of the Master, Baba Sawan Singh Ji asked Baba Jaimal Singh, “Master, sometimes Master comes within and says ‘yes’ to something, He answers that question, but that does not happen outwardly. Master does not shower His Grace like that. What is the reason?” So Baba Jaimal Singh said, “Often it happens when the disciple is meditating and the Master appears, that the disciple in all his excitement does not think about what he is asking from the Master, and whatever he asks, Master says, “Okay, that will be granted,” or “You will have this.” But when the Master sees that this will be bad for his spiritual progress, then the Master does not give what He promised to him within.

The dear ones who go within and connect themselves with the Almighty Lord every day know the Reality. They have seen the Reality and that is why the worldly things are of no use to them. So they do not present any worldly questions; they do not ask anything from the Master, because they are in constant connection with the Master within every day. But those dear ones who occasionally go within, or if Master graciously pulls them up some time, then they ask so many worldly things of the Master, and when the answers which the Master has told them do not happen outwardly, then they become confused. So the best thing would be that the dear ones would go within every day, so that if there was any confusion the next day they could clarify that with the Master. If the things do not happen according to what the Master has said, then they themselves can go within and clarify with the Master the next day.

Dear ones, the jivas are very ignorant. They are more ignorant than a five-year-old child. You know that a five-year-old child is very ignorant. He does not know that it is not good for him to put his hand in the fire. But the parents are very wise, and they know that if he puts his hand in the fire he will get burned. So that is why they always keep him away from the fire, and whenever he tries to put his hand in the fire they tell him, “No, it is not good for you,” and they always stop him from doing that. But the child gets upset, because he does not know why the parents are telling him not to do that. Similarly, suppose the child has a cold, he is coughing. The parents will not give him anything which will increase his cough. But he wants to eat the sour pickle, which will increase his cough. The parents say “No, you should not eat this.” He does not understand that it is only for his health that his parents are not giving him the pickle. He does not understand, and he gets upset, and throws himself on the ground, etc. But the parents are wise, and they do not give him the pickle.

The same is our condition. We people do not know. We are very ignorant ones, and we do not know what is good and what is bad for us. We see all the outer things in this physical world, all the material things in this world, and we always desire those things. We do not know what things are good and what are not good for us. Therefore, when we ask for all those things from the Master, He has to use His discrimination, and He has to decide which things will be good for us. And when we do not get the things which we desire, then we get upset. But our Master is like that wise parent who knows what is good and what is not good for us. He does not give us anything which will be harmful to us.

We do not know what the Master wants to give to us, and we do not know what He has for us. He wishes that while we are living we should go within and go back to our Real Home. He wants us to sit on that Throne which belongs to our Almighty Lord. He wants us to go back to our Real Home, but we people do not understand, and that is why we do not take any advantage of the Forms of the Master, and instead of asking for the inner grace, we always go on asking outer things from the Form of the Master.

Many times I have told this story in Satsang, and I will repeat it again. It is the story about a wood cutter. Once there was a king who had gone into the forest for hunting. He lost his way and he became very thirsty. A woodcutter was cutting wood in that forest. He had some water with him. So the king, who was very thirsty, came there looking for water, and the woodcutter gave him some water to drink. You know how much a thirsty man appreciates it when he is given water, because he thinks that the one who has given him the water has saved his life. So the king was very pleased with that woodcutter, and he said, “I am a king, and since you have saved my life, I will give you something very valuable. I will give you a sandalwood garden, so that you may live your life very comfortably.”

Now that woodcutter did not have any appreciation for sandalwood; he did not know how valuable sandalwood is. He thought that sandalwood was like any other wood. So he began cutting down all the sandalwood trees. He would burn it and make it into charcoal and then sell it in the market; and in that way he continued earning his living as he had been doing before.

After some time the king needed some sandalwood, so he thought of sending his people to that woodcutter, thinking that he might have a lot of sandalwood and he might be living his life very comfortably, because sandalwood was very expensive. But when his people went there, they were surprised to see that there was not a single sandalwood tree left. Everything had been turned into charcoal. So they asked him if he had any piece of sandalwood. He said, “No, I don’t have anything. You can see that I have cut down the whole garden of sandalwood trees, and I have made it into charcoal and sold it. I don’t have anything.”

But they wanted some piece of sandalwood, so they asked, “Isn’t there anything left?” He said, well, there is this small piece, which I have made into the handle of my axe.” So they bought that small piece of sandalwood from him, and in return they gave him a lot of money. When he realized that the small piece of sandalwood was worth that much, he felt terrible; and then he realized that he had not appreciated the sandalwood which he had been given. He had not even appreciated the fragrance of the sandalwood, but had cut down all the sandalwood trees. And he felt so depressed and sad about what he had done, he left his body right there, in that state of depression.

This is just a story. In reality, what is the sandalwood which God Almighty has given to us? Master has given us the greatest gift of Naam, which is the sandalwood garden, but we people do not appreciate the fragrance of the sandalwood. What is the fragrance of the sandalwood? The presence of the Living Master is the fragrance of the sandalwood which inspires us to go within and see that reality which God Almighty has placed within us. But we people do not appreciate the fragrance. We people do not appreciate the gift of God, the Naam which God Almighty has given to us; and so we go on wasting the gift of Naam, we go on wasting this precious birth which God Almighty has given us, in doing all the worldly things. We always go on indulging in the worldly things, and in the end what happens? Like that woodcutter, we leave this body, we leave this world, without gaining anything.

But the Master Who has given us Initiation is not careless. He always looks after our soul, even if He leaves the physical body and goes back to His Real Home Sach Khand. He always thinks about our welfare, our betterment, and He always tries to think of one way or another through which He can help us. So in many ways He again encourages us. He inspires us to meditate on Naam, and somehow He makes us meditate on the Naam. Afterwards, when we leave the body and our Master takes us up and makes us sit on that throne which is in Sach Khand, and when He rewards us for that little bit of meditation which we may have done, then we come to realize that if the meditation was so valuable, why didn’t we do it with our every single breath. Then our condition becomes like that of the woodcutter. We feel depressed and disappointed, and we regret that we didn’t take advantage of the precious time which God Almighty had given to us, and we didn’t meditate. But the Master Who has given us Initiation is never careless. Whatever meditation we do, He always rewards us for that. But if we had appreciated Him earlier, we would have spent all our time doing the meditation and going within, and we would have not wasted any time asking Him the outer questions.

What should we ask from the outer form of the Master, and what are the things about which we should rely on the outer form of the Master? It is true that God Almighty has given us this faculty of discrimination, and there are many things which we have to decide ourselves, and the Masters also tell us to use our discrimination and make decisions ourselves. But the ways of the Master are very unique. You know that through the Satsangs They touch upon almost all the things which happen in our life, and They answer almost all the questions. Many times They go into very deep detail in answering our worldly questions, and also, since the Masters do not interfere in our worldly lives, They leave many things for us to determine, and many decisions for us to make. Dear ones, the mission of any Perfect Master is not dependent on any Vedas or Shastras, or upon any holy Scriptures. The mission of the Perfect Saints is dependent only upon the Naam – upon God Almighty and upon the Master Who has given Them this work of giving the Naam Initiation.

Even then, the Masters quote from the writings of the past Mahatmas, past Masters, only to make us understand that They are not telling us anything new – so that we may not feel that the Masters are saying anything different from what the other Masters have said. They tell us, “We are not saying anything new to you; all these things have been said previously by the past Masters.”

Often I have said that Master Sawan Singh Ji used to tell the dear ones in the sangat that those who go to the Masters expecting the Master to cure them of their illness, or to help them win some lawsuit, or sort out the problems in their home – those who go to the Master expecting all these worldly things – they should not bother going to the Satsang, because what can such people gain from Sant Mat?

Many people who used to go within in the time of Baba Sawan Singh know very well how many years earlier Master Sawan Singh had to leave this world only because He was burdened with all the problems of the dear ones. Similarly those who used to go within also know how many years earlier Master Kirpal Singh left the body and how much He had to suffer physically. He also had to undergo an operation and many other difficulties, and He also left earlier. We people do not understand this, and still we go on burdening the physical form of the Master with all our problems and outer things.

This does not mean that if we are not opening up our heart in front of the Master, if we are not telling Him about our pains and problems, He will not help us. It is not like that. If we are doing our Bhajan and Simran, whatever amount is feasible, He helps us in that way, and wherever we need the help of the Master, He extends all feasible help to us. If a bad person goes to prison because of doing something bad, and if he continues to be a bad person and also creates troubles in the prison, then what would the authorities there do? They would make his imprisonment even stronger, they would put him in a stronger room; and also, he would be looked upon as a troublemaker, and it is possible that his sentence might be increased. But another person who is not a bad person but somehow had to go to prison because something went wrong, if he lives according to the rules and regulations of the prison and does not create any problems there, then the authorities have mercy upon him and they may reduce the sentence which he has to suffer there.

Is the One in Whose remembrance we are sitting not looking at us? Whenever we are sitting in His remembrance, He is always looking at us. But we people, because we are involved in our ego, that is why whenever anything good happens we say that we have done it, and whenever anything goes bad we always blame it on the Master. But the Master Who is sitting within us, in Whose remembrance we are sitting, knows everything about us and He is constantly watching us. Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Even without your asking, He knows everything about you. To whom are you making the prayers?”

Regarding those who go within, Guru Nanak Sahib says that such people say, “Oh Lord, to ask anything from You except You is like asking for more sufferings. Kindly give us Naam, which would give us more contentment, and the hunger of our mind would be satiated.” In his Vars, Bhai Gurdas has written that even the tree under which the Master sits becomes so pleased and so blessed that it gets liberation from that body of a tree. And even if a ghost has the darshan of the Master in his astral form, he becomes free from that body. And even the stones get liberation. What is difficult for one who goes into the refuge of the Master to get liberation? But only if we have faith, if we have constant faith and love for the Master, can we get liberation.

The jiva does not know whether the worldly things which he is asking from the Master are good for him or bad for him. The Saints come into this world to liberate us. We are the ones who are involved in the worldly things, and They have come into the world to liberate us. If we are asking Them for worldly things again, then?

So Guru Nanak Sahib asked only for Naam from His Master. He said, “Oh Master, give me the Naam, which will give me contentment so that the hunger of my mind may be fulfilled.” He said, “Oh Lord, if You want to give me anything, give me Naam.”

You know that Master Kirpal had the gift of being all-conscious right from His childhood, but He never used that. And when He went to His Master, what did He ask from Him? He said, “Master, give me only respectful love for You.” Because He knew that Baba Sawan Singh was a great Power, He was God, and He knew what to ask from God, what to ask from the Perfect Master. That is why He asked only for respectful love for the Master. Those who go in the higher planes and have seen the glory of the Master within, they are the only ones who have real love and appreciation for the Master, and only they know what they should ask from the Master.

Master Kirpal Singh Ji used to say that at Master Sawan Singh’s end time when people were making all the prayers, at that time Master Sawan Singh said, “If you want to give me more opportunity to do the seva, if you want me to remain here and do more seva for you, then kindly do not write me letters with worldly problems. If you want, you can write me letters about Bhajan and Simran, about meditation, but do not burden me with all your worldly problems, because you have already burdened me a lot. Now you know that I have become old, so before putting any more burden on me, at least you should consider that I have become older.”

Hazrat Bahu said that the heart of the lover of God is as soft as wax, and the hearts of the worldly lovers are black. He said, “You know that whenever we ask for anything from the Master, whenever we tell Him about our pains and problems, His heart is like wax and it melts easily and He is affected.” Master Kirpal Singh Ji used to say that most of the things that we ask of the Master are those things which, if we got them, we could never progress on the Spiritual Path. All the worldly things which we ask from the Master will not help us, in fact they will become obstacles on our Spiritual Path, that is why Master does not give them to us. Master does only those things which He should be doing.

Master Kirpal Singh Ji used to say that if the Perfect Masters went on granting the wishes and desires of the disciples, even if They came millions of times into this world and even if They gave millions of human births to the disciples, still They could not take them inside. They could not take the disciples back to the Real Home because the desires and wishes of the disciples would never stop. So that is why He always grants only that wish of the disciple which is helpful for his spiritual growth. But most of the things that we ask of the worldly nature are such which will not help us but will create an obstacle in our Spiritual Path.

Master used to say that at the time of Initiation, the Perfect Masters make an arrangement within the disciples so that on one side they go on paying off the karmas which they have to pay, and on the other side they also go on progressing spiritually.

We should take advantage of the precious time which we get with the Master in the interviews. Not everybody is like that. There are many dear ones who understand the value of that precious time; they do not waste it in asking the worldly questions. But most of the dear ones, when they come in the interview, they always talk about their worldly things.

Master Sawan Singh was very strict. He said, “I will not answer any questions, any letter, which has worldly problems in it. I will only answer questions regarding Bhajan and Simran.” Master Kirpal Singh Ji also did the same thing, and I also made this request in front of all the dear ones in the sangat, that they should write me questions only about Bhajan and Simran. If they will ask me anything of the worldly nature, I will not answer their letters.

If you want to write letters to the Master, it should be only about spiritual matters. You should not write any worldly problems in it; you should only ask about Bhajan and Simran and the spiritual matters. In the same way, if you are coming for an interview, you should take advantage of that precious time. It will be beneficial for you if you will not ask any worldly things in your interview.

Saints do not interfere in the worldly lives of Their disciples, and They do not impose any of Their ideas on Their disciples as far as worldly matters go. They have left the disciple free. Whatever they want, they can do it. But They do tell us that if you do the Bhajan and Simran your soul will get strength, and whatever you have to face according to the karmas of the past, if you are doing Bhajan and Simran your soul will get strength, and you will get the strength to bear the consequences, to suffer the consequences of what you have done in the past. And They always tell us that we should try to avoid creating more karmas, and whatever we have to pay off from the past, we should do it happily.

Well, if I want I could go on talking on this subject for many days and still it would not be enough. Since the time is up I hope that whatever little I have said you will understand this and you will live up to it.

If the Satsangis would do their Bhajan and Simran, the mind would not create any questions in them. What happens? Our mind creates questions because we do not do the meditation and we want our Master to answer those questions. Are we doing the devotion of the mind? Or are we doing the devotion of the Master? Why not do the meditation so that we may become free from all these thoughts, these questions, and fantasies created by the mind which are bothering us.

Dear ones, we have made our mind our owner, our everything, and instead of obeying the commandments of the Master, we ask our Master to obey us. Master gives us the great gift of Naam, and He has taken our responsibility on His shoulders. He takes us to our Real Home and makes us speak in front of Almighty Lord, and whatever mistakes we have made in the past, He forgives us for that, and He always takes care of our soul. There is no doubt about this fact. Even now, many people who were initiated by Master say how the Masters came and took care of their souls. Even after going back to Sach Khand, His Real Home, our beloved Master is still looking after our soul and He is always protecting us.

1990 March: Understand and Have Faith

This question and answer session was given December 31, 1989, in Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Dearest Sant Ji, even though I do the Simran and attend Satsangs, still daily my emotions are painful, I have different fears and sadness within me so I look to other sources of relief like psychological theories, Bach Flower Remedies, and diet changes, but I worry that I might be complicating my introspection. However if I ignore the negative feelings they seem to worsen so I really don't know if these self-help methods are tools towards a healthier discipleship or in fact a distraction to my mind. Thank-you.

SANT JI: I will try to answer these questions in two different parts, I hope that will be helpful for you to understand. First is that we people get swept away in the emotions of our mind only when we do not have enough faith in the Master. When we do not have enough faith in the Master, then the mind plays tricks on us and he easily sweeps us away in his emotions and we do not even know that he is taking us away from the Master.

Reading the writings of all the Great Masters we have come to this conclusion: that God Almighty is All Pervading. Those who do His devotion, those who surrender themselves completely to the Feet of the Almighty Lord, they also become the All Pervading One, and they also are present everywhere. As God Almighty sees everything happening everywhere, similarly those who do His devotion also develop that quality, they are able to see Him as well as everything working everywhere.

Guru Gobind Singh Ji Maharaj had said, “God Almighty and the Beloved of God are one and the same thing, there is no difference in them. It is like the water and the bubble which is formed in the water.” The relationship of the Perfect Masters with God Almighty is like that of the bubble with the water. You know that when the air fills up the drop of water it becomes a bubble and when it withdraws from it, again it is water; in the same way there is no difference between the Perfect Masters and Almighty Lord.

So the Mahatmas whose inner eyes are opened, who have seen the Reality with their own eyes – that God Almighty and the Masters are one and the same – They know for sure that God Almighty is aware of every single thought of ours and He sees every single thing which we are doing. Whatever feelings or emotions we have, God Almighty is aware of them because He is within us.

When Master gives us the Initiation, He takes a seat within our body at the eye center, and in the Form of the Shabd He is always present there. Therefore, as we are sure that God Almighty knows about our every single thought, in the same way, if we believe that our beloved Master who is the Form of the Shabd is also All Pervading and He is sitting within us, then we should know that He is also like God, watching our every single action. He is also aware of every single thought and whatever feelings or emotions, whatever good or bad deeds we are doing. Whatever is going on within us our Beloved Master is very well aware of that and there is nothing we can hide from Him.

So you see that when you are sitting for meditation, if at that time you are doing something else or if you are having bad thoughts, just imagine in front of Whom you are doing that. Are you not doing that in front of your Master? Because the Master is sitting within you and instead of remembering Him with love and devotion you are bringing all these bad thoughts to Him. So you are not doing the thing which you have been told by the Master. So the disciples who know for sure that Master is within them and sees everything, they never allow their mind to create such emotions and they never get swept away in the emotions created by mind.

You all know Pappu's father very well; he was an initiate of Master Kirpal Singh Ji, a very devoted soul. When beloved Master Kirpal withdrew from His physical body and went back to His Real Home, Pappu's father did not join any party; he preferred to go to the Gurdwara every week instead, because he didn't want to get involved in any controversy. I did not know Pappu and his family; I did not know anyone in Delhi. I don't know how this link was made, only Hazur Kirpal knows how I was connected to them. But when I started going to Pappu's house in Delhi, even then Pappu's father and mother both continued to go to Gurdwara Bangasahib as a rite and ritual since Master Kirpal had left the body. I did not tell them not to do that, but after some time, when they came to know the reality, they stopped doing it by themselves. After that he became very devoted and he maintained his devotion until his end-time. When he was about to go to Canada, he was very scared because he did not know English and he was scared about what would happen on the way, and also how he would be able to answer the questions of the immigration officers. So he was very afraid. But when everything went very smoothly and he had no difficulty after reaching Canada, he sent me a tape letter in which he said, "Master, You always say that the Saints do not perform any miracles, They do not show any miracles, but I will tell You that the Saints do not do anything except performing the miracles." But the thing is that one should be receptive and then he can enjoy, he can see, the miracles of the Masters.

When we went on the first tour, at that time Pappu was not able to speak good English like he is able to do now. So about a month and a half after we started on the tour Pappu's father wrote him a letter and we got that while we were at Kirpal Ashram in Vermont. He had written the letter very lovingly as a letter of advice to Pappu, saying, "I know what the Saints are, what the Masters are; and we are very fortunate ones that we have been given this opportunity of doing the seva, and you should do the seva of the Master wholeheartedly." There was a lot of advice like that. Pappu gave me that letter to read and I told Pappu, "You preserve this letter. This is very good advice in the letter to you, and you can learn a lot from this." So you see that those who understand and have faith in the Masters, those who are always devoted to the Masters, if you tell such people to think of anything else at the time of meditation they will never do that because they have understood the Masters. That is why when they sit for meditation, they don't let their mind bother them and they only do the Simran when they are sitting in meditation.

For the last three years Pappu's father never had any worldly questions for me, whenever he came to see me he would always say, "I don't want anything except Your grace; if You would shower grace on me that would be enough."

Always from Canada he would write to me saying, "I have not come here because of my own wish, I have come here because You have sent me here and whenever You will call me back I will come." We learned that he had a very serious disease only in the last stage and there was nothing anyone could do. But you know the good children always want to give their father the best treatment, the best medical care, so Pappu and Kulwant and other family members thought, "Maybe we should send him to Canada to get the best treatment," even though they knew that nothing was going to work because he was in his final days. They made the arrangements for him to go there, but he was not interested in going there.

So Pappu's brother Kulwant and his mother came here to tell me about their trip, and even though at that time I was not well enough to travel to Delhi, but still I said that I should go there. So I went to Delhi and when he came to my room, usually he would come to see me with his wife, but on that day he came alone and I asked him why. He replied, "It is because today I want to talk to You about something very personal and I want to do it alone." So he sat there with me and talked with me about so many different things. He said, "These people have made all the arrangements for me to go but I will go only if You tell me to go." I told him that he should go, and also I asked him if he had any desire, or was anything bothering him? He said, "No, I don't have any desire; I have only one wish and that is that I should leave the body only in India. I don't want to die anywhere outside of India." So I assured him that that would happen in the Will of Lord Kirpal and he should not worry about that and he should go.

Before they went to Canada I called Kulwant and I told him, "In the west people send their dying parents to a nursing home and they let them die there. But you should not do that because we Indian people are very happy if we can die while living with our family. You should not put him into a nursing home, and anytime he wants to come back to India you should not stop him. No matter how his condition is you should make the arrangements and you should bring him back to India right away."

After some time when we saw that his condition was not getting better, I wrote him a letter saying that he should come back to India. When the people who were around him received the letter, nobody was advising him to go to India, because his health was not so good. But because he got the letter, he said, "Baba Ji has said that I should come back to India, and I want to go." And at once all the arrangements were made and he was brought to India. Whatever desire he had, that happened, and before he left he told his family members about the grace of the Master. You see how far the dear ones go in testing the Master, he even asked Pappu, "Since when has Baba Ji started wearing the cloth shoes?" Pappu replied, "It is since Bangalore; in Bangalore He bought shoes made of cloth and He is wearing them." So you see how far the disciples who have faith in the Master test the Master; they even pay attention to the clothes and the shoes the Masters are wearing.

There were many other things which he told his family members before leaving, about the grace and the protection he was getting from the Master. And the family members also were very strong and they accepted this Will of the Master. They did not mourn or weep like the worldly people do. They knew that he had gone to his Real Home and that they should not weep for him, and they also accepted the Will of Lord.

Only he is the Gurmukh, only he is the Mahatma, who abides in the Will of Almighty Lord. So the main thing behind telling all these things to you is that if you have so much faith and devotion for the Master then all your works are done by the Master. If you have developed this kind of faith and devotion for the Master you cannot afford to have any emotions, you cannot afford to have any thoughts or any feelings, or any other way in your meditation, other than the ways or the teachings of the Master. When you have given your heart to the Master how can you afford to have somebody else staying there? Kabir Sahib says, “You have given your mind to somebody else, but you have kept your body with the Master, how are you going to get the color of the Naam on your body?” Master also used to say, “Those who let other emotions, other feelings come within them at the time of meditation, and those who are involved in the other things while practicing the Path of the Masters, their condition is like an adulterous woman who does not belong to her friend, nor is she with her husband, and nobody takes care of her. So those who have understood the grace and the reality of the Master do not do anything other than the practices or instructions given by the Master.

The other part of the answer is that in Sant Mat to try any kind of remedy is not considered as a bad thing. If any remedy works for you there is nothing wrong in using that for your body because it is very important to maintain a good health since you can meditate only if you have good health.

Nowadays there is a lot of publicity in the newspaper from different kinds of healers or doctors who claim that they will help you regain your lost vitality and your lost youth; but I would say that it is all false and doesn't work, because the youth which you have lost you cannot regain no matter how many medicines or drugs you take, you will not get it back. Those drugs, those medicines, have intoxicating things in them which gives you intoxication for some time, but it is not doing any good for your body. That is why, while taking the remedies one has to be very careful.

Saints do not condemn any remedies or any medicines, but They do tell us that there is no remedy or no medicine for death, it will definitely come. Of course if you are sick and you are not physically well you can use any remedy or any medicine which will make your body well – but as far as keeping death away is concerned there is no remedy available for that. In fact Guru Arjan Dev Ji Maharaj even goes so far to say about medicine, “Only that medicine works in which there is the grace of the Master.”

Kabir Sahib says, “The doctor says ‘May you be well; it is not in my hands, it is in the hands of God Almighty, I have only medicine in my hands, this thing which is working within you is the thing of God Almighty whenever He wants He will take it out from your body.’” Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Only that doctor is competent and effective who has the complete knowledge of the medicine he is practicing, and who can diagnose the disease very well.”

So dear ones if you have any physical pains there is no harm in taking medicine. You should not hesitate to go to a doctor and get treatment from him. And when you are taking the medicine you should try to do the Simran. You should not let your mind think negative thoughts like, “Why do you have to take this medicine, why are you suffering so much,” because you know that all the pains and diseases are the reactions of our own karmas and by suffering those karmas we are paying them off.

At the times when we are not physically well we should pay more attention to the Master, and we should take advantage of that time. We should be grateful to the Master because this is an opportunity to attack our mind, because when we are happy, when everything is well we do not remember the Master as much as we do when we are sick. Swami Ji Maharaj also said, “Appreciate the time of pain, because in the time of pain we remember Him more.”

When we are sick, by taking the treatment from the doctors, in one way we are finishing our give and take with the doctors. Another benefit of getting sick is that if you do the Simran while you are sick, you are doing it sincerely and it is coming from your heart.

There are some sicknesses we get due to our own carelessness which are for a short time; they go away after we take some medicine. But other diseases are due to our own karmas. These karmic diseases do not go away even if we try so many different remedies or go to many different doctors. We do not know how much we owe to the doctors and how much give and take we have with how many doctors, that is why we have to go from doctor to doctor. We have to try so many different remedies, but until we finish all our give and take with the people concerned we cannot get rid of that sickness or disease. In such times most of the dear ones lose their faith in the Master or they lose the faith in the doctor, thinking that the doctor is not giving them the right treatment, or the Master is not showering grace on them. That should not be the attitude of the Satsangis, they should always remain grateful to the Master that they have been given this sickness, an opportunity to pay off the karmas, and they should keep trying different doctors and remedies because such karmic diseases are finished only when all the karmas of that disease are paid off. In Aryavedic literature there is a story about Goraknath who had a boil on his head for twelve years. Goraknath tried many remedies, but he could not get rid of that boil which was bothering him a lot. In the place where he used to meditate an herb was growing, and after twelve years that herb said, “Goraknath, why don’t you crush me on the ground and apply the paste to your boil and you will be all right?” Goraknath was a good meditator and he used to go up to Brahm. Those who do the meditation, who go within, even in the lower planes, they also get some kind of all consciousness, but they only get it up to the limit of Brahm. Only in Sant Mat does one become completely conscious. So Goraknath used to go within and he had some knowledge of the karmas and he knew that the boil he was suffering was karmic and it would only go away after twelve years. So when that herb said, “Why don’t you use me on your boil?” Goraknath said, “I know that the time of my suffering with this boil has finished. I am going to be all right without even using you, but since you have offered yourself, I give you this boon – from now onwards you will be called Gorakmundi. If anyone wants to remove a boil or tumor or external thing like that, they will use you and they will get relieved of their pain.” So in Aryavedic medicine that Gorakmundi medicine is still used. This story shows that no matter how many different medicines you use, if you are suffering from a karmic disease, unless the karmas are paid off you cannot get rid of that disease.

1990 April: Not Even a Leaf Can Turn

This question and answer session was given December 27, 1985, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, it seems to me that we criticize others when we feel in some way inferior ourselves. We make others wrong in order to make ourselves right. Does it follow that we must first love and accept ourselves in order for us to be able to love and accept others? And only then ultimately can we learn to love you?

SANT JI: This is right, a person criticizes another person only when he wants to hide his own faults and shortcomings. He cannot bear it when the other person is being glorified or is being praised because he feels himself inferior to that person. So in order to prove the other person wrong he criticizes him. Only a weak-hearted person criticizes others, and those who criticize others lose a lot in their spirituality.

In one of the chapters of Sukhmani Sahib, The Jewel of Happiness, a lot of light has been thrown on the subject of criticism. Also in the talks about the Gauri Vars which I gave and which has now been published as the book The Two Ways a lot has been said about criticism. A lot has been said about it in both those books. You should read those books and you will get to know a lot about criticism.

He who is perfect and strong and who has manifested his Master within him does not criticize anyone; and he also does not allow his followers to come near this bad disease. Criticism does not have any taste in it. It is a very bad disease, and it is a very bad deal. Those who get involved in criticism lose a lot of their spiritual wealth.

He who goes in the within and who concentrates at the eye center, even a little bit, gets the status of Sahaj. After that, criticism or praise does not have any affect on that soul because he knows that everything is in the will of his Master. Criticism does not become the cause of his sadness and praise does not become any reason for his being happy. He becomes immovable in his faith for his Master and he knows that not even a single leaf can turn without the will of his Master. He always has the support of the Master, so he does not get affected by the criticism or the praise of the other people.

QUESTION: She mentioned the necessity for accepting and loving yourself, it takes a long time as You had mentioned. In the meantime, we have all these negative qualities that we carry along with us. That's our karmic background. What is the attitude we should take toward those negative qualities so as to be able to accept and love ourselves?

SANT JI: [Sant Ji chuckles] We have to choose our path, because both of the paths are within us. We have to choose either the path of the negative qualities within us or choose the Path of the Master, the Path of the Naam, which Master has put within us. You know by following the negative thoughts and by following the path of the mind how great a burden of sins we have put on our own head. And you know that we can get rid of that burden by following the Path of the Master. When we follow the Path of the Master our soul becomes free from all these negative qualities. When we concentrate at the eye center and when we go further our soul starts becoming pure, but if we give up the Path of the Masters, the Path of Naam, and walk on the path of the negative qualities then our soul goes lower and lower. So we have to choose the path; it is up to us to choose what we want to do.

QUESTION: You said that it is not good to admire anyone but Master, but since all good qualities come from Master anyway why would that be so detrimental?

SANT JI: The thing is that first we should know why we are admiring or praising a certain person. Are we really admiring him, are we really praising him without any interest of our own? Or are we only doing it outwardly and don't really mean that? We can really praise the Master, or we can really admire the Master only when we go in the within and only when we follow His teachings. Outwardly we cannot admire Him enough and we cannot praise Him in His full sense.

Anyway we should not have any ill feelings toward any society or religion or any person. Especially for a Satsangi it is very important to have good feelings and good thoughts for everyone. A satsangi should become an example to the society, or to the family or to the other people in the world. He should present himself as an example and people should admire him really and they should say about him that he is a good disciple of a great Master; he earns his livelihood honestly. Satsangis should adopt and develop such qualities within them that people may see that and people may admire them.

QUESTION: When we hear that someone is criticizing us, if other people come and tell us, "That person is criticizing you." If we have kept our door open to that person to come directly to us, do we have an obligation to go to that person and say anything?

SANT JI: [Sant Ji laughs] It is better on such occasions to keep quiet. But since we have weak hearts and narrow minds, that is why when we hear ourselves criticized then we do not even remain in our clothes, our blood starts moving very fast, and we become so upset that we don't have any patience and we go to that person and start arguing with him.

If you will not keep quiet in front of the person who comes and tells you, "That other person criticizes you or thinks like this about you," if you will say anything, you should remember that he is going to tell that other person the same things which you have said about him and in this way it is possible that you may get into some kind of trouble. Such people who bring criticism from one place to another and take the replies back, they waste their lives and they spoil their life doing this job.

If you are wise and strong in your own selves, then on such occasions when somebody comes and tells you about the other person criticizing you, you should do a lot of Simran at that time and remember the Form of the Master and lovingly tell that person, "Dear one you should not tell me anything about all this, because I love that person who is criticizing me, and I have good feelings for him, and you should not tell me anything about all this." When you will tell all these things to that person who brought that message of criticism to you, he will feel embarrassed and never in his life will he come back again carrying the criticism of the other people.

QUESTION: You were talking the other day about the souls being selected in the court of God for Initiation and could you tell us a little about the basis on which they are chosen?

SANT JI: First of all I would like to tell you that today you should load your camera and today you will have to take the pictures and you should know that Sukhpal who is Bant's daughter also takes pictures like you do and she has taken a lot of pictures. [much laughter]

Well, coming back to your question you should know that when a child is sleeping the mother does not worry about that child. She wants to finish up all the work of the household which she is supposed to do and since the child is sleeping she is not worried for him. But as soon as the child starts weeping you know that no matter how important the work is, she will leave that work at once and will come and embrace that child, and whatever that child needs she will give it that. This is a worldly example. You know that as long as we are sleeping in respect to Almighty God – we live in this world doing all the things of this world and we don't remember God – like that mother, God is doing His work and He is not worried for us. But when we don't find any kind of peace or satisfaction in the pains and happiness of the world and when we finally remember God and cry for Him, then God also cannot resist and He sends us to such a Pole where His Power is manifested and then we are selected in the court of Lord. You know that when we do not find any peace and satisfaction in this world, then we cry, we tell Almighty Lord, "O Lord we do not find any peace in this world, nothing is giving us any real happiness and now we need You." When we call God Almighty like this, when we do not like to do all the things of the world, no matter what God has given to us, we do not like to have all those things, and when we want only God, then God also listens to our cry. He selects us for His devotion and He sends us to such a Pole where His Power is manifested and we are given the Initiation and then we start sleeping in respect to the world and are awakened in respect to God.

Often I have told you this story of my childhood: when I was about five or six years old, I don't know where I got that thought, but once I was sitting thinking about something and suddenly I started making the sand heaps, one for each member of the family. Then I would ask each one the question, "Will you help me? Will you protect me at the time of death?" Then I would get the answer from my own self, from my own within, "No, because when we are involved in the births and deaths, when we don't know how to protect our own selves, how can we say that we will protect you?" So I became disappointed, and I had one sand heap in the Name of that Hidden Power for whom my soul was searching ever since my childhood. (I was always longing for that Power to come and meet me. I had not seen that Power and I had not even heard about that Power but I knew that there was some Power in this world who would protect me.) So when I had made that heap and I had asked that question I got the answer from within, "Yes, I am the One who will protect you." My father saw all the things which I did, and when he asked me, I told him about all My thoughts and those questions and answers. Hearing all those things he became upset because he did not realize that my thinking was very deep and very high. He became upset and he told me, "We take such good care of you. We feed you very well and we give you all sorts of good things, and still you say that we will not protect you?" Because he was thinking from his level; he was thinking by his narrow mind and he did not know what I was talking about.

So I mean to say that when you have thought like this, when you call for Almighty Lord, and when you give up all other supports and have only the one support of Almighty Lord, then God also cannot resist. He also comes down and helps you. As Kabir Sahib says “When I looked around, I found that nobody was going to help me, no family, no relations, no power, no wealth, no property of this world, was going to help me at the time of death. And when I looked around and found that Master is the only One who will help me from this suffering world, I stretched out both my arms and I called for Almighty God. He also could not resist and He pulled me by my hands and He took me up.”

So when we have thoughts like this, and when we realize that in this world nobody can help us, we only have the support of Almighty Lord. When we start relying on Him, then He selects us and He sends us to someone who can teach us how to do the devotion of Lord.

QUESTION: Baba Ji, sometimes when I have actually been trying to do this work with some zeal, actually sitting and keeping the commandments and all that stuff, I still can feel unworthy of the love which You have to give and it gets in the way of my asking for Your help, because I don't want to feel like any more of a burden than I already am. Could you please address that?

SANT JI: A short while ago before we sat for meditation I had said that even one bad thought could bring you down from on the top of Brahmand. When you sit for the meditation waiting for the grace of the Master you should know that at that time your enemy, mind, is also within you and he is ready to attack you with all his thoughts and with all his tricks. When you think that you are not worthy of the love of the Master and that you cannot request the help of the Master, in a way your mind is having an upper hand on you and he is winning over you, because he is making you weak. So when you sit for meditation you should not allow your mind to think any thoughts like this. As soon as you sit for meditation your attention should go straight into the Simran, and you should do the Simran constantly without allowing your mind to bring any thought like this.

Sant Mat is not the path of the cowards; it is the Path of the brave ones. This is the Path of the warriors. So when you sit for the meditation don't become like cowards in front of your mind. Become like a strong warrior in front of your mind and do your devotion. In this context, Guru Nanak Sahib says, “When the Satsangi is fighting with the five dacoits – when he is doing his meditation, he is fighting with the five dacoits just like when the wrestler goes into the ring, he invites the other wrestler to come and fight with him.” In the same way, when the Satsangi goes in this battlefield, in this ring, with the grace of the Master, and because the Master is accompanying him, he also becomes like the wrestler. The Master says, “Don't worry, even if you are alone and they are five in number, since you have the Power of the Master with you.” Since the strong hand of the Master is on the back of the disciple, Master always hails him and inspires him to fight with the five dacoits. And not even for one moment does Master go away from that ring, from that battlefield; He always remains by the side of the disciple.

A satsangi should never think – not even in the state of forgetfulness – that he is alone. Because Master is always with the disciple, He always lives with the disciple like the shadow lives with a man, and not even for one moment does the Master go away from the disciple. I have many examples of many dear ones who tell me that when they talk with non-Initiates, the non-Initiates see that some old man with white clothes is standing behind that Satsangi, so even non-Satsangis can see that the Master is with the disciples.

During my first and my second tour many people came in the interviews and they told me what they had seen. Many people had seen two old men in their white clothes standing behind me. So I mean to say that you should never think that you are alone; Master is always with you. Guru Nanak Sahib says. “My Master is always with me; by doing the Simran I can feel Him always with me.” Once Sultan Mahmood changed his clothes and he went out in his kingdom in the night to see how the people were doing and what the people thought about their king. He wanted to know whether his people were happy or unhappy, whether they were comfortable or not, and what opinion they had of the king and for the ways of his administration. He had gone very late in the night and he had dressed himself as a common man. He saw four people coming from the other side and he asked them who they were. They thought, “At this time of the night this person who is here also might be some kind of bad element” (like a thief or a robber) so they did not hesitate in telling him their reality, so they said “We are thieves.”

So the king said, “Okay, I am also a thief,” because he wanted to join with them and see what they were doing and what they were thinking about the king, etc. So when king joined them, all of them said “We should plan where we will do the robbery tonight. We should first elect one of us as the leader or as the commander of our group. All of us should talk about our qualities and he who will have the best quality will be elected as the leader and then we will see where we will go and do the robbery. One of them said, “I have the skill that I can understand the language of the birds and animals.” Another one said. “I have such a quality that if I have seen someone in the nighttime, no matter how dark it is, I can recognize him in the daylight also. I don’t forget the face even if I have seen in the nighttime.” The third person said, “I am so competent in throwing the rope on the roof of the house, that once I throw it, it sticks there and no matter how many people climb that rope it will never break.” The fourth person said, “I am so competent in breaking the roof that even if a person is sleeping in that room, I will do it so quietly that the person will not know what is happening; I can easily break the roof like that.”

Now the king was thinking about what he should say, because he knew that only he who would have the best quality would be elected as the leader. So he said, “Well, I have such a quality in my beard that if I make my beard move I can save many people from the gallows.” Now the other people did not understand what he was talking about but they thought, “This is the best quality,” so they elected the king as the leader. Then they planned to go to the palace of the king and do the robbery there. So while they were coming to the palace, on their way a dog barked. So the person who had said that he knows the language of the birds and animals was asked what the dog was saying and he said that the dog is saying, “One of you is the king.” Now that was unbelievable; they had never thought that a king would come and join them, so they started laughing, saying that, “The dog is saying this useless thing.” So they were not stopped by that and they went to the palace and according to their skills they did the robbery and they took away a lot of wealth from the palace. The king was with them when they had taken the things from the palace and when they had distributed the wealth, so the king knew where those people lived. So next morning the king sent his soldiers and he arrested those four thieves.

In those days they used to give severe punishment to the thieves, they would put them to death. So as they were about to be put to death, the person who had said that he did not forget the face of the person whom he had seen in the nighttime, he looked minutely at the face of the king. He at once recognized that this was the person who was in their group and he was nobody else but the king. So he came there and he said, “You highness now you should exhibit your quality; you should move your beard and save us from the gallows. Now we confess and we say that we will never do this thing again and we will become your servants and we will give up this bad job.” So that king made his beard to move he said, “You release them,” and just by making his beard move he saved all those people from the gallows.

Now this is an outer story, an outer example, to make you understand that God Almighty also has changed His Form; He has come in the human form and He has so many qualities in Him. He comes and lives in this world among the people and He tells us about the good things He has, and about what He can do. In His beard also there is a quality, that when He makes His beard move He can save all the people whom He has accepted. You know that by making His beard move, by His saying, “Yes,” by His acceptance of the souls, He can save the souls from the gallows of the Negative Power. But it is very difficult for us to believe in a human being like us, it is very difficult for us to believe that He has such God-like qualities and that He is no one other than God Himself. But those who understand His reality, those who go in the within and have seen Him in their within, for them it is not a difficult job to believe in His reality. They know that He is God. Those who have seen the Real Form of the Master in their within, they always see the Presence, they always feel the Presence of the Master with them.

Guru Nanak Sahib says, “Even a sinner who has done millions of sins, if he goes in the company of the Master he gets the liberation. Not even the Angel of Death can come near such a soul.” Kabir Sahib says, “Even if a soul is being crushed in the mill, Satguru will come and save him from that pain. This happens only when the predetermined fate of that soul is awakened. Master comes and saves that soul only if it is written in the fate of the soul.” Satsangis should always have the love, faith and devotion for the Master. Whether he sits for the meditation or otherwise, he should always have these three things: love, faith and devotion for the Master.

1990 May: Become a Good Example for the Children

This question & answer session was given January 31, 1990, at Sant Bani Ashram, Rajasthan.

QUESTION: Sant Ji, in one children's darshan Satsang talk I read, Sant Ji said we should make our children come to the Satsang. In a talk given in Bangalore Sant Ji also said that after the age of fifteen parents should only make suggestions to the children. If an initiated Satsangi child does not want to go to Satsang or to meditate every day, do these statements mean that up to the age of fifteen we should still require the children to attend Satsang and meditate but after fifteen let them decide on their own, that forcing them to go would have a negative effect?

SANT JI: Whatever I say regarding children is according to the things written in our holy scriptures. We get the color of whatever company we keep – children are very innocent souls; if they are always kept in good company, if their parents always set a good example for them, and if they are always encouraged to study in school, and to meditate and go to Satsang, then I don't see any reason that they will wander away from the Path after they become fifteen.

I had a very good family; my parents were very loving, very affectionate towards each other, and they always set a very good example for us. We never got any bad impressions from them. They always showed by their conduct that the relationship between husband and wife is that of love and it is not a relationship where you fight and abuse or criticize each other.

The good deeds of the parents have a very great effect, a very great impact, on making the character of the children. In history we can find many examples, many incidents, in which we learn how the goodness of the parents had a good effect on the children, stories which show us that because the parents were good and did not do any bad things in front of their children, that is why the children also became good like them. The fault in the parents is that they do not set a good example for the children, they always present a very bad example for the children, they oppose each other in front of the children, they do all types of bad things in front of the children and that has a very bad effect on the minds of the children. That is why the children start losing faith in the Satsang, they also lose interest in the Satsang, because when they see that their parents, who have been initiated for such a long time, are still doing all these bad things, then they think, "What is the hope for us?" And that is why they lose their interest in the Path, they lose interest in going to the Satsang.

Many children come to me in the interviews and tell me, "We see our parents fighting a lot; we see our parents doing all these kind of bad deeds. Even though they are initiated, and they go to Satsang, they are still fighting and doing all kinds of bad deeds; so what is the hope for us?" And in that way they lose their interest.

Master Sawan Singh Ji often used to tell about His own children in the Satsangs. He used to tell how when He was in the army He lived in a house and downstairs lived another family which ate meat, and because the children would go and play with them that family tried their best to feed the children of Master Sawan Singh meat and other things, but His children did not accept any of those things. The family were surprised and impressed with the strength of the children so much so that finally they had to come and talk to Master Sawan Singh. They asked him, "How have you made your children so strong? We have tempted them so many times to eat meat, we have even offered them, 'If you will eat meat we will do this thing for you.' But still your children are so strong that they do not want to eat meat; why is it so?"

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that this was only because of the good example which their parents set for the children that they had become so strong. Master Sawan Singh Ji Himself used to say in the Satsang that when the child grows up, when he becomes like you, when he is old enough, at that time if you impose anything on him, if you force him to do anything, he will rebel against you and he may wander away even more.

Master Sawan Singh Ji used to say that the children become the same as the parents are. If right from the beginning you are giving good direction, you are teaching good things to your children, you are keeping him in the good company, in a good environment, and you are setting a good example for them then there is no reason why they should become bad or why they should go astray and why they should not become like you. Because the children are very innocent souls and they have to grow up only in your shadow, whatever you will teach them good or bad they will accept that. So if you are teaching them good things right from the beginning there is no reason why they should not listen to you and they should not do the good things.

Dear ones, in my life I have seen or been involved in many incidents in this context; if I told you all those things it could become many books.

Often I have said that right from my childhood I was always missing the fragrance of that Hidden Power; I was always feeling as if I had lost something in my life. But I was able to leave my home [in search of that] only when I had grown up.

Often I have said that my mother was a very good woman. She was very devoted and she was of a very soft nature, whereas my father was very hot-tempered; I could not dare to oppose my parents. Even though my father was a very hot-tempered person, still I had pleased him. So I mean to say that if you are good with your children, if you set a good example for your children, there is no way that your children would dare to oppose you.

I have been to many different communities and religions, where I met with many people who were involved in smoking tobacco, drinking wine, doing drugs and things like that. But because I had such an impression and so much effect of my parents' goodness, I did not drink the wine, I did not smoke the tobacco, and I did not get attracted to any of the bad things in which those people were involved.

Even though I went to all those people and I saw them involved in all those things, still I did not have any bad feeling for them; I remained strong, and it was only because of the impact I had from my parents.

When I had left my home in search for God I was young. At that time my mother made me promise a couple of things, and even up to this day I am keeping those promises.

She told me, "Dear son if you want to get married, you should come back home and get married; we should not hear from other people that our son is having a relationship with a woman or he is wandering here and there."

The other promise was – she told me, "You should always wear clothes which you have bought yourself, you should not accept anybody's clothes, if anybody is bringing things for you, if anyone is bringing clothes for you, you should first pay him for that and only then you should wear those clothes."

In India the farmers have this weakness that if their farm or their field is on a main road, they will make that road narrow, so that the people passing on that road may have difficulty. So my father told me, "Suppose that sometime you have a field or a farm which falls on the main road, you should not only leave the specified space as prescribed by the government, but you should also leave some more space for the people so that they may move along that road very easily." And up until now I am keeping that promise.

It was not within my power, nor was it because of my efforts that I have been able to learn all these things, it was all due to the impression and the impact which those great people, my parents, had on me, that I learned all these things.

Dear ones, when I went to the Udasi faith, there I saw that they were smoking tobacco and drinking wine very much, and they encouraged me to do the same thing. Before I went there I used to think that those who have the big rosaries around their necks and who wear colored clothes are the ones who have met with God Almighty. So whenever I would meet anyone who had a rosary around his neck and who was wearing colored clothes, I would always bow down in front of him, thinking that he had become one with God. So because the Udasis also wore colored clothes and they also had rosaries around their necks, I went there. And I saw them drinking wine and doing all those other things. They told me that if I wanted to become one of them, if I wanted to follow them, I would have to do that; I would have to drink wine, smoke tobacco, not only that, I would have to bring all those things for them. So I just folded my hands to them and said, “If you have only this thing to offer to me, then it is better for me to leave you, because I have come here to do the devotion of Lord, not to get involved in all these kind of things.

I was able to do that only because of the good effect my parents had on me. I knew how pure my parents had kept their home – they did not allow all those things in their home – and why it was so important for us to maintain purity. Only because of the good effect which my parents had on me I was able to resist and I did not follow the path of the Udasis.

Dear one, if anybody’s child goes astray, the parents are responsible for that; the parents are responsible for making his life dry and the parents are responsible for his bad condition. Many children come to me in the interviews and tell me that they can never forget how their parents abused them and what their parents did to them to hurt them; and they can never forget that. Pappu knows this very well, because he is the person who first hears this from all the dear ones, and then he tells me. Many people come to me in the interview, those whose parents were drunkards and committed suicide after drinking, they tell me how they also feel like doing the same thing which their parents did.

In this context Master Sawan Singh Ji used to very often tell the story of the camel whose mother had the habit of sitting in the water when she crossed any canal, so because her mother had that habit she also got the same habit.

Here we have many cows, and it is very interesting to see that whatever quality or whatever habit the cow has, her calf will also have the same habit. If the cow is giving a good amount of milk, her calf later on will give a good amount of milk; and if the cow is dancing and doing bad things like that, if she does not remain in control, her calf will also do the same thing.

